The Marcionite Research Library

Welcome to the Marcionite Research Library; a virtual library with numerous resources relating to the study of Marcion of Sinope, his teachings, his bible and his followers. Here you will find a wide range of articles and resources on these subjects, and links to relevant articles and books elsewhere on the internet.

The site was originally set up by Daniel Mahar; it was called "The Center For Marcionite Research: The Library" and was hosted on GeoCities. It was renamed and transferred here in 2009 when GeoCities closed and Daniel Mahar gave me permission to reproduce, maintain and develop the site. I am extremely grateful to Daniel for creating such a valuable site, and granting me permission to reproduce so much of his work. I am also extremely grateful to all the other authors who have given me permission to reproduce their work.

The Marcionite Research Library has recently been reorganised, and is now divided into sections by subject and author. My own articles have been moved to a separate site: www.Original-Bible.com

---

Reconstructed Marcionite Texts

Reconstructions of the books of The Marcionite Bible

A reconstruction of Marcion's Antithesis

Theologians and Historians

Professor Adolf von Harnack

Dr Carroll R. Bierbower

The Marcionite Origin of the Fourth Gospel English Translation of "Le Quatrieme Evangile" by Henri Delafosse (Joseph Turmel).
Translated by Daniel Mahar

The History of the Christian Religion to the Year Two Hundred by Charles B Waite

Orthodoxy and Heresy by Bauer

An Overview of Marcion by G.R.S. Mead.

F.D Kershner: "Marcion", from Pioneers of Christian Thought (excerpt).

Marcion, Possible Progenitor of Three Famous Christian Communities:Baptists, Catholics, Gnostics
By Ray Embry, Author of The Enigma About Divine Love and the Creation of Evil: The Lost Belief Among Early Christians About a God of Total Compassion

Marcion's Place in Early Christianity: a Political Powerplay
By Dr.Michael Conley

Primary Sources

Ephrem the Syrian, Prose Refutations of Mani, Marcion, and Bardaisan
Translated by C.W. Mitchell (Williams and Norgate, 1912)

The Dialogues of Adamantius Against the Marcionites
Section I (excerpts) Translated by D.J.Mahar (copyright April 2000)

Miscellaneous Articles

The Book We Call Holy by Gerard R. Patchen

Sinope: Some Thoughts Concerning Marcion's Geographical World (David Anderson)

Recommended Books

Links

Credits for Graphic Images

Site maintained by Melissa Cutler:
Melissa@Marcionite-Scripture.info

The Marcionite Bible

The Marcionite Bible was assembled by Marcion of Sinope, sometime in the early/mid second century; a full 200 years before the compilation of the Bible we now have. The Marcionite Bible was not divided into "Old" and "New" testaments like the modern Bible, and was dramatically shorter. It was divided into two parts, the gospel (or Evangelion) and the epistles of Paul (or Apostolicon). The Marcionites only recognized one gospel as legitimate; it was called The Gospel of the Lord, and it was similar to Luke but significantly shorter. The Marcionite version of the Epistles of Paul was also significantly shorter than the version found in conventional Bibles.

The documents that make up the Marcionite Bible have not physically survived to modern times; all known copies were destroyed by the religious authorities when the Catholics gained political power in the fourth century. In spite of this destruction, the Marcionite Scriptures can still be restored. Many ancient Christian writers quoted from the extensively, described the differences between them and the official version of the scripture, and even wrote commentaries on them. By using these quotations and descriptions we can reconstruct the Marcionite text. We do not have quotations or descriptions of every verse. But, in most places the Marcionite Bible was identical to the corresponding text in the conventional Bible, and the ancient writers who quoted from it focused their attention mainly on the controversial passages where there were significant differences between the two versions. This means that in places where the Marcionite text is not known, it was probably identical to text of the conventional Bible, and so text from the conventional Bible can be used to "fill in the gaps".

The reconstruction work is a painstaking process, and many sections of the Marcionite text are not yet available online. I am working hard to resolve this. Meanwhile, details of texts which are available can be found on this page.

Above: Marcion(left),with the Apostle John, to whom he "brought scriptures from the Pontic brethren..." (10th century miniature from the archives of the Cathedral St.Bravo in Ghent).

The Gospel of the Lord

"O Wonder Beyond Wonders,
Rapture, Power, and Amazement is it,
That one can say nothing at all [About the Gospel]
Nor even conceive of it,
Nor even compare it to anything."
- Marcion of Sinope

A hypertext version of "The Gospel of the Lord" by James Hamlyn Hill (1891),based on the 1823 reconstruction by August Hahn. The version presented here is specially revised to also reflect the reconstruction done by Theodor Zahn (1888), from his work "Geschichte des n.t. Kanons", vol.II., which places in doubt some of the material which Hahn-Hill allowed into their reconstructions. In addition, the text has been hyperlinked to two of the major hostile witnesses utilized for its reconstruction, Tertullian's "Against Marcion" (Adversus Marcionem), Book IV, and Ephiphanius' Panarion sect.42, "Against the Marcionites" (Dindorfus' Greek text, presented via 15 .jpg files with a few English notes). The entirety of the Gospel is divided into 6 sections.

Section I (corresponding to Lk.3:1-7:50)
Section II (corresponding to Lk.8:1-10:24)
Section III (corresponding to Lk.10:25-13:17)
Section IV (corresponding to Lk.13:18-17:37)
Section V (corresponding to Lk.18:1-21:38)
Section VI (corresponding to Lk.22:1-24:47)

Galatians

Reconstruction and translation by D.J.Mahar:
Greek-English Interlinear (pdf)

English Translation & Notes (pdf)

1st and 2nd Corinthians

Reconstruction and translation by Stuart Waugh
1 Corinthians Interlinear (pdf)
2 Corinthians Interlinear (pdf)

key:
Greek Text:
Green: words attested in quotes of Marcionite text by heresiarchs
Blue: words that differ in Marcion from the received text, and were deemed by me to likely be correct // Marcion's text as reported has as many variants and errors as any then contemporary manuscript and must be treated as such Red: LXX quotes

Footnotes:
Blue: Greek words for clarity
Red: Latin words for clarity - specifically words that are quoting Marcion's text

---

Romans

Partial reconstruction of Romans by Melissa Cutler
Greek-English interlinear with full set of reconstruction notes (pdf)
English translation with full set of reconstruction notes (pdf)
General purpose English translation (pdf)

1st and 2nd Thessalonians

Reconstruction of Laodiceans by Adrian Cozad:
I Thessalonians (pdf)
II Thessalonians (pdf)

Laodiceans (Ephesians)

Reconstruction of Laodiceans by Adrian Cozad:
Laodiceans (pdf)

Colossians

Reconstruction of Colissians by Adrian Cozad:
Colossians (pdf)

Philemon

Reconstruction of Philemon by Adrian Cozad:
Philemon (pdf)

Philippians

Reconstruction of Philippians by Adrian Cozad: Philippians (pdf)

www.Marcionite-Scripture.info

The Gospel of the Lord

Section I

3:1/4:31- 37 The Arrival of Jesus at Capernaum
4: 16-30 The Synagogue in Nazareth
4:40-44 At the Setting of the Sun
5: 1-11The Lake of Gennesaret
5:12-16 Healing of the Leper
5:17-26 Healing of the Palsied
5:27-35 The Feast of Levi the Publican
5:36-38 The Old and the New
6:1-11 The Lord of the Sabbath
6:12-16 The Choosing of the Twelve
6:17-42 New Edicts of the New God
6:43-49 Good Fruit, Evil Fruit
7:1-10 Faith of the Centurion
7:11-17 Dead Corpse Rising
7:18-35John the Baptist
7:36-50 The Alabaster Box

[The Arrival of Jesus at Capernaum]

Adv.Marc.iv.7 ; Panarion 42
3:1/4:31 In the fifteenth year of Tiberius Caesar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea,
Jesus descended [out of heaven] into Capernaum, a city in Galilee, and was teaching [in the synagogue] on the Sabbath days;
And they were astonished at his doctrine,
Adv.Marc.iv.7
for his word was in authority.
33 And in the synagogue there was a man,which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice, saying, 34 Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus ?
art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; the Holy One of God.
Adv.Marc.iv.7
35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying,
Hold thy peace, and come out of him.
And when the devil had thrown him in the midst,
he came out of him, and hurt him not.
36 And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying,
What a word is this!
for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out.
37 And the fame of him went out into every place of the country round about.

[4:38-39 unattested]

[The Synagogue in Nazareth]

Adv.Marc.iv.8
4: 16 And he came to Nazareth, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day,
and sat down.
21 And he began to speak to them, and all wondered at the words which proceeded out of his mouth.
23 And he said unto them,
Ye will surely say unto me this proverb,
Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country.

Zahn omits - relocated to 17:19:

[25 But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months,
when great famine was throughout all the land; 26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow.
27 And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet;
and none of them was cleansed, saving Naaman the Syrian.]

28 And they were all filled with wrath in the synagogue, 29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their city was built,
that they might cast him down headlong.
30 But he passing through the midst of them went his way.

[At the Setting of the Sun]

40 Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him;
and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.
41 And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying,

Thou art the Son of God.
Adv.Marc.iv.8
[-41c] And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak.
42 And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place:
Adv.Marc.iv.8
and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.
43 And he said unto them,
I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also:
for therefore am I sent.
44 And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.

[The Lake of Gennesaret]

5: 1 And it came to pass, he stood by the lake of Gennesaret, 2 And saw two ships standing by the lake:
but the fishermen were gone out of them,
and were washing their nets.
3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land.
And he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.
4 Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep,
and let down your nets for a draught.
5 And Simon answering said unto him, Teacher, we have toiled all the night,
and have taken nothing:
nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net.
6 And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes:
and their net brake.
7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them.
And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.
8 When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying,
Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord.
9 For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken:
10 And so was also James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon.
And Jesus said unto Simon,
Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men alive.
Adv.Marc.iv.9
11 And when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him.

[Healing of the Leper]

Adv.Marc.iv.9
12 And it came to pass, behold a man full of leprosy:
who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying,
Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.
13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying,
I will: be thou clean.
And immediately the leprosy departed from him.
14 And he charged him to tell no man:
but go, and shew thyself to the priest,
and offer for thy cleansing, according as Moses commanded, that this may be a testimony to you.
Adv.Marc.iv.9; Panarion 42

Zahn omits:

[15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him:
and great multitudes came together to hear,
and to be healed by him of their infirmities.
16 And he was withdrawing himself into the wilderness, and praying .]

[Healing of the Palsied]

Zahn omits:

[17 And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judaea, and Jerusalem:
and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.]

18 And, behold, men brought in a bed a man that was palsied:
Adv.Marc.iv.10
and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.
19 And not finding what way they might bring him in because of the multitude,
they went upon the housetop, and let him down through the tiles with his couch into the midst before Jesus.
20 And seeing their faith, he said unto him,
Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.
21 And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying,

Who is this which speaketh blasphemies?
Who can forgive sins, but God alone?
22 But when Jesus perceiving their reasonings, answered and said unto them,
What reason ye in your hearts?
23 Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee;
or to say, Rise up and walk?
24 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority upon earth to forgive sins,
Adv.Marc.iv.10;Panarion 42
(he said unto the palsied man), I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house.
25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God.
26 And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying,
We have seen strange things to day.

[The Feast of Levi the Publican]

Adv.Marc.iv.11
27 And after these things he went forth, and saw a publican, named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, Follow me.
28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.
29 And Levi made him a great feast in his own house:
and there was a great company of publicans and of others that sat down with them.
30 But their scribes and Pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying,
Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners?
31 And Jesus answering said unto them,
They that are whole need not a physician;
but they that are sick.
32 I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.
33 And they said unto him,
Why do the disciples of John fast often, and make prayers, and likewise the disciples of the Pharisees;
but thine eat and drink?
34 And he said unto them,
Can ye make the children of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them?
35 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

[The Old and the New]

Adv.Marc.iv.11
36 And he spake also a parable unto them;
No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old garment;
otherwise both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old.
37 And no man putteth new wine into old wineskins; else the new wine will burst the skins, and itself will be spilled,
and the skins will perish.
38 But new wine must be put into new wine-skins;
and both are preserved.

[- v.39]

[The Lord of the Sabbath]

6:1 And it came to pass on the second sabbath after the first, that he went through the corn fields;
and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.
2 And certain of the Pharisees said unto them,
Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath days?
3 And Jesus answering them said,
Have ye not read so much as this, what David did,
when himself was an hungred, and they which were with him;
4 How he went into the house of God,
;Panarion 42
and did take and eat the shewbread, and gave also to them that were with him;
which it is not lawful to eat but for the priests alone?
5 And he said unto them, That the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath.
Adv.Marc.iv.12;Panarion 42
6 And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught:
and there was a man whose right hand was withered.
7 And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day;
that they might find an accusation against him.
8 But he knew their reasonings, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing;
Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil?
to save life, or to destroy it?
10 And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man,
Stretch forth thy hand.
And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other.
11 And they were filled with madness;
and communed one with another what they might do to Jesus.

[The Choosing of the Twelve]

6:12 And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray,
and continued all night in prayer to God.
Adv.Marc.iv.13
13 And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples:
and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles;
Adv.Marc.iv.13
14 Simon, (whom he also named Peter,) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew, 15 Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes, 16 And Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also became a traitor.

Panarion 42

[New Edicts of the New God]

17 And he came down among them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judaea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him,
and to be healed of their diseases;
Adv.Marc.iv.13
18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed.
19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

Panarion 42
20 And he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said,
Blessed be ye poor: for yours is the kingdom of God.
Adv.Marc.iv.14
21 Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled.
Adv.Marc.iv.14
Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.
Adv.Marc.iv.14;2nd occurance for v.21:Adv.Marc.iv.14 22 Blessed are ye, when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you from their company, and shall reproach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.
Adv.Marc.iv.14
23 Rejoice ye in that day, and leap for joy:
for, behold, your reward is great in heaven:
for in the like manner did their fathers unto the prophets.
Adv.Marc.iv.15;Panarion 42
24 But woe unto you that are rich! for ye have received your consolation.
Adv.Marc.iv.15
25 Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger.
Adv.Marc.iv.15
Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall mourn and weep.
26 Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you!
for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 But I say unto you which hear,
Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you,
Adv.Marc.iv.16
28 Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.
29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other;
and him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.
30 Give to every man that asketh of thee;
and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.
Adv.Marc.iv.16
31 And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.
Adv.Marc.iv.16
32 For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye?
for sinners also love those that love them.
33 And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye?
for sinners also do even the same.
34 And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye?
Adv.Marc.iv.17
for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.
35 But love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again;

and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest:
for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.
36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.
37 Judge not, and ye shall not be judged:
condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned:
forgive, and ye shall be forgiven:
Adv.Marc.iv.17

38 Give, and it shall be given unto you;
good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over,
shall men give into your bosom.
For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.
39 And he spake a parable unto them,
Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch?
Adv.Marc.iv.17
40 The disciple is not above his master:
but every one that is perfect shall be as his master.
41 And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?
42 Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyse lf beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye?
Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

[Good Fruit, Evil Fruit]

Adv.Marc.iv.17

43 For there is no good tree that produceth corrupt fruit;
nor corrupt tree that produceth good fruit.
44 For each tree is known by its own fruit.
For of thorns they do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather they grapes.
45 The good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and the evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil:
for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.
46 And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?
47 Everyone that cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them,
I will shew you to whom he is like:
48 He is like a man building house, who digged and went deep,
and laid a foundation on a rock:
and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and had no strength to shake it: for it was founded upon a rock.
49 But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth;
against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell;
and the ruin of that house was great.

[Faith of the Centurion]

Adv.Marc.iv.18

7: 1 Now when he had ended all his sayings in the ears of the people, he entered into Capernaum.
2 And a certain centurion's servant was sick, and going to die;
and he was precious to him.
3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him elders of the Jews, asking him that he would come and heal his servant.
4 And when they came to Jesus, they besought him earnestly, saying,
That he was worthy for whom he should do this:
5 For he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.
6 Then Jesus went with them.
And when he was now not far from the house,
the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself:
for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:
7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee:
but say in a word, and my boy shall be healed.
8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth;
and to another, Come, and he cometh;
and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.
9 And when Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned,
and said unto the people that followed him,
I say unto you, not even in Israel I have not found so great faith.
Panarion 42
10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the sick servant whole.

[Dead Corpse Rising]

Adv.Marc.iv.18

11 And it came to pass the day after, that he was going into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples were going with him, and a great multitude.
12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, a dead man was being carried out,
the only son of his mother, and she was a widow:
and a considerable multitude of the city was with her.
13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.
14 And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still.
And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.
15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak.
And he delivered him to his mother.
16 And there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying,
That a great prophet is risen up among us;
and, That God hath visited his people.
17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judaea, and throughout all the region round about.

[John the Baptist]

18 And the disciples of John told him of all these things.
And John was scandalized.
Adv.Marc.iv.18
19 And John calling unto him a certain two of his disciples sent them to Jesus, saying,
Art thou he that cometh? or look we for another?
20 And when the men were come unto him, they said,
John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying,
Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?
21 And in that same hour he cured many of infirmities and plagues and of evil spirits; and unto many blind he gave sight.
22 Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard;
how that the blind see, the lame walk,
the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear,
the dead are raised,
to the poor have good tidings been announced to them.
23 And blessed is he, if he [John] shall not be offended in me.
Panarion 42

24 And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the multitudes concerning John.
What went ye out into the wilderness to gaze at?
A reed shaken with the wind?
25 But what are ye come out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment?
Behold, they which are in gorgeous apparel, and delicacy, are in kings' courts.
26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet?
Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet.
27 This is he, of whom it is written,
Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.
Panarion 42
28 For I say unto you,
Among those that are born of women
a greater prophet than John the Baptist,
there is none:
but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

Zahn omits:

[29 And all the people, when they heard it, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John.
30 But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God unto themselves, being not baptized of him.
31 And the Lord said,
Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation?
and to what are they like?
32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying,
We have piped unto you, and ye did not dance;
we have mourned to you, and ye did not weep.
33 For John the Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a demon.
34 The Son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber,
a friend of publicans and sinners!
35 And wisdom was justified of all her children].

[The Alabaster Box]

Adv.Marc.iv.18 ;Panarion 42

36 And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him.
And he went into the Pharisee's house, and reclined to eat.

37 And, behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that he was reclining in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment, 38 And stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.
39 Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying,
This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman
this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.
40 And Jesus answering said unto him,
Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee.
And he saith, Teacher, say on.
41 A certain money-lender had two debtors:
the one owed five hundred denarii, and the other fifty.
42 And when they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both.
Tell me therefore, which of them will love him more?
43 Simon answered and said,
I suppose that he, to whom he forgave the more.
And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.
44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house:
water for my feet thou gavest not;
but she hath wetted my feet with tears,
and wiped them with the hairs of her head.
45 A kiss thou gavest me not:
but she since the time I came in hath not ceased kissing my feet.
Panarion 42

46 My head with oil thou didst not anoint:
but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.
47 For the sake of which I say unto thee,
Her sins which are many are forgiven;
[for she loved much:
but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.
48 And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven.]
49 And they that were reclining with him began to say within themselves,
Who is this that even forgiveth sins ?
50 And he said to the woman,
Thy faith hath saved thee; go into peace.

SECTION II

The Gospel of the Lord

Section II

8:1-3 Women Ministers
8:4-10 Parable of the Sower
8:16-18 Parable of the Lamp
8:20-21 Thy Mother and Thy Brethren
8:22-25 The Storm on the Lake
8:26-39 Legion of the Gadarenes
8:40-56 Healing of the Woman / Jairus' Daughter
9:1-6 Twelve Disciples Bestowed Power
9:7-9 Herod the Tetrarch
9:10-17 Feeding of the Five-thousand
9:18-27 Disciples Reprimanded
9:28-39 The Transfiguration
9:37-45 Those Dopey Disciples (1)
9:46-50 Those Dopey Disciples (2)
9:51-62 Those Dopey Disciples (3)
10:1-24 Seventy New Disciples Appointed

[Women Ministers]

Adv.Marc.iv.19

8:1 And it came to pass afterward, that he made his way through every city and village, preaching and announcing as glad tidings the kingdom of God:
and the twelve were with him.
2 And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, from whom went seven demons had gone out,
3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their possessions.

[Parable of the Sower]

4 And when a great multitude were coming together, and they of every city were come to him,
he spake by a parable:
5 A sower went out to sow his seed:
and as he sowed, some fell by the way side;
and it was trodden down,
and the fowls of the heaven devoured it.
6 And other fell upon the rock;
and when sprung up, it withered away,
because it lacked moisture.
7 And other fell in the midst of the thorns;
and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.
8 And other fell on the good ground, and when sprung up, it produced fruit an hundredfold.
And when he said these things, he cried,
He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.
Adv.Marc.iv.19
9 And his disciples asked him, saying,
What might this parable be?
10 And he said,
Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God:
but to the rest in parables;
that seeing they may not see,
and hearing they may not understand.

[vv.11 - 15 unattested].

[Parable of the Lamp]

Adv.Marc.iv.19
16 No man, when he hath lighted a lamp, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed;
but setteth it on a lamp-stand,
that they which enter in may see the light.
17 For there is no secret thing , that shall not be made manifest;
nor hidden, that shall not be known and come into view.
18 Take heed therefore how ye hear:
for whosoever hath, to him shall be given;
and whosoever hath not,
[-19] even what he seemeth to have shall be taken away .

[Thy Mother and Thy Brethren]

Adv.Marc.iv.19;Panarion 42
20 And it was told him by certain [people] which said,

Thy mother and thy brethren stand without,
desiring to see thee.
21 And he answered and said unto them,
[Who is] My mother and my brethren?
My mother and my brethren are these which hear My words, and do [them].

[The Storm on the Lake]

Adv.Marc.iv.20;Panarion 42
22 Now it came to pass on one of the days, that he went into a ship with his disciples:
and he said unto them,
Let us go over unto the other side of the lake.
And they launched forth.
23 But as they sailed he fell asleep.
And there came down a storm of wind on the lake;
and they were filling with water, and were in jeopardy.
24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying,
Teacher, Teacher, we perish.
And he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water.
And they ceased, and there was a calm.
25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith?
And they were frightened and wondered, saying one to another, Who then is this?
for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him?

[Legion of the Gadarenes]

Adv.Marc.iv.20
26 And they sailed down to the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee.
27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had demons [a] long time, and wore no cloke,
neither abode in a house,
but among the tombs.
28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said,
What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high?
I beseech thee, torment me not.
29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man.
For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept guarded and bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands asunder, and was driven of the demon into the deserts).
30 And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name?
And he said, Legion: because many demons were entered into him.
31 And they besought him that he would not command them to go out into the abyss.
32 And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain:
and they besought him that he would allow them to enter into them.
And he allowed them.
33 Then went the demons out of the man, and entered into the swine:
and the herd ran violently down the steep place into the lake, and were choked.
34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country.
35 Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the demons were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind:
and they were afraid.
36 They also which saw it told th em by what means he that was possessed of the demons was saved.
37 Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about asked him to depart from them; for they were holden with great fear:
and he entered into the ship, and returned back again.
38 Now the man, from whom the demons were departed, besought him that he might be with him:
but Jesus sent him away, saying, 39 Return to thine own house, and recount how great things God hath done unto thee.
And he went his way, publishing throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him.

[Healing of the Woman / Jairus' Daughter]

Zahn omits:

[40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned,
the multitude welcomed him:
for they were all waiting for him.
41 And, behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue:
and he fell down at Jesus' feet,
and besought him that he would come into his house:
42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she was dying.]

Adv.Marc.iv.20;Panarion 42
And as he went the multitudes thronged him.
43 And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,
44 Came behind him, and touched the border of his garment:
and immediately her issue of blood stanched.
45 And Jesus said, Who touched me?
When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Teacher, the multitude throng thee and press thee,
and sayest thou, Who touched me?
46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me:
for I perceived that power had gone out of me.
47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid,
she came trembling,
and falling down before him,
she declared unto him before all the people for what reason she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.
48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort:
thy faith hath saved thee; go into peace.

Zahn omits:

[49 While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Teacher.
50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying,
Fear not: believe only, and she shall be saved.
51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John,
and the father and the mother of the maiden.
52 And all were weeping, and bewailed her: but he said,
Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth.
53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.
54 And he put them all out, and took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, arise.
55 And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway:
and he commanded something be given her to eat.
56 And her parents were astonished: but he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.]

[Twelve Disciples Bestowed Power]

Adv.Marc.iv.21
9: 1 Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all the demons,
and to cure diseases.
2 And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick.
3 And he said unto them,
Take nothing for your journey, neither staves, nor scrip, neither bread, neither money;
neither have two coats apiece.
4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.
5 And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.
6 And they departed, and went through the villages in order, announcing the glad tidings, and healing every where.

[Herod the Tetrarch]

Adv.Marc.iv.21
7 Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him:
and he was perplexed, because that it was said of some,
that John was risen from the dead;
8 And of some, that Elijah had appeared;
and by others, that a prophet, one of the original ones, was risen again.
9 And Herod said, John have I beheaded:
but who is this, of whom I hear such things?
And he desired to see him.

[Feeding of the Five-thousand]

Adv.Marc.iv.21
10 And the apostles returned, and declared unto him all that they had done.
And he took them, and went aside privately into a desert place of a city called Bethsaida.
11 And the multitudes perceived it, and followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God,
and healed them that had need of healing.
12 And when the day began to decline, and the twelve came,
and said unto him,
Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about,

and lodge, and fetch victuals: for we are in a desert place.
13 But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat.
And they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes;
except we should go and buy food for all this people.
14 For they were about five thousand men.
And he said to his disciples, Make them recline in companies by fifties.
15 And they did so, and made them all recline.
16 And he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them,
Panarion 42
and brake,and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.
17 And they did eat, and were all filled:
and there was taken up that remained to them of fragments twelve baskets.

[Disciples Reprimanded]

18 And it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him:
and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?
19 They answering said, John the Baptist; but some say, Elijah; and others say, that one some prophet of the original ones is risen again.
20 He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am?
Peter answering said, The Christ of God.
Adv.Marc.iv.21
21 And he straightly reprimanded them,
and commanded them to tell none such a thing;
22 Saying, The Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be slain, and be raised the third day.
Adv.Marc.iv.21;Panarion 42

23 And he said to them all,
If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.
24 For whosoever wishes to save his life shall lose it:
but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake,
the same shall save it.
Adv.Marc.iv.21
25 For what is a man profited, if he gain the whole world, and lose or forfeit his own self ?
26 For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed.
Adv.Marc.iv.21

Zahn omits:

[when he shall come in his own glory, and in the glory of his Father's and of the holy angels.
27 But I tell you truly, there be some of those that stand here, which shall by no means taste death, till they see the kingdom of God.]

[The Transfiguration]

Adv.Marc.iv.22
28 And it came to pass about an eight days after these sayings, he took Peter and John and James,
and went up into a mountain to pray.
29 And [it came to past] as he prayed, the appearance of his countenance was different,
and his raiment white, flashing like lightning.
30 And, behold, there stood with him two men, which were Moses and Elias, 31 seen in his glory.
Panarion 42

32 Now Peter and they that were with him were weighed down with sleep:
but when they were fully awake, they saw his glory,
and the two men that stood with him.
33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Teacher, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles;
one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias:
not knowing what he said.
Adv.Marc.iv.22
34 But while he said these things, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them:
and they feared as they entered into the cloud.
35 And a voice came out of the cloud, saying,
This is my beloved Son: hear him.
Adv.Marc.iv.22;Panarion 42andPan.42(4th file)
36 And when the voice came, Jesus was found alone.
And they were silent, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen.

[Those Dopey Disciples (1)]

37 And it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were come down from the mountain,
a great multitude met him.
38 And, behold, a man from the multitude cried out, saying,

Teacher, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is my only begotten.
39 And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out;
and it convulseth him with foam, and bruising him hardly departeth from him.
40 And I besought thy disciples to cast him out; and they could not.
41 And Jesus answering said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.
Adv.Marc.iv.23;Panarion 42

42 And as he was yet a coming, the demon rent him, and convulsed him.
And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the boy, and delivered him again to his father.
43 And they were all amazed at the majesty of God.
And as they all wondered at all things which Jesus did,
he said unto his disciples,
44 Take ye into your ears these sayings:
for the Son of man is going to be delivered into the hands of men.
;Panarion 42

45 But they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them that they should not perceive it :
and they feared to ask him about that saying.

[Those Dopey Disciples (2)]

46 Then there arose a reasoning among them, which of them should be greatest.
47 And Jesus, perceiving the reasoning of their heart, took a child, and set it [next to] himself, and said unto them, 48 Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me:
and whosoever shall receive me receiveth him that sent me:
for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.
Adv.Marc.iv.23
49 And John answered and said,
Teacher, we saw one casting out demons in thy name;
and we hindered him, because he followeth not with us.
50 And Jesus said unto him,
Forbid him not: for he that is not against you is for you.

[Those Dopey Disciples (3)]

Adv.Marc.iv.23
51 And it came to pass, when the days of his taking up were being fulfilled, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, 52 And sent messengers before his face: and they went,
and entered into a village of the Samaritans, so as to make ready for him.
53 And they did not receive him, because his face was going to Jerusalem.
54 And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and to consume them, even as Elijah did?
55 But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of.
56 For the Son of man came not to destroy men's lives, but to save them.
And they went to another village.

57 And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.
58 And Jesus said unto him,
Foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have lodging places;
but the Son of man hath not where he may lay his head.
59 And he said unto another, Follow me.
But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father.
60 Jesus said unto him, Leave the dead to bury their own dead:
but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.
61 And another also said, Lord, I will follow thee;
but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house.
62 And Jesus said unto him,
No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.

[Seventy New Disciples Appointed]

Adv.Marc.iv.24
10: 1 And after these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself was about to come.
2 Therefore said he unto them,
The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few:
pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest,
that he may send forth labourers into his harvest.
3 Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.
4 Carry neither purse, nor wallet, nor shoes: and salute no man by the way.
5 And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.
6 And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it:
if not, it shall turn to you again.
7 And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give:
for the labourer is worthy of his hire.

Go not from house to house.
8 And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you:
9 And heal the sick therein, and say unto them,
The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.
10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go out into the streets thereof, and say, 11 Even the very dust of your city, which clave to us, we do wipe off against you:
notwithstanding be ye sure of this,
that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.
Adv.Marc.iv.24

Zahn omits:

[12 But I say unto you, that it shall be more tolerable in that day for Sodom, than for that city.
13 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida!
for if the powers had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which have been done in you,
they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.
14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment, than for you.
15 And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted to heaven?
thou shalt be thrust down unto Hades.]

16 He that heareth you heareth me;
and he that despiseth you despiseth me;
and he that despiseth me despiseth him that sent me.
17 And the seventy returned again with joy, saying,
Lord, even the demons are subject unto us through thy name.
18 And he said unto them,
I beheld Satan as lightning fallen from heaven.
19 Behold, I give unto you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy:
and nothing shall by any means hurt you.
20 Notwithstanding, in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you;
but rather rejoice, because your names are written in the heavens.

Adv.Marc.iv.25;Panarion 42
21 In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said,
I thank thee, Lord of heaven , that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes:
even so, Father; for so it was well-pleasing before thee.

Adv.Marc.iv.25
22 All things were delivered to me by my Father:
and no man knoweth who the Father is, but the Son, and who the Son is, but the Father, and he to whomsoever the Son wishes to reveal him.
Adv.Marc.iv.25

23 And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, Blessed are the eyes which see what ye see:
24 For I tell you, that prophets did not see what ye see.
Adv.Marc.iv.25

SECTION III

The Gospel of the Lord

Section III

10:25-28 To Inherit Long Life on Earth
10:29-37 The Good Samaritan
10:38-42 "Martha, Martha"
11:1-13 The Prayer for Holy Spirit
11:14-26 A House Divided
11:27-28 "The Womb that Bare Thee"
11:29 An Evil Generation
11:33-36 The Lamp of the Body
11:37-54 "Woe"
12:1-12 The Leaven of the Pharisees / "Fear Him"
12:13-21 Who Appointed Me a Judge ?
12:22-34 Seek Ye the Kingdom of God
12:35-48 The Faithful and Wise Servant
12:49-59 Fire on the Earth
13:10-17 Healing on the Sabbath

[To Inherit Long Life on Earth]

Adv.Marc.iv.25;Panarion 42
25 And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Teacher, doing what shall I obtain life?
Cf.18:18-30
26 But he said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?
27 And he answering said,
Thou shalt love the Lord thy God from all thy heart, and from all thy soul, and from all thy strength, and from all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.
28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

[The Good Samaritan]

29 But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus,
And who is my neighbour?
30 And Jesus answering said,
A certain man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho,
and fell among thieves,
which stripped him, and beat him, leaving him just half dead.
31 And by chance there came down a certain priest in that way:
and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.
32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and saw him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came down to him:
and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, 34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring on oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn,
and took care of him.
35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two denarii, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more,
when I come again, I will repay thee.
36 Which now of these three, seems to thee to have been a neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?
37 And hesaid, He that shewed mercy on him.
Jesus therefore said unto him,
Go, and do thou likewise.

["Martha, Martha"]

38 Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain village:
and a certain woman named Martha received him into her house.
39 And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word.
40 But Martha was distracted about much serving, and came up to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister did leave me to serve alone?
bid her therefore that she help me.
41 And Jesus answered and said unto her,
Martha, Martha, thou art anxious and troubled about many things:
42 But there is need of one: and Mary chose that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

[The Prayer for Holy Spirit]

Adv.Marc.iv.26
11: 1 And it came to pass whilst he was in a certain place praying to the Father,
when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him,
Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.
2 And he said unto them,
When ye pray, say,

Father, let thy Holy Spirit come upon us,
Adv.Marc.iv.26
Hallowed be thy name.
Thy kingdom come.
Thy will be done,
as in heaven, so on earth.
3 Give us day by day our bread for the coming day.
4 And forgive us our sins;
for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us.
And lead us not into temptation.

Adv.Marc.iv.26;Panarion 42
5 And he said unto them,
Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight,
and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;
6 Since my friend is come unto me from a journey, and I have nothing to set before him?
7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut,
and my children are with me in bed;
I cannot rise and give thee.
8 I say unto you,
even if he will not rise and give him,
because he is his friend,
yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

Adv.Marc.iv.26;Panarion 42
9 And I say unto you,
Ask, and it shall be given you;
seek, and ye shall find;
knock, and it shall be opened unto you.
10 For every one that asketh receiveth;
and he that seeketh findeth;
and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.
11 But of which of you that is a father shall his son ask a loaf he will give him a stone?
or a fish, and he instead of a fish will give him a serpent?
12 Or if he shall ask an egg, will he give him a scorpion?
13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children:
how much more shall your Father from heaven give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?
Adv.Marc.iv.26;Panarion 42

[A House Divided]

Adv.Marc.iv.26
14 And he was casting out a demon, and it was dumb.
And it came to pass, when the demon was gone out,
the dumb spake;
and the multitudes marvelled.
15 But some of them said,
He casteth out demons through Beelzebub the chief of the demons.
16 And others, tempting him, sought of him a sign from heaven.
17 But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation;
and a house divided against a house falleth.
18 And if Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom be established?
because ye say that I cast out demons in Beelzebub.
19 And if I in Beelzebub cast out demons, in whom do your sons cast them out?
therefore shall they be your judges.
20 But if I with the finger of God cast out demons, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.
21 When a strong man fully armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace.

Zahn omits:

[22 But when the stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his whole armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.
23 He that is not with me is against me:
and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.
24 When the unclean spirit is gone out from the man, he goeth through waterless places, seeking rest;
and finding none, he saith, I will return into my house whence I came out.
25 And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.
26 Then goeth he,
and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself;
and they enter in, and dwell there:

and the last state of that man is worse than the first.]

["The Womb that Bare Thee"]

Adv.Marc.iv.26
27 And it came to pass, as he said these things, a certain woman out of the multitude lifted up her voice,
and said unto him,
Blessed is the womb that bare thee,
and the breasts which thou didst suck.
28 But he said,
Yea rather, blessed are they that hear [my word], and keep it.

[An Evil Generation]

Adv.Marc.iv.27
29 And when the multitudes were gathering thick together, he began to say,
This is an evil generation: it seeketh a sign;
and there shall no sign be given it .
Panarion 42

[- vv.30-32]

[The Lamp of the Body]

33 No man, when he hath lighted a lamp, putteth it into a secret place,
neither under the bushel, but on the lampstand, that they which come in may see the light.
34 The lamp of the body is the eye:
therefore when thine eye is single,
thy whole body also is full of light;
but when it is evil,
thy body also is full of darkness.
35 Look therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness.
36 If therefore thy whole body be full of light, having no part dark,
it shall be wholly full of light,
as when the lamp with its gleam doth give thee light.

["Woe!"]

Adv.Marc.iv.26
37 And as he spake, a certain Pharisee asked him to breakfast with him:
and he went in, and lay down.
38 And when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before the breakfast.
39 And the Lord said unto him,
Now do ye Pharisees clean the outside of the cup and the platter;
but your inside is full of extortion and wickedness.
40 Foolish ones, did not he that made the outside make the inside also?
41 But give as alms the things in your power;
and, behold, all things are clean unto you.

Adv.Marc.iv.26;Panarion 42
42 But woe unto you, Pharisees!
for ye tithe mint and rue and every herb,
and pass over the calling and the love of God:
but these ought ye to have done, and not to leav e the other undone.
43 Woe unto you, Pharisees!
for ye love the first seat in the synagogues, and the greetings in the markets.

44 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!
for ye are as graves which appear not,
and the men that walk about over them know it not.

Adv.Marc.iv.26
45 Then one of the lawyers answering saith unto him, Teacher, saying these things thou reproachest us also.
46 And he said,
Woe unto you also, lawyers!
for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne,
and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.
47 Woe unto you! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, but your fathers killed them.
Panarion 42

48 Truly ye are witnesses and consent to the deeds of your fathers:
for they indeed killed them, but ye build their sepulchres.
Adv.Marc.iv.26

[- 49 -51]Panarion 42

52 Woe unto you, lawyers!
for ye took away the key of knowledge:
ye entered not in yourselves,
and them that were entering in ye hindered.
53 And as he said these things unto them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to press upon him vehemently, and to provoke him to speak of more things:
54 Laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

[The Leaven of the Pharisees / "Fear Him"]

Adv.Marc.iv.28
12: 1 In the mean time, when there were gathered together tens of thousands of the multitudes, insomuch that they trode one upon another,
he began to say unto his disciples,
First be ye on your guard against of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.
2 For there is nothing covered up, that shall not be revealed;
and hidden that shall not be known.
3 Wherefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken to the ear in the chambers shall be proclaimed upon the housetops.

Adv.Marc.iv.28;Panarion 42
4 And I say unto you my friends,
Be not afraid of them that kill the body,
and after this have not power to do anything further.
5 But I will show you whom ye shall fear:
Fear him, which after he hath killed hath authority to cast into Gehenna; yea, I say unto you, Fear him.
[- vv 6-7]
Adv.Marc.iv.28;Panarion 42
8 But I say unto you,
Whosoever shall confess in me before men,
in him shall the Son of man also confess before God:
9 But he that denieth me in the sight of men shall be denied in the sight of God.

Adv.Marc.iv.28;Panarion 42
10 And every one, who shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him:
but unto him that blasphemeth against the Holy Spirit it shall not be forgiven.

Adv.Marc.iv.28
11 And when they bring you up before the synagogues, and unto the rulers, and authorities, be not anxious how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall say: 12 For the Holy Spirit shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say.

[Who Appointed Me a Judge?]

Adv.Marc.iv.28
13 And one out of the multitude said unto him,
Teacher, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me.
14 And he said unto him,
Man, who appointed me a judge or a divider over you?
15 And he said unto them,
Take heed, and guard yourselves from covetousness:
for not in a man's abundance consisteth his life out of his possessions.

Adv.Marc.iv.28
16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying,
The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully:
17 And he reasoned within himself, saying,
What shall I do, because I have not where to collect my fruits?
18 And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater;
and there will I collect all my fruits and my goods.
19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years;
take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.
20 But God said unto him, Foolish one, this night they require thy soul from thee:
and the things which thou hast prepared, whose shall they be?
21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

[Seek Ye the Kingdom of God]

Adv.Marc.iv.29
22 And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you,
Be not anxious for your life, what ye shall eat;
neither for the body, what ye shall put on.
23 The life is more than the food, and the body than the raiment.

24 Consider the ravens, that they sow not nor reap;
which have not storechamber nor barn; and God feedeth them:
how much rather do ye excel the birds!
25 And which of you with being anxious can add to his stature one cubit?
26 If ye then be not able to do even a very little thing, why are ye anxious about the rest?
27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, nor spin;
yet I say unto you, not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed like one of these.
28 [If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven;]
how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?
Adv.Marc.iv.29;Panarion 42
29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind.
30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after:
but your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things.
31 Notwithstanding seek ye the kingdom of God;
and all these things shall be added unto you.
Adv.Marc.iv.29;Panarion 42
32 Fear not, little flock; for your Father is well pleased to give you the kingdom.
33 Sell your possessions, and give alms; make yourselves purses which grow not old,
an unfailing treasure in the heavens,
where a thief does not come near, nor a moth destroy.
34 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

[The Faithful and Wise Servant]

Adv.Marc.iv.29
35 Let your loins be girded about, and your lamps burning;
36 And ye like unto men that wait for their lord, when he shall return from the wedding-feast;
that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.
37 Blessed are those servants, whom the lord when he cometh shall find watching:
verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them to recline to meat,
and shall pass by and serve them.

Panarion 42
38 And if he shall come in the evening watch, and find them so,
blessed are those servants.

Adv.Marc.iv.29
39 And this know, that if the master of the house had known what hour the thief was coming,
he would have watched,
and not have left his house to be broken through.
40 Be ye therefore ready also:
for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not.

Adv.Marc.iv.29
41 Then Peter said unto him,
Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even unto all?
42 And the Lord said,
Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall set over his household,
to give them their portion of food in due season?
43 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.
44 Of a truth I say unto you, that he will set him over all his possessions.
45 But if that servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth to come, and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidservants, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken; 46 The lord of that servant will come in a day when he expecteth not,
and at an hour when he knoweth not,
and will cut him in sunder,
and will appoint him his portion with the unfaithful.
Panarion 42

47 And that servant, which knew his lord's will, and prepared not, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.
48 But he that knew not, and did did things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes.
For to whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required:
and to whom they have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

[Fire on the Earth]

Adv.Marc.iv.29
49 I came to cast fire on the earth;
and what will I, if it be already kindled?
50 But I have a baptism to be baptized with;

and how am I constrained till it be accomplished!
51 Think ye that I am come to give peace on earth?

Adv.Marc.iv.29
I tell you, Nay; but rather division:
52 For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three.
53 They shall be divided father against son, and son against father;
mother against daughter, and daughter against mother;
mother in law against her daughter in law,
and daughter in law against her mother in law.

54 And he said also to the multitudes,
When ye see the cloud rising up from the west, straightway ye say
There cometh a shower; and it cometh to pass.
55 And when ye see a south wind blowing, ye say,
There will be scorching heat; and it cometh to pass.

Adv.Marc.iv.29;Panarion 42
56 Ye hypocrites, ye know how to interpret the face of the earth and the heaven;
but how is it that ye do not interpret this time?
57 Yea, and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?
58 For as thou goest with thine adversary before the magistrate, on the way give diligence to be delivered from him;
lest he hale thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and the officer cast thee into prison.
59 I say unto thee, thou shalt by no means depart thence, till thou hast paid the very last lepton.

[-13:1-9]Panarion 42

[Healing on the Sabbath]

Adv.Marc.iv.30;Panarion 42
13: 10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath days.
11 And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.
12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her,
Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.
13 And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.
14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered, being vexed, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day,
and said unto the multitude,
There are six days in which men ought to work:
in them therefore come and be healed,
and not on the day of the sabbath.
15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?
16 And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the day of the sabbath ?
17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were put to shame:
and all the multitude rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

SECTION IV

The Gospel of the Lord

Section IV

13:18 -21 Parables of the Mustard Seed and Leaven
13:22-14:24 The Righteous in the Kingdom
14:25-33 Discipleship
15:1- 10 Joy in the Presence of God
16:1- 18 Steward of Unrighteousness/ God and Mammon
16:19- 31 Lazarus in Abraham's Bosom
17:1- 10 Occasions of Stumbling
17:11- 19 Ten Lepers
17:20-37 Kingdom Cometh Not with Observation

[Parables of the Mustard Seed and Leaven]

Adv.Marc.iv.30
18 Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like?
and whereunto shall I liken it?
19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his own garden;
and it grew, and became a great tree;
and the birds of the heaven lodged in the branches of it.

Adv.Marc.iv.30
20 And again he said,
Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?
21 It is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

[The Righteous in the Kingdom]

22 And he went through the cities and villages, teaching, and making a journey unto Jerusalem.
23 Then one said unto him, Lord, are they few that are being saved?
And he said unto them,
24 Strive to enter in through the narrow gate:
for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

Adv.Marc.iv.30
25 When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand outside, and to knock at the door, saying,
Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you,
I know you not whence ye are:
26 Then shall ye begin to say, We did eat and drink in thy presence, and thou didst teach in our streets.

Adv.Marc.iv.30
27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are;
depart from me, all ye workers of unrighteousness.
28 There shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see all the righteous in the kingdom of God, and yourselves thrust out and held back outside.
Panarion 42

[- vv.29-35]Panarion 42

14: 1 And it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that they were watching him.
2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.
3 And Jesus answered and spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying,
Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?
4 And they held their peace.
And he took him, and healed him, and let him go;
5 And he answered and said unto them,
Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a well,
and will not straightway pull him up on the day of the sabbath?
6 And they could not answer him again to these things.

Adv.Marc.iv.31
12 Then said he also to him that bade him,
When thou makest a breakfast or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours;
lest they also bid thee again, and a recompence be made thee.
13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:
14 And thou shalt be blessed;
for they have no[thing] wherewith to recompense thee:
for it shall be recompensed to thee at the resurrection of the righteous.

15 And when one of them that reclined with him heard these things, he said unto him,
Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.

Adv.Marc.iv.31
16 But he said unto him,
A certain man made a great supper, and bade many:
17 And sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready.
18 And they all with one consent began to make excuse.
The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them:
I pray thee, hold me excused.
20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.
21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things.

Adv.Marc.iv.31
Then the master of the house being moved said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.
22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou didst command, and yet there is room.
23 And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.
24 For I say unto you,
That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

[Discipleship]

25 And there went great multitudes with him:
and he turned, and said unto them, 26 If any man cometh to me, and doth not abandon his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also,
he cannot be my disciple.
27 And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come behind me, cannot be my disciple.
28 For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have the things for completion?
29 Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish, all that behold it begin to mock him, 30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish.
31 Or what king, when he is going to encounter another king in war, sitteth not down first, and consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?
32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off,
he sendeth an embassy, and desireth conditions of peace.
33 So therefore, whosoever he be of you that renounceth not all his possessions,
he cannot be my disciple.

[vv. 34-35 uncertain]

[Joy in the Presence of God]

Adv.Marc.iv.32
15: 1 Now all the publicans and sinners were coming near unto him,
to hear him.
2 And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying,
This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them.
3 And he spake this parable unto them, saying,
4 What man of you, having an hundred sheep,
if he lose one of them,
doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it?
5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.
6 And when he cometh into the house, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them,
Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep which was lost.
7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in the heaven over one sinner that repenteth,
more than over ninety and nine righteous persons, which have no need of repentance.
8 Either what woman having ten drachmas,
if she lose one drachma,
doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house,
and seek diligently till she find it?
9 And when she hath found it,
she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me;
for I have found the drachma which I had lost.
10 Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of God
over one sinner that repenteth.

[- 15:10-32]Panarion 42

[Steward of Unrighteousness / God and Mammon]

Adv.Marc.iv.33
16: 1 And he said also unto his disciples,
There was a certain rich man, which had a steward;
and the same was accused unto him as wasting his property.
2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee?
render the account of thy stewardship;
for thou canst not be a steward any longer.
3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do?
for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship:
I have not strength to dig; to beg I am ashamed.
4 I know what I will do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.
5 And he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first,
How much owest thou unto my lord?
6 And he said, An hundred baths of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bond, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.
7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou?
And he said, An hundred cors of wheat. And he said unto him,
Take thy bond, and write fourscore.
8 And the lord commended the steward of unrighteousness, because he did wisely:
for the sons of this age are unto their own generation wiser beyond the children of the light.

9 And I say unto you,
Make to yourselves friends out of the mammon of unrighteousness;
that, when ye leave, they may receive you into eternal habitations.
10 He that is faithful in a very little is faithful in much:
and he that is unrighteous in very little is unrighteous also in much.

Adv.Marc.iv.33
11 If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will entrust to you the real [mammon]?
12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another 's, who shall give you that which is mine?
13 No domestic can serve two masters:
for either he will hate the one, and love the other;
or else he will hold to one, and despise the other.
Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

Adv.Marc.iv.33
14 And the Pharisees also, who were lovers of money, heard all these things: and they sneered at him.
15 And he said unto them,
Ye are they which make yourselves righteous in the sight of men;
but God knoweth your hearts:
for that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God.

Adv.Marc.iv.33; Panarion 42
16 The law and the prophets were until John:
since that time the kingdom of God is announced as good tidings, and every man forceth into it.
17 But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away, even as the law and the prophets [have passed away],
than one tittle of my words to fail.

Adv.Marc.iv.34
18 Everyone that putteth away his wife and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and everyone that marrieth one that is put away from a husband committeth adultery.

[Lazarus in Abraham's Bosom]

Adv.Marc.iv.34 Panarion 42
19 There was a certain rich man, and he was clothed in purple and fine linen, faring sumptuously every day:
20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores, 21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table:
but even the dogs came and licked his sores.
22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom
: the rich man also died, and was buried.

23 And in Hades he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.
24 And he cried and said,
Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue;

for I am in anguish in this flame.
25 But Abraham said,
Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things:
but now he is comforted, and thou art in anguish.
26 And besides all these things, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed:
so that they which wish to cross from hence to you may not be able;
neither can they from thence pass through to us.
27 But he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:
28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.
29 Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets;
let them hear them.
30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham:
but if one from the dead went unto them,
they will repent.
31 And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, not even if one from the dead arose, will they be persuaded.

[Occasions of Stumbling]

Adv.Marc.iv.35
17: 1 Then said he unto the disciples,
It is inconceivable but that occasions of stumbling will come:
but woe unto him, through whom they come!
2 It were a gain if he had not been born, or if a millstone were hanged about his neck,
and he were cast into the sea, rather than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble.
3 Take heed to yourselves:
But if thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him;
and if he repent, forgive him.
4 And if he trespass against thee seven times in the day, and seven times in the day turn again to thee, saying, I repent;
thou shalt forgive him.

5 And the apostles said unto the Lord,
Increase our faith.
6 And the Lord said,
If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed,
ye would say unto this mulberry tree,
Be thou plucked up-rooted,
and be thou planted in the sea;
and it would have obeyed you.

Zahn omits:

7 [But who is there of you,
having a servant plowing or keeping sheep, that will say unto him, when he is come from the field,
Come straightway and lie down to meat?
8 And will not rather say unto him,
Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me,
till I have eaten and drunken;
and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?
9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him?
I think not.
10 So likewise do ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you.]

[- 10c]Panarion 42

[Ten Lepers]

Adv.Marc.iv.35; Panarion 42
11 And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.
12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers,
which stood afar off:
13 And they lifted up their voices, and said,
Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.
14 And when he saw them, he said unto them,
Go shew yourselves unto the priests.
And it came to pass, that, as they went,
they were cleansed.
15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, 16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks:
and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering said,
Were not the ten cleansed? but where are the nine?
18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God but this alien?

Adv.Marc.iv.35; Panarion 42
+4:27 And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet, and none of them was healed, but only Naaman the Syrian.
19 And he said unto him,
Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee.

[Kingdom Cometh Not with Observation]

Adv.Marc.iv.35
20 And when he was questioned by the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God cometh,
he answered them and said,
The kingdom of God cometh not with observation:
21 Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there!
for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.

Adv.Marc.iv.35; Panarion 42
22 And he said unto the disciples,
The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.
23 And they shall say to you, Lo here! , or, lo there!
go not away, nor follow after them.
24 For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven,
shineth unto the other part under heaven;
so shall also the Son of man be in his day.
25 But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

Adv.Marc.iv.35
26 And as it came to pass in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.
27 They ate, they drank, they married, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.
28 Likewise also as it came to pass in the days of Lot;
they ate, they drank, they bought, they sold,
they planted, they builded;
29 But in the day that Lot went out from Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.
30 According to these things shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed.
31 In that day, he which shall be upon the housetop, and his goods in the house,
let him not go down to take them away:
and he that is in the field,
let him likewise not return to the things behind.
32 Remember Lot's wife.

33 Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it;
and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it.
34 I say unto you,
in that night there shall be two [men] shall be on one bed;
the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.
35 Two [women] shall be grinding upon the same stone;
the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.
36 Two [men] shall be in the field;
the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.
37 And they answered and said unto him,
Where, Lord? And he said unto them, Wheresoever the body is,
there will the eagles be gathered together.

SECTION V

The Gospel of the Lord

Section V

18:1-8 God Will Right His Elect
18:9- 17 Pharisee and Publican / Suffer the Little Children
18:18- 30 To Inherit Eternal Life
18:35-43 Blind Man by the Roadside
19:1-10 Zacchaeus
19:11-48 A Certain Nobleman
20:1-8 By What Authority?
20:19-26 Tribute to Caesar?
20:27-40 Children of the Resurrection
20:41-44 Is Christ David's Son?
20:45-47 Beware of the Scribes
21:1-4 A Widow's Two Cents Worth
21:5-38 The "Little Apocalypse"

[God Will Right His Elect]

Adv.Marc.iv.36
18: 1 And he spake also a parable unto them on the neccessity always to pray, and not to faint; Saying,
2 There was in a city a judge, which feared not God,
and regarded not man:
3 And there was a certain widow in that city;
and she came unto him, saying,
Right me from my opponent at law.
4 And he would not for a time:
but afterward he said within himself,
Though I fear not God, and regard not man;
5 Yet because this widow gives me trouble,
I will right her,
lest by her coming to the end she weary me.
6 And the Lord said,
Hear what the judge of the unrighteous saith.
7 And shall not God perform the righting of his elect, which cry unto him day and night,
though he be long suffering over them?
8 I say unto you
that he will perform the righting of them speedily.
Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find the faith on the earth?

[Pharisee and Publican/Suffer the Little Children]

Adv.Marc.iv.36
9 And he spake this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and accounted nothing of the rest;
10 Two men went up into the temple to pray;
the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.
11 The Pharisee stood and prayed thus:
God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unrighteous, adulterers,
or even as this publican.
12 I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I get.
13 And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up even his eyes unto heaven,
but smote upon his breast, saying,
God be propitiated to me the sinner.
14 I say unto you,
this man went down to his house made righteous rather than that one:
for every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled;
and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

15 And they were bringing unto him also the infants, that he should touch them:
but when the disciples saw it, they rebuked them.
16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer the little children to come unto me,
and hinder them not:
for of such is the kingdom of God.
17 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter into it.

[To Inherit Eternal Life]

Cf.10:25-28

Adv.Marc.iv.36; Panarion 42
18 And a certain ruler asked him, saying,
Good Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?
19 And Jesus said unto him,
Why callest thou me good?
none is good, save one, even God the Father.

Panarion 42
[And he [the ruler]said,]
20 I know the commandments -
Do not commit adultery, Do not kill,
Do not steal, Do not bear false witness,
Honour thy father and thy mother.
21 All these have I have observed from my youth up.
22 But when Jesus heard these things, he said unto him, Yet one thing is lacking for thee:
sell all things, as many as thou hast,
and distribute unto the poor,
and thou shalt have treasure in heaven:
and come, follow me.
23 And when he heard these things, he became exceeding sorrowful: for he was very rich.

24 And when Jesus saw him become exceeding sorrowful, he said, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!
25 For it is easier for a camel to enter through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.
26 And they that heard it said, Who then can be saved?
27 And he said,
The things which are impossible with men are possible with God.
28 Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee.
29 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you,
There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children,
for the kingdom of God's sake, 30 Who shall not receive manifold more in this time, and in the coming age eternal life.

[- 31-34] Panarion 42

[Blind Man by the Roadside]

Adv.Marc.iv.36; Panarion 42
35 And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging:
36 And when he heard the multitude passing by,
he asked what this might be.
37 And they told him, that Jesus passeth by.
38 And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me.
39 And they which went before rebuked him, that he might be silent:
but he cried so much the more, Thou Son of David, have mercy on me.
40 And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be brought unto him:
and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, 41 What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee?
And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.
42 And Jesus said unto him,
Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee.
43 And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God:
and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God.

[Zacchaeus]

Adv.Marc.iv.37
19: 1 And Jesus entered and passed through Jericho.
2 And, behold, a man called by the name Zacchaeus, and he was a chief publican, and he was rich.
3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not from the multitude, because he was little of stature.
4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycomore tree to see him:
for he was going to pass through that way.
5 And when he came to the place,
he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him,
Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down; for to-day I must abide at thy house.
6 And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully.
7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying,
That he was gone to lodge with a man that is a sinner.
8 And Zacchaeus stood still, and said unto the Lord;
Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation,
I restore fourfold.
9 And Jesus said unto him,
[- 9b] This day is salvation come to this house,

10 For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

[A Certain Nobleman]

Adv.Marc.iv.37; Adv.Marc.iv.39
11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they supposed that the kingdom of God was going to appear immediately.
12 He said therefore,
A certain nobleman went into a distant country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.
13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Trade till I come.
14 But his citizens hated him, and sent his embassy after him, saying,
We do not wish this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom,
that he commanded these servants to be called unto him,
to whom he gave the money,
that he might know what trade every man had accomplished.
16 And the first came before him, saying,
Lord, thy mina hath wrought ten minas more.
17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant:
because thou wast faithful in a very little,
be thou holding authority over ten cities.
18 And the second came, saying,
Lord, thy mina hath gained five minas.
19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.
20 And another came, saying,
Lord, behold, here is thy mina, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:
21 For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man:
thou takest up that thou layedst not down,
and reapest that thou sowest not.
22 And he saith unto him,
Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant.
Knewest thou that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I sowed not ?
23 Wherefore then gavest thou not my money into the bank, and I would have come and exacted it with interest?
24 And he said unto them that stood by,
Take from him the mina,
and give it to him that hath ten minas.
25 And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten minas.

26 For I say unto you,
That unto every one which hath shall be given;
and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.
27 But those mine enemies, that did not wish me to reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.
28 And when he had thus spoken, he went before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

[- vv. 29-46]Panarion 42

47 And he was teaching daily in the temple.
But the chief priests and the scribes and the chief of the people sought to destroy him, 48 And could not find what they might do:
for all the people were very attentive to hear him.

[By What Authority?]

Adv.Marc.iv.38
20: 1 And it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he was teaching the people in the temple, and announcing the glad tidings, there came upon him the chief priests and the scribes with the elders, 2 And spake unto him, saying,
Tell us, by what authority doest thou these things?
or who is he that gave thee this authority?
3 And he answered and said unto them,
I will also ask you one word and tell me:
4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?
5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying,
If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?
6 But if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us:
for they be persuaded that John was a prophet.
7 And they answered, that they knew not whence it was.
8 And Jesus said unto them,
Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

[- vv.9-18]Panarion 42

[Tribute to Caesar?]

Adv.Marc.iv.38; Panarion 42
19 And the chief priests and the scribes the same hour sought to lay hands on him; [-19c] and they feared the people.
20 And they watched him, and sent forth spies, feigning themselves to be righteous men, that they might take hold of his speech, in order to deliver him up unto the rule and authority of the governor.
21 And they asked him, saying,
Teacher, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, and acceptest not a countenance,
but of a truth teachest the way of God.
22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?
23 But he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them,
Why tempt ye me?
24 Shew me a denarius. Whose image and superscription hath it?
They answered and said, Caesar's.
25 And he said unto them,
Render therefore unto Caesar the things of Caesar, and unto God the things of God.
26 And they were not able to take hold of his saying before the people:
and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

[Children of the Resurrection]

Adv.Marc.iv.38
27 And there came to him certain of the Sadducees, they which deny that there is any resurrection;
and they asked him, saying,
28 Teacher, Moses wrote unto us, that if any man's brother die, having a wife, and he die childless, that his brother should take the wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.
29 There were therefore seven brethren:
and the first took a wife, and died childless.
30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.
31 And the third took her;
and likewise the seven also left no children, and died.
32 Last of all the woman died also.
33 In the resurrection, therefore, whose wife of them does she become?
for the seven had her as a wife.

Adv.Marc.iv.38
34 And Jesus answered and said unto them,
The sons of this age marry, and are given in marriage:
35 But they whom God accounted worthy of that age, to obtain the resurrection from the dead,
neither marry, nor are given in marriage:
36 Neither can they die any more:
for they are equal u nto the angels;
and are the sons of God,
being the children of the resurrection.

[- vv.37-38]Panarion 42

39 Then certain of the scribes answering said,
Teacher, thou hast well said.
40 And they did not any longer venture to ask him anything.

[Is Christ David's Son?]

Adv.Marc.iv.38
41 And he said unto them,
How say they that the Christ is David's son?
42 And David himself saith in the book of Psalms,
The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies the footstool of thy feet.
44 David therefore calleth him Lord, and how is he then his son?

[Beware of the Scribes]

45 And when all the people were hearing him,
he said unto his disciples,
46 Beware of the scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and love salutations in the markets, and the first seats in the synagogues,
and the first rooms at feasts;
47 Which eat up the houses of widows, and for a pretext make long prayers:
the same shall receive greater condemnation.

[A Widow's Two Cents Worth]

21: 1 And he looked up, and saw the rich men that were casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he saw also a certain poor widow casting in thither two lepta.
3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all:
4 For all these did out of their super-abundance cast in unto the offerings of God:
but she out of her want hath cast in all the living that she had.

[The "Little Apocalypse"]

Adv.Marc.iv.39
5 And as some spake about the temple, that it was adorned with goodly stones and offerings,
he said,
6 As for these things which ye behold, the days will come, in the which there shall not be left a stone upon a stone, that shall not be thrown down.
7 And they asked him, saying, Teacher, when then shall these things be?
and what shall be the sign, when these things are going to take place?

8 And he said,
See that ye be not led astray:
for many shall come in my name, saying, I am he ;
and the time is come near: go ye not therefore after them.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
9 And when ye shall hear of wars and tumults, be not terrified:
for these things must first come to pass;
but the end is not immediately.

10 Then said he unto them,
Nation shall rise against nation,
and kingdom against kingdom:
11 And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences;
and terrors and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 But before all these, they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues,
and into prisons,
being brought before kings and rulers for my name's sake.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
13 And it shall turn out to you for a testimony.
14 Settle it therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before how to answer:
15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all those opposed to you shall not be able to gainsay nor withstand.
16 And ye shall be delivered up even by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends;
and they shall put some of you to death.
17 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake.

[- v.18]Panarion 42

19 In your patience possess ye your souls.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
20 But when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that her desolation is come near.

[- vv.21-22]Panarion 42

Zahn omits:

23 [But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck, in those days!
for there shall be great distress in the land,
and wrath unto this people.
24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all the nations:
and Jerusalem shall be trodden down by nations, until the times of nations be fulfilled.]

Adv.Marc.iv.39
25 And there shall be signs in sun, and moon, and stars;
and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity;
the sea and waves roaring;
26 Men fainting for fear, and for expectation of the things which are coming on the world:
for the powers of the heavens shall be shaken.
27 And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with great power.
28 And when these things begin to come to pass,

then look up, and lift up your heads;
for your redemption draweth nigh.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
29 And he spake to them a parable;
Behold the fig tree, and all the trees;
30 When they already shoot forth, ye see it, and know your own selves that summer is already near.
31 So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is near.
32 [-32b] Verily I say unto you,
The heaven and the earth shall in no wise pass away, till all things be accomplished 33 The heaven and the earth shall pass away:
but my words shall in no wise pass away.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
34 And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be weighed down with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that day come upon you unawares.
35 For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of all the earth.
36 Watch ye therefore at every season, praying, that ye may be accounted worthy [-36c] to escape all these things that are going to take place.

Adv.Marc.iv.39
37 And every day he was teaching in the temple;
and at night he went out, and lodged on the mountain that is called Olives.
38 And all the people came early in the morning to him in the temple to hear him.

SECTION VI

The Gospel of the Lord

Section VI

22:1-6 Judas Plots with the Religious Leaders
22:7-29 The Last Supper
22:31-34 Peter's Denial of Jesus Foretold
22:39-46 The Mount of Olives
22:47-53 Jesus Delivered to the Religious Leaders
22:54-62 Peter's Denial
22:63-71 Jesus Tortured and Interrogated
23:1-12 Jesus Before Pilate and Herod
23:13-25 Jesus Sentenced to Death
23:26-56 Jesus Crucified
24:1-12 The Empty Tomb
24:13-35 The Road to Emmaus
24:36-47 Finale

[Judas Plots with the Religious Leaders]

Adv.Marc.iv.40
22: 1 Now the feast of unleavened bread was coming near, which is called the Passover.
2 And the chief priests and scribes were seeking how they might kill him; for they feared the people.
3 Then Judas, who was surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve, went away, 4 And communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might deliver him up to them.
Panarion 42

5 And they were glad, and covenanted to give him money.
6 And he consented,
and was seeking opportunity to deliver him up to them without tumult.

[The Last Supper]

7 Then the day of unleavened bread came, when the passover must be sacrificed.
8 And he [said] unto Peter and [the rest],
Go and make ready that we may eat the passover.
Panarion 42

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we make ready?
10 And he said unto them,
Behold, when ye have entered into the city,
a man shall meet you, bearing a pitcher of water;
follow him into the house whereinto he goeth.
11 And ye shall say unto the master of the house,
The Teacher saith unto thee, Where is the lodging, where I may eat the passover with my disciples?
12 And he shall shew you a large upper room furnished:
there make ready.
13 And they went, and found as he had said unto them:
and they made ready the passover.

Adv.Marc.iv.40; Panarion 42
14 And when the hour was come he reclined, and the twelve apostles with him.
15 And he said unto them,
With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer:

[-v.16]Panarion 42

Zahn omits:

17 [And he rece ived a cup, and when he had given thanks, he said,
Take this, and divide it among yourselves:
18 For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.]

Adv.Marc.iv.40
19 And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it,
and gave to them, saying,
This is my body which is given for you:
this do for my remembrance.
20 And in like manner the cup after supper, saying,
This cup is the [new] covenant in my blood,
even that which is poured out for you.

Adv.Marc.iv.41

21 But, behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.
22 And the Son of man indeed goeth, as it hath been determined:
but woe unto that man through whom he is betrayed!
23 And they began to dispute with themselves, which of them it was that was going to do this thing.

24 And there was also a contention among them, which of them is accounted to be greater.
25 And he said unto them,
The kings of the nations have lordship over them;
and they that have authority over them are called benefactors.
26 But ye shall not be so:
but he that is the greater among you, let him be as the younger;
and he that leadeth as he that serveth.
27 For whether is greater-he that reclineth at meat, or he that serveth?
is not he that reclineth?
But I am in the midst of you as he that serveth.
28 Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations.
29 And I appoint unto you even as my Father hath appointed unto me,
A kingdom.

[- v.30]

[Peter's Denial of Jesus Foretold]

Adv.Marc.iv.41
31 And the Lord said,
Simon, Simon, behold, Satan demanded you, that he might sift you as wheat:
32 But I entreated for thee, that thy faith may not fail:
and once thou hast turned again,
establish thy brethren.
33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.
34 And he said,
I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow at all to-day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

[-vv.35;37]Panarion 42

[The Mount of Olives]

39 And he came out, and went according to his custom to the mountain of Olives, and his disciples also followed him.
40 And when he was at the place, he said unto them,
Pray not to enter into temptation.

Panarion 42
41 And he was separated from them about a stone's throw, and he kneeled down, and prayed, saying 42 Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me:
nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done.
43 And there appeared unto him an angel from heaven, strengthening him.
44 And he became in an agony and prayed more earnestly:
and his sweat became as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.
45 And when he rose up from prayer, he came unto his disciples, and found them sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them,
Why sleep ye? rise and pray,
that ye may not enter into temptation.

[Jesus Delivered to the Religious Leaders]

Adv.Marc.iv.41; Panarion 42
47 And while he yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve,
went before them,
and came near unto Jes us to kiss him.
48 But Jesus said unto him,
Judas, with a kiss betrayest thou the Son of man?

[-vv.49-51]Panarion 42

52 And Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come against him,
Are ye come out, as against a robber, with swords and staves?
53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched not forth your hands against me:
but this is your hour, and the power of darkness.

[Peter's Denial]

54 Then they seized him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house.
But Peter was following afar off.
55 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the court, and had sat down together, Peter sat in the midst of them.
56 And a certain maid seeing him as he sat towards the light, looked steadfastly upon him, and said,
This man also was with him.
57 But he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.
58 And after a little while another, seeing him, said,
Thou also art one of them.
And Peter said, Man, I am not.
59 And after a space of about one hour another confidently affirmed, saying,
Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Galilaean.
60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest.
And immediately, while he was yet speaking, the cock crew.
61 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter.
And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him,
Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.
62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.
Adv.Marc.iv.41

[Jesus Tortured and Interrogated]

Panarion 42
63 And the men that held Jesus kept mocking and smiting him.
64 And when they had blindfolded him, they kept striking him on the face, and asking him, saying,
Prophesy, who is he that smote thee?
65 And many other things they kept saying, railing against him.

Adv.Marc.iv.41
66 And as soon as it was day,
the body of elders of the people, and the chief priests and the scribes,
was gathered together,
and they led him away into their council, saying, 67 If thou art the Christ, tell us.
And he said unto them,
If I tell you, ye will not at all believe:
68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

Adv.Marc.iv.41
69 From henceforth shall the Son of man be seated on the right hand of the power of God.
70 And they all said, Art thou then the Son of God?
And he said unto them,
Ye say it, because I am.
71 And they said, What further need have we of testimony?
for we ourselves have heard of his mouth.

[Jesus Before Pilate and Herod]

Adv.Marc.iv.42; Panarion 42
23: 1 And the whole company arose, and brought him before Pilate.
2 And they began to accuse him, saying,
We found this fellow perverting the nation, and destroying the law and the prophets,
and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar,
and turning away the women and children, saying that he himself is Christ a King.
Panarion 42

3 And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews?
And he answered him and said, Thou sayest.
4 And Pilate said to the chief priests and the multitudes,
I find no fa ult in this man.
5 And they were urgent, saying,
He stirreth up the people,
teaching throughout all Judaea,
having begun from Galilee to this place.

Adv.Marc.iv.42
6 But when Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilaean.
7 And when he knew that he was from Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him up to Herod,
who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.
8 And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad:
for he was of a long time desirous to see him, because he had heard many things about him;
and was hoping to see some sign done by him.

9 And he questioned him in many words;
but he answered him nothing.
10 And the chief priests and the scribes stood vehemently accusing him.
11 And Herod with his soldiers set him at nought, and mocked him, and arraying him in a gorgeous robe, sent him back to Pilate.
12 And Pilate and Herod became friends with each other that very day:
for before they were at enmity between themselves.

[Jesus Sentenced to Death]

13 And Pilate called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people, and said unto them, 14 Ye brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people:
and, behold, I examined him before you,
and found no fault in this man of what ye charge against him:
15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him;
and, lo, nothing worthy of death hath been done by him.
16 I will therefore chastise him, and release him.
17 (Now he under a necessity to release unto them at every feast one).

Adv.Marc.iv.42
18 But they cried out all at once, saying,
Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas:
19 (one who for a certain insurrection made in the city, and for murder, had been cast into prison.)
20 Pilate therefore spake again to them, wishing to release Jesus.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.
22 And he said unto them the third time,
Why, what evil hath this man done?
I have found no cause of death in him:
I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.
23 But they were urgent with loud voices, asking that he might be crucified.
And the voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed.
24 And Pilate gave sentence that their request should be done.
25 And he released unto them him that for insurrection and murder had been cast into prison, whom they were sking for;
but Jesus he delivered up to their will.

[Jesus Crucified]

26 And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, that was coming out of the country, and laid on him the cross, to bear it after Jesus.
27 And there followed him a great company of the people, and of women, who also were bewailing and lamenting him.
28 But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me,
but weep for yourselves, and for your children.
29 For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that bare not,
and the breasts that gave not suck.
30 Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us;
and to the hills, Cover us.
31 For if they do these things in the green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

Adv.Marc.iv.42; Panarion 42
32 And there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put t o death.
33 And when they were come to the place, which is called the Skull, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.
34[-34c] Then said Jesus,
Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.
35 And the people stood beholding.
And the rulers also with them scoffed at him, saying,
Others he saved; let him save himself,
if this is Christ, the chosen of God.
36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, and saying,
37 If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.
38 And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew,
THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39 And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying,
If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.
40 But the other answering rebuked him, saying,
Dost not thou fear God, because thou art in the same condemnation?
41 And we indeed justly; for we receive things worthy of our deeds:
but this man did nothing amiss.
42 And he said unto Jesus,

Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.
43 And Jesus said unto him,
Verily I say unto thee, To day thou shalt be with me.
Panarion 42

Adv.Marc.iv.42
44 And it was about the sixth hour, and darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour.
45 And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the sanctuary was rent in the midst.
46 And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit:
and having said this, he expired.
Adv.Marc.iv.42; Panarion 42

47 Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying,
Certainly this man was righteous.
48 And all the multitude that came together to this sight, when they beheld the things which were done, returned smiting their breasts.
49 And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, seeing these things.

Adv.Marc.iv.42; Panarion 42
50 And, behold, a man named Joseph, who was a counsellor, a good man, and a righteous 51 (he had not consented to their counsel and deed;)
[a man] of Arimathaea, a city of the Jews:
who also himself was looking for the kingdom of God:
52 This man went unto Pilate, and asked for the body of Jesus.
53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb that was hewn in stone, wherein no man had ever yet lain.
54 And it was the day of the preparation, and the sabbath was dawning.
55 And the women also, which had come with him from Galilee, followed after, and beheld the tomb, and how his body was laid.
56 And they returned, and prepared spices and ointments.
And on the sabbath day they rested according to the commandment.
Panarion 42

[The Empty Tomb]

Adv.Marc.iv.43
24: 1 But upon the first [day] of the week, at early dawn, they came unto the tomb,
bringing the spices which they had prepared,
and some others with them.
2 And they found the stone rolled away from the tomb.
3 And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

Adv.Marc.iv.43
4 And it came to pass, while they were perplexed about it, behold two men stood by them in garments that flashed forth.
5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye him that liveth among the dead?
6 He is not here, but is risen:
remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee, saying, 7 The Son of man must be delivered up into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.
Adv.Marc.iv.43; Panarion 42

8 And they remembered his words,
9 And returned from the tomb, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.
10 Now they Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women with them, which told these things unto the apostles.
11 And their statements seemed in their sight as nonsense, and they disbelieved them.
Adv.Marc.iv.43

12 But Peter arose, and ran unto the tomb;
and stooping down, he seeth the linen bandages laid by themselves, and departed, wondering to himself at that which was come to pass.

[The Road to Emmaus]

Adv.Marc.iv.43
13 And, behold, two of them went that very day to a village called Emmaus, sixty stadia distant from Jerusalem .
14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.
15 And it came to pass, that,
while they communed and questioned together ,

Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.
16 But their eyes were holden that they should not know him.
17 And he said unto them,
What words are these that ye exchange with each other,
as ye walk, and are sad of countenance?
18 And the one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answering said unto him,
Dost thou alone sojourn in Jerusalem, and not know the things which are come to pass there in these days?
19 And he said unto them, What things?

And they said unto him,
The things concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people:
20 And how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him up to a sentence of death, and crucified him.
21 But we hopeded that it had been he,
who is going to redeem Israel:
yea, and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things occurred.
22 Yea, and certain women also of our company astonished us, who had been early at the tomb;
23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.
24 And some of them which were with us went to the tomb, and found it so, even as the women had said:
but him they saw not.

Adv.Marc.iv.43; Panarion 42
25 Then he said unto them,
O foolish men, and slow of heart to believe in all that he spake to you.
26 Was it not neccessary for the Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?
Adv.Marc.iv.43
[- 27]

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they were going:
and he made as though he would go further.
29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening,
and the day has declined.
And he went in to abide with them.

Panarion 42
30 And it came to pass, as he reclined with them, he took the bread and blessed it,
and brake, a nd gave to them.
31 And their eyes were opened, and they recognised him;
and he became invisible to them.
32 And they said one to another,
Was not our heart burning within us,
[-32c] while he talked with us in the way?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem.
And they found the eleven gathered together,
and them that were with them, saying,
34 The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.
35 And they rehearsed the things that happened in the way, and how he became known to them in the breaking of the bread.

[Finale]

36 And as they spake these things, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them,
and saith unto them,
Peace be unto you.

Adv.Marc.iv.43
37 But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had beheld a phantom.
38 And he said unto them,
Why are ye troubled?
and wherefore do reasonings arise in your hearts?
39 Behold my hands and my feet, that I am myself:
for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.
Panarion 42

[-40]

41 And while they still disbelieved for joy, and wondered, he said unto them,

Have ye here anything eatable?
42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honeycomb.
43 And he took it, and ate before them.

Adv.Marc.iv.43
44 And he said unto them,
[-45] These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, 46 that thus it was neccessary for the Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead the third day:
47 And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations.

INTRODUCTION TO THE INTERLINEAR GREEK-ENGLISH RECONSTRUCTION TO MARCION'S TEXT OF GALATIANS

Daniel Jon Mahar

The limitations of where my zeal exceeds my actual knowledge and abilities with Greek will become painfully evident to actual trained scholars in this field, and for any errors and shortcomings in this attempt, I humbly apologize in advance.

This interlinear owes much to the reconstructions of Harnack and Zahn, and pursues the spirit of their maximalist approach, where all material and citations in the ancient literature relevant to discussions concerning Marcion is noted and utilized.

Signs and abbreviations (below) are used to indicate variant possibilities for a reading.

CRITICAL SIGNS AND ABBREVIATIONS

The signs employed in the Greek text of the United Bible Society are also applied to the reconstructed Marcionite text, but primarily to display the relationship of variants that exist in readings among the various sources used for the reconstructing Marcion's text, and not the larger textual tradition. For example, where a reading differs between Tertullian and Adamantius, the signs are used to indicate this difference. The closing bracket, ⟩, unlike the UBS text, is extended here to indicate the completion of both omitted and inserted words.

° = the single word that follows is omitted.
⌜ = the single word that follows is replaced with another word.

▫ = the few words or sentences which follow are omitted
⊤ = the few words or sentences which follow are added or inserted.
⟩ =marks end of omitted or inserted text.

? = following any sign -questionable or conjectural- no absolute certainty.

[ ] = Brackets enclose conjectures, or supply partial words or readings often needed to complete the sense of a reading that is otherwise unattested.
⟨ ⟩ = the words enclosed in this sign indicate replacement by other words.
⦗ ⦘ = the word or words enclosed are transposed
( ) = Paranthesis, which enclose verse numbers, indicate passages or sections for which no attestation exists.
[ ] = Bold brackets enclosing passage numbers indicate missing or deleted sections from the text.

ΠΡΟΣ ΓΑΛΑΤΑΣ

1:1 Παυλος αποστολος ουκ απ ανθρωπων ουδε δι ανθρωπου
Paul apostle not of men nor by man αλλα δια Ιησου Χριστου[1] του εγειραντος αυτον εχ but by Jesus Christ Who raised himself from 6 νεκρων. [2] (1:2-1:5) Θαυμαζω οτι ουτως ταχεως μετατιθε–
(the) dead I-marvel that thus quickly ye-are-changed σθε απο του καλεσαντος υμας εν ⊤την? ⌜χαριν ⊤αυτου?
from him-who called you in the grace his 7 εις ετερον ευαγγελιον,[3] ο ˢαλλο ⊤παντως? ουκ εστιν˨ [4] unto [a] different gospel which another wholly not is ⊤κατα το ευαγγελιον μουˋ [5] ει μη τινες εισιν οι according to gospel my but some [there] are who ταρασσοντες υμας και θελοντες μεταστρεψαι ⊤υμας ?
trouble you and want to change you 8 ⌜εις ετερον ευαγγελιον του Χριστου [6] αλλα και εαν unto [a] different gospel of Christ but even if ▫ ημεις ηˋ ? αγγελος εξ ουρανου αλλως ευαγγελιση– we or [an] angel from heaven another gospel-proclaims

---

[1] Gal.1:1 (Tert.,AM V.1) : apostolum ...non ab hominibus nec [or*, neque*] per hominem, sed per Iesum Christum.

[2] Gal.1:1b ▫και θεου πατροςˋ Origen (by Hieronymus , Commentary to Galatians): "...in Marcion's Apostolikon not written is "and by God the Father" (et per Deum patrem) in order to expound, that Christ was not by God the Father, but of his own self awakened (semetipsum suscitatum)".

[3] Gal.1:6 (Tert, AM V.2): miror quod tam cito transferri ab eo, qui vos vocavit in gratiam, ad aliud evangelium.; Dial I.6.11-13 (Rufin): supplied in paranthesis: (Miror quod sic tam cito transferimini in aluid evangelium), w/ no parallel in Gk. txt. | ⌜χαριν ⊤αυτου cf. Ephr^{Molitor} (Der Paulustext, p.72): ... απο του καλεσαντος υμας εις την χαριν αυτου ; sy^{p} ܒܛܝܒܘܬܐ = εν χαριν αυτου ; Harnack/Zahn ⌜χαριτι ; Manen: εις (την) χαριν for εν (την) χαριτι

[4] Gal.1:7a (Tert, AM V.2): quod aliud omnio non est.; (Meg.)Dial.I.6.11-13: ˢουκ εστιν αλλο; Rufin: quod non est aliud . | Manen: ▫ αλλως παντωςˋ = ο ουχ εστιν sy^{p}

[5] Gal 1:7b (Meg.)Dial.I.6.11-13: ουκ εστιν αλλο κατα το ευαγγελιον μου… ; (Chrysostom, On the Epistle to the Galatians, in his discussion of Gal.1:7):"[the marcionites'] explanation of the words, "according to my Gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ," is sufficiently ridiculous...".

[6] Gal 1:7c (Meg.)Dial.I.6.11-13: (ουκ εστιν αλλο κατα το ευαγγελιον μου) ει μη τινες εισιν οι ταρασσοντες υμας και θελοντες μεταστρεψαι εις ετερον ευαγγελιον του Κριστου |cf. Ephr^{Molitor} (Der Paulustext, p.72): θελοντες μεταστρεψαι υμας το ευαγγελιον του Κριστου [who would change you.." , and n.12 : + υμαζ = sy^{p} gg arm .

ται υμιν ⊤παρ ο ευηγγελισαμεθα υμιν` ? αναθεμα εστω.[7] to you against that proclaimed to you accursed be.

9 [και παλιν λεγω?] ει τις υμας °αλλως ευαγγελισεται and again I say if anyone to you another gospel-proclaims ▫παρ ο ευηγγελισαμεθα υμιν` αναθεμα εστω.[8] against what we proclaimed to you accursed be

15a (1:9 - 1:14) [οτε δε ευδοκησεν ο θεος ο αφορισας με be. when but was-pleased the God who separated me εκ κοιλιας μητρος μου ?] [9] (1:15b - 1:16a)

from (the) womb mother my 16b [ου προσανεθεμην σαρκι και αιματι ?] [10] (1:17- 1:24) not I conferred (with) flesh and blood.

2:1 δια δεκατεσσαρων ετων ανεβην εις Ιεροσολυμα after fourteen years ascended-I unto Jerusalem

2 και ανεθεμην αυτοις το ⊤κανονος του` ευαγγελιον . . .
and set before them the canon of the Gospel

3 μη πως εις κενον τρεχω η εδραμον .[11] αλλ ουδε Τιτος lest-somehow to vain I should be running or had run. But not-even Titus ο συν εμοι Ελλην ων ηναγκασθη περιτμηθηναι who with me [a]Greek being was-compelled to-be-circumcised.

4 δια τους παρεισακτους ψευδαδελφους οιτινες Because [of] those brought in secretly pseudo-brethren who παρεισηλθον κατασκοπησαι την ελευθεριαν ημων ην arrived-undercover to spy out the freedom our which εχομεν εν Χριστω ινα ημας καταδουλωσουσιν we-have in Christ that us they might enslave

---

[7] Gal.1:8 (Tert., AM V.2), twice: (a) licet angelus de caelo aliter evangelizauerit, anathema sit. (variant repeated in Tert. against Apelles, ch. 7, On the Flesh of Christ); (b) sed et si nos aut angelus de caelo aliter evangelizauerit.; cf. also NHL (Test.Truth IX, 3, 73.19-20)."They say [even if] an [angel] comes from heaven, and preaches to you beyond that which we preached to you, may he be anathema!" ; (Meg.)Dial.I.6.18-20: αλλα καν ημεις η αγγελος εξ ουρανου ευαγγελισηται υμιν παρ ο ευηγγελισαμεθα (Rufin): Sed et si nos... aut angelus de coelo evangelizaurit vobis praeterquam quod evangelizavimus vobis, anathema sit ; ⊤παρ ο ευ– ... ` text here questionable in view of Tert.'s earlier testimony.

[8] Gal 1:9? (Meg.)Dial.I.6.7/8 (Rufin) ...secundum euangelium meum...Et iterum dicit ["and a second time (or, again?) he says"] Si uobis quis aliter euangelizauerit, anathema sit. Rufin.'s testimony may indicate 1:9, if iterum actually meant "a second time" -but if "again", then 1:8 might have been intended ; less certain is the Gk. parallel: (κατα το ευαγγελιον μου, 1:7) . . . ιδε πως λεγει εν ειναι. και λεγει ει τιφ υμας ευαγγελισεται παρ ο ευηγγελισαμεθα υμιν, αναθεμα εστω., w/o αλλως but adding παρ ο ευηγ–..., omitted by Rufin.

[9] Gal 1:15 (Ad.)Dial.IV.15.25/26: οτε δε ευδοκησεν ο θεος ο αφορισας με εχ κοιλιας μητρος μου. Though contained in Harnack's reconstruction, this is entirely uncertain due to the section of Dial.IV where it occurs. cf. NHL , Apoc.Paul, V,2,18.15; V,2,23.1-5.

[10] Gal.1:16 Harnack (Beilage III, p 69-70): "According to Hieronymus, Comm.in Gal., has "the most part" [plerique] and also Porphyrius, of the words, (ου προσανεθεμην) σαρκι και αιματι ["(I conferred not) with flesh and blood"].

[11] Gal.2:1 (Tert., AM V.3) But with regard to Peter and the rest of the apostles, he tells us that : (2:1) ascendisse Hierosolyma post annos quattuordecim ...(2:2*)conferret cum illis de evangelii sui regula, ne in vacuum annis cucurrisset aut curret*...".

5 ουδε προφ ωραν ειξαμεν τη υποταγη [12] (2:6 - 2:8)
not for an hour did we yield in-subjection

9 δεξιας εδωκαν εμοι Πετρος και Ιακωβος και Ιωαννης [ they gave [the] right to me Peter and James and John those δοκουντες στυλοι ειναι] ινα εγω εις τα εθνη αυτοι δε εις reputed pillars to be that I unto the nations they but unto 10 την περιτομην . μονον των πτωχων ινα μνημονευωμεν [13]

the circumcision. only the destitute that we should remember

11 Πετρος . . .κατα προσωπον αυτω αντεστην οτι κατεγνωσ–
Peter to the face [of] him I withstood because he-was-to-blame

12 μενος .[προ του γαρ ελθειν ¤τινας απο` ? Ιακωβον, μετα before that For came certain from James with των εθνων] συνησθιεν [οτε δε ⌜ηλθεν υπεστελλεν. . .]

the nations he-was-eating when but he-came he - withdrew 14 φοβουμενος τους εκ περιτομης .(2:13) ουκ ορθοποδουσιν being afraid of those of [the] circumcision not- uprightly-they-walk

16 προς την αληθειαν του ευαγγελιου.[14] (2:15) ου δικαιουται for the truth of the gospel not is-justified ανθρωπος εξ εργων νομου εαν μη δια πιστεως [15] man from works of law but by faith

18 ει γαρ α κατελυσα ταυτα παλιν οικοδομω [16] (2:19)
if for what I-cast-down these things again I build

20 ο δε νυν ζω εν σαρκι εν πιστει ζω τη του υιου του θεου that but now I live in flesh in faith I-live that of the Son of-the God

3:1 του ⌜αγορασαντος με . [17] [Ω ανοητοι Γαλαται τις υμας who ransomed me. O insensitive Galatians who you εβασκανεν.] [18] [οις κατ οφθαλμους Ιησους Χριστος fascinated ? Whose before eyes Jesus Christ

---

[12] Gal.2:3-5 (Tert., V.3): sed nec Titus, qui mecum erat, cum esset Graecus, coactus est circumcidi), (4) Ergo propter falsos, in superinducticios fratres, qui subintrauerant speculandam libertatem nostram, quam habemus in Christo. ut nos in subigerent seruituti, (5) nec ad horam cessimus subiectioni.

[13] Gal.2:9b-10 (Tert. AM, V.3):...quod et dexteras Paulo dederunt Petrus et Iacobus et Iohannes et de officii distributione pepigerunt, ut Paulus in nationes,illi in circumcisionem, tantum ut meminissent egenorum.

[14] Gal.2:11-12,14 (Tert., AM V.3): Sed reprehendit Petrum non recto pede incedentem ad evangelii. Plain reprehendit, non ob aliud tamen quam ob inconstantiam uictus,(2:12) quem pro personarum qualitate variabat, "timens eos qui erant ex circumcisione"...de qua et aliis in faciem restitus .cf. Gal.5:12 , Hieronymus (Zahn, p503): Secretly, they say, Peter lacerated (lacerat), of whom previously he wrote "to the face resisted"; | 2:12, ¤ τινας...` , van Manen: προ του γαρ ελθειν Ιαχωβε. . . .; (12b) ⌜ηλθεν ("he came") w/ ηλθον ("they came").

[15] Gal.2:16 (Tert. AM V.3): negan ex operibus legis iustificari hominem sed ex fide.

[16] Gal.2:18 (Tert.AM V.3): merito non reaedificabat quae destruxit.

[17] Gal 2:20 (Ad.)Dial.V.22.13-15 : Rufinus: Quod autem nunc uiuo in carne in fide uiuo Filii Dei, qui redemit me. But the Gk.: ο δε νυν ζω εν σαρκι εν πιστει ζω τη του υιου του θεου του ⌜αγαπησαντος με . (...who loved me).

[18] Gal.3:1a:(Tert.,Prescript.Haer.27)- O insensati Galatae, quis vos fascinavit? - with Marcion addressed in the context of that discussion.

2 προεγραφη εσταυρωμενος]. [19] [τουτο μονον θελω was-openly-portrayed crucified ? This only I wish

11 μαθειν. . . ?] [20] (3:3 - 3:5) [□3:6 - 3:9] [21] Μαθετε οτι δικαιος to learn Learn that the just 10 εκ πιστεως ζησεται . Οσοι γαρ υπο νομον υπο καταραν from faith shall live. as-many for under law under curse

12 εισιν . [22] ο δε ποιησας αυτα ζησεται εν αυτοις . [23]
are. the[one] but who-did these-things shall-live in them.

13 Χριστος ημας εξηγορασεν [24] εκ της καταρας του νομου Christ us ransomed from the curse of the law γενομενος επι υπερ ημων καταρα [25] οτι γεγραπται having-become for us [a] curse that as-was-written

14 επικαταρατος πας ο κρεμαμενος ξυλου .[26] ελαβομεν Accursed all who suspends upon [a] tree we might receive ουν την ευλογια του πνευματος δια της πιστεως . [27]

thus the blessing of the spirit by the faith

26 [□ 3:15b - 3:25] παντες γαρ υιοι εστε της πιστεως. [28]
all for sons are of the faith

28 . . .ουκ ενι αρνερ ουδε θηλυ . . .[29] (3:29-4:2) not there is male nor female

---

[19] Gal.3:1b Gal.3:1 Hieronymus (Origien) VII, 4.18 (Zahn, Geschichte, p499): "to προεγραφε which he covers on the prediction of the OT" : Interrogemus ergo hoc loco Marcionem, qui prophetas repudiat, quomodo interpretetur id quod sequitur ("Thus we may question this place with Marcion, who repudiated the prophets, how he interpreted it as far as this") - namely, 3:1". pr oegr af e="openly-portayed", or "set-forth" -- construed by both Zahn and Harnack as attesting to at least the presence of this passage in Marcion's text (cf. Harnack, Marcion, p.*72).

[20] Gal.3:2 cf. μαθειν w. Μαθετε in Gal.3:10.

[21] Gal.3:6-9 MISSING! Hieronymus (Origen) "From this place (Gal.3:6) up till this, where it is written "they who are of faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham" , Marcion has erased from his Apostle".

[22] Gal 3:10 (Epiphanius, Adv.Haer.42): Μαθετε διοτι δικαιος εκ πιστεως ζησεται ... οσοι γαρ υπο νομον, υπο καταραν εισιν ; cf. Ep.Barn.6: "Learn trust" she says..."- alluded (or influenced) from Marcion's text?

Gal 3:10b (Tert, AM V.3) : quia iustus ex fide vivit.

[23] Gal 3:12b (Epip., Adv.Haer.42): ο δε ποιησας αυτα ζησεται εν αυτοις

[24] Gal 3:13a (Meg.)Dial.I.27.12 : Κριστος ημας εξηγορασε ; (Rufin.): Christus nos redemit.; Hieron.(Harnack, Beil.III, p73): "In this place Marcion concerning the power of the [cruel] creator...claimed we were ransomed by Christ (nos redemptos esse per Christum), who was the son of the other, good God.

[25] Gal.3:13b, Tert.(AM V.3): cur autem Christus factus sit pro nobis maledictio...

[26] Gal.3:13c(Tert., AM V.3): maledictus omnis ligno suspensus.

(Epip.,Adv.Haer. 42): Επικαταρατος πας ο κρεμαμενος επι ξυλου.

[27] Gal.3:14b (Tert., AM V.3): accipiamus igitur benedictionem spiritalem per fidem **.

[28] Gal.3:26b (Ter., AM V.3): omnes enim filii estis fidei . But Harnack (Beil.III, p.51-52, 73) proposes that Tert.'s reading filii fidei ("sons of faith") is a common Latin dittographie, which should read filii dei ("sons of God").

[29] Gal. 3:28(Eznik, De Deo s.413.288): But, it is by reason of a greatest love of God, that of the good creatures of God they [marcionites] renounce; so that, to become equal to the Angels of God, where there is neither male nor female , they show, likewise on earth, this same perfection... |cf. NHL, Trip.Tract.I,5,132.

20-25, which is perhaps more a citation of Col.3:11.

3:15a Ετι κατα ανθρωπον λεγω . οτε ημεν νηπιοι υπο τα Yet as [a] man I speak . when we were infants under the 4:3 στοιχεια του κοσμου ημεθα δεδουλωμενοι . [30] οτε δε elements of the cosmos we were held in slavery when but

4 ηλθεν το πληρωμα του χρονου εξαπεστειλεν ο θεος τον arrived the fullness of the time sent-forth the God the 5 υιον αυτου . [31] ινα τους υπο νομον εξαγοραση και ινα Son His that those under law he-might-ransom and that 6 την υιοθεσιαν απολαβωμεν . [32] οτι δε εστε υιοι the adoption we-might-receive. because- but ye are sons εξαπεστειλεν ο θεος το πνευμα του υιου αυτου εις τας sent - forth the God the spirit of-the Son [of] His into the καρδιας υμων κραζον Αββα ο Πατηρ [33] (4:7) hearts your crying Abba Father.

9a Ει ουν [γνοντες Θεον μαλλον δε γνωσθεντας υπερ Θεου]
Yet thus having-known God rather but having been known by God

8b τοις εν τη φυσει ουσιν θεοις δουλευετε . πωφ επιστρε those in nature are gods ye serve. How do ye turn 9b φετε παλιν επι τα ασθενη και πτωχα στοιχεια . ημερας again to the weak and beggarly elements ? Days

10 παρατηρεισθε και μηνας και καιρους και ενιαυτους [34] ye-observe and months and times and years

⊤και σαββατα ως οιμαι και δειπνα καθαρα και νηστειας and sabbaths as I-suppose and suppers meagre and fasts

19a και ημερας μεγαλας .` ? [35] τεκνια μου ους ωδινω παλιν [36] and days great little-children my of whom I travail again

21 Λεγετε μοι οι υπο νομον θελοντες ειναι τον νομον ουκ
Tell me ye-who under law wish to be . the law not

22 ακουετε . γεγραπται γαρ οτι Αβρααμ δυο υιους εσχεν do-ye-hear ? It was written for that Abraham two sons had 23 ενα εκ της παιδισκης και ενα εκ της ελευθερας . αλλ one from the slave-maid and one from the free [woman] but

---

[30] Gal.3:15/Gal.4:3 (Tert.,AM V.4):secundum hominem dico: dum essemus parvuli, sub elementis mundi eramus positi ad deseruiendum eis.

[31] Gal.4:4 (Tert, AM V.4): cum autem evenit impleri tempus, misit Deus Filium suum. Missing : "made of a woman", according to Hieron., Gal4:4 (p431, Zahn) : Diligenter adtendite, quod non dixit "factum per mulierem", quod Marcion et ceterae haereses volunt, qui putativam Christi carnem simulant, sed "ex muliere" ut non per illam, sed ex illa natus esse credatur.

[32] Gal.4:5a (Tert., AM V.4): ut eos qui sub lege erant redimeret. Gal 4:5b (Eph.1:5?) Dial.II.19.21 (Markus): oti eij uioqesian elhfqhmen, to adoption we were called.

[33] Gal.4:6 (Tert., AM V.4): misit spiritum suum in corda nostra clamantem: Abba Pater.

[34] Gal.4:8-10(Tert. AM V.4): (8) si ergo his, qui in natura sunt dei, servitis...(9b) ad infirma et mendica elementa... (10) dies observatis et menses et tempora et annos. (An allusion to Genesis 1:14 ?).

[35] Gal.4:10b? (Tert., AM V.4):"...et sabbati ut opinor et coenas puras et ieiunia et dies magnos"; as proposed by van Manen ("Marcions Brief van Paulus ann de Galatiers", Theologisch.tijdschrift , vol.21, p.531).

[36] Gal 4:19 (Tert. AM V.8):filii mei, quos parturio rursus .

ο μεν εκ της παιδισκης κατα σαρκα γεγεννηται ο δε εκ the one from the slave-maid according-to flesh has been born he but from 24 της ελευθερας δια της επαγγελιας .[37] ατινα εστιν αλληγο– the free[woman] by the promise which-things are allegorized ουμενα αυται γαρ εισιν δυο ⌜επιδειξειξ μια μεν απο these for are two manifestations one from ορους Σινα εις συναγωγην των Ιουδαιων κατα τον νομον mount Sinai unto [the] synagogue of the Jews according-to the law 26 γεννωσα εις δουλειαν ;[38] αλλη δε υπερανω πασης αρκης (that) generates unto slavery the other but above every principality γεννωσα και δυναμεως και εξουσιας και παντος ονομ– generates and power and authority and every name ατος ονομζομενου ου μονον εν τω αιωνι τουτω αλλα that is named not only in this aeon this but και εν τω μελλονται εις ην επηγγειλαμεθα αγιαν also in the coming unto [the] promise [of the] holy εκκλησιαν ητις εστιν υητηρ ημων. [39] (4:27-30 ?)
church which is Mother our .
31 Διο αδελφοι ουκ εσμεν παιδισκης τεκνα
Wherefore brethren not are we [of a] slave-maid children
5:1 αλλα της ελευθερας .[40] η ελευθερια [ουν] η Χριστος but of the free . In the freedom therefore with Christ ημας ηλευθερωσεν στηκετε και μη παλιν ζυγω us made-free stand-fast and not again a yoke 3 δουλειας ενεχεσθε .[41] Μαρτυρομαι δε παλιν οτι of slavery be held. I testify but again that

---

[37] Gal:4:22-23 (Tert.V.4), "the last mention of Abraham's name he left untouched" : (22) si enim Abraham duos liberos habuit, unum ex ancilla et alium ex libera, (23) sed qui ex ancilla carnaliter natus est, qui vero ex libera per repromissionem Gal.4:23 (Epiph.): ο δε εκ της επαγγελιας, δια της ελευθεριας **.

[38] Gal.4:24-25 (Tert., V.4): quae sunt allegorica : haec sunt enim duo testamenta (siue 'duae ostensiones'. sicut inuenimus interpretatum). unum a monte Sina in synagogam Iudaeorum secundum generans in servitutem. cf. Lao.1:21. Gal. 4:24 Hieronymus, VII.473 (Zahn, p.502):"Here Marcion and Manichaeus, where the apostle said "which is allegorical"(quae sunt allegorica) and the rest which follows, hesitate not to remove from their codices, thinking the opposite we bequeath, that it is obviously the law which is understood, what is written".

[39] Gal.4:26/Eph.1:21 (Tert.V.4): alium super omnem principatum generans uim dominationem et omne nomen quod nominatur, non tantum in hoc aeuo sed et in futuro, in quam repromisimus sanctam ecclesiam, quae est mater nostra. The insertion of Eph.1:21 at this place is also also attested with Ephraem (Comm.in Epistolas d. Paul, p.135): Hoe vero fuerunt symbola duorum testamentorum. Una populi Judaeorum secundeum legem in servitute generans ad similitudinem ejusdem Agar. Agar enim ipsa mons Sinai in Arabia; est autem illa similitudo hujas Jerusalem, quia in subjectione est, et una cum filiis suis servit Romanis. Superior autem Jerusalem libera est, sicut Sara ; et eminet supra omnes potestates ac principatus. Ipsa est Mater nostra, Ecclesia sancta, quam confessi sumus.

[40] Gal.4:31 (Tert.V.4): "by reason of which he adds in conclusion": fratres, non sumus ancillae filii, sed liberae.

[41] Gal.5:1 (Tert., AM V.4): qua libertate Christus nos manumisit,("the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free,") et merito non decebat manumissos rursus ingo servitutis, id est legis, adstringi, (And it is properly unsuitable for those set free to turn back to slavery, that being to the law, "entangled").

ανθρωπος περιτετμηομενος οφειλετης εστιν ολον τον [a] man circumcised [a] debtor he-is [the] whole [of] the 4 νομον πληρωσαι .[42] ⌉καταργειτε το σημειον της law to fullfil Exempted is he with the brand-mark of δουλειας⌉.?[43] [οιτινες εν νομω δικαιουσθε της χαριτος bondage Whosoever in law are justified, of the grace

6 εξεπεσατε?]. εν γαρ Χριστω Ιησου ουτε περιτομη τι ye have fallen. in for Christ Jesus neither circumcision any ισχυει ουτε ακροβυστια αλλα πιστις δι αγαπης is of impact nor uncircumcision but faith by love

9 ⌈επιτελειθαι ? [44] Μικρα ζυμη ολοντο φυραμα δολοι [45] is perfected A little leaven whole the lump corrupts.

10b ο δε ταρασσων υμας το κριμα βαστασει οστις αν η. [46] he but troubling you the judgment shall bear whoever he may be.

14 (5:12-13) ο γαρ πας νομος εν υμιν πεπληρουται.
the- for- whole law in you is fullfilled αγαπησεις τον πλησιον σου ως εαυτον [47] (5: 15 - 5: 18)

You shall love the neighbor as yourself.

19 φανερα δε εστιν τα εργα της σαρκος ατινα εστι πορνεια
Manifest now are the works of the flesh which are fornication

20 ακαθαρσια, ασελγεια. ειδωλολατρεια φαρμακεια εχθραι uncleanness licentiousness idolatry sorcery enmities ερεις ζηλοι θυμοι εριθειαι διχοστασιαι αιρεσεις strifes jealousies indignations contentions divisions sects

21 φθονοι μεθαι κωμοι [και τα ομοια τουτοις] α προλεγω envyings drunkenesses revels and things like these against which-before I say υμιν καθως και προειπον οτι οι τα τοιαυτα πρασσοντες to you even as also I-before-said that they-who such things do

---

[42] Gal 5: 3 (Epip.) Μαρτυρομαι δε παλιν οτι ανθρωπος περιτετμημενος οφειλετης εστιν ολον τον νομον πληρωσαι.

[43] Gal.5:4 (Tert., AM V.4*): De servitute igitur exemptos ipsam servitutis notam eradere perseverabat, circumcisionem...* ("All those, therefore, who had been exempted from the yoke of slavery he would earnestly have to obliterate the very mark of slavery, even circumcision..."). W.C.van Manen regarded Tert.'s statement here as reference to an actual passage from Marcion's version, contained in van Manen's 1888 reconstruction of Galatians ("Marcions Brief van Paulus ann de Galatiers", Theologisch.tijdschrift , vol.21, p.532).

[44] Gal.5:6a (Tert.) cur etiam praeputiationem negat quicquam valere in Christo sicut et circumcisionem? (why therefore uncircumcision if not anything availeth in Christ even as also circumcision?)
(5: 6b) illius fidei quam dicendo per dilectionem perfici - ⌈επιτελειθαι for ενεργουμενη ("worketh") ?

[45] Gal 5: 9 (Epiph.): Αντι του μικρα ζυμη ολον το φυραμα ζυμοι εποινσε δολοι Cf. Tert., AM, I.2.

[46] Gal.5:10 (Tert.) Qui autem turbat vos iudicium feret. (But the one who troubles you shall bear his judgement). (Ad.)Dial.II.5.25: ο ταρασσων υμας βαστασει το κριμα οστις αν η . Rufin.: Qui conturbat uos portabit iudicium, quicumque est ille

[47] Gal.5:14 (Tert.): tota enim, inquit, lex in vobis adimpleta est: diliges proximum tuum tamquam te. ("For all" says he, "the law in you is fulfilled by this: 'Thou shalt love thy neighhour as thyself.' ") (Epiph): Ο γαρ πας νομος υμιν πεπληρωται. αγαπησεις τον πλησιον σου ως εαυτον.

βασιλειαν Θεου ου κληρονομησουσιν [48] (5:22 - 5:23)
(the) kingdom of God not shall enjoy allotment .

24 οι δε του Χριστου την σαρκα εσταυρωσαν συν τοις they but of the Christ the flesh have crucified with the παθημασιν και ταις επιθυμιαις [49] (5:25 - 6: 1) passions and the desires

6:2 Αλληλων τα βαρη βασταζετε και ουτως αναπληρωσατε one-another's the burdens bear ye and thus fulfill

6 τον νομον του Χριστου . [50] (6:3 - 6:5) Κοινωνειτω δε ο the law of the Christ. let share but him κατηχουμενος τον λογον τω κατηχουντι εν πασιν being-taught-in the utterance him teaching in all

7 αγαθοις .[51] [Μη] πλανασθε Θεος ου μυκτηριζεται ο γαρ good. not be misled God is not derided for εαν σπειρη ανθρωπος ταυτα και θερισει [52] (6:8)

whatsover may sow [a] man that also he-shall-reap.

9 το δε καλον ποιουντες μη εκκακωμεν καιρω δε ιδιω that but well doing not we-should-lose-heart [in] time but due

10 θερισομεν . ως εχομεν καιρον εργαζωμεθα το αγαθον [53] we-shall-reap as we have occasion we-should-work the good.

12 (6:11) [Οσοι θελουσιν ευπροσωπησαι εν σαρκι ουτοι as many as want to make a fair show in flesh these αναγκαζουσιν υμας περιτεμυεσθαι] . . . ⌜ διωκτους ?

compel you to be circumcised [they are] persecutors

[τω σταυρω ?] του Χριστου . [54] of the cross of Christ

---

[48] Gal 5:19-21 (Epiph.) :Φανερα δε εστι τα εργα της σαρκος ατινα εστι πορνεια, ακαθαρσια, ασελγεια (20)ειδωλολατρια, φαρμακεια, εχθραι, ερεις, ζηλοι, θυμοι, εριθειαι, διχοστασιαι, αιρεσεις, 21) φονοι, μεθαι, κωμοι, α προλεγω υμιν, καθως και προειπον, οτι οι τα τοιαυτα πρασσοντες βασιλειαν θεου ου κληρονομησουσιν.

[49] Gal 5: 24 (Epiph.): Οι δε του Χριστου την σαρκα εσταυρωσαν συν τοις παθημασι και ταις επιθυμιαις.

[50] Gal.6:2 (Tert. AM V.4) onera vestra inuicem sustinete, et sic adimplebitis legem Christi.

[51] Gal.6:6 (Hieronymus): "Marcion so interprets this place, reckoning this should speak of the faith and catechism together, that the master communicated to his disciples, which is indeed to be the maxim carried forth, in respect to that which follows: " In all good" (In omnibus bonis)".

[52] Gal.6:7 (Tert.)Eratis, Deus non deridetur...quae enim seminaverit homo, hoc et metet.
(Ad.) Dial.II.5.30: α γαρ εαν σπειρη ανθρωπος τουτο και θερισει.
Rufin: Quodcunque seminauerit homo hoc et metet.

[53] Gal.6:8-10,(Tert.):(v8,alluded):porro si retributionem praedicat, ab eodem et corruptionis messis et vitae. (Again if he stated beforehand retribution, from the same also the harvest [or, the reaping] of corruption and life). (9) bonum autem facientes non fatigemur... tempore autem suo metemus.(10) dum habemus tempus, operemur bonum.

[54] Gal.6:12b (Tert.): persecutores vacat Christi, rebuked by Paul in 6:12-14. Cf. also "the others" in 6:17.
⌜ διωκτους for διωκωνται ? Such would seem possible if Tert.'s testimony is considered alone.

13 ουδε γαρ οι περιτετμημενοι αυτοι νομον φυλασσουσιν [55] neither for they being-circumcised themselves law keep 14b μοι κοσμος εσταυρωται καγω κοσμω [56] (6:15 - 6: 16)

[to] me world has been crucified as I world.

17 Του δε ⌜αλλων ειση κοπους μοι μηδεις παρεχεσθω. [57] the- but- others without troubles me no one let-give εγω γαρ τα στιγματα του Χριστου εν τω σωματι μου

I for the marks of the Christ in the body my βασταζω. [58] (6:18)

bear

December 28th, 2000 by Daniel J. Mahar, dmahar@snet.net .

---

[55] Gal 6: 13 (Epiph.): Ουδε γαρ οι περιτετμημενοι αυτοι νομον φυλασσουσι.

[56] Gal.6:14 (Tert.):Sed et mihi...mundus crucifixus est,...et ego mundo.

[57] Gal 6:17(Ad.)Dial.V.22.15-17 : των δ αλλων [⌜αλλων for λοιπου] ειση χοπους μοι υνδεις παρεχεσθω. εγω γαρ τα στιγματα του Ιησου εν τω σωματι μου βασταζω.
Rufin.: De caetero ["the rest"= I oi pou] nemo mihi molestus sit. Ego enim stigmata domini nostri Iesu Christi in corpore meo porto.

[58] Gal.6:17b (Tert.) cum vero adicit stigmata Christi in corpore suo gestare se.

English Reconstruction and Translation of Marcion's version of To The Galatians

by Daniel Jon Mahar

Abbreviations are provided in the right margin to indicate the Patristic sources for passages, a system borrowed from Paul-Louis Couchoud which he utilised for his translation of Marcion's gospel (The Creation of Christ, p.318ff, Watts& Company, 1939).
The abbreviations which occur most often:

T.- Tertullian, Adversus Marcionem, Bk.V.
E. - Epiphanius, Adversus Haeresies, Section.42.
A.- Adamantius, Dialog (Parts I, II, V).
Rufin - The Latin version of Adamantius.
O. - Origen
Hier.- Hieronymus, cited from the notes of Zahn/Harnack in their reconstructions.

In the left hand margin, SyP = variant reading from the Syriac Peshitta.

This translation was generated from the Greek-English Interlinear of the reconstruction. Some notes of possible interest are provided. The English translation itself is admittedly conjectural in places, as also are the notes.

One such creative liberty is the name for the Marcionite Savior, "Isu Chrestos" - "Isu" derived on the designation of Syrian Marcionites, the spelling for "Chrestos" (=the Good one) derived from an ancient inscription to a Marcionite synagogue.

TO THE GALATIANS [1]

Prologue

Galatians are Greeks. These accepted the word of truth first from the Apostle, but after his departure were tempted by false Apostles to turn to the law and circumcision. These the Apostle recalls to the faith of the truth, writing to them from Ephesus.

	1:1	Paul an apostle,
		not of men nor through man,	T
		but through Isu Chrestos,	T
		who awakened himself from the dead; [2]	(Hier.)
	2b	To the assemblies of Galatia :
	3	Goodness to you and peace from God our Father and Lord Isu Chrestos,
	4	Who gave himself for our sins,
		so that he might rescue us
Syp		from this wicked Destiny, [3]
		according to the pleasure of God our Father.
	6	I marvel that you are so quickly transferred	T
		from Him Who called you in His goodness	T unto a different gospel:	T

[1] Set first in Marcion's canon, Galatians contains ideas central to Marcion's theology, i.e., of Gospel vs. Law, of a true Apostle (Paul) vs. "false" apostles (Peter , James and John). This was proabaly the first pauline writing to which Marcion was exposed in his native Pontus . The first bishop of that region, Philologus (cf. Rom.15:15) - possibly Marcion's father - was reported to have been a personal friend of Paul's (p.vii, The Gospel of the Lord, James Hamlyn Hill).

[2] Christ raised himself from the dead, the first of many such modalistic expressions present in Marcion's text.

[3] Gal 1:4 "that he might deliver (or, extract) us from this present evil aeon": Joseph Turmel (Ecrits, vol. III, p.82ff) sites the strong marcionite tendency underlying this passage, suggesting this was originally a marcionite redaction, yet without the "present aeon" (being a later catholic addition) to read: "that he might extract us from the Evil", or the "Evil one"(cf. Jn.17:15 Eph.6:13). The word "present" indeed stands unattested in the Syriac Peshitta text, but the suggestion that "aeon" is a later insertion is unneccessary if interpreted as a representation of the creator god as was by marcionites with 2Cor.4:4, Eph.2:2, rather than a literal "age". Turmel refers to Tertullian twice, AM I.23 ("Such a deliverer...kidnapper...is the character of Marcion's God, swooping upon an alien world, snatching away man from his God...") and AM I.25 : "...the good God, in coming to combat sin and death, is of neccessity indisposed against the creator God who is sovereign lord of sin and death, accordingly more so that the good God came to deliver man from the creator God. Thus the marcionite Christ came...to "extract" them...He is given "for our sins" because he delivered us from the death to which the Evil one had condemned us because of our sins..." (Turmel, ibid).

	7	Which is not entirely another	T/A according to my gospel ;	A/O/Chrys.
		but there are some who trouble you	A Ephr.		and would change (you)	A unto a different gospel of Chrestos. [4]	A 8	But even if an angel out of heaven	T should announce another gospel [to you],	T
		let him be accursed!	T
SyP	9	As I said before, so I say now again,
		If any one announces another gospel to you	A(Rufin.)
		let him be accursed.	A(Rufin.)
	11	I make known to you, brethren, the gospel -
		that gospel announced by me, that it is not according to man.
	12	For I neither from a man received it, nor was I taught,
		but by revelation of Isu Chrestos.
		(1:13 - 1:14)
	15	But when the Supreme God	A.
		was well-pleased,	A
		having selected me	A
		from my mother's womb, [5]	A and having called me by His goodness,

[4] Gal 1:7 Origen, (Comm. in John, V.): " ...[When] the Apostle says: "According to my Gospel in Christ Jesus;" he does not speak of Gospels in the plural...".
Gal.1:7b, "and would change you unto a different gospel..." cf. Ephrem's text and Dialogues : (Der Paulustext, Molitor, p.72): You" in Ephr.'s text was the object of the "changing" or "perverting", not the gospel.

[5] Gal.1:13-14 - Tertullian (AM V.1): "Even the book of Genesis promised me the apostle Paul...that Paul would arise out of the tribe of Benjamen, a voracious wolf...as a persecutor of the churches". But Tert. continues: "Should you disapprove of these types, the Acts of the Apostles...have handed me this career of Paul, which you should not refuse to accept. Thence I demonstrate that from a persecutor he became an apostle...thence do I find reason for rejecting your defence of him". Herein lies a possible implication that Marcion may not have accepted the portrayal of Paul as a former "persecutor" of the churches, a point which Tertullian is preoccupied to emphasize especially. Marcion either rejected or did not know the book of Acts, at least in the orthodox form which has come down to us. An interesting proposal was set forth by P.L. Couchoud and R.Stahl that Acts was the result of 2 authors, the premier edition consisting of the travels of Paul, occurring mostly in the 2nd half of the book - and the second edition, being the work of an orthodox redactor, who added the material about the 12 apostles (see "Les Deux Auteurs des Actes des Apotres", Premier Ecrits du Christianisme). A common theory is that the epistle to Galatians underwent orthodox re-editing to comply it to the history in Acts.

16	to reveal his Son in me, in order that I might proclaim him among the nations, immediately I did not confer
	with flesh and blood.	Hier.
17	Neither went I up into Jerusalem to those who were before me apostles;
	but I went into Arabia,
	and again returned into Damascus.

(1:18 - 1:20)

21	Afterwards I came into the regions of Syria and of Cilicia.
2:1	After fourteen years	T
	I went up to Jerusalem;	T
2	But I went according to revelation, and I set before them	T
	the canon of the gospel	T
	but apart to those of repute, fearing that I should go or had gone	(T)
	for nothing. [6]	(T)
3	But not even Titus,	T
	who was with me,	T
	being a Greek,	T
	was compelled to be circumcised:	T
4	But because of those who crept in	T
	to spy out this liberty of ours	T which we enjoy in Chrestos,	T
	so that they might enslave us -	T
5	To these not even for an hour	T
	we yielded in subjection,
	That the truth of the gospel might continue with you.

[6] Gal.2:2 Couchoud's rendering: Do I run, or have I run in vain? - not a statement of self -doubt by Paul insofar as his own ministry was concerned, but concerning the coarse of action he was pursuing in going to the Jerusalem apostles- would they be receptive to Paul's gospel? Or would Paul be wasting his time?

6	But from those reputed to be something - those of repute conferred nothing to me.
7a	But against them, when they had seen that I was entrusted the gospel of the uncircumcision, 9b	Peter, James and John , [7]	(T) Hier.
	who regard themselves pillars,	(T)
	gave to me the right of fellowship:	(T)
	- to me the nations
	- to them the circumcision! [8]
10	Only they would have it that I should remember the poor;
	which I had been cautious to do.
11	Now when Peter came to Antioch
	I confronted him to the face,	T
	because he was to be blamed.	(T)
12	Prior to certain ones coming from James,
	he was eating with the nations;
	But when they came,
	He withdrew and segregated himself,
	being afraid of those of the circumcision.	T
14	When I saw they walked not honestly	T
	according to the truth of the gospel,	T
	I said to Peter before all,
	If you, being a Jew, live like the nations,
	Why do you urge the nations to be judaizing?
16	A man is not justified	T
	by the works of the law,	T
	but by the faith.	T

[7] Gal.2:9b-10 Hieronymous/ Ambrosiaster/Victorinus and some Greek texts (D,G) all attest to the order of the names, "Peter, James and John" (Zahn, Geschichte, p.499). Such a reading strongly suggests James, (of the triad "Peter, James and John" which appears throughout the synoptic gospels), the brother of John, who together comprise "the sons of thunder"; one legend has it that when James was executed by Herod in Acts 12, John was executed along with him. (see Enigma of the Fourth Gospel, chaps.15-16,pp.64f; Eisler). If this John was the actual writer of Revelation, then Revelation (at least in a more primitive form) dates back much earlier than assumed.

[8] Following Couchoud (The Creation of Christ, v.I, p.53), the sarcastic tone of 2:9b is in keeping with the sense of the context (2:6, "those reputed to be something", 2:9 those "who consider themselves pillars"), in which there is little justification for switching to a concilatory tone as so oft construed, so that Paul was solemnly bestowed the right hand of the Church. Note : "those reputed (δοκουντων) to be something"(v.6) = those reputed (δοκουντες) to be pillars (v.9, Peter, James, and John), "conferred nothing to me," aside from the empty gesture of the "hand of fellowship" .

	17	But if seeking to be made upright in Chrestos
		we were actually discovered to be sinners, is even Chrestos sin s servant?
		May it not be!
	18	Because if I build again those things	T
		which I overthrew, [9]	T
		I prove myself to be a law-breaker.
Conj.	19	For myself, by His law to the law I died, [10]
		so for God I may be living.
	20	With Chrestos I was crucified.
		I live but it is no longer I living but Chrestos [s life] with me.
		That life which I now live in the flesh	A
		I live by the faith of the Son of God,	A who ransomed himself for me. [11]	A 3:1	O senseless Galatians -	(T)
		who bewitched you ?	(T)
		[Was it by one ?] before whose eyes
		Isu Chrestos was crucified in plain view? [12]	(Hier.)
	2	This only I wish to learn of you :
		Received ye the spirit by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?
	3	Are ye so mindless?
		Having begun with spirit within,
		now ye are being perfected by flesh?
	4	Did ye suffer so much for nothing?
		Because certainly, it is for nothing! [13]

[9] Gal.2:18 "[those things] which I pulled down" -what were those things which Paul "destroyed"? The church? -a very tempting possibility, which would resolve the question of authenticity concerning the portrayal of Paul as "persecutor of the churches" in Gal.2:13. Or may those things overthrown represent the OT law and it's commandments, replaced by the "law of Christ" (Gal.2:19; 6:2; Lao.2:15)?

[10] Gal.2:19 - "by [His] law to the [OT] law" = "the law of Christ" (Gal.6:2). cf. Lao.2:15; Col.2:14 (SyP.).

[11] Gal 2:20 Christ "gave himself" as the ransom-price- a doctrinal keystone with Marcion. Eznik (Against Sects): " [Jesus] took Paul and revealed to him the victory, and sent him to preach, that we were bought with a price, and that all who believes on Jesus, were sold by the Just [God] to the Good [God]".He bought us evidently as strangers, for no one ever purchases those who belong to him".

[12] Gal.3:1b Hieronymous VII,4:18 (Zahn, Geschichte, p499): "to προεγραφε which he covers on the prediction of the OT: "Interrogemus ergo hoc loco Marcionem, qui prophetas repudiat, quomodo interpretetur id quod sequitur", namely, 3:1". προεγραφε = interpretetur, "openly-portayed", or "set-forth".conjectural reading: "by those[or by one] whose before whose eyes" are those who saw Christ crucified" = the Jerusalem apostles.

[13] Gal.3:6-9: Hieronymus VII,4:22 (Zahn, Geschichte, p.499 "From this place all the way up to where it is written "they which are of the faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham" (v.9), Marcion erased from his apostle...". Tert., AM V.3: "...it becomes clear that what the heretic's industry erased was the mention of Abraham's name..." [thus missing was 3:6, 8, 9,14a, 16, 18, 29]; (AM V.4): "the last mention of 10-12	Learn that the righteous by faith	E.T.

	shall live. [14]	E/T
	All those under the Law	E
	are under a curse;	E
	and the one doing those things	E
	lives in them.	E
13a	The Chrestos ransomed us [15]	A/(Hier.)
	from the curse of the law
	being made a curse for us;	(T)
13b	For as it has been written:
	"Cursed is every one that hangeth	T/E on a tree".	T/E
14b	We receive therefore the blessing	T
	of the Spirit through faith,	T
26	For all, you are sons of God	T by the faith. [16]

(Gal. 3:27 -28)

Abraham's name [4:22] he has left untouched".

[14] Gal 3:11 Note the train of thought with 3:2 ,"This only I wish to learn of you", and 3:10, "Learn that (etc.).
the righteous by faith shall live". Tert, AM V.3 : quia iustus ex fide vivit (the just out of faith shall live).

[15] Gal 3:13a Hieronymus: (Harnack, Beil.III, p73): "In this place Marcion concerning the power of the [cruel] creator...claimed we were ransomed by Christ (nos redemptos esse per Christum), who was the son of the other, good God.

[16] Gal.3:10-26 - On the "blessing of the spirit", Couchoud (Le Premier Edition de Saint Paul) writes: "The thought is clear. The Christ, hung at the tree and becoming an accursed object, took on the glory of the ancient curse. Immediately we arrive to a blessing which does not apply to the flesh but to the spirit, for in it consists of becoming spiritual sons of God...The [orthodox] edition brings into this passage the blessing given to Abraham (3:6-9).Then it attenuates, in the first line "all those who are under the law" with "all those who are under the curse of the law". Then it disassociates "the blessing" and "the spirit". The blessing becomes the one given to Abraham; the spirit becomes the Holy Ghost which descent is reported in Acts. Finally the theme of the blessing to Abraham is developed in eleven verses, to the conclusion."
Gal.3:21-28 - J.Turmel (Ecrits de St.Paul, v.III,p87) thought to see an incompatibility between those passages concerning"the blessing of Abraham" (3:6-9,14,15-18) and those where the Law served as a "pedagogue"(3:21-28) until the coming of faith, in that the conditions for becoming "sons of God" and "sons of Abraham" differed from one another: with one, the terms are based upon the blessing and promise made to Abraham's posterity in Genesis, while with the other, by virtue of a "faith to come" escorted by the accompaniment of transgression and Law. In fact, both lines of thought concerning the "blessing of Abraham" and the portrayal of the law as "pedagogue" seem to interrupt the clear train of those lines known to have stood with Marcion.
The pedagogual law passages may be a catholic expansion specifically designed to defuse the harsh "curse of the law" and the "elements of the cosmos"(4:3f) passages, to establish against Marcion the providence of the OT Law. It is tempting to believe that Marcion would have found much to use with 3:19 where the law is given by angels, but there's no indication that he even knew this, and again, 3:19 would interrupt the order of 3:10-12/13/14b/26. The orthodox insertion of the law given by angels (which shares a parallel in Heb.2:2 - the same redactor?) was originally intended in a positive sense, to convey that the law was only imperfect in the manner in which it was delivered and prescribed, via means of angelic overseers. Needless to say, this catholic interpolation backfired somewhat when the gnostics got a hold of it .

4: 3	As a man I say,	T
	when we were barely-born,	T
	we were enslaved	T
	under the elements of the cosmos. [17]	T
4	But when the fulness of the time came,	T
	God sent forth his Son, [18]	T/(Hier.)
5	That he might purchase those under law,	T and that we may receive adoption.	(A) 6	God sent forth the Spirit of his Son	T into your hearts, crying,	T
	"Abba, Father". [19]	T
8	How is it then, when ye knew not God, (T)
	you served those which are nature- gods,	T
9b	that ye turn again to the weak and beggarly elements,	T
	for which ye lust to slave again anew ?
10	Ye observe days and months and times	T
	and years. [20]	T

[17] Gal.3:15/Gal.4:3 (Tert.,AM V.4):secundum hominem dico: dum essemus parvuli, sub elementis mundi eramus positi ad deseruiendum eis. A natural opening to this section of chapter 4 , w/o vv.1-2.
The "Elements of the cosmos": In reference to angelic beings, evil "matter", or "rules". see next page.

[18] Gal.4:4 (Tert, AM V.4): cum autem evenit impleri tempus, misit Deus Filium suum.
Missing : "made of a woman", according to Hieronymus, Gal4:4 (p431, Zahn) : Diligenter adtendite, quod non dixit "factum per mulierem", quod Marcion et ceterae haereses volunt, qui putativam Christi carnem simulant, sed "ex muliere" ut non per illam, sed ex illa natus esse credatur.

[19] Gal.4:6 (Tert., AM V.4): misit spiritum suum in corda nostra clamantem: Abba Pater.

[20] Gal.4:8-10 An allusion to Genesis 1:14? -(proposed by David Anderson).

Gal.4:3-9, THE ELEMENTS OF THE COSMOS (στοιχηεαι του κοσμου) : How did Marcion Interpret this ? Possible interpretations:

a) elements = spirit beings: in both pagan and Jewish cosmologies the forces of nature were in some manner deified;
while asserted by some scholars that Gal.4:1ff is concerned only with former pagans, sufficient evidence exists via the OT peudepigrapha concerning angelic forces which govern natural forces to support including adherents of a Jewish background into the scope of Paul's discussion as well. In Jubilees (2:1f) we read of "the angels of the spirit of fire..of the wind...of the clouds of darkness...of hail and hoarfrost...of the abysses...of thunder and lightning", etc.; I Enoch 59:15,20-23, "the spirit of the sea...of the frost...of hail...of snow...of mist...of dew...of rain...". From II Enoch (16:7): "..and spirits, and elements, and flying angels" (also 12:1;15:1; 19:3; 23). Test. of Sol. (8:2):"We are heavenly elements (esmen stoicheia), rulers of this world of darkness". see p.969-70, n.8a. in O.T.Pseudepigrapha, v.1, Charlesworth. II Enoch (prologue): "...of the incorporal hosts, and of the ineffable ministrations of the multitude of the elements...". Hymn I (Qumran scrolls): "Thou hast created all the spirits and hast established a statute and law for all their works...the mighty winds...the stars...the clouds...the thunderbolts and lightnings...treasuries of snow and hail...". This concept of elements may also apply to the 7 angels in Rev.16, exercising God's wrath "upon the earth"(v2), "the sea" (v3), "the rivers and fountains of waters" (v4), "the sun...(v8), "the air" (v17) "thunders, and lightnings, and a great earthquake" (v18), "great hailstones out of heaven"; also "the angel of waters" (v5). This account in John's Revelation may be all the more pertinent if this circulated in a primitive redaction at the time Paul wrote Galatians, raising the possibility that he was replying to this work ; thus his warning against "another gospel", if even from "an angel from heaven"(Gal.1:6-8), precisely

11 I am afraid of you, lest somehow for nothing
I have laboured for you.
19 My children, (T)
of whom I travail in birth again (T) until Chrestos be formed in you - 21 Tell me, ye who desire to be under law:
do ye not hear the law?

---

the source of John's revelation (Rev.1:1;22:8). Note Jesus' rebuke of James and John ("the sons of thunder", so aptly named) in Lk.9:54-55.
Gal.4:8- "ye served those which are in nature (natura) gods" - "nature-gods"? The latin natura can also mean element.
Gal.4:9b- "weak and beggardly elements"-Due to the loss of their authority over the christian as a result of Christ's cosmic victory over them, the elements are likened to the souls of men which lose their power at death; a common Heb. name for ghosts is rephiam, "feeble ones" (p.237, L.B.Paton, Spiritism and the Cult of the Dead in Antiquity, 1921).
b) elements = evil matter: Joseph Turmel (Ecrits, v.III, p74): "The cruel god who created the world had also made men the slaves of matter...the stoicheai tou kosmou...designates the material world which the dualistic philosophy held in horror". Tertullian many times sites the marcionites' disdain for the creator's works, but the best known:"To be sure" they say, "the world is a grand production, worthy of a god"(AM, I.13);"Even this handiwork of our God will please you, inasmuch as your own lord, that better god...for your sakes was at pains of descending from the third heaven to these poverty-stricken elements, and for the same reason was actually crucified in this sorry cell of the creator" (AM I.14). In the later marcionite myth reported by Eznik, the world was a joint production of both the Creator and Hyle (matter), and in their competition for worship, "Hyle filled the world with idolatry, so men ceased to adore the Lord of creation", resulting in the woes of the human race (pp 246-48, GRS Mead*, Fragments of a Faith Forgotten*). Cp. also Gal.1:4, "evil aeon".
c) elements = rules, laws, rudimentary principles : Tertullian (AM V.4): "By the Romans, however, the rudiments of learning are wont to be called elements. He did not seek, by any depreciation of the mundane elements, to turn them away from their God..(Gal.4:9b)...he censured the error of that of physical and natural superstition which holds the elements to be a God. He tells us clearly enough what he means by elements, even the rudiments of the law: "ye observe days, and months, and times, and years" - the sabbaths I suppose, and "the preparations", and the fasts, and the "high days"..."
Initially, one may receive the general impression that this is only Tertullian's own interpretation, rather than Marcion's .
Seemingly 4:9b ("gods") presents difficulty for this interpretation being strictly the case. Nonetheless, the interpretation of elements = rudiments, or laws, finds support elsewhere in the NT (Heb.5:12, "the elements of God's word"; Col. 2:8, "...human tradition, the elements of the cosmos...";Col 2:20 "since you died with Christ to the elements of the cosmos...why...do you submit to its rules?"; nonetheless there's much in this same section of Col. which would lend support for elements = spirit beings (Col. 2:15, "principalities and powers", and 2:18, "worship of angels").
Which interpretation did Marcion hold ? Given the strength of all three interpretations above, it is tempting to consider that "elements" may have encompassed all three. But the third, elements = rudiments, gains serious momentum on the basis of Marcion's reconstructed text. . 4:3-10 complements and even mirrors those ideas already expressed in 3:10/12 to 3:14b/26, which in turn, leaves little room for the "law delivered by angels/ law as pedagogue" (3:19-4:2) material; 4:1-2 (in agreement with Zahn, opposite Harnack), had to be missing, considering the combined 3:15/4:3 as it stood in the text. 3:19-4:2 is an orthodox interpolation, designed to water down the text's harsh portrayal of the law as a curse, by which all were enslaved all to it's precepts, and to re-assert the OT as imperfect only insofar as it's angelic system of delivery and execution was concerned, thereby preserving the Law's providence. When a marcionite read stoicheai tou kosmou , he/she understood "precepts of the creator-god", permitting that κοσμος is also a synonym for αιονος = OT god.

	22	For Abraham had two sons,	T
		the one by a slave-maid,	T
		the other by a free-woman.	T
	23	But he who was of the slave-woman	T was born after the flesh;	T
		but he of the free-woman was by promise. [21]	T/E
	24	This is allegorized: [22]	T/(Hier.)
		these are two revelations,[23]	T
		indeed the one from Mount Sinai	T is the synagogue of the Jews,	T giving birth, according to the Law,	T
		into slavery;	T
	26	The other gives birth into freedom,	T
Eph.		Above every Principality, Power, Dominion,	T
1:21		of every name that is named,	T not only in this destiny,	T
		but also in that which is to come- [24]	T
		the holy assembly promised to us,	T which is our mother .	T
	31	So then, brethren,
		we are not children of the slave-woman,	T
		but of the free. [25]	T

[21] Gal:4:22-23 (Tert.V.4), "the last mention of Abraham's name he left untouched" :

[22] Gal.4:24-25 Hieronymus, VII.473 (Zahn, p.502):"Here Marcion and Manichaeus, where the apostle said "which is allegorical"(quae sunt allegorica) and the rest which follows, hesitate not to remove from their codices, thinking the opposite we bequeath, that it is obviously the law which is understood, what is written".

[23] "promises" - Harnack proposed "exhibitions" (Couchoud, "manifestations"); Zahn suggested "promises" (Geschichte, p.502: "επαγγελλεσθαι must set the basis for the repromittere, as επαγγελια = repromissio. It should recall with the Tanfgelubde to cf. Ignatius S.509of, Caspari, Quellen zu Gesch.d.Taufsymbols I.26;63".

[24] The insertion of Eph.1:21 at this place is also also attested with Ephrem (Comm.in Epistolas d. Paul, p.298), as noted by Clabeaux (p.3, A Lost Edition of the Letters of Paul), though inconvieniently overlooked in Molitor's reconstruction of Ephrem.

[25] Gal.4:31 (Tert.V.4): "by reason of which he adds in conclusion": fratres, non sumus ancillae filii, sed liberae.

PL Couchoud, from The Premier Edition de St.Paul, notes the inconsistancies in the orthodox version of Gal.4:46-31: "[The Apostolikon version of 4:24-31] opposes, by two mystical plans, the synogogue of the Jews and the holy church. The [orthodox version] pretends to save the Jews. It replaces the two "manifestations"...radically different, by two "alliances" ["testaments"] and, in the end, with two Jerusalems. It confuses in striving to explain how Agar, mother of the pagan Arabs, nevertheless represents the Jews. Finally it is no longer the law and grace which are opposed, nor even two alliances, but the Jerusalem slave of the Romans and the Jerusalem on high described in the Apocalypse (Rev.). This perspective is completely warped....".

5:1	In the liberty wherewith	T
	Chrestos made us free,	T
	Stand firm -
	and be not entangled again	(T) in the weight of slavery.	(T)
2	Behold, I Paul say to you, that if ye be circumcised,
	Chrestos shall gain you nothing.
3	But I testify again that a man circumcised	E is a debtor to fulfil the whole law.	E
4	Nothing [comes] from Chrestos,
	[for] whosoever in law are justified - you have fallen from goodness.
6	For in Chrestos neither circumcision	T makes any impact,	T
	nor uncircumcision;	T
	but faith perfected through love. [26]	T
7	Ye did run well; who hindered you to not be yielding to the truth?
8	This enticement comes not from him
	Who calls you.
9	A little leaven spoils the whole loaf.	E
10	But he distressing you	T/A shall bear the judgement,	T/A whosoever he is. [27]	A
11	But I, brethren,
	if I still proclaim circumcision,
	why yet am I persecuted?
	Then abolished is the offence of the cross.
12	I would also that they castrated themselves	(Hier.)
	who throw you into confusion ! [28]	(Hier.)
13	For ye were called for liberty, brethren;
	only not liberty for the urging by the flesh,
	but by love [to] serve one another.
14	For all the law in you is fulfilled:	T/E
	love thy neighbour as thyself.	T/E
15	But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed

[26] Gal.5:6a (Tert.) illius fidei quam dicendo per dilectionem perfici (that faith which he says by love is perfected).

[27] Gal.5:10 (Tert.) Qui autem turbat vos iudicium feret. (But the one who troubles you shall bear his judgement).

[28] Gal.5:12 , Hieronymus (Zahn, p503): Secretly, they say, Peter lacerated (lacerat), of whom previously he wrote to the face resisted.

	that ye be not consumed of one another.
16	But I say, walk ye by spirit, and in no wise should ye fulfil the desire of flesh.
17	For the flesh desires against the spirit,
	yet the spirit against the flesh;
	Now these are opposed to one another, so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.
18	But if by spirit ye are led,
	ye are not under law.
19	Now manifest are the works of the flesh,	E
	which are fornication, uncleanness,	E
20	wantonness, idolatry, enchantment,	E
	enmities,strifes, jealousies, furies,	E
21	contentions, divisions, sects, envies,	E
	drunkenness, revels,	E [and things like these], which I predicted to you	E
	as I also said before,	E
	that whoever does such things	E
	shall not be enjoying God's kingdom. [29]	E
22	But the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, kindness, goodness, faith,
23	meekness, self-control :
	against such things there is no law.
24	But those of the Chrestos crucified the flesh	E
	together with the passions and desires. [30]	E

[30] Gal 5: 24 It is tempting to consider the possibility that 5:19-21, attested by Epiphanius, as a later interpolation, in view of how well the order of passages (5:14/6:2) work together if following only Tertullian's witness: (5:14) For all the law in you is fulfilled: love thy neighbour as thyself. (6:2) Bear ye one another's burdens, and thus fulfil the law of Christ.
The problem, however, is that 5:19-21 may just as easily be considered a marcionite addition as a Catholic insertion. Indeed, such was Turmel's opinion (Ecrits, v.III, p.80ff), holding that 5:13-26; 6:7-10 was of marcionite origin, as indicated by "chastity" in v.23 (in view of the celibacy practiced by marcionites), and of the (heavenly) "Kingdom of God" (v.21) promised to the servants of the spirit - "eternal life" (6:8), but without a resurrection of the flesh. The internal, human qualities listed as fruit of the spirit would certainly be considered characteristically Pauline, in contrast to the external, heavy, violent, Holy Spirit characteristic of the Jerusalem apostles in Acts, as noted by Couchoud and Stahl (p.185, "Les deux auteurs des Actes", Premiers Ecrits).

6:2	Bear ye one another's burdens,	T
	and thus fulfil the law of Chrestos.[31]	T
6	Let him that is taught in the utterance	(Hier.)
	share with him that teaches in all good. [32]	(Hier.)
7	Be not deceived; God is not mocked:	T/A for whatsoever a man may sow,	T/A that shall he also reap.	T/A 8	For he that sows to his own flesh	(T)
	from the flesh shall reap corruption;	(T)
	but he that sows to the Spirit	(T)
	from the Spirit shall reap life eternal.	(T)
9	But let us not become weary in doing good:	(T)
	but in due season we shall reap,	(T)
	not fainting.	(T)
10	As we might have opportunity,	(T)
	let us do good. [33]	(T)
11	Behold with the large-sized letters
	I have written to you with my own hand.
12	As many as wish to make a fair show in flesh, these urge you to be circumcised, only they are persecutors of the cross of Chrestos.
13	For neither they	E
	who are themselves circumcised	E
	are maintaining law,	E
	but they would have you circumcised, that in your flesh they might boast. [34]
14	But may it not be for me to boast, but only in the cross
	of our Lord Isu Chrestos;
	Yet also to me is the world crucified,	T
	and I to the world.	T

[31] Gal.6:2 "The law of Christ": the body of those precepts declared in the "Sermon on the Mount"(Lk.6:17ff) abolished the creator's law: "Having abolished the law of commandments by His own precepts (δογμασι, Laod.2:15).

[32] Gal.6:6 (Hieronymus): "Marcion so interprets this place, reckoning this should speak of the faith and catechism together, that the master communicated to his disciples, which is indeed to be the maxim carried forth, in respect to that which follows: " In all good" (In omnibus bonis)".

[33] Gal.6:8-10, Considering the frequency of the word "good" in this section (6:6, 9, 10), it is not difficult to see why Turmel (n.45) regarded these passages a marcionite addition !

[34] Gal.6:13b (also 6:12, 14; cp. Phil.3:18): Tertullian (AM V.4) makes mention of ."persecutors of Christ" (persecutores vacat Christi), which must allude those rebuked by Paul in 6:12-14. Cp. also 6:17.

15	For in Chrestos Isu neither circumcision is of any impact, nor uncircumcision,
	but a new creation.
17	As for all the others,	A not without reason	A
	I cause nuisance! [35]	A
	For I carry the scars of Chrestos	(T)/Theod/(Clem.)
	in my body.	A(T)
18	Brethren, the grace of our Lord Isu Chrestos be with your spirit.

Amen.

[35] Gal 6:17 "the others" = the Jerusalem apostles : "The corrector lenified, by suppressing "cause" and by replacing "the others" with "the rest". "Henceforth I cause no one nuisance". -PL Couchoud, Le Premier Edition de St.Paul.

Marcionite 1 Corinthians Interlinear

Reconstruction by Stuart G. Waugh 24 January, 2017 (Rev 4)

Πρὸς Κορινθίους Α
To the Corinthians 1

1:1 Παῦλος ἀπόστολος Χριστοῦ Ἰησοῦ διὰ θελήματος θεοῦ, [καὶ Τιμόθεος ὁ ἀδελφός,] Paul an apostle of Christ Jesus through the will of God [, and the brother Timothy]:

1:2 τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ [1] τῇ οὔσῃ ἐν Κορίνθῳ, τοῖς ἁγίοις σὺν πᾶσιν τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ, [2]
To the church being in Corinth, the saints with all those who are throughout Achaia:

1:3 χάρις ὑμῖν καὶ εἰρήνη[3] ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ. [4]
Grace to you and peace from God our father and Lord Jesus Christ.

1:4 Εὐχαριστῶ τῷ θεῷ μου πάντοτε περὶ ὑμῶν ἐπὶ τῇ χάριτι τοῦ θεοῦ τῇ δοθείσῃ ὑμῖν ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ, [5]
I give thanks to my God always concerning you, for the grace of God has been given to you in Christ Jesus.

1:10(b) … ἵνα τὸ αὐτὸ λέγητε πάντες, καὶ μὴ ᾖ ἐν ὑμῖν σχίσματα, [6]
… that the same thing all of you speak, and not have divisions among you.

ἦτε δὲ κατηρτισμένοι ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ νοὶ καὶ ἐν τῇ αὐτῇ γνώμῃ.
But may you be united in the same mind, and the same thought ("opinion").

1:11 ἐδηλώθη γάρ μοι περὶ ὑμῶν, ὑπὸ τῶν Χλόης ὅτι ἔριδες ἐν ὑμῖν εἰσιν.
For it was shown to me about you, by those of Chloe that there are ~ quarrels among you.

1:12 λέγω δὲ τοῦτο, ὅτι ἕκαστος ὑμῶν λέγει, ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου, ἐγὼ δὲ Ἀπολλῶ, ἐγὼ δὲ Κηφᾶ.
Now I say this, because each of you says, I am of Paul, and I am of Apollos, and I am of Cephas

1:13 μεμέρισται ὁ Χριστός;[7] μὴ Παῦλος ἐσταυρώθη ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν, ἢ εἰς τὸ ὄνομα Παύλου ἐβαπτίσθητε;
Is Christ divided? (Surely) Paul was not crucified for you? Or were you in the name of Paul baptized?

---

[1] After reviewing 11:16 it became clear that ἐκκλησίᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ is an expansion by the Catholic editor as 11:16 shows the Church Paul is addresses and the Church of God are separate entities. Thus τοῦ θεοῦ is a later expansion (see note 94 below). If there was a title to the Marcionites it was likely the church of the Saints ἐκκλησίᾳ τῶν ἁγίων as in 14:33 ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τῶν ἁγίων (also Psalms 149:1).
[2] Reconstruction based upon 2 Corinthians and Marcionite Latin prologue. Both mention Achaia and Timothy; 2 Corinthians: καὶ Τιμόθεος ὁ ἀδελφὸς τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ τῇ οὔσῃ ἐν Κορίνθῳ σὺν τοῖς ἁγίοις πᾶσιν τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ and the Latin prologue Corinthii sunt Achaei ... scribens eis ab Epheso per Timotheum while I am not convinced that Timothy is original, I have enclosed it in brackets. Sosthenes Σωσθένης is not mentioned. Also I removed κλητὸς as with Romans 1:1 as a later addition harmonizing to Acts 13:2 (note A D 1506^{txt} and 2 Corinthians also lack). 2 Corinthians closely resembles the Latin prologue.
[3] AM 5.5.1 Praestructio superioris epistulae ita duxit, ut de titulo eius non retractaverim, certus et alibi retractari eum posse, communem scilicet et eundem in epistulis omnibus. Quod non utique salutem praescribit eis quibus scribit, sed "gratiam et pacem", non dico.
[4] AM 5.5.2 Haec cum "a deo patre nostro et domino Iesu" annuntians communibus nominibus utatur.
[5] Verses 1:5-10a likely additions, with Catholic concerns, littered with post-Marcionite vocabulary. A bridge phrase is lost (…)
[6] Compare 1 Corinthians 1:10b-13 with AM 5.8.3 Saepe iam ostendimus haereses apud apostolum inter mala ut malum poni
[7] DA 1.8 ἤκουσταί μου, φησίν , ὑπὸ τῶν Χλόης ὅτι ἔριδες εἰσιν ἐν ὑμῖν· ὃς μὲν γὰρ ὑμῶν λέγει· ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου, ἐγὼ δὲ Ἀπολλῶ, ἐγὼ δὲ κηφᾶ. μεμέρισται ὁ Χριστός; - verse. 1:11 Marcion, 629, Syr, Ephraim, Cop OL:I read εἰσιν ἐν ὑμῖν for ἐν ὑμῖν εἰσιν; Clabeaux rates secure and incorrect. Rufinus (DA) reads perlatum est enim mihi, inquit, de vobis ab his qui sunt Chloes quia contentiones sunt in vobis, et alius dicit: Ego sum Paulis, alius: Ego Apollo, alius: Ego Caphae, Diuisus est Christus? This only reflects – ἀδελφοί μου lacks support. Unmentioned by Clabeaux, without support, but I think correct– ἐγὼ δὲ Χριστοῦ as it makes no sense that there would be such a sect against those of Paul (Marcionite), Apollos (speculatively Appelles or Cerinthius), and Cephas (Catholic) representing known camps, and unlike those you are baptized in Christ name, but not Paul, et al (verse 1:13b) – this point is made clear in AM 3.12.4 quoting Galatians 3:27, ὅσοι γὰρ εἰς Χριστὸν ἐβαπτίσθητε, Χριστὸν ἐνεδύσασθε· and Romans 6:3 ὅσοι ἐβαπτίσθημεν εἰς Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν εἰς τὸν θάνατον αὐτοῦ ἐβαπτίσθημεν;

1:14 εὐχαριστῶ ὅτι οὐδένα ὑμῶν ἐβάπτισα, [8] 1:15 ἵνα μή τις εἴπῃ ὅτι εἰς τὸ ἐμὸν ὄνομα ἐβαπτίσθητε. [9]
I give thanks that I baptized none of you, lest anyone say you that in my name baptized.

1:17 οὐ γὰρ ἀπέστειλέν με Χριστὸς βαπτίζειν ἀλλὰ εὐαγγελίζεσθαι,
For Christ did not send me to baptize but to preach the Gospel, οὐκ ἐν σοφίᾳ λόγου, ἵνα μὴ κενωθῇ ὁ σταυρὸς τοῦ Χριστοῦ.

not by wisdom of words, lest be emptied the cross of Christ.

1:18 Ὁ λόγος γὰρ ὁ τοῦ σταυροῦ τοῖς μὲν ἀπολλυμένοις μωρία ἐστίν,
For the word ("doctrine") of the cross to those perishing is ~ foolishness, τοῖς δὲ σῳζομένοις ἡμῖν δύναμις θεοῦ ἐστιν.[10]

But to those of us being saved it is the power of God.

1:19 γέγραπται γάρ, Ἀπολῶ τὴν σοφίαν τῶν σοφῶν, καὶ τὴν σύνεσιν τῶν συνετῶν ἀθετήσω.[11]
For it is written, (Isaiah 29:14, LXX)
"I will destroy the wisdom of the wise and the understanding of the intellectuals I will disregard"

1:20 ποῦ σοφός; ποῦ γραμματεύς; ποῦ συζητητὴς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου; Where's the wise [man]? Where's the scribe? Where's the sophist of this ~ age?

οὐχὶ ἐμώρανεν ὁ θεὸς τὴν σοφίαν τοῦ κόσμου; [12]
[Did] not God ~ make foolish the wisdom of the world?

1:21 ἐπειδὴ γὰρ ἐν τῇ σοφίᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ οὐκ ἔγνω ὁ κόσμος διὰ τῆς σοφίας τὸν θεόν,
For since by the wisdom of God, the world through its own wisdom did not know God εὐδόκησεν ὁ θεὸς διὰ τῆς μωρίας τοῦ κηρύγματος σῶσαι τοὺς πιστεύοντας.[13]

It pleased God [to] through the foolishness of the proclamation to save those faithful.

1:22 ἐπειδὴ Ἰουδαῖοι σημεῖα αἰτοῦσιν καὶ Ἕλληνες σοφίαν ζητοῦσιν,[14]
Since the Jews ask for signs and the Greeks seek wisdom,

1:23 ἡμεῖς δὲ κηρύσσομεν Χριστὸν ἐσταυρωμένον, Ἰουδαίοις μὲν σκάνδαλον ἔθνεσιν δὲ μωρίαν, [15]
But we proclaim Christ having been crucified, to the Jews an offense, to the Gentiles foolishness,

1:25 ὅτι τὸ μωρὸν τοῦ θεοῦ σοφώτερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἐστίν, [16]
Because the foolishness of God [is] wiser than than men, καὶ τὸ ἀσθενὲς τοῦ θεοῦ ἰσχυρότερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων.

---

[8] B p^{46} ℵ* 1739 6 424^{c2} omit τῷ θεῶ which was added for piety, while εἰ μὴ Κρίσπον καὶ Γάϊον was added by the Catholic editor to conform with Acts 18:for Κρίσπον and Γάϊον is suggested by Acts 19:29, 20:4, while Baptism by Paul in Acts 16:14-15, 33, 18:8, 19:5 (versus Baptism of John, 19:3-4)

[9] Verse 1:16 was added by the Catholic editor, ἐβάπτισα δὲ καὶ τὸν Στεφανᾶ οἶκον here and 16:15, 17, 24, inspired by Acts, despite the illogic of the sequence, being that his Baptism would ironically be Saul's agreement with his stoning.

[10] AM 5.5.5 Ait crucem Christi stultitiam esse perituris, virtutem autem et sapientiam dei salutem consecuturis. "The cross of Christ," he says, "is to them that perish foolishness; but unto such as shall obtain salvation, it is the power of God and the wisdom of God." Apparently reading + σοφίᾳ lacks support, probably added by a scribe with 1:17 in view [11] AM 5.5.5 Scriptum est enim, Perdam sapientiam sapientium et prudentiam prudentium irritam faciam.

Epiphanius: γέγραπται γάρ, Ἀπολῶ τὴν σοφίαν τῶν σοφῶν, καὶ τὴν σύνεσιν τῶν συνετῶν ἀθετήσω.
The LXX reads κρύψω here ἀθετήσω slight variant, the LXX means God will hide/sheath the intellectuals, here he'll disregard it.

[12] AM 5.5.7 Hoc sequentia confirmabunt, cum dicit, Nonne infatuavit deus sapientiam mundi?

[13] AM 5.5.7 Quoniam in dei sapientia non intellexit mundus per sapientiam dominum, boni duxit deus per stultitiam praedicationis salvos facere credentes. Boni duxit Deus, εὐδόκησεν ὁ Θεός AM 2.2.5 Mundi autem habentes spiritum, non agnoscentes in sapientia dei per sapientiam deum ; this phrase is much looser in AM 2.2.5

[14] AM 5.5.8 Quoniam Iudaei signa desiderant, qui iam de deo certi esse debuerant, et Graeci sapientiam quaerunt, qui suam scilicet, non dei, sapientiam sistunt. Marcion p46 F G 323 syr^{P} OL:KDI Vg^{var} Clement – καὶ (Clabeaux rates secure, correct against UBS)

[15] AM 5.5.9 Etiam quod scandalum Iudaeis praedicat Christum

[16] AM 5.5.9 Quid est autem stultum Dei sapientius hominibus, nisi crux et mors Christi? Quid infirmum Dei fortius homine, nisi nativitas et caro Dei? AM 2.2.5 Sed nos scimus stultum dei sapientius hominibus, et invalidum dei validius hominibus. Tertullian is inconsistent in his translation here, except not including "est"

And the weakness of God [is] stronger than men,

[17] 1:27 ἀλλὰ τὰ μωρὰ τοῦ κόσμου ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεὸς ἵνα καταισχύνῃ τοὺς σοφούς, [18]
But the foolish things of the world God choose, that he might shame the wise, καὶ τὰ ἀσθενῆ τοῦ κόσμου ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεὸς ἵνα καταισχύνῃ τὰ ἰσχυρά, [19]

And the weak things of the world God choose, that he might shame the strong things,

1:28 καὶ τὰ ἀγενῆ τοῦ κόσμου καὶ τὰ ἐξουθενημένα ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεός
And the low-born of the world and the things that are despised God choose, τὰ μὴ ὄντα, ἵνα τὰ ὄντα καταργήσῃ, the things which are nothing, that those being something might be brought to nothing.

1:29 ὅπως μὴ καυχήσηται πᾶσα σὰρξ
So that not any flesh may ~ boast,

1:31 ἵνα καθὼς γέγραπται, Ὁ καυχώμενος ἐν κυρίῳ καυχάσθω. [20]
That as it has been written, 'The one boasting let him boast ~ in the lord.' (Jeremiah 9:24, 9:23 LXX loosely)

2:1 κἀγὼ ἐλθὼν πρὸς ὑμᾶς, ἀδελφοί,
And I having come to you, brothers, ἦλθον οὐ καθ᾽ ὑπεροχὴν λόγου ἢ σοφίας καταγγέλλων ὑμῖν τὸ μυστήριον τοῦ θεοῦ.

came not according to exalted words or announcing wisdom to you the mystery of God.

2:2 οὐ γὰρ ἔκρινά τι εἰδέναι ἐν ὑμῖν εἰ μὴ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν καὶ τοῦτον ἐσταυρωμένον.
For I choose not to know anything except Jesus Christ and this one (his being) crucified.

2:3 κἀγὼ ἐν ἀσθενείᾳ καὶ ἐν φόβῳ καὶ ἐν τρόμῳ πολλῷ ἐγενόμην πρὸς ὑμᾶς,
And I in weakness and in fear and and in much ~ trembling came to you,

2:4 καὶ ὁ λόγος μου καὶ τὸ κήρυγμά μου οὐκ ἐν πειθοῖς σοφίας [21] ἀλλ᾽ ἐν ἀποδείξει πνεύματος καὶ δυνάμεως, and my word and my proclamation not in persuading wisdom but in demonstration of spirit and power,

2:5 ἵνα ἡ πίστις ὑμῶν μὴ ᾖ ἐν σοφίᾳ ἀνθρώπων ἀλλ᾽ ἐν δυνάμει θεοῦ.
that your faith may not be in the wisdom of men but in the power of God.

2:6 σοφίαν δὲ λαλοῦμεν ἐν τοῖς τελείοις, [22]
But wisdom we speak among the perfected, σοφίαν δὲ οὐ τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου οὐδὲ τῶν ἀρχόντων τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου τῶν καταργουμένων· [23]

but wisdom not of this age nor the rulers of this age, those (who are) being annulled

2:7 ἀλλὰ λαλοῦμεν θεοῦ σοφίαν ἐν μυστηρίῳ, τὴν ἀποκεκρυμμένην, but we speak God's wisdom in mystery, that was hidden,

---

[17] Verse 1:26 was added by the Catholic editor along with 1:24, and 1:30. In 1:24 the called can be either Jew (Catholic) or Greek (Heretic) before. In vers 1:26 they are ordinary intelligence rather than wise, ὅτι οὐ πολλοὶ σοφοὶ and that is according to the flesh κατὰ σάρκα, which is not standard use by Marcion's Paul. Further they neither power ful nor well born. There is a clear misunderstanding of verse 1:28 of low-born things. Also the Catholic πολλοὶ is used;

[18] AM 2.2.5 Sed nos scimus stultum Dei sapientius hominibus, et invalidum Dei validius hominibus.

[19] AM 5.5.9 nec iam stulta mundi elegit Deus ut confundat sapientiam, nec infirma mundi elegit Deus ut confundat fortia

[20] AM 5.5.10 ne glorietur omnis caro, ut, quemadmodum scriptum est, Qui gloriatur, in domino glorietur (where is v30? SGW)

DA 1.22 ὅπως μὴ καυχήσηται πᾶσα σὰρξ ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ· ἐξ αὐτοῦ δὲ ὑμεῖς ἐστε ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ, ὃ ἐγενήθη σοφία ἡμῖν ἀπὸ θεοῦ, δικαιοσύνη τε καὶ ἁγιασμὸς καὶ ἀπολύτρωσις, ἵνα καθὼς γέγραπται· Ὁ καυχώμενος ἐν κυρίῳ καυχάσθω. I am reasonably convinced DA is quoting a Catholic edition, as the verse is missing from Tertullian and it has some Lucan non-Marcionite features, such as τε καὶ and the verse stands to clarify 1:29a, 1:31 in a Catholic sense of redemption and uses wisdom in a manor different from the verses around. It is possible DA picked up verses 129b-1:30 through correcting scribes.

Epiphanius reads ἵνα καθὼς γέγραπται, Ὁ καυχώμενος ἐν κυρίῳ καυχάσθω

[21] UBS bracketed λόγοις on the strength of *p*46 F G 630 deleting; I removed it as secondary

[22] AM 5.6.1 Igitur per haec omnia ostendit cuius dei sapientiam loquatur inter perfectos

[23] Epiphanius τῶν ἀρχόντων τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου τῶν καταργουμένων ἣν προώρισεν ὁ θεὸς πρὸ τῶν αἰώνων εἰς δόξαν ἡμῶν, [24] which God preordained before the ages for our glory;

2:8 ἣν οὐδεὶς τῶν ἀρχόντων τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου ἔγνωκεν· which none of the rulers of this age had known, εἰ γὰρ ἔγνωσαν, οὐκ ἂν τὸν κύριον τῆς δόξης ἐσταύρωσαν. [25] for if they had knew, they would not have crucified the lord of glory.

[26] 2:10 ἡμῖν δὲ ἀπεκάλυψεν ὁ θεὸς διὰ τοῦ πνεύματος· τὸ γὰρ πνεῦμα πάντα ἐραυνᾷ, καὶ τὰ βάθη τοῦ θεοῦ.
But to us God revealed (them) through the spirit; for the spirit searches all things, even the depths of God.

2:11 τίς γὰρ οἶδεν ἀνθρώπων τὰ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου εἰ μὴ τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ ἀνθρώπου τὸ ἐν αὐτῷ;
For who of men knows the things of a man except the spirit of a man that is in him?

οὕτως καὶ τὰ τοῦ θεοῦ οὐδεὶς ἔγνωκεν εἰ μὴ τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ θεοῦ. [27]
So also the things of God no one has known except the spirit of God.

2:12 ἡμεῖς δὲ οὐ τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ κόσμου ἐλάβομεν ἀλλὰ τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ,
Now we have not received the spirit of the world, but the spirit from God, ἵνα εἰδῶμεν τὰ ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ χαρισθέντα ἡμῖν· that we may know the things gifted to us from God.

2:13 ἃ καὶ λαλοῦμεν οὐκ ἐν διδακτοῖς ἀνθρωπίνης σοφίας λόγοις
These also we speak not in words taught by human wisdom ἀλλ᾽ ἐν διδακτοῖς πνεύματος, πνευματικοῖς πνευματικὰ συγκρίνοντες.

but taught in (the) spirit, with spiritual things interpreting spiritual things.

2:14 ψυχικὸς δὲ ἄνθρωπος οὐ δέχεται τὰ τοῦ πνεύματος, [28]
But a natural man does not receive the things of the spirit, μωρία γὰρ αὐτῷ ἐστιν, καὶ οὐ δύναται γνῶναι, ὅτι πνευματικῶς ἀνακρίνεται· for they are foolishness to him, and he is not able to know them, because they are interpreted spiritually;

2:15 ὁ δὲ πνευματικὸς ἀνακρίνει [τὰ] πάντα, αὐτὸς δὲ ὑπ᾽ οὐδενὸς ἀνακρίνεται.
Now the spiritual (man) discerns all [things], but he is discerned by know one.

2:16 τίς γὰρ ἔγνω νοῦν κυρίου, ὃς συμβιβάσει αὐτόν;[29] ἡμεῖς δὲ νοῦν Χριστοῦ ἔχομεν.
For who knew the mind of the Lord, who will instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ.

3:1 κἀγώ, ἀδελφοί, οὐκ ἠδυνήθην λαλῆσαι ὑμῖν ὡς πνευματικοῖς ἀλλ᾽ ὡς σαρκίνοις, ὡς νηπίοις ἐν χριστῷ.
And I, brothers, was unable to speak to you as spiritual men but as carnal men, as infants in Christ.

3:2 γάλα ὑμᾶς ἐπότισα, οὐ βρῶμα, οὔπω γὰρ ἐδύνασθε. ἀλλ᾽ οὐδὲ ἔτι νῦν δύνασθε,
I gave you milk to drink, not solid food, for you were not yet able, but neither are you now able,

3:3 ἔτι γὰρ σαρκικοί ἐστε. [30] ὅπου γὰρ ἐν ὑμῖν ζῆλος καὶ ἔρις,

---

[24] AM 5.6.2 sed de significantiis obumbrata, in quibus sapientia dei delitescebat, inter perfectos narranda suo in tempore, proposita vero in proposito dei ante saecula

[25] AM 5.6.6 Sed quia subicit de gloria nostra, quod eam nemo ex principibus huius aevi scierit, ceterum si scissent nunquam dominum gloriae crucifixissent, argumentatur haereticus quod principes huius aevi dominum, alterius scilicet dei Christum, cruci confixerint, ut et hoc in ipsum recidat creatorem. Tertullian reads οὐδέποτε for οὐκ with Ephrem OL:KDI Vg (Clabeaux suspects a pious scribe)

[26] Verse 2:9 is unattested in Marcion, a quotation from Isaiah 64:4 which breaks the flow and does not fit the argument in place, rather it is a proof text to tie the content to the Old Testament; clearly an orthodox interpolation.

[27] A reference seems to be made in AM 2.2.4 Sic magis debuit, quasi cognoscat aliquis quae sint in deo nisi spiritus dei 'as if anyone knew what is in God, except the Spirit of God'

[28] AM 2.2.6 Quodsi a primordio homo animalis, non recipiens quae sunt spiritus; reading – τοῦ θεοῦ with Clement V 25.5; VI 166.3; 330 440 1506 1827 2400 2815

[29] Isaiah 40:13 LXX, τίς ἔγνω νοῦν κυρίου καὶ τίς αὐτοῦ σύμβουλος ἐγένετο ὃς συμβιβᾷ αὐτόν not cited, would be typical Pauline [30] DA 1.9/810c γάλα ὑμᾶς ἐπότισα, οὐ βρῶμα, οὔπω γὰρ ἐδύνασθε. ἀλλ᾽ οὐδ᾽ ἔτι νῦν δύνασθε, ἔτι γὰρ σαρκικοί ἐστε.

for you are still carnal. For since among you is jealousy and strife, οὐχὶ σαρκικοί ἐστε καὶ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον περιπατεῖτε;

are you not carnal and according to man walking?

3:4 ὅταν γὰρ λέγῃ τις, ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου, ἕτερος δέ, ἐγὼ Ἀπολλῶ, οὐκ ἄνθρωποί ἐστε;
For whenever anyone says, 'I am of Paul,' and another, 'I of Apollos,' are you not of man?

3:5 τί οὖν ἐστιν Ἀπολλῶς; τί δέ ἐστιν Παῦλος; διάκονοι δι᾽ ὧν ἐπιστεύσατε, καὶ ἑκάστῳ ὡς ὁ κύριος ἔδωκεν.
What then is Apollos? And what is Paul? Teachers through whom you believed, and as to each the lord gave.

3:6 ἐγὼ ἐφύτευσα, Ἀπολλῶς ἐπότισεν, ἀλλὰ ὁ θεὸς ηὔξανεν·
I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave growth;

3:7 ὥστε οὔτε ὁ φυτεύων ἐστίν τι οὔτε ὁ ποτίζων, ἀλλ᾽ ὁ αὐξάνων θεός.
so that neither he planting is anything nor the one watering, but the one giving growth, God.

3:8 ὁ φυτεύων δὲ καὶ ὁ ποτίζων ἕν εἰσιν, ἕκαστος δὲ τὸν ἴδιον μισθὸν λήμψεται κατὰ τὸν ἴδιον κόπον.
Now the one planting and the one watering are one, and each receives their own reward according to their labor

3:9 θεοῦ γάρ ἐσμεν συνεργοί· θεοῦ γεώργιον, θεοῦ οἰκοδομή ἐστε.
For God we are co-workers; God's husbandry, God's building you are.

3:10 κατὰ τὴν χάριν τοῦ θεοῦ τὴν δοθεῖσάν μοι ὡς σοφὸς ἀρχιτέκτων θεμέλιον ἔθηκα, According to the grace of God given to me as wise architect, I laid a foundation, ἄλλος δὲ ἐποικοδομεῖ. ἕκαστος δὲ βλεπέτω πῶς ἐποικοδομεῖ· and another builds on it. But each one, let him be aware how he builds upon (it).

3:11 θεμέλιον γὰρ ἄλλον οὐδεὶς δύναται θεῖναι παρὰ τὸν κείμενον, ὅς ἐστιν Χριστός. [31]
For another foundation no one is able to lay beside the one being laid, who is Christ.

[32] 3:16 οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι ναὸς θεοῦ ἐστε καὶ τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ θεοῦ οἰκεῖ ἐν ὑμῖν; [33]
Do you not know that you are a sanctuary of God's and the spirit of God dwells in you?

3:17 εἴ τις τὸν ναὸν τοῦ θεοῦ φθείρει, φθερεῖ τοῦτον· [34]
If anyone attempts to destroy the sanctuary of God, this one will be destroyed;

ὁ γὰρ ναὸς τοῦ θεοῦ ἅγιός ἐστιν, οἵτινές ἐστε ὑμεῖς.
for the sanctuary of God is holy; which is you.

3:18 Μηδεὶς ἑαυτὸν ἐξαπατάτω· εἴ τις δοκεῖ σοφὸς εἶναι ἐν ὑμῖν ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, Let no one deceive himself; if anyone amongst you thinks they are wise in this age, μωρὸς γενέσθω, ἵνα γένηται σοφός.[35]

let him become foolish, that he may become wise.

3:19 ἡ γὰρ σοφία τοῦ κόσμου τούτου μωρία παρὰ τῷ θεῷ ἐστιν·[36] γέγραπται γάρ,
For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God; for it has been written,

---

[31] AM 5.6.10 Nam quod architectum se prudentem affirmat … Et numquid ipse tunc Paulus destinabatur, de ludaea, id est de Iudaismo, auferri habens in aedificationem Christianismi, positurus unicum fundamentum, quod est Christus?
Tertullian may be paraphrasing, for he reads – Ἰησοῦς with C* 365 618 1319 1505 1573 1738 2147 2495
[32] Verses 3:12-15 were not in Marcion, Tertullian confirms that test by fire is an attribute of the Creator God in AM 5.6.11
[33] AM 5.6.11 Nescitis quod templum Dei sitis, et in vobis inhabitet Spiritus Dei?
[34] AM 5.6.12 Tertullian paraphrases, mentions no variants: Quodsi templum Dei quis vitiaverit, vitiabitur, utique a Deo templi. ὁ θεός was added by the Catholic editor.
[35] AM 5.6.12 Stulti estote, ut sitis sapientes.
[36] AM 5.6.12 Sapientia enim huius mundi stultitia est penes deum. Inexplicable variant ἐστι παρὰ τῷ θεῷ for παρὰ τῷ θεῷ ἐστιν with Ephrem syr^{p} 547 629

ὁ δρασσόμενος τοὺς σοφοὺς ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτῶν· [37]
'He catches the wise in their own cleverness;'

3:20 καὶ πάλιν, Κύριος γινώσκει τοὺς διαλογισμοὺς τῶν σοφῶν ὅτι εἰσὶν μάταιοι. [38] and again, 'The Lord knows the reasoning of the wise that they are vain.'

3:21 ὥστε μηδεὶς καυχάσθω ἐν ἀνθρώποις· πάντα γὰρ ὑμῶν ἐστιν, [39]
So let no one boast in men; for all things are yours,

3:22 εἴτε Παῦλος εἴτε Ἀπολλῶς εἴτε Κηφᾶς εἴτε κόσμος εἴτε ζωὴ εἴτε θάνατος εἴτε ἐνεστῶτα εἴτε μέλλοντα·
Whether of Paul or Apollos or Cephas or the world or life or death or present things or future things;

πάντα ὑμῶν, 3:23 ὑμεῖς δὲ Χριστοῦ, Χριστὸς δὲ θεοῦ. [40]
all things are yours, and you are Christ's, and Christ is God's.

[41] 4:5 (b) ὃς καὶ φωτίσει τὰ κρυπτὰ τοῦ σκότους καὶ φανερώσει τὰς βουλὰς τῶν καρδιῶν·
Who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness and make manifest the reasons of the hearts;

καὶ τότε ὁ ἔπαινος γενήσεται ἑκάστῳ ἀπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ. [42] and then the praise to each one will be from God.

4:9(b) ὅτι θέατρον ἐγενήθημεν τῷ κόσμῳ καὶ ἀγγέλοις καὶ ἀνθρώποις. [43] that we became ~ a spectacle to the world and angels and men.

4:14 οὐκ ἐντρέπων ὑμᾶς γράφω ταῦτα, ἀλλ᾽ ὡς τέκνα μου ἀγαπητὰ νουθετῶ[ν]·
Not (so as) to shame you I write these things, but as admonishing my beloved children;

4:15 (b) ἐν γὰρ Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ διὰ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ἐγὼ ὑμᾶς ἐγέννησα. [44] [45] for in Christ Jesus through the Gospel I begot you.

5:1 Ὅλως ἀκούεται ἐν ὑμῖν πορνεία, [[καὶ τοιαύτη πορνεία ἥτις οὐδὲ ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσιν]][46]
Commonly it is heard among you fornication, [[even such fornication not heard among the gentiles]] ὥστε γυναῖκά τινα τοῦ πατρὸς ἔχειν. [47] so that one takes up with his father's wife.

[48] 5:5 παρέδωκα τὸν τοιοῦτον τῷ Σατανᾷ εἰς ὄλεθρον τῆς σαρκός,

---

[37] Epiphanius γέγραπται γάρ, ὁ δρασσόμενος τοὺς σοφοὺς ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτῶν. AM 5.6.12 Si nihil nobis et ad hunc sensum pristina praeiudicaverunt, bene quod et hic adstruit: Scriptum est enim, Deprehendens sapientes in nequitia illorum; Job 5:13 very loosely quoted

[38] AM 5.6.12 et rursus, Dominus scit cogitationes sapientium, quod sint supervacuae; Epiphanius καὶ πάλιν, κύριος γινώσκει τοὺς διαλογισμοὺς τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ὅτι εἰσὶν μάταιοι. Reads ἀνθρώπων for σοφῶν adjusted to LXX Psalms 93:11 (94:11 MT) with 056 33 1 205 209 489 630 927 1245 1506 1646^{C} 1735 186 1874, reading both are 326 1837; thus incorrect. Wisdom is topic in 3:18-20

[39] AM 5.6.13 Ergo, inquit, nemo glorietur in homine, DA 2.19 ὥστε μηδεὶς καυχάσθω ἐν ἀνθρώποις· πάντα γὰρ ὑμῶν ἐστιν,

[40] AM 5.6.12 Habes in praeteritis, Omnia vestra sunt, sive Paulus, sive Apollo, sive Cephas, sive mundus, sive vita, sive mors, sive praesentia, sive futura. DA 2.19 reads εἴτε Παῦλος εἴτε Κηφᾶς εἴτε κόσμος εἴτε ζωὴ εἴτε θάνατος εἴτε ἐνεστῶτα εἴτε μέλλοντα· πάντα ὑμῶν, ὑμεῖς δὲ Χριστοῦ, Χριστὸς δὲ θεοῦ. DA reads – εἴτε ἀπολλῶς with 1734 but against AM 5.6.12

[41] Verses 4:1-5(a) are not attested in Marcion, Tertullian skips over them quietly. These are concerned with judgement (κρίν*), and authority of the church, and also concern an office of steward to prtect the right mystery doctrine οἰκονόμους μυστηρίων θεοῦ. Also much of the vocabulary is from the Pastoral strata ὑπηρέτας, λογιζέσθ*

[42] AM 5.7.1 Et occulta tenebrarum ipse illuminabit, utique per Christum, qui Christum illuminationem repromisit, se quoque lucernam pronuntiavit, scrutantem corda et renes. Ab illo erit et laus unicuique a quo et contrarium laudis, ut a iudice. (Very loosely quoted)

[43] AM 5.7.1 Spectaculum facti sumus mundo et angelis et horninibus. Apparantly only 4:5(b) and this fregment stood, the rest of 4:1-13 was added by the Catholic redactor

[44] AM 5.8.6 In evangelio, enim inquit, ego vos generavi also eluded to in AM 5.7.2 with 4:14, 15b immediately after 4:9 with praesertim ad filios scribens, quos in evangelio generaverat,

[45] Verse 4:16-21 were added by the Catholic editor to build the my the of Timothy to support the Pastorals, as also in Acts 16:1-3. There is no other purpose. In Acts there is clear reference to the Greek (Pauline/Amrcionite) and Jewish (Catholic) split with Timothy.

[46] Deleted καὶ τοιαύτη πορνεία ἥτις οὐδὲ ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσιν as a Catholic addition. The phrase is not necessary and implies Paul and his congregation consider being gentile bad, the opposite of his position. Note the Catholic view Jewish priority, very similar to 12:2-3 [47] AM 5.7.2 Non defendo secundum legem creatoris displicuisse illum qui mulierem patris sui habuit.

[48] Verses 5:2-4 were added by the Catholic editor. verses are quoted in DA 2.5/8.24a-b, but by Adamantius reading the Catholic text

I delivered up this person to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, ἵνα τὸ πνεῦμα σωθῇ ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τοῦ κυρίου. [49] that the (his) spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord.

5:6 οὐ καλὸν τὸ καύχημα ὑμῶν. οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι μικρὰ ζύμη ὅλον τὸ φύραμα ζυμοῖ;
Your boasting is not good. Do you not know that a little leaven, leavens all the mixture?

5:7 ἐκκαθάρατε τὴν παλαιὰν ζύμην, ἵνα ἦτε νέον φύραμα, καθώς ἐστε ἄζυμοι· [50]
Purge out the old leaven, that you may be a new mixture, as you are unleavened.

καὶ γὰρ τὸ πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη Χριστός. [51]
For indeed our paschal [lamb] was sacrificed, Christ.

[52] 5:13(b) ἐξάρατε τὸν πονηρὸν ἐξ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν. [53]
Remove the evil man from among yourselves.

6:13(b) τὸ [δὲ] σῶμα οὐ τῇ πορνείᾳ ἀλλὰ τῷ κυρίῳ, καὶ ὁ κύριος τῷ σώματι· [54]
[But] the body is not for fornication but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body.

6:14 ὁ δὲ τὸν κύριον ἤγειρεν καὶ ἡμᾶς ἐξεγερεῖ [55] διὰ τῆς δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ.
but the one who raised up the Lord also will raise us up through his power.

6:15 οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι τὰ σώματα ὑμῶν μέλη Χριστοῦ ἐστιν; [56]
Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ?

ἄρας οὖν τὰ μέλη τοῦ Χριστοῦ ποιήσω πόρνης μέλη; μὴ γένοιτο. [57]
Having taken up the members of Christ should I make them prostitutes? May it not be.

6:16 [ἢ] οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι ὁ κολλώμενος τῇ πόρνῃ ἓν σῶμά ἐστιν; ἔσονται γάρ, φησίν, [Or] do you not know that the one joining himself to a prostitute is one body?

οἱ δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν. [58]
For it says the two into one flesh will be.

6:17 ὁ δὲ κολλώμενος τῷ κυρίῳ ἓν πνεῦμά ἐστιν.
But one joining himself to the Lord is (one) in the spirit.

6:18 φεύγετε τὴν πορνείαν· πᾶν ἁμάρτημα ὃ ἐὰν ποιήσῃ ἄνθρωπος ἐκτὸς τοῦ σώματός ἐστιν, Flee fornication! Every sin whichever a man may do is outside the body,

---

[49] AM 5.7.2 Sed cum eum damnat dedendum satanae, damnatoris dei praeco est. Viderit et quomodo dixerit, In interitum carnis ut spiritus salvus sit in die domini DA 2.8/825e παρέδωκα τὸν τοιοῦτον εἰς ὄλεθρον τῆς σαρκός, ἵνα τὸ πνεῦμα σωθῇ DA 2.21/833b παρέδωκα τὸν τοιοῦτον τῷ Σατανᾷ εἰς ὄλεθρον (Note in DA twice Markus says παρέδωκα for παραδοῦναι against Adamatius in 2.5/8.24a-b, quoting the recieved text) There is no Mss. Support; however compare 1 Timothy 1:20 which appears to be dependent on this specific usage ὧν ἐστιν Ὑμέναιος καὶ Ἀλέξανδρος, οὓς παρέδωκα τῷ Σατανᾷ, ἵνα …"of whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I delivered up to Satan that …"; the usage is quite different in 1 Corinthians 11:2, 11:23, and 15:3

[50] AM 5.7.3 Expurgate vetus fermentum, ut sitis nova conspersio, sicut estis azymi.

[51] Epiphanius καὶ γὰρ τὸ πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη χριστός DA 2.18/868a [τὸ] πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη χριστός AM 5.7.3 Sic et pascha nostrum immolatus est Christus

[52] Tertullian's argument necessitates the removal of 5:8-13a, 6:1-13a; these concern a later time, and interrupt the argument here.

[53] AM 5.7.2 et auferri iubens malum de medio creatoris frequentissimam sententiam commemoraverit (loosely quoted); The Greek text is from Deuteronomy 17:7 LXX ἐξάρατε τὸν πονηρὸν ἐξ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν which is not cited in typical Pauline/Marcionite style, which Tertullian apparently didn't recognize.

[54] AM 5.7.4 Corpus, inquit, non fornicationi sed domino, et dominus corpori, [55] AM 5.7.4 Qui dominum suscitavit, et nos suscitabit. Marcion reads –θεὸς καὶ leaving vague who raised the Lord. Similarily in the Apostolikon as in Galatians 1:1 ἀλλὰ διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ τοῦ ἐγείραντος αὐτὸν ἐκ νεκρῶν and 2 Corinthians 4:14 which is almost certainly based on this verse, εἰ δότες ὅτι ὁ ἐγείρας τὸν Ἰησοῦν καὶ ἡμᾶς σὺν Ἰησοῦν ἐγερεῖ. The Cathlic editor added θεὸς for clarification (bracketed words of 2 Cor 4:14 based on AM 5.11.15). Marcion was not Modalist per se, but his Christ raised himself.

[56] AM 5.7.4 Et bene quod aggerat, Nescitis corpora vestra membra esse Christi?

[57] AM 4.34.5 Scilicet nec tuum apostolum sinere coniungi prostitutae membra Christi

[58] Epiphanius reads Οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι ὁ κολλώμενος τῇ πόρνῃ ἓν σῶμά ἐστιν; ἔσονται γάρ, φησίν, οἱ δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν.

ὁ δὲ πορνεύων εἰς τὸ ἴδιον σῶμα ἁμαρτάνει.
But the one fornicating sins against their own body.

6:19 ἢ οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι τὸ σῶμα ὑμῶν ναὸς τοῦ ἐν ὑμῖν ἁγίου πνεύματός ἐστιν,
Or do you not know that your bodies are a sanctuary of the holy spirit in you, οὗ ἔχετε ἀπὸ θεοῦ, καὶ οὐκ ἐστὲ ἑαυτῶν;

whom you have from God, and (that) you are not your own?

6:20 ἠγοράσθητε γὰρ τιμῆς· δοξάσατε δὴ τὸν θεὸν ἐν τῷ σώματι ὑμῶν. [59]
For you were purchased for a price; glorify then God in your bodies.

7:1 περὶ δὲ ὧν ἐγράψατε, καλὸν ἀνθρώπῳ γυναικὸς μὴ ἅπτεσθαι·
But concerning the things you wrote, (it is) good (for a) man not to touch ~ a woman;

7:2 διὰ δὲ τὰς πορνείας ἕκαστος τὴν ἑαυτοῦ γυναῖκα ἐχέτω, καὶ ἑκάστη τὸν ἴδιον ἄνδρα ἐχέτω.
But because of fornication let each have his own wife, and each (woman) have her own husband.

7:3 τῇ γυναικὶ ὁ ἀνὴρ τὴν ὀφειλὴν ἀποδιδότω, ὁμοίως δὲ καὶ ἡ γυνὴ τῷ ἀνδρί.
To the wife let the husband render his conjugal duty, and likewise the wife to the husband.

7:4 ἡ γυνὴ τοῦ ἰδίου σώματος οὐκ ἐξουσιάζει ἀλλὰ ὁ ἀνήρ·
The wife does not have authority over her own body but rather the husband.

ὁμοίως δὲ καὶ ὁ ἀνὴρ τοῦ ἰδίου σώματος οὐκ ἐξουσιάζει ἀλλὰ ἡ γυνή.
And likewise also the husband does not have authority over his body but rather the wife..

7:5 μὴ ἀποστερεῖτε ἀλλήλους, εἰ μήτι ἂν ἐκ συμφώνου πρὸς καιρὸν,
Do not deprive each other, unless by agreement for a time, ἵνα σχολάσητε τῇ προσευχῇ καὶ πάλιν ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ ἦτε, that you may devote (yourselves) to prayer and you may be together again, ἵνα μὴ πειράζῃ ὑμᾶς ὁ σατανᾶς διὰ τὴν ἀκρασίαν ὑμῶν.

lest Satan temp you because of your lack of self-control ("non-celibacy").

7:6 τοῦτο δὲ λέγω κατὰ συγγνώμην, οὐ κατ᾽ ἐπιταγήν.
But this I say according to concession, not according to command.

7:7 θέλω δὲ πάντας ἀνθρώπους εἶναι ὡς καὶ ἐμαυτόν·
But I wish all men to be as myself;

ἀλλὰ ἕκαστος ἴδιον ἔχει χάρισμα ἐκ θεοῦ, ὁ μὲν οὕτως, ὁ δὲ οὕτως.
But each man has his own gift from God, one this, and another that.

7:8 λέγω δὲ τοῖς ἀγάμοις καὶ ταῖς χήραις, καλὸν αὐτοῖς ἐὰν μείνωσιν ὡς κἀγώ·
But I say to the unmarried men and the widows, it is good for them if they also remain as I am.

7:9 εἰ δὲ οὐκ ἐγκρατεύονται, γαμησάτωσαν, κρεῖττον γάρ ἐστιν γαμῆσαι ἢ πυροῦσθαι. [60]
But if they do not have self control, let them marry, for it is better to marry than to be consumed with passion.

7:10 τοῖς δὲ γεγαμηκόσιν παραγγέλλω, οὐκ ἐγὼ ἀλλὰ ὁ κύριος, γυναῖκα ἀπὸ ἀνδρὸς μὴ χωρισθῆναι
But to those having married I charge, not I but the lord, the wife not to be separated from her husband.

---

[59] AM 5.7.4 Empti enim sumus pretio magno. AM 5.7.5 Ergo et Christus habuit quo nos redimeret, et si aliquo magno redemit haec corpora, in quae eadem committenda fornicatio non erit, ut in membra iam Christi non nostra, utique sibi salva praestabit quae magno comparavit. Iam nunc quomodo honorabimus, quomodo tollemus deum in corpore perituro? (Clabeaux, Marcion must have read ἄρατε for δὴ with ἄρα witnessed syr^{H} and ἄρα γε 1505* 1611 it is easy to see it become ἄρατε from ΑΡΑΓΕ to ΑΡΑΤΕ)
[60] AM 5.7.6 This section indicates that Tertullian knows of verses 7:7-9 and sees no controversy in their content, meaning they are substantially the same as the Catholic version he knows: Sequitur de nuptiis congredi, quas Marcion constantior apostolo prohibet. Etenim apostolus, etsi bonum continentiae praefert, tamen coniugium et contrahi permittit et usui esse, et magis retineri quam disiungi suadet. Plane Christus vetat divortium, Moyses vero permittit.

7:11 - ἐὰν δὲ καὶ χωρισθῇ, μενέτω ἄγαμος ἢ τῷ ἀνδρὶ καταλλαγήτω - [61]
- but if indeed she is separated, let her remain unmarried or be reconciled to her husband –

καὶ ἄνδρα γυναῖκα μὴ ἀφιέναι. [62] and the husband not divorce his wife.

[63] 7:25 περὶ δὲ τῶν παρθένων ἐπιταγὴν κυρίου οὐκ ἔχω,
Now concerning the virgins, I have not a commandment of the Lord, γνώμην δὲ δίδωμι ὡς ἠλεημένος ὑπὸ κυρίου πιστὸς εἶναι. [64]

but I give an opinion as mercy by the Lord to the Faithful.

7:26 νομίζω οὖν τοῦτο καλὸν ὑπάρχειν διὰ τὴν ἐνεστῶσαν ἀνάγκην, ὅτι καλὸν ἀνθρώπῳ τὸ οὕτως εἶναι.
I consider then this to be good because of the present necessity, that that it is good for a man to so be.

7:27 δέδεσαι γυναικί, μὴ ζήτει λύσιν· λέλυσαι ἀπὸ γυναικός, μὴ ζήτει γυναῖκα.
If you are bound to a wife, do not seek separation; if you have been separated from a wife, do not seek a wife.

7:28 ἐὰν δὲ καὶ γαμήσῃς, οὐχ ἥμαρτες· καὶ ἐὰν γήμῃ ἡ παρθένος, οὐχ ἥμαρτεν.
But if indeed you marry, do not sin; and if a virgin marries, she did not sin.

θλῖψιν δὲ τῇ σαρκὶ ἕξουσιν οἱ τοιοῦτοι, ἐγὼ δὲ ὑμῶν φείδομαι.
But affliction in the flesh such ones will have, but I am trying to have you abstain.

7:29 τοῦτο δέ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὁ καιρὸς συνεσταλμένος ἐστίν· [65]
But this I say, brothers, the season has shortened;

τὸ λοιπὸν ἵνα καὶ οἱ ἔχοντες γυναῖκας ὡς μὴ ἔχοντες ὦσιν, [66] from now on, that also those having a wife, may be ~ as not having,

7:30 καὶ οἱ κλαίοντες ὡς μὴ κλαίοντες, καὶ οἱ χαίροντες ὡς μὴ χαίροντες, καὶ οἱ ἀγοράζοντες ὡς μὴ κατέχοντες, and those weeping as not weeping, and those rejoicing as not rejoicing, καὶ οἱ ἀγοράζοντες ὡς μὴ κατέχοντες, and those are buying as those without possession,

7:31 καὶ οἱ χρώμενοι τὸν κόσμον ὡς μὴ καταχρώμενοι· παράγει γὰρ τὸ σχῆμα τοῦ κόσμου τούτου.
and those taking from the world as not taking from (it); For the present form of the world ~ is passing away.

7:32 θέλω δὲ ὑμᾶς ἀμερίμνους εἶναι. ὁ ἄγαμος μεριμνᾷ τὰ τοῦ κυρίου, πῶς ἀρέσῃ τῷ κυρίῳ·
But I want you to be carefree. The unmarried man cares for things of the Lord, how he may please the Lord;

7:33 ὁ δὲ γαμήσας μεριμνᾷ τὰ τοῦ κόσμου, πῶς ἀρέσῃ τῇ γυναικί,
But one who is married cares for the things of the world, who he may please his wife.

7:34 καὶ μεμέρισται. καὶ ἡ γυνὴ ἡ ἄγαμος καὶ ἡ παρθένος μεριμνᾷ τὰ τοῦ κυρίου,
And he is divided. And the the unmarried ~ woman and the virgin care for the things of the Lord, ἵνα ᾖ ἁγία καὶ τῷ σώματι καὶ τῷ πνεύματι· that she may be holy in the body and the spirit;.

---

[61] AM 5.7.7 Et bene quod aggerat, Atquin et Christus cum praecipit mulierem a viro non discedere, aut si discesserit mancre innuptam aut reconciliari viro?
[62] Verses 7:12-17 are concerned with matters from a much later time. The discussion is about marriage with non-Christian spouses, and whether the children produced in such marriages are considred members of the Church, and how to handle divorces. This is in direct contradiction to verse 7:11 where divorce is prohibited, revealing a later doctrine consistent with Orthodoxy.
[63] Verses 7:18-24 are a combination of Pauline pastiches (Galatians 5:6, 16, 1 Corinthians 6:20) with later theological interpretations, designed to address the issue of Jewish and non-Jewish Christians reconciling, per the debate in Acts 15:1-2. All these are secondary.
[64] ἠλεημένος represents a hapax legomen in Marcion's Paul, and the phrase ἐπιταγὴν κυρίου οὐκ ἔχω is theologically and stylistically a problem, being inconsistent with Marcion's Paul. I consider much of 7:25-40 suspect, but I have no grounds to remove [65] AM 5.8.7 Quia tempus in collecto est.
[66] AM 1.29.4 ut et qui uxores habent sic sint quasi non habeant 'that those who have wives be as though they do not have'

ἡ δὲ γαμήσασα μεριμνᾷ τὰ τοῦ κόσμου, πῶς ἀρέσῃ τῷ ἀνδρί.
but the married woman cares for the things of the world, how to please her husband.

7:35 τοῦτο δὲ πρὸς τὸ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν σύμφορον λέγω, οὐχ ἵνα βρόχον ὑμῖν ἐπιβάλω,
Now this for your own profit (benefit) I say, not that I cast a noose upon you, ἀλλὰ πρὸς τὸ εὔσχημον καὶ εὐπάρεδρον τῷ κυρίῳ ἀπερισπάστως.

but for what [is] honorable and constant devotion to the Lord in an undivided way.

7:36 εἰ δέ τις ἀσχημονεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν παρθένον αὐτοῦ νομίζει,
But if anyone thinks ~ to behave improperly toward his virgin (fiancé), ἐὰν ᾖ ὑπέρακμος καὶ οὕτως ὀφείλει γίνεσθαι, ὃ θέλει ποιείτω, οὐχ ἁμαρτάνει, γαμείτωσαν.

if she is overripe, and thus it has to be, let him do what he desires, he does not sin, let them marry.

7:37 ὃς δὲ ἕστηκεν ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ αὐτοῦ ἑδραῖος, μὴ ἔχων ἀνάγκην,
But he who has stood firm in his heart, not having need, ἐξουσίαν δὲ ἔχει περὶ τοῦ ἰδίου θελήματος, καὶ τοῦτο κέκρικεν ἐν τῇ ἰδίᾳ καρδίᾳ, but has power over his concerning his own desires, and this he has determined in his own heart, τηρεῖν τὴν ἑαυτοῦ παρθένον, καλῶς ποιήσει· to keep her, his woman (fiancé) a virgin, he does well.

7:38 ὥστε καὶ ὁ γαμίζων τὴν ἑαυτοῦ παρθένον καλῶς ποιεῖ, καὶ ὁ μὴ γαμίζων κρεῖσσον ποιήσει.
So then both the one marrying his virgin (fiancé) does well, and the one not marrying does better.

7:39 Γυνὴ δέδεται ἐφ᾽ ὅσον χρόνον ζῇ ὁ ἀνὴρ αὐτῆς·
A wife has been bound for so long a time as husband lives;

ἐὰν δὲ κοιμηθῇ ὁ ἀνήρ, ἐλευθέρα ἐστὶν ᾧ θέλει γαμηθῆναι, μόνον ἐν κυρίῳ. [67]
but if her husband ~ should pass away, she is free to marry whomever she desires, only in the Lord..

7:40 μακαριωτέρα δέ ἐστιν ἐὰν οὕτως μείνῃ, κατὰ τὴν ἐμὴν γνώμην· δοκῶ δὲ κἀγὼ πνεῦμα θεοῦ ἔχειν. [68]
But blessed is she if she remains so, according to my opinion; and I consider I also have the spirit of God.

8:4 περὶ τῆς βρώσεως οὖν τῶν εἰδωλοθύτων, οἴδαμεν ὅτι οὐδὲν εἴδωλον ἐν κόσμῳ,[69]
Therefore concerning the eating of idolatrous sacrifices, we know than an idols nothing in the world, καὶ ὅτι οὐδεὶς θεὸς εἰ μὴ εἷς.

and that there is no God except the one.

8:5 καὶ γὰρ εἰσὶν λεγόμενοι θεοὶ εἴτε ἐν οὐρανῷ εἴτε ἐπὶ γῆς, [70] ὥσπερ εἰσὶν θεοὶ πολλοὶ καὶ κύριοι πολλοί,
For also there are many called gods either in heaven or on earth, even as there are many gods and many lords,

8:6 ἀλλ᾽ ἡμῖν εἷς θεὸς ὁ πατήρ, ἐξ οὗ τὰ πάντα καὶ ἡμεῖς εἰς αὐτόν, [71]
but to us [there is] one God the father of whom [are] all things and we in him, καὶ εἷς κύριος Ἰησοῦς Χριστός, δι᾽ οὗ τὰ πάντα καὶ ἡμεῖς δι᾽ αὐτοῦ. [72] and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things and we through him.

---

[67] AM 5.7.8 Gerte praescribens tantum in domino esse nubendum, [68] Verses 8:1-3 focus on wrong knowledge (Gnostics) heretics of later era. Also pastoral vocabulary γνῶσις, οἰκοδομεῖ is present.
[69] AM 5.7.9 Tertullian accounts for the whole of verse 8:4 when he mentions that Marcion brings up food offered to idols, then quotes the middle portion of the verse: De idolis enim coepit de idolothytis disputaturus: Scimus quod idolum nihil sit.
[70] AM 3.15.2 dicente apostolo, Nam et sunt qui dicuntur dii sive in caelo sive in terris. perhaps – εἴπερ (no support, vg, nam et si sunt); AM 5.7.9 Sed, Et si sunt qui dicuntur dei, sive in caelis sive in terris, apparet quomodo dixerit; non quasi vere sint, sed quia sint qui dicantur, quando non sint.
[71] AM 5.7.9 Creatorem autem et Marcion deum non negat; ergo non potest videri apostolus creatorem quoque inter eos posuisse qui dei dicantur et tamen non sint, quando, et si fuissent, nobis tamen unus esset deus pater. "To us there is but one God, the Father."
[72] Verses 8:7-13 were added by the Catholic editor, concerned with issues of idol sacrifices, which concluded in 8:4-6. It is concerned with differing opinions in the later church. Pastoral words οἰκοδομηθήσεται, συνείδησις, ἀσθενοῦσαν, σκανδαλίζει plus εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα

[73] 9:7 τίς στρατεύεται ἰδίοις ὀψωνίοις ποτέ; τίς φυτεύει ἀμπελῶνα καὶ τὸν καρπὸν αὐτοῦ οὐκ ἐσθίει;
Who serves as a soldier at any time by his own wages? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat its fruit?

ἢ [74] τίς ποιμαίνει ποίμνην καὶ ἐκ τοῦ γάλακτος οὐκ ἐσθίει; [75]
Or who shepherds a flock and does not drink the milk?

9:8 μὴ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον ταῦτα λαλῶ, ἢ καὶ ὁ νόμος ταῦτα οὐ λέγει;
Not according to man I speak these things, or also the Law says these things?

9:9 ἐν γὰρ τῷ Μωϋσέως νόμῳ γέγραπται, οὐ κημώσεις βοῦν ἀλοῶντα. μὴ τῶν βοῶν μέλει τῷ θεῶ;
For in the Law of Moses it was written, do not muzzle an Ox threading. It's not the oxen that matters to God.

9:10 ἢ δι᾽ ἡμᾶς πάντως λέγει; δι᾽ ἡμᾶς γὰρ ἐγράφη, ὅτι ὀφείλει ἐπ᾽ ἐλπίδι ὁ ἀροτριῶν ἀροτριᾶν, [76]
Rather because of us all he says? For because of us it was written, that one plowing ought to plow on hope, καὶ ὁ ἀλοῶν ἐπ᾽ ἐλπίδι τοῦ μετέχειν.

and one threshing on hope partakes.

9:11 εἰ ἡμεῖς ὑμῖν τὰ πνευματικὰ ἐσπείραμεν, μέγα εἰ ἡμεῖς ὑμῶν τὰ σαρκικὰ θερίσομεν;
If we sowed to you the spiritual things, [is it] a great thing if we will reap material (fleshy) things?

9:12 εἰ ἄλλοι τῆς ὑμῶν ἐξουσίας μετέχουσιν, οὐ μᾶλλον ἡμεῖς; ἀλλ᾽ οὐκ ἐχρησάμεθα τῇ ἐξουσίᾳ ταύτῃ,
If others have this right [over] you, rather do we not [more]? But we made no use of this power, ἀλλὰ πάντα στέγομεν ἵνα μή τινα ἐγκοπὴν δῶμεν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ τοῦ Χριστοῦ. [77]

but all things we endure, lest any we should give hinderence to the Gospel of Christ.

9:13 οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι οἱ τὰ ἱερὰ ἐργαζόμενοι [τὰ] ἐκ τοῦ ἱεροῦ ἐσθίουσιν,
Do you not know that those performing the temple services eat [the things] of the temple, οἱ τῷ θυσιαστηρίῳ παρεδρεύοντες τῷ θυσιαστηρίῳ συμμερίζονται;

---

[73] Verses 9:1-6 are not attested in Marcion. There is reason to suspect the entire section as a Catholic addition, or at least parts of it. In 9:1 οὐχὶ Ἰησοῦν τὸν κύριον ἡμῶν ἑόρακα refers to Acts 9:3-17 of Catholic Saul seeing Lord Jesus. In 9:5 we have a reference to Paul having a wife as does Cephas (Peter); perhaps this could be an Apellean position or reference where Catholics priests marry but Marcionite priests don't and Apelles broke from Marcion in part over the marriage issue – this also runs counter to 7:7 on Paul's abstinence. Verse 9:6 is further Catholic assimilation of Paul with the Barnabas as a silent partner from Acts 13:2ff, just as he was added in Galatians 2:1, 9, 13; also possibly harmony with Acts 18:3, Paul as a tent maker by profession. 9:4 is out of place, as with verse 9:5 it is aimed to run counter to the encratic stance of Marcionites with respect to food. In 9:3 the word ἀπολογία which is found in Acts 19:33, 22:1, 24:10, 25:8, 16, 26:2, 24, the Catholic additions to Romans 1:20, 2:1, 15 and 2 Timothy 4:16, 1 Peter 3:15 (Philippians 1:7, 17 the usage is Paul's defense of the Gospel, which is still suspicious) making it unlikely, combined with the unique ending to 'examining' ἀνακρίνουσίν is strong evidence of more Catholic intrusion. The vocabulary in 9:2 also reveals another Catholic word σφραγίς, lends weight that the entire paragraph of 9:1-6 as being added to the Marcion's version by the Catholic editor.
[74] Per Clabaeux, the deletion of ἢ is a stylistic improvement, despite Mcn B 1739 D F G support (against א p46 A C*); so stays in [75] For 9:7, AM 5.7.10 Ex labore suo unumquemque docens vivere oportere satis exempla praemiserat militum pastorum rusticorum;
[76] DA 1.22/8.17b-c: τίς ποιμαίνει ποίμνην καὶ ἐκ τοῦ γάλακτος οὐκ ἐσθίει; μὴ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον ταῦτα λαλῶ, ἢ οὐχὶ καὶ ὁ νόμος ταῦτα οὐ λέγει; ἐν γὰρ τῷ Μωϋσέως νόμῳ γέγραπται· οὐ φιμώσεις βοῦν ἀλοῶντα. μὴ τῶν βοῶν μέλει τῷ θεῶ; ἢ δι᾽ ἡμᾶς πάντως λέγει; δι᾽ ἡμᾶς γὰρ ἐγράφη ὅτι ὀφείλει ἐπ᾽ ἐλπίδι ὁ ἀροτριῶν ἀροτριᾶν. Rufinus: Quis pascit gregem et ex lacte eius non manducet? Numquid secundem hominem dico, an et lex haec dicit? In lege Moysi scriptum est: Non infrenabis os boui trituranti. Numquid de bubus cura est deo? An propter nos utique dixit? Propter nos enim scriptum est quia debet qui arat sub spre arare.
AM 3.5.4 cum etiam haereticorum apostolus ... ipsam legem indulgentem bubus terentibus os liberum, non de bubus sed de nobis interpretetur; AM 5.7.10 "Sheppard" mentioned concerning 9:7, then Ex labore suo unumquemque docens vivere oportere satis exempla praemiserat militum pastorum rusticorum; sed divina illi (5) auctoritas deerat. Legem igitur opponit creatoris ingratis, quam destruebat; sui enim dei nullam talem habebat. Bovi, inquit, terenti os non obligabis, et adicit, Numquid de bubus pertinet ad dominum? etiam de bubus propter homines benignum? Propter nos enim scriptum est, inquit (5.7.11 Propter nos enim scriptum est.)
Epiphanius 1 Co 9:9, 8 Instead of καὶ ὁ νόμος ταῦτα οὐ λέγει he says εἰ καὶ ὁ νόμος Μωϋσέως ταῦτα οὐ λέγει. But this is a comment not a quote, Μωϋσέως is not the text here, but rather the next sentence; 1 Co 9:9 μὴ τῶν βοῶν μέλει τῷ θεῶ;
Variants, 9:7b – ἢ support B C D F G Ψ 104 330 630 999 1505 1611 1827 1854 2147 2400 2412 2464 2495; 9.7c – τῆς ποίμνης support p^{46}[also D* F G 323 796 945 1352 1448 1827 1241^{S} ⌐αὐτης] Greek (not reflected in Rufinus) 9:8 + οὐχὶ support K L P 056 most miniscules; 9:9 ⌐φιμώσεις for κημώσεις support all except the best, B D* F G 1739; 9:10 Rufinus deviates from the Greek text reflecting ὅτι ὀφείλει ὁ ἀροτριῶν ἐφ᾽ ἐλπίδι ἀροτριᾶν (debet qui arat sub spre arare; vulgate's debet qui arat sub spre arare) probably a Latinism of Byzantine reading [77] 'the Gosepl of Christ' is Marcionite terminology; the catholic redactor of Romans wrote 'the Gospel of God' (Romans 1:1)

those attending the alter have their share with the alter?

9:14 οὕτως καὶ ὁ κύριος διέταξεν τοῖς τὸ εὐαγγέλιον καταγγέλλουισν ἐκ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ζῆν. [78]
So also the Lord appointed those proclaiming the Gospel from the Gospel to get their living.

9:15 ἐγὼ δὲ οὐ κέχρημαι οὐδενὶ τούτων. οὐκ ἔγραψα δὲ ταῦτα ἵνα οὕτως γένηται ἐν ἐμοί·
But I have not made use of any of these things. I do not write these things that it might be so with me;

καλὸν γάρ μοι μᾶλλον ἀποθανεῖν ἤ – τὸ καύχημά μου οὐδεὶς κενώσει. [79]
For [it is] better rather for me to die than no one will make empty my boasting.

9:16 ἐὰν γὰρ εὐαγγελίζωμαι, οὐκ ἔστιν μοι καύχημα· ἀνάγκη γάρ μοι ἐπίκειται·
For if I preach the gospel, there is nothing [for] me to boast; for it is necessarily placed upon me;

οὐαὶ γάρ μοί ἐστιν ἐὰν μὴ εὐαγγελίσωμαι.
for woe to me if I should not preach the gospel.

9:17 εἰ γὰρ ἑκὼν τοῦτο πράσσω, μισθὸν ἔχω· εἰ δὲ ἄκων, οἰκονομίαν πεπίστευμαι.
For if I willingly do this, I have reward; but if unwillingly, I have been entrusted with stewardship.

9:18 τίς οὖν μού ἐστιν ὁ μισθός; ἵνα εὐαγγελιζόμενος ἀδάπανον θήσω τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, What then is my reward? That preaching the gospel I may make the Gospel without cost, εἰς τὸ μὴ καταχρήσασθαι τῇ ἐξουσίᾳ μου ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ.

so as not to make full use of my power in the gospel.

9:19 ἐλεύθερος γὰρ ὢν ἐκ πάντων πᾶσιν ἐμαυτὸν ἐδούλωσα, ἵνα τοὺς πλείονας κερδήσω·
For being free from all men, to all men I enslave myself, that I might gain more;

9:20 καὶ ἐγενόμην τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις ὡς Ἰουδαῖος, ἵνα Ἰουδαίους κερδήσω·
And I became to the Jews as a Jew, that I might gain Jews;

τοῖς ὑπὸ νόμον ὡς ὑπὸ νόμον, ἵνα τοὺς ὑπὸ νόμον κερδήσω· to those under the law as under the law, that I might gain those under the law;

9:22(b) τοῖς πᾶσιν γέγονα πάντα, ἵνα πάντως σώσω. [80] 9:23(a) πάντα δὲ ποιῶ διὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον. [81] to all men I became all things, that by all means I might save. All things I do because of the Gospel.

9:24 οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι οἱ ἐν σταδίῳ τρέχοντες πάντες μὲν τρέχουσιν,
Do you not know that those running in a race all indeed run (race), εἷς δὲ λαμβάνει τὸ βραβεῖον; οὕτως τρέχετε ἵνα καταλάβητε.

But one receives the prize? So run that you may obtain it.

---

[78] AM 5.7.11 Tertullian refers to the contents of 9:13-14: ergo et legem allegoricam secundum nos probavit, et de evangelio viventibus patrocinantem, "therefore both the law is in accordingly allegorical concerning us, and concerning the Gospel by which we make our living defending (Preaching)"; this looks like a reference to Luke 10:7-8, hinting the Apostolikon is after the Gospel

[79] AM 5.7.11 Hoc ad gloriam suam retulit, quam negavit quemquam evacuaturum

[80] AM 5.3.5 ut apostolo consonent profitenti factum se Iudaeis Iudaeum ut Iudaeos lucrifaceret, et sub lege agentem propter eos qui sub lege agerent, sic et propter superinductos illos, et omnibus novissime omnia factum ut omnes lucraretur. AM 4.3.3 Et tamen cum ipse Paulus omnibus omnia fieret, ut omnes lucraretur, AM 1.20.3 postmodum et ipse usu omnibus omnia futurus, ut omnes lucraretur, Iudaeis quasi Iudaeus, et eis qui sub lege tanquam in lege . This is a surprising gaff by the Catholic editor to leave Paul's statement that 'to the Jews I became as a Jew' and 'to those under the Law I became as one under the Law' completely obliterating the Catholic fiction from Acts and additions to the Apostolikon that Paul was a Jew. The Latin only clearly deletes-τινὰς in 9:22 (support D F G Latin), which in form only agrees with the Catholic Romans 11:14 (and similarily Jude 22-23) and runs counter to the concept of trying to save all. That the verse quoted is a continuous arguement against the presense of 9:22-23a about those not under the Law and the weak, and also the qualifying phrase of Paul not being under Law, a redundancy anyway. Additionally the verses are a continuation of 9:19 ἐλεύθερος γὰρ ὢν ἐκ πάντων πᾶσιν ἐμαυτὸν ἐδούλωσα where Paul declares that he is free of all man, but he willingly accepts his enslavement ἵνα τοὺς πλείονας κερδήσω to gain more. There is no sacrifice in not being under Law, showing that verse 9:21 doesn't fit. The 9:22(a) is less certain, but I also removed it since it was not attested by Tertullian.

[81] The phrase ἵνα συγκοινωνὸς αὐτοῦ γένωμαι downplays Paul's stature with respect to his preaching. It is from the Catholic editor. The word is compound of the pastoral nature (see Romans 11:17, Revelations 1:9, 18:4) and is not attested in Marcion, only found in suspect passages such as Ephesians 5:11 and Philippians 1:7, 4:14. I left standing the first part of the verse as transitional.

9:25 πᾶς δὲ ὁ ἀγωνιζόμενος πάντα ἐγκρατεύεται,
And everyone competing in all things exercises self-control ("celibacy") ἐκεῖνοι μὲν οὖν ἵνα φθαρτὸν στέφανον λάβωσιν, ἡμεῖς δὲ ἄφθαρτον.

so that they may receive a perishable wreath, but we for an imperishable.

9:26 ἐγὼ τοίνυν οὕτως τρέχω ὡς οὐκ ἀδήλως, οὕτως πυκτεύω ὡς οὐκ ἀέρα δέρων·
So I therefore run not run with uncertainty, so I box not as beating the air;

9:27 ἀλλὰ ὑπωπιάζω μου τὸ σῶμα καὶ δουλαγωγῶ, μή πως ἄλλοις κηρύξας αὐτὸς ἀδόκιμος γένωμαι.
But I mistreat my body and make it my slave, lest to others preaching I should disqualify myself.

10:1 Οὐ θέλω γὰρ ὑμᾶς ἀγνοεῖν, ἀδελφοί,
For I do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, ὅτι οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν πάντες ὑπὸ τὴν νεφέλην ἦσαν καὶ πάντες διὰ τῆς θαλάσσης διῆλθον, [82] that all our fathers were under the cloud and all passed through the sea,

10:2 [καὶ πάντες εἰς τὸν Μωϊσῆν ἐβαπτίσθησαν ἐν τῇ νεφέλῃ καὶ ἐν τῇ θαλάσσῃ] [83]
[and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea]

10:3 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πνευματικὸν βρῶμα ἔφαγον, [84] and all ate the same spiritual food,

10:4 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πνευματικὸν ἔπιον πόμα· ἔπινον γὰρ ἐκ πνευματικῆς ἀκολουθούσης πέτρας, and all drank the same spiritual drink; for they were drinking from the spiritual rock that followed [them], ἡ πέτρα δὲ ἦν ὁ Χριστός. [85] and the rock was Christ.

10:5 ἀλλ᾽ οὐκ ἐν τοῖς πλείοσιν αὐτῶν ηὐδόκησε. [86]
But he found no pleasure with the majority of them.

10:6 ταῦτα δὲ τύποι ἡμῶν ἐγενήθησαν, εἰς τὸ μὴ εἶναι ἡμᾶς ἐπιθυμητὰς κακῶν, καθὼς κἀκεῖνοι ἐπεθύμησαν. [87]
These things happened as examples for us, for us not to desire evil things, as they also desired.

10:7 μηδὲ εἰδωλολάτραι γίνεσθε, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν· ὥσπερ γέγραπται, Neither should you become idolators, as some of them; as it has been written,

---

[82] AD 2.18 οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν πάντες ὑπὸ τὴν νεφέλην ἦσαν, καὶ πάντες διὰ τῆς θαλάσσης διῆλθον, Rufinus Patres nostri omnes sub nube fucrunt, et omnes mare transierunt Epiphanius Οὐ θέλω γὰρ ὑμᾶς ἀγνοεῖν, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν ὑπὸ τὴν νεφέλην ἦσαν, καὶ πάντες διὰ τῆς θαλάσσης διῆλθον, Epiphanius reads – πάντες but neither DA Greek not Rufinus Latin reflect this

[83] AD 2.18 This may be Catholic since it comes from Adamantius and he doesn't identify it as Marcionite: καὶ πάντες εἰς τὸν Μωσῆν ἐβαπτίσθησαν ἐν τῇ νεφέλῃ καὶ ἐν τῇ θαλάσσῃ, Rufinus et omnes in Moysi baptizati sunt in nube et in mari

[84] AD 2.18 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ βρῶμα πνευματικὸν ἔφαγον, Rufinus et omnes eandem escam spiritalem manducauerunt, Epiphanius καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πνευματικὸν ἔφαγον βρῶμα, incorrectly transposing βρῶμα ἔφαγον (support A 33 330 1175 2400); DA Greek reads βρῶμα πνευματικὸν ἔφαγον for νευματικὸν βρῶμα ἔφαγον (support א C* D F G K L Ψ 056 majority) Rufinus does not reflect this, agreeing instead with UBS and vulgate.

[85] AM 3.5.4 cum etiam haereticorum apostolus ... et petram potui subministrando comitem Christum adleget fuisse; AM 5.7.12 Ecce enim et in petram offendit caecus Marcion de qua bibebant in solitudine patres nostri. Si enim petra illa Christus fuit, Epiphanius καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πνευματικὸν ἔπιον πόμα· ἔπινον γὰρ ἐκ πνευματικῆς ἀκολουθούσης πέτρας· ἡ δὲ πέτρα ἦν ὁ Χριστός. DA 2.18 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πόμα πνευματικὸν ἔπιον· ἔπινον γὰρ ἐκ πνευματικῆς ἀκολουθούσης πέτρας· ἡ δὲ πέτρα ἦν ὁ Χριστός, Rufinus et omnes eundem potem spiritalem biberunt, bibebant enim de spiritali sequenti petra, petra autem erat Christus? DA Greek has the variant ⌐ πόμα πνευματικὸν ἔπιον for πνευματικὸν ἔπιον πόμα (support D F G K L Ψ 056 maj OL:DI Ephraim Cop Arm Goth, against p^{46} B א A C P 1739 33) Epiphanius does not and Rufinus does not reflect this, agreeing with UBS and vulgate

[86] Epiphanius reads ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐν τοῖς πλείοσιν αὐτῶν ηὐδόκησε, substituting ⌐ ηὐδόκησε for εὐδόκησεν ὁ θεός, κατεστρώθησαν γὰρ ἐν τῇ ἐρήμῳ (support for ηὐδόκησεν B* A C Clement 104 507 1175 1448 1505 1611 1735 2495, none for deletion of clause). The longer version is a catholic edition emphasizing the role of God a punisher of wrongs, the Just God of the Jews, so clearly post-Marcion.

[87] AM 5.7.12 Nam et reliquum exitum populi decursurus praemittit, Haec autem exempla nobis sunt facta. Epiphanius ταῦτα δὲ τύποι ἡμῶν ἐγενήθησαν, πρὸς τὸ μὴ εἶναι ἡμᾶς ἐπιθυμητὰς κακῶν, καθὼς καὶ ἐκεῖνοι ἐπεθύμησαν Two wrong variants, ⌐ πρὸς for εἰς no support ⌐ καὶ ἐκεῖνοι for κακεῖνοι support p^{46} F G

Ἐκάθισεν ὁ λαὸς φαγεῖν καὶ πεῖν καὶ ἀνέστησαν παίζειν. [88]
The people sat down to eat and drink and stood up to play (dance). [LXX Exodus 32:6]

10:8 [μηδὲ πορνεύ ωμεν, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν ἐπόρνευσαν καὶ ἔπεσαν μιᾷ ἡμέρᾳ εἴκοσι τρεῖς χιλιάδες.] [89]
[Neither let us fornicate as some of then fornicated and twenty-three thousand ~ fell in one day]

10:9 μηδὲ ἐκπειράζωμεν τὸν Χριστόν, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν ἐπείρασαν, καὶ ὑπὸ τῶν ὄφεων ἀπώλλυντο. [90]
Neither let us temp Christ, as some of them were temped, and under by serpants were destroyed.

10:10 μηδὲ γογγύζετε, καθάπερ τινὲς αὐτῶν ἐγόγγυσαν, καὶ ἀπώλοντο ὑπὸ τοῦ ὀλοθρευτοῦ.
Neither let us mummer, as some of them murmured, and were destroyed by the destroyer.

10:11 ταῦτα δὲ τυπικῶς συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν,
And these things happened to them as examples, but it was written for our admonition, εἰς οὓς τὰ τέλη τῶν αἰώνων κατήντηκεν. [91] to whom the end of the ages have come.

[92] 10:14 διόπερ, ἀγαπητοί μου, φεύγετε ἀπὸ τῆς εἰδωλολατρίας.
Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry.

10:15 ὡς φρονίμοις λέγω· κρίνατε ὑμεῖς ὅ φημι.
As to thoughtful men I say; you judge what I say.

10:16 τὸ ποτήριον τῆς εὐλογίας ὃ εὐλογοῦμεν, οὐχὶ κοινωνία ἐστὶν τοῦ αἵματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ;
The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not a sharing of the blood of Christ?

τὸν ἄρτον ὃν κλῶμεν, οὐχὶ κοινωνία τοῦ σώματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐστιν; [93]
the bread which we break, is it not partaking in the body of Christ?

10:17 ὅτι εἷς ἄρτος, ἓν σῶμα οἱ πολλοί ἐσμεν, οἱ γὰρ πάντες ἐκ τοῦ ἑνὸς ἄρτου μετέχομεν.
Because the one bread, we are many in one body, for we all partake in the one bread

10:18 βλέπετε τὸν Ἰσραὴλ κατὰ σάρκα· οὐχ οἱ ἐσθίοντες τὰς θυσίας κοινωνοὶ τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου εἰσίν;
Look at Israel according to the flesh; are not those eating the sacrifices partakers of the alter?

10:19 τί οὖν φημι; ὅτι εἰδωλόθυτόν τί ἐστιν; ἢ ὅτι εἴδωλόν τί ἐστιν;
What then am I saying? That an idol sacrifice is anything? Or that idols are anything?

---

[88] Epiphanius reads μηδὲ εἰδωλολάτραι γίνεσθε, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν, ὡς γέγραπται· ἐκάθισεν ὁ λαὸς φαγεῖν καὶ πιεῖν καὶ ἀνέστησαν παίζειν. Note, variant ¬ ὡς for ὥσπερ with C D* F G P several miniscules; LXX Exodus 32:6

[89] Epiphanius quotes verse 10:1-9 without 10:8; while possible HT on μηδὲ it is likely not in Marcion, since it implies Christ slew 23,000, and the story is not from Exodus which was quoted. In verse 10:9 destruction to the revelers comes by way of the serpent who represents Satan, who is one and the same as the creator God in the Marcionite cosmology. I left in because of Marcionite celibacy

[90] Epiphanius μηδὲ ἐκπειράζωμεν τὸν Χριστόν

[91] Epiphanius: ἕως ὅπου λέγει «ταῦτα δὲ τυπικῶς συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ ἡμῖν» καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς. AM 5.7.14 Denique et in clausula praefationi respondet. Haec autem quemadmodum evenerunt illis, scripta sunt ad nos commonendos, in quos fines aevorum decucurrerunt. DA 2.18 (Adamantius says) ταῦτα μὲν τύπος συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν / Haec autem omnia in typo contingebant illis, scripta autem sunt propter nos. (Marcus retorts) ταῦτ᾽ ἀτύπως συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν / Haec sine typo contingebant illis, scripta sunt autem ad commonitionem; Tertullian seems to reflect the entire verse without variance, certainly the ending phrase which agrees with the vulgate. Epihanius matches the critical text (A B 1739) except lacks πρὸς νουθεσίαν perhaps paraphrasing, as the others all reflect it. DA is difficult to evaluate, but it does appear to be an invention of the DA writer, first with τύπος for τυπικῶς with the majority, then an artificial antithetical ἀτύπως from Markus based upon the first error. That the text is based on Catholic majority is also reflected in Rufinus Latin translation adds πάντες to Adamantius' version. Conclusion, there are probably no variants in this verse, Adamatius is completely unreliable.

[92] Verses 10:12-13 appear to come from the Catholic editor, as the subject has changed from Christ to God, and God is shown both to offer temptation and escape from this test. This is impossible for Marcion's God. In verse 10:12 the admonition is to 'you' singular an not to 'us' of the prior verses.

[93] DA 2.20 τὸ δὲ ποτήριον τῆς εὐλογίας, ἤδικα ἂν λέγῃ, τὸν τε ἄρτον ὃν κλῶμεν, τοῦ αἵματος σώματος τοῦ κυρίου εἶναι κοινωνίαν the Latin is lacking; and is a paraphrase, doesn't match any Greek mss. That Rufinus lacks this verse casts great doubt on its validity. The one variant that can be detected is κυρίου for Χριστοῦ support D* F G 1735; but there is no evidence this affects Marcion's text.

10:20 ἀλλ᾽ ὅτι ἃ θύουσιν, δαιμονίοις καὶ οὐ θεῷ· [94]
Rather that which they sacrifice, is to demons and not God;

οὐ θέλω δὲ ὑμᾶς κοινωνοὺς τῶν δαιμονίων γίνεσθαι.
I do not want you to become partakers with demons

10:21 οὐ δύνασθε ποτήριον κυρίου πίνειν καὶ ποτήριον δαιμονίων,
You are not able to drink the cup of the lord and the cup of demons, οὐ δύνασθε τραπέζης κυρίου μετέχειν καὶ τραπέζης δαιμονίων. [95]

You are not able to partake of the lord's table and the table of demons.

10:31 εἴτε οὖν ἐσθίετε εἴτε πίνετε εἴτε τι ποιεῖτε, πάντα εἰς δόξαν θεοῦ ποιεῖτε. [96]
Therefore whether you eat or you drink or whatever you do, all things do to the glory of God.

11:3 θέλω δὲ ὑμᾶς εἰδέναι ὅτι παντὸς ἀνδρὸς ἡ κεφαλὴ ὁ Χριστός ἐστιν, [97] κεφαλὴ δὲ γυναικὸς ὁ ἀνήρ, [98]
But I want you to know that Christ is the head of every man, and the head of a woman is the man,

11:4 πᾶς ἀνὴρ προσευχόμενος ἢ προφητεύων κατὰ κεφαλῆς ἔχων καταισχύνει τὴν κεφαλὴν αὐτοῦ·
Every man praying or prophesizing having anything over his head shame his head;

11:5 πᾶσα δὲ γυνὴ προσευχομένη ἢ προφητεύουσα ἀκατακαλύπτῳ τῇ κεφαλῇ καταισχύνει τὴν κεφαλὴν αὐτῆς· and every woman praying or prophesizing with her head uncovered shames her head;

ἓν γάρ ἐστιν καὶ τὸ αὐτὸ τῇ ἐξυρημένῃ.
for it is one and the same as being shaved.

11:6 εἰ γὰρ οὐ κατακαλύπτεται γυνή, καὶ κειράσθω·
For if a woman is not covered, also let her be shaved;

εἰ δὲ αἰσχρὸν γυναικὶ τὸ κείρασθαι ἢ ξυρᾶσθαι, κατακαλυπτέσθω. [99] and if it is shameful for a woman to be shaved, let her be covered.

11:7 ἀνὴρ μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ὀφείλει κατακαλύπτεσθαι τὴν κεφαλήν,
For a man indeed ought not to be covering the head, εἰκὼν καὶ δόξα θεοῦ ὑπάρχων· ἡ γυνὴ δὲ δόξα ἀνδρός ἐστιν. [100] being the image and glory of God; be woman is the glory of man.

11:8 οὐ γάρ ἐστιν ἀνὴρ ἐκ γυναικός, ἀλλὰ γυνὴ ἐξ ἀνδρός·
For man is not of woman, but woman of man;

---

[94] Epiphanius Τί οὖν φημι; ὅτι ἱερόθυτον τί ἐστιν ἢ εἰδωλόθυτον τί ἐστιν; ἀλλ' ὅτι ἃ θύουσι, δαιμονίοις καὶ οὐ θεῷ, Epiphanius reads – πάντες; The deletion ἢ ὅτι εἴδωλόν τί ἐστιν of is supported by p^{46} A C* Ψ 6 33 1874 1881; No support to add ἱερόθυτον τί ἐστιν ἢ This looks like two variants occurred, first εἴδωλόν was transposed with εἰδωλόθυτον then ἱερόθυτον replaced εἴδωλόν and the second ὅτι was dropped to make sense. The UBS text is almost certainly the same as the original Marcionte.
[95] AM 5.7.14 Magnum argumentum dei alterius permissio omnium obsoniorum adversus legem. "A great argument for another god is the permission to eat of all kinds of meats, contrary to the law." Apparently the material from 10:22-30 was not in Marcion. There are pastoral compound words present as well, as pointed out by Munro p169, verse 10:23 οἰκοδομεῖ, 10:28 ἱερόθυτόν, 10:30 εὐχαριστῶ [96] Verses 10:32-11:2 were added by the Catholic editor to bridge the inserted material. The concept of traditions παραδόσεις being received so that he could pass down by Paul is inconsistent with Marcion's depiction of Paul receiving his teaching by revelation.
[97] AM 5.8.1 Caput viri Christus est. "The head of man is Christ." Did Tertullian simply leave out omnis as unnecessary for his argument, or is παντὸς which was often added elsewhere, a Catholic addition to the text? I lean toward the former argument
[98] The phrase κεφαλὴ δὲ τοῦ Χριστοῦ ὁ θεός was not likely present in Marcion. There is a subject change from describing man from Christ and woman from man to describing the relationship of father and son. The phrase strikes me as having Arian origins
[99] AM 5.8.11 ceterum prophetandi ius et illas habere iam ostendit, cum mulieri etiam prophetanti velamen imponit "however they already have the right of prophesying, and shows that a veil imposed on a woman prophesying" - refers to 1 Corinthians 11:5-6
[100] AM 5.8.1 Vir enim non debet caput velare, cum sit dei imago Epiphanisu Panoranion 42 ἀνὴρ οὐκ ὀφείλει κομᾶν, δόξα καὶ εἰκὼν θεοῦ ὑπάρχων DA 5.23 (Greek only, questionable validity as Marcionite) ἀνὴρ μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ὀφείλει κατακαλύπτεσθαι τὴν κεφαλήν, εἰκὼν καὶ δόξα θεοῦ ὑπάρχων; Epiphanius reads δόξα καὶ εἰκὼν for εἰκὼν καὶ δόξα no mss, support, ditto κομᾶν for κατακαλύπτεσθαι which Tertullian disagrees caput velare, so probably "long hair" was suggested by verse 14-15 and found it's way into Epiphanius

11:9 καὶ γὰρ οὐκ ἐκτίσθη ἀνὴρ διὰ τὴν γυναῖκα, ἀλλὰ γυνὴ διὰ τὸν ἄνδρα. [101] for indeed man was not created because of the woman, but woman because of the man.

11:10 διὰ τοῦτο ὀφείλει ἡ γυνὴ ἐξουσίαν ἔχειν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς διὰ τοὺς ἀγγέλους. [102] [103]
Because of this the woman ought to have power (authority) on the head because of the angels.

[104] [105] 11:17 Τοῦτο δὲ παραγγέλλων οὐκ ἐπαινῶ ὅτι οὐκ εἰς τὸ κρεῖσσον ἀλλὰ εἰς τὸ ἧσσον συνέρχεσθε.
But in giving this following charge I give no praise because it's not for the better but the worse that I come to you.

11:18 πρῶτον μὲν γὰρ συνερχομένων ὑμῶν ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ ἀκούω σχίσματα ἐν ὑμῖν ὑπάρχειν, καὶ μέρος τι πιστεύω.
For first indeed when you come together in church, I hear divisions among you exist, and partly I believe it.

11:19 δεῖ γὰρ καὶ αἱρέσεις ἐν ὑμῖν εἶναι, ἵνα [καὶ] οἱ δόκιμοι φανεροὶ γένωνται ἐν ὑμῖν. [106]
For it is also necessary for sects among you, that [also] the approved ones may be manifest among you.

11:20 Συνερχομένων οὖν ὑμῶν ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ οὐκ ἔστιν κυριακὸν δεῖπνον φαγεῖν·
Therefore your coming together in one place is it not to eat the Lord's Supper;

11:21 ἕκαστος γὰρ τὸ ἴδιον δεῖπνον προλαμβάνει ἐν τῷ φαγεῖν, καὶ ὃς μὲν πεινᾷ, ὃς δὲ μεθύει.
for each one takes first his own supper to eat, and one [goes] hungry, and one is drunk.

11:22 μὴ γὰρ οἰκίας οὐκ ἔχετε εἰς τὸ ἐσθίειν καὶ πίνειν; [107]
For do you not have homes in which to eat and drink?

καὶ καταισχύνετε τοὺς μὴ ἔχοντας; [τί εἴπω ὑμῖν; ἐπαινέσω ὑμᾶς; ἐν τούτῳ οὐκ ἐπαινῶ.]
and do you shame those without? [What should I say to you? Will I praise you? I dont praise you in this.]

[108] [109] 11:33 ὥστε, ἀδελφοί μου, συνερχόμενοι εἰς τὸ φαγεῖν ἀλλήλους ἐκδέχεσθε.

---

[101] AM 5.8.2 Si quia ex viro et propter virum facta est, Tertullian sums up verse 11 :9, not an exact quote
[102] AM 5.8.2 Sed et quare mulier potestatem super caput habere debebit?
[103] τὰ δὲ πάντα ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ similar to 11:3 as clarification and inclusion of women (could have come in at the Apellean stage, pre-Catholic) The phrase "all things are of God" contradicts 11:7 where man is the image and glory of God, and seems a clarification to include women. In Marcionite/heretical theology the soul of man belongs to God, but the things of the world belong to the demiurge. This alerts us that the discussion of the relationship of woman to man has changed to that of the following verses with respect to God and nature itself, contradicting the strictly exegetical LXX explanation in the prior verses, so these more equal footing form a bridge [104] Winsome Monroe, appendix B page 157 identifies the common theme between 1:14 οὐδὲ ἡ φύσις αὐτὴ διδάσκει and Romans 1:26, where nature shows/teaches expected behavior. She also notes that κομᾷ 'hair' is unique these two verses. The judgment in 1:13 refers to nature and a woman's hair, so must also be added – Marcion's Paul does not delegate, this is from a later era.
[105] Winsome Monroe identified φιλόνεικος 'strife/contentious' as a compound word from the Pastoral stratum, (also showing contact with Luke 22:24 – possibly related to contact in verses 11:24-25 contact with Luke 22:19-20) which along with the rest of the verse is concerned with heretical movements following contradicting traditions within the church concerning women, an issue largely later than Marcion. This is also out of place coming before the concept of heresy/division is broached in 11:18. The term συνήθειαν 'customs' is rare (John 18:39) and only occurs here and suspect verse 8:7, another Pastoral identifier. Finally the verse shows an interesting idea that o Paul's followers and the Church of God as separate enities; this has led to some amazing exeegitical gymnastics about Paul using "we" means in an effort to avoid the more straight forwad conclusion that the Catholic Church of ἐκκλησίαι τοῦ θεοῦ is distinct from the group Paul is thought to represent when this was written. This verse is evidence of expansion to ἐκκλησίαι to be ἐκκλησίαι τοῦ θεοῦ in the Pauline opening verse of 1 & 2 Corinthians and 1 & 2 Thessalonians thus identifying the Church. This is a subtle difference with the Marcionites, as with the Gospel, which the Catholics refer to as εὐαγγέλιον θεοῦ (Romans 1:1) and Marcion's Paul refers to as εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ (Galatians 1:7, also 1:12; compare Mark 1:1). These subtleties seem silly to us today, but the Arain controversy led to very nasty persecution.
[106] AM 5.8.3 Saepe iam ostendimus haereses apud apostolum inter mala ut malum poni / We have often shown before now, that the apostle classes heresies as evil among "works of the flesh," (1 Corinthians 11:19) – english translation rather inaccurate
[107] ἢ τῆς ἐκκλησίας τοῦ θεοῦ καταφρονεῖτε defends the Church as an institution; καταφρονεῖτε is pastoral (Romans 2:4, 2 Peter 2:10)
[108] Verses 11:23-27, 30 are all part of a later post Marcion stratum. The concept of Paul receiving a tradition παρέλαβον ἀπὸ τοῦ κυρίου as opposed to revelation (Galatians 1:12 παρέλαβον αὐτὸ οὔτε ἐδιδάχθην ἀλλὰ δι᾽ ἀποκαλύψεως Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ) is impossible in Marcion, even coming from the Lord. The tradition which follows in verse 11:24-25 is lifted entirely verbatim from Luke 22:19-20. While this material in Luke is attested in Marcion's Gospel (AM 4.40.4) it is unique that the Gospel would be quoted in Paul, and a rather later version at that; the reading includes ⌐ ὡσαύτως καὶ τὸ ποτήριον for καὶ τὸ ποτήριον ὡσαύτως (all mss. except B p^{75} א U 579)which indicates this came back into 1 Corinthians later. The other problem is this passage is concerned with sacrament in the Church, a concern independent of the early Christian feasts of the surrounding text. This point is apparent in 11:28 when the meaning of the sacrament as a method to separate orthodox from heretic is stated in terms of worthiness, an issue of prominence against Gnostics. In verse 11:26 the concern is with not only the meaning of the sacrament, but also the second coming of

So then, my brothers, when coming together to eat wait for one another.

11:34 εἴ τις πεινᾷ, ἐν οἴκῳ ἐσθιέτω, ἵνα μὴ εἰς κρίμα συνέρχησθε.
If anyone hungers, let him eat in his home, lest you come together for judgment.

Τὰ δὲ λοιπὰ ὡς ἂν ἔλθω διατάξομαι.
And the remaining matters whenever I come I will set in order.

12:1 περὶ δὲ τῶν πνευματικῶν, [110]
Now concerning spiritual things,

[111]12:4 διαιρέσεις δὲ χαρισμάτων εἰσίν, τὸ δὲ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα·
There are different kinds of gifts, but the same spirit;

12:5 καὶ διαιρέσεις διακονιῶν εἰσιν, καὶ ὁ αὐτὸς κύριος· and there are different kinds of ministries, but the same Lord.

12:6 καὶ διαιρέσεις ἐνεργημάτων εἰσίν, ὁ δὲ αὐτὸς θεός, ὁ ἐνεργῶν τὰ πάντα ἐν πᾶσιν.
And there are different kinds of works, but the same God, who works all things in all men.

12:7 ἑκάστῳ δὲ δίδοται ἡ φανέρωσις τοῦ πνεύματος πρὸς τὸ συμφέρον.
But the each is given the manifestation of the spirit for profiting.

12:8 ᾧ μὲν γὰρ διὰ τοῦ πνεύματος δίδοται λόγος σοφίας,
For to one through the spirit is given a word of wisdom, ἄλλῳ δὲ λόγος γνώσεως κατὰ τὸ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα, yet another a word of wisdom according to the same spirit,

12:9 ἑτέρῳ πίστις ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ πνεύματι, ἄλλῳ δὲ χαρίσματα ἰαμάτων ἐν τῷ ἑνὶ πνεύματι, to another faith by the same spirit, yet another gifts of healing by the one spirit, 12:10 ἄλλῳ δὲ ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, ἄλλῳ [δὲ] προφητεία, ἄλλῳ [δὲ] διακρίσεις πνευμάτων, and yet to another the working of powers, [and] yet another prophecy, [and] to another discerning of spirits, ἑτέρῳ γένη γλωσσῶν, ἄλλῳ δὲ ἑρμηνεία γλωσσῶν· [112] to another kinds of tongues, and yet another interpretation of tongues.

12:11 πάντα δὲ ταῦτα ἐνεργεῖ τὸ ἓν καὶ τὸ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα, διαιροῦν ἰδίᾳ ἑκάστῳ καθὼς βούλεται.
and all these work by the one and the same spirit, distributing to each one individually as he determines.

12:12 καθάπερ γὰρ τὸ σῶμα ἕν ἐστιν καὶ μέλη πολλὰ ἔχει,
For even as the body is one and has many members, πάντα δὲ τὰ μέλη τοῦ σώματος πολλὰ ὄντα ἕν ἐστιν σῶμα, οὕτως καὶ ὁ Χριστός· and all the members of the body though many are one body, so also Christ;

12:13 καὶ γὰρ ἐν ἑνὶ πνεύματι ἡμεῖς πάντες εἰς ἓν σῶμα ἐβαπτίσθημεν, for also in one spirit we were all baptized into one body,

---

the Lord, a Catholic concept differing from Marcion. Finally verse 11:30 is rendered nonsensical without the second comming commentary in 11:26, as 11:21-22, 28-29, 31-34 are dealing with matters of immediacy. The flow is thus restored from 11:22 to 11:28

[109] While matching the Marcionite position where the world and creation is doomed to judgement (Romans 8:21). 11:28-32 discuss judegment for drinking and eating of food in the sense of the sacrament, and intrude upon the discussion of etiquette 11:20-22, 33-34.

[110] AM 5.8.4 Nunc de spiritalibus dico

[111] Verses 12:1b-3 intrude upon the narrative, characterising Paul's followers as formerly being ἔθνη 'gentiles' lead astray by idol worship and and stranger still the Holy Ghost as being able to curse Ἀνάθεμα Christ and that those speaking in the Spitit of God (tongues?) can do so, subjects far astray from the discussion at hand in vv 1,4ff of spitual gifts. Clearly post Marcion.

[112] AM 5.8.8 Tertullian compares Marcion's 1 Corinthians 12:8-10 (red) with Isaiah 11:1-3 (purple) Alii, inquit, datur per spiritum sermo sapientiae: statim et Esaias spiritum sapientiae posuit. Alii sermo scientiae: hic erit sermo intellegentiae et consilii. Alii fides in eodem spiritu: hic erit spiritus religionis et timoris dei. Alii donum curationum, alii virtutum: hic erit valentiae spiritus. Alii prophetia, alii distinctio spirituum, alii genera linguarum, alii interpretatio linguarum: hic erit agnitionis spiritus.

εἴτε Ἰουδαῖοι εἴτε Ἕλληνες εἴτε δοῦλοι εἴτε ἐλεύθεροι, καὶ πάντες ἓν πνεῦμα ἐποτίσθημεν.
whether Jews or Greeks, whether slaves or free, and all were given one spirit to drink.

12:14 καὶ γὰρ τὸ σῶμα οὐκ ἔστιν ἓν μέλος ἀλλὰ πολλά.
For also the body is not one member but many.

12:15 ἐὰν εἴπῃ ὁ πούς, ὅτι οὐκ εἰμὶ χείρ, οὐκ εἰμὶ ἐκ τοῦ σώματος, οὐ παρὰ τοῦτο οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τοῦ σώματος·
If the foot says, because I am not a hand, I am not of the body, not for this reason cease to be of the body

12:16 καὶ ἐὰν εἴπῃ τὸ οὖς, ὅτι οὐκ εἰμὶ ὀφθαλμός, οὐκ εἰμὶ ἐκ τοῦ σώματος, and if the ear says, because I am not an eye, I am not of the body, οὐ παρὰ τοῦτο οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τοῦ σώματος· not for this reason will it cease to be of the body

12:17 εἰ ὅλον τὸ σῶμα ὀφθαλμός, ποῦ ἡ ἀκοή; εἰ ὅλον ἀκοή, ποῦ ἡ ὄσφρησις;
If the whole body was an eye, where is hearing? If whole was hearing, where is the smelling?

12:18 νυνὶ δὲ ὁ θεὸς ἔθετο τὰ μέλη, ἓν ἕκαστον αὐτῶν, ἐν τῷ σώματι καθὼς ἠθέλησεν.
But now God assigned the members, every one of them in the body as he placed them.

12:19 εἰ δὲ ἦν τὰ πάντα ἓν μέλος, ποῦ τὸ σῶμα; 12:20 νῦν δὲ πολλὰ μὲν μέλη, ἓν δὲ σῶμα.
And if all are one member, where is the body? But now [there are] many members, but one body.

12:21 οὐ δύναται δὲ ὁ ὀφθαλμὸς εἰπεῖν τῇ χειρί, χρείαν σου οὐκ ἔχω,
And the eye is not able to say to the hand, I have no need of you,

ἢ πάλιν ἡ κεφαλὴ τοῖς ποσίν, χρείαν ὑμῶν οὐκ ἔχω· or again the head to the feet, I have no need of you;

12:22 ἀλλὰ πολλῷ μᾶλλον τὰ δοκοῦντα μέλη τοῦ σώματος ἀσθενέστερα ὑπάρχειν ἀναγκαῖά ἐστιν, but rather the many members of the body appearing to be weaker are necessary, 12:23 καὶ ἃ δοκοῦμεν ἀτιμότερα εἶναι τοῦ σώματος, τούτοις τιμὴν περισσοτέραν περιτίθεμεν, and those of body we think to be dishonorable we clothe those with more abundant honor, καὶ τὰ ἀσχήμονα ἡμῶν εὐσχημοσύνην περισσοτέραν ἔχει,

Place and our shameful parts have greater promnance,

12:24 τὰ δὲ εὐσχήμονα ἡμῶν οὐ χρείαν ἔχει.
but our comely members have nod need.

ἀλλὰ ὁ θεὸς συνεκέρασεν τὸ σῶμα, τῷ ὑστεροῦντι περισσοτέραν δοὺς τιμήν, [113]
But God combined them for the body, the lacking members he gave them more abundant honor, 12:25 ἵνα μὴ ᾖ σχίσμα ἐν τῷ σώματι, ἀλλὰ τὸ αὐτὸ ὑπὲρ ἀλλήλων μεριμνῶσιν τὰ μέλη.

lest there be division in the body, but the members should care the same (equally) for one another.

12:26 καὶ εἴτε πάσχει ἓν μέλος, συμπάσχει πάντα τὰ μέλη· εἴτε δοξάζεται [ἓν] μέλος, συγχαίρει πάντα τὰ μέλη.
And whether one member suffers, it suffers with all the members; or one member honored, all members rejoice.

[114] 12:31 ζηλοῦτε δὲ τὰ χαρίσματα τὰ μείζονα. καὶ ἔτι καθ᾽ ὑπερβολὴν ὁδὸν ὑμῖν δείκνυμι. [115]
But you earnestly desire the greater gifts. And yet I show you a way beyond compare.

---

[113] Epiphanius ἀλλὰ ὁ θεὸς συνεχέρασε τὸ σῶμα AD 2.19 ὁ θεὸς συνεκέρασεν τὸ σῶμα, τῷ ὑστεροῦντι περισσοτέραν δοὺς τιμήν, Rufinus ; ⌐ ὑστεροῦντι for ὑστερουμένῳ support p^{46} ℵ^{c} D F G K L Ψ 056 1739 330 1982 maj Origin Chrys Thdrt (Latin not reflected). Clabeaux rates the active voice of Marcion as correct.

[114] The entire digression of verses 12:27-30 introduces the later concept of the formal Church as the body of Christ (Epehsians 5:23, Colossians 1:24), and is concerned with the rank order within the Church, even adding administrative roles ἀντιλήμψεις κυβερνήσεις indicating a much lager and more formal organization than whe the Marcionte was formed. There is no rank but equality in 12:25-26

[115] AM 5.8.9 Possum dicere, ipsum quod corporis nostri per multa et diversa membra unitatem charismatum variorum compagini adaequavit, "This, too, I may confidently say: he who has likened the unity of our body throughout its manifold and divers members to the compacting together of the various gifts of the Spirit" (1 Corinthians xii.12-30, compared with Ephesians iv.16)

13:1 ἐὰν ταῖς γλώσσαις τῶν ἀνθρώπων λαλῶ καὶ τῶν ἀγγέλων, [116]
If in the tongues of men I speak and of angels, ἀγάπην δὲ μὴ ἔχω, γέγονα χαλκὸς ἠχῶν ἢ κύμβαλον ἀλαλάζον.

but love I do not have, I have become a brass sounding or a clanging cymbol.

13:2 καὶ ἐὰν ἔχω προφητείαν καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν γνῶσιν, [117] ἀγάπην δὲ μὴ ἔχω, οὐθέν εἰμι.
And if I have prophecy and all the knowledge, but love I do not have, I am nothing.

13:3 κἂν ψωμίσω πάντα τὰ ὑπάρχοντά μου, καὶ ἐὰν παραδῶ τὸ σῶμά μου ἵνα καυχήσωμαι, [118]
And if I give away all my possessions, and if I give over my body that I may boast, ἀγάπην δὲ μὴ ἔχω, οὐδὲν ὠφελοῦμαι.

but love I do not have, I have gained nothing.

13:4 ἡ ἀγάπη μακροθυμεῖ, χρηστεύεται, ἡ ἀγάπη οὐ περπερεύεται, οὐ φυσιοῦται,[119] love is patient, kind, love does not brag, is not arrogant

13:5 οὐ παροξύνεται, οὐ λογίζεται τὸ κακόν, [120] 13:6 οὐ χαίρει ἐπὶ τῇ ἀδικίᾳ, συγχαίρει δὲ τῇ ἀληθείᾳ· is not provoked, does not reckon wrong, does not rejoice over unrighteousness, but rejoices with the truth;

13:7 πάντα στέγει, πάντα πιστεύει, πάντα ἐλπίζει, πάντα ὑπομένει.
all things it bears, in all things it has faith, in all things it hopes, all things it endures.

13:8 ἡ ἀγάπη οὐδέποτε πίπτει· εἴτε δὲ προφητεῖαι, καταργηθήσονται· εἴτε γνῶσις, καταργηθήσεται. [121]
Love never fails; but whether prophecies, they will be abolished; or knowledge, it will be abolished.

13:9 ἐκ μέρους γὰρ γινώσκομεν καὶ ἐκ μέρους προφητεύομεν· for in part we know and in part we prophecy;

13:10 ὅταν δὲ ἔλθῃ τὸ τέλειον, τὸ ἐκ μέρους καταργηθήσεται.
but when comes completion, the thing in part will be abolished.

13:11 ὅτε ἤμην νήπιος, ἐλάλουν ὡς νήπιος, ἐφρόνουν ὡς νήπιος, ἐλογιζόμην ὡς νήπιος·
When I was a child, I spoke like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child;

ὅτε γέγονα ἀνήρ, κατήργηκα τὰ τοῦ νηπίου.
When I became a man, I abolished the things of the child.

13:12 βλέπομεν γὰρ ἄρτι δι᾽ ἐσόπτρου ἐν αἰνίγματι, τότε δὲ πρόσωπον πρὸς πρόσωπον·
For we see still through a mirror in enigma, but then face to face;

ἄρτι γινώσκω ἐκ μέρους, τότε δὲ ἐπιγνώσομαι καθὼς καὶ ἐπεγνώσθην.
yet I know in part, but then I will fully know even as also I was fully known.

13:13 νυνὶ δὲ μένει πίστις, ἐλπίς, ἀγάπη, τὰ τρία ταῦτα· μείζων δὲ τούτων ἡ ἀγάπη. [122]
But now remains faith, hope, love, these three things; and greatest of this is love.

14:1 διώκετε τὴν ἀγάπην, ζηλοῦτε δὲ τὰ πνευματικά, μᾶλλον δὲ ἵνα προφητεύητε.
Pursue love, and eagerly desire spiritual things, even more that you may prophecy.

---

[116] I was uncertain on this verse because tongues are not part of the poem but accepted 4:9 having καὶ ἀγγέλοις καὶ ἀνθρώποις

[117] καὶ εἰδῶ τὰ μυστήρια πάντα καὶ ἐὰν ἔχω πᾶσαν τὴν πίστιν ὥστε ὄρη μεθιστάναι is a clear reference to Matthew 17:20, 21:21

[118] Most manuscripts read καυθησομαι 'to be burned' but this is almost certainly from a later era, and becomes redundant with giving up the body, losing the reason. The correct text καυχήσωμαι is supported by B p46 א A 1739* 33

[119] οὐ φυσιοῦται 'arrogant' is left here because it fits the poem, but I am uncertain, as everywhere else it has an anti Gnostic purpose

[120] οὐ ζηλοῖ in 13:4 and οὐκ ἀσχημονεῖ, οὐ ζητεῖ τὰ ἑαυτῆς in 13:5 may not have been part of the original poem, as they uniquely refer to personal behavior as opposed to the attributes of Love itself as the subject – behaving disgracefully only makes sense for people, not for an abstract concept. In the case of jealousy the ending form does not match. Removing these restores pairs of attributes

[121] εἴτε γλῶσσαι, παύσονται 'or tongues, they will cease' doesn't fit structurally, and tongues are unmentioned in the rest of the poem.

[122] AM 5.8.9 qui de dilectione quoque omnibus charismatibus praeponenda apostolum instruxerit principali praecepto, "and on the subject of the superiority of love above all these gifts, He even taught the apostle that it was the chief commandment" (compare 1 Corinthians 12:31, 13:1, 13)

14:2 ὁ γὰρ λαλῶν γλώσσῃ οὐκ ἀνθρώποις λαλεῖ ἀλλὰ θεῷ· οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἀκούει, πνεύματι δὲ λαλεῖ μυστήρια· [123]
For those speaking in tongue not to men but speaks to God; for no one hears, but he speaks mysteries in spirit;

14:6 Νῦν δέ, ἀδελφοί, ἐὰν ἔλθω πρὸς ὑμᾶς γλώσσαις λαλῶν, τί ὑμᾶς ὠφελήσω,
But now, brothers, if I come to you speaking in tongues, what will I benefit you?

ἐὰν μὴ ὑμῖν λαλήσω ἢ ἐν ἀποκαλύψει ἢ ἐν γνώσει ἢ ἐν προφητείᾳ ἢ [ἐν] διδαχῇ;
Except that I speak to you either with revelation or with knowledge or with prophecy or [with] teaching.

14:7 ὅμως τὰ ἄψυχα φωνὴν διδόντα, εἴτε αὐλὸς εἴτε κιθάρα, ἐὰν διαστολὴν τοῖς φθόγγοις μὴ δῶ, Even lifeless things make sounds, whether a flute or harp, if they do not give a distinction in the notes, πῶς γνωσθήσεται τὸ αὐλούμενον ἢ τὸ κιθαριζόμενον;

Place how will we know what the flute or harp is playing?

14:8 καὶ γὰρ ἐὰν ἄδηλον σάλπιγξ φωνὴν δῶ, τίς παρασκευάσεται εἰς πόλεμον;
For if also a trumpet gives an unclear call, who will prepare himself for battle?

14:9 οὕτως καὶ ὑμεῖς διὰ τῆς γλώσσης ἐὰν μὴ εὔσημον λόγον δῶτε, πῶς γνωσθήσεται τὸ λαλούμενον;
So also unless you by your tongue give intelligible words, how will what is being said be known?

ἔσεσθε γὰρ εἰς ἀέρα λαλοῦντες.
For you will be speaking in the air (wind)

14:10 τοσαῦτα εἰ τύχοι γένη φωνῶν εἰσιν ἐν κόσμῳ, καὶ οὐδὲν ἄφωνον·
So it is that there are many kinds of languages in the world, and not one is meaningless;

14:11 ἐὰν οὖν μὴ εἰδῶ τὴν δύναμιν τῆς φωνῆς, ἔσομαι τῷ λαλοῦντι βάρβαρος καὶ ὁ λαλῶν ἐν ἐμοὶ βάρβαρος. [124]
So if I do not know the meaning of the voice, I will speak as to a foriegner and the speaker a foreigner to me.

14:18 εὐχαριστῶ τῷ θεῷ, πάντων ὑμῶν μᾶλλον γλώσσαις λαλῶ· [125]
I thank God that I speak in tongues more than all of you;

14:19 ἀλλὰ ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ θέλω πέντε λόγους τῷ νοί μου λαλῆσαι, [126] but in church I want to speak five words with my mind, ἵνα καὶ ἄλλους κατηχήσω, ἢ μυρίους λόγους ἐν γλώσσῃ. [127] rather than ten thousand words in a tongue.

14:21 ἐν τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται ὅτι Ἐν ἑτερογλώσσοις καὶ ἐν χείλεσιν ἑτέρων λαλήσω τῷ λαῷ τούτῳ, [128]
In the Law it is written that, "In other tongues and with lips of others I will speak to this people, καὶ οὐδ᾽ οὕτως εἰσακούσονταί μου, λέγει κύριος.

even so they will not hear me," says the Lord.

---

[123] Verse 14:3-5 were added by the Catholic editor and deal with Prophesy for the edification of the church. 14:2, 6 speak of tongues

[124] Verses 14:12-17 were added by the Catholic editor to tame the use of tongues in church. Svereal words are identified as the pastoral strata by Winsome Monroe. The focus si on the church as an institution, and new initiates role. It interrupts the flow of Paul's discussion of tongues as noise, flowing directly into his claim of speaking more than others,

[125] Epiphanius πάντων πλέον ὑμῶν λαλῶ γλώσσαις support Ψ for ⌐ πλέον ὑμῶν λαλῶ γλώσσαις for ὑμῶν μᾶλλον γλώσσαις λαλῶ

[126] Epiphanius Πεπλανημένως ὁ Μαρκίων μετὰ τό ἀλλὰ ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ θέλω πέντε λόγους τῷ νοί μου λαλῆσαι προσέθετο διὰ τὸν νόμον (Marcion, after ἀλλὰ ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ θέλω πέντε λόγους τῷ νοί μου λαλῆσαι adds διὰ τὸν νόμον) this variant is improbable. Clabeaux sides with H.J. Frede that this is a visual error caused by a misreading of τῷ νοί μου

[127] Verse 14:20 was added by the Catholic editor, a stray topic concerning right and wrong thinking pertaining to later heresy.

[128] Epiphanius ἐν τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται ὅτι ἐν ἑτερογλώσσοις καὶ ἐν χείλεσιν ἑτέροις λαλήσω πρὸς τὸν λαὸν τοῦτον AM 5.8.10 Et si quod in lege scriptum esset commemorat, in aliis linguis et in aliis labiis locuturum creatorem, cum hac commemoratione charisma linguarum confirmat, nec hic potest videri alienum charisma creatoris praedicatione confirmasse, 'When he mentions the fact that "it is written in the law," how that the Creator would speak with other tongues and other lips, whilst confirming indeed the gift of tongues by such a mention, he yet cannot be thought to have affirmed that the gift was that of another god by his reference to the Creator's prediction' Note only variant ἑτέροις for ἑτέρων has support p^{46} D^2 F G maj syr^P Cop Arm Goth Eth Origin OL:DI vg attempts to match LXX Isaiah 28:11

[129] 14:26 Τί οὖν ἐστιν, ἀδελφοί; ὅταν συνέρχησθε, ἕκαστος ψαλμὸν ἔχει, διδαχὴν ἔχει,
What is it (to be) then, brothers? When you come together, (and) each one has a psalm, has a teaching, ἀποκάλυψιν ἔχει, γλῶσσαν ἔχει, ἑρμηνείαν ἔχει· [130] [131] has a revelation, has a tongue, has an interpretation,

14:32 καὶ πνεύματα προφητῶν προφήταις ὑποτάσσεται, and the spirit of the prophets are subject to the prophets;

14:33 οὐ γάρ ἐστιν ἀκαταστασίας ὁ θεὸς ἀλλὰ εἰρήνης. [132] Ὡς ἐν πάσαις ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τῶν ἁγίων, [133] for he is not the God of confusion, but of peace. As in all churches of the saints, 14:34 αἱ γυναῖκες ἐν ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις σιγάτωσαν, οὐ γὰρ ἐπιτρέπεται αὐταῖς λαλεῖν·

Let the women in Church be silent, for they are not allowed to speak;

ἀλλὰ ὑποτασσέσθωσαν, καθὼς καὶ ὁ νόμος λέγει. [134] [135]
but let them be submissive, as also the Law says.

15:1 Γνωρίζω δὲ ὑμῖν, ἀδελφοί, τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ὃ εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν, [136]
Now I make known to you, brothers, the Gospel which I preached to you, ὃ καὶ παρελάβετε, ἐν ᾧ καὶ ἑστήκατε, which you received, in which you also have stood,

15:2 δι᾽ οὗ καὶ σῴζεσθε, τίνι λόγῳ εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν εἰ κατέχετε, ἐκτὸς εἰ μὴ εἰκῇ ἐπιστεύσατε.
if you hold fast the word which I preached to you, unless in vain you believed.

15:3 παρέδωκα γὰρ ὑμῖν ἐν πρώτοις, [137] ὅτι Χριστὸς ἀπέθανεν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν
For I handed on to you, in the very first things, that Christ died for our sins, 15:4 καὶ ὅτι ἐτάφη, καὶ ὅτι ἐγήγερται τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ τρίτῃ, [138] and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day,

15:11 εἴτε οὖν ἐγὼ εἴτε ἐκεῖνοι, οὕτως κηρύσσομεν καὶ οὕτως ἐπιστεύσατε. [139]
Therefore whether I or they, so we preach and so you believe.

15:12 Εἰ δὲ Χριστὸς κηρύσσεται ὅτι ἐκ νεκρῶν ἐγήγερται,
And if Christ is proclaimed raised from the dead,

πῶς λέγουσιν ἐν ὑμῖν τινες ὅτι ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν οὐκ ἔστιν;

---

[129] Verses 14:22-25 are concerned with how to behave with non-believers coming into the church, an issue of a later time.
[130] AM 5.8.11 'edat aliquem psalmum, aliquam visionem, aliquam orationem' an allusion to 1 Corinthaisn 14:26
[131] Verses 14:26b-30 concern the order of an established church , and are not original [132] AM 4.4.5 et spiritus prophetarum prophetis erunt subditi, non enim eversionis sunt, sed pacis
[133] Note ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τῶν ἁγίων 'the churches of the Saints ' is the Marcionite name for the Church.
[134] Epiphanius Αἱ γυναῖκες ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ σιγάτωσαν· οὐ γὰρ ἐπιτέτραπται αὐταῖς λαλεῖν, ἀλλὰ ὑποτασσέσθωσαν, καθὼς καὶ ὁ νόμος λέγει DA 2.18 αἱ γυναῖκες ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ σιγάτωσαν, οὐ γὰρ ἐπιτέτραπται αὐταῖς λαλεῖν, ἀλλ᾽ ὑποτάσσεσθαι. καθὼς καὶ ὁ νόμος λέγει. Mulieres in ecclesia taceant. Non enim permittitur eis loqui sed subditas esse, sicut et lex dixit. Marcion reads ¬ ἐκκλησίᾳ for ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις (ecclesia for ecclesiis) 119 330 2400 syr^{P} Cop Eth OL:KI, similar for ἐπιτέτραπται which makes me suspect a common corrupted anti-Marcionite source for Panoranion and Adamantius texts. Tertulllian mentions in passing AM 5.8.11 Aeque praescribens silentium mulieribus in ecclesia, ne quid discendi duntaxat gratia loquantur … ex lege accipit subiciendae feminae auctoritatem; The plural was somehow changed to singular in the Marcionite text, which Clabeaux rates incorrect.
[135] Verses 14:35-40 are not attested, and are concerned with Pastoral issues related to later Montanist and Gnostic challenges
[136] Epiphanius P42 "on the raising of the dead" γνωρίζω δὲ ὑμῖν, ἀδελφοί, τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ὃ εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν
[137] Western non-interpolation (Latin b Ambrosiaster Irenaeus^{lat} Tertullian) "that which I also recieved" ὃ καὶ παρέλαβον was almost certainly not in Marcion, as it implies a teacher-student relationship, clearly rejected by Marcion (see Galations 1:11-12, 15-17a)
[138] AM 3.8.5; Tradidi enim, inquit, vobis inprimis, quod Christus mortuus sit pro peccatis nostris, et quod sepultus sit, et quod resurrexerit tertia die. 'For I delivered, he says, to you first of all, that Christ died for our sins, and that he was buried, and that He rose again the third day'; DA 5.6 Epiphanius P42 ὅτι Χριστὸς ἀπέθανε καὶ ἐτάφη καὶ ἐγήγερται τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ and ~ τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ support F G K L P Ψ 049 maj, but not reflected in Tertullian; both accounts delete – κατὰ τὰς γραφάς (probably also delete verse 5ff)
[139] AM 1.20.4 sicut et alibi, Sive ego, inquit, sive illi, sic praedicamus. AM 4.4.5 Sive ego, inquit Paulus, sive illi, sic praedicamus; Epiphanius P42 οὕτως κηρύσσομεν καὶ οὕτως ἐπιστεύσατε how do some of you say there is not resurrection of the dead?

15:13 εἰ δὲ ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν οὐκ ἔστιν, οὐδὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται·
And if the dead are not resurrected, neither has Christ been raised;

15:14 εἰ δὲ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται, κενὸν ἄρα [καὶ] τὸ κήρυγμα ἡμῶν, κενὴ καὶ ἡ πίστις ὑμῶν, [140] and if Christ is not raised, our preaching is [also] in vain, also in vain is your faith,

15:16 εἰ γὰρ νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται, οὐδὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται· for if the dead are not raised, neither has Christ been raised;

15:17 εἰ δὲ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται, ματαία ἡ πίστις ὑμῶν, ἔτι ἐστὲ ἐν ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις ὑμῶν. [141] [142] and if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile, you remain in your sins.

15:18 ἄρα καὶ οἱ κοιμηθέντες ἐν Χριστῷ ἀπώλοντο.
Then also those having fallen asleep in Christ are destroyed.

15:19 εἰ ἐν τῇ ζωῇ ταύτῃ ἐν Χριστῷ ἠλπικότες ἐσμὲν μόνον, ἐλεεινότεροι πάντων ἀνθρώπων ἐσμέν.
And if in this life we have only hoped in Christ, we are to be pitied more than all.

15:20 Νυνὶ δὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται ἐκ νεκρῶν, [143]
But now Christ has been raised from the dead,

15:21 ἐπειδὴ γὰρ δι᾽ ἀνθρώπου θάνατος, καὶ δι᾽ ἀνθρώπου ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν· [144]
For since through man came death, also through man came resurrection of the dead;

15:22 ὥσπερ γὰρ ἐν τῷ Ἀδὰμ πάντες ἀποθνήσκουσιν, οὕτως καὶ ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ πάντες ζῳοποιηθήσονται. [145]
For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all will be made alive.

15:23 Ἕκαστος δὲ ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ τάγματι· ἀπαρχὴ Χριστός, ἔπειτα οἱ τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ αὐτοῦ. [146]
But each one in his own order; (the) first fruits Christ, after those belonging to Christ, at his coming,

15:24 εἶτα τὸ τέλος, ὅταν παραδιδῷ τὴν βασιλείαν τῷ θεῷ καὶ πατρί, then the end, when he hands over the kingdom to God and father, ὅταν καταργήσῃ πᾶσαν ἀρχὴν καὶ πᾶσαν ἐξουσίαν καὶ δύναμιν, [147] when he abolishes all rule and all authority and all power.

15:25 δεῖ γὰρ αὐτὸν βασιλεύειν ἄχρι οὗ θῇ πάντας τοὺς ἐχθροὺς ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας αὐτοῦ. [148]
For it is necessary for him to reign until he has puts all his enemies under his feet.

15:26 ἔσχατος ἐχθρὸς καταργεῖται ὁ θάνατος·
(the) last enemy being abolished (is) death;

[149] 15:29 Ἐπεὶ τί ποιήσουσιν οἱ βαπτιζόμενοι ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν; εἰ ὅλως νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται, [150]

---

[140] 1 Corinthians 15:15 was added by the Catholic editor clarifying that it was God who raised Christ κατὰ τοῦ θεοῦ ὅτι ἤγειρεν τὸν Χριστόν which is not addressed in Marcion's version (compare Galatians 1:1, 1 Corinthians 6:14, 2 Corinthians 4:14). Also the concept of being a false witness to God ψευδομάρτυρες τοῦ θεοῦ is a pastoral concern as in (Acts 13:9, post Marcionite Romans 9:1, 2 Corinthians 11:13, Galatians 1:20, 1 Timothy 2:7). It also breaks εἰ δὲ of the structural pattern of 15:12-17, thus it is secondary.
[141] Epiphanius P42 καὶ ὅτι "εἰ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται, μάταιον" καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς 'and so on'
[142] AM 5.9.2 Mortuorum resurrectionem quomodo; "concerning the raising of the dead"alludes to verses 15:12-19
[143] ἀπαρχὴ τῶν κεκοιμημένων is a Catholic addition, concerned with recent dead; ἀπαρχὴ is a term not found in Marcion
[144] AM 5.9.5 Quia per hominem mors, et per hominem resurrectio; left out "from the dead" mortuorum = νεκρῶν
[145] AM 5.9.5 Quodsi sic in Christo vivificamur omnes sicut mortificamur in Adam, quando in Adam corpore mortificemur, sic necesse est in Christo corpore vivificemur. Tertullian clearly paraphrases 1 Corinthians 5:22
[146] Compare 1 Corinthians 15:23 with 1 Thessalonians 4:14-16
[147] compare 1 Corinthians 2:6-8
[148] AM 5.9.6 Cum dicit, Oportet enim regnare eum, donec ponat inimicos eius sub pedes eius; Tertullian - omnes (πάντας) Ψ1424 but this is likely the result of either local text or paraphrase. Note also AM 5.9.13 ubiecti utique pedibus ipsiu.
[149] Verses 15:27-28 were added by the Catholic editor establish rank of Christ as subject to the father, an issue Marcion never addresses. Verse 15:26 is derived from 2 Timothy 1:10, except that it pushes back death abolition to the Parousa.
[150] AM 5.10.1 Quid, ait, facient qui pro mortuis baptizantur, si mortui non resurgunt?

Otherwise what will they do, those being baptized on behalf of the dead? If the dead really are not raised, τί καὶ βαπτίζονται ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν; [151]

why indeed are they baptized on behalf of them?

15:35 ἀλλὰ ἐρεῖ τις, Πῶς ἐγείρονται οἱ νεκροί; ποίῳ δὲ σώματι ἔρχονται; [152] but some will say, 'How are the dead raised? And with what kind of body do they come?'

15:36 ἄφρων, σὺ ὃ σπείρεις οὐ ζῳοποιεῖται ἐὰν μὴ ἀποθάνῃ·
Foolish man, what you sow is not made alive unless it dies;

15:37 καὶ ὃ σπείρεις, οὐ τὸ σῶμα τὸ γενησόμενον σπείρεις and what you sow, you sow not the body will become ἀλλὰ γυμνὸν κόκκον εἰ τύχοι σίτου ἤ τινος τῶν λοιπῶν· but a bare grain perhaps of wheat or some other;

15:38 ὁ δὲ θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ σῶμα καθὼς ἠθέλησεν, καὶ ἑκάστῳ τῶν σπερμάτων ἴδιον σῶμα. [153] but god gives to it a body as he wanted, and to each of the seeds [its] own body.

15:39 οὐ πᾶσα σὰρξ ἡ αὐτὴ σάρξ, ἀλλὰ ἄλλη μὲν ἀνθρώπων, ἄλλη δὲ σὰρξ κτηνῶν,
Not all flesh is the same flesh, but another of men, and another flesh of animals, ἄλλη δὲ σὰρξ πτηνῶν, ἄλλη δὲ ἰχθύων.

and another flesh of birds, and another of fishes.

15:40 καὶ σώματα ἐπουράνια, καὶ σώματα ἐπίγεια·
And [there are] heavenly bodies, and earthly bodies;

ἀλλὰ ἑτέρα μὲν ἡ τῶν ἐπουρανίων δόξα, ἑτέρα δὲ ἡ τῶν ἐπιγείων.
but different is the glory of the heavenly, and different of the earthly.

15:41 ἄλλη δόξα ἡλίου, καὶ ἄλλη δόξα σελήνης, καὶ ἄλλη δόξα ἀστέρων· [there is] another glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars;

ἀστὴρ γὰρ ἀστέρος διαφέρει ἐν δόξῃ. [154] for star differs from star in glory.

15:42 Οὕτως καὶ ἡ ἀνάστασις [155] τῶν νεκρῶν. σπείρεται ἐν φθορᾷ, ἐγείρεται ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ·
So also with resurrection of the dead. It is sown as perishable, raised as imperishable;

15:43 σπείρεται ἐν ἀτιμίᾳ, [156] ἐγείρεται ἐν δόξῃ· σπείρεται ἐν ἀσθενείᾳ, ἐγείρεται ἐν δυνάμει· it is sown in dishonor, raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, rasied in power;

15:44 σπείρεται σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἐγείρεται σῶμα πνευματικόν. εἰ ἔστιν σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἔστιν καὶ πνευματικόν. [157] it is sown a natural body, raised a spiritual body. If there is a natural body, there is also a spiritual.

15:45 οὕτως καὶ γέγραπται, Ἐγένετο ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος Ἀδὰμ εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν·
So also it was written, "The first man Adam became a living soul;"

---

[151] Verses 15:30-34 intrude upon the discussion of Baptism of the dead. The concern is with Martyrdom and bringing in the Paul myth narrative about constant danger, words lifted it seems from Aprocraphyl 2 Esdras 7:89, with the story fighting wild beast in Ephesus from the Acts of Titus VIII (see 2 Timothy 4:17), which Hippolytus commented on in his commentary on Daniel iii.29. Also a fragment of Menander Thais in verse 15:33 “bad company ruins good morals”, and Isaiah 22:13 in 15:32. Verse 15:32 This fragment appears to be from an apocryphal Acts now lost. None was in the original.
[152] AM 5.10.2 Sed dicent quidam, Quomodo mortui resurgent? quo autem corpore venient? (Quomodo … venient repeated in 5.10.3)
[153] AM 5.10.4 Denique si proponit exempla grani tritici, vel alicuius eiusmodi, quibus det corpus deus prout volet, si unicuique seminum proprium ait esse corpus, (not an exact quote)
[154] AM 5.10.4 ut aliam quidem carnem hominum, aliam vero pecudum et volucrum, et corpora caelestia atque terrena, et aliam gloriam solis, et lunae aliam, et stellarum aliam, [155] AM 5.10.2 Sic et resurrectio, inquit
[156] AM 5.10.6 sed caro seminatur in corruptela ; a clear reference to verse 15:43
[157] AM 5.10.2 Cuius ille ordo in dissolutione, eius et hic in resurrectione corporis, scilicet sicut et granum

ὁ ἔσχατος Ἀδὰμ εἰς πνεῦμα ζῳοποιοῦν. [158]
the last Adam a life giving spirit.

15:46 ἀλλ᾽ οὐ πρῶτον τὸ πνευματικὸν ἀλλὰ τὸ ψυχικόν, ἔπειτα τὸ πνευματικόν. [159]
But the first is not spiritual but natural, afterward the spiritual.

15:47 ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος ἐκ γῆς χοϊκός, ὁ δεύτερος ἄνθρωπος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ. [160]
The first man is made of the dust out of the earth, the second man out of heaven.

15:48 οἷος ὁ χοϊκός, τοιοῦτοι καὶ οἱ χοϊκοί, καὶ οἷος ὁ ἐπουράνιος, τοιοῦτοι καὶ οἱ ἐπουράνιοι· [161]
As the man of dust, Such also are the men of dust, and as the heavenly man, such also the heavenly;

15:49 καθὼς ἐφορέσαμεν τὴν εἰκόνα τοῦ χοϊκοῦ, φορέσωμεν καὶ τὴν εἰκόνα τοῦ ἐπουρανίου. [162]
As we bore the image of the of the man of dust, we must bear the image of the heavenly man.

15:50 Τοῦτο δέ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ κληρονομῆσαι οὐ δύναται, [163]
But this I say, brothers, that flesh and blood are not able to inherit the kingdom of God, οὐδὲ ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν κληρονομεῖ.

neither does the perishable inherit the imperishable.

15:51 ἰδοὺ μυστήριον ὑμῖν λέγω· πάντες οὐ κοιμηθησόμεθα, πάντες δὲ ἀλλαγησόμεθα, Behold I speak a mystery to you; we will not all sleep, but all will be changed,

15:52 ἐν ἀτόμῳ, ἐν ῥιπῇ ὀφθαλμοῦ, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ σάλπιγγι· in a moment, in the wink of an eye, in the last trumpet; σαλπίσει γάρ, καὶ οἱ νεκροὶ ἐγερθήσονται ἄφθαρτοι, καὶ ἡμεῖς ἀλλαγησόμεθα. [164] for a trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed.

15:53 δεῖ γὰρ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀθανασίαν. [165] for it is necessary for this perishable to put in the imperishable and this mortal to put on the immortal.

15:54 ὅταν δὲ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσηται ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσηται ἀθανασίαν,
But when this perishable nature puts on the imperishable and this mortal puts on the immortal,

---

[158] DA 2.18 ἐγένετο ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος, Ἀδὰμ, εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν, ὁ ἔσχατος, κύριος, πνεῦμα ζῳοποιοῦν· / Factus est primus homo, Adam, in animam uiuentem, nouissimus autem, dominus, in spiritum uiuificantem; AM 5.10.7 Factus primus homo Adam in animam vivam, novissimus Adam in spiritum vivificantem; licet stultissimus haereticus noluerit ita esse, dominum enim posuit novissimum pro novissimo Adam. Tertullian, DA 2.18 (below) reports Marcion read κύριος for Ἀδὰμ which lacks support, but likey change to conform to the same substitution in verse 15:47. IMO this reading is the result of Marcionite scribes who failed to understand the contrast between the first man (Adam) being breathed by the creator God in Genesis 2:7 ἐγένετο ὁ ἄνθρωπος εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν and the last man who is raised in Christ and is now spiritual, so literally interpreted it as Christ being the last man.

[159] AM 5.10.6 Non primum quod spiritale

[160] DA 2.18 ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος ἐκ γῆς χοϊκός, ὁ δεύτερος, κύριος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ; AM 5.10.9 Primus, inquit, homo de humo terrenus, secundus dominus de caelo. Quare secundus, si non homo, quod et primus? Aut numquid et primus dominus, si et secundus? Tertullian reports Marcion read κύριος for the 2nd ἄνθρωπος but apparently not a variant to him, as he explains it away, thus agreeing with Marcion, ℵ^{C} A D^{C} K P Ψ 81 104 614 1739mg Byz Lect syr$^{p, h, pal}$ goth arm al. Again comparing Genesis 2 :7 God to Marcion's

[161] AM 5.10.10 Cum enim dicit apostolus, Qualis qui de terra, homo scilicet, tales et terreni, homines utique, ergo et qualis qui de caelo homo, tales et qui de caelo homines; a broken up reading of the verse, so not exact wording

[162] AM 5.10.10 Sicut portavimus, inquit, imaginem terreni, portemus et imaginem caelestis; Tertullian, Marcion read φορέσομων for-φορέσομεν with p^{46} ℵ A C D F G K L P maj Both Thdrt Clem Orig Epi OL:KDI vg, the UBS holds out with B, Clabeaux rates correct. He also rates - καὶ as correct with Ephrem, OL:KDI.

[163] AM 5.10.11 Hoc enim dico, fratres, quia caro et sanguis regnum dei non possidebunt 5.10.15 Caro et sanguis regnum dei non consequentur, similarily DA 5.26/Rufinus caro et sanguis regnum dei non possidebunt which Clabeaux thinks is merely another OL:I witness. Marcion reads ⌐ οὐ κληρονομήσουσιν for κληρονομῆσαι οὐ δύναται support F G 1907 Boh Ophites apud Marcarium Chrys OL:DI, also ⌐ γὰρ for δε support D F G OL:DI

[164] AM 5.10.14 Resurgent enim mortui incorrupti, illi scilicet qui fuerant corrupti dilapsis corporibus in interitum. Et nos mutabimur

[165] AM 5.10.14 O portet enim corruptivum hoc, tenens utique carnem suam dicebat apostolus, induere incorruptelam, et mortale hoc immortalitatem

τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος, Κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νῖκος. [166]
then will come to pass the word written, "Death is swallowed up in victory." (Isaiah 25:8)

15:55 ποῦ σου, θάνατε, τὸ νῖκος; ποῦ σου, θάνατε, τὸ κέντρον; [167]
"Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?" (Hosea 13:14 LXX)

15:56 τὸ δὲ κέντρον τοῦ θανάτου ἡ ἁμαρτία, ἡ δὲ δύναμις τῆς ἁμαρτίας ὁ νόμος·
But the sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the Law;

15:57 τῷ δὲ θεῷ χάρις τῷ διδόντι ἡμῖν τὸ νῖκος διὰ τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ. [168] but thanks be to God, the one giving us victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

15:58 Ὥστε, ἀδελφοί μου ἀγαπητοί, ἑδραῖοι γίνεσθε, ἀμετακίνητοι,
So then, my beloved brothers, be steadfast ones, be immoveable ones, περισσεύοντες ἐν τῷ ἔργῳ τοῦ κυρίου πάντοτε, εἰδότες ὅτι ὁ κόπος ὑμῶν οὐκ ἔστιν κενὸς ἐν κυρίῳ.

abounding in the work of the Lord always, knowing that you labor in the Lord is not in vain.

16:23 ἡ χάρις [τοῦ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ] μεθ᾽ ὑμῶν. [169]
The grace [of the lord Jesus] be with you.

---

[166] Epiphanius P42 ὅταν δὲ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσηται ἀθανασίαν, τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος· κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νῖκος AD 2.18 τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος, κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νῖκος·

[167] AM 5.10.16 Si autem tunc fiet verbum quod scriptum est apud creatorem, Ubi est, mors, victoria tua vel contentio tua? Ubi est, mors, aculeus tuus?

[168] AM 5.10.16 Nec alii deo gratias dicit quod nobis victoriam utique de morte referre praestiterit, quam illi a quo verbum insultatorium de morte et triumphatorium accepit. (1 Corinthians 15:56-57)

[169] Chapter 16, except for the standard Pauline sign off, is entirely constructed from pastiches of Pauline phrases, including the post-Marcionite Romans 16. The purpose appears to be tie the Epistles of Paul with Acts. The sign off is reconstructed here and appears to follow the form of apocryphal Romans 16:20 (curiously a WNI missing from D*vid, F, G, d, f, g, m, bodl Ambrosiaster Pelagiusms).

Marcionite 2 Corinthians Interliner

Reconstruction by Stuart G. Waugh 14 June, 2013

1:1 Παῦλος ἀπόστολος Χριστοῦ Ἰησοῦ [1] διὰ θελήματος θεοῦ [καὶ Τιμόθεος ὁ ἀδελφὸς]
Paul an apostle of Christ Jesus through the will of God [, and the brother Timothy] τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ [2] τῇ οὔσῃ ἐν Κορίνθῳ, σὺν τοῖς ἁγίοις πᾶσιν τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ, to the churches that are in Corinth, with all the saints that are in all of Achaia

1:2 χάρις ὑμῖν καὶ εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ. [3]
Grace to you and peace from God our father and Lord Jesus Christ

1:3 Εὐλογητὸς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, [4]
I give thanks to the God of our Lord Jesus Christ,

ὁ πατὴρ τῶν οἰκτιρμῶν [5] καὶ θεὸς πάσης παρακλήσεως,
the father of compassion and God of all encouragement,

1:4 ὁ παρακαλῶν ἡμᾶς ἐπὶ πάσῃ τῇ θλίψει ἡμῶν εἰς τὸ δύνασθαι ἡμᾶς παρακαλεῖν τοὺς ἐν πάσῃ θλίψει
The one encouraging us with respect to all our afflictions so as to enable us to encourage all those afflicted διὰ τῆς παρακλήσεως ἧς παρακαλούμεθα αὐτοι υπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ.

through the encouragement by which we ourselves are encouraged by God.

1:5 ὅτι καθὼς περισσεύει τὰ παθήματα τοῦ Χριστοῦ εἰς ἡμᾶς,
That as the sufferings of Christ abounds in us, οὕτως διὰ τοῦ Χριστοῦ περισσεύει καὶ ἡ παράκλησις ἡμῶν.

so though Christ abounds also our encouragement.

1:6 εἴτε δὲ θλιβόμεθα, ὑπὲρ τῆς ὑμῶν παραπαθημάτων καὶ σωτηρίας·
Now whether we are being afflicted, [it is] for your encouragement and salvation;

εἴτε παρακαλούμεθα, ὑπὲρ τῆς ὑμῶν παρακλήσεως or if we are being encouraged, [it is] for your encouragement τῆς ἐνεργουμένης ἐν ὑπομονῇ τῶν αὐτῶν παθημάτων ὧν καὶ ἡμεῖς πάσχομεν.

producing in [you] endurance of the same sufferings which we also suffer.

1:7 καὶ ἡ ἐλπὶς ἡμῶν βεβαία ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν
And our hope for you is firm, εἰδότες ὅτι ὡς κοινωνοί ἐστε τῶν παθημάτων, οὕτως καὶ τῆς παρακλήσεως. [6] knowing that as you are sharing in the sufferings, so also of the encouragement.

[7] 1:20 ὅσαι γὰρ ἐπαγγελίαι θεοῦ, ἐν αὐτῷ τό Ναί· [8]

---

[1] DA 2.12 Markus states Παῦλος ἀπόστολος Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ

[2] After reviewing 1 Corinthians 11:16 it became clear that ἐκκλησίᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ is an expansion by the Catholic editor as 11:16 shows the Church Paul is addresses and the Church of God are separate entities. Thus τοῦ θεοῦ is a later expansion (see note 94 below). If there was a title to the Marcionites it was likely the church of the Saints ἐκκλησίᾳ τῶν ἁγίων as in 14:33 ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τῶν ἁγίων (also Psalms 149:1). The rest of 1:1 is attested in the Latin Marcionite prologue to 1 Corinthians

[3] AM 5.5.2 Haec cum "a deo patre nostro et domino Iesu" annuntians communibus nominibus utatur

[4] AM 5.11.1 benedictus tamen deus domini nostri Iesu Christi reading – et Pater / καὶ πατὴρ which has no manuscript support, but fits the pattern we see where Marcion does not emphasize God the Father (compare Marcion Galatians 1:1 – καὶ θεοῦ πατρὸς)

[5] AM 5.11.1 "the Father of mercies"

[6] Epiphanius P42 ὅτι καθάπερ κοινωνοί ἐστε τῶν παθημάτων τοῦ Χριστοῦ, οὕτως καὶ τῆς δόξης

[7] Verses 1:8-19 appear to be a block insertion by the Catholic editor, weaving in bits like Sylvanus , Timothy, and Acts 19:21

[8] DA 2.18 (Adamatius) ὅσαι γὰρ ἐπαγγελίαι θεοῦ, ἐν αὐτῷ τό Ναί

For as many promises of God [there are], in him [is] the 'Yes;'

διὸ καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ τό Ἀμήν τῷ θεῷ [9] πρὸς δόξαν δι' ἡμῶν.
so also through him the Amen to for the glory of God through us.

1:21 ὁ δὲ βεβαιῶν ἡμᾶς σὺν ὑμῖν εἰς Χριστὸν καὶ χρίσας ἡμᾶς θεός,
But the one establishing us with you in Christ and having anointed us [is] God,

1:22 ὁ καὶ σφραγισάμενος ἡμᾶς καὶ δοὺς τὸν ἀρραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν.
the one also having sealed us and having given earnestly the spirit in our hearts.

2:14 Τῷ δὲ θεῷ χάρις τῷ πάντοτε θριαμβεύοντι ἡμᾶς ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ
But thanks to God, the one always leading us ~ in Christ in triumph καὶ τὴν ὀσμὴν τῆς γνώσεως αὐτοῦ φανεροῦντι δὶ ἡμῶν ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ· and the fragrance of his knowledge manifesting through us in every place;

2:15 ὅτι Χριστοῦ εὐωδία ἐσμὲν ἐν τοῖς σωζομένοις καὶ ἐν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις, because we are an aroma ~ of Christ among those being saved and among those perishing.

2:16 οἷς μὲν ὀσμὴ ἐκ θανάτου εἰς θάνατον, οἷς δὲ ὀσμὴ ἐκ ζωῆς εἰς ζωήν. [10] to the latter a fragrance of death to death, but to the former life to life.

[11] 3:2 ἡ ἐπιστολὴ ἡμῶν ὑμεῖς ἐστε, ἐγγεγραμμένη ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν,
You are our letter, having been written in our hearts, γινωσκομένη καὶ ἀναγινωσκομένη ὑπὸ πάντων ἀνθρώπων, being known and read (comprehended) by all men,

3:3 φανερούμενοι ὅτι ἐστὲ ἐπιστολὴ Χριστοῦ διακονηθεῖσα ὑφ' ἡμῶν, it is being manifested that you are a letter [from] Christ having been cared for by us.

ἐνγεγραμμένη οὐ μέλανι ἀλλὰ πνεύματι θεοῦ [ζῶντος], not written with ink but with the spirit of the [living] God, οὐκ ἐν πλαξὶν λιθίναις ἀλλ' ἐν πλαξὶν καρδίαις [σαρκίναις]. [12] not on tablets of stone but on tablets of hearts [of flesh].

3:7(b) καινῆς διαθήκης, οὐ γράμματος ἀλλὰ πνεύματος· τὸ γὰρ γράμμα ἀποκτείνει, τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ζωοποιεῖ. [13] the new covenant, not of letter but of spirit; for the written letter kills, but the spirit gives life.

3:7 Εἰ δὲ ἡ διακονία τοῦ θανάτου ἐν γράμμασιν ἐντετυπωμένη λίθοις ἐγενήθη ἐν δόξῃ,
Now if the ministry of death in written letter having been carved in stones came with glory, ὥστε μὴ δύνασθαι ἀτενίσαι τοὺς υἱοὺς Ἰσραὴλ εἰς τὸ πρόσωπον Μωϋσέως so that the sons of Israel are not able to gaze into the face if Moses.

διὰ τὴν δόξαν τοῦ προσώπου αὐτοῦ τὴν καταργουμένην, because of the glory of his face, which is fading,

---

[9] Epiphanius Ὅσαι γὰρ ἐπαγγελίαι θεοῦ, ἐν αὐτῷ τὸ ναί· διὸ καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ τὸ ἀμὴν τῷ θεῷ

[10] DA 2.15 reads Τῷ δὲ θεῷ χάρις τῷ πάντοτε θριαμβεύοντι ἡμᾶς ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ καὶ τὴν ὀσμὴν τῆς γνώσεως αὐτοῦ φανεροῦντι δὶ ἡμῶν ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ· ὅτι Χριστοῦ εὐωδία ἐσμὲν ἐν τοῖς σωζομένοις καὶ ἐν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις, τοῖς μὲν ὀσμὴ ἐκ θανάτου εἰς θάνατον, τοῖς δὲ ὀσμὴ ἐκ ζωῆς εἰς ζωήν. Epiphanius reads verse 2:15 – τῷ θεῷ with K. Typical of Marcion, he saw no need to mention the relationship of Christ to God. It's a clarification that fails, as the perishing don't smell the aroma, and they are the target, so it misses.

[11] The words καὶ πρὸς ταῦτα τίς ἱκανός … συστατικῶν ἐπιστολῶν πρὸς ὑμᾶς ἢ ἐξ ὑμῶν were added by the Catholic editor to moderate for the more casual believes, with emphasis worthy teachers. Letters of commendation are an awkward transition, betray the insertion.

[12] Verse 3:4-6(a) were inserted by the Catholic editor, the concept of Christ mediating to God simply isn't realated to the material about the letter of life on hearts and death on tablets from Moses. The discussion of competent ministry is from the pastoral era.

[13] AM 5.11.4 Therefore "the New Testament" will appertain to none other than Him who promised it----if not "its letter, yet its spirit;" Sic et testamentum novum non alterius erit quam qui illud repromisit; etsi non littera, at eius spiritus; (3:6) hoc erit novitas. Denique qui litteram tabulis lapideis inciderat,(3 :4)

3:8 πῶς οὐχὶ μᾶλλον ἡ διακονία τοῦ πνεύματος ἔσται ἐν δόξῃ;
How rather will not the ministry of the spirit be in glory?

3:9 εἰ γὰρ ἡ διακονία τῆς κατακρίσεως δόξα, πολλῷ μᾶλλον περισσεύει ἡ διακονία τῆς δικαιοσύνης δόξῃ.
For if the ministry of condemnation has glory, much rather the ministry of righteousness abounds in glory.

3:10 καὶ γὰρ οὐ δεδόξασται τὸ δεδοξασμένον ἐν τούτῳ τῷ μέρει εἵνεκεν τῆς ὑπερβαλλούσης δόξης
For indeed that being glorified has not been glorified in this respect, on account of the surpassing glory.

3:11 εἰ γὰρ τὸ καταργούμενον διὰ δόξης, πολλῷ μᾶλλον τὸ μένον ἐν δόξῃ. [14]
For if that [which] is fading away [came] with glory, much more the thing remaining [is] in glory.

3:12 Ἔχοντες οὖν τοιαύτην ἐλπίδα πολλῇ παρρησίᾳ χρώμεθα
Therefore having such hope, with much boldness we act.

3:13 καὶ οὐ καθάπερ Μωϋσῆς ἐτίθει κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τὸ πρόσωπον αὐτοῦ [15]
And not like Moses [who] put on a veil over his face πρὸς τὸ μὴ ἀτενίσαι τοὺς υἱοὺς Ἰσραὴλ εἰς τὸ τέλος τοῦ καταργουμένου.

so that the sons of Israel were not able to see the end of the thing fading away.

3:14 ἀλλὰ ἐπωρώθη τὰ νοήματα αὐτῶν. [16]
But their minds (thoughts) were hardened.

ἄχρι γὰρ τῆς σήμερον ἡμέρας τὸ αὐτὸ κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τῇ ἀναγνώσει τῆς παλαιᾶς διαθήκης μένει, for before the present day the same veil at the reading of the old covenant remains, μὴ ἀνακαλυπτόμενονὅτι ἐν Χριστῷ καταργεῖται· [17] not being unveiled, because in Christ it is being abolished..

3:15 ἀλλ' ἕως σήμερον ἡνίκα ἂν ἀναγινώσκηται Μωϋσῆς κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τὴν καρδίαν αὐτῶν κεῖται· [18]
But until today whenever Moses is being read a veil lies over their heart;

3:16 ἡνίκα δὲ ἐὰν ἐπιστρέψῃ πρὸξ κύριον, περιαιρεῖται τὸ κάλυμμα. [19] but whenever one turns to [the] lord, the veil is taken away.

3:17 ὁ δὲ κύριος τὸ πνεῦμά ἐστιν· οὗ δὲ τὸ πνεῦμα κυρίου, ἐλευθερία. [20]
Now the lord is the spirit; and where the spirit of [the] lord [is], [there is] freedom.

3:18 ἡμεῖς δὲ πάντες ἀνακεκαλυμμένῳ προσώπῳ τὴν δόξαν κυρίου κατοπτριζόμενοι
Now we all, having had our faces unveiled, see the glory of [the] lord reflected [as] in a mirror, τὴν αὐτὴν εἰκόνα μεταμορφούμεθα ἀπὸ δόξης εἰς δόξαν καθάπερ ἀπὸ κυρίου πνεύματος. [21]

---

[14] AM 5.11.5 He alludes to Moses' veil, covered with which "his face could not be steadfastly seen by the children of Israel." Since he did this to maintain the superiority of the glory of the New Testament, which is permanent in its glory, over that of the Old, "which was to be done away," Commemorat et de velamine Moysi, quo faciem tegebat incontemplabilem filiis Israel Si ideo ut claritatem maiorem defenderet novi testamenti quod manet in gloria, quam veteris quod evacuari habebat, [15] AM 5.11.5 showing that the veil which was on the face of Moses was a figure of the veil which is on the heart of the nation still; because even now Moses is not seen by them in heart, just as he was not then seen by them in eye. Figuram ostendit fuisse velamen faciei in Moyse velaminis cordis in populo, quia nec nunc apud illos perspiciatur Moyses corde, sicut nec facie tunc.
[16] AM 5.11.5 But then he says, "But their minds were blinded" of the world; At cum dicit, Sed obtunsi sunt sensus mundi. This reading looks like verse 4:4 with ἐτύφλωσε for ἐπωρώθη but with no manuscript support Tertulllian simply wrote obtunsi for obtusi
[17] AM 5.11.5 veteris quod evacuari
[18] AM 5.11.5 Of Israel he says, "Even unto this day the same veil is upon their heart;" De Israele enim dicit, Ad hodiernum usque velamen idipsum in corde eorum; Tertullian reads – ἡνίκα ἂν ἀναγινώσκηται Μωϋσῆς (whenever Moses is being read)
[19] AM 5.11.7 Cum vero converterit ad deum, auferetur velamen (note, Tertullian writes deum for dominum, not manuscript support)
[20] For the same concept of freedom in Christ compare Galatians 5:1 Τῇ ἐλευθερίᾳ ἡμᾶς Χριστὸς ἠγευθέρωσεν [21] AM 5.11.8 So he says that "we now with open face" (meaning the candor of the heart, which in the Jews had been covered with a veil), "beholding Christ, are changed into the same image, from that glory" (wherewith Moses was transfigured as by the glory of the Lord) "to another glory." By thus setting forth the glory which illumined the person of Moses from his interview with God, and the

are being transformed [into] the same image, from glory to glory, even as from [the] lord, [who is] the spirit.

[22] 4:3 εἰ δὲ καὶ ἔστιν κεκαλυμμένον τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ἡμῶν, ἐν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις ἐστὶν κεκαλυμμένον,
But if indeed our Gospel his been hidden, among those perishing it is hidden.

4:4 ἐν οἷς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου ἐτύφλωσεν τὰ νοήματα τῶν ἀπίστων
In whom the God of this age (world) blinded the minds (thoughts) of non believers

εἰς τὸ μὴ αὐγάσαι τὸν φωτισμὸν τοῦ εὐαγγελίου τῆς δόξης τοῦ Χριστοῦ, ὅς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ θεοῦ. [23] so not to shine forth the light of the Gospel of Christ's glory, who is the image of God.

4:5 οὐ γὰρ ἑαυτοὺς κηρύσσομεν ἀλλὰ Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν κύριον, ἑαυτοὺς δὲ δούλους ὑμῶν διὰ Ἰησοῦν.
For we do not preach, except for Christ Jesus the lord, and we are your slaves through Jesus.

4:6 ὅτι ὁ θεὸς ὁ εἰπών, Ἐκ σκότους φῶς λάμψει, ὃς ἔλαμψεν ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν
For it is the God who said, "Let light shine out of darkness," who shone in our hearts

πρὸς φωτισμὸν τῆς γνώσεως τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ ἐν προσώπῳ Χριστοῦ. [24] for the shining of knowledge of his glory in the face of Christ.

4:7 Ἔχομεν δὲ τὸν θησαυρὸν τοῦτον ἐν ὀστρακίνοις σκεύεσιν, [25]
Now we have this treasure in earthen vessels, ἵνα ἡ ὑπερβολὴ τῆς δυνάμεως ᾖ τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ μὴ ἐξ ἡμῶν· that the excellence of the power may be God's and not ours.

4:8 ἐν παντὶ θλιβόμενοι ἀλλ' οὐ στενοχωρούμενοι, ἀπορούμενοι ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐξαπορούμενοι,
On every [side] being oppressed but not being crushed, being perplexed but not despairing,

4:9 διωκόμενοι ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐγκαταλειπόμενοι, καταβαλλόμενοι ἀλλ' οὐκ ἀπολλύμενοι, being persecuted, but not forsaken, being cast down but not destroyed,.

4:10 πάντοτε τὴν νέκρωσιν τοῦ Ἰησοῦ ἐν τῷ σώματι περιφέροντες, always ~carrying with me the death of Jesus in our bodies.

ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ ἐν τῷ σώματι ἡμῶν φανερωθῇ [26]

---

veil which concealed the same from the infirmity of the people, and by super-inducing thereupon the revelation and the glory of the Spirit in the person of Christ "even as," to use his words, "by the Spirit of the Lord" Dicit ergo nos iam aperta facie, utique cordis, quod velatum est in Iudaeis, contemplantes Christum eadem imagine transfigurari a gloria, qua scilicet et Moyses transfigurabatur a gloria domini, in gloriam. Ita corporalem Moysi illuminationem de congressu domini et corporale velamen de infirmitate populi proponens, et spiritalem revelationem et spiritalem claritatem in Christo superducens, tanquam a domino, inquit, spirituum

[22] Verses 4:1-2 intrude upon the narrative about viel of Moses that hides the Gospel, giving a digression against heresy, waring against those who falsifying of the word of God, δολοῦντες τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ, and claiming the truth is manifested τῇ φανερώσει τῆς ἀληθείας. The worry hear concerns the gnostics of the late 2nd century interpreting the prior verses as against God of Moses

[23] AM 5.11.9 "in whom the God of this world" Hanc Marcion captavit sic legendo: In quibus deus aevi huius, then adds: We (Catholics) discriminate against so we say: By God, then, of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers; Nos contra sic distinguendum dicimus: In quibus deus, dehinc: aevi huius excaecavit mentes infidelium; DA 2.21 (Markus) ἐν οἷς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου ἐτύφλωσε τὰ νοήματα τῶν ἀπίστων πρὸς τὸ μὴ διαὐγάσαι αὐτῶν τὸν φωτισμὸν Rufinius In quibus, inquit, deus huius saeculi excaecauit mentes infadelium, ut non fulgeat illuminatio euangelii. Note, Rufinus support no variants with εἰς (ut) against the Greek πρὸς: also AM 5.11.12 Persona autem dei Christus dominus. Unde et apostolus supra, Qui est imago, inquit, dei

[24] Epiphanius Οὐ γὰρ ἑαυτοὺς κηρύσσομεν, ἀλλὰ Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν κύριον, ἑαυτοὺς δὲ δούλους ὑμῶν διὰ Ἰησοῦ, ὅτι ὁ θεὸς ὁ εἰπὼν ἐκ σκότους φῶς λάμψει, DA 2.19 (but it's Adamantius speaking) ὁ θεὸς, ὁ εἰπὼν ἐκ σκότους φῶς λάμψαι, ὃς εἔλαμψεν ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ὑμῶν πρὸς φωτισμὸν τῆς γνώσεως τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ ἐν προσώπῳ Χριστοῦ Deus, qui dixit de tenebris lucem fulgere, illuminauit in cordibus uestris lucem scientiae gloriae eius in persona Christi; Adamantius – Ἰησοῦ with B A 33, αὐτοῦ (eius) ^ τοῦ θεοῦ (Dei) with p^{46} C D* F G 326 1837, ὑμῶν ^ ἡμῶν with C 1505 1611 1881 2495 which is definitely incorrect. Tertullian AM 5.11.11 "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to the light of the knowledge in the face of Christ." Quoniam deus, qui dixit ex tenebris lucem lucescere, reluxit in cordibus nostris ad illuminationem agnitionis suae in persona Christi

[25] AM 5.11.14 autem eiusdem habeatur thesaurus in fictilibus vasis

[26] AM 5.11.15 Ut et vita Christi manifestetur in corpore nostro "That the life also of Christ may be manifested in our body." The full quotation includes reference to the first half of the verse (twice): in qua et mors Christi circumfertur, in qua et eminentia virtutis consecratur. Sed enim proponit, Ut et vita Christi manifestetur in corpore nostro, scilicet sicut et mors eius circumfertur in corpore.

that also the life of Jesus may be manifested in our bodies

4:11 ἀεὶ γὰρ ἡμεῖς οἱ ζῶντες, εἰς θάνατον παραδιδόμεθα διὰ Ἰησοῦν, for always we, the living ones, are being given over to death because of Jesus, ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ φανερωθῇ ἐν τῇ θνητῇ σαρκὶ ἡμῶν.

that also the life of Jesus may be manifested in our mortal flesh.

4:12 ὥστε ὁ θάνατος ἐν ἡμῖν ἐνεργεῖται, ἡ δὲ ζωὴ ἐν ὑμῖν.
So then death works in us, but life in you.

4:13 ἔχοντες δὲ τὸ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα τῆς πίστεως, καὶ ἡμεῖς πιστεύομεν, διὸ καὶ λαλοῦμεν, [27]
But having the same spirit of faith, and we believe, and therefore we speak, 4:14 εἰδότες ὅτι ὁ ἐγείρας τὸν κύριον Ἰησοῦν καὶ ἡμᾶς σὺν Ἰησοῦ ἐγερεῖ καὶ παραστήσει σὺν ὑμῖν.

knowing that the one who raised the lord Jesus also will raise us with Jesus and present [us] with you..

4:15 τὰ γὰρ πάντα δι' ὑμᾶς, ἵνα ἡ χάρις πλεονάσασα διὰ τῶν πλειόνων
For all things are because of you, that the grace, having increased through the many, τὴν εὐχαριστίαν περισσεύσῃ εἰς τὴν δόξαν τοῦ θεοῦ.

may increase the thanksgiving to the glory of God..

4:16 Διὸ οὐκ ἐγκακοῦμεν, ἀλλ' εἰ καὶ ὁ ἔξω ἡμῶν ἄνθρωπος διαφθείρεται, Therefore we do not lose heart, but if indeed our outward man is decaying, ἀλλ' ὁ ἔσω ἡμῶν ἀνακαινοῦται ἡμέρᾳ καὶ ἡμέρᾳ. [28]

yet our inward [man] is being renewed day by day.

4:17 τὸ γὰρ παραυτίκα ἐλαφρὸν τῆς θλίψεως καθ' ὑπερβολὴν εἰς ὑπερβολὴν
For the lightness of our present affliction from excess to excess αἰώνιον βάρος δόξης κατεργάζεται ἡμῖν, works out for us measuring of eternal glory,.

4:18 μὴ σκοπούντων ἡμῶν τὰ βλεπόμενα ἀλλὰ τὰ μὴ βλεπόμενα· we [are] not looking at thing seen but things not seen;

τὰ γὰρ βλεπόμενα πρόσκαιρα, τὰ δὲ μὴ βλεπόμενα αἰώνια.
for the things seen are temporary, but the things not seen are eternal.

5:1 Οἴδαμεν γὰρ ὅτι ἐὰν ἡ ἐπίγειος ἡμῶν οἰκία τοῦ σκήνους καταλυθῇ,
For we know that if our earthly house of our tabernacle is destroyed, ἔχομεν οἰκίαν ἀχειροποίητον αἰώνιον ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς.

we have a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens.

5:2 καὶ γὰρ ἐν τούτῳ στενάζομεν τὸ οἰκητήριον ἡμῶν τὸ ἐξ οὐρανοῦ ἐπενδύσασθαι ἐπιποθοῦντες,
For indeed in this we groan, longing to be clothed in our dwelling from heaven,

5:3 εἴ γε καὶ ἐνδυσάμενοι οὐ γυμνοὶ εὑρεθησόμεθα.

Note, Marcion reads Χριστοῦ for Ἰησοῦ in both places, D* D^2 F G reads Χριστοῦ and all but the best (B p^{46} א A C P 1739 33) read Χριστοῦ Ἰησοῦ but that makes it clear this reading is wrong Western reading. For the second only D* F G א read Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ

[27] Epiphanius Ἔχοντες δὲ τὸ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα τῆς πίστεως καὶ ἡμεῖς πιστεύομεν, διὸ καὶ λαλοῦμεν and Epiphanius explicitly cites ἐξέκοψεν δὲ τό "κατὰ τὸ γεγραμμένον" 'he amputated from according to that which is written', a concept alien to Marcion's Paul to follow any written word, as his Gospel is from revelation. He later in his explanation of the citation mentions that ἐπίστευσα διὸ καὶ ἐλάλησα (Pslam 115:1 LXX) which was not cited in the quote is also missing.

[28] AM 5.11.16 He says, too, that "our outward man perishes," not meaning by an eternal perdition after death, but by labors and sufferings, in reference to which he previously said, "For which cause we will not faint." Now, when he adds of "the inward man" also, that it "is renewed day by day," exteriorem quidem hominem nostrum corrumpi dicens, et non quasi aeterno interitu post mortem, verum laboribus et incommodis, de quibus praemisit adiciens, Et non deficiemus. Nam et interiorem hominem nostrum renovari de die in diem if indeed having been unclothed we will not be found naked.

5:4 καὶ γὰρ οἱ ὄντες ἐν τῷ σκήνει στενάζομεν βαρούμενοι, ἐφ' ᾧ οὐ θέλομεν ἐκδύσασθαι ἀλλ' ἐπενδύσασθαι, [29]
For indeed we who are in the tabernacle groan, burdened, in that we do not want to be unclothed but clothed, ἵνα καταποθῇ τὸ θνητὸν ὑπὸ τῆς ζωῆς. [30] that the mortal may be swallowed up by the life.

5:5 ὁ δὲ κατεργασάμενος ἡμᾶς εἰς αὐτὸ τοῦτο θεός, ὁ δοὺς ἡμῖν τὸν ἀρραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος. [31] but the one having made us for this thing is God, the one having given to us the earnest of spirit.

5:6 Θαρροῦντες οὖν πάντοτε καὶ εἰδότες ὅτι ἐνδημοῦντες ἐν τῷ σώματι ἐκδημοῦμεν ἀπὸ τοῦ κυρίου·
Therefore being confident always and knowing that being at home in the body we are away from the lord.

5:7 διὰ πίστεως γὰρ περιπατοῦμεν, οὐ διὰ εἴδους· for by faith we walk, not by sight;

5:8 θαρροῦμεν δὲ καὶ εὐδοκοῦμεν μᾶλλον ἐκδημῆσαι ἐκ τοῦ σώματος καὶ ἐνδημῆσαι πρὸς τὸν κύριον. [32] but we are confident and pleased rather to be away from our home in the body and at home with the lord.

5:9 διὸ καὶ φιλοτιμούμεθα, εἴτε ἐνδημοῦντες εἴτε ἐκδημοῦντες, εὐάρεστοι αὐτῷ εἶναι.
Therefore also we aspire, whether being at home or away from home, wanting to be well pleasing to him.

5:10 τοὺς γὰρ πάντας ἡμᾶς φανερωθῆναι δεῖ ἔμπροσθεν τοῦ βήματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ,
For it is necessary for all of us be revealed before the judgment seat of Christ, ἵνα κομίσηται ἕκαστος τὰ διὰ τοῦ σώματος πρὸς ἃ ἔπραξεν, εἴτε ἀγαθὸν εἴτε φαῦλον. [33] that each may be recompensed for the things done in the body for things he did, whether good or bad..

[34] 5:16 Ὥστε ἡμεῖς ἀπὸ τοῦ νῦν οὐδένα οἴδαμεν κατὰ σάρκα·
So that from now [on] we know no one according to the flesh;

εἰ καὶ ἐγνώκαμεν κατὰ σάρκα Χριστόν, ἀλλὰ νῦν οὐκέτι γινώσκομεν.
and if we had known Christ according to the flesh, but we no longer know [him thus].

5:17 ὥστε εἴ τις ἐν Χριστῷ, καινὴ κτίσις· τὰ ἀρχαῖα παρῆλθεν, ἰδοὺ γέγονεν (τὰ πάντα) καινά. [35]
So that if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creature; the old has passed away, behold he has become new!

7:1(b) καθαρίσωμεν [οὖν] ἑαυτοὺς ἀπὸ μολυσμοῦ σαρκὸς καὶ αἵματος, [36]

---

[29] AM 5.12.1 Terreni domicilii nostri non sic ait <habere nos domum aeternam, non manu factam, in caelo,> quia quae manu facta sit creatoris intereat in totum dissoluta post mortem. Haec enim ad mortis metum et ad ipsius dissolutionis contristationem consolandam retractans etiam per sequentia manifestius, <cum subicit ingemere> nos de isto tabernaculo corporis terreni, <quod de caelo est superindui cupientes>;<siquidem et despoliati non inveniemur nudi>, id est recipiemus quod despoliati sumus, id est corpus. Et rursus: <Etenim qui sumus in isto tabernaculo corporis, ingemimus quod gravemur, nolentes exui sed superindui>.
Tertullian has to make the comment quia quae manu facta sit creatoris intereat in totum dissoluta post mortem concerning verse 5:1 quote precisely because Marcion did not have οἰκοδομὴν ἐκ θεοῦ (aedificationem ex Deo) which must have been added by the Catholic editor to highlight that the Creator God builds (edifies) the eternal home, something not accepted by the Heretics.
[30] AM 5.12.3 Tertullian revisits verse 5:4 stating uti devoretur mortale hoc a vita
[31] AM 5.12.4 Tertullian paraphrasing et arrabonem nos spiritus dicit a deo habere
[32] AM 5.12.4 Tertullian paraphrasing et abesse a domino, quamdiu in carne sumus, ac propterea debere boni ducere abesse potius a corpore et esse cum domino
[33] DA 1.16 (Adamantius) paraphrases ἕκαστος παρὰ Χριστοῦ κομίζεται εἴτε ἀγαθὸν εἴτε φαῦλον 'everyone receives from Christ either good or evil' But Tertullian quotes in full AM 5.12.4 'And we said that we must all appear (manifestari) before the judgment seat of Christ to such an extent that it may receive every one of the things that has allowed it through the body, whether good or evil.' Atque adeo omnes ait nos oportere manifestari ante tribunal Christi, ut recipiat unusquisque quae per corpus admisit sive bonum sive malum.
[34] There are problems with vocabulary and with the content of 5:11-15, which intrude upon the discussion of transforming from the ways of the flesh to that of the spirit, in its digression about various tangential topics. Much of this conflicts with Marcionite teaching.
[35] DA 2.16 (Markus) εἴ τις ἐν Χριστῷ, καινὴ κτίσις, τὰ πάντα καινά; AM 5.12.6 "If therefore any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old; things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" Si qua ergo conditio nova in Christo, vetera transierunt, ecce nova facta sunt omnia (Marcion incorrectly reads + τὰ πάντα all but best B p46 א C D* D1 F G 1739 Clement)
[36] AM 5.12.6 He enjoins us "to cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and blood" Si etiam iubet ut mundemus nos ab inquinamento carnis et sanguinis, note Marcion apparently reads αἵματος for πνεύματος, without manuscriot support.

[Therefore] let us cleanse ourselves from the defilements of the flesh and blood,

11:2 (b) ἡρμοσάμην γὰρ ὑμᾶς ἑνὶ ἀνδρὶ παρθένον ἅγιον παραστῆσαι τῷ Χριστῷ· [37] for I have bethrothed you to the one man (groom) (as) a holy virgin to present (you) to Christ;

11:3 φοβοῦμαι δὲ μή πως, ὡς ὁ ὄφις ἐξηπάτησεν Εὔαν ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτοῦ, [38]
But I fear lest as the serpent deceived Eve in his cunning, φθαρῇ τὰ νοήματα ὑμῶν ἀπὸ τῆς ἁπλότητος [καὶ τῆς ἁγνότητος] τῆς εἰς τὸν Χριστόν.

your thoughts should be corrupted from the simplicity [and the purity] which [is] to Christ.

11:4 εἰ μὲν γὰρ ὁ ἐρχόμενος ἄλλον Ἰησοῦν κηρύσσει ὃν οὐκ ἐκηρύξαμεν,
For if indeed comes another who proclaims [a] Jesus whom we did not proclaim, ἢ πνεῦμα ἕτερον λαμβάνετε ὃ οὐκ ἐλάβετε, ἢ εὐαγγέλιον ἕτερον ὃ οὐκ ἐδέξασθε, καλῶς ἀνέχεσθε.

or you receive another spirit that you had not received, or another Gospel you did not accept, 11:13 οἱ γὰρ τοιοῦτοι ψευδαπόστολοι, ἐργάται δόλιοι, μετασχηματιζόμενοι [39] εἰς ἀποστόλους Χριστοῦ.

For such ones are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ.

11:14 καὶ οὐ θαῦμα, αὐτὸς γὰρ ὁ Σατανᾶς μετασχηματίζεται εἰς ἄγγελον φωτός. [40]
And [it is] not amazing, for ~ Satan himself transforms himself into an Angel of light.

11:15 οὐ μέγα οὖν εἰ καὶ οἱ διάκονοι αὐτοῖ μετασχηματίζονται ὡς διάκονοι δικαιοσύνης,
It [is not] a great thing if also his ministers transform themselves into ministers of righteousness;

ὧν τὸ τέλος ἔσται κατὰ τὰ ἔργα αὐτῶν. [41] of whom the end shall be according to their works.

[42] 12:7(b) διὸ ἵνα μὴ ὑπεραίρωμαι, Wherefore, lest I should be too exhalted, ἐδόθη μοι σκόλοψ τῇ σαρκί, ἄγγελος Σατανᾶ, ἵνα με κολαφίζῃ, ἵνα μὴ ὑπεραίρωμαι.

I was given this thorn to my flesh, an angel of Satan, so to beat me, lest I should be too exhalted.

12:8 ὑπὲρ τούτου τρὶς τὸν κύριον παρεκάλεσα ἵνα ἀποστῇ ἀπ᾽ ἐμοῦ. [43]
As to this three times the lord I besought that depart from me.

12:9 καὶ εἴρηκέν μοι, Ἀρκεῖ σοι ἡ χάρις μου, [44]
But he said to me, 'be content with my grace for you,'

13:1 Τρίτον τοῦτο ἔρχομαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς· ἐπὶ στόματος δύο μαρτύρων καὶ τριῶν σταθήσεται πᾶν ῥῆμα. [45]
This is the third time I am coming to you; by the mouth of two or three witnesses will be established every word

---

[37] Tertullian paraphrases in AM 5.12.6 Si et virginem sanctam destinat ecclesiam adsignare Christo, utique ut sponsam sponso; note: AM reads sanctam = ἅγιον 'holy', VG castam = ἁγνὴν 'pure' with no manuscript support. Maybe this is a deliberate adjustment by Tertullian to signify the association of the holy church with virginity that Marcion ruined, or more generally that the church was virgin before the 2nd century heretics arose. However, ἁγνὴν is Catholic vocabularly and found elsewhere only in 1 Peter 3:2, James 3:17.
[38] An allusion to Genesis 3:1ff, see 3:4. Note LXX Genesis 3:20 she is called Ζωή mother of all living μήτηρ πᾶς ὁ ζάω, but 4:1 Εὔαν
[39] AM 5.12.6 Si et pseudapostolos dicit operarios dolosos transfiguratores sui [40] AM 5.12.7 Si transfiguratur satanas in angelum lucis, perhaps alluded to also in 3.8.3 negatam ab apostolo lucis, id est veritatis, et fallaciae, id est tenebrarum, commisit communicationem.
[41] This statement is consistent with 2 Corinthians 5 :10
[42] Verses 11:16-12:7a are not attested in Marcion
[43] An allusion to 12:7-8 in AM 5.12.8 Magis vero mirabor dominum optimum, percutiendi et saeviendi alienum, nec proprium saltem sed creatoris angelum satanae colaphizando apostolo suo applicuisse, et ter ab eo obsecratum non concessisse.
[44] Tertullian found it necessary to allude to Job i.12 Aut numquid ipse est qui et in corpus Iob dedit satanae potestatem, ut virtus in infirmitate comprobaretur without mention of 2 Corinthians 12:9 (virtus in infirmitate perficitur) because this phrase was missing that he knew in the Catholic text, so he uses his technique we see elsewhere of implying the Old Testament parallel with Marcion's text.
[45] AM 5.12.9 in tribus testibus praefini ens staturum omne verbum, and DA 2.18 Τρίτον τοῦτο ἔρχομαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς· ἐπὶ στόματος δύο ἢ τριῶν μαρτύρων σταθήσεται πᾶν ῥῆμα. Rufinus Ecce hoc tertio uenio ad uos. In ore enim duorum et trium testium stabit omne uerbum ; note DA reads ἢ τριῶν μαρτύρων for μαρτύρων καὶ τριῶν with 1 1735; also transposing καὶ τριῶν before μαρτύρων with 075 33 1739 2464 6 630 629 vg. This is a late variant. And its not clear DA is even quoting from the Marcionite or Catholic text.

13:2 προείρηκα καὶ προλέγω ὡς παρὼν τὸ δεύτερον καὶ ἀπὼν νῦν τοῖς προημαρτηκόσιν καὶ τοῖς λοιποῖς πᾶσιν,
I foretold and said before, when present the second but absent now, those who previously sinned and all the rest

ὅτι ἐὰν ἔλθω εἰς τὸ πάλιν οὐ φείσομαι, [46] that if I come again I will not spare,

[47] 13:10 διὰ τοῦτο ταῦτα ἀπὼν γράφω, ἵνα παρὼν μὴ ἀποτόμως χρήσωμαι
Therefore I write ~ these things, that when I am present I will not [have to] treat you with severity, κατὰ τὴν ἐξουσίαν ἣν ὁ κύριος ἔδωκέν μοι, [48] [49]

according to the power (authority) which the lord gave me.

13:13 Ἡ χάρις τοῦ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ μεθ᾽ ὑμῶν. [50]
The grace of the lord Jesus Christ be with you.

---

[46] Reference to 13:2 in AM 5.12.9 Quid et non parsurum se peccatoribus comminatur, lenissimi dei praedicator?

[47] Verses 13:3-9 are not attested in Marcion, also part of segment identified by Winsome Munro as pastoral layer with several antithetic parallels, e.g., δοκιμὴν ... ἀδόκιμοι, δυνάμεως ... ἀσθενοῦμεν,

[48] Tertullian paraphrases 13:10 in AM 5.12.9 Immo et ipsam durius agendi in praesentia potestatem a domino datam sibi affirmat

[49] Verses 13:10b-12 appears to be Catholic additions. The pastoral term οἰκοδομὴν / aedificationem (see Munro) is not found in Marcion. The usage here parallels exactly the usage in verse 10:8, part of the pastoral 'severe' letter. Munro identifies 10:6, 8-11, 13:1-10 as part the antithetical pastoral layer. The use of the word ἀσπάσασθε is only securely in the Catholic addition of Romans 16 and 1 Corinthians 16, and can eb discounted from Marcion (DA 1.5 quotation of Colossians 4:10-11, 14 is not Marcionite text – see my notes). The Holy Kiss seems to be an additional ritual added later by the Orthodoxy. The other platitudes are likely scribal additions to the terse Marcionite endings.

[50] Most likely only the simplest ending form of the Pauline ending in verse 13: 13, which can be found in Colossians 4:18b of ἡ χάρις μεθ᾽ ἡμῶν stood. That this same form is found in 1 & 2 Timothy which were based on the early Pauline collection

The Marcionite Romans:
Interlinear with Reconstruction Notes

(Romans 1:1-5:11)

The Marcionite Romans: Interlinear with Reconstruction Notes by Melissa Elizabeth Cutler is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

You are free to copy and distribute this work (through any medium) with the following conditions:

1. It must remain attributed to me.
2. It must not be used for any commercial purpose.
3. It must remain complete and unaltered (including the preface, copyright notice and the Creative Commons License).

Copyright © Melissa Elizabeth Cutler 2010

some rights reserved

Available Online: www.Marcionite-Scripture.info

Contents

Contents....3
Preface....4
Rough draft....4
Reconstruction methodology....4
Sources and abbreviations....5
Colour coding system....5
English sub-line....7
Brackets....8
Verse numbering, paragraph headings and text format....8
Final comments....9
The Marcionite Prologue....10
[Paul's Epistle] to [the] Romans....11
[Greeting]....11
[Purpose of the letter]....12
[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]....13
[False security in the law and circumcision]....16
[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]....18

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Preface

Rough draft

This reconstruction of Romans is unfinished and is a rough draft. It presently only includes the first few chapters of Romans. Before publishing the complete and finished version of the reconstruction it is likely that I will make changes and corrections, as I refine and check my work.

If you notice any errors or mistakes I would be very grateful if you could let me know; my e-mail address is:

Melissa@Marcionite-Scripture.info

Reconstruction methodology

No manuscripts of the Marcionite version of Romans are known to have survived. However, several ancient Catholic writers wrote books arguing against the Marcionites, and in those writings they quoted from the Marcionite bible extensively and described the differences between it and their own scriptures. By examining their quotes and comparing their descriptions with the conventional bible, the Marcionite version can be reconstructed.

I have aimed to use a reconstruction methodology that is balanced: neither including text that was obviously absent from the Marcionite version, nor excluding text with insufficient evidence. I have not assumed that everything which contradicted ancient Marcionite views was absent[a]; but, equally I have recognized that verses which obviously, strongly and directly support the arguments of the ancient Catholics would have been quoted by them if they had been present in the Marcionite text. I feel that many of the reconstructions that have previously been published have failed to strike a balance here. Some reconstructions (such as that of Von Harnack) were done with the assumption that the Catholic version was the original, and that Marcion removed everything that contradicted this views, while others (such as the reconstructions published by Robert Prince and Frank Reitzenstein) have included many passages in spite of evidence that they were absent from the Marcionite text (see for example Romans 1:2-6 and 1:19-2:1).

In some places I have tried make the reader aware of more than one possible interpretation of the evidence, and use square brackets to section off text that may or may not have been present in the Marcionite text. I do this especially in places where I am less certain about the best way to reconstruct the text, in places where a passage is hard to judge, or where my knowledge of Greek may be insufficient to allow me to adequately make an assessment. In some places I include passages that were probably absent from the Marcionite text, simply to make the reader aware of alternative possibilities (such passages are bracketed off from the rest of the text. In all cases the corresponding footnotes should provide an explanation.

a I have tried to avoid even assuming that the descriptions of ancient Marcionite beliefs given to us by their ancient adversaries are entirely accurate; though, I must assume that they were correct on the most basic points.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Serious doubts have been raised about the reliability of The Dialogues of Adamantius as a source for reconstructing the Marcionite text[b], and so for the time being I have not used this source in my reconstruction. I plan to review this decision when I have had time to research the issue and examine that source more thoroughly.

Sources and abbreviations

In order to assist any readers who struggle to read Greek or Latin I have quoted my sources in a mixture of English and the original language. In places were the precise wording of the source is important to ensure a precise reconstruction I quote in the original language, in places where the precise wording is not critical to the reconstruction process I have quoted an English translation of the source, or provided my own translation.

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

- Adversus Marcionem by Tertullian, referred by the abbreviations A.M. and T. respectively;
- The Panarion of Epiphanius of Salamis, referred to by the abbreviations P. and E. respectively;
- The Commentary on John and the Commentary on Romans, by Origen, referred to by the abbreviations C.J., C.R. and O respectively.

This reconstruction is currently based primarily on Adversus Marcionem book 5, chapters 13-14 (Tertullian's commentary on the Marcionite version of Romans) and Panarion, book 42 as these are the two main sources from which the text can be reconstructed. I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Colour coding system

The colour of the text indicates how the text has been reconstructed, and the reliability of the reconstruction in that place.

Red: suspect text

This colour is used to denote text that is highly suspect. It is likely that this text was absent from the Marcionite version; if it was present it was probably different to the traditional version of the passage, and we de not have sufficient information to reproduce those differences. Sometimes red is used in places where I have included text in the reconstruction even though I believe it was absent from the Marcionite Romans in order to make the reader aware of other possible interpretations of the evidence. See the corresponding footnotes for further explanation. The red text in this reconstruction is identical to the corresponding text in the long version of Romans.

b See A Lost Edition of the Letters of Paul: A Reassessment of the Text of the Pauline Corpus Attested by Marcion by John J. Clabeaux.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Orange: no information

This colour indicates that I am not aware of any information about the Marcionite version of this text, and am incorporating the long version of Romans into the reconstruction by default. This indicates places where the do not know the Marcionite version of the text, though there is no reason to believe that it was different from the long version.

Brown: presence confirmed

This colour is used to indicate passages that were definitely present in the Marcionite version of Romans. This has usually been confirmed by a reference or allusion to them in one of the reconstruction sources. There is no reason to believe that the wording of these verses were different to the wording of the long version of the text, but equally no reason to assume that it was the same. The long version of the text is reproduced in these places.

Green: meaning known, wording uncertain

This colour indicates places where I am confidant the reconstruction matches the meaning of the Marcionite text, though the precise wording may be uncertain. In these places I am usually working from a rough description or a paraphrase of the Marcionite text contained in the reconstruction sources.

Bright turquoise: wording probably known

This colour indicates places where the precise wording of the Marcionite text is not known for certain, but was probably the same as the wording of the long version of Romans. Usually I am working from a rough description or paraphrase which indicates that the two versions were the same. The long version of the text is reproduced in these places.

Dark turquoise: precise paraphrase

This colour is used to indicate places were the Marcionite text is known word for word from a precise paraphrase in one of the sources.

Light blue: direct quote (translated)

This colour indicates places where the Marcionite text is known from a direct quote, but the quote is a Latin translation of the text rather than in Greek. If that Latin quote indicates that the Marcionite version and the long version of the text were the same, then the Greek from the long version of Romans is reproduced to avoid incorporating Latin-Greek translation errors into the reconstruction. If the source indicates that the Marcionite text is different to the long version of the text, then the quote is incorporated into the reconstruction in Latin.

Dark blue: direct quote (Greek)

This colour indicates places where the Marcionite is known from a direct quote in the original language.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Summary of the colour coding scheme: blue shades indicate places where the Marcionite text is known with the highest degree of certainty; red and brown indicate places where there is little information about the Marcionite version of the text; green is between these two extremes and indicate places where the meaning of the Marcionite text is reliably known, though not necessarily it's wording.

At first glance it may seem like there are large portions of the text where we have very little information about the Marcionite version; this is true, however it must be remembered that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages that where controversial, and on places where there were important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are the places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

English sub-line

In order to assist any readers who struggle to read Greek or Latin, I have included an English sub-line in this reconstruction. Due to the grammatical differences of Greek and English, the word order of an English translation frequently does not match the word order of the Greek. In an interlinear presentation, the English line must be arranged in an order that matches the Greek, resulting in a translation that can be very confusing in places. In some places I have resolved this by putting numbers in subscript next to English words to indicate the order in which they should be read.

There are also many words in the Greek text which can be omitted completely from the English translation for grammatical reasons. For example in Greek the word for "the" is frequently placed before names. These words are included in the sub-line but in "strike through" format (~~like this~~) to indicate that they are redundant in English and should be ignored.

For example the start of verse 1:9 looks like this:

ΜΑΡΤΥΣ ΓΑΡ ΜΟΥ ΕΣΤΙΝ Ο ΘΕΟΣ Ω ΛΑΤΡΕΥΩ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΠΝΕΥΜΑΤΙ ΜΟΥ…
[1:9] witness$_{5}$ For$_{1}$ my$_{4}$ is$_{3}$ ~~the~~ God$_{2}$ (whom$_{6}$ I$_{7}$-serve$_{8}$ in$_{9}$ ~~the~~ spirit$_{11}$ my$_{10}$ …

If you want to know the meaning of any Greek word you just have to look at the English word(s) below it. If you want to know the meaning of the sentence then ignore the crossed out English words, and when you encounter a cluster of numbered words, read them in the order indicated by the numbers.

E.g.: For$_{1}$ God$_{2}$ is$_{3}$ my$_{4}$ witness$_{5}$ (whom$_{6}$ I$_{7}$-serve$_{8}$ in$_{9}$ my$_{10}$ spirit$_{11}$…

The numbers restart from one at the beginning of each new verse.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Brackets

Square brackets are used for a number of purposes, the context or footnotes should indicate the purpose in each place.

In places where a word must be inserted into the English translation for grammatical reasons the word is in enclosed in square brackets to indicate that it does not directly correspond to any word in the Greek text. I may occasionally also add English words in square brackets to explain idioms or cultural references that may confuse a modern reader, or simply to clarify the meaning of the text.

In places where the Marcionite text survives in Latin rather than Greek, square brackets are used to section off the Latin text from the surrounding Greek. The corresponding part of the English translation is also bracketed off in the sub-line.

There are places where the sources used to reconstruct the Marcionite text contradict one another; there was evidently variation within copies of the Marcionite text, just as there was significant variation within the Catholic scriptures at that time. In some places I have chosen one source preferentially over another, while in others square brackets are used to describe the differences between sources. In both cases the footnotes contain further discussion. Square brackets are sometimes also used to section off text which corresponds to comments in footnotes and to enclose text that I suspect is an interpolation (this too is discussed in the footnotes).

Verse numbering, paragraph headings and text format

For convenient referencing the reconstructed text is divided into chapters and verses using the same system as the long version of Romans. These are enclosed in square brackets and placed only in the English sub-line, as they were not present in the Marcionite text. In places where a number of verses are present only in the long edition of the text, a reference to the passage is placed in the sub-line (e.g. [1:2-6]) so that the reader can quickly see the differences between the two versions of the document.

The passage headings found in many English translations are also not part of the original text, and are added by translators. I have ignored the traditional paragraph headings, and composed new ones that correspond better to the structure of the Marcionite version of this epistle. Like the verse numbers, these are enclosed in square brackets.

It is probable that the original epistle of Romans did not contain any pronunciation marks, punctuation, or paragraph divisions. These things were added later as the Greek language evolved. As a result I have not incorporated the pronunciation markings found in the long version of the text and punctuation is included only in the English sub-line (though in most places it corresponds to the punctuation that was later added to the long version of Romans). I have ignored all paragraph divisions and passage headings in existing bibles and divided the text into paragraphs using my own judgement as to the most logical grouping of sentences.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Places where the reconstructed Marcionite text differs from the long version of the text are underlined, as these are likely to be of interest to the reader.

Final comments

My knowledge of Greek and Latin is very limited. I am taking on the task of reconstructing the Marcionite version of Romans, not because I am particularly qualified or suited it; but rather, because I feel it is of the utmost importance that detailed reconstructions of the Marcionite scriptures be made freely available to people as soon as possible, and in spite of my limitations I believe that my efforts will be better than nothing.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

The Marcionite Prologue

Romani sunt in partibus Italiae. hi praeventi sunt a falsis
[The] Romans are in [the] region [of] Italy. They [had been] reached-first by false apostolis et sub nomine domini nostri Iesu Christi in legem et apostles, and under [the] name [of the] Lord of-us Jesus Christ into [the] law and [the] prophetas erant inducti. hos revocat apostolus ad veram evangelicam prophets were led. They [are] called-back [by the] apostle to [the] true evangelical fidem scribens eis a Corintho.

faith, writing [to] them from Corinth.[a] a The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin (not including the prologues to the Pastoral Epistles); I am inclined to accept this conclusion, even though it is unproven.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΠΡΟΣ ΡΩΜΑΙΟΥΣ
[Paul's Epistle] to [the] Romans

[Greeting]

ΠΑΥΛΟΣ ΔΟΥΛΟΣ ΙΗΣΟΥ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ ΚΛΗΤΟΣ ΑΠΟΣΤΟΛΟΣ ΑΦΩΡΙΣΜΕΝΟΣ ΕΙΣ
[1:1] Paul, [a] slave of-Jesus Christ, called [to be] [an] apostle, set-apart for

ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΟΝ ΘΕΟΥ
[the] good-news of-God. [1:2-6][a]

ΠΑΣΙΝ ΤΟΙΣ ΟΥΣΙΝ ΕΝ ΡΩΜΗ ΑΓΑΠΗΤΟΙΣ ΘΕΟΥ ΚΛΗΤΟΙΣ ΑΓΙΟΙΣ
[1:7] To-all those who-are in Rome, beloved [ones] of-God, called [to be] saints.

ΧΑΡΙΣ ΥΜΙΝ ΚΑΙ ΕΙΡΗΝΗ ΑΠΟ ΘΕΟΥ ΠΑΤΡΟΣ ΗΜΩΝ ΚΑΙ ΚΥΡΙΟΥ ΙΗΣΟΥ
Good-will to-you and peace from God, father of-us, and [the] lord Jesus

ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ
Christ.[b]

---

a <1:2-6> If these verses had been present in the Marcionite version of Romans then Epiphanius and Tertullian would have quoted them to support their arguments. Furthermore ancient greetings were consistently very short and simple; this very long and distended text shows signs of being an interpolation. Origen's statements in C.J. 10:4 could be interpreted as indicating that this text was absent from the Marcionite version. C.J. 10:4:

> Statements which are verbally contrary to each other, are made about our Lord, namely, that He was descended from David and that He was not descended from David. The statement is true, "He was descended from David," as the Apostle says, "born of the seed of David according to the flesh," if we apply this to the bodily part of Him; but the self-same statement is untrue if we understand His being born of the seed of David of His diviner power; for He was declared to be the Son of God with power. And for this reason too, perhaps, the sacred prophecies speak of Him now as a servant, and now as a Son. They call Him a servant on account of the form of a servant which he wore, and because He was of the seed of David, but they call Him the Son of God according to His character as first-born. Thus it is true to call Him man and to call Him not man; man, because He was capable of death; not man, on account of His being diviner than man. Marcion, I suppose, took sound words in a wrong sense, when he rejected His birth from Mary, and declared that as to His divine nature He was not born of Mary, and hence made bold to delete from the Gospel the passages which have this effect.

b <1:7> A.M. 5:5:1-2:

> My preliminary remarks on the preceding epistle [Galatians] called me away from treating of its superscription, for I was sure that another opportunity would occur for considering the matter, it being of constant recurrence, and in the same form too, in every epistle. The point, then, is, that it is not (the usual) health which the apostle prescribes for those to whom he writes, but gratiam et pacem. I do not ask, indeed, what a destroyer of Judaism has to do with a formula which the Jews still use. For to this day they salute each other with the greeting of "peace," and formerly in their Scriptures they did the same. But I understand him by his practice plainly enough to have corroborated the declaration of the Creator: "How beautiful are the feet of them that bring glad tidings of good, who preach the gospel of peace!" [Isaiah 52:7] For the herald of good, that is, of God's "grace" was well aware that along with it "peace" also was to be proclaimed. Now, when he announces these blessings as "from God the Father and the Lord Jesus,"

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΠΡΩΤΟΝ ΜΕΝ ΕΥΧΑΡΙΣΤΩ ΤΩ ΘΕΩ ΜΟΥ ΔΙΑ ΙΗΣΟΥ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ ΠΕΡΙ
[1:8] First indeed I-give-thanks to-the God of-me through Jesus Christ on-account of-all of-you, because the faith of-you is-celebrated in [the] whole the world.

ΠΑΝΤΩΝ ΥΜΩΝ ΟΤΙ Η ΠΙΣΤΙΣ ΥΜΩΝ ΚΑΤΑΓΓΕΛΛΕΤΑΙ ΕΝ ΟΛΩ ΤΩ ΚΟΣΜΩ

ΜΑΡΤΥΣ ΓΑΡ ΜΟΥ ΕΣΤΙΝ Ο ΘΕΟΣ Ω ΛΑΤΡΕΥΩ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΠΝΕΥΜΑΤΙ ΜΟΥ
[1:9] witness$_{5}$ For$_{1}$ my$_{4}$ is$_{3}$ ~~the~~ God$_{2}$ (whom$_{6}$ I$_{7}$-serve$_{8}$ in$_{9}$ ~~the~~ spirit$_{11}$ my$_{10}$

ΕΝ ΤΩ ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΩ ΤΟΥ ΥΙΟΥ ΑΥΤΟΥ ΩΣ ΑΔΙΑΛΕΙΠΤΩΣ ΜΝΕΙΑΝ ΥΜΩΝ in$_{12}$ the$_{13}$ good$_{14}$-news$_{15}$ of$_{16}$ ~~the~~ son$_{18}$ his$_{17}$), how$_{19}$ unceasingly$_{20}$ mention$_{23}$ of$_{24}$-you$_{25}$

ΠΟΙΟΥΜΑΙ ΠΑΝΤΟΤΕ ΕΠΙ ΤΩΝ ΠΡΟΣΕΥΧΩΝ ΜΟΥ ΔΕΟΜΕΝΟΣ ΕΙ ΠΩΣ ΗΔΗ
I$_{21}$-make$_{22}$, [1:10] always in the prayers of-me asking, if somehow now

ΠΟΤΕ ΕΥΟΔΩΘΗΣΟΜΑΙ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΘΕΛΗΜΑΤΙ ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ ΕΛΘΕΙΝ
some-time [or another] [I shall] succeed (in the will [of] ~~the~~ God) to-come to you.

ΠΡΟΣ ΥΜΑΣ

[Purpose of the letter]

ΕΠΙΠΟΘΩ ΓΑΡ ΙΔΕΙΝ ΥΜΑΣ ΙΝΑ ΤΙ ΜΕΤΑΔΩ ΧΑΡΙΣΜΑ ΥΜΙΝ
[1:11] I$_{2}$-long$_{3}$ For$_{1}$ to$_{4}$-see$_{5}$ you$_{6}$, that$_{7}$ some$_{11}$ I$_{8}$-may$_{9}$-share$_{10}$ gift$_{13}$ [with$_{14}$-]you$_{15}$

ΠΝΕΥΜΑΤΙΚΟΝ ΕΙΣ ΤΟ ΣΤΗΡΙΧΘΗΝΑΙ ΥΜΑΣ ΤΟΥΤΟ ΔΕ ΕΣΤΙΝ spiritual$_{12}$, for$_{16}$ ~~the~~ to$_{18}$-be-$_{19}$strengthened$_{20}$ you$_{17}$. [1:12] This yet is, [that we may]

ΣΥΜΠΑΡΑΚΛΗΘΗΝΑΙ ΕΝ ΥΜΙΝ ΔΙΑ ΤΗΣ ΕΝ ΑΛΛΗΛΟΙΣ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΥΜΩΝ be-comforted-together, among you through the [that$_{2}$ is$_{3}$] in$_{4}$ each$_{5}$-other$_{6}$ faith$_{1}$, yours$_{8}$

ΤΕ ΚΑΙ ΕΜΟΥ ΟΥ ΘΕΛΩ ΔΕ ΥΜΑΣ ΑΓΝΟΕΙΝ ΑΔΕΛΦΟΙ ΟΤΙ ΠΟΛΛΑΚΙΣ both$_{7}$ and mine. [1:13] Not I-want yet you to-remain-ignorant, brethren, that often

ΠΡΟΕΘΕΜΗΝ ΕΛΘΕΙΝ ΠΡΟΣ ΥΜΑΣ ΚΑΙ ΕΚΩΛΥΘΗΝ ΑΧΡΙ ΤΟΥ ΔΕΥΡΟ ΙΝΑ ΤΙΝΑ
I-purposed to-be-coming to you, (and was-hindered until the present) that some

---

he uses titles that are common to both, and which are also adapted to the mystery of our faith;…

Tertullian's statements above come from his commentary on Corinthians; they could be interpreted as confirming that the greeting of "Grace and Peace" was the same in all epistles in the Marcionite version, however it is unlikely that Tertullian made a carefully study of all of the greetings in the Marcionite epistles before making this statement. It is more likely that he is simply basing this on his knowledge of the Catholic version of the epistles, and so I have not incorporated this quote into my reconstruction of Romans.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΚΑΡΠΟΝ ΣΧΩ ΚΑΙ ΕΝ ΥΜΙΝ ΚΑΘΩΣ ΚΑΙ ΕΝ ΤΟΙΣ ΛΟΙΠΟΙΣ ΕΘΝΕΣΙΝ fruit I-might-be-having also among you, as also among the other nations.

ΕΛΛΗΣΙΝ ΤΕ ΚΑΙ ΒΑΡΒΑΡΟΙΣ ΣΟΦΟΙΣ ΤΕ ΚΑΙ ΑΝΟΗΤΟΙΣ ΟΦΕΙΛΕΤΗΣ
[1:14] to-Greeks$_{2}$ Both$_{1}$ and to-barbarians, to-wise both and to-simple, a-debtor

ΕΙΜΙ ΟΥΤΩΣ ΤΟ ΚΑΤ ΕΜΕ ΠΡΟΘΥΜΟΝ ΚΑΙ ΥΜΙΝ ΤΟΙΣ ΕΝ
I-am. [1:15] So, that according-to me, [I am] eager also$_{2}$ to-you$_{3}$, the$_{4}$ [ones]$_{5}$ in$_{6}$

ΡΩΜΗ ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΣΑΣΘΑΙ
Rome$_{7}$ to-announce-[the]-good-news$_{1}$.

[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]

ΟΥ ΓΑΡ ΕΠΑΙΣΧΥΝΟΜΑΙ ΤΟ ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΟΝ ΔΥΝΑΜΙΣ ΓΑΡ ΘΕΟΥ
[1:16] not$_{4}$ For$_{1}$ I$_{2}$-am$_{3}$-ashamed$_{5}$ [of]$_{6}$ the$_{7}$ good$_{8}$-news$_{9}$, [the$_{13}$] power$_{14}$ for$_{10}$ of$_{15}$-God$_{16}$

ΕΣΤΙΝ ΕΙΣ ΣΩΤΗΡΙΑΝ ΠΑΝΤΙ ΤΩ ΠΙΣΤΕΥΟΝΤΙ ΙΟΥΔΑΙΩ ΤΕ____ΚΑΙ ΕΛΛΗΝΙ
it$_{11}$-is$_{12}$ for$_{17}$ salvation$_{18}$ to$_{19}$-all$_{20}$ the$_{21}$ faithful$_{22}$, [to$_{23}$] Jew$_{25}$ both$_{24}$__and$_{26}$ Greek$_{27}$.

ΔΙΚΑΙΟΣΥΝΗ ΓΑΡ ΘΕΟΥ ΕΝ ΑΥΤΩ ΑΠΟΚΑΛΥΠΤΕΤΑΙ ΕΚ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΕΙΣ
[1:17] [the]$_{2}$ righteousness$_{3}$ For$_{1}$ of-God in him/it is-revealed, from faith into

ΠΙΣΤΙΝ__ ΑΠΟΚΑΛΥΠΤΕΤΑΙ ΓΑΡ ΟΡΓΗ__ΑΠ ΟΥΡΑΝΟΥ ΕΠΙ [...][c] ΑΣΕΒΕΙΑΝ faith____.[d] [1:18] revealed$_{6}$ [is$_{4}$] also$_{5}$ Wrath$_{1}$_from$_{2}$ heaven$_{3}$, on$_{7}$ [the$_{8}$] impiety$_{9}$

ΚΑΙ ΑΔΙΚΙΑΝ ΑΝΘΡΩΠΩΝ ΤΩΝ ΤΗΝ ΑΛΗΘΕΙΑΝ ΕΝ ΑΔΙΚΙΑ and$_{10}$ unrighteousness$_{11}$ of$_{12}$-people$_{13}$, ~~the~~ [who$_{14}$] the$_{16}$ truth$_{17}$ ~~in~~ [by$_{18}$] unrighteousness$_{19}$

ΚΑΤΕΧΟΝΤΩΝ _____
holding-down/suppress$_{15}$;___[1:19-1:28][e]__ c <1:18> By translating from Latin and taking into account the rules of Greek grammar we can determine that the Greek word here was "ΤΗΝ".

---

d <1:16-18> A.M. 5, 13, 2:

> And so in the passage where he says: Non enim me pudet evangelii, virtus enim dei est in salutem omni credenti, Iudaeo et Graeco, quia iustitia dei in eo revelatur ex fide in fidem, he undoubtedly ascribes both the gospel and salvation to Him whom (in accordance with our heretic's own distinction) I have called the just God, not the good one. It is He who removes (men) from confidence in the law to faith in the gospel----that is to say, His own law and His own gospel. Quoniam et iram dicit revelari de caelo super impietatem et iniustitiam hominum qui veritatem in iniustitia detineant.

e <1:19-28> Tertullian's quote of verse 2:2 (A.M. 5, 13, 3) indicates that in the Marcionite text it followed shortly after 1:18. There is a great deal here that Tertullian and Epiphanius could have used in their arguments, such as people being condemned for failing to worship the creator in verse 1:25. "what serious gaps Marcion has made in this epistle" – Tertullian in A.M. 5:13:4, the entire passage is quoted in the footnote for verse 2:2 to provide the context of Tertullian's statement.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[f]

ΠΕΠΛΗΡΩΜΕΝΟΥΣ ΠΑΣΗ ΑΔΙΚΙΑ ΠΟΝΗΡΙΑ ΠΛΕΟΝΕΞΙΑ ΚΑΚΙΑ
[1:29] having-been-filled with-every unrighteousness, wickedness, greed, evil,

ΜΕΣΤΟΥΣ ΦΘΟΝΟΥ ΦΟΝΟΥ ΕΡΙΔΟΣ ΔΟΛΟΥ ΚΑΚΟΗΘΕΙΑΣ ΨΙΘΥΡΙΣΤΑΣ
full of-envy, of-murder, of-strife, of-deceit, bad-character, gossips,

ΚΑΤΑΛΑΛΟΥΣ ΘΕΟΣΤΥΓΕΙΣ ΥΒΡΙΣΤΑΣ ΥΠΕΡΗΦΑΝΟΥΣ ΑΛΑΖΟΝΑΣ ΕΦΕΥΡΕΤΑΣ
[1:30] Slanderers, haters-of-God, violent/insulting, proud, boasters inventors

ΚΑΚΩΝ ΓΟΝΕΥΣΙΝ ΑΠΕΙΘΕΙΣ ΑΣΥΝΕΤΟΥΣ ΑΣΥΝΘΕΤΟΥΣ of-evil, to$_2$-parents$_3$ disobedient$_1$, [1:31] without-understanding, covenant-breakers,

ΑΣΤΟΡΓΟΥΣ ΑΝΕΛΕΗΜΟΝΑΣ
without-affection, without-mercy

ΟΙΔΑΜΕΝ ΔΕ ΟΤΙ ΤΟ ΚΡΙΜΑ ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ ΚΑΤΑ ΑΛΗΘΕΙΑΝ
[1:32-2:1][g] [2:2] we$_2$-know$_3$ Yet$_1$, that the judgement [of-]~~the~~ God on-the-basis-of truth

ΕΣΤΙΝ ΟΥ ΓΑΡ ΕΣΤΙΝ ΠΡΟΣΩΠΟΛΗΜΨΙΑ ΠΑΡΑ ΤΩ ΘΕΩ
it-is[h]. [2:3-10][i] [2:11] no$_4$ For$_1$ [there]$_2$ is$_3$ favouritism with ~~the~~ God.

f <1:29-31> Tertullian's quotation of the Marcionite version of Romans in A.M. 5:13:3 indicates that in the Marcionite version, verse 2:2 followed shortly after verse 1:18; this means that most of 1:19-2:1 must have been absent from the Marcionite text. It is also apparent from the text of the long version of Romans itself that 2:2 should have followed shortly after 1:18. Whilst I am certain that 1:19-1:28 and 1:32-2:1 are interpolated, I am less certain about 1:29-31; perhaps this small portion of text can sit between 1:18 and 2:1 without disrupting the flow of those two verses; then again, perhaps 2:1 should follow immediately after 1:18. I have included it in brackets because of this uncertainty.

g <1:32-2:1> These statements about God's judgement would have been quoted by Tertullian and Epiphanius if they have been present in the Marcionite text.

h <2:2> A.M. 5:13:3-4:

> (I ask) the wrath of what God? Of the Creator certainly. The truth, therefore, will be His, whose is also the wrath, which has to be revealed to avenge the truth. Likewise, when adding, Scimus autem iudicium dei secundum veritatem esse, he both vindicated that wrath from which comes this judgment for the truth, and at the same time afforded another proof that the truth emanates from the same God whose wrath he attested, by witnessing to His judgment. Marcion's averment is quite a different matter, that the Creator in anger avenges Himself on the truth of the rival god which had been detained in unrighteousness. But what serious gaps Marcion has made in this epistle especially, by withdrawing whole passages at his will, will be clear from the unmutilated text of our own copy. It is enough for my purpose to accept in evidence of its truth what he has seen fit to leave unerased, strange instances as they are also of his negligence and blindness.

I suspect that the clause "επι τους τα τοιαυτα πρασσοντας" ("upon those who do such things") was absent from the Marcionite version of this passage. I have interpreted Tertullian's quote above as an exact quote, in which case it is unlikely that he would have stopped quoting mid sentence.

i <2:3-6> This passage on God's judgement and condemnation of men would have strengthened

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΟΣΟΙ_ΑΝΟΜΩΣ ΗΜΑΡΤΟΝ ΑΝΟΜΩΣ ΚΑΙ ΑΠΟΛΟΥΝΤΑΙ ΚΑΙ ΟΣΟΙ ΕΝ
[2:12] Whoever_without-law sinned, without-law also shall-perish, and whoever in

ΝΟΜΩ ΗΜΑΡΤΟΝ ΔΙΑ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΚΡΙΘΗΣΟΝΤΑΙ ΟΥ ΓΑΡ ΟΙ ΑΚΡΟΑΤΑΙ law sinned, through law shall-be-judged/condemned. [2:13] not$_2$ For$_1$ the hearers

ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΔΙΚΑΙΟΙ ΠΑΡΑ ΤΩ ΘΕΩ ΑΛΛ ΟΙ ΠΟΙΗΤΑΙ ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ of-the law [are] righteous-ones with the God, but the doers of-the law

ΔΙΚΑΙΩΘΗΣΟΝΤΑΙ ΟΤΑΝ ΓΑΡ ΕΘΝΗ ΤΑ ΜΗ ΝΟΜΟΝ shall-be-regarded-as-righteous.[j] ([2:14] when$_2$ For$_1$ Gentiles (th[os]e not a-law

ΕΧΟΝΤΑ ΦΥΣΕΙ ΤΑ ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΠΟΙΩΣΙΝ ΟΥΤΟΙ ΝΟΜΟΝ ΜΗ having), by-nature the[-thing]s of-the law may-do,[k] these the-law not

ΕΧΟΝΤΕΣ ΕΑΥΤΟΙΣ ΕΙΣΙΝ ΝΟΜΟΣ ΟΙΤΙΝΕΣ ΕΝΔΕΙΚΝΥΝΤΑΙ ΤΟ ΕΡΓΟΝ ΤΟΥ having, to-themselves are a-law. [2:15] [They-]who show the work of-the

ΝΟΜΟΥ ΓΡΑΠΤΟΝ ΕΝ ΤΑΙΣ ΚΑΡΔΙΑΙΣ ΑΥΤΩΝ ΣΥΜΜΑΡΤΥΡΟΥΣΗΣ ΑΥΤΩΝ ΤΗΣ law written in the hearts of-them, testifying-together [with] their ~~the~~

ΣΥΝΕΙΔΗΣΕΩΣ ΚΑΙ ΜΕΤΑΞΥ ΑΛΛΗΛΩΝ ΤΩΝ ΛΟΓΙΣΜΩΝ ΚΑΤΗΓΟΡΟΥΝΤΩΝ Η conscience, and between each-other ~~of~~-the[ir] thoughts accusing, or

ΚΑΙ ΑΠΟΛΟΓΟΥΜΕΝΩΝ ΕΝ ΗΜΕΡΑ ΟΤΕ ΚΡΙΝΕΙ Ο ΘΕΟΣ
even defending [them]) [2:16] in [the] day when shall-be-judging/condemning$_2$ ~~the~~ God$_1$

ΤΑ ΚΡΥΠΤΑ ΤΩΝ ΑΝΘΡΩΠΩΝ ΚΑΤΑ ΤΟ ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΟΝ ΜΟΥ ΔΙΑ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ__
the secrets of-~~the~~ people, (according-to the Gospel of-me), through Christ __[l].

Tertullian's argument significantly if he had been present in the Marcionite text. It continues the theme of 1:32-2:1.

j <2:12-13> P. 42:11:8:

> 1(28). "Ὅσοι ἀνόμως ἥμαρτον, ἀνόμως καὶ ἀπολοῦνται, καὶ ὅσοι ἐν νόμῳ ἥμαρτον, διὰ νόμου κριθήσονται. οὐ γὰρ οἱ ἀκροαταὶ τοῦ νόμου δίκαιοι παρὰ τῷ θεῷ, ἀλλ' οἱ ποιηταὶ τοῦ νόμου δικαιωθήσονται"

k <2:14> A.M. 5:13:4:

> ... If, then, God will judge the secrets of men----both of those who have sinned in the law, and of those who have sinned without law (quia et hi legem ignorant et natura faciunt quae sunt legis) ----surely the God who shall judge is He to whom belong both the law, and that nature which is the rule to them who know not the law. But how will He conduct this judgment?

l <2:16> A.M. 5, 13, 4-5:

> If, then, God will judge the secrets of men----both of those who have sinned in the law, and of those who have sinned without law (inasmuch as they who know not the law yet do by nature the things contained in the law) ----surely the God who shall judge is He to whom belong both the law, and that nature which is

[False security in the law and circumcision]

ΕΙ ΔΕ ΣΥ ΙΟΥΔΑΙΟΣ ΕΠΟΝΟΜΑΖΗ ΚΑΙ ΕΠΑΝΑΠΑΥΗ ΝΟΜΩ ΚΑΙ ΚΑΥΧΑΣΑΙ
[2:17] If yet you a-Jew are-called, and rely-on [the] law, and are-boasting in

ΕΝ ΘΕΩ ΚΑΙ ΓΙΝΩΣΚΕΙΣ ΤΟ ΘΕΛΗΜΑ ΚΑΙ ΔΟΚΙΜΑΖΕΙΣ ΤΑ ΔΙΑΦΕΡΟΝΤΑ
in God, [2:18] and you-know the will [of God], and discern the important [things],

ΚΑΤΗΧΟΥΜΕΝΟΣ ΕΚ ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΠΕΠΟΙΘΑΣ ΤΕ ΣΕΑΥΤΟΝ ΟΔΗΓΟΝ being-taught out-of the law, [2:19] you-have-confidence[-in]$_2$ also$_1$ yourself$_3$ a-guide$_5$

ΕΙΝΑΙ ΤΥΦΛΩΝ ΦΩΣ ΤΩΝ ΕΝ ΣΚΟΤΕΙ ΠΑΙΔΕΥΤΗΝ ΑΦΡΟΝΩΝ to-be$_4$ of-blind-ones, a-light of-th[os]e in darkness, [2:20] an-instructor of-ignorant-ones,

ΔΙΔΑΣΚΑΛΟΝ ΝΗΠΙΩΝ ΕΧΟΝΤΑ ΤΗΝ ΜΟΡΦΩΣΙΝ ΤΗΣ ΓΝΩΣΕΩΣ ΚΑΙ ΤΗΣ
a-teacher of-babes, having the appearance of ~~the~~ knowledge and of-the

ΑΛΗΘΕΙΑΣ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΝΟΜΩ Ο ΟΥΝ ΔΙΔΑΣΚΩΝ ΕΤΕΡΟΝ ΣΕΑΥΤΟΝ ΟΥ truth in the law,[m] [2:21] the [one] then teaching another, yourself not

ΔΙΔΑΣΚΕΙΣ Ο ΚΗΡΥΣΣΩΝ ΜΗ ΚΛΕΠΤΕΙΝ ΚΛΕΠΤΕΙΣ Ο
you-are-teaching? The [one] preaching not to-steal, are-you-stealing?[n][2:22] The [one]

ΛΕΓΩΝ ΜΗ ΜΟΙΧΕΥΕΙΝ ΜΟΙΧΕΥΕΙΣ Ο ΒΔΕΛΥΣΣΟΜΕΝΟΣ ΤΑ ΕΙΔΩΛΑ saying not to-be-adultering, are-you-adultering? the [one] detesting the idols,

ΙΕΡΟΣΥΛΕΙΣ ΟΣ ΕΝ ΝΟΜΩ ΚΑΥΧΑΣΑΙ ΔΙΑ ΤΗΣ
do-you-commit-sacrilege? [2:23] [You$_1$-]who$_2$ in$_4$ the$_5$-law,$_6$ boast$_3$ through$_{11}$ the$_{12}$

ΠΑΡΑΒΑΣΕΩΣ ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΤΟΝ ΘΕΟΝ ΑΤΙΜΑΖΕΙΣ ΤΟ ΓΑΡ ΟΝΟΜΑ violation$_{13}$ of$_{14}$-the$_{15}$ law?$_{16}$ ~~the~~ God$_{10}$ do$_7$-you$_8$-dishonour$_9$ [2:24] the$_4$ For$_1$ name$_5$ the rule to them who know not the law. But how will He conduct this judgment? Secundum evangelium, he [Paul] says, per Christum. So that both the gospel and Christ must be His, to whom appertain the law and the nature which are to be vindicated by the gospel and Christ----even at that judgment of God which, as he previously said, was to be according to truth.

---

m <2:20> P. 42:11:8:

3(30). "Ἔχοντα τὴν μόρφωσιν τῆς γνώσεως καὶ τῆς ἀληθείας ἐν τῷ νόμῳ"

n <2:21> A.M. 5:13:6:

Hence his invective against the transgressors of the law, who teach that men should not steal, and yet practise theft themselves. (This invective he utters) in perfect homage to the law of God, not as if he meant to censure the Creator Himself with having commanded a fraud to be practised against the Egyptians to get their gold and silver at the very time when He was forbidding men to steal...

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ ΔΙ ΥΜΑΣ ΒΛΑΣΦΗΜΕΙΤΑΙ___ΚΑΘΟΣ ΓΕΓΡΑΠΤΑΙ of$_6$ ~~the~~ God$_7$ through$_2$ you$_3$ is-blasphemed___, as it-has-been-written.[o]

ΠΕΡΙΤΟΜΗ ΜΕΝ ΓΑΡ ΩΦΕΛΕΙ ΕΑΝ ΝΟΜΟΝ ΠΡΑΣΣΗΣ ΕΑΝ ΔΕ
[2:25] Circumcision$_2$ indeed$_3$ For$_1$ is-beneficial, if [the] law you-practise, if yet

ΠΑΡΑΒΑΤΗΣ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΗΣ Η ΠΕΡΙΤΟΜΗ ΣΟΥ ΑΚΡΟΒΥΣΤΙΑ ΓΕΓΟΝΕΝ a-violator of-law you-may-be, the circumcision of-you uncircumcision has-become.[p]

ΟΥ ΓΑΡ Ο ΕΝ ΤΩ ΦΑΝΕΡΩ ΙΟΥΔΑΙΟΣ
[2:26-27][q] [2:28] not$_8$ For$_1$ the$_2$-[one]$_3$ [merely]$_4$ in$_5$ ~~the~~ outward-appearance$_6$, [a real]$_9$ Jew$_{10}$

ΕΣΤΙΝ ΟΥΔΕ Η ΕΝ ΤΩ ΦΑΝΕΡΩ ΕΝ ΣΑΡΚΙ ΠΕΡΙΤΟΜΗ is$_7$, nor that in ~~the~~ outward-appearance, (in flesh), [true] circumcision;

ΑΛΛ Ο ΕΝ ΤΩ ΚΡΥΠΤΩ ΙΟΥΔΑΙΟΣ ΚΑΙ ΠΕΡΙΤΟΜΗ ΚΑΡΔΙΑΣ
[2:29] but the [one] in ~~the~~ secret/inwardly a-Jew, and circumcision [is] of-heart,[r]

---

o <2:24> A.M. 5, 13, 7:

> Well, but he had gone so far in his censure of the Jews, as to point against them the denunciation of the prophet, Propter vos nomen dei blasphematur.

p <2:25> This verse is quoted by Epiphanius, Origen and Tertullian. P. 42:11:8:

> 2(29). "Περιτομὴ μὲν γὰρ ὠφελεῖ, ἐὰν νόμον πράσσῃς· ἐὰν δὲ παραβάτης νόμου ᾖς, ἡ περιτομή σου ἀκροβυστία γέγονεν"

Origen discusses this verse in his commentary on Romans, and tells us how discussions between Marcionites and Catholics were influenced by it; there is no indication that he is quoting from the Marcionite version of Romans, but the discussion can be interpreted as providing additional evidence that this verse was present in the Marcionite text. C.R. 2:13:27:

> Indeed, Marcion, who is a man who takes no pleasure at all in allegorical interpretation, is completely at a loss in explaining the Apostle's words, "Circumcision is of value." Not even concerning the details which are mentioned was he able to give an account in any respect whatsoever. Indeed, not only was Marcion accustomed to oppose the God of the law who gave circumcision, and to mark him out with a certain derision but all the heretics who repudiate the Old Testament, in company with the pagans.

See the footnote for verses 2:28-29 for Tertullian's quote.

q <2:26-27> It is interesting that Tertullian, Epiphanius and Origen all quote verse 2:25, but none of them mention verses 2:26-27 which they could have used more easily in their arguments. I have interpreted this as evidence that they were absent from the Marcionite version r <2:28-29> A.M. 5, 13, 7:

> He prefers even circumcision of heart to neglect of it in the flesh. Now it is quite within the purpose of the God of the law that circumcision should be that of the heart, not in the flesh; in the spirit, and not in the letter. Since this is the circumcision recommended by Jeremiah: "…" and even of Moses: "…" ----the Spirit which circumcises the heart will proceed from Him who prescribed the letter also which clips the flesh; and the Jew which is one inwardly will be a subject of the self-same God as he also is who is a Jew outwardly; because the apostle would have preferred not to have mentioned a Jew at all, unless he were a servant of the God of the Jews.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΚΑΡΔΙΑΣ ΕΝ ΠΝΕΥΜΑΤΙ ΟΥ ΓΡΑΜΜΑΤΙ ΟΥ Ο ΕΠΑΙΝΟΣ ΟΥΚ ΕΞ ΑΝΘΡΩΠΩΝ of-heart,[s] in spirit, not letter; of-whom the praise not from people,

ΑΛΛ ΕΚ ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ
but from ~~the~~ God. [3:1-18][t]

[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]

ΟΙΔΑΜΕΝ ΔΕ ΟΤΙ ΟΣΑ Ο ΝΟΜΟΣ ΛΕΓΕΙ ΤΟΙΣ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΝΟΜΩ ΛΑΛΕΙ
[3:19] We-know yet, that whatever the Law says, to-those under the law it-speaks,

ΙΝΑ ΠΑΝ ΣΤΟΜΑ ΦΡΑΓΗ ΚΑΙ ΥΠΟΔΙΚΟΣ ΓΕΝΗΤΑΙ ΠΑΣ Ο that every mouth may-be-stopped, and under$_6$-sentence$_7$ may$_4$-become$_5$ all$_1$ the$_2$

ΚΟΣΜΟΣ__ ΔΙΟΤΙ ΕΞ ΕΡΓΩΝ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΟΥ ΔΙΚΑΙΩΘΗΣΕΤΑΙ ΠΑΣΑ ΣΑΡΞ world$_3$___[u].[3:20] Therefore from works of-law not$_4$ shall$_3$-be$_5$-justified$_6$ all$_1$ flesh$_2$

ΕΝΩΠΙΟΝ ΑΥΤΟΥ [ΔΙΑ ΓΑΡ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΕΠΙΓΝΩΣΙΣ ΑΜΑΡΤΙΑΣ]
before him, [through$_2$ for$_1$ law [comes] an-acknowledgement of-transgression][v] .

---

s <2:26-29> A.M. 5, 13, 7:

> He prefers even circumcision of heart to neglect of it in the flesh. Now it is quite within the purpose of the God of the law that circumcision should be that of the heart, not in the flesh; in the spirit, and not in the letter. Since this is the circumcision recommended by Jeremiah: "…" and even of Moses: "…" ----the Spirit which circumcises the heart will proceed from Him who prescribed the letter also which clips the flesh; and the Jew which is one inwardly will be a subject of the self-same God as he also is who is a Jew outwardly; because the apostle would have preferred not to have mentioned a Jew at all, unless he were a servant of the God of the Jews.

It is interesting that Tertullian, Epiphanius and Origen all quote verse 2:25, but none of them mention verses 2:26-27 which they could have used in their arguments. It is possible that in the Marcionite version those verses were significantly different to the traditional version, they might even have been absent entirely; but, I am not sufficiently convinced of this to exclude them from the reconstruction or colour them red.

t <3:1-18> There are several verses here that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have quoted if they had been present in the Marcionite text, particularly verse 3:2 and 5-6. Also, one of the consistent differences between the two versions was that that Catholic version had far more quotations of the Hebrew scriptures than the Marcionite version, whilst verses 3:10-17 contain a number of very prominent quotations of the Hebrew Scriptures.

u <3:19> A.M. 5, 13, 11:

> For this (I suppose it was, that) the law of the Creator had concluded all under sin, and had brought in all the world as guilty (before God), and had stopped every mouth, so that none could glory through it, in order that grace might be maintained to the glory of the Christ, not of the Creator, but of Marcion!

It is highly likely that the clause "τω θεω" (to God) would also have been mentioned by Tertullian if it had been present in the Marcionite text; the words enclosed in brackets in the quote above have been added by the translator.

v <3:20> Verse 3:19 and the first half of verse 20 state that the purpose of the law is to convict the entire

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[w]

ΝΥΝΙ ΔΕ ΧΩΡΙΣ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΔΙΚΑΙΟΣΥΝΗ ΘΕΟΥ ΠΕΦΑΝΕΡΩΤΑΙ ____
[3:21] Now yet without law a-righteousness of-God has-been-made-manifest, __ [x]

ΔΙΚΑΙΟΣΥΝΗ ΔΕ ΘΕΟΥ ΔΙΑ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ___ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ
[3:22] a-righteousness even of-God through [the] faith of/in-Christ,

[Tunc lex] ΔΙΚΑΙΟΣΥΝΗ ΔΕ ΘΕΟΥ ΔΙΑ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ____
[3:21] [formerly [the] law] [3:22] a-righteousness$_2$ now$_1$ of-God through [the] faith _____

ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ
of/in-Christ,

ΔΙΚΑΙΩΘΕΝΤΕΣ ΟΥΝ ΕΚ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΕΙΡΗΝΗΝ ΧΩΜΕΝ ΠΡΟΣ
[3:23-4:25][y] [5:1] having-been-justified$_2$ So$_1$ by faith, peace let-us-have with

ΤΟΝ ΘΕΟΝ ΔΙΑ ΤΟΥ ΚΥΡΙΟΥ ΗΜΩΝ ΙΗΣΟΥ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ ΔΙ ΟΥ ΚΑΙ ΤΗΝ
the God[z] through the lord of-us Jesus Christ, [5:2] through whom also$_2$ ~~the~~ world, and that no one can be justified through the law; the Marcionites no-doubt interpreted this as describing the methods by which the creator or lesser god held the world in bondage. It is unlikely that their version contained the words enclosed in square brackets "ΔΙΑ ΓΑΡ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΕΠΙΓΝΩΣΙΣ ΑΜΑΡΤΙΑΣ", and I strongly suspect that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have quoted them if they had been present. If this passage originally expounded Marcionite (or proto Marcionite) theology then these extra words are a classic example of an interpolation that sought to explain and re-interpret a statement that was challenging to a non-Marcionite scribe.

w <3:21-22> A.M. 5:13:8:

> Tunc lex, nunc iustitia dei per fidem Christi. What means this distinction? Has your god been subserving the interests of the Creator's dispensation, by affording time to Him and to His law? Is the "Now" in the hands of Him to whom belonged the "Then"? Surely, then, the law was His, whose is now the righteousness of God. It is a distinction of dispensations, not of gods.

The passage above can be interpreted in two ways. Rev. Peter Holmes, the translator my English copy of Against Marcion, interpreted only the words "iustitia dei per fidem Christi" as a direct quotation of the Marcionite text, but he did not regard the words "Tunc lex, nunc" as part of the quote. The alternative interpretation of A.M. 5:13:8 is to regard the entire sentence ("Tunc lex, nunc iustitia dei per fidem Christi.") as a direct quote from the Marcionite text, corresponding to verse 3:21 as well as 3:22. I have therefore prepared two reconstructions of these verses based on these two possibilities.

x <3:21> If the sentence "ΜΑΡΤΥΡΟΥΜΕΝΗ ΥΠΟ ΤΟΥ ΝΟΜΟΥ ΚΑΙ ΤΩΝ ΠΡΟΦΗΤΩΝ" had been present in the Marcionite version, Tertullian and Epiphanius would have used it in there arguments.

y <3:22b-4:25> The manner in which Tertullian quoted verses 3:22a and 5:1 indicates that in the Marcionite text they were part of the same passage and related to one another. Furthermore there is a great deal in 3:23-4:25 that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have used in their arguments had those verses been present in the Marcionite Romans.

z <5:1> Here the Marcionite text matches a known manuscript variation in the Catholic Romans, which

ΠΡΟΣΑΓΩΓΗΝ ΕΣΧΗΚΑΜΕΝ ΤΗ ΠΙΣΤΕΙ ΕΙΣ ΤΗΝ ΧΑΡΙΝ ΤΑΥΤΗΝ ΕΝ Η
access$_{4}$ we$_{1}$-have$_{3}$ by$_{5}$-~~the~~ faith$_{6}$ into$_{7}$ ~~the~~ grace$_{9}$ this$_{8}$, in which we-stand, and we-boast in hope of-the glory of-~~the~~ God.

ΕΣΤΗΚΑΜΕΝ ΚΑΙ ΚΑΥΧΩΜΕΘΑ ΕΠ ΕΛΠΙΔΙ ΤΗΣ ΔΟΞΗΣ ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ

aa

ΟΥ ΜΟΝΟΝ ΔΕ ΑΛΛΑ ΚΑΙ ΚΑΥΧΩΜΕΘΑ ΕΝ ΤΑΙΣ ΘΛΙΨΕΣΙΝ ΕΙΔΟΤΕΣ
[5:3] not$_{2}$ only$_{3}$ [that]$_{4}$ Yet$_{1}$, but$_{5}$ also$_{6}$ we$_{7}$-boast$_{8}$ in$_{9}$ ~~the~~ [our]$_{10}$ afflictions$_{11}$, knowing$_{12}$

ΟΤΙ Η ΘΛΙΨΙΣ ΥΠΟΜΟΝΗΝ ΚΑΤΕΡΓΑΖΕΤΑΙ Η ΔΕ ΥΠΟΜΟΝΗ that$_{13}$ ~~the~~ affliction$_{14}$ endurance$_{16}$ produces$_{15}$ [5:4] ~~the~~ and endurance [produces]

ΔΟΚΙΜΗΝ Η ΔΕ ΔΟΚΙΜΗ ΕΛΠΙΔΑ Η ΔΕ ΕΛΠΙΣ ΟΥ ΚΑΤΑΙΣΧΥΝΕΙ ΟΤΙ trustiness, ~~the~~ and trustiness:hope, [5:5] ~~the~~ moreover hope not is-put-to-shame, because

Η ΑΓΑΠΗ ΤΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ ΕΚΚΕΧΥΤΑΙ ΕΝ ΤΑΙΣ ΚΑΡΔΙΑΙΣ ΗΜΩΝ ΔΙΑ ΠΝΕΥΜΑΤΟΣ
the love of-~~the~~ God has-been-poured in the hearts of-us through [the] Spirit

ΑΓΙΟΥ ΤΟΥ ΔΟΘΕΝΤΟΣ ΗΜΙΝ
Holy ~~the~~ having-been-given to-us.

ΕΤΙ ΓΑΡ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΣ ΟΝΤΩΝ ΗΜΩΝ ΑΣΘΕΝΩΝ ΕΤΙ ΚΑΤΑ
[5:6] while$_{2}$ For$_{1}$ Christ$_{7}$, were$_{4}$ we$_{3}$ weak$_{6}$ still$_{5}$, in$_{9}$-accord$_{10}$-with$_{11}$

ΚΑΙΡΟΝ ΥΠΕΡ ΑΣΕΒΩΝ ΑΠΕΘΑΝΕΝ ΜΟΛΙΣ ΓΑΡ ΥΠΕΡ
the$_{12}$-time$_{13}$, on$_{14}$-behalf$_{15}$-of$_{16}$ [the]$_{17}$ impious$_{18}$ ~~he~~-died$_{8}$.[ab] [5:7] Scarcely yet on-behalf-of allows us to restore the Greek text without incorporating Tertullian's Latin paraphrase directly into the reconstruction. A.M. 5:13:9:

---

> Monet iustificatos ex fide Christi, non ex lege, pacem ad deum habere. With what God? Him whose enemies we have never, in any dispensation, been? Or Him against whom we have rebelled, both in relation to His written law and His law of nature? Now, as peace is only possible towards Him with whom there once was war, we shall be both justified by Him, and to Him also will belong the Christ, in whom we are justified by faith, and through whom alone God's enemies can ever be reduced to peace.

aa <5:3-5:5> This passage is a possible interpolation; notice how verse 5:6 continues the flow of thought from verse 5:2. Regardless of whether or not this passage is interpolated, we have no reason to believe it was absent from the Marcionite version of the text, so I have not coloured it red. Even if it is an addition to the text of Romans it seems benign.

ab <5:6> P. 42:11:8:

> 4(31). "Ἔτι γὰρ Χριστὸς ὄντων ἡμῶν ἀσθενῶν ἔτι κατὰ καιρὸν ὑπὲρ ἀσεβῶν ἀπέθανεν"

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ΔΙΚΑΙΟΥ ΤΙΣ ΑΠΟΘΑΝΕΙΤΑΙ ΥΠΕΡ ΓΑΡ ΤΟΥ ΑΓΑΘΟΥ ΤΑΧΑ ΤΙΣ a-just-person anyone will-die, on$_2$-behalf$_3$-of$_4$ though$_1$ the good possibly someone

ΚΑΙ ΤΟΛΜΑ ΑΠΟΘΑΝΕΙΝ ΣΥΝΙΣΤΗΣΙΝ ΔΕ ΤΗΝ ΕΑΥΤΟΥ ΑΓΑΠΗΝ ΕΙΣ ΗΜΑΣ even might-dare to-die, [5:8] shows$_3$ but$_1$, ~~the~~ his$_4$ love$_5$ to$_6$ us$_7$

Ο ΘΕΟΣ ΟΤΙ ΕΤΙ ΑΜΑΡΤΩΛΩΝ ΟΝΤΩΝ ΗΜΩΝ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΣ ΥΠΕΡ ΗΜΩΝ
~~the~~ God$_2$, in$_8$-that$_9$, [while$_{10}$-]still$_{13}$ sinners$_{14}$ were$_{12}$ we$_{11}$, Christ$_{15}$ on$_{17}$-behalf$_{18}$-of$_{19}$ us$_{20}$

ΑΠΕΘΑΝΕΝ ΠΟΛΛΩ ΟΥΝ ΜΑΛΛΟΝ ΔΙΚΑΙΩΘΕΝΤΕΣ ΝΥΝ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΑΙΜΑΤΙ died$_{16}$. [5:9] By-much then$_2$ more$_1$, having-been-justified now ~~in~~ [by] the blood

ΑΥΤΟΥ ΣΩΘΗΣΟΜΕΘΑ ΔΙ ΑΥΤΟΥ ΑΠΟ ΤΗΣ ΟΡΓΗΣ ΕΙ ΓΑΡ ΕΧΘΡΟΙ of-him shall-we-be-saved through him from the wrath. [5:10] If for enemies

ΟΝΤΕΣ ΚΑΤΗΛΛΑΓΗΜΕΝ ΤΩ ΘΕΩ ΔΙΑ ΤΟΥ ΘΑΝΑΤΟΥ ΤΟΥ ΥΙΟΥ ΑΥΤΟΥ being we-were-reconciled to-~~the~~ God through the death of-the son of-him,

ΠΟΛΛΩ ΜΑΛΛΟΝ ΚΑΤΑΛΛΑΓΕΝΤΕΣ ΣΩΘΗΣΟΜΕΘΑ ΕΝ ΤΗ ΖΩΗ ΑΥΤΟΥ
by-much more having-been-reconciled we-shall-be-saved ~~in~~ [through] the life of-him.

ΟΥ ΜΟΝΟΝ ΔΕ ΑΛΛΑ ΚΑΙ ΚΑΥΧΩΜΕΝΟΙ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΘΕΩ ΔΙΑ ΤΟΥ ΚΥΡΙΟΥ
[5:11] Not only yet, but also [our] boasting [is] in ~~the~~ God through the Lord

ΗΜΩΝ ΙΗΣΟΥ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ ΔΙ ΟΥ ΝΥΝ ΤΗΝ ΚΑΤΑΛΛΑΓΗΝ ΕΛΑΒΟΜΕΝ of-us Jesus Christ, through whom now the reconciliation we-received.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[My reconstruction of Romans is not yet compete; 5:12 onwards is not included in this version.]

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

The Marcionite Romans:
Translation with Reconstruction Notes

(Romans 1:1-5:11)

The Marcionite Romans: Translation with Reconstruction Notes by Melissa Elizabeth Cutler is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

You are free to copy and distribute this work (through any medium) with the following conditions:

1. It must remain attributed to me.
2. It must not be used for any commercial purpose.
3. It must remain complete and unaltered (including the preface, copyright notice and the Creative Commons License).

Copyright © Melissa Elizabeth Cutler 2010

some rights reserved

Available Online: www.Marcionite-Scripture.info

Contents

Contents....3
Preface....4
Rough draft....4
Reconstruction methodology....4
Sources and abbreviations....5
Colour coding system....5
Translation approach....7
Brackets....9
Verse numbering, paragraph headings and text format....10
Final comments....10
The Marcionite Prologue....11
[Paul's Epistle] to the Romans....12
[Greeting]....12
[Purpose of the letter]....13
[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]....13
[False security in the law and circumcision]....15
[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]....17

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Preface

Rough draft

This reconstruction of Romans is unfinished and is a rough draft. It presently only includes the first few chapters of Romans. Before publishing the complete and finished version of the reconstruction it is likely that I will make changes and corrections, as I refine and check my work.

If you notice any errors or mistakes I would be very grateful if you could let me know; my e-mail address is:

Melissa@Marcionite-Scripture.info

Reconstruction methodology

No manuscripts of the Marcionite version of Romans are known to have survived. However, several ancient Catholic writers wrote books arguing against the Marcionites, and in those writings they quoted from the Marcionite bible extensively and described the differences between it and their own scriptures. By examining their quotes and comparing their descriptions with the conventional bible, the Marcionite version can be reconstructed.

In another work (The Marcionite Romans: Interlinear with Reconstruction Notes), I undertook just such a task. I examined the source texts in their original languages and produced a Greek reconstruction of the Marcionite Romans. This this work, I present an English translation of the reconstructed text, and a full set of reconstruction footnotes which quote the source texts in English, and show how I derived the reconstructed text.

I have aimed to use a reconstruction methodology that is balanced: neither including text that was obviously absent from the Marcionite version, nor excluding text with insufficient evidence. I have not assumed that everything which contradicted ancient Marcionite views was absent[1]; but, equally I have recognized that verses which obviously, strongly and directly support the arguments of the ancient Catholics would have been quoted by them if they had been present in the Marcionite text. I feel that many of the reconstructions that have previously been published have failed to strike a balance here. Some reconstructions (such as that of Von Harnack) were done with the assumption that the Catholic version was the original, and that Marcion removed everything that contradicted this views, while others (such as the reconstructions published by Robert Prince and Frank Reitzenstein) have included many passages in spite of evidence that they were absent from the Marcionite text (see for example Romans 1:2-6 and 1:19-2:1).

In some places I have tried make the reader aware of more than one possible interpretation of the evidence, and use square brackets to section off text that may or may not have been present in the Marcionite text. I do this especially in places where I am less

1 I have tried to avoid even assuming that the descriptions of ancient Marcionite beliefs given to us by their ancient adversaries are entirely accurate; though, I must assume that they were correct on the most basic points.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

certain about the best way to reconstruct the text, in places where a passage is hard to judge, or where my knowledge of Greek may be insufficient to allow me to adequately make an assessment. In some places I include passages that were probably absent from the Marcionite text, simply to make the reader aware of alternative possibilities (such passages are bracketed off from the rest of the text. In all cases the corresponding footnotes should provide an explanation.

Serious doubts have been raised about the reliability of The Dialogues of Adamantius as a source for reconstructing the Marcionite text[2], and so for the time being I have not used this source in my reconstruction. I plan to review this decision when I have had time to research the issue and examine that source more thoroughly.

Sources and abbreviations

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

1. Adversus Marcionem by Tertullian, referred by the abbreviations A.M. and T. respectively;

2. The Panarion of Epiphanius of Salamis, referred to by the abbreviations P. and E. respectively;

3. The Commentary on John and the Commentary on Romans, both by Origen, referred to by the abbreviations C.J., C.R. and O respectively.

This reconstruction is currently based primarily on Adversus Marcionem book 5, chapters 13-14 (Tertullian's commentary on the Marcionite version of Romans) and Panarion, book 42 as these are the two main sources from which the text can be reconstructed. I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Colour coding system

The colour of the text indicates how the text has been reconstructed, and the reliability of the reconstruction in that place.

Red: suspect text

This colour is used to denote text that is highly suspect. It is likely that this text was absent from the Marcionite version; if it was present it was probably different to the traditional version of the passage, and we de not have sufficient information to reproduce those differences. Sometimes red is used in places where I have included text in the reconstruction even though I believe it was absent from the Marcionite Romans in order to make the reader aware of other possible interpretations of the evidence. See the corresponding footnotes for further explanation. The red text in this reconstruction is identical to the corresponding text in the long version of Romans.

2 See A Lost Edition of the Letters of Paul: A Reassessment of the Text of the Pauline Corpus Attested by Marcion by John J. Clabeaux.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Orange: no information

This colour indicates that I am not aware of any information about the Marcionite version of this text, and am incorporating the long version of Romans into the reconstruction by default. This indicates places where the do not know the Marcionite version of the text, though there is no reason to believe that it was different from the long version.

Brown: presence confirmed

This colour is used to indicate passages that were definitely present in the Marcionite version of Romans. This has usually been confirmed by a reference or allusion to them in one of the reconstruction sources. There is no reason to believe that the wording of these verses were different to the wording of the long version of the text, but equally no reason to assume that it was the same. The long version of the text is reproduced in these places.

Green: meaning known, wording uncertain

This colour indicates places where I am confidant the reconstruction matches the meaning of the Marcionite text, though the precise wording may be uncertain. In these places I am usually working from a rough description or a paraphrase of the Marcionite text contained in the reconstruction sources.

Bright turquoise: wording probably known

This colour indicates places where the precise wording of the Marcionite text is not known for certain, but was probably the same as the wording of the long version of Romans. Usually I am working from a rough description or paraphrase which indicates that the two versions were the same. The long version of the text is reproduced in these places.

Dark turquoise: precise paraphrase

This colour is used to indicate places were the Marcionite text is known word for word from a precise paraphrase in one of the sources.

Light blue: direct quote (translated)

This colour indicates places where the Marcionite text is known from a direct quote, but the quote is a Latin translation of the text rather than in Greek. If that Latin quote indicates that the Marcionite version and the long version of the text were the same, then the Greek from the long version of Romans is reproduced to avoid incorporating Latin-Greek translation errors into the reconstruction. If the source indicates that the Marcionite text is different to the long version of the text, then the quote is incorporated into the reconstruction in Latin.

Dark blue: direct quote (Greek)

This colour indicates places where the Marcionite is known from a direct quote in the

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

original language.

Summary of the colour coding scheme: blue shades indicate places where the Marcionite text is known with the highest degree of certainty; red and brown indicate places where there is little information about the Marcionite version of the text; green is between these two extremes and indicate places where the meaning of the Marcionite text is reliably known, though not necessarily it's wording.

At first glance it may seem like there are large portions of the text where we have very little information about the Marcionite version; this is true, however it must be remembered that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages that where controversial, and on places where there were important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are the places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

Translation approach

When translating a text, the objective is to communicate the message of the original both as accurately as possible, and as clearly as possible. These objectives are of critical importance when translating sacred writings; however they are also in conflict with one another. It is impossible for any English translation to be both perfectly clear, and perfectly precise; attempts to follow the original text as precisely as possible inevitably compromise the clarity of the translation, whilst attempts to express the original message in natural "every day" language come at a cost of precision and accuracy. Like all translators of the bible I have thought carefully about how best to strike a balance between precision and clarity, to get the best of both worlds, as far as that is possible.

I believe that consistently using the same English word for any Greek word can often greatly obscure the meaning, because in Greek, as in English, a word can have several dramatically different meanings in different contexts. Excessively literal translations, though intended to be precise, therefore run the risk misrepresenting the original meaning by failing to properly respond to the context of each word. None the less, I feel constructing English sentences so that they precisely match the grammar of the corresponding Greek sentence is important. Even the most well-intentioned of translators run the risk of subtly interpreting the Greek text through the lens of their own beliefs, and then writing that interpretation into their translation. As a result, paraphrased translations can make the reader very dependant on the translators interpretation of the text.

The approach that I have decided upon therefore is not particularly literal in the sense that I frequently translate Greek words according to their figurative and idiomatic meanings (as dictated by context); however, at the same time I have endeavoured to be very precise regarding sentence structure and more general use of language. There are a few places where it is simply impossible for a translation to be both clear and precisely match the original sentence structure, and so I occasionally use a footnote to provide an alternative translation that is either clearer or more precise. In a small number of places the translation is slightly paraphrased; italics are used to mark out the paraphrased text, and a more literal translation is given in the footnotes.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

No translation can ever perfectly reproduce every nuance and shade of meaning of the original text. A particular problem occurs when three or four words in one language correspond to only one in word in another. For example consider Jesus' words in Luke 9:24:

> Whoever would save his life will lose it, but however loses his life for my sake will save it.

Let us consider for a moment the word life. Inevitably the English word does not perfectly match the connotations associated with the Greek; but to compound the issue, in Greek there are three words for life. The sentence above contains two of them and both have been converted to the same English word, losing the contrast in their meaning.

In order to address this translation issue I have selected a number of key Greek words; these are words of particular significance to Christian teaching, and words for which there is a significant danger of some of the meaning being lost in translation. When one of these words appears in the Greek text, I mark the corresponding English word with a Greek letter or two (in superscript) to indicate which Greek work it has come from. The Greek words are:

Greek Word	English Translation	Meaning
ἀγάπη agape	love$^{\alpha\gamma}$	Love, but a particular type of love, contrasted by “φιλέω”.
φιλέω phileo	love$^{\varphi}$	Love, but a particular type of love, contrasted by “ἀγάπη”.
ἁμαρτάνω hamartano	trespass$^{\alpha\mu}$, err$^{\alpha\mu}$	“ἁμαρτάνω” literally means to “miss the target”, but was often used figuratively to indicated that someone has failed to meet the required standard in a moral sense. It has traditionally been translated “sin” (or “synn” in middle English), which once had a very similar meaning to the Greek word; it literally meant to miss a target. The English language has changed since then and the word “sin” now has strong negative connotations of condemnation and irreconcilable guilt for many people. As a result I feel it is no longer appropriate to translate “ἁμαρτάνω” as “sin” and will use less loaded terms instead.
ζωή zoE	life$^{\zeta}$	Holistic, interdependent, connected, collective; e.g. “life” as in “all life on earth”. This is often the word used to talk about eternal life, though it can be used to refer to physical / mortal life as well. In the Greek language it is contrasted by “ψυχή” and “βίος”.
ψυχή psyche	life$^{\psi}$	Individualistic, an individual manifestation of life / consciousness, or intellect / mind. It is contrasted by “ζωή” and “βίος”.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

βίος vios	life[β]	Everyday life, physical life, means of subsistence, property, goods, etymologically connected to the word “biology”. It is contrasted by “ζωή” and “ψυχή”.
πίστις pistis	faith[πι], belief[πι] or trust[πι]	Like the English word “faith”, the word “πίστις” can refer to either believing it to be true or having trust in something. The translation “belief” does a poor job of capturing this second meaning, but must be used in some grammatical circumstances.
δικαιοσύνη dikeosunE	righteousness[δ] or justice[δ]	There are two English words which I have frequently used as translations of this Greek word, due to it's double meaning. As a result, the translated text may appear as if it is treating two separate concepts which are actually closely related in Greek.

If you are interested in studying the teaching of the Marcionite version of Romans in depth then these markings and their associated footnotes may be of interest to you.

Brackets

Square brackets are used for a number of purposes, the context or footnotes should indicate the purpose in each place.

In places where a word must be inserted into the English translation for grammatical reasons the word is in enclosed in square brackets to indicate that it does not directly correspond to any word in the Greek text. I may occasionally also add English words in square brackets to explain idioms or cultural references that may confuse a modern reader, or simply to clarify the meaning of the text.

There are places where the sources used to reconstruct the Marcionite text contradict one another; there was evidently variation within copies of the Marcionite text, just as there was significant variation within the Catholic scriptures at that time. In some places I have chosen one source preferentially over another, while in others square brackets are used to describe the differences between sources. In both cases the footnotes contain further discussion.

Square brackets are sometimes also used to section off text which corresponds to comments in footnotes and to enclose text that I suspect is an interpolation (this too is discussed in the footnotes).

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Verse numbering, paragraph headings and text format

For convenient referencing the reconstructed text is divided into chapters and verses using the same system as the long version of Romans. These are enclosed in square brackets, as they were not originally present in either the Marcionite or the Catholic version of the document. In places where a number of verses are present only in the long edition of the text, a reference to the passage is included in the translation (e.g. [1:2-6]) so that the reader can quickly see the differences between the two versions.

The passage headings found in many English translations are also not part of the original text, and are added by translators. I have ignored the traditional paragraph headings, and composed new ones that correspond better to the structure of the Marcionite version of this epistle. Like the verse numbers, these are enclosed in square brackets.

I have divided the text into paragraphs using my own judgement as to the most logical grouping of sentences and have not followed the paragraph layout of other translations; neither paragraph divisions nor punctuation existed in the Greek language of the 1st century, and so in all biblical texts they represent the interpretations of scribes and translators rather than the original author.

Final comments

My knowledge of Greek and Latin is very limited. I am taking on the task of reconstructing the Marcionite version of Romans not because I am particularly qualified or suited it; but rather, because I feel it is of the utmost importance that detailed reconstructions of the Marcionite scriptures be made freely available to people as soon as possible, and in spite of my limitations and flaws I believe that my efforts will be better than nothing.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

The Marcionite Prologue

The Romans are in the region of Italy. They had been reached first by false apostles, and in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ they were lead into the law and the prophets. They are called back by the apostle, to the true evangelical faith, writing to them from Corinth.[1]

1 The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin (not including the prologues to the Pastoral Epistles); I am inclined to accept this conclusion, even though it is unproven.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[Paul's Epistle] to the Romans

[Greeting]

[1:1] Paul, a slave of Jesus Christ, called [to be] an apostle, set apart for the Gospel of God; [1:2-6][1]

[1:7] to all who are in Rome, beloved[αγ] ones of God, called [to be][2] saints: grace to you and peace from God our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.[3]

---

1 <1:2-6> If these verses had been present in the Marcionite version of Romans then Epiphanius and Tertullian would have quoted them to support their arguments. Furthermore ancient greetings were consistently very short and simple; this very long and distended text shows signs of being an interpolation. Origen's statements in C.J. 10:4 could be interpreted as indicating that this text was absent from the Marcionite version. C.J. 10:4:

> Statements which are verbally contrary to each other, are made about our Lord, namely, that He was descended from David and that He was not descended from David. The statement is true, "He was descended from David," as the Apostle says, "born of the seed of David according to the flesh," if we apply this to the bodily part of Him; but the self-same statement is untrue if we understand His being born of the seed of David of His diviner power; for He was declared to be the Son of God with power. And for this reason too, perhaps, the sacred prophecies speak of Him now as a servant, and now as a Son. They call Him a servant on account of the form of a servant which he wore, and because He was of the seed of David, but they call Him the Son of God according to His character as first-born. Thus it is true to call Him man and to call Him not man; man, because He was capable of death; not man, on account of His being diviner than man. Marcion, I suppose, took sound words in a wrong sense, when he rejected His birth from Mary, and declared that as to His divine nature He was not born of Mary, and hence made bold to delete from the Gospel the passages which have this effect.

αγ The Greek root word here is "ἀγάπη", a type of love.

2 The English words "called saints" could mean two things; (1) labelled or named saints, or (2) appointed or invited to be saints. The Greek word corresponding to "called" here is "κλητοῖς"; unlike the English word, it can only mean "called" in the sense of appointment (meaning 2) so I have added the words "to be" to remove the ambiguity of the English word, and steer readers away from interpretation 1. Unfortunately there is a risk that by doing so I may have introduced a different translation error to the text as the words "to be" might incorrectly be interpreted as indicating that the readers are called to become saints in the future. To clarify: the readers are called to be saints now, at this present time, not merely become saints at some point in the future. These points are also relevant in verse one, where the word "called" is translated from "κλητὸς", and the words "to be" should be interpreted in the same way.

3 <1:7> A.M. 5:5:1-2:

> My preliminary remarks on the preceding epistle [Galatians] called me away from treating of its superscription, for I was sure that another opportunity would occur for considering the matter, it being of constant recurrence, and in the same form too, in every epistle. The point, then, is, that it is not (the usual) health which the apostle prescribes for those to whom he writes, but grace and peace. I do not ask, indeed, what a destroyer of Judaism has to do with a formula which the Jews still use. For to this day they salute each other with the greeting of "peace," and formerly in their Scriptures they did the same. But I understand him by his practice plainly enough to have corroborated the declaration of the Creator: "How beautiful are the feet of them that bring glad tidings of good, who preach the gospel of peace!" [Isaiah 52:7] For the herald of good, that is, of God's "grace" was well aware that along with it "peace" also was

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[1:8] First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ on account of all of you, because your faith[πι] is celebrated throughout the whole world. [1:9] For God is my witness, (whom I serve in my spirit in the Gospel of his son), that unceasingly I make mention of you, [1:10] always in my prayers, asking if somehow now, sometime [I may] succeed, (by the will of God), in coming to you.

[Purpose of the letter]

[1:11] For I long to see you, that I may share some spiritual gift [with] you, for you to be strengthened. [1:12] That is that we may be comforted together, among you, through the faith[πι] that is in each other, both yours and mine. [1:13] Now I do not want you to remain ignorant brethren, that often I intended to come to you (and was hindered until the present) that I might have some fruit among you too, as also among the other Gentiles. [1:14] I am a debtor both to Greeks, and to barbarians, to both the wise and the simple. [1:15] So then, what is preferable for me is to preach the Gospel to you, the ones in Rome, also.

[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]

[1:16] For I am not ashamed of the Gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to all the faithful[πι], to both Jew__and Greek. [1:17] For the righteousness[δ] of God is revealed in it[4], from faith[πι] to faith[πι]__[5].[6] [1:18] Wrath__from heaven is also revealed, upon the irreverence

---

to be proclaimed. Now, when he announces these blessings as "from God the Father and the Lord Jesus," he uses titles that are common to both, and which are also adapted to the mystery of our faith;…

Tertullian's statements above come from his commentary on Corinthians; they could be interpreted as confirming that the greeting of "Grace and Peace" was the same in all epistles in the Marcionite version, however it is unlikely that Tertullian made a carefully study of all of the greetings in the Marcionite epistles before making this statement. It is more likely that he is simply basing this on his knowledge of the Catholic version of the epistles, and so I have not incorporated this quote into my reconstruction of Romans.

πι The Greek root word here is "πίστις", which can mean faith, trust or belief.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

4 The Greek version of this sentence is slightly ambiguous, because the word "αὐτῷ" can mean either "it" or "him". If it means "it", then it refers back to the Gospel; if it means "him" it could refer to a member of "the faithful", or it could refer to God himself. The double meaning of "δικαιοσύνη" (righteousness or justice) compounds the uncertainty.

5 The statement "from faith to faith" (ΕΚ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΕΙΣ ΠΙΣΤΙΝ) is rather hard to interpret (in both the Marcionite and the traditional version of Romans). Numerous possible interpretations have been suggested, a few possible interpretations / translations are as follows:

1) beginning and ending in faith (as translated by the New International Version)

2) from [God's] faithfulness to [our] faith

3) from [the] faith [of the preacher] to [the] faith [of the hearer]

Or perhaps Paul is simply reminding us that the faith with which we begin our Christian journey must be continued if we are to deepen and continue our walk with God.

6 <1:16-18> A.M. 5:13:2:

and unrighteousness[δ] of men, who by their unrighteousness[δ] suppress the truth, [1:19-1:28][7]

[8]

[1:29] having been filled with all unrighteousness[δ], wickedness, greed, evil, full of envy, of murder, of strife, of deceit, bad character, gossips, [1:30] Slanderers, haters-of-God violent/insulting, proud boasters inventors of evil [things] disobedient to parents, [1:31] without-understanding, covenant-breakers, without-affection, without-mercy.

[1:32-2:1][9] [2:2] Thus/But[10] we see that the judgement of God is on the basis of truth[11].

> And so in the passage where he says: I am not ashamed of the gospel (of Christ): for it is the power of god unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek; for therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith, he undoubtedly ascribes both the gospel and salvation to Him whom (in accordance with our heretic's own distinction) I have called the just God, not the good one. It is He who removes (men) from confidence in the law to faith in the gospel----that is to say, His own law and His own gospel. When, again, he declares that "the wrath (of God) is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness,

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

7 <1:19-28> Tertullian's quote of verse 2:2 (A.M. 5:13:3) indicates that in the Marcionite text it followed shortly after 1:18. There is a great deal here that T. and E. could have used in their arguments, such as people being condemned for failing to worship the creator in verse 1:25. "what serious gaps Marcion has made in this epistle" – T. in A.M. 5:13:4, the entire passage is quoted in the footnote for verse 2:2 to provide the context of Tertullian's statement.

8 <1:29-31> Tertullian's quotation of the Marcionite version of Romans in A.M. 5:13:3 indicates that in the Marcionite version, verse 2:2 followed shortly after verse 1:18; this means that most of 1:19-2:1 must have been absent from the Marcionite text. It is also apparent from the text of the long version of Romans itself that 2:2 must originally have followed shortly after 1:18. Whilst I am certain that 1:19-1:28 and 1:32-2:1 are interpolated, I am less certain about 1:29-31; perhaps this small portion of text can sit between 1:18 and 2:1 without disrupting the flow of those two verses; then again, perhaps 2:1 should follow immediately after 1:18. I have included 1:29-31 in brackets because of this uncertainty.

9 <1:32-2:1> These statements about God's judgement would have been quoted by Tertullian and Epiphanius if they have been present in the Marcionite text.

10 The corresponding Greek word here is "δέ"; a common word which can be translated to numerous English equivalents depending on the context: thus, and, yet, but, therefore, however... Unfortunately it is impossible to know how best to translate this word without knowing whether verses 1:29-31 were present in the Marcionite text.

11 <2:2> A.M. 5:13:3-4:

> (I ask) the wrath of what God? Of the Creator certainly. The truth, therefore, will be His, whose is also the wrath, which has to be revealed to avenge the truth. Likewise, when adding, We are sure that the judgment of God is according to truth, he both vindicated that wrath from which comes this judgment for the truth, and at the same time afforded another proof that the truth emanates from the same God whose wrath he attested, by witnessing to His judgment. Marcion's averment is quite a different matter, that the Creator in anger avenges Himself on the truth of the rival god which had been detained in unrighteousness. But what serious gaps Marcion has made in this epistle especially, by withdrawing whole passages at his will, will be clear from the unmutilated text of our own copy. It is enough for my

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[2:3-10][12] [2:11] For [there] is no favouritism with God. [2:12] Whoever transgressed[αμ] without the law shall also perish without the law, and whoever transgressed[αμ] with the law shall be judged through the law. [2:13] For [it's] not the hearers of the law [that are] righteous[δ] before God, but the doers of the law [who] shall be justified[δ] [13], ([2:14] For when Gentiles (those without the law) by nature may do the [things] of the law[14], these [ones] without the law are a law to themselves. [2:15] They show the work of the law written in their hearts[15], their conscience testifying with them, their thoughts accusing or even defending them.) [2:16] on the day when God shall judge people's secrets, through Christ , according to my Gospel.[16]

[False security in the law and circumcision]

[2:17] Yet if you are called a Jew, and rely on the law, and are boasting in God, [2:18] and know [God's] will, and discern the important [things], being taught out of the law, [2:19] [if]

---

purpose to accept in evidence of its truth what he has seen fit to leave unerased, strange instances as they are also of his negligence and blindness.

I suspect that the clause "ΕΠΙ ΤΟΥΣ ΤΑ ΤΟΙΑΥΤΑ ΠΡΑΣΣΟΝΤΑΣ" ("upon those who do such things") was absent from the Marcionite version of this passage. I have interpreted Tertullian's quote above as an exact quote, in which case it is unlikely that he would have stopped quoting mid sentence.

12 <2:3-10> This passage on God's judgement and condemnation of men would have strengthened Tertullian's argument significantly if he had been present in the Marcionite text. It continues the theme of 1:32-2:1.

αμ The root word here is "ἁμαρτάνω"; it literally means to "miss the mark"; it was also used in a figurative sense to mean that someone had morally fallen short of a required standard.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

13 <2:12-13> P. 42:11:8:

> 1(28). "As many as have sinned without law shall also perish law, and as many as have sinned in the Law shall be judged by the Law. For not the hearers of the Law are just before God, but the doers of the Law shall be justified."

14 <2:14> A.M. 5:13:4:

> ... If, then, God will judge the secrets of men----both of those who have sinned in the law, and of those who have sinned without law (inasmuch as they who know not the law yet do by nature the things contained in the law) ----surely the God who shall judge is He to whom belong both the law, and that nature which is the rule to them who know not the law. But how will He conduct this judgment?

15 This could be interpreted as an allusion to Jeremiah 31:32.

16 <2:16> A.M. 5, 13, 4-5:

> If, then, God will judge the secrets of men----both of those who have sinned in the law, and of those who have sinned without law (inasmuch as they who know not the law yet do by nature the things contained in the law) ----surely the God who shall judge is He to whom belong both the law, and that nature which is the rule to them who know not the law. But how will He conduct this judgment? According to my gospel, he [Paul] says, by (Jesus) Christ. So that both the gospel and Christ must be His, to whom appertain the law and the nature which are to be vindicated by the gospel and Christ----even at that judgment of God which, as he previously said, was to be according to truth.

you also have confidence that you are a guide to the blind, a light to those in darkness, [2:20] an instructor of the ignorant, a teacher of babes, having the appearance of knowledge and of the truth of the law,[17] [2:21] the one then teaching another, are you not teaching yourself? The one preaching not to steal, are you stealing?[18] [2:22] The one saying not to be committing adultery; are you committing adultery? The one detesting idols; do you commit sacrilege[19]? [2:23] Who boasts in the law; do you dishonour God through the violation of the law? [2:24] For "the name of God is blasphemed__"[20] because of you[21], even as it has been written.

[2:25] For circumcision is indeed beneficial, if you keep the law; but if you may be a breaker of the law, your circumcision has become uncircumcision.[22] [2:26-27][23] [2:28] For the one [merely] outwardly appearing [to be] a Jew is not [truly a Jew], nor is [true] circumcision in outward appearance (in the flesh). [2:29] But the one [truly] a Jew is [so]

---

17 <2:20> P. 42:11:8:

> 3(30). "Which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the Law"

18 <2:21> A.M. 5, 13, 6:

> Hence his invective against the transgressors of the law, who teach that men should not steal, and yet practise theft themselves. (This invective he utters) in perfect homage to the law of God, not as if he meant to censure the Creator Himself with having commanded a fraud to be practised against the Egyptians to get their gold and silver at the very time when He was forbidding men to steal...

19 Literally: Do you rob temples?

20 Isaiah 52:5

21 <2:24> A.M. 5:13:7:

> Well, but he had gone so far in his censure of the Jews, as to point against them the denunciation of the prophet, Through you the name of God is blasphemed (among the Gentiles).

22 <2:25> P. 42:11:8:

> 2(29). "Circumcision verily profiteth if thou keep the Law; but if thou be a breaker of the Law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision."

Origen also discusses this verse in his commentary on Romans, and tells us how discussions between Marcionites and Catholics were influenced by it; there is no indication that he is quoting from the Marcionite version of Romans, but this can also be interpreted as providing additional evidence that this verse was present in the Marcionite text. C.R. 2:13:27:

> Indeed, Marcion, who is a man who takes no pleasure at all in allegorical interpretation, is completely at a loss in explaining the Apostle's words, "Circumcision is of value." Not even concerning the details which are mentioned was he able to give an account in any respect whatsoever. Indeed, not only was Marcion accustomed to oppose the God of the law who gave circumcision, and to mark him out with a certain derision but all the heretics who repudiate the Old Testament, in company with the pagans.

Tertullian also quoted this verse – see the footnote for verses 2:28-29 for Tertullian's quote.

23 <2:26-27> It is interesting that Tertullian, Epiphanius and Origen all quote verse 2:25, but none of them mention verses 2:26-27 which they could have used more easily in their arguments. I have interpreted this as evidence that they were absent from the Marcionite version

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

inwardly, (and [true] circumcision is of the heart[24], in the spirit not the letter), whose praise is not from men, but from God. [3:1-18][25]

[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]

[3:19] Now we know that what the law says, it speaks to those under law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become liable__[26]. [3:20] Therefore by the works of the law all flesh will not be justified[δ] [; for through law comes an-acknowledgement of transgression[αμ]][27] .

24 <2:28-29> A.M. 5, 13, 7:

> He prefers even circumcision of heart to neglect of it in the flesh. Now it is quite within the purpose of the God of the law that circumcision should be that of the heart, not in the flesh; in the spirit, and not in the letter. Since this is the circumcision recommended by Jeremiah: "…" and even of Moses: "…" ----the Spirit which circumcises the heart will proceed from Him who prescribed the letter also which clips the flesh; and the Jew which is one inwardly will be a subject of the self-same God as he also is who is a Jew outwardly; because the apostle would have preferred not to have mentioned a Jew at all, unless he were a servant of the God of the Jews.

25 <3:1-18> There are several verses here that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have quoted if they had been present in the Marcionite text, particularly verse 3:2 and 5-6. Also one of the consistent differences between the two versions was that that Catholic version had far more quotations of the Hebrew scriptures than the Marcionite version, whilst verses 3:10-17 contain a number of very prominent quotations of the Hebrew Scriptures.

26 <3:19> A.M. 5:13:11:

> For this (I suppose it was, that) the law of the Creator had concluded all under sin, and had brought in all the world as guilty (before God), and had stopped every mouth, so that none could glory through it, in order that grace might be maintained to the glory of the Christ, not of the Creator, but of Marcion!

It is highly likely that the clause "τῷ θεῷ" (to God) would also have been mentioned by Tertullian if it had been present in the Marcionite text; the words enclosed in brackets in Tertullian's statement above were added by the translator.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

αμ The root word here is "ἁμαρτάνω"; it literally means to "miss the mark"; it was also used in a figurative sense to mean that someone had morally fallen short of a required standard.

27 <3:20> Verse 3:19 and the first half of verse 20 state that the purpose of the law is to convict the entire world, and that no one can be justified through the law; the Marcionites no-doubt interpreted this as describing the methods by which the creator or lesser god held the world in bondage. It is unlikely that their version contained the words enclosed in square brackets "through the law comes an acknowledgement of transgression", and I strongly suspect that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have quoted them if they had been present. If this passage originally expounded Marcionite (or proto-Marcionite) theology then these extra words are a classic example of an interpolation that sought to explain and re-interpret a statement that was challenging to a non Marcionite scribe.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[28]

[3:21] But now the righteousness[δ] of God without the law is manifested,__[29] [3:22] even righteousness[δ] of God through [the] faith[πι] of/in __ Christ[30].

[3:21] Formerly the law, [3:22] now righteousness[δ] of God through [the] faith[πι] of / in __ Christ[30].

[3:22b-4:25][31] [5:1] So having been justified[δ] by faith[πι], let us have peace with God[32]

28 <3:21-22> A.M. 5:13:8:

> It was once the law; now it is "the righteousness of God which is by the faith of (Jesus) Christ." What means this distinction? Has your god been subserving the interests of the Creator's dispensation, by affording time to Him and to His law? Is the "Now" in the hands of Him to whom belonged the "Then"? Surely, then, the law was His, whose is now the righteousness of God. It is a distinction of dispensations, not of gods.

The passage above can be interpreted in two ways. Rev. Peter Holmes, the translator my English copy of Against Marcion, interpreted only the words "the righteousness of God which is by the faith of (Jesus) Christ." as a direct quotation of the Marcionite text; he did not regard the words "It was once the law; now it is" as being part of the quote. The alternative interpretation of A.M. 5:13:8 is to regard the entire sentence ("It was once the law; now it is the righteousness of God which is by the faith of Christ.") as a direct quote from the Marcionite text, corresponding to verse 3:21 as well as 3:22. I have therefore prepared two reconstructions of these verses based on these two possibilities.

Also, the name "Jesus" in brackets in the quote above was added by the translator as is absent from the Latin text.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

29 <3:21> If the sentence "being witnessed by the law and the prophets" had been present in the Marcionite version, Tertullian and Epiphanius would have used it in there arguments.

πι The Greek root word here is "πίστις", which can mean faith, trust or belief.

30 The Greek form of this clause reads "ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ"; the word "Christ" is in the genitive case. An ambiguity is created by the fact that this can be interpreted as a subjective genitive ("faith of Christ") or as an objective genitive ("faith in Christ"). I do not believe that a translator should allow their theological views to influence their translation of such a text; I leave readers to consider this issue for themselves.

31 <3:22b-4:25> The manner in which Tertullian quoted verse 3:22a and 5:1 indicates that in the Marcionite text they were part of the same passage and related to one another. Furthermore there is a great deal in 3:23-4:25 that Tertullian and Epiphanius could have used in their arguments against the Marcionites if it had been present in the Marcionite text.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

πι The Greek root word here is "πίστις", which can mean faith, trust or belief.

32 <5:1> Here the Marcionite text matches a known manuscript variation, which allows us to restore the Greek text without incorporating a translation of Tertullian's Latin paraphrase directly into the reconstruction. A.M. 5:13:9:

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

through our Lord Jesus Christ, [5:2] through whom we also have access by faith[πι] into this grace in which we stand, and we boast in hope of the glory of God.

[33]

[5:3] Yet not only [that], but also we boast in [our] afflictions, knowing that:-

- affliction produces endurance,
- [5:4] and endurance: trustiness,
- and trustiness: hope.

[5:5] Now hope is not put to shame, because the love[αγ] of God has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit [that has been] given to us.

[5:6] For while we were still weak Christ died, at the right moment[34] on behalf of [the] impious.[35] [5:7] For scarcely on behalf of a just person will anyone die, though on behalf of the good, possibly someone might even dare to die. [5:8] But, God shows his love to us in that [while] we were still sinners, Christ died for us. [5:9] By much more then, having been-justified now [by] his blood, shall we be saved through him from the wrath. [5:10] For if being enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his son, by much more [then], having been reconciled, we shall be saved [through] his life[ζ]. [5:11] Yet not only [that], but also [our] boasting [is] in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we [have] now received reconciliation.

> He enjoins those who are justified by faith in Christ and not by the law to have peace with God. With what God? Him whose enemies we have never, in any dispensation, been? Or Him against whom we have rebelled, both in relation to His written law and His law of nature? Now, as peace is only possible towards Him with whom there once was war, we shall be both justified by Him, and to Him also will belong the Christ, in whom we are justified by faith, and through whom alone God's enemies can ever be reduced to peace.

33 <5:3-5:5> This passage is a possible interpolation; notice how verse 5:6 continues the flow of thought from verse 5:2. Regardless of whether or not this passage is interpolated, we have no reason to believe it was absent from the Marcionite version of the text. I have not coloured it red, as even if it is an addition to the text of Romans it seems benign.

αγ The Greek root word here is "ἀγάπη", a type of love.

34 Literally: in accordance with the season

35 <5:6> P. 42:11:8:

> 4(31). "For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly."

ζ The Greek word here is "ζωή"; one of several Greek words for "life". The word "ζωή" means life in a holistic, interdependent, connected, collective sense; e.g. "life" as in "all life on earth".

[My reconstruction of Romans is not yet compete; 5:12 onwards is not included in this version.]

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

The Marcionite Romans:
General Purpose Translation

(Romans 1:1-5:11)

The Marcionite Romans: General Purpose Translation by Melissa Elizabeth Cutler is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

You are free to copy and distribute this work (through any medium) with the following conditions:

1. It must remain attributed to me.
2. It must not be used for any commercial purpose.
3. It must remain complete and unaltered (including the preface, copyright notice and the Creative Commons License).

Copyright © Melissa Elizabeth Cutler 2010

some rights reserved

Available Online: www.Marcionite-Scripture.info

Contents

Contents....3
Preface....4
Rough draft....4
Introduction....4
Translation approach....5
Final comments....7
The Marcionite Prologue....8
[Paul's Epistle] to the Romans....9
[Greeting]....9
[Purpose of the letter]....9
[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]....9
[False security in the law and circumcision]....11
[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]....11

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

Preface

Rough draft

This reconstruction of Romans is unfinished and is a rough draft. It presently only includes the first few chapters of Romans. Before publishing the complete and finished version of the reconstruction it is likely that I will make changes and corrections, as I refine and check my work.

If you notice any errors or mistakes I would be very grateful if you could let me know; my e-mail address is:

Melissa@Marcionite-Scripture.info

Introduction

The Marcionites were an ancient Christian group whose beliefs and bible were radically different to those of modern Christians. The Marcionites were persecuted out of existence, and all known copies of their bible were destroyed during the transition between ancient times and the Medieval era. The Marcionite bible is much older than the conventional bible; it was compiled by the Marcionites a full two centuries before the conventional bible was established. The Marcionite bible contains many of the same documents that are in the conventional bible; however, the Marcionite version of several of those documents is much shorter than the conventional version. There is substantial evidence that the Marcionite version is the closer to the original and that numerous fraudulent passages were added to the conventional version[1].

No copies of the Marcionite bible are known to have survived to modern times; however, it is possible to restore the Marcionite bible in spite of this. Several ancient Catholic writers examined the Marcionite bible; they quoted from it extensively in their writings as they argued against Marcionite beliefs. In some places they even described the differences between the Marcionite bible and their own scriptures. By examining their quotes and descriptions, it is possible to reconstruct the documents that made up the Marcionite bible. There are many places where we have no quotations or descriptions of the Marcionite

1 Many of the scholars and historians that have studied this field in detail have concluded that the Marcionite version of the gospel and epistles of Paul are closer to the originals than the conventional version of the same documents. See for example:-

- the work of Paul-Louis Couchoud (www.hermann-detering.de/couch_engl.htm),
- the work of Charles Waite (http://webspace.webring.com/people/ou/um_6968/wait2.htm),
- the work of Hermann Detering (www.hermann-detering.de/FabricatedJHC.pdf),
- A Lost Edition of the Letters of Paul by John J. Clabeaux
- Marcion and the New Testament by John Knox (published 1942).

My own analysis of a small cross section can be found in articles on one of my websites: www.Original-Bible.com version, but in such places it is probable that the two versions were the same, and the text from the conventional Bible can be used to “fill in the gaps”.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

In a previous work The Marcionite Romans: Interlinear with Reconstruction Notes I reconstructed part of the Marcionite version of the book of Romans in Greek. This present work is intended as a straightforward translation of that text, aimed at the ordinary reader. My previous work contained a full set of references to the sources used and discussion of the reconstruction process. I have left those references and discussion out of this version of the translation, except in a few places where there are particular uncertainties about the content of the Marcionite version of Romans[2]. Any reader who is interested in the detail of the reconstruction process should consult the previous work[3].

In this translation I have coloured text black or grey depending on our level of knowledge of the Marcionite Romans. Text which is coloured black corresponds to areas where the Marcionite version is known directly from the quotes, descriptions and discussions of the ancient Catholic writers; text which is coloured grey corresponds to areas where we do not directly know the Marcionite version, and must use text from the conventional version to fill in the gaps.

In ancient times neither the Marcionite nor the conventional version of the bible had verse divisions. For convenient referencing, I have included verse divisions in this translation, these are the same as the verse numbering of the corresponding text in the conventional bible. Since there are a great many passages which exist only in the conventional bible you will notice that there are breaks in the verse numbering in this version.

Translation approach

When translating a text, the objective is to communicate the message of the original both as accurately as possible, and as clearly as possible. These objectives are of critical importance when translating sacred writings; however they are also in conflict with one another. It is impossible for any English translation to be both perfectly clear, and perfectly precise; attempts to follow the original text as precisely as possible inevitably compromise the clarity of the translation, whilst attempts to express the original message in natural “every day” language come at a cost of precision and accuracy. Like all translators of the bible I have thought carefully about how best to strike a balance between precision and clarity, to get the best of both worlds, as far as that is possible.

I believe that consistently using the same English word for any Greek word can often greatly obscure the meaning, because in Greek, as in English, a word can have several dramatically different meanings in different contexts. Excessively literal translations, though intended to be precise, therefore run the risk misrepresenting the original meaning by failing to properly respond to the context of each word. None the less, I feel constructing English sentences so that they precisely match the grammar of the

2 There are some places where there is evidence of variation within different copies of the Marcionite version or Romans (e.g. Romans 1:29-31), and places where the sources from which the Marcionite version is reconstructed can be interpreted in different ways (e.g. Romans 3:21-22). In such places this translation still contains a brief description of the the issues in the footnotes.

3 It is available online: www.Marcionite-Scripture.info

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

corresponding Greek sentence is important. Even the most well-intentioned of translators run the risk of subtly interpreting the Greek text through the lens of their own beliefs, and then writing that interpretation into their translation. As a result, paraphrased translations can make the reader very dependant on the translators interpretation of the text.

The approach that I have decided upon therefore is not particularly literal in the sense that I frequently translate Greek words according to their figurative and idiomatic meanings (as dictated by context); however, at the same time I have endeavoured to be very precise regarding sentence structure and more general use of language. There are a few places where it is simply impossible for a translation to be both clear and precisely match the original sentence structure, and so I occasionally use a footnote to provide an alternative translation that is either clearer or more precise. In a small number of places the translation is slightly paraphrased; italics are used to mark out the paraphrased text, and a more literal translation is given in the footnotes.

No translation can ever perfectly reproduce every nuance and shade of meaning of the original text. A particular problem occurs when three or four words in one language correspond to only one in word in another. For example consider Jesus' words in Luke 9:24:

> Whoever would save his life will lose it, but however loses his life for my sake will save it.

Let us consider for a moment the word life. Inevitably the English word does not perfectly match the connotations associated with the Greek; but to compound the issue, in Greek there are three words for life. The sentence above contains two of them and both have been converted to the same English word, losing the contrast in their meaning.

In order to address this translation issue I have selected a number of key Greek words; these are words of particular significance to Christian teaching, and words for which there is a significant danger of some of the meaning being lost in translation. When one of these words appears in the Greek text, I mark the corresponding English word with a Greek letter or two (in superscript) to indicate which Greek work it has come from. The Greek words are:

Greek Word	English Translation	Meaning
ἀγάπη agape	love$^{\alpha\gamma}$	Love, but a particular type of love, contrasted by “φιλέω”.
φιλέω phileo	love$^{\varphi}$	Love, but a particular type of love, contrasted by “ἀγάπη”.
ἁμαρτάνω hamartano	trespass$^{\alpha\mu}$, err$^{\alpha\mu}$	“ἁμαρτάνω” literally means to “miss the target”, but was often used figuratively to indicated that someone has failed to meet the required standard in a moral sense. It has traditionally been translated “sin” (or “synn” in middle English), which once had a very similar meaning to the Greek word; it literally meant to miss a target. The English language has changed since then and the word “sin” now has strong negative connotations of condemnation and irreconcilable guilt for many people. As a result I feel it is no longer appropriate to translate “ἁμαρτάνω” as “sin” and will use less loaded terms instead.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

ζωή zoE	life[ζ]	Holistic, interdependent, connected, collective; e.g. “life” as in “all life on earth”. This is often the word used to talk about eternal life, though it can be used to refer to physical / mortal life as well. In the Greek language it is contrasted by “ψυχή” and “βίος”.
ψυχή psyche	life[ψ]	Individualistic, an individual manifestation of life / consciousness, or intellect / mind. It is contrasted by “ζωή” and “βίος”.
βίος vios	life[β]	Everyday life, physical life, means of subsistence, property, goods, etymologically connected to the word “biology”. It is contrasted by “ζωή” and “ψυχή”.
πίστις pistis	faith[πι], belief[πι] or trust[πι]	Like the English word “faith”, the word “πίστις” can refer to either believing it to be true or having trust in something. The translation “belief” does a poor job of capturing this second meaning, but must be used in some grammatical circumstances.
δικαιοσύνη dikeosunE	righteousness[δ] or justice[δ]	There are two English words which I have frequently used as translations of this Greek word, due to it's double meaning. As a result, the translated text may appear as if it is treating two separate concepts which are actually closely related in Greek.

If you are interested in studying the teaching of the Marcionite version of Romans in depth then these markings and their associated footnotes may be of interest to you.

Final comments

My knowledge of Greek and Latin is very limited. I am taking on the task of reconstructing the Marcionite version of Romans not because I am particularly qualified or suited it; but rather, because I feel it is of the utmost importance that detailed reconstructions of the Marcionite scriptures be made freely available to people as soon as possible, and in spite of my limitations and flaws I believe that my efforts will be better than nothing.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

The Marcionite Prologue

The Romans are in the region of Italy. They had been reached first by false apostles, and in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ they were lead into the law and the prophets. They are called back by the apostle, to the true evangelical faith, writing to them from Corinth.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[Paul's Epistle] to the Romans

[Greeting]

[1:1] Paul, a slave of Jesus Christ, called [to be] an apostle, set apart for the Gospel of God;

[1:7] to all who are in Rome, beloved[αγ] ones of God, called [to be][1] saints: grace to you and peace from God our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

[1:8] First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ on account of all of you, because your faith[πι] is celebrated throughout the whole world. [1:9] For God is my witness, (whom I serve in my spirit in the Gospel of his son), that unceasingly I make mention of you, [1:10] always in my prayers, asking if somehow now, sometime [I may] succeed, (by the will of God), in coming to you.

[Purpose of the letter]

[1:11] For I long to see you, that I may share some spiritual gift [with] you, for you to be strengthened. [1:12] That is that we may be comforted together, among you, through the faith[πι] that is in each other, both yours and mine. [1:13] Now I do not want you to remain ignorant brethren, that often I intended to come to you (and was hindered until the present) that I might have some fruit among you too, as also among the other Gentiles. [1:14] I am a debtor both to Greeks, and to barbarians, to both the wise and the simple. [1:15] So then, what is preferable for me is to preach the Gospel to you, the ones in Rome, also.

[Jews and Gentiles equally in need of the Gospel]

[1:16] For I am not ashamed of the Gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to all the faithful[πι], to both Jew and Greek. [1:17] For the righteousness[δ] of God is revealed in it[2],

---

αγ The Greek root word here is "ἀγάπη", a type of love.

1 The English words "called saints" could mean two things; (1) labelled or named saints, or (2) appointed or invited to be saints. The Greek word corresponding to "called" here is "κλητοῖς"; unlike the English word, it can only mean "called" in the sense of appointment (meaning 2) so I have added the words "to be" to remove the ambiguity of the English word, and steer readers away from interpretation 1. Unfortunately there is a risk that by doing so I may have introduced a different translation error to the text as the words "to be" might incorrectly be interpreted as indicating that the readers are called to become saints in the future. To clarify: the readers are called to be saints now, at this present time, not merely become saints at some point in the future. These points are also relevant in verse one, where the word "called" is translated from "κλητὸς", and the words "to be" should be interpreted in the same way.

πι The Greek root word here is "πίστις", which can mean faith, trust or belief.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

2 The Greek version of this sentence is slightly ambiguous, because the word "αὐτῷ" can mean either "it" or "him". If it means "it", then it refers back to the Gospel; if it means "him" it could refer to a member of "the faithful", or it could refer to God himself. The double meaning of "δικαιοσύνη"

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

from faith[πι] to faith[πι] [3]. [1:18] Wrath from heaven is also revealed, upon the irreverence and unrighteousness[δ] of men, who by their unrighteousness[δ] suppress the truth,

[4]

[1:29] having been filled with all unrighteousness[δ], wickedness, greed, evil, full of envy, of murder, of strife, of deceit, bad character, gossips, [1:30] Slanderers, haters-of-God violent/insulting, proud boasters inventors of evil [things] disobedient to parents, [1:31] without-understanding, covenant-breakers, without-affection, without-mercy.

[2:2] Thus/But[5] we see that the judgement of God is on the basis of truth. [2:11] For [there] is no favouritism with God. [2:12] Whoever transgressed[αμ] without the law shall also perish without the law, and whoever transgressed[αμ] with the law shall be judged through the law. [2:13] For [it's] not the hearers of the law [that are] righteous[δ] before God, but the doers of the law [who] shall be justified[δ], ([2:14] For when Gentiles (those without the law) by nature may do the [things] of the law, these [ones] without the law are a law to themselves. [2:15] They show the work of the law written in their hearts[6], their conscience testifying with them, their thoughts accusing or even defending them.) [2:16] on the day when God shall judge people's secrets, through Christ, according to my Gospel.

(righteousness or justice) compounds the uncertainty.

3 The statement "from faith to faith" (ΕΚ ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΕΙΣ ΠΙΣΤΙΝ) is rather hard to interpret (in both the Marcionite and the traditional version of Romans). Numerous possible interpretations have been suggested, a few possible interpretations / translations are as follows:

1) beginning and ending in faith (as translated by the New International Version)

2) from [God's] faithfulness to [our] faith

3) from [the] faith [of the preacher] to [the] faith [of the hearer]

Or perhaps Paul is simply reminding us that the faith with which we begin our Christian journey must be continued if we are to deepen and continue our walk with God.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

4 <1:29-31> Tertullian's quotation of the Marcionite version of Romans (in Against Marcion 5:13:3) indicates that in the Marcionite version, verse 2:2 followed shortly after verse 1:18; this means that most of 1:19-2:1 must have been absent from the Marcionite text. It is also apparent from the text of the long version of Romans itself that 2:2 must originally have followed shortly after 1:18. Whilst I am certain that 1:19-1:28 and 1:32-2:1 are interpolated, I am less certain about 1:29-31; perhaps this small portion of text can sit between 1:18 and 2:1 without disrupting the flow of those two verses; then again, perhaps 2:1 should follow immediately after 1:18. I have included 1:29-31 in brackets because of this uncertainty.

5 The corresponding Greek word here is "δέ"; a common word which can be translated to numerous English equivalents depending on the context: thus, and, yet, but, therefore, however... Unfortunately it is impossible to know how best to translate this word without knowing whether verses 1:29-31 were present in the Marcionite text.

αμ The root word here is "ἁμαρτάνω"; it literally means to "miss the mark"; it was also used in a figurative sense to mean that someone had morally fallen short of a required standard.

6 This could be interpreted as an allusion to Jeremiah 31:32.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[False security in the law and circumcision]

[2:17] Yet if you are called a Jew, and rely on the law, and are boasting in God, [2:18] and know [God's] will, and discern the important [things], being taught out of the law, [2:19] [if] you also have confidence that you are a guide to the blind, a light to those in darkness, [2:20] an instructor of the ignorant, a teacher of babes, having the appearance of knowledge and of the truth of the law, [2:21] the one then teaching another, are you not teaching yourself? The one preaching not to steal, are you stealing? [2:22] The one saying not to be committing adultery; are you committing adultery? The one detesting idols; do you commit sacrilege[7]? [2:23] Who boasts in the law; do you dishonour God through the violation of the law? [2:24] For "the name of God is blasphemed"[8] because of you, even as it has been written.

[2:25] For circumcision is indeed beneficial, if you keep the law; but if you may be a breaker of the law, your circumcision has become uncircumcision. [2:28] For the one [merely] outwardly appearing [to be] a Jew is not [truly a Jew], nor is [true] circumcision in outward appearance (in the flesh). [2:29] But the one [truly] a Jew is [so] inwardly, (and [true] circumcision is of the heart, in the spirit not the letter), whose praise is not from men, but from God.

[Righteousness through Christ instead of the law]

[3:19] Now we know that what the law says, it speaks to those under law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become liable. [3:20] Therefore by the works of the law all flesh will not be justified[δ] [; for through law comes an-acknowledgement of transgression[αμ]][9] .

7 Literally: Do you rob temples?

8 Isaiah 52:5

αμ The root word here is "ἁμαρτάνω"; it literally means to "miss the mark"; it was also used in a figurative sense to mean that someone had morally fallen short of a required standard.

9 <3:20> Verse 3:19 and the first half of verse 20 state that the purpose of the law is to convict the entire world, and that no one can be justified through the law; the Marcionites no-doubt interpreted this as describing the methods by which the creator or lesser god held the world in bondage. It is unlikely that their version contained the words enclosed in square brackets "through the law comes an acknowledgement of transgression", and I strongly suspect that Tertullian and Epiphanius would have quoted them if they had been present. If this passage originally expounded Marcionite (or proto-Marcionite) theology then these extra words are a classic example of an interpolation that sought to explain and re-interpret a statement that was challenging to a non Marcionite scribe.

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[10]

[3:21] But now the righteousness[δ] of God without the law is manifested, [3:22] even righteousness[δ] of God through [the / our] faith[πι] of / in Christ[†].

[3:21] Formerly the law, [3:22] now righteousness[δ] of God through [the / our] faith[πι] of / in Christ[†].

[5:1] So having been justified[δ] by faith[πι], let us have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, [5:2] through whom we also have access by faith[πι] into this grace in which we stand, and we boast in hope of the glory of God.

10 <3:21-22> Against Marcion 5:13:8:

> It was once the law; now it is "the righteousness of God which is by the faith of (Jesus) Christ." What means this distinction? Has your god been subserving the interests of the Creator's dispensation, by affording time to Him and to His law? Is the "Now" in the hands of Him to whom belonged the "Then"? Surely, then, the law was His, whose is now the righteousness of God. It is a distinction of dispensations, not of gods.

The passage above can be interpreted in two ways. Rev. Peter Holmes, the translator my English copy of Against Marcion, interpreted only the words "the righteousness of God which is by the faith of (Jesus) Christ." as a direct quotation of the Marcionite text; he did not regard the words "It was once the law; now it is" as being part of the quote. The alternative interpretation of Against Marcion 5:13:8 is to regard the entire sentence ("It was once the law; now it is the righteousness of God which is by the faith of Christ.") as a direct quote from the Marcionite text, corresponding to verse 3:21 as well as 3:22. I have therefore prepared two reconstructions of these verses based on these two possibilities.

Also, the name "Jesus" in brackets in the quote above was added by the translator as is absent from the Latin text.

δ The Greek root word here is "δικαιοσύνη", which can mean either justice or righteousness.

πι The Greek root word here is "πίστις", which can mean faith, trust or belief.

† The Greek form of this clause reads "ΠΙΣΤΕΩΣ ΧΡΙΣΤΟΥ"; the word "Christ" is in the genitive case. An ambiguity is created by the fact that this can be interpreted as a subjective genitive ("[the] faith of Christ") or as an objective genitive ("[our] faith in Christ"). I do not believe that a translator should allow their theological views to influence their translation of such a text; I leave readers to consider this issue for themselves.

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[11]

[5:3] Yet not only [that], but also we boast in [our] afflictions, knowing that:-

- affliction produces endurance,
- [5:4] and endurance: trustiness,
- and trustiness: hope.

[5:5] Now hope is not put to shame, because the love[αγ] of God has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit [that has been] given to us.

[5:6] For while we were still weak Christ died, at the right moment[12] on behalf of [the] impious. [5:7] For scarcely on behalf of a just person will anyone die, though on behalf of the good, possibly someone might even dare to die. [5:8] But, God shows his love to us in that [while] we were still sinners, Christ died for us. [5:9] By much more then, having been-justified now [by] his blood, shall we be saved through him from the wrath. [5:10] For if being enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his son, by much more [then], having been reconciled, we shall be saved [through] his life[ζ]. [5:11] Yet not only [that], but also [our] boasting [is] in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we [have] now received reconciliation.

11 <5:3-5:5> This passage is a possible interpolation; notice how verse 5:6 continues the flow of thought from verse 5:2. Regardless of whether or not this passage is interpolated, we have no reason to believe it was absent from the Marcionite version of the text. Even if it is an addition to the text of Romans it seems benign.

αγ The Greek root word here is "ἀγάπη", a type of love.

12 Literally: in accordance with the season

ζ The Greek word here is "ζωή"; one of several Greek words for "life". The word "ζωή" means life in a holistic, interdependent, connected, collective sense; e.g. "life" as in "all life on earth".

Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

[My reconstruction of Romans is not yet compete; 5:12 onwards is not included in this version.]

 Creative Commons License: BY-NC-ND

http://www.apostolicon.com/I_Thessalonians.html

Book Five of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Mark

To the Thessalonians
(first epistle)

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface....3
What is the Apostolicon?....3
Who Wrote the Apostolicon?....4
Reconstructing and Translating....6
Sources....9
Color Codes....9
Caught Up to meet Christ Paul in the Air....11
The Marcionite Prologue....13
To the Thessalonians....13
Addendum....21
From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian: A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of 1st Thessalonians....21

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture. The word "Apostolicon" means that which presents "the Apostle". Marcion[a], a man accused of being one of the most dangerous heretics of all time by Orthodoxy, is said to have compiled and canonized the Apostolicon and, according to a late Catholic tradition, delivered the Apostolicon scripture to John the Apostle[b]. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle as follows:

1. Alexandrians (Corinthians)
2. Alexandrians (second epistle)
3. Galatians
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (second epistle)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is the first gospel narrative ever written. Mark (aka Paul) is the author of the Evangelicon and made references to it in his epistles (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, 1st Thessalonians 1:5, 2nd Thessalonians 2:14). It was about 172 AD that Catholic Church fathers wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[c]. The Evangelicon was used as the primary source for writing the "Gospel of Luke". There was also a second version of the Evangelicon, a more spiritual version, used by those who were being "perfected". The "Gospel of Mark" is a redacted version of this more spiritual version of the Evangelicon.

---

[a] Marcion, likely the bishop of Alexandria, had, in the eyes of most Christians of the second century, power even greater than the bishop of Rome, and could, with authority, canonize the Apostolicon. There likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul without the canonization of the Apostolicon.

[b] This tradition sought to explain how it could be possible that the Catholic Church had need of a heretic to obtain the writings of the Apostle Paul. An earlier Coptic tradition is that "John" was the Jewish name for Mark (or Paul) and so the Apostolicon is authored by this one and the same, actually the only, Apostle.

[c] For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

http://www.apostolicon.com/I_Thessalonians.html

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, it was quoted extensively by Tertullian and other early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the Catholic scriptures the reconstruction can begin.

Research by Stephan Hullers concludes that the Galatians-first version of the Apostolicon (which can be reconstructed from the quotations of Tertullian) was not the original Apostolicon, but a later Catholic version re-engineered most likely by Polycarp[d]. Polycarpian interpolations were a part of the process of separating Paul from his original historical identity as Marcus Julius Agrippa, the last king of Judea, who was universally regarded as the messiah in Judea and in Alexandria from the time of the Samaritan Jubilee (38 AD) to the time of the destruction of the temple[e]. The subtle Polycarpian interpolations helped to defuse the apostolic authority of Paul. To first century Jews, the term "Messiah" or "Christ" was nearly synonymous with the term "Apostle". Moses was referred to as an "apostle", and the Messiah was prophesied to be an "apostle" like Moses[f]. The term "Apostle" did not need to be followed by a name because there would be only one person with this title. The truth is that Marcus Julius Agrippa was "Paul," or rather, as Stephan Hullers once put it, "the Paul," denoting "the Apostle" whose revelation led to the composition of the original gospel and apostolic letters, the basis of the original Marcionite canon known as the Apostolicon. The Galatians-first Polycarpian Catholic version used the pseudonym "Paul", as a way to protect the name of Mark, or perhaps rather to hide it from the historical record!

Who Wrote the Apostolicon?

PAUL HAD MORE THAN ONE NAME

There would be no such thing as "Apostolic Authority" without Paul. Contrary to the teaching of the Catholic Church, the whole concept of an "Apostle" began with Paul, not with Peter. The original meaning of "Apostle" meant the one who was sent by god to be the Messiah of the Jews; hence it was a title for only one person. Before the meaning of "Apostle" changed the author of "The Acts of Peter" tried to make Peter into "the" Apostle. Then probably starting with the writing of "The Acts of the Apostles" (no earlier that 169 A.D.) the term began to loose its Messianic connection. Paul's unique apostolic calling became defused in many peoples minds by 12 Apostles, and later even 72 Apostles. With Paul's history being re-written he was not even to be remembered as the first apostle, but a late comer. The history reconstructionists created a few different characters for Paul and gave them different names to misdirect the attention from one single figure of Paul. One such character was the Apostle John of the 12 disciples of Jesus, who was depicted as the youngest of the 12, and in fact Paul was about 7 or 8 years old when he followed Jesus in his ministry[g]. Each character created for Paul showed different characteristics of Paul. Some other characters were: Zacchaeus, Barabbas, and even Jesus himself (not that Jesus was also a name for Paul, but that, in the making of Jesus into the Christ, many attributes of Paul were put upon Jesus) and all had something to do with the person of Paul the Apostle. And "Paul" was likewise a pseudonym, probably derived from "Saul" who historically was the first King of Israel (and of the tribe of Benjamin) and thus corresponding to the last King of Israel who was Mark (i.e. Marcus Julius Agrippa - also of the tribe of Benjamin), who was the real person of Paul.

[d] http://therealmessiahbook.blogspot.com/2008/04/antichrist-of-catholic-tradition.html

[e] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 72, 105-109). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

[f] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 2148-2158). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

In an effort to reestablish the Apostle's original identity I use only the two names of Mark and Paul (interchangeably). The Apostle Mark, not just because it was his real name but it also helps link him to the writing of the first gospel narrative (The Gospel According to Mark), and also to disassociate him with his false Catholic history coming from the Acts of the Apostles. And I use the Apostle Paul, simply because that is what he has come to be known as.

WHO WAS "MARCION"? WAS MARCION YET ANOTHER NAME FOR PAUL?

There are scholars who will tell you Marcion and Paul were the same person; but the reason I don't believe this to be the case is because there was, in Alexandria, two people with the name "Marcion". The first one was the "apostle" who established the apostolic line of bishops for the city of Alexandria in 38 A.D. He was more commonly referred to as "Mark", and this was the same person as Paul the Apostle! But, in the line of bishops in the city of Alexandria, the seventh bishop in the line was Bishop "Marcion", who was bishop there from 142 A.D. to 152 A.D. This was the one who was the famed "heretic" (from a Catholic point of view) who was the leader of the Marcionite Church at the time. Although the common use for the term "Marcionite" means the followers of this so-called heretic bishop, the meaning of the term is: "The Followers of Mark"[h] and I intend to use the term to mean the followers of Mark the Apostle (i.e. Paul), rather than the followers of this second century bishop of Alexandria. Bishop Marcion of Alexandria may have had this name because he believed that he would be the last true successor to the founder (Mark the Apostle and Evangelist) of the apostolic line of Alexandria, and it was about that time that some things started to change in Alexandria because of the strong influence from Rome.

[g] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 1002-1005, 2005-2006). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

It has been said that Bishop Marcion of Alexandria was the one who canonized the Apostolicon in about 120 A.D. It is true that the Bishop of Alexandria did have the power in those days to do such a thing, and surely Bishop Marcion supported the Apostolicon as Christian Scripture, but it is far more likely that the original Apostolicon was canonized by the Apostle Paul himself. And the 120 A.D. version of the Apostolicon was Polycarp's Galatians-first reengineered version of which it was falsely claimed that it was canonized by Bishop Marcion as a way to associate it's canonization with a second-century "heretic", rather than with the Catholic Church Father Polycarp.

Reconstructing and Translating

POTENTIAL INTERPOLATIONS

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[i]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.

[h] "The name Markion might be a back-formation from Aramaic Marqiyônê (singular Marqiyona) meaning the followers of Mark." (Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Location 4304). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.)

[i] Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

CONFIRMED INTERPOLATIONS

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations may remain, but are marked in red.

HOW QUOTES ARE INCORPORATED INTO THE APOSTOLICON

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

STRONG IMPLICATION

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied, but that implication is not clear in English, a few words may be added to strengthen the implication. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

ESTIMATION OF LOST TEXT BASED ON SUPPORTED INFERENCE

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable inferred estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an inferred estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. The basis for supporting an inferred estimation will be explained in the footnotes. Any words added for an inferred estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

RECONSTRUCTING THE ORIGINAL, COMPLETED IN TWO PHASES

The first phase is the reconstruction of the Galatians-first Apostolicon using primarily Tertullian and Epiphanius as the reconstruction source. Then, to reconstruct a close estimation of the pre-Polycarpian Alexandrian-first Apostolicon original, the second phase is: First, determine the themes that motivated Polycarp to make his re-engineered version of the Apostolicon. Make a list. Second, identify each place where these themes are found. And third, create an "Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference" of what likely was written before altered by Polycarp by reversing the Polycarpian theme. In the case were the inferred estimation fits into the surrounding text and shows no sign of the characteristics of an interpolation, the inferred estimation will be provided in the reconstruction and the reader will be able to see the consistency of the repeated themes by comparing the text before and after the inferred estimation. But in the case where this inferred estimation continues to exhibit the characteristics of an interpolation it must be considered a likelihood that the text in question did not replace text from the original, but may be only a simple interpolation and as such will be considered for removal as Polycarpian non-canonical material. Any words added for a pre-Polycarpian inferred estimation are italicized and [contained in square brackets] and the [square brackets are marked in red]. If a text is considered to be an interpolation with Polycarpian-like characteristics and is removed the interpolation-removed markers ("<>") will be marked in red ("<>").

Some of the cities that the epistles were written to were changed by Polycarp. There is enough textual support to posit that the Epistles to the Corinthians were actually written to the Alexandrians. The Epistle to the Laodiceans was not changed to the Ephesians by Polycarp, this change occurred later. Internal literary study of the epistles suggests to me that the epistles to the Thessalonians were actually written to the Samaritans, but I do not yet have enough support for this hypothesis to include it in the reconstruction of the Apostolicon. Philippians may have been written to a city in Judea, maybe even Jerusalem, but once again this is just a hypothesis and it will not be included in the reconstruction. I am confident that the rest of the cities: Galatia, Rome, Laodicea, and Colossae are the actual intended destinations for those epistles. Fortunately, getting the city to which the epistle was written incorrect will not change the content of the epistle. Polycarp made these changes in order to draw attention away from where the Marcionite faith had been firmly established by the Apostle Paul in order to aid in the reconstruction of Paul's history as a glorified Catholic missionary, rather than the Marcionite Apostle.

SPECIAL WORDS

An understanding of dualism[j] is essential to an understanding of the Marcionite faith, therefore, where it can be determined from the context that

[j] Dualism, meaning Gnostic Dualism: The belief that the material world was created by the Old Testament "god", which was an archon (the Demiurgos). But the true GOD, which is the Father of Jesus, is associated with the spiritual world (the 'pleroma') which is not a part of the imperfect physical world. To rise to GOD, one

"God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined from the context that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, where there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Likewise, where it can be determined from the context that "Christ" (christos) refers to Jesus, "the Kind One" (chrestos) is used[k]. It is believed that in many cases copyist inadvertently made this change. Excessive use of the term also suggests that in many cases it is a Polycarpian interpolation. If the term is used redundantly with no apparent reason "the Kind One" is used, but also in red square brackets, as: "Jesus [the Kind One]", indicating that it may be a Polycarpian interpolation. In the event in which it can be determined from the context that "Christ" does not refer to Jesus, then "Christ" is used.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapter 15;
2. "Panarion" by Epiphanius of Salamis, book 42, passage 11, verse 8;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Grey – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for only one or two words and unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources

---

must be 'resurrected' (raised out from 'the dead', 'the dead' = the physical world), that is, raised from the physical world to the spiritual world.

[k] Although the title of "Christ" is used countless times in connection with Jesus, the actual teaching that Jesus is the Christ cannot be found among any of the epistles of Paul. This fact is why it is even possible to substitute "the Kind One" for "Christ" without ever disrupting the integrity of any verse! Unlike, for example, the Acts of the Apostles, where the author clearly puts forth the claim that Paul did teach that Jesus is the Christ, as in Acts 17:3b: "This Jesus whom I am proclaiming to you is the Christ." If a reader didn't know what the term "Christ" meant, and had only the context of the epistles of Paul to figure it out, this reader would never be able to determine its meaning. It most certainly is posited that the actual Apostle Paul did not teach that Jesus was the Christ. This teaching (that Jesus was the Christ) began with Peter, but not with Paul. This was the real reason Peter was said to have "denied" Christ. Peter did not attain to the same level of spiritual gnosis as Paul because, as Jesus said to Peter: "you are not setting your mind on the things of God, but on the things of man" (Matthew 16:23).

Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation or corrupted text suspected (if the text is also in red square brackets it indicates the suspected text exhibits the characteristics of a Polycarpian interpolation)

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

Caught Up to meet Christ Paul in the Air

The "rapture", as it is commonly called today, is an explanation of how it is that we will all be with Paul, the Lord Christ, the "another paraclete", for all eternity.

Marcionite dualism (or Gnostic dualism) is a teaching that is not restricted to an understanding of God only, it only begins there. As Jesus revealed the true GOD his Father, to be superior to the archon god Jehovah, it is also through Jesus that the believer can gain access to the death in the Lord Christ. GOD Jesus's Father and the archon Jehovah are two separate persons. Jesus and Christ are two separate persons likewise. The two paracletes of John 14:16 are not Jesus and the Holy Spirit they are Jesus and the Christ. "And I [Jesus] shall request from my Father and he will give you another Paraclete [Paul], that he will be with you for eternity" (John 14:16). Let us make a careful study of the verses in 1st Thessalonians on the rapture and this will all become apparent.

(4.14) For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so those also who are falling asleep through Jesus will god bring with him.
(4.15) For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we who are alive and remain until the appearing of Christ, shall not precede them who are falling asleep.
(4.16) For this same Lord shall descend from heaven, with a loud summons, with the voice of the prince of the angels, and with a trumpet call of god: and the dead in Christ shall rise up first;
(4.17) then immediately thereafter we who remain alive, shall together with them be caught up in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and it is in this way that we shall be forever with the Lord.
(4.18) Wherefore comfort one another with these words.

Verse 14, it is not falling asleep "in" Jesus, but falling asleep "through" Jesus; but in verse 16, it is not dead "through" Christ, but dead "in" Christ. Jesus is not Christ. But it is through Jesus we gain access to the death in Christ.

Verse 16, "For this same Lord shall descend from heaven". "This same Lord", "same" is 'autos' (Greek), meaning 'himself'. It is just as if Paul is saying "this same Lord who is writing this epistle to you shall descend from heaven". Paul is declaring that he himself is this same Lord who shall descend from heaven!

Verses 4:16e to 4:17a, "the dead in Christ shall rise up first; then immediately thereafter". In Greek it is like this: 'this first, then simultaneously after that …' it sets up the infinite speed of the rapture. It is with this infinite speed that we are "caught up [raptured] in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air".

And who is this "Lord"? It is "this same Lord" (verse 16), it is Paul, who is the Lord Christ. And then Paul explains that "it is in this way that we shall be forever with the Lord". For it was understood that when Christ appeared "he will be with you for eternity" (as John 14:16 says), but it was also understood that Christ would be "cut off" (as Daniel 9:26 said). So Paul explained how it will be that "the Lord" (referring to the 'another Paraclete', which is Paul, the Christ) will be with them forever.

"For though you have countless guides in Christ, you do not have many fathers. For I became your father in Christ through the gospel"
1st Corinthians 4:15

The Epistle of the Apostle Mark[l] To the Thessalonians (first epistle)

The Marcionite Prologue[m]

Thessalonians are Macedonians, who having accepted the word of truth persevered in the faith even in persecution from their fellow-citizens. Moreover, also, they received not the things said by false apostles. These the apostle praises, writing to them from Athens.

To the Thessalonians

(1.1) Mark, and Silvanus, and Timothy unto the church of the Thessalonians in GOD the Father and the Lord Jesus the Kind One: Grace to you and peace.
(1.2) We give thanks to GOD always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers;
(1.3) remembering without ceasing your work of faith and labor of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus the Kind One, before our GOD and Father;
(1.4) knowing, your election, brothers and sisters beloved of God,
(1.5) seeing that the gospel came from us unto you not in word only, but also in power, and in holy spirit, and in much assurance; for ye know how we were among you, as examples for your sakes.
(1.6) And ye became imitators of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with joy of holy spirit;
(1.7) so that ye became an example to all that believe in Macedonia and in Achaia.
(1.8) For from you has sounded forth the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith toward God is gone forth; so that we need not to speak anything.

---

[l] The name of "Mark" will substitute the name of "Paul". It is not known whether the original Apostolicon used Mark or Paul or some other pseudonym such as John, Barabbas, or Zacchaeus, but by doing this it will be easier for the reader to disassociate the Apostle from his false "Catholic" history recorded in the Acts of the Apostles; as well as to associate the Apostle with his writing of the first gospel narrative (i.e. The Gospel of Mark).

[m] "Marcionite" prologues (found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts) were accepted by Catholics, in spite of the fact that they are likely of Marcionite origin.

(1.9) For they themselves report concerning us what manner of entering in we had unto you; and how ye turned unto God from idols, to serve a living and true God,

(1.10) and to wait for his son from the heavens, whom he raised out from among the dead, [even Jesus], who delivered us from the wrath to come.

(2.1) For you yourselves, brothers and sisters, know that our coming to you was not in vain:

(2.2) but having suffered before and been shamefully treated, as ye know, at Philippi[n], we had the boldness in our GOD to speak unto you the gospel of GOD in the midst of much opposition.

(2.3) For our exhortation is not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

(2.4) but even as we have been approved of GOD to be entrusted with the gospel, so we speak; not as pleasing people, but God who proves our hearts.

(2.5) For neither at any time were we found using words of flattery, as ye know, nor a cloak of covetousness, God is witness;

(2.6) nor seeking glory of anyone, neither from you nor from others, when we might have claimed authority as apostles[o] of the Kind One.

---

[n] Somewhat alluded to in Philippians 4:15-16, but corresponds to the Judeans in verse 2:14. There is support here for the inference that the Epistle to the Philippians may have actually been written to the Judeans.

[o] From Barnes' Notes on the Bible: "As the apostles of Christ" - Though the writer uses the word apostles here in the plural number, it is not certain that he means to apply it to Silas and Timothy. He often uses the plural number where he refers to himself only; and though Silas and Timothy are joined with him in this Epistle 1 Thessalonians 1:1, yet it is evident that he writes the letter as if he were alone and that they had no part in the composition or the instructions. Timothy and Silas are associated with him for the mere purpose of salutation or kind remembrance. That this is so, is apparent from 1 Thessalonians 3:1-13. In 1 Thessalonians 3:1, Paul uses the plural term also. "When we could no longer forbear, we thought it good to be left at Athens alone"; compare 1 Thessalonians 3:5. "For this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith."

The Apostle (singular) is nearly synonymous with the Christ, hence the idea that there is only one Apostle, for as Moses was the Apostle of the law, Paul (the Christ) was the Apostle of the Gospel. Apostles (plural) refer to the elect who are one with Christ. Theodotus said, "The elect constitute "one spirit" headed by Christ" (Stromata 42.1). This had its type in Moses as well (Numbers 11:11-29 (in Context), Numbers 11:16,17,29): …The Lord therefore said to Moses, "Gather for Me seventy men from the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the elders of the people and their officers and bring them to the tent of meeting, and let them take their stand there with you. Then I will come down and speak with you there, and I will take of the Spirit who is upon you, and will put Him upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, so that you will not bear it all alone. …Moses said to him, "Are you jealous for my sake? Would that all the Lord's

(2.7) But we were gentle in the midst of you, as when a nurse cherishes her own children:
(2.8) even so, being affectionately desirous of you, we were well pleased to impart unto you, not the gospel of GOD only, but also our own souls, because ye had become very dear to us.
(2.9) For ye remember, brothers and sisters, our labor and travail: working night and day, that we might not burden any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of GOD.
(2.10) Ye are witnesses, and God also, how devoutly and uprightly and blamelessly we behaved toward you who believe:
(2.11) as ye know how we dealt with each one of you, as a father with his own children, exhorting you, and encouraging you, and testifying,
(2.12) to the end that ye should walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory.
(2.13) And for this cause we also thank God without ceasing, that, when ye received the word which you heard from us, even the word of GOD, ye accepted it not as the word of men, but, as it is in truth, the word of GOD, which also works in you that believe.
(2.14) For ye, brothers and sisters, imitated the churches of GOD in Christ [Jesus] which are at Judea, suffering like things of your own countrymen, even as they did under the Judeans;
(2.15) who both killed the Lord Jesus and their own prophets[p], and drove us out. They displease God, and are hostile to all mankind;
(2.16) hindering us in speaking to the Gentiles that they may be saved; to fill up their sins. But wrath is come upon them to the utmost.
(2.17) But we, brothers and sisters, being bereaved of you for a short season, in presence not in heart, endeavored the more exceedingly to see your face with great desire:
(2.18) because we wanted to come to you, I Mark especially once and again; and the adversary hindered me.
(2.19) For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of glorying? Are not even ye, before our Lord [Jesus] at his appearing?
(2.20) For ye are our glory and our joy.
(3.1) Therefore when we could no longer endure, we thought it good to be left behind at Athens alone;
(3.2) and sent Timothy, our brother and GOD's minister in the gospel of the Kind One, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith; people were prophets, that the Lord would put His Spirit upon them!" This understanding is in full accord with how Silas and Timothy are apostles with Paul.

---

[p] Against Marcion 5:15(3)

(3.3) that no one be disturbed by these afflictions; for you yourselves know that we have been appointed to this.
(3.4) For indeed, when we were with you, we told you beforehand that we are to suffer affliction; even as it came to pass, and ye know.
(3.5) For because of this I could no longer wait, I sent to know your faith, lest by any means the tempter tempted you, and our labor be in vain.
(3.6) But when Timothy came even now unto us from you, and brought us glad tidings of your faith and love, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, longing to see us, even as we also to see you;
(3.7) for this cause, brothers and sisters, we were comforted over you in all our distress and affliction through your faith:
(3.8) for now we live, if ye stand firm in the Lord.
(3.9) For what thanksgiving can we render again unto God for you, for all the joy with which we joy for your sakes before our GOD;
(3.10) night and day praying exceedingly that we may see your face, and may perfect that which is lacking in your faith?
(3.11) Now may our same GOD and Father, and our Lord Jesus, direct our way unto you:
(3.12) and the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all, even as we also do toward you;
(3.13) to the end he may establish your hearts without blame in holiness before our GOD and Father, at the appearing of our Lord [Jesus] with all his saints.
(4.1) Finally then, brothers and sisters, we beseech and exhort you in the Lord Jesus, that, as ye received of us how ye ought to walk and to please God, even as ye do walk, that ye abound yet more.
(4.2) For ye know what instructions we gave you by the Lord Jesus.
(4.3) For this is the will of God[q], even your sanctification[r], that ye abstain from fornication[s];
(4.4) that each one of you should know how to possess his vessel in <> honor[t],
(4.5) not in the passion of lust, even as the Gentiles[u] who know not God;
(4.6) that no one transgresses, and wrongs his brother or sister in this matter: because the lord god is an avenger in all these things, as also we forewarned you and testified.
(4.7) For God called us not for uncleanness, but unto sanctification.

---

[q] Against Marcion 5:15(6)
[r] Against Marcion 5:15(5)
[s] Against Marcion 5:15(7)
[t] Against Marcion 5:15(8)
[u] Against Marcion 5:15(9)

(4.8) Therefore whoever disregards this, disregards not a human being but God, who gives his holy spirit unto you.
(4.9) But concerning love of the brothers and sisters ye have no need that one write unto you: for ye yourselves are taught by God to love one another;
(4.10) for indeed ye do it toward all the brothers and sisters that are in all Macedonia. But we exhort you, brothers and sisters, that ye abound yet more;
(4.11) and that ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your hands, even as we instructed you;
(4.12) that ye may walk respectably toward outsiders, and be dependent on no one.
(4.13) But we would not have you ignorant, brothers and sisters, concerning them who fall asleep; that ye sorrow not, even as the rest, who have no hope.
(4.14) For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so those also who are falling asleep through Jesus[v] will god bring with him.
(4.15) For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we who are alive and remain until the appearing of Christ[w], shall not precede them who are falling asleep.
(4.16) For this same Lord[x] shall descend from heaven, with a loud summons, with the voice of the prince of the angels, and with a trumpet call of god: and the dead in Christ shall rise up first[y];
(4.17) then immediately thereafter we who remain alive, shall together with them be caught up in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air[z]: and it is in this way that we shall be forever with the Lord[aa].
(4.18) Wherefore comfort one another with these words.
(5.1) But concerning the times and the seasons, brothers and sisters, ye have no need that anything be written unto you.
(5.2) For you yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so comes as a thief in the night.

---

[v] It is 'through Jesus' that we may attain to the death 'in Christ'.
[w] Against Marcion 5:15(12)
[x] 'This same Lord', that is 'This same Lord who is writing this to you'.
[y] Against Marcion 5:15(13)
[z] Against Marcion 5:15(14)
[aa] 'It is in this way that we shall be forever with the Lord': A reference to the other 'paraclete'. "And I shall request from my Father and he will give you another Redeemer of the accursed [paraclete], that he will be with you for eternity." (John 14:16 Aramaic Bible). Jesus is one paraclete and Christ is the other paraclete. Paul (who is this other paraclete) explains that this is the way he will be with them for eternity.

(5.3) When they are saying, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction comes upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall in no wise escape.
(5.4) But ye are not in darkness, brothers and sisters, that the day should overtake you as a thief:
(5.5) for ye are all children of light, and children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness;
(5.6) so then let us not sleep, as do the rest, but let us watch and be sober.
(5.7) For they that sleep, sleep in the night: and they that are drunken are drunken in the night.
(5.8) But let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for a helmet, the hope of salvation.
(5.9) For God appointed us not into wrath, but unto the obtaining of salvation through our Lord Jesus the Kind One,
(5.10) who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.
(5.11) Wherefore exhort one another, and build each other up, even as also ye do.
(5.12) But we beseech you, brothers and sisters, to know them that labor among you, and are over you in the Lord, and give you instruction;
(5.13) and to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. Be at peace among yourselves.
(5.14) And we urge you, brothers and sisters, admonish the disorderly, encourage the fainthearted, support the weak, be patient with everyone.
(5.15) See that none render unto any one evil for evil; but always follow after that which is good, one toward another, and toward all.
(5.16) Rejoice always;
(5.17) pray without ceasing;
(5.18) in everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in the Kind One Jesus toward you.
<>[bb]
[5.23] (5.19) And this same GOD of peace ultimately sanctify you in every way, complete within all your members: may the Pneumatic, the Psychic, and the Somatic[cc] be preserved blameless unto the appearing of our Lord and savior the Christ[dd].

[bb] Verses 5.19 to 5.22, a Polycarpian Interpolation (see footnote in 2nd Thessalonians): (5.19) [Quench not the spirit; (5.20) despise not prophecies; (5.21) prove all things; hold fast that which is good; (5.22) abstain from every form of evil.]

[cc] A short Gnostic lesson: The Pneumatic, the Psychic, and the Somatic, are the three types of people to whom Paul is called to minister. Somatics are immersed in [5.24] (5.20) Faithful is he that calls you, who will also do it.

[5.25] (5.21) Brothers and sisters, pray for us.
[5.26] (5.22) Salute all the brothers and sisters with a holy kiss.
[5.27] (5.23) I command you by the Lord that this epistle be read unto all the brothers and sisters.
[5.28] (5.24) The grace of our Lord Jesus the Kind One be with you.

---

materiality and need conversion, Psychics are converted but need resurrection, and Pneumatics are resurrected and must become spiritual fathers (actually spiritual husbands) to the Psychics so that it may be possible for them to attain to the resurrection.

[dd] Against Marcion 5:15(19,20)

Book Five of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Thessalonians (first epistle) by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Addendum

From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian: A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of 1st Thessalonians

{1} The Jews had slain their prophets {5893 1 Thess. ii. 15}.
{2} has himself some hand in making away with the same prophets whom he is destroying.
{3} "Who both killed the Lord Jesus and their own prophets," although (the pronoun) their own be an addition of the heretics. {5894 All the best mss., including the Codices Alex., Vat., and Sinait., omit the idious, as do Tertullian and Origen. Marcion has Chrysostom and the received text, followed by our A.V., with him}.
{4} having slain the Lord and His servants, is put as a case of climax. {5896 Status exaggerationis}.
{5} "sanctification of ours".
{6} "the will of God".
{7} "abstain from fornication".
{8} every one "should know how to possess his vessel in honour" {5899 1 Thess. iv. 3, 4}.
{9} "Not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles" {5900 1 Thess. iv. 5}.
{10} This passage (of the apostle) I would treat in such a way as to maintain the superiority of the other and higher sanctity, preferring continence and virginity to marriage, but by no means prohibiting the latter.
{11} the God of marriage.
{12} "remain unto the coming of Christ".
{13} "the dead in Christ, shall rise first".
{14} "caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air" {5906 1 Thess. iv. 15-17}.
{15} the heavenly intelligences gazed with admiration on "the Jerusalem which is above" {5907 Galatians 4:26}.
{16} Christ has prepared for us this ascension into heaven.
{17} What "spirit" does he forbid us to "quench," and what "prophesyings" to "despise?" {5911 1 Thess. v. 19, 20}.
{18} {5912 Nihil fecit. This is precisely St. Paul's exouthenein, "to annihilate" (A.V. "despise"), in 1 Thess. v. 20}.
{19} the apostle has given certain distinct names to all (our faculties), and has comprised them all in one prayer.

{20} “spirit and soul and body may be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord and Saviour (Jesus) Christ?”
{21} the soul has a kind of body of a quality of its own.
{22} just as the spirit has.

http://www.apostolicon.com/II_Thessalonians.html

Book Six of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Mark

To the Thessalonians
(second epistle)

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface....3
What is the Apostolicon?....3
Who Wrote the Apostolicon?....4
Reconstructing and Translating....6
Sources....9
Color Codes....9
Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation....11
The Marcionite Prologue....15
To the Thessalonians....15
Addendum....20
From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian: A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of 2nd Thessalonians....20

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture. The word "Apostolicon" means that which presents "the Apostle". Marcion[a], a man accused of being one of the most dangerous heretics of all time by Orthodoxy, is said to have compiled and canonized the Apostolicon and, according to a late Catholic tradition, delivered the Apostolicon scripture to John the Apostle[b]. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle as follows:

1. Alexandrians (Corinthians)
2. Alexandrians (second epistle)
3. Galatians
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (second epistle)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is the first gospel narrative ever written. Mark (aka Paul) is the author of the Evangelicon and made references to it in his epistles (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, 1st Thessalonians 1:5, 2nd Thessalonians 2:14). It was about 172 AD that Catholic Church fathers wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[c]. The Evangelicon was used as the primary source for writing the "Gospel of Luke". There was also a second version of the Evangelicon, a more spiritual version, used by those who were being "perfected". The "Gospel of Mark" is a redacted version of this more spiritual version of the Evangelicon.

---

[a] Marcion, likely the bishop of Alexandria, had, in the eyes of most Christians of the second century, power even greater than the bishop of Rome, and could, with authority, canonize the Apostolicon. There likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul without the canonization of the Apostolicon.

[b] This tradition sought to explain how it could be possible that the Catholic Church had need of a heretic to obtain the writings of the Apostle Paul. An earlier Coptic tradition is that "John" was the Jewish name for Mark (or Paul) and so the Apostolicon is authored by this one and the same, actually the only, Apostle.

[c] For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

http://www.apostolicon.com/II_Thessalonians.html

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, it was quoted extensively by Tertullian and other early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the Catholic scriptures the reconstruction can begin.

Research by Stephan Hullers concludes that the Galatians-first version of the Apostolicon (which can be reconstructed from the quotations of Tertullian) was not the original Apostolicon, but a later Catholic version re-engineered most likely by Polycarp[d]. Polycarpian interpolations were a part of the process of separating Paul from his original historical identity as Marcus Julius Agrippa, the last king of Judea, who was universally regarded as the messiah in Judea and in Alexandria from the time of the Samaritan Jubilee (38 AD) to the time of the destruction of the temple[e]. The subtle Polycarpian interpolations helped to defuse the apostolic authority of Paul. To first century Jews, the term "Messiah" or "Christ" was nearly synonymous with the term "Apostle". Moses was referred to as an "apostle", and the Messiah was prophesied to be an "apostle" like Moses[f]. The term "Apostle" did not need to be followed by a name because there would be only one person with this title. The truth is that Marcus Julius Agrippa was "Paul," or rather, as Stephan Hullers once put it, "the Paul," denoting "the Apostle" whose revelation led to the composition of the original gospel and apostolic letters, the basis of the original Marcionite canon known as the Apostolicon. The Galatians-first Polycarpian Catholic version used the pseudonym "Paul", as a way to protect the name of Mark, or perhaps rather to hide it from the historical record!

Who Wrote the Apostolicon?

PAUL HAD MORE THAN ONE NAME

There would be no such thing as "Apostolic Authority" without Paul. Contrary to the teaching of the Catholic Church, the whole concept of an "Apostle" began with Paul, not with Peter. The original meaning of "Apostle" meant the one who was sent by god to be the Messiah of the Jews; hence it was a title for only one person. Before the meaning of "Apostle" changed the author of "The Acts of Peter" tried to make Peter into "the" Apostle. Then probably starting with the writing of "The Acts of the Apostles" (no earlier that 169 A.D.) the term began to loose its Messianic connection. Paul's unique apostolic calling became defused in many peoples minds by 12 Apostles, and later even 72 Apostles. With Paul's history being re-written he was not even to be remembered as the first apostle, but a late comer. The history reconstructionists created a few different characters for Paul and gave them different names to misdirect the attention from one single figure of Paul. One such character was the Apostle John of the 12 disciples of Jesus, who was depicted as the youngest of the 12, and in fact Paul was about 7 or 8 years old when he followed Jesus in his ministry[g]. Each character created for Paul showed different characteristics of Paul. Some other characters were: Zacchaeus, Barabbas, and even Jesus himself (not that Jesus was also a name for Paul, but that, in the making of Jesus into the Christ, many attributes of Paul were put upon Jesus) and all had something to do with the person of Paul the Apostle. And "Paul" was likewise a pseudonym, probably derived from "Saul" who historically was the first King of Israel (and of the tribe of Benjamin) and thus corresponding to the last King of Israel who was Mark (i.e. Marcus Julius Agrippa - also of the tribe of Benjamin), who was the real person of Paul.

[d] http://therealmessiahbook.blogspot.com/2008/04/antichrist-of-catholic-tradition.html

[e] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 72, 105-109). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

[f] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 2148-2158). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

In an effort to reestablish the Apostle's original identity I use only the two names of Mark and Paul (interchangeably). The Apostle Mark, not just because it was his real name but it also helps link him to the writing of the first gospel narrative (The Gospel According to Mark), and also to disassociate him with his false Catholic history coming from the Acts of the Apostles. And I use the Apostle Paul, simply because that is what he has come to be known as.

WHO WAS "MARCION"? WAS MARCION YET ANOTHER NAME FOR PAUL?

There are scholars who will tell you Marcion and Paul were the same person; but the reason I don't believe this to be the case is because there was, in Alexandria, two people with the name "Marcion". The first one was the "apostle" who established the apostolic line of bishops for the city of Alexandria in 38 A.D. He was more commonly referred to as "Mark", and this was the same person as Paul the Apostle! But, in the line of bishops in the city of Alexandria, the seventh bishop in the line was Bishop "Marcion", who was bishop there from 142 A.D. to 152 A.D. This was the one who was the famed "heretic" (from a Catholic point of view) who was the leader of the Marcionite Church at the time. Although the common use for the term "Marcionite" means the followers of this so-called heretic bishop, the meaning of the term is: "The Followers of Mark"[h] and I intend to use the term to mean the followers of Mark the Apostle (i.e. Paul), rather than the followers of this second century bishop of Alexandria. Bishop Marcion of Alexandria may have had this name because he believed that he would be the last true successor to the founder (Mark the Apostle and Evangelist) of the apostolic line of Alexandria, and it was about that time that some things started to change in Alexandria because of the strong influence from Rome.

[g] Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 1002-1005, 2005-2006). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

It has been said that Bishop Marcion of Alexandria was the one who canonized the Apostolicon in about 120 A.D. It is true that the Bishop of Alexandria did have the power in those days to do such a thing, and surely Bishop Marcion supported the Apostolicon as Christian Scripture, but it is far more likely that the original Apostolicon was canonized by the Apostle Paul himself. And the 120 A.D. version of the Apostolicon was Polycarp's Galatians-first reengineered version of which it was falsely claimed that it was canonized by Bishop Marcion as a way to associate it's canonization with a second-century "heretic", rather than with the Catholic Church Father Polycarp.

Reconstructing and Translating

POTENTIAL INTERPOLATIONS

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[i]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.

[h] "The name Markion might be a back-formation from Aramaic Marqiyônê (singular Marqiyona) meaning the followers of Mark." (Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Location 4304). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.)

[i] Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

CONFIRMED INTERPOLATIONS

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations may remain, but are marked in red.

HOW QUOTES ARE INCORPORATED INTO THE APOSTOLICON

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

STRONG IMPLICATION

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied, but that implication is not clear in English, a few words may be added to strengthen the implication. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

ESTIMATION OF LOST TEXT BASED ON SUPPORTED INFERENCE

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable inferred estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an inferred estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. The basis for supporting an inferred estimation will be explained in the footnotes. Any words added for an inferred estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

RECONSTRUCTING THE ORIGINAL, COMPLETED IN TWO PHASES

The first phase is the reconstruction of the Galatians-first Apostolicon using primarily Tertullian and Epiphanius as the reconstruction source. Then, to reconstruct a close estimation of the pre-Polycarpian Alexandrian-first Apostolicon original, the second phase is: First, determine the themes that motivated Polycarp to make his re-engineered version of the Apostolicon. Make a list. Second, identify each place where these themes are found. And third, create an "Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference" of what likely was written before altered by Polycarp by reversing the Polycarpian theme. In the case were the inferred estimation fits into the surrounding text and shows no sign of the characteristics of an interpolation, the inferred estimation will be provided in the reconstruction and the reader will be able to see the consistency of the repeated themes by comparing the text before and after the inferred estimation. But in the case where this inferred estimation continues to exhibit the characteristics of an interpolation it must be considered a likelihood that the text in question did not replace text from the original, but may be only a simple interpolation and as such will be considered for removal as Polycarpian non-canonical material. Any words added for a pre-Polycarpian inferred estimation are italicized and [contained in square brackets] and the [square brackets are marked in red]. If a text is considered to be an interpolation with Polycarpian-like characteristics and is removed the interpolation-removed markers ("<>") will be marked in red ("<>").

Some of the cities that the epistles were written to were changed by Polycarp. There is enough textual support to posit that the Epistles to the Corinthians were actually written to the Alexandrians. The Epistle to the Laodiceans was not changed to the Ephesians by Polycarp, this change occurred later. Internal literary study of the epistles suggests to me that the epistles to the Thessalonians were actually written to the Samaritans, but I do not yet have enough support for this hypothesis to include it in the reconstruction of the Apostolicon. Philippians may have been written to a city in Judea, maybe even Jerusalem, but once again this is just a hypothesis and it will not be included in the reconstruction. I am confident that the rest of the cities: Galatia, Rome, Laodicea, and Colossae are the actual intended destinations for those epistles. Fortunately, getting the city to which the epistle was written incorrect will not change the content of the epistle. Polycarp made these changes in order to draw attention away from where the Marcionite faith had been firmly established by the Apostle Paul in order to aid in the reconstruction of Paul's history as a glorified Catholic missionary, rather than the Marcionite Apostle.

SPECIAL WORDS

An understanding of dualism[j] is essential to an understanding of the Marcionite faith, therefore, where it can be determined from the context that

[j] Dualism, meaning Gnostic Dualism: The belief that the material world was created by the Old Testament "god", which was an archon (the Demiurgos). But the true GOD, which is the Father of Jesus, is associated with the spiritual world (the 'pleroma') which is not a part of the imperfect physical world. To rise to GOD, one

"God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined from the context that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, where there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Likewise, where it can be determined from the context that "Christ" (christos) refers to Jesus, "the Kind One" (chrestos) is used[k]. It is believed that in many cases copyist inadvertently made this change. Excessive use of the term also suggests that in many cases it is a Polycarpian interpolation. If the term is used redundantly with no apparent reason "the Kind One" is used, but also in red square brackets, as: "Jesus [the Kind One]", indicating that it may be a Polycarpian interpolation. In the event in which it can be determined from the context that "Christ" does not refer to Jesus, then "Christ" is used.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapter 16;
2. "Panarion" by Epiphanius of Salamis, book 42, passage 11, verse 8;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Grey – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for only one or two words and unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources

---

must be 'resurrected' (raised out from 'the dead', 'the dead' = the physical world), that is, raised from the physical world to the spiritual world.

[k] Although the title of "Christ" is used countless times in connection with Jesus, the actual teaching that Jesus is the Christ cannot be found among any of the epistles of Paul. This fact is why it is even possible to substitute "the Kind One" for "Christ" without ever disrupting the integrity of any verse! Unlike, for example, the Acts of the Apostles, where the author clearly puts forth the claim that Paul did teach that Jesus is the Christ, as in Acts 17:3b: "This Jesus whom I am proclaiming to you is the Christ." If a reader didn't know what the term "Christ" meant, and had only the context of the epistles of Paul to figure it out, this reader would never be able to determine its meaning. It most certainly is posited that the actual Apostle Paul did not teach that Jesus was the Christ. This teaching (that Jesus was the Christ) began with Peter, but not with Paul. This was the real reason Peter was said to have "denied" Christ. Peter did not attain to the same level of spiritual gnosis as Paul because, as Jesus said to Peter: "you are not setting your mind on the things of God, but on the things of man" (Matthew 16:23).

Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation or corrupted text suspected (if the text is also in red square brackets it indicates the suspected text exhibits the characteristics of a Polycarpian interpolation)

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation

The very idea that one of the prophecies about the coming of the messiah was really a prophecy about the coming of an "antichrist" was unheard of until Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation. As Stephan Hullers notes, various ancient sources recognize that the antichrist material inserted into 2nd Thessalonians was connected to the "abomination of desolation" reference in the seventy weeks prophecy of Daniel 9:24-27 [e.g. the Didache and Origen, Against Celsus 6:45-46]. Polycarp's intent was to find a new way to interpret the seventy weeks prophecy so it would boomerang against Paul and inject it into the very scripture of the Apostolicon.

The Galatians-first Apostolicon of Polycarp did refer to Jesus as the Christ and not every case can be attributed to copyists simply seeing "chrestos" and writing "christos" down. Yet an inference can be supported that the original Apostolicon did not refer to Jesus as the Christ. Not only Marcionites, but all Gnostic Christians taught that Jesus and Christ are two different persons. Yet the first Gnostic Christians were likely the Jewish Marcionites (Marcionites = followers of Mark) of Alexandria [most scholars do say Marcionites were not Gnostics, or rather that they were "one-sided Gnostics", the distinction is however a question of degree, so as long as the Gnostic principal of dualism is part of the faith I will give them the name of Gnostic] and these first century Alexandrians universally believed that Marcus Julius Agrippa (aka Paul) was the Christ! Polycarp redirected any reference to Paul being the Christ and introduced numerous references to Jesus as the Christ into his version of the Apostolicon to defuse the apostolic authority of Paul.

In the case at hand, an "Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference" was completed on Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation, yet this inferred estimation did not fit into the surrounding text but continued to exhibit the characteristics of an interpolation. This therefore gives support to the position that Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation did not substitute a pre-existing text but was only inserted as a simple interpolation. Nevertheless, because the first epistle to the Thessalonians contained material surrounding the matter of Paul being the Christ it does seem reasonable to assume that this matter may have been present in the second epistle to the Thessalonians as well. This gives support to the position that Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation may have substituted a pre-existing text. With some reluctance, I decided to include my "Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference". Because support for this is weak, what I may have done in effect is added my own interpolation into the text of the Apostolicon. This is why I must use red square brackets when inserting text of this sort; it puts the reliability of such on par with Polycarp's interpolations. Additionally, I also put the text in parentheses, because if my estimation of text is in truth equivalent to actual text in the original epistle it would have to be parenthetical.

In Against Marcion 5:16(9) Tertullian asks this question: "how happens it that he [Marcion] can suborn the Creator's Christ to avenge his truth?" A fair question! In other words, why would the Christ of the Old Testament "god" (which is but a mere archon) serve as the Apostle of the supreme GOD the Father of Jesus? Together with this question is the whole matter of the Marcionite view of prophecy in general. Since the source of most all prophecy is the demiurgos (the Old Testament archon god), what business would the Marcionite Christian have concerning himself with Old Testament prophecy at all, much less one about the Christ of an archon?! Accordingly, it should be noted that, the phrase "despise not prophecies" (1st Thessalonians 5:20) is certainly a Polycarpian interpolation as well, as the norm for the Marcionite Christian is to not consider prophecies because of their source, as Paul said in 1st Corinthians 13:8 "as for prophecies, they will fail". Note also that apart from the prophecy on the antichrist, which must be considered as a non-canonical interpolation, you will not find much in the way of "prophecies" in the Apostolicon. The answer to this inquiry is that there are exceptions, and the source of the prophecy of Daniel was thought not to be of the demiurgos by notable Gnostic authorities.

As the author of the book To the Hebrews said, "GOD, having spoken in former times in a fragmentary and varied fashion to our forefathers by the prophets …" (Hebrews 1:1). " Valentinian exegetes say that the demiurge, amazed by the prophecies that originated "from above," and were revealed "in the prophets" (Hebrews 1:1) failed to comprehend their source; he [the demiurgos] attributed them either to the prophets' own subjective excitement, or to deceit, [Adversus Haereses 1.7.4, as quoted from 'The Gnostic Paul', Elaine Pagels] for how could the demiurge understand those prophecies that came from the pleroma, which set forth in symbolic terms the pleromic mysteries, and above all "the mystery of Christ"? " [Adversus Haereses 4.35.2-4, as quoted from 'The Gnostic Paul', Elaine Pagels]. The very idea that there is an Old Testament prophecy that says that "in the middle of the week he [the messiah] will put a stop to sacrifice and grain offering" is amazing! Yet this prophecy was fulfilled in Marcus Julius Agrippa, the last king of Judea, who played a role in the destruction of the temple, so that the temple sacrifice would come to an end and the sacrifice of Jesus (and Paul in Jesus) on the Cross would be declared, by the Apostle, sufficient once and for all time.

Now to analyze Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation:

> [(2.1) Now we ask of you, brothers and sisters, concerning the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, and our gathering together unto him:
> (2.2) that ye not be quickly shaken from your mind, nor be troubled, either by spirit, or by word, or by epistle as from us, as that the day of Christ has arrived!
> (2.3) let no one in any way deceive you: For this may not come, > except the repudiation of the law come first; and the lawless man revealed: the son of destruction;

> (2.4) (the one who opposes and lifts himself above every so-called god or object of worship) therefore, in the temple he is to be seated as a god, thus he is attesting to the fact that he is god [Against Marcion 5:16(6)].
> (2.5 to 2.9) <> [Verses 2:5 to 2:9a: A post-Tertullian interpolation not present within this Polycarpian interpolation] with all power and lying signs and wonders,
> (2.10) <>; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.
> (2.11) And for this cause god gives them an instinct to err, <>:
> (2.12) that they all might be judged who believed not the truth but have pleasure in unrighteousness. [Against Marcion 5:16(8)]]

The actual "Day of Christ" is a spiritual event connected with the rapture (see 1st Thessalonians 4:15), but the "Day of Christ" from an earthly point of view (Polycarp's point of view) had arrived. Polycarp didn't want anyone "in any way deceived" by what Paul said about that day already having been fulfilled (verses 2:2-3a). "The lawless man" was "revealed" as Paul, who "repudiated the law" (verse 2:3), or to put it in friendlier terms, "Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone who believes" (Romans 10:4). "The son of destruction" was to sit "in the temple". Polycarp probably could not believe that the temple would actually be destroyed by Paul, perhaps god would stop him and at most he would only "be seated" there "as a god". But Paul (Marcus Julius Agrippa) played an essential role in the destruction of the temple[l]! Verse 2:4, "Attesting to the fact that he is god". Paul did attest to the fact that he was "the firstborn of GOD", and on one occasion it is recorded that he happened upon Polycarp and wanted him to acknowledge him as such, to which Polycarp replied, "I do know you, the firstborn of Satan"! [Adversus Haereses 3.3.4, although the record indicates that it was "Marcion" who encountered Polycarp, considering the historical context it seems more likely that "Marcion" here referred to "Marcus", Paul's actual name].

A reconstruction of Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation from a study of Tertullian indicates that verses 2:5 – 2:9a were not a part of the original interpolation and so the matter about the "restrainer" that must first be taken out of the way before the lawless one can be "slain by the lord" at his coming was yet another interpolation put upon the first interpolation at some time after Tertullian. This means that the first interpolation was composed before the composition of the Acts of the Apostles [written between 169 and [l] Schwartz, Daniel R, Agrippa I: The Last King of Judaea, Zalman Shazar Center, 1987, with same title published as Texte und Studien zum Antiken Judentum 23, Tübingen: J C B Mohr (Paul Siebeck), 1990, as referenced in: Huller, Stephan (2011-05-02). The Real Messiah: The Throne of St. Mark and the True Origins of Christianity (Kindle Locations 4259-4261). Watkins Publishing. Kindle Edition.

183 A.D., which we know because it was addressed to "Theophilus" (Acts 1:1) which almost has to be "Theophilus of Antioch" who was bishop of Antioch at that time], but the new addition into the interpolation was added after the composition of the Acts of the Apostles. However, we also know from Epiphanius that there was an earlier book by the same name "The Acts of the Apostles" that in all likelihood was known, and possibly was even written, by Polycarp. Epiphanius said this Acts of the Apostles had Paul as a false apostle and that Paul "became angry" and "wrote against circumcision, and against the Sabbath and the legislation" [Panarion 2.30.16.6-9].

In conclusion, no one need make the assumption that the temple must be rebuilt some day in order to accommodate the fulfillment of a prophecy about a future antichrist. The prophecy was false because it was part of a non-canonical interpolation. The "abomination of desolation" refers to how it would be an "abomination" if, after the law of god was put to an end by the Cross, it was brought back again with the temple sacrifice. As a verse attributed to Paul says in Galatians 2:18, "For if I rebuild what I have once destroyed [the law, the temple, and the temple sacrifice], I prove myself to be a transgressor".

"I do not nullify the grace of God, for if righteousness comes through the Law, then Christ died needlessly!"
Galatians 2:21

The Epistle of the Apostle Mark[m] To the Thessalonians (second epistle)

The Marcionite Prologue[n]

Thessalonians are Macedonians, who having accepted the word of truth persevered in the faith even in persecution from their fellow-citizens. Moreover, also, they received not the things said by false apostles. These the apostle praises, writing to them from Athens.

To the Thessalonians

(1.1) Mark, and Silvanus, and Timothy, unto the church of the Thessalonians in GOD our Father and the Lord Jesus the Kind One;
(1.2) Grace to you and peace from GOD the Father and the Lord Jesus the Kind One.
(1.3) We are bound to give thanks to GOD always for you, brothers and sisters, even as it is fitting, because your faith grows exceedingly, and the love of every one of you for one another abounds;
(1.4) so that we ourselves speak proudly of you in the churches of GOD for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and in the afflictions which ye endure;
(1.5) which is a clear indication of the righteous judgment of god: so that you will be considered worthy of the kingdom of god, for which ye also suffer.
(1.6) If indeed it is a righteous thing <> for god to recompense tribulation to those who afflict us: and, to us who are the afflicted, give rest, with whom it shall be revealed are in the Lord Jesus, when he shall appear as coming from heaven with;

---

[m] The name of "Mark" will substitute the name of "Paul". It is not known whether the original Apostolicon used Mark or Paul or some other pseudonym such as John, Barabbas, or Zacchaeus, but by doing this it will be easier for the reader to disassociate the Apostle from his false "Catholic" history recorded in the Acts of the Apostles; as well as to associate the Apostle with his writing of the first gospel narrative (i.e. The Gospel of Mark).

[n] "Marcionite" prologues (found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts) were accepted by Catholics, in spite of the fact that they are likely of Marcionite origin.

(1.7) god's mighty angels <>[o], rendering out justice to those who know not GOD: and those likewise, who obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus the Kind One;

(1.8) who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the lord: and likewise, from the glory of his power[p],

(1.9) when god shall come to be glorified in his saints: and likewise, to be marveled at in all those who believed (because our testimony unto you was believed) in that day.

(1.10) With this in mind, we pray always for you, that our GOD accordingly may count you worthy of your calling, and fulfill every desire of goodness and every work of faith, with power;

(1.11) that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our GOD and the Lord Jesus the Kind One.

<>[q] [(1.12) (Now, brothers and sisters, concerning the appearing of our Christ, and our gathering together unto him: for the day of Christ has dawned upon us!

(1.13) Yet this may not be, except there come a repudiation of the law first; and the one who causes the sacrifice and oblation to come to an end be revealed: even the son of desolation;

---

[o] Against Marcion 5:16(2).

[p] Against Marcion 5:16(3,4,5)

[q] Verses 2.1 to 2.12, Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation: The Pauline theme that "Jesus is not the Christ, rather Paul is the Christ" was altered to the Petrine theme that "Jesus is the Christ, not Paul". To do this, Polycarp had to make Paul into an "antichrist", without actually referring to him by name. Additionally, the theme that "the day of Christ has arrived" was altered to "the day of Antichrist has not yet arrived". The interpolation stands out also because there are few if any prophecies in the Apostolicon. The phrase "despise not prophecies" (1st Thessalonians 5:20) is likely a Polycarpian interpolation as well.

[(2.1) Now we ask of you, brothers and sisters, concerning the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, and our gathering together unto him:

(2.2) that ye not be quickly shaken from your mind, nor be troubled, either by spirit, or by word, or by epistle as from us, as that the day of Christ has arrived!

(2.3) let no one in any way deceive you: For this may not come, except the repudiation of the law come first; and the lawless man revealed: the son of destruction;

(2.4) (the one who opposes and lifts himself above every so-called god or object of worship) therefore, in the temple he is to be seated as a god, thus he is attesting to the fact that he is god [Against Marcion 5:16(6)].

(2.5 to 2.9) <> [Verses 2:5 to 2:9a: A post-Tertullian interpolation not present within this Polycarpian interpolation] with all power and lying signs and wonders,

(2.10) <> for them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

(2.11) And for this cause god gives them an instinct to err, <>:

(2.12) that they all might be judged who believed not the truth but have pleasure in unrighteousness. [Against Marcion 5:16(8)]]

(1.14) (for this one must be opposed to and be lifted above every so-called god or object of worship) even so, in the place of the temple, this one must be seated like deity, thus attesting to the fact that this one is the firstborn of GOD.)][r]

[2.13] (1.15) Wherefore we must always give thanks to GOD for you, brothers and sisters, beloved of the Lord, for GOD chose you from the beginning unto salvation in sanctification of the spirit[s] and belief of the truth:

[2.14] (1.16) for this purpose[t] he called you through our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus the Kind One.

[2.15] (1.17) So then, brothers and sisters, stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye were taught, whether by word, or by our epistle.

[2.16] (1.18) Now our same Lord Jesus the Kind One, and GOD our Father who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace,

[2.17] (1.19) comfort your hearts and establish them in every good work and word.

[3.1] (2.1) Finally, brothers and sisters, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may run and be glorified, even as also it is with you;

[3.2] (2.2) and that we may be delivered from unreasonable and evil men; for all have not faith.

[3.3] (2.3) But the Lord is faithful, who shall establish you, and guard you from the evil one.

[3.4] (2.4) And we have confidence in the Lord concerning you, that ye are doing and will continue to do what we command.

---

[r] These verses contained in red square brackets are the "Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference". Note that I included them also in parentheses because if it is so, as I am asserting, that this represents the equivalent of what existed in the original epistle before it was substituted by Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation, it would be parenthetical.

[s] Verse 1.11 and verse [2.13] 1.15: If you read these two verses without reading either Polycarp's Antichrist Interpolation or my Estimation of Text Based on Supported Inference between them, note how the original flow of thought proceeds uninterrupted once an interpolation is removed: "that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our GOD and the Lord Jesus the Kind One. Wherefore we must give thanks to GOD always for you, brothers and sisters, beloved of the Lord, for GOD chose you from the beginning unto salvation in sanctification of the spirit". Also note that if the whole epistle was the work of Polycarp the Antichrist interpolation would not be an interpolation at all and therefore would not interrupt the flow of thought, thus giving some degree of credence to the likelihood that the epistle is of Paul (minus the interpolation).

[t] "Purpose" is singular in the Greek, and must refer to either "sanctification of the spirit" or "belief of the truth", but not both; thus indicating the likelihood that one of these two is an interpolation.

[3.5] (2.5) And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of GOD, and into the patience of the Kind One.
[3.6] (2.6) Now we command you, brothers and sisters, in the name of our Lord Jesus [the Kind One], that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother or sister who walks disorderly, and not after the tradition which they received of us.
[3.7] (2.7) For you know how ye ought to imitate us: for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;
[3.8] (2.8) neither did we eat bread without paying for it, but in labor and travail, working night and day, that we might not burden any of you:
[3.9] (2.9) not because we have not the right, but to make ourselves and example unto you, that ye should imitate us.
[3.10] (2.10) For even when we were with you, this we commanded you: if any will not work, neither let him eat[u].
[3.11] (2.11) For we hear of some who walk among you disorderly, that work not at all, but are busybodies.
[3.12] (2.12) Now such persons we command and encourage in the Lord Jesus [the Kind One], that with quietness they work, and earn their own living.
[3.13] (2.13) But ye, brothers and sisters, be not weary in well-doing.
[3.14] (2.14) If anyone obey not our word by this epistle, take note of such, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.
[3.15] (2.15) And yet do not regard him as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.
[3.16] (2.16) Now the same Lord of peace give you peace at all times in all ways. The Lord be with you all.
[3.17] (2.17) The salutation of me Mark with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.
[3.18] (2.18) The grace of our Lord Jesus the Kind One be with you all.

[u] Against Marcion 5:16(13).

Book Six of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Thessalonians (second epistle) by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Addendum

From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian: A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of 2nd Thessalonians

{1} We are obliged from time to time to recur to certain topics in order to affirm truths which are connected with them.
{2} "with whom it is a righteous thing to recompense tribulation to them who afflict us, and to ourselves, who are afflicted, rest, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed as coming from heaven with the angels of His might and in flaming fire." {5922 2 Thessalonians 1:6-7} The heretic, however, has erased the flaming fire.
{3} "to take vengeance on them that know not God and that obey not the gospel, who," he says, "shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of His power" {5923 2 Thessalonians 1:8-9}.
{4} mentioned separately "those who obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ," {5925 2 Thessalonians 1:8}.
{5} "From the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of His power," {5927 2 Thessalonians 1:9}.
{6} who is the man of sin, the son of perdition," who must first be revealed before the Lord comes; "who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; who is to sit in the temple of God, and boast himself as being God?" {5929 2 Thessalonians 2:3-4}.
{7} Marcion's view, it is really hard to know whether He might not be (after all) the Creator's Christ; because according to him He is not yet come.
{8} "in all power, and with lying signs and wonders?" {5933 2 Thessalonians 2:9} "Because," he says, "they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved; for which cause God shall send them an instinct of delusion {5934 Instinctum fallaciæ} (to believe a lie), that they all might be judged who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness." {5935 2 Thessalonians 2:10-12}.
{9} how happens it that he {5937 Marcion, or rather his Christ, who on the hypothesis absurdly employs the Creator's Christ on the flagrantly inconsistent mission of avenging his truth, i.e. Marcionism} can suborn the Creator's Christ to avenge his truth?
{10} Satan, an angel of the Creator, necessary to his purpose? Why, too, should Antichrist be slain by Him.

{11} the wrath, and the jealousy, {5940 Æmulatio} and "the sending of the strong delusion," {5941 2 Thessalonians 2:11} on those who despise and mock, as well as upon those who are ignorant of Him. {12} he who has been brought out to view {5944 Productus est} once for all in one only copy of the gospel— and even that without any sure authority—which actually makes no secret of proclaiming another god? {13} "if any would not work, neither should he eat," {5946 2 Thessalonians 3:10}.

Book Seven of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Paul

To the Laodiceans

Table of Contents

Preface....4
What is the Apostolicon?....4
Reconstructing and Translating....5
Sources....7
Color Codes....7
The Controversy....8
The Marcionite Prologue....11
To the Laodiceans....11

Special Acknowledgement

I would like to express my gratitude to Melissa Cutler, my friend and colleague, who made it possible to complete this work! Without her assistance I do not believe that I could have acquired the expertise needed to finish this much needed reconstruction of the Pauline scriptures!

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture; compiled by Marcion of Sinope[a]; and, according to one tradition, delivered by him to John the Apostle. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle Paul as follows:

1. Galatians
2. Corinthians
3. Corinthians (2)
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (2)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is a gospel narrative carefully compiled by Marcion from only the most reliable sources available in his day (about 110 to 145 AD). It was considered, by the adherents of the Marcionite faith, to be equivalent to "The Gospel of Paul" (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, Thessalonians 1:5, Thessalonians (2) 2:14). It was from about 170 to 180 AD that the Catholic Church wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[b]. For the "Gospel of Luke", the Evangelicon was used as the primary source for its writing.

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, the Apostolicon (in Latin and Greek) was quoted extensively by early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the books of the Catholic scriptures the Apostolicon can be reconstructed.

---

a Without Marcion, there likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul.

b For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

Potential interpolations

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[c]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.
- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

Confirmed interpolations

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations remain, but are marked in red.

How quotes are incorporated into the Apostolicon

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

c Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

Strong implication

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied in the Greek, but that implication becomes weak when translated into English, a few words are added to the translation in order to strengthen the implication in English. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

Estimation of lost text

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. All words added for an estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

Special words

Where it can be determined that "God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, when there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Where it can be determined that "Christ" refers to Jesus, "the Good One" is used. Evidence suggests that "chrestos", meaning "the good one", was changed to "christos", meaning "the messiah", by copyists.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapters 17-18;
2. "Panarion" by Epiphanius of Salamis, book 42, passage 11, verse 8;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Light Green – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for some unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

The Controversy

Concerning the Controversy over the First Recipients of the Epistle and the Reconstruction of the Marcionite Prologue

Only in the Epistle to the Laodiceans is it necessary to reconstruct the Marcionite Prologue. Perhaps the reason for this is due to the confusion at a very early date about whether the Epistle was written to the Laodiceans or to the Ephesians. No doubt the Marcionite prologue made it clear that the Epistle was to the Laodiceans and therefore could not be included in early Latin Bibles which held that the Epistle was to the Ephesians. But the substitute Latin prologue 'To the Ephesians' can be a starting point toward the reconstruction, since there seems to be little reason to believe that anything other than the intended destination of the epistle was changed. This is the Latin Ephesian Prologue: "Ephesii sunt Asiani. Hi accepto verbo veritatis perstiterunt in fide. Hos conlaudat apostolus, scribens eis a Roma de carcere!" The translation is as follows: "Ephesians are of Asia. These accepted the word of truth, and persisted in their faithfulness, These the apostle praises, writing to them from prison in Rome!"

The next clue to the reconstruction of the Laodicean Prologue is the Colossian Prologue; Colossians immediately follows Laodiceans in the Marcionite canon. The Colossian Prologue: "Colossians, these also like the Laodiceans, are of Asia; and likewise they had been reached beforehand by false apostles. The apostle himself did not come to them either; but these also by a letter he corrects. For they had heard the word from Archippus; who also accepted a ministry unto them. Therefore the apostle, already in custody, writes to them from Ephesus." From this we learn additional information about the Laodicean Prologue, that they had been reached beforehand by false apostles, the Apostle had not come to them yet, and the Epistle in some way corrects them. It is interesting to note that this closely parallels the message to Ephesus in Revelation 2: "To the angel of the church in Ephesus write . . . I know your deeds and your toil and perseverance, and that you cannot tolerate evil men, and you put to the test those who call themselves apostles, and they are not, and you found them to be false; and you have perseverance and have endured for My name's sake, and have not grown weary. But I have this against you, that you have left your first love." The author of Revelation may have known of the Marcionite Prologue; at any rate it seems reasonable to assume that the correction of the Epistle has to do with leaving there first love, seeing that the Epistle has much to say about how the relationship between a husband and wife is as the relationship between Jesus and the church.

Based on this afore going information I submit the following reconstruction and estimation of the Marcionite Prologue to the Laodiceans: "Laodiceans are of Asia. These accepted the word of truth, and when false apostles approached them, they even reproved them, and persisted in their faithfulness to the gospel. These the apostle praises, writing to them from prison in Rome!"

Now, with regard to the controversy about to whom this Epistle was addressed, it is exceedingly clear that the earliest tradition, that of the Marcionites of course, is that the epistle is to the Laodiceans. The phrase "in Ephesus" is lacking in many early manuscripts. In three cases the phrase was beyond doubt a scribble addition, as for example:

First Page of Ephesians in Codex Sinaiticus with "in Ephesus" added in between the columns

The epistle says that it's recipients are "gentiles" (see: Lao. 2:11-12), and if we are to believe the so-called 'history' of the 'Acts of the Apostles' (for the sake of argument, as it were) then Ephesus could not have been the intended destination since we are informed there that the Christians in Ephesus were Jewish. What one could speculate is that the epistle was indeed sent to the Laodiceans, but if, after the epistle was later sent to other cities from Laodicea, and the Laodiceans did not see to it that the epistle was returned to them, copyist, in those cities where the manuscript then actually was, might leave out the words "in Laodicea". As more copies were made, the words "in Ephesus", the name of the principle city in Asia, may have been added from which the epistle had come to the knowledge of the whole Christian church.

The evidence that suggests that the original epistle was sent to the Laodiceans also suggests that the epistle is older than the Catholic Church's acceptance of it, or perhaps even the existence of the Catholic Church itself. Even the evolution unto the later common opinion that it was sent to Ephesus pre-dates the Catholic Church's acceptance of the epistle and probably their acceptance of Paul as a true apostle! In light of this, consider the historical perspective of the Pauline/Marcionite Church relative to the Catholic Church, which did accept Paul and his epistles long before the Catholic Church did so.

"I determined to know nothing among you except Jesus the Good One, and Him crucified"
Corinthians 2:2

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Laodiceans

The Marcionite Prologue[d]

[Laodiceans are of Asia. These accepted the word of truth, and when false apostles approached them, they even reproved them, and persisted in their faithfulness to the gospel. These the apostle praises, writing to them from prison in Rome!]

To the Laodiceans

[1:1] Paul, an apostle of the Good One Jesus through the will of GOD, to the saints that are at Laodicea[e], and the faithful in the Good One Jesus:

[1:2] Grace to you and peace from GOD our Father and the Lord Jesus the Good One.

[1:3] Blessed be the GOD and Father of our Lord Jesus the Good One, who hath blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavens in the Good One:

[1:4] even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blemish before him in love:

[1:5] having foreordained us unto adoption as children through Jesus the Good One unto himself, according to the good pleasure of his will,

[1:6] to the praise of the glory of his grace, which he freely bestowed on us in the Beloved:

[1:7] in whom we have our redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace,

[1:8] which he made to abound toward us in all wisdom and prudence,

[1:9] making known unto us the mystery of his will, according to that good pleasure, which GOD hath purposed in the mystery of his will,

[1:10] that in the dispensation of the fullness of times He might sum up all things in the Good One, both which are in the heavens and which are on earth[f].

---

d The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin.

e Against Marcion 5:17(1).

f Against Marcion 5:17(2).

[1:11] In him also we were made a heritage, having been foreordained according to the purpose of him who works all things after the counsel of his will;
[1:12] to the end that we should be to the praise of his glory, who first trusted in the Good One:
[1:13] In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel; in whom ye believed, and were sealed with the spirit of promise[g],
[1:14] which is an earnest of our inheritance, unto the redemption of God's own possession, unto the praise of his glory.
[1:15] For this cause I also, having heard of the faith in the Lord Jesus which is among you, and the love which ye show for all the saints,
[1:16] cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;
[1:17] that the GOD of our Lord Jesus the Good One, the Father of glory[h], may give unto you a spirit of wisdom[i] and revelation in the knowledge of him;
[1:18] The eyes of your understanding having been enlightened[j], that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and the riches of his inheritance in the saints[k],
[1:19] and what the exceeding greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to that working of the strength of his might
[1:20] which he wrought in the Good One, when he raised him out from the dead, and made him to sit at his right hand, <>
[1:21] <>
[1:22] (1:21) <> putting all things in subjection under his feet[l], and gave him to be head over all things to the church,
[1:23] (1:22) which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.
[2:1] And ye were dead in trespasses and sins,
[2:2] wherein ye had walked in accord with the aeon of the world-system, the archon of human-rule, the pneumatic spirit now operating in the children of those in obstinate opposition to divine will;

---

g Against Marcion 5:17(3-4).
h Against Marcion 5:17(5).
i Against Marcion 5:17(6).
j Against Marcion 5:17(7).
k Against Marcion 5:17(8).
l Against Marcion 5:17(9), Text substantially the same, except for an interpolation, as confirmed by quotation.

[2:3] among whom we also all once lived[m] in the passions of our flesh, doing the will of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature the children of wrath, even as the rest[n].

[2:4] But GOD, being rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

[2:5] even when we were dead through our trespasses, made us alive together with the Good One <>[o],

[2:6] and raised us up with him, and made us to sit with him in the heavens, in the Good One Jesus:

[2:7] that in the ages to come he might show the exceeding riches of his grace in kindness toward us in the Good One Jesus:

[2:8] for by grace have ye been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of GOD;

[2:9] not of works, that no one should glory.

[2:10] For we are his workmanship, created in the Good One Jesus[p] for good works, which God afore prepared that we should walk in them.

[2:11] Wherefore remember, that ye were once the Gentiles <>, called uncircumcision by that which has the name of circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

[2:12] that at that time ye were without the Good One, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants and their promise, having no hope, and without gods in the world.

[2:13] But now in the Good One, ye who were once afar off are made nigh by his blood.

[2:14] For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and the middle wall has been broken down[q];

[2:15] having nullified the enmity in the flesh[r], even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; that he might create in himself of the two one new man, so making peace;

[2:16] that He might reconcile both in one body unto God, having slain therein the enmity through the cross:

[2:17] and he came and preached peace to them that were near and to them which were afar off[s] <>[t]:

---

m Against Marcion 5:17(10,12).

n Against Marcion 5:17(13-15).

o Parenthetical redundancy: most likely a copyist's notation (which appears to be the case with most of the interpolations found in this epistle).

p Against Marcion 5:17(16,23).

q Against Marcion 5:17(17-20), Panarion 42:11:8(1(36)).

r Against Marcion 5:17(20-21).

s Against Marcion 5:17(22,24-26).

t Parenthetical redundancy, most likely a copyist's notation.

[2:18] for through him we both have our access <> unto the Father[u].

[2:19] So then ye are now no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God,

[2:20] built upon the foundation of the apostles <>[v], the Good One Jesus himself being the chief corner stone[w];

[2:21] in whom each several building, fitly framed together, is growing into a holy temple in the Lord;

[2:22] in whom ye also are builded together for a habitation of God in the spirit.

[3:1] For this cause I Paul, the prisoner of the Good One Jesus on behalf of you Gentiles,

[3:2] if indeed ye have heard of the dispensation of that grace of GOD which was given to for you;

[3:3] how that by revelation was made known unto me the mystery, as I wrote before in few words,

[3:4] whereby, when ye read, ye can perceive my understanding in the mystery of the Good One;

[3:5] which in other generations was not made known unto the sons of men, as it hath now been revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets in the spirit;

[3:6] to wit, that the Gentiles are fellow-heirs, and fellow-members of the body, and fellow-partakers of the promise in the Good One Jesus through the gospel,

[3:7] of which I was made a minister, according to the gift of that grace of GOD which was given me, according to the working of his power.

[3:8] Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, was this grace given, <>[x]

[3:9] to enlighten all as to what was the fellowship of the mystery, which has been hidden from the aeons; hidden from god, that is, the one who created all things[y];

[3:10] in order that, through the church, the manifold wisdom of God might now be revealed unto the archons and spiritual-sovereigns, in the heavens[z],

[3:11] according to the purpose of the aeons which he carried out in the Good One Jesus our Lord:

---

u Against Marcion 5:17(26).

v Against Marcion 5:17(26-27), interpolation: "and prophets", most likely a copyist's notation.

w Against Marcion 5:17(28).

x Against Marcion 5:18(30).

y Against Marcion 5:18(30, 33), as Tertullian mentions, this verse clearly indicates that the creator-deity "is himself reckoned among these archons" (Against Marcion 5:18(32)).

z Against Marcion 5:18(31).

[3:12] in whom we have boldness and access in confidence through our faith in him.
[3:13] Wherefore I ask that ye be not despondent at my tribulations for you, which are your glory.
[3:14] For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father,
[3:15] from whom every family in the heavens and on earth is named,
[3:16] that he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, that ye may be strengthened with power through his spirit in the inward being;
[3:17] that the Good One may dwell in your hearts through faith; to the end that ye, having been rooted and grounded in love,
[3:18] may be strong to apprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth,
[3:19] and to know the love of the Good One which surpasses knowledge, that ye may be filled unto all the fullness of God.
[3:20] Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that works in us,
[3:21] unto him be the glory in the church and in the Good One Jesus unto all the generations of the aeon of the aeons. Amen.
[4:1] I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beseech you to walk worthily of the calling wherewith ye were called,
[4:2] with all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love;
[4:3] giving diligence to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace.
[4:4] One body, one spirit, even as also ye were called in one hope of your calling;
[4:5] one Lord, one faith, one baptism,
[4:6] one GOD and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in all[aa].
[4:7] But unto each one of us was the grace given according to the measure of the gift of the Good One.
[4:8] Wherefore the saying, "When he ascended on high, he led captivity captive[bb], And gave gifts unto men".
[4:9] (Now this, 'he ascended', what is it but that he also 'descended[cc]' into the lower parts of the earth?
[4:10] He that descended is the same also that ascended far above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.)
[4:11] And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; aa Panarion 42:11:8(1([40])).

---

bb Against Marcion 5:18(34).
cc Gospel 1:1, "In the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, Jesus came down to Capernaum"

[4:12] for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of the Good One:
[4:13] till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of GOD, unto a full grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of the Good One:
[4:14] that we may be no longer children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, in craftiness, after the wiles of error;
[4:15] but speaking truth in love, we may grow up in all things into him, who is the head, even the Good One;
[4:16] from whom all the body fitly framed and knit together through that which every joint supplies, according to the working in due measure of each several part, causes the growth of the body unto the building up of itself in love.
[4:17] (5:1) This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye no longer walk as the Gentiles also walk, in the vanity of their mind,
[4:18] (5:2) being darkened in their understanding, alienated from the life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the hardening of their heart;
[4:19] (5:3) who being past feeling gave themselves up to lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.
[4:20] (5:4) But ye did not so learn of the Good One;
[4:21] (5:5) if indeed ye heard him, and were taught in him, even as truth is in Jesus:
[4:22] (5:6) that ye put away, as concerning your former manner of life, the old man, that waxes corrupt after the lusts of deceit;
[4:23] (5:7) and that ye be renewed in the spirit of your mind,
[4:24] (5:8) and put on the new man, that after God hath been created in righteousness and holiness of truth.
[4:25] (5:9) Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor[dd]: for we are members one of another.
[4:26] (5:10) Be ye angry and sin not, let not the sun go down upon your wrath[ee], [4:27] (5:11) nor give place to the adversary.
[4:28] (5:12) Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing that is good, that he may have something to give to him that hath need.
[4:29] (5:13) Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth, but such as is good for edifying as the need may be, that it may give grace to them that hear.
[4:30] (5:14) And grieve not the spirit, the holy one of God, in whom ye were sealed unto the day of redemption.

---

dd Against Marcion 5:18(35).
ee Against Marcion 5:18(36).

[4:31] (5:15) Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and railing, be put away from you, with all malice:

[4:32] (5:16) and be ye good one to another, tenderhearted, dealing graciously among each other, even as god also in the Good One deals graciously with you.

[5:1] (5:17) Be ye therefore imitators of god in the Good One, as beloved children;

[5:2] (5:18) and walk in love, even as the Good One also loved you, and gave himself up for us, 'an offering and a sacrifice' to god for 'an odor of a sweet smell'.[ff]

[5:3] (5:19) But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not even be named among you, as is proper among saints;

[5:4] (5:20) nor filthiness, nor foolish talking, or jesting, which are not befitting: but rather giving of thanks.

[5:5] (5:21) For this ye know of a surety, that no fornicator, nor unclean person, nor covetous person, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of the Good One and god.

[5:6] (5:22) Let no one deceive you with empty words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of god upon those in obstinate opposition to divine will.

[5:7] (5:23) Be not ye therefore partakers with them[gg];

[5:8] (5:24) For ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord: walk as children of light

[5:9] (5:25) (for the fruit of the light is in all goodness and righteousness and truth),

[5:10] (5:26) proving what is well-pleasing unto the Lord;

[5:11] (5:27) and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness[hh], but rather even reprove them;

[5:12] (5:28) for the things which are done by them in secret it is a shame even to speak of.

[5:13] (5:29) But all things when they are reproved are made manifest by the light: for everything that is made manifest is light.

---

ff Even though the god of this world is among the "wicked spiritual hosts in the heavens", yet he now "deals graciously" with those who are "in the Good One" because the offering of the Good One on the cross removed the debt that enslaved us to the creator. Now that our relationship to the creator-deity is debt-free we are able to "deal graciously" with him.

gg Righteous behavior is proper among saints, but a clear detachment is established, we who are "in the Good One" are not a part of the "kingdom of the god of this world", but merely subject ourselves to their rule to "deal graciously" with them. This is 'Kenosis', a Marcionite principle spelled out in Philippians 2:5-7, "Let this disposition be in you, which was also in the Good One Jesus: who being inherently in the form of a god, considered being equal with god not something to hold unto, but emptied [kenosis (Greek)] himself, taking on the form of a slave ... etc". It must also be remembered that Jesus is now, "the head of all archons and spiritual-sovereigns" (Colossians 2:10). Therefore, as long as one is "in the Good One", the god of this world is a subject within the kingdom of Jesus. This is why the verse puts 'the Good One' first before 'god' in the phrase "the kingdom of the Good One and god". However, if someone is in obstinate opposition to divine will by subjecting oneself to the creator-deity alone and his law instead of subjecting to Jesus the Good One, then such is separated from the Good One and left to the wrath of the creator-deity.

hh Against Marcion 5:18(37).

[5:14] (5:30) Wherefore the saying, "Awake, you sleeper, and arise from the dead, and the Good One shall give you light"[ii].
[5:15] (5:31) Look therefore carefully how ye walk, not as unwise, but as wise;
[5:16] (5:32) redeeming the time, because the days are evil.
[5:17] (5:33) Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is.
[5:18] (5:34) And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot[jj], but be filled with the spirit;
[5:19] (5:35) speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord[kk];
[5:20] (5:36) giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus the Good One to him who is GOD, even the Father.
[5:21] (5:37) Subject yourselves one to another in the fear of the Good One.
[5:22] (5:38) Wives ought to be in subjection to their husbands[ll], as unto the Lord.
[5:23] (5:39) For the husband is the head of the wife[mm], even as the Good One is the head of the church[nn], being himself the savior of the body.
[5:24] (5:40) But as the church is subject to the Good One, so let the wives also be to their husbands in everything.
[5:25] (5:41) Husbands, love your wives, (for he who loves his wife, loves his own flesh), even as the Good One loved the church[oo], and gave himself up for it;
[5:26] (5:42) that he might sanctify it, having cleansed it by the washing of water with the word,
[5:27] (5:43) that he might present the church to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.
[5:28] (5:44) Even so ought husbands also to love their own wives as their own bodies. He who loves his own wife loves himself:
[5:29] (5:45) for no one ever hated his own flesh; but nourishes and cherishes it, even as the Lord also does the church.
[5:30] <>

---

ii Panarion 42:11:8(2(37)).
jj Against Marcion 5:18(38).
kk Against Marcion 5:18(39).
ll Against Marcion 5:18(40).
mm Against Marcion 5:18(41).
nn Against Marcion 5:18(42).
oo Against Marcion 5:18(43).

[5:31] (5:46) Corresponding to her[pp] shall a man leave his father and his mother, and they two shall be one flesh.

[5:32] (5:47) This mystery is great: But I am speaking, of the Good One and the church[qq].

[5:33] (5:48) Nevertheless do ye also severally love each one his own wife even as himself; and let the wife see that she fear her husband.

[6:1] (5:49) Children should obey their parents[rr] in the Lord: for this is right.

[6:2] (5:50) Honor thy father and mother <>[ss],

[6:3] (5:51) that it may be well with you, and you may live long on the earth.

[6:4] (5:52) And, ye Parents, <> bring up your children in the discipline and instruction of the Lord[tt].

[6:5] (5:53) Servants, be obedient unto them that according to the flesh are your masters, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto the Good One;

[6:6] (5:54) not in the way of eye service, as person-pleasers; but as servants of the Good One, doing the will of God from the heart;

[6:7] (5:55) with good will doing service, as unto the Lord, and not unto men:

[6:8] (5:56) knowing that whatsoever good thing each one doeth, the same shall he receive again from the Lord, whether he be bond or free.

[6:9] (5:57) And, ye masters, do the same things unto them, and forbear threatening: knowing that he who is both their Master and yours is in the heavens, and there is no respect of persons with him.

[6:10] (6:1) Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of his might.

[6:11] (6:2) Put on the whole armor of God, that we may be able to stand against the wiles of the adversary[uu].

[6:12] (6:3) For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against the archons and spiritual-sovereigns, against the system-holders of the darkness of this aeon, against the wicked spiritual hosts in the heavens[vv].

[6:13] (6:4) Wherefore take up the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and, having done all, to stand.

---

pp "Her", (rather than "this") feminine in the Apostolicon; so as to refer to the church.

qq Against Marcion 5:18(44-46), Panarion 42:11:8(3(38)).

rr Against Marcion 5:18(47).

ss Against Marcion 5:18(48).

tt Against Marcion 5:18(49).

uu Against Marcion 5:18(51).

vv Against Marcion 5:18(50, 52, 54).

[6:14] (6:5) Stand therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,
[6:15] (6:6) and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace;
[6:16] (6:7) withal taking up the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the evil one.
[6:17] (6:8) And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God:
[6:18] (6:9) with all prayer and supplication praying at all seasons in the spirit, and watching thereunto in all perseverance and supplication for all the saints,
[6:19] (6:10) And on my behalf, that utterance may be given unto me in opening my mouth, making known the mystery of the gospel,
[6:20] (6:11) for which I am an ambassador in chains[ww]; that in it I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.
[6:21] (6:12) But that ye also may know my affairs, how I do, Tychicus, the beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things:
[6:22] (6:13) whom I have sent unto you for this very purpose, that ye may know our state, and that he may comfort your hearts.
[6:23] (6:14) Peace be to the brethren, and love with faith, from GOD the Father and the Lord Jesus the Good One.
[6:24] (6:15) Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus the Good One with a love incorruptible.

WW Against Marcion 5:18(55-56).

Book Seven of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Laodiceans by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Book Eight of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Paul

To the Colossians

Table of Contents

Preface....4
What is the Apostolicon?....4
Reconstructing and Translating....5
Sources....7
Color Codes....7
The Creation Hymn Interpolation....8
The Marcionite Prologue....9
To the Colossians....9

Special Acknowledgement

I would like to express my gratitude to Melissa Cutler, my friend and colleague, who made it possible to complete this work! Without her assistance I do not believe that I could have acquired the expertise needed to finish this much needed reconstruction of the Pauline scriptures!

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture; compiled by Marcion of Sinope[a]; and, according to one tradition, delivered by him to John the Apostle. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle Paul as follows:

1. Galatians
2. Corinthians
3. Corinthians (2)
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (2)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is a gospel narrative carefully compiled by Marcion from only the most reliable sources available in his day (about 110 to 145 AD). It was considered, by the adherents of the Marcionite faith, to be equivalent to "The Gospel of Paul" (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, Thessalonians 1:5, Thessalonians (2) 2:14). It was from about 170 to 180 AD that the Catholic Church wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[b]. For the "Gospel of Luke", the Evangelicon was used as the primary source for its writing.

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, the Apostolicon (in Latin and Greek) was quoted extensively by early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the books of the Catholic scriptures the Apostolicon can be reconstructed.

---

a Without Marcion, there likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul.

b For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

Potential interpolations

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[c]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.
- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

Confirmed interpolations

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations remain, but are marked in red.

How quotes are incorporated into the Apostolicon

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

c Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

Strong implication

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied in the Greek, but that implication becomes weak when translated into English, a few words are added to the translation in order to strengthen the implication in English. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

Estimation of lost text

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. All words added for an estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

Special words

Where it can be determined that "God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, when there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Where it can be determined that "Christ" refers to Jesus, "the Good One" is used. Evidence suggests that "chrestos", meaning "the good one", was changed to "christos", meaning "the messiah", by copyists.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following sources:

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapter 19;
2. "Panarion" by Epiphanius of Salamis, book 42, passage 11, verse 8;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Light Green – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for some unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

The Creation Hymn Interpolation

Once removed, the Creation Hymn Interpolation appears as: "The Word (mentioned by Tertullian in connection with this verse, Against Marcion 5:19(8) "if He is not the Word of the Creator?") came forth before every creation; for by him were all things created, in the heavens and upon the earth, the visible and the invisible, all things have been created through him, and unto him; and in him all things consist". It is as Tertullian sarcastically admitted: Against Marcion 5:19(12) "our false apostles and Judaizing gospellers have introduced all these things out of [our] own stores".

This is a reconstruction and estimation of the original text: "[1:15] who is the image of the invisible GOD. [The creator-deities] came forth before every creation; [1:16] whether thrones or dominions or archons or spiritual-sovereigns; [1:17] and he is before all of these creator-deities." The explanation for this reconstruction and estimation is as follows: We know that "The Creation Hymn" was an interpolation; it is therefore reasonable to assume that once this interpolation is removed both the text in Colossians and the interpolation could each stand alone and make sense. This is so with one exception, the phrase: "whether thrones or dominions or archons or spiritual-sovereigns", once the two are separated, do not fit well into either. What is believed is that some part of the original text was so unacceptable to the Catholic redactors that it had to be removed completely; then to fill the void and reinforce Catholic dogma, the Creation Hymn was inserted.

The lost text can be correctly estimated if all these conditions remain true:

1. It must maintain the same context established both before and after, which context is that Jesus is "before all" and preeminent.
2. The missing text had something to do with the creation. This is why the Catholic redactors used an interpolation about creation.
3. The phrase, "whether thrones or dominions or archons or spiritual-sovereigns" must fit in somewhere.
4. Tertullian's comments about these verses (Against Marcion 5:19(5), 5:19(11)) must still be applicable.

All these conditions can be meant if the aim of the missing text was to say that the "thrones or dominions or archons or spiritual-sovereigns" were the creators (rather than Jesus), but Jesus was even before them.

"Blessed is he that condemns not himself in that thing which he allows!"
Romans 14:22

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Colossians

The Marcionite Prologue[d]

Colossians, these also like the Laodiceans, are of Asia; and likewise they had been reached beforehand by false apostles. The apostle himself did not come to them either; but these also by a letter he corrects. For they had heard the word from Archippus; who also accepted a ministry unto them. Therefore the apostle, already in custody, writes to them from Ephesus.

To the Colossians

[1:1] Paul, an apostle of the Good One Jesus through the will of GOD, and Timothy our brother,
[1:2] To the saints and faithful brethren in the Good One that are at Colossae: Grace to you and peace from GOD our Father.
[1:3] We give thanks to GOD the Father of our Lord Jesus the Good One, praying always for you,
[1:4] having heard of your faith in the Good One Jesus, and of the love which ye have for all the saints,
[1:5] because of the hope laid up for you in the heavens, which ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel,
[1:6] which is come unto you; as it is also in all the world[e] bearing fruit and increasing, as it has been doing in you also, since the day ye heard and understood the grace of GOD in truth;
[1:7] even as ye were taught of Epaphras our beloved fellow-servant, who is a faithful minister of the Good One on our behalf,
[1:8] who also declared unto us your love in the spirit.
[1:9] For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray and make request for you, that ye may be filled with the knowledge of His will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding,
[1:10] to walk in a manner worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, bearing fruit in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God;
[1:11] strengthened with all power, according to the might of His glory, unto all patience and longsuffering with joy;

d The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin.

e Against Marcion 5:19(1).

[1:12] giving thanks unto the Father, who qualified us to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light;

[1:13] who delivered us out of the jurisdiction of darkness[f], and translated us into the kingdom of the son of His love;

[1:14] in whom we have our redemption, the forgiveness of our sins:

[1:15] who is the image of the invisible GOD[g]. [The creator-deities][h] came forth before every creation[i];

[1:16] <>[j] whether thrones or dominions or archons or spiritual-sovereigns[k];

[1:17] he is before all of these[l] creator-deities. <>[m]

[1:18] And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all he might have the preeminence.

[1:19] For in him all the fullness was pleased to dwell[n];

[1:20] and through him to reconcile all, by himself, having made peace through the blood of his cross[o]; <>[p] f Jurisdiction of darkness = jurisdiction of Jehovah and the archons.

---

g Against Marcion 5:19(2).

h Against Marcion 5:19(4), "If Christ is not "the first-begotten before every creature"", Against Marcion 5:19(7), "if He is not "the first-born of every creature"". Tertullian, the source for the confirmation of this part of the interpolation, did not say that the phrase "the first-born of every creature" was not in the Apostolicon, but only that "Christ" is not the one who is referred to as being "the first-born of every creature". From the context of what is in the Apostolicon, it is reasonable to estimate that it was the "thrones, dominions, archons, and spiritual-sovereigns" that the Apostolicon said were "the first-born of every creature". In order to keep the estimation as brief as possible the phrase "[The creator-deities]" is inserted.

i "Came forth before every creation" is a different rendering from the Greek rather than using "the first-born of every creature".

j Against Marcion 5:19(5), "if "all things were" not "in Him created, whether in heaven or on earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones or dominions, or principalities [archons], or powers [spiritual-sovereigns]"; if "all things were" not "created by Him and for Him" (for these truths Marcion ought not to allow concerning Him)", Against Marcion 5:19(11), "Marcion has removed from it, -even those that were "created in Christ, whether in heaven or on earth," whether angels or men? which is not made of the things that are visible and invisible? which consists not of thrones and dominions and principalities [archons] and powers [spiritual-sovereigns]?"

k Parenthetical within the interpolation and therefore considered to be genuine text in the Apostolicon.

l Against Marcion 5:19(6), "The apostle could not have so positively laid it down, that "He is before all." (Ante omnes). For how is He before all, if He is not before all things?". "All" (omnes), in the Apostolicon, was changed to "all" (omnia), presumably by Catholic redactors. "All" (omnes) (depending on the context) could mean "all persons", whereas "all" (omnia) (regardless of the context) could not mean "all persons". It is contended that "all" (omnes) originally referred to all "the thrones, dominions, archons, and spiritual-sovereigns".

m The phrase "and in him all things consist" was not referred to by Tertullian, but is considered part of the interpolation because it fits best in the context of the interpolation rather than the context of the Colossians original text.

n Against Marcion 5:19(10).

o Against Marcion 5:19(14).

p Against Marcion 5:19(11), "Marcion has removed from it,-even those that were "created in Christ, whether in heaven or on earth," whether angels or men? which is not made of the things that are visible and invisible? which consists not of thrones and dominions and principalities [archons] and powers [spiritual-sovereigns]?".

[1:21] And although you, who were sometime alienated and enemies in your mind by wicked works[q],
[1:22] yet now he has reconciled in his body <>[r] through death, to present you holy and without blemish and beyond reproach before him:
[1:23] if indeed ye continue in the faith, grounded and steadfast, and not moved away from the hope of the gospel which ye heard, which was preached in all creation under heaven; whereof I Paul was made a minister.
[1:24] Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, which fills up that which is lacking of the afflictions of the Good One in his flesh[s] for his body's sake, which is the church[t];
[1:25] whereof I was made a minister, according to the dispensation of God which was given me toward you, to complete the canon of the word of God[u],
[1:26] even the mystery which has been hidden from the aeons and the generations: but now has it been manifested to His saints,
[1:27] to whom GOD was pleased to make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles, which is the Good One in you, the hope of glory:
[1:28] whom we proclaim, admonishing everyone and teaching everyone in all wisdom, that we may present everyone perfect in the Good One;
[1:29] for this purpose I labor also, striving according to his working, which works in me mightily.
[2:1] For I would have you know how greatly I strive for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;
[2:2] that their hearts may be comforted, they having been knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, that they may know the mystery of GOD, even the Good One,
[2:3] in whom are all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden.
[2:4] This I say, that no one may delude you with persuasiveness of speech.

---

q Against Marcion 5:19(16).

r Against Marcion 5:19(19), "reconciled in His body through death", verse quoted by Tertullian without the words "of his flesh".

s Comment: The "flesh" of the Good One here refers to the flesh of Paul, a member of the body of the Good One, which is the church.

t Against Marcion 5:19(17).

u Literally: "To fill completely full the word of God". Only the writings of Paul were referred to in scripture as scripture or as the word of God (1st Corinthians 14:36, 1st Thessalonians 2:13, see also: 2nd Peter 3:16).

[2:5] For though I am absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, rejoicing to behold your order, and the steadfastness of your faith in the Good One.

[2:6] As therefore ye received the Good One Jesus the Lord, so walk in him,

[2:7] rooted and built up in him, and established in your faith, even as ye were taught, abounding in thanksgiving.

[2:8] Take heed lest there shall be any one that takes you captive through subtle words and philosophy, even vain deceit, after the tradition of men, and the rudiments of the world[v], and not after the Good One:

[2:9] for in him dwells all the fullness of the deity[w] in bodily form,

[2:10] and in him ye are made complete, who is the head of all archons and spiritual-sovereigns:

[2:11] in whom ye were also circumcised with a circumcision not made with hands, in the stripping off of the whole body of the flesh[x], in the circumcision of the Good One;

[2:12] having been buried with him in baptism, wherein ye were also raised with him through faith in the working of God, who raised him out from among the dead.[y]

[2:13] And you, being dead through your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, did he make alive together with the Good One, forgiving us our trespasses[z];

[2:14] having blotted out the bond written in ordinances that where against us, which where contrary to us: and he has taken them out of the way, nailing them to the cross;

[2:15] having despoiled the archons and spiritual-sovereigns, he made a show of them openly, triumphing over them in it.

[2:16] Let no one therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of a holy day, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath,

[2:17] which things are shadows of the things to come. But now the body is the Good One's[aa][bb].

---

v Against Marcion 5:19(20).

w "Deity" probably refers to the archons as indicated in verse 10.

x Ritual castration (spiritual circumcision), which precedes the resurrection rite (baptism).

y "Who raised him out from the dead". This is a good example of how a translator's bias effects the translation. Many translations leave the word "out" ([ek] –Greek) out. But the resurrection is not the resurrection of the flesh, but a rising-up spiritually leaving the dead flesh behind.

z Against Marcion 5:19(26).

aa Against Marcion 5:19(27), Panarion 42:11:8(1(39)).

bb Comment: "Things (plural) to come", not the body (singular) of the Good One (which is light and therefore, cannot cast a shadow!). These "shadows", are "the jurisdiction[s] of darkness" (vs. 1:13), which includes the jurisdiction of Jehovah, that is, the jurisdictions of the archons (of which Jehovah is one).

[2:18] Let no one rob you of your prize by voluntary asceticism and worshiping of the angels[cc], presuming upon that which he has not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind,

[2:19] and not holding the head, from whom all the body, being supplied and knit together through the joints and bands, increasing with the increase of God.

[2:20] If ye died with the Good One from the rudiments of this worldly system, why, as though living in the world, do ye subject yourselves to ordinances?

[2:21] Handle not, you must not touch, you must not taste,

[2:22] (all which things are to perish with the using), following the commandments and doctrines of men.[dd]

[2:23] Which things have indeed a show of wisdom in self-made religion, and asceticism, and severity to the body; but are not of any value as a remedy for sensual indulgence of the flesh.

[3:1] If then ye were raised together with the Good One, seek the things that are above, where the Good One is, seated on the right hand of God.

[3:2] Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth.

[3:3] For ye died, and your life is hid with the Good One in god.

[3:4] When the Good One, who is our life, shall be manifested, then shall ye also with him, be manifested in glory.

[3:5] Put to death therefore your members which are upon the earth: fornication, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry;

[3:6] for which things' sake come the wrath of god upon the children of those in obstinate opposition to divine will:

[3:7] wherein ye also once walked, when ye lived in these things;

[3:8] but now do ye also put them all away: anger, wrath, malice, railing, and shameful speaking out of your mouth:

[3:9] lie not one to another; seeing that ye have put off the old man, with its doings,

[3:10] and putting on the new, which is being renewed unto knowledge, after the image of the One creating it:

[3:11] where there cannot be Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, bondman, freeman; but the Good One is all, and in all.

---

cc Comment: A "god" is anything that is worshiped; worshiping Jehovah makes him a god; even though he may only be an angel; or an archon (vs 15).

dd Verses 2:18-22. Against Marcion 5:19(28), 5:19(29), 5:19(30) ""you must not touch; you must not taste" -in a voluntary humility; (at the same time) "vainly puffed up in the fleshly mind; and not holding the Head;" . . . "as if it was at the suggestion of superstitious angels that he had enacted his prohibition of sundry aliments" . . . "following the commandments and doctrines of men;"".

[3:12] Put on therefore, as God's elect, holy and beloved, a heart of compassion, goodness, lowliness, meekness, longsuffering;
[3:13] forbearing one another, and forgiving each other, if anyone has a complaint against any; even as the Lord forgave you, so also do ye:
[3:14] And above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfectness.
[3:15] And let the peace of the Good One rule in your hearts, to which also ye were called in one body; and be ye thankful.
[3:16] Let the word of the Good One dwell in you richly; in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God.
[3:17] And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to GOD the Father through him.
[3:18] Wives, be in subjection to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord.
[3:19] Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them.
[3:20] Children, obey your parents in all things, for this is well-pleasing in the Lord.
[3:21] Fathers, provoke not your children, that they be not discouraged.
[3:22] Servants, obey in all things them that are your masters according to the flesh; not with eye-service, as people-pleasers,
[3:23] but in singleness of heart, fearing the Lord[ee]: whatsoever ye do, work heartily, as unto the Lord, and not unto men;
[3:24] knowing that from the Lord ye shall receive the recompense of the inheritance: ye serve the Lord the Good One.
[3:25] For he that does wrong shall receive again for the wrong that he has done: and there is no respect of persons.
[4:1] Masters, render unto your servants that which is just and equal; knowing that ye also have a master in the heavens.
[4:2] Continue steadfastly in prayer, watching therein with thanksgiving;
[4:3] withal praying for us also, that God may open unto us a door for the word, to speak the mystery of the Good One, for which I am also in bonds;
[4:4] that I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak.
[4:5] Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time.

---

ee "Fearing the Lord": Tertullian made mention that, "he [Marcion] refuses to say that He [GOD the Father] is an object to be feared" (Against Marcion 5:19(21)). "Lord's" are "feared", GOD the Father is never referred to as "Lord" in the Apostolicon, and He is not to be feared; whereas the Lord Jesus is feared. The god of this world may be feared as a courtesy by us who are invited guests in his kingdom, but the god of this world is not our "lord" either.

[4:6] Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer each one.

[4:7] All my affairs shall Tychicus make known unto you, the beloved brother and faithful minister and fellow-servant in the Lord:

[4:8] whom I have sent you for this very purpose, that ye may know our state, and that he may comfort your hearts;

[4:9] together with Onesimus, the faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They shall make known unto you all things that are done here.

[4:10] Aristarchus my fellow-prisoner sends you his greeting, and Mark[ff], the cousin of Barnabas (touching whom ye received commandments; if he come unto you, receive him),

[4:11] and Jesus (whom we call Justus), these only, out of the circumcision, are my fellow-workers unto the kingdom of god, men that have been a comfort unto me.

[4:12] Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant of the Good One Jesus, sends you his greeting, always striving for you in his prayers, that ye may stand perfect and fully assured in all the will of God.

[4:13] For I bear him witness, that he has much labor for you, and for them in Laodicea, and for them in Hierapolis.

[4:14] Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas salute you.

[4:15] Salute the brethren that are in Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the church that is in their house.

[4:16] And when this epistle has been read among you, cause that it be read also in the church of the Laodiceans; and that ye also read the epistle from Laodicea.

[4:17] And say to Archippus, Take heed to the ministry which you have received in the Lord, that you may fulfill it.

[4:18] The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand. Remember my bonds. Grace be with you.

---

ff Perhaps a reference to Marcion.

Book Eight of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Colossians by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Book Nine of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Paul

To Philemon

Table of Contents

Preface....3
What is the Apostolicon?....3
Reconstructing and Translating....4
Sources....6
Color Codes....6
A Play on Words and Women in the Church....7
The Marcionite Prologue....8 To Philemon....8

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture; compiled by Marcion of Sinope[a]; and, according to one tradition, delivered by him to John the Apostle. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle Paul as follows:

1. Galatians
2. Corinthians
3. Corinthians (2)
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (2)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is a gospel narrative carefully compiled by Marcion from only the most reliable sources available in his day (about 110 to 145 AD). It was considered, by the adherents of the Marcionite faith, to be equivalent to "The Gospel of Paul" (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, Thessalonians 1:5, Thessalonians (2) 2:14). It was from about 170 to 180 AD that the Catholic Church wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[b]. For the "Gospel of Luke", the Evangelicon was used as the primary source for its writing.

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, the Apostolicon (in Latin and Greek) was quoted extensively by early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the books of the Catholic scriptures the Apostolicon can be reconstructed.

---

a Without Marcion, there likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul.

b For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

Potential interpolations

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[c]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.
- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

Confirmed interpolations

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations remain, but are marked in red.

How quotes are incorporated into the Apostolicon

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

c Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

Strong implication

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied in the Greek, but that implication becomes weak when translated into English, a few words are added to the translation in order to strengthen the implication in English. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

Estimation of lost text

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. All words added for an estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

Special words

Where it can be determined that "God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, when there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Where it can be determined that "Christ" refers to Jesus, "the Good One" is used. Evidence suggests that "chrestos", meaning "the good one", was changed to "christos", meaning "the messiah", by copyists.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following source(s):

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapter 21;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Light Green – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for some unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

A Play on Words and Women in the Church

There are apparently no interpolations in Philemon. Tertullian said, "To this epistle alone did its brevity avail to protect it against the falsifying hands of Marcion" (Against Marcion 5:21); which, of course, means that the Catholic redactors decided to leave this one alone. It is, however, still assumed that each occurrence of 'Christ' was 'Chrest' (meaning "the Good One") in the original Apostolicon. This assumption opens up a nice play on words in verse 6, "in the knowledge of every good thing coming through you, from the Good One", not unlike the play on words with Onesimus in verses 10 and 11.

It is noteworthy that 'sister Apphia', a woman, is addressed as equals in the greeting to Philemon, Apphia, and Archippus, which is then immediately followed by "and to the church in your house". The implication is that sister Apphia was a leader of the church. Epiphanius said, "They [the Marcionites] even permit women to administer baptism!" (Panarion 42:4:5). Considering how immense the rite of baptism is in the Marcionite faith the significance of allowing women to perform the rite cannot be underestimated. Baptism is referred to as the "resurrection rite" and those who undergo this rite are considered to have already attained to the resurrection! Early accounts of Paul depict him as one who considers Christian women equal with Christian men. One such account is the 'Acts of Paul and Thecla'. The following from page 25 of Waite's book, the 'History of the Christian Religion to the year Two Hundred':

One of the earliest Christian writings, was the Acts of Paul and Thecla. It was a sort of romance. Thecla, who was engaged to be married, had heard, from an upper window, Paul, preaching. She had fallen in love with him; had deserted her lover and relatives, and had followed Paul; had become a devoted Christian; had baptized; first baptizing herself. Then she worked miracles, became a saint, and finally a martyr. She was held in the highest veneration by the fathers. But the book gave implied sanction to the right of women to baptize. On that account it was declared heretical, and search was made for the author; an unusual proceeding in those days. It was traced to a presbyter of one of the eastern churches, who acknowledged he had written it "for the honor of Paul." He was tried for the offense, and being convicted, was deposed from the ministry (Tertullian, de Baptismo, ch. 17; Jerome. de Vir. 1. 7. Jerome states, erroneously, that Tertullian had said he was convicted before John).

"There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in the Good One Jesus."
Galatians 3:28

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To Philemon

The Marcionite Prologue[d]

To Philemon he sends a private letter for Onesimus his slave, and writes to him from Rome out of prison.

To Philemon

[1:1] Paul, a prisoner of the Good One Jesus, and brother Timothy, to Philemon our beloved and fellow-worker,
[1:2] and to sister Apphia[e], and to Archippus our fellow-soldier, and to the church in your house:
[1:3] Grace to you and peace from GOD our Father and the Lord Jesus the Good One.
[1:4] I thank my GOD always, making mention of you in my prayers,
[1:5] hearing of your love, and of the faith which you have toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all the saints;
[1:6] that the fellowship of your faith may become effectual, in the knowledge of every good thing coming through you, from the Good One[f].
[1:7] For I had much joy and comfort in your love, because the hearts of the saints have been refreshed through you, brother.

---

d The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin.

e Note that the Apostle also addresses the epistle to a woman. Sister Apphia is listed as equals in the greeting to Philemon, Apphia, and Archippus, which is then immediately followed by "and to the church in your house". Hence, the only implication in the greeting is that sister Apphia was one of the leaders of the church. In accord with this Marcion is said to have permitted women to assume prominent leadership positions. Epiphanius said, "They [the Marcionites] even permit women to administer baptism!" (Panarion 42:4:5). If you consider just how immense the rite of baptism is to the Marcionite faith the significance of allowing women to perform the rite cannot be underestimated. For the Marcionite faith baptism is supreme! It is referred to as the "resurrection rite" and those who undergo this rite are considered to have already attained to the resurrection out from the dead! Most Marcionite believers remain Catechumen most of their lives, waiting until their deathbed to be baptized. As the heavens are higher than the earth, baptism is a higher rite than marriage, so it is sacrilegious to partake of marriage after baptism. "Those who are considered worthy to attain to that age and the resurrection out from the dead [baptism], neither marry nor are given in marriage" (Luke 20:35).

f A play on words, "every good thing coming through you, from the Good One". This play on words would not be evident if the Greek word 'christos' (the anointed one) was not restored to the original 'chrestos' (the good one).

[1:8] Therefore, though I have all confidence in the Good One to command you to do what is proper,
[1:9] yet for love's sake I rather make an appeal, being such a one as Paul the aged[g], and now a prisoner also of the Good One Jesus:
[1:10] I appeal to you for my child, whom I have begotten in my bonds, Onesimus[h],
[1:11] who once was unprofitable to you, but now is profitable both to you and to me:
[1:12] whom I have sent back to you in person, with my very heart:
[1:13] whom I would wish to have kept with me, that on your behalf he might minister unto me in the bonds of the gospel:
[1:14] but I don't want to do anything without your consent; that your goodness should not be of necessity, but of free will.
[1:15] For perhaps he was for this reason separated from you for a season, that you should have him for ever more;
[1:16] no longer as a slave, but more than a slave, a beloved brother, especially to me, yet more so to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.
[1:17] If then you regard me a partner, receive him as you would me.
[1:18] But if he has in any way wronged you, or owes you anything, put that to my account;
[1:19] I put it in writing with my own hand, 'I Paul will repay it', (not mentioning how you even owe to me yourself as well).
[1:20] Yes, brother, let me have joy of you in the Lord: refresh my heart in the Good One.
[1:21] Having confidence in your obedience I write unto you, knowing that you will do even beyond what I say.
[1:22] But prepare me also lodging: for I hope that through your prayers I shall be given to you.
[1:23] Epaphras, my fellow-prisoner in the Good One Jesus, greets you;
[1:24] and so does Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, Luke, my fellow-workers.
[1:25] The grace of our Lord Jesus the Good One be with your spirit. Amen.

---

g Paul is an old man at the time of this letter.

h 'Onesimus', a common name for a slave, means 'profitable', hence a play on words: "Onesimus, who once was unprofitable to you, but now is profitable both to you and to me".

Book Nine of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To Philemon by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Book Ten of the Apostolicon
The Epistle
of the Apostle Paul

To the Philippians

Table of Contents

Preface....3
What is the Apostolicon?....3
Reconstructing and Translating....4
Sources....6
Color Codes....6
Marcionite Kenosis....7
The Marcionite Prologue....9
To the Philippians....9
Addendum....17
From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian:
A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of Philippians....17

Preface

What is the Apostolicon?

The Apostolicon (together with the Evangelicon) is the original canon of Christian scripture; compiled by Marcion of Sinope[a]; and, according to one tradition, delivered by him to John the Apostle. The Apostolicon contains ten epistles of the Apostle Paul as follows:

1. Alexandrians (Corinthians)
2. Alexandrians (2)
3. Galatians
4. Romans
5. Thessalonians
6. Thessalonians (2)
7. Laodiceans (Ephesians)
8. Colossians
9. Philemon
10. Philippians

The Evangelicon is a gospel narrative carefully compiled by Marcion from only the most reliable sources available in his day (about 110 to 145 AD). It was considered, by the adherents of the Marcionite faith, to be equivalent to "The Gospel of Paul" (Galatians 1:8-9, 1:11, 2:2, 2:7, Romans 2:16, Thessalonians 1:5, Thessalonians (2) 2:14). It was from about 170 to 180 AD that the Catholic Church wrote "The Four Gospels" (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John), using older gospels as source material[b]. For the "Gospel of Luke", the Evangelicon was used as the primary source for its writing.

The so-called epistles of Paul to Timothy and Titus are non-canonical works of the second century; apparently written in opposition to the Marcionite faith as they contain explicit anti-Marcionite theology.

There are no surviving manuscripts of the Apostolicon. However, the Apostolicon (in Latin and Greek) was quoted extensively by early Catholic Fathers. By careful examination of their quotes and their descriptions of the differences between the Apostolicon and the books of the Catholic scriptures the Apostolicon can be reconstructed.

---

a Without Marcion, there likely would not have been any surviving letters of Paul.

b For an examination considering the dating of The Four Gospels, see Charles Burlingame Waite's work, "The History of the Christian Religion, to the Year Two Hundred", particularly chapter 26.

Potential interpolations

Potential interpolations are identified by the characteristics described by Melissa Cutler[c]:

- They do not match the writing style of the original author. Sometimes this is so obvious that it can be seen even in an English translation of the text.
- They do not fit in with the original flow of thought – they often cause the text to jump abruptly to a new subject, and then back to the original subject when the interpolation ends, in a confusing and disjointed way.
- They do not fit in with the structure of the text – ancient documents had a logical structure with sections that introduced the topic, contained background information, and summarized the conclusions, etc. – Interpolations do not fit in with this structure, as the original author did not plan for them to be there.
- They disrupt the original text – sometimes sentences that were meant to refer back to something that had just been mentioned will be separated from it by the inserted text, so that they become confusing or meaningless. Sometimes interpolations were added mid-sentence, disrupting even the sentence structure.
- They often express ideas and opinions that contradict those of the original author.

Confirmed interpolations

Interpolations are "confirmed" if evidence can be found in a reconstruction source that the interpolation could not have been present in the Apostolicon. Confirmed interpolations are removed and unconfirmed interpolations remain, but are marked in red.

How quotes are incorporated into the Apostolicon

Where a reconstruction source has a quote from the Apostolicon, and it is determined that the quote is essentially the same as the text from a commonly accepted Greek manuscript, that Greek text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon; regardless of whether the quote is in Latin or Greek. In the case where the two are substantially the same, except for only one or two words, and unimportant verbal differences, the Greek with those words inserted into the text is considered to be the same as the Apostolicon. In the case where the quote is significantly different from any commonly accepted Greek manuscript a translation of the quote is incorporated directly into the reconstruction, this is then considered to be the same as the Apostolicon.

c Quotation from "Misogynistic Interpolations in the Letters of Paul": http://www.original-bible.com/Misogynistic-Interpolations-in-Paul.html .

Strong implication

Where a certain meaning is strongly implied in the Greek, but that implication becomes weak when translated into English, a few words are added to the translation in order to strengthen the implication in English. All words added to strengthen an implied meaning are italicized.

Estimation of lost text

In some cases where there are reasons to believe original text was completely removed, but a reasonable estimation of the lost text can be recreated, then, in as few words as possible, an estimation of the lost text is provided in the translation. All words added for an estimation of lost text are both italicized and [contained in square brackets].

Special words

Where it can be determined that "God" refers to the Father of Jesus, "GOD" (all capitals) is used. Where it can be determined that "God" does not refer to the Father of Jesus, "god" is used. Otherwise, when there is uncertainty, "God" is used. Where it can be determined that "Christ" refers to Jesus, "the Good One" is used. Evidence suggests that "chrestos", meaning "the good one", was changed to "christos", meaning "the messiah", by copyists.

Sources

This reconstruction is based on the following source(s):

1. "Against Marcion" by Tertullian, book 5, chapter 20;
2. "Panarion" by Epiphanius of Salamis, book 42, passage 11, verse 8;

I will also incorporate references to other sources if and when I become aware of them.

Color Codes

Light Green – Text unchanged as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Green – Text substantially the same, except for only one or two words and unimportant verbal differences, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Dark Green – Text different, original text restored, as confirmed by quotation or paraphrase in the reconstruction sources
Red - Unconfirmed interpolation

Because most of the text of the Apostolicon is in black, it may appear that there are large portions of the text with no information; however, keep in mind that Tertullian and Epiphanius focused there attention mainly on passages with important differences between the two versions. As a result, the passages for which we have no information are places where both versions of the text are likely to be the same.

Marcionite Kenosis

Kenosis is a Greek word for emptiness, which is used as a theological term. The ancient Greek word κένωσις kénōsis means an "emptying", from κενός kenós "empty". The word is mainly used, however, in a Christian theological context, for example Philippians 2:7, "Jesus made himself nothing (ἐκένωσε ekénōse) ..." (NIV) or "...he emptied himself..." (NRSV), using the verb form κενόω kenóō "to empty". See also Strong's G2758. (From: askdefine.com).

"Let this disposition be in you, which was also in the Good One Jesus: who being inherently in the form of a god, considered being equal with god not something to hold unto, but emptied himself, taking on the form of a slave, and was made in the likeness of human beings; and being found in a fashion like a human, he humbled himself, becoming obedient to the point of death: even the death of the cross" (Philippians 2:5-8).

Paul explains just how we can have this disposition in us by saying: "act out the salvation that is inherently yours with fear and trembling" (Philippians 2:12). In other words, Jesus has already given us salvation in him, but act as if you don't have it (an act of humility) by working out your salvation with fear and trembling. Paul, setting an example for us, does likewise as is explained in verses 10-15.

To understand the simplicity of what Paul said to the Philippians by saying that Jesus "emptied" (kenosis) himself; we must empty ourselves of the false assumption that this has anything to do with the Orthodox doctrine of the incarnation. To understand Marcionite Kenosis we must unlearn Orthodox Kenosis. All the genuine epistles of Paul are Marcionite, not Orthodox or Catholic. Trying to interpret Marcionite doctrine as if it were actually Catholic doctrine would be much like a Christian taking up the Koran of Islam and, treating it as scripture, trying to understand how doctrines taught therein agree with Christian doctrine.

Marcionite Kenosis is simply following the example of Jesus and Paul by not holding on with pride to what or who you are in the Good One, but instead holding an attitude of humility, serving others, and holding others in higher esteem than yourself. Jesus acted as if he was human, an act of humility, so he could serve us. Only by adding non-Pauline dogma into the picture does it become complicated.

Some Orthodox Christians, upon hearing that Marcionite Christians speak of Jesus 'acting as if' he were a human, though he was not, may make the accusation that this means that Jesus was a liar. Kenosis is humility, not deceit. Compare it to the Orthodox teaching with regard to the Eucharist. According to Catholic doctrine, the Eucharist is literally the body and blood of Jesus and it only appears to be bread and wine. This is an act of humility (not deceit) for Jesus to appear as if he is only bread and wine, though he is not bread and wine, say the Orthodox. You could call this 'the Kenosis of the Eucharist'. The real problem to understanding this is our own dogmatic hang-ups. The Orthodox cannot permit themselves to question their own dogma. Orthodox dogma is that Jesus was true God and true man; and since Paul is in the Orthodox canon of scripture they must also believe that Paul could not have taught that Jesus was neither God nor man!

Paul the Marcionite Apostle, speaking to the Marcionite faithful in Philippi, understood that Jesus was inherently much the same as "god", meaning the archon who is the god of this world and its creator. Jesus was inherently "the head of all archons and spiritual-sovereigns" (Colossians 2:10). Paul did not mean GOD the Father because the invisible GOD has no "form". Most references to "god" mean the archons who created the world because GOD the Father of Jesus cannot be known in any way except in Jesus the Good One.

Then Jesus humbled himself and was made "in the likeness" of human beings; and being found "in a fashion like" a human. If Paul meant that Jesus became an actual human being he would have said that. If Paul had said that Jesus was not god, an argument could be made that he didn't mean it because he was acting humble, but on the other hand, if Paul said that Jesus was not a man an argument could not be made that he didn't mean it based on Jesus acting humble! If Paul didn't mean that Jesus was "in a fashion like" a human, what it would really have to be is that Jesus wasn't even anywhere close to being a human! To say that Paul really meant that Jesus became completely and truly a human goes against the overall context (i.e. acting humble) and therefore this could not be the case. Only someone hopelessly entangled in the trap of his own dogmatic hang-ups could understand "in the likeness of human beings" and "in a fashion like a human" to mean to be exactly the same thing as an actual human being! There's no question about it, Paul was Docetic! This was the original orthodoxy established by the Marcionite Apostle Paul. And, there is no record of anyone opposing this original orthodoxy until near the end of the second century.

When the spirit of Jesus comes to dwell in our hearts by faith it is our flesh that becomes Jesus' body. We who are in the Good One have died on the cross, so that we may live, not in the body of the flesh nor according to the flesh, but in the body of the spirit; which life we now have in exchange for the flesh. This is how our Lord Jesus came down to connect with us. He is far more than just a friend; he lives inside us and we inside him!

"Are you so foolish? Having begun spiritually; are you now made perfect by the flesh?"
Galatians 3:3

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Philippians

The Marcionite Prologue[d]

Philippians are Macedonians. These accepted the word of truth and persisted in their faithfulness; nor did they receive false apostles. These the apostle praises; writing to them from Rome out of prison by Epaphroditus.

To the Philippians

[1:1] Paul and Timothy, servants of the Good One Jesus, to all the saints in the Good One Jesus that are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons:
[1:2] Grace to you and peace from GOD our Father and the Lord Jesus the Good One.
[1:3] I thank my GOD each time I remember you,
[1:4] always making my supplication with joy, in every prayer for you all;
[1:5] for your fellowship in furtherance of the gospel from the first day until now;
[1:6] being confident of this very thing, that he who began a good work in you, will complete it until the day of Jesus the Good One:
[1:7] For it is right for me to feel this way about you, because I have you in my heart, inasmuch as, both in my bonds and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are partakers with me of grace.
[1:8] For God is my witness: how I long for you all in the compassions of the Good One Jesus.
[1:9] And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all discernment;
[1:10] so that ye may approve the things that are good; that ye may be sincere and without offence 'til the day of the Good One;
[1:11] having been filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are through Jesus the Good One, unto the glory and praise of GOD.
[1:12] Now I would have you know, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have turned out rather unto the progress of the gospel;

d The "Marcionite" prologues are found in many ancient Latin Catholic biblical manuscripts. Surprisingly they were accepted by the Catholics, in spite of the fact that they complement the Marcionite interpretation of the letters. Many scholars believe that these prologues are of Marcionite origin.

[1:13] so that my bonds became manifest in the Good One throughout the whole praetorian guard, and to all the rest;
[1:14] that most of the brethren in the Lord, becoming confidant by my bonds, are more fearless in speaking the word <>[e].
[1:15] Some indeed preach the Good One even out of envy and strife; and again others out of the good reputation of the word[f]:
[1:16] the latter do it out of love[g], knowing that I am set for the defense of the gospel;
[1:17] but the former proclaim the Good One out of contention[h], not sincerely, thinking to be my rival[i] in my bonds.
[1:18] What then? Only that in every way, whether it be in pretence or in truth, the Good One is proclaimed[j]; and in this I am rejoicing, and shall rejoice.
[1:19] For I know that this shall turn out to my salvation, through your prayers and the supply of the spirit of Jesus the Good One,
[1:20] according to my earnest expectation and hope, that in nothing shall I be put to shame, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also the Good One shall be magnified in my body, whether by life, or by death.
[1:21] For to me to live in the Good One and to die is joy[k].
[1:22] But if to live in the flesh shall bear fruit from my work, then I do not know which to choose.
[1:23] I am pushed in two directions, having the desire to depart and be with the Good One; for this is far better for me:
[1:24] yet to abide in the flesh is more needful for your sake.
[1:25] And having this confidence, I know that I shall remain, and abide with you, for your progress and joy in the faith;
[1:26] so that your confidence may abound in the Good One Jesus in me through my presence with you again.
[1:27] Only be ye citizens, conducting yourselves in a manner worthy of the gospel of the Good One: so that, whether I come to see you or remain absent, I may hear of your state, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mindset striving for the faith of the gospel.
[1:28] And be not in any way terrified by your opponents: which is an evident token of destruction for them, but of you: salvation; and this from God.

---

e Against Marcion 5:20(1).

f "Out of good-will" (Against Marcion 5:20(1)), however Marcion understood "out of good-will" to mean "out of the good reputation of the word" ("Tertullian: Adversus Marcionem", Edited and translated by Ernest Evans 1972, Appendices 2 "Marcion's Treatment of the New Testament").

g Against Marcion 5:20(1).

h Against Marcion 5:20(1).

i Against Marcion 5:20(1).

j Against Marcion 5:20(2).

k "Tertullian: Adversus Marcionem", Edited and translated by Ernest Evans 1972, Appendices 2 "Marcion's Treatment of the New Testament".

[1:29] For unto you it has been graciously granted for the sake of the Good One, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for him:
[1:30] having the same conflict which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.
[2:1] If there is therefore any encouragement in the Good One, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the spirit, if any tender mercies and compassions,
[2:2] make full my joy, that ye be of the same disposition, having the same love, being of one accord, of one disposition;
[2:3] doing nothing through strife or vainglory, but in humility let each esteem the other to be better than one's self;
[2:4] looking out for nothing of your own, but each of you to that of others.
[2:5] Let this disposition be in you, which was also in the Good One Jesus:
[2:6] who being inherently in the form of a god[l], considered being equal with god not something to hold unto,
[2:7] but emptied[m] himself, taking on the form of a slave, and was made in the likeness of human beings;
[2:8] and being found in a fashion like a human[n], he <> became obedient to the point of death[o]: even the death of the cross[p].
[2:9] Wherefore God supremely exalted him, and gave him the supreme name which is above every name;
[2:10] that in the name of 'Jesus' every knee should bow: all who are in the heavens[q] and all who are on earth and all who are under the earth,
[2:11] and every tongue shall confess that Jesus the Good One is Lord, to the glory of GOD the Father.
[2:12] So then, my beloved, just as ye have always obeyed, not in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, act out the salvation that is inherently yours with fear and trembling;
[2:13] for it is god who acts through you both to will and to act, for his good pleasure.
[2:14] Do all things without murmurings and questionings:
[2:15] that ye may become blameless and harmless, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom ye are seen as lights in the world,

---

l i.e. an archon.
m Exhausit (Latin) kenosis (Greek)
n Against Marcion 5:20(4).
o Against Marcion 5:20(7).
p Against Marcion 5:20(8).
q "All who are in the heavens" = the archons – 'god' bows the knee to Jesus!

[2:16] holding forth the word of life; that I may have something to glory in the day of the Good One, that I did not run in vain neither labor in vain.

[2:17] But even if I am poured out upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I rejoice, and rejoice with you all:

[2:18] and in the same manner do ye also joy, and rejoice with me.

[2:19] But I hope in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy shortly unto you, that I also may be encouraged, when I know your state.

[2:20] For I have no one likeminded, who will truly care for your welfare.

[2:21] For they all seek their own, not the things of Jesus the Good One.

[2:22] But ye know the proof of him, that, as a child serves a father, so he served with me in the furtherance of the gospel.

[2:23] Him therefore I hope to send right away, as soon as I shall see how it will go with me:

[2:24] but I trust in the Lord that I myself also shall come shortly.

[2:25] Yet I deemed it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus, my brother and fellow-worker and fellow-soldier, and your messenger and minister to my need;

[2:26] since he longed after you all, and was sore troubled, because ye had heard that he was sick:

[2:27] for indeed he was sick near unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, that I might not have sorrow upon sorrow.

[2:28] I have sent him therefore the more earnestly, that, when ye see him again, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the more free of sorrow.

[2:29] Receive him therefore in the Lord with all joy; and hold such in honor:

[2:30] because for the work of the Good One he came close unto death, risking his life to supply that which was lacking in your service to me.

[3:1] For the rest, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you, to me indeed is not a problem, but for you it is a safeguard.

[3:2] Beware of the curs, beware of the evil workers, beware of the maimcision:

[3:3] for we are the ones who cut off the passions[r], who offer divine service spiritually to God, and glory in the Good One Jesus rather than placing confidence in the flesh[s]:

[3:4] though I myself might have confidence even in the flesh: <>

---

r Peritomē (Greek) by implication means: "the ones who cut off the passions".

s Against Marcion 5:20(9).

[3:5] circumcised[t] the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin[u], a Hebrew of the Hebrews[v]; <> a Pharisee[w];

[3:6] <>[x]

[3:7] (3:6) But those things which I had once accounted gain, are to me[y] loss[z] <>.

[3:8] (3:7) <>[aa] and I do count them but dung for the excellence of the knowledge of the Good One <>[bb],

[3:9] (3:8) <> not having a righteousness of mine own, which is of the law, but that which is through him<>, the righteousness which is of God <>[cc]:

[3:10] (3:9) that I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, becoming conformed unto his death;

[3:11] (3:10) if somehow I may attain unto the resurrection out from among the dead.

[3:12] (3:11) Not that I have already obtained, or have already been perfected: but I pursue and seek to hold on to what I also already do hold on to by the Good One Jesus[dd].

[3:13] (3:12) Brethren, I don't count myself yet to have laid hold: but one thing I do, forgetting the things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are ahead,

[3:14] (3:13) I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in the Good One Jesus.

[3:15] (3:14) Let us therefore, as many as are perfect[ee], be thus minded: and if in anything ye are otherwise minded, this also shall God reveal unto you:

---

t Against Marcion 5:20(9).

u Against Marcion 5:20(9).

v Against Marcion 5:20(9).

w Against Marcion 5:20(9).

x <"as touching zeal, persecuting the church; as touching the righteousness which is in the law, found blameless"> Not only is this interpolation confirmed because the confirmation source (Tertullian) quotes both before and after but leaves out the text in question, but it is also confirmed as an interpolation because at the place where Tertullian quoted verse 7 he referenced verse 5 as "the preceding verse": ""those things which he had once accounted gain," and which he enumerates in the preceding verse—"trust in the flesh," the sign of "circumcision," his origin as "an Hebrew of the Hebrews," his descent from "the tribe of Benjamin," his dignity in the honours of the Pharisee" (Against Marcion 5:20(9)).

y Against Marcion 5:20(9).

z Against Marcion 5:20(10).

aa The confirmation source (Tertullian) quotes both before and after but leaves out the text in question.

bb Against Marcion 5:20(11).

cc Tertullian makes mention of an argument used by Marcionites in regards to this verse: "according to this distinction [between the righteousness of the law and the righteousness of God] the law did not proceed from the God of Christ" (Against Marcion 5:20(12)).

dd This could be referred to as 'the kenosis of Paul'. Due to the context, it becomes clear that Paul had attained unto the resurrection (possibly meaning the resurrection rite or baptism). But Paul emptied himself of his resurrection by acting as if the resurrection was a goal yet to be attained.

ee The "perfect" refer to those who have attained unto the resurrection (or the resurrection rite).

[3:16] (3:15) only, unto what we have attained, by that same rule let us walk.

[3:17] (3:16) Brethren, be ye imitators together of me, and mark them that so walk even as ye have us for an example.

[3:18] (3:17) For many walk, of whom I told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of the Good One:

[3:19] (3:18) whose end is destruction, whose god is the belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.

[3:20] (3:19) For our citizenship is in the heavens[ff]; whence also we wait for a savior, the Lord Jesus the Good One:

[3:21] (3:20) who shall transfigure[gg] our humble body, to resemble his glorious body[hh], according to the working whereby he is able even to subject all things unto himself.

[4:1] Wherefore, my brethren beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my beloved.

[4:2] I exhort Euodia, and I exhort Syntyche, to be of the same mind in the Lord.

[4:3] And, I ask you also, true friend, help these women, for they labored with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and the rest of my fellow-workers, whose names are in the book of life.

[4:4] Rejoice in the Lord always: again I will say, Rejoice.

[4:5] Let your forbearance be known unto all men. The Lord is near.

[4:6] In nothing be anxious; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

[4:7] And the peace of God, which passes all understanding, shall guard your hearts and your thoughts in the Good One Jesus.

[4:8] For the rest, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good repute; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

[4:9] The things which ye both learned and received and heard and saw in me, these things do: and the God of peace shall be with you.

[4:10] But I rejoice in the Lord greatly, that now at length ye have revived your thought for me; wherein ye did indeed take thought, but ye lacked opportunity.

[4:11] Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content.

---

ff Against Marcion 5:20(14).

gg transfigurabit (Latin).

hh Against Marcion 5:20(16).

[4:12] I know how to be abased, and I know also how to abound: in everything and in all things have I learned the secret both to be filled and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want.
[4:13] I can do all things in him who strengthens me.
[4:14] Nevertheless ye did well that ye had fellowship with me in my affliction.
[4:15] And ye yourselves also know, ye Philippians, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church had fellowship with me in the matter of giving and receiving but ye only;
[4:16] for even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my need.
[4:17] Not that I seek for the gift; but I seek for the fruit that increases to your account.
[4:18] But I have all things, and abound: I am filled, having received from Epaphroditus the things that came from you; an odor of a sweet smell, a sacrifice acceptable, well-pleasing to God.
[4:19] And my God shall supply every need of yours according to his riches in glory in the Good One Jesus.
[4:20] Now unto our GOD and Father be the glory for ever and ever. Amen.
[4:21] Salute every saint in the Good One Jesus. The brethren that are with me salute you.
[4:22] All the saints salute you, especially they that are of Caesar's household.
[4:23] The grace of the Lord Jesus the Good One be with your spirit.

Book Ten of the Apostolicon The Epistle of the Apostle Paul To the Philippians by Adrian Cozad is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License.

Available Online at: http://Apostolicon.com/ .

Addendum

From "Against Marcion" by Tertullian: A numerical list of excerpts, with footnotes included, used for the reconstruction of Philippians

{1}"waxing confident by his bonds, were more fearless in speaking the word," while others "preached Christ even out of envy and strife, and again others out of good-will," many also "out of love," and certain "out of contention," and some "in rivalry to himself," {6096 Philippians 1:14-17}
{2}"whether it be in pretence or in truth that Christ is preached," {6099 Philippians 1:18}
{3}the majority of persons everywhere now-a-days are of our way of thinking, rather than on the heretical side
{4}"being in the form of God, He thought it not robbery to be equal with God; {6102 Compare the treatise, De Resur. Carnis, c. vi. (Oehler)} but emptied {6103 Exhausit ekenose} Himself, and took upon Him the form of a servant," not the reality, "and was made in the likeness of man," not a man, "and was found in fashion as a man," {6104 Philippians 2:6, 7}
{5}"the image of the invisible God." {6105 Colossians 1:15}
{6}as He was found to be God by His mighty power, so was He found to be man by reason of His flesh
{7}"become obedient unto death," {6108 Philippians 2:8}
{8}"even the death of the cross." {6109 Philippians 2:8}
{9}"those things which he had once accounted gain," and which he enumerates in the preceding verse—"trust in the flesh," the sign of "circumcision," his origin as "an Hebrew of the Hebrews," his descent from "the tribe of Benjamin," his dignity in the honours of the Pharisee {6113 Candidæ pharisaeæ: see Philippians 3:4-6}
{10}"loss" to himself; {6114 Philippians 3:7}
{11}"which he counts but dung for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ" {6115 Philippians 3:8}
{12}"whilst he has not his own righteousness, which is of the law, but that which is through Him," i.e. Christ, "the righteousness which is of God." {6116 Philippians 3:9} Then, say you, according to this distinction the law did not proceed from the God of Christ. Subtle enough!

{13}"Not (the righteousness) which is of the law, but that which is through Him," he would not have used the phrase through Him of any other than Him to whom the law belonged.
{14}"Our conversation," says he, "is in heaven." {6117 Philippians 3:20}
{15}"one star differeth from another star in glory." {6119 1 Corinthians 15:41}
{16}"shall change the body of our humiliation, that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body," {6120 Philippians 3:21. (I have adhered to the original Greek, by a trifling verbal change, because Tertullian's argument requires it.)}
{17}"We shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord (in the air)." {6123 1 Thess. iv. 16, 17}
{18}At 1: 15 Marcion translated, or interpreted, 'of goodwill' as if it meant 'by the good reputation of the word'
{19}At 1: 21 he read for to me to live in Christ and to die is joy.

ANTITHESIS

Contradictions Between the Old Testament Diety and the New Testament God.

O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and Contradictions [antithesis] of gnosis falsley so called.

- from the pseudo-Pauline epistle of I Timothy 6:20 (circ.150 C.E.).

This page represents a short exercise on my part (rather loose and by no means comprehensive)- the purpose of which is to provide a brief glimpse into Marcion's lost work, "Antithesis", which can be best described as a Marcionite commentary on the New Testament, which set forth contrasts on passages(via narrative commentary, or by the presentation of OT and NT scriptures side-by-side) between the Hebrew diety and the Alien God. It is not certain how this work was actually arranged, whether a separate work apart from Marcion's canon, or a commentary incorporated into it. For the first part of this exercise, an attempt is made here to extract and construct from Tertullian's hostile witness (Adversus Marcionem) a Marcionite narrative, so as to allow the marcionite voice to express its views on the following three subjects:
I. The Creator God and the Supreme God,
II. The Inconsistancies of the Creator God, and
III. The Two Christs.

For the second half of this exercise, a simple side-by-side presentation of OT and NT scriptures is given, which demonstrates the contradictions between the OT Creator God and the NT Supreme God. I must emphasize that this is a loose presentation, in that I have not confined myself to citing only passages which appeared in Marcion's canon, but have made free use of other canonical material as well. In any event, this will at least provide the reader a general idea of what Marcion's work "Antithesis" may have been like. For a further in-depth discussion on Marcion's "Antithesis", see Adolf Von Harnack's work, "Marcion: The Gospel of the Alien God" (pp.53-63; E.T. Labyrinth Press, 1990).

I. The Creator God and the Supreme God

For an evil tree bringeth forth not good fruit; neither does a good tree bring forth evil fruit. For every tree is known by his own fruit. Luke 6:43,44a

I am the Lord, and there is none else; I form the light, and create darkness; I make peace, and create evil...
Isaiah 45:6,7

I create evil - This god is the author of evil - there must be another God, after the analogy of the good tree producing its good fruit. In Christ is found a different disposition, one of a simple and pure benevolence - which differs from the Creator.
In Christ a new God is revealed.

The Creator God is judicial, harsh, and mighty in war.
The Supreme God is gentle and simply good and excellent.

The title "God" is a vague one, and applied to other Beings as well; as it is written, " He standeth in the congregation of the mighty"; "He judgeth among the gods" (Psalm 82:1,6), "Ye are gods". Thus as the attribute of supremacy would be inappropriate to these, although they be called gods, so it is to the Creator.

Jesus Christ and none else revealed a new God, who, in the Old world and in the Old time and under the Old God was unknown and unheard of ; Whom is accounted by no one through long centuries back, and ancient in men's very ignorance of Him - even in ancient names He was unknown and concealed. He had remained unknown by any works from the beginning. Even the Creator was unaware of the Supreme God being above himself, Who, although He did not manifest Himself from the beginning and by means of the creation, has yet revealed Himself in Christ Jesus.

To be sure, this world is a grand work, worthy of a god. Yet the Supreme God has a creation of His own, and His own world, and His own sky. One work is sufficient for our God: He has delivered man by His supreme and most excellent goodness, which is preferable to the creation of all the locusts. A primary and perfect goodness is shed voluntarily and freely upon strangers without any obligation of friendship, on the principle that we are bidden to love our enemies, who as such on that very account are strangers to us.

The Supreme God is susceptible to no feeling of rivalry, or anger, or damage, or injury . He inflicts no punishment and takes no offence, and is not feared, as a good being ought not to be an object of fear, as a judicial being, in whom resides the grounds for fear - anger, severity, judgements, vengence, and condemnation.

II. The Inconsistencies of the Creator God

The Creator God is inconsistent, in respect of persons, sometimes disapproving where approbation is deserved; or else lacking in foresight, bestowing approbation on men who ought rather be reprobated, as if he either censured his own past judgements, or could not forecast his future ones.

With fickleness and improvidence he repented, or on some recollection of some wrong-doing, because the Creator actually says "It repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king" (1 Samual 15:11), his repentence in the sense of an acknowledgement of some evil work or error. This is also the case in the matter of the Ninevites, when the Book of Jonah (3:10) states, "And God repented of the evil that he had said he would do unto them; and he did not."

The Creator called out to Adam, "Where art thou?" as if ignorant of where Adam was; and when Adam alleged that the shame of his nakedness was the reason for hiding himself, the Creator inquired whether he had eaten of the tree, as if he were in doubt (Genesis 3:9-11).

In the case of Sodom and Gomorrha, he says "I will go down now, to see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it which is come to me; and if not, I will know"; another instance of his uncertainty in ignorance.

The Creator God was even mean enough in his very fierceness, when, in his wrath against the people for their consecration of the golden calf, he makes this request to Moses: "Let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume them; and I will make thee a great nation" (Exodus 32:10). Moses is better than his God, as the deprecatur and indeed, the averter of his anger, "For Thou shalt not do this; or else destroy me along with them" (Exodus 32:32).

III. The Two Christs

The Christ who in the days of Tiberius was, by a previously unknown God, revealed for the salvation of all nations, is a different being from him who was ordained by the Creator God for the restoration of the Jewish state, and who is yet to come.

The Creator's Christ is to be a warrior, a bearer of arms, and mighty in war.
The Christ of the Good God, who has come, is a far different being from the Creator's Christ.

Isaiah's description of Christ in no point suits the Christ of the Good God. Isaiah's Christ is to be called Emmanuel (Isaiah 7:14); then, he takes the riches of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria against the king of Assyria (Isaiah 8:4). But yet, He who is come was neither born under such a name, nor ever engaged in such a war-like enterprise.

A Christ had come who had never been foreannounced, but the Christ predicted had not yet appeared. The Jews were themselves quite certain that it was some other who came; so they not only rejected Him as a stranger, but slew Him as an enemy, though they would have acknowledged Him, and with all religious devotion followed Him, if He had been one of them.

The difference between the two Christs, is that the Jewish Christ was ordained by the Creator for the restoration of the people alone from its dispersion, while our Christ was appointed by the supremely Good God for the liberation of the whole human race.
Who among the nations can turn to the Creator, when those whom the prophets name are proselytes of individually different and private conditions?

It is the Christ of the Other, Supreme God Who was driven to the cross by the hostile powers and authorities of the Creator. The suffering of the cross was not predicted of the Creator's Christ; moreover, it should not be believed that the Creator would expose his son to that kind of death on which he himself had pronounced a curse. "Cursed" says he, "is everyone who hangeth on a tree" (Deuteronomy 21:3, Galatians 3:13).

ANTITHESIS

The CREATOR GOD of this World	The GOOD GOD Revealed by Christ
And out of the ground the Lord Yahweh made every tree to grow...the tree of the knowledge of good and evil . Gen.2:9; 3:1ff.	"For a corrupt tree bringeth forth not good fruit; neither does a good tree bringeth forth corrupt fruit." Luke 6:43 ["Either make the tree good, and its fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and its fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by its fruit." Mt.12:33]
And the Lord Yahweh called unto Adam, and said unto him, "Where art thou?" Genesis 3:9	But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, He answering said unto them, "Why do you reason in your hearts?" Luke 5:22
Eye for an eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot... Exodus 21:24	And unto him that smiteth thee on the cheek offer also the other... Luke 6:29
And Elijah answered and said to the captain of fifty, "If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty". And there came down fire from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty. 2 Kings 1:9, 10	[Jesus' disciples] :"Lord, wilt Thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elijah did?" But He turned and rebuked them, and said, "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of ; for the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them" Luke 9:54,55
...there came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him [Elisha]...and [he] cursed them in the name of the Lord. And there came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and tare forty two children of them. 2 Kings 2:23,24	And they brought young children to Him...and His disciples rebuked those that brought them. But Jesus ...said unto them "Allow the little children to come to Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God." Mark 10:13,14
And if a woman have issue, and if her issue in her flesh be blood, she shall be put apart seven days; whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the even... and if a woman have an issue of her blood ...beyond the time of her separation, ...she shall be unclean. Leviticus 15:19,25	And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living on physicians, neither could be healed of any, came up behind [Jesus], and touched the border of His garment: and immediately her issue of blood ceased. Luke 8:43,44
When a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house. Deuteronomy 24:1	Whosoever divorces his wife, and marries another, commits adultery against her (Mk 10:11). Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, allowed you to put away your wives: but from the beginning this was not so. Matthew 19:8
Psalm 21:12 Therefore shalt thou make them turn their back, when thou shalt make ready thine arrows upon thy strings against the face of them (Psalm 21:12).Yea, he sent out his arrows, and scattered them; and he shot out lightnings, and discomfited them. (Psalm 18:4) Clouds and darkness are round about him... (97:2a) He sent darkness, and made it dark...(Psalm 105a).He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, wrath, and indignation, and trouble, by sending evil angels among them (Psalm 78:49).	Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that you may be able to withstand the evil one...taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery arrows of the wicked (Ephesians 6:16). For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this Aeon, against spiritual wickedness in high places Ephesians 6:12
I form light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil: I the Lord Yahweh do all these things (Isaiah 45:7). Do they not err that devise evil? (Proverbs 14:22a	God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all (1 John 1:5b) God is love (1 John 4:16); [Love] thinketh no evil (1 Corinthians 13:5d).
I the Lord your God am a jealous God (Exodus 20:5)....for the Lord, Whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God (Exodus 34:14).	Love knows no jealousy... 1 Corinthians 13:4
He is a Jealous God; He will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins. If you forsake the Lord, then He will turn and do you hurt, and consume you...(Joshua 24:13,14) For I the Lord God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the third and fourth generation	Love is never rude, never irritated, never resentful (1 Corinthians 13:5) Then came Peter to Him, and said, "Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Until seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I say not to you, until seven times: but , until seventy times seven."

of them that hate me (Exodus 20:5).

I am Yahweh, that is my name-And my glory to another will I not give... Isaiah 42:8

And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, Until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies...for the Lord fought for Israel.
Joshua 10:12-14

Thou hast ascended on high, Thou hast led captivity captive: Thou hast received tribute from men. Psalm 68:18

Matthew 18:23-22

And now, O Father, glorify Thou Me with thine own self with the glory I had with Thee before the world was. John 17:5

Be ye angry, yet not committing sin;
Let not the sun be going down upon your wrath.
Ephesians 4:26

Wherefore He saith, "When He ascended on high, He led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men."
Ephesians 4:8

© 1997 dmahar@snet.net

Adolf von Harnack

Adolf Harnack (1851-1930) was a German theologian, scholar and historian.

In some ways von Harnack was a critic of Christian traditions; he argued that all aspects of Christian history should be subjected to academic scrutiny. His work challenged many traditional Christian views, for example he argued that the Gospel of John contained no authentic information about the life of the historical Jesus. However, Harnack's critical approach to Christian history was much less radical than that of the Tübingen school, who challenged the very foundations of Christian faith.

The Tübingen school sought to explain the origin of Christianity in entirely naturalistic terms, and approach that has since become standard. Some see the work of Harnack as a reaction to this development; Harnack embraced the historical-critical method for interpreting the bible, and was very willing to challenge the authenticity of some biblical texts, whilst at the same time he defended key aspects of the traditional interpretation of Christian history, for example by arguing the the book of Acts was composed at an early date.

In 1920 he published a very thorough book on Marcion called Marcion, das Evangelium vom fremden Gott (Marcion and the Gospel of the Alien God), a work which is widely regarded as pivotal to the development of modern study of this subject.

The idea that the Marcionite version of the epistles of Paul pre-dated the conventional version did not fit in well with Harnack's view of history; he was firmly convinced that the epistles of Polycarp and Ignatius were genuine, and thus believed that Catholic copies of the epistles of Paul pre-dated Marcion. For this reason his reconstruction of the Marcionite bible was partly based on the view that Marcion removed from the documents many statements that contradicted Marcionite beliefs.

Online resources by Harnack:

Marcion, an extract from the History of Dogma
Part 1
Part 2

The English translation of Marcion and the Gospel of the Alien God is still under copyright, however the German text (which includes Harnack's reconstruction of the Marcionite Bible) has risen into the public domain, and is avalible at Archive.org:
Marcion Das Evangelium Vom Fremden Gott

Marcion

Adolf Von Harnack
History of Dogma,
vol. I (pp.266-281).
Translated by N. Buchanan.
Published by Boston, Little (1901).

MARCION'S ATTEMPT TO SET ASIDE THE OLD TESTAMENT FOUNDATION OF CHRISTIANITY, TO PURIFY TRADITION, AND TO REFORM CHRISTENDOM ON THE BASIS OF THE PAULINE GOSPEL.

MARCION cannot be numbered among the Gnostics in the strict sense of the word. 1 For (1) he was not guided by any speculatively scientific, or even by an apologetic, but by a soteriological interest. 2 (2) He therefore put all emphasis on faith, not on Gnosis. 3 (3) In the exposition of his ideas he neither applied the elements of any Semitic religious wisdom, nor the methods of the Greek philosophy of religion. 4 (4) He never made the distinction between an esoteric and an exoteric form of religion. He rather clung to the publicity of the preaching, and endeavoured to reform Christendom, in opposition to the attempts at founding schools for those who knew and mystery cults for such as were in quest of initiation. It was only after the failure of his attempts at reform that he founded churches of his own, in which brotherly equality, freedom from all ceremonies, and strict evangelical discipline were to rule. 5 Completely carried away with the novelty, uniqueness and grandeur of the Pauline Gospel of the grace of God in Christ, Marcion felt that all other conceptions of the Gospel, and especially its union with the Old Testament religion, was opposed to, and a backsliding from' the truth. 6 He accordingly supposed that it was necessary to make the sharp antitheses of Paul, law and gospel, wrath and grace, works and faith, flesh and spirit, sin and righteousness, death and life, that is the Pauline criticism of the Old Testament religion, the foundation of his religious views, and to refer them to two principles, the righteous and wrathful god of the Old Testament, who is at 'the same time identical with the creator of the world, and the God of the Gospel, quite unknown before Christ, who is only love and mercy. 7 This Paulinism in its religious strength, but without dialectic, without the Jewish Christian view of history, and detached from the soil of the Old Testament, was to him the true Christianity. Marcion, like Paul, felt that the religious' value of a statutory law with commandments and ceremonies, was very different from that of a uniform law of love. 8 Accordingly, he had a capacity for appreciating the Pauline idea of faith; it is to him reliance on the unmerited grace of God which is revealed in Christ. But Marcion shewed himself to be a Greek, influenced by the religious spirit of the time, by changing the ethical contrast of the good and legal into the contrast between the infinitely exalted spiritual and the sensible which is subject to the law of nature, by despairing of the triumph of good in the world and, consequently, correcting the traditional faith that the world and history belong to God, by an empirical view of the world and the course of events in it,9 a view to which he was no doubt also led by the severity of the early Christian estimate of the world. Yet to him systematic speculation about the final causes of the contrast actually observed, was by no means the main thing. So far as he himself ventured on such a speculation he seems to have been influenced by the Syrian Cerdo. The numerous contradictions which arise as soon as one attempts to reduce Marcion's propositions to a system, and the fact that his disciples tried all possible conceptions of the doctrine of principles, and defined the relation of the two Gods very differently, are the clearest proof that Marcion was a religious character, that he had in general nothing to do with principles, but with living beings whose power he felt, and thai what he ultimately saw in the Gospel was not an explanation of the world, but redemption from the world, 10--redemption from a world, which even in the best that it can offer, has nothing that can reach the height of the blessing bestowed in Christ. 11 Special attention may be called to the following particulars.

1. Marcion explained the Old Testament in its literal sense and rejected every allegorical interpretation. He recognised it as the revelation of the creator of the world and the god of the Jews, but placed it, just on that account, in sharpest contrast to the Gospel. He demonstrated the contradictions between the Old Testament and the Gospel in a voluminous work (the antithesis). 12 In the god of the former book he saw a being whose character was stern justice, and therefore anger, contentiousness and unmercifulness. The law which rules nature and man appeared to him to accord with the characteristics of this god and the kind of law revealed by him, and therefore it seemed credible to him that this god is the creator and lord of the world (kosmokratos). As the law which governs the world is inflexible, and yet, on the other hand, full of contradictions, just and again brutal, and as the law of the Old Testament exhibits the same features, so the god of creation was to Marcion a being who united in himself the whole gradations of attributes from justice to malevolence, from obstinacy to inconsistency. 13 Into this conception of the creator of the world, the charactenstic of which is that it cannot be systematised, could easily be fitted the Syrian Gnostic theory which regards him as an evil being, because he belongs to this world and to matter. Marcion did not accept it in principle, 14 but touched it lightly and adopted certain inferences. 15 On the basis of the Old Testament and of empirical observation, Marcion divided men into two classes, good and evil, though he regarded them all, body and soul, as creatures of the demiurge. The good are those who strive to fulfil the law of the demiurge. These are outwardly better than those who refuse him obedience. But the distinction found here is not the decisive one. To yield to the promptings of Divine grace is the only decisive distinction, and those just men will shew themselves less susceptible to the manifestation of the truly good than sinners. As Marcion held the Old Testament to be a book worthy of belief, though his disciple, Apelles, thought otherwise, he referred all its predictions to a Messiah whom the creator of the world is yet to send; and who, as a warlike hero, is to set up the earthly kingdom of the "just" God. 16

2.Marcion placed the good God of love in opposition to the creator of the world. 17 This God has only been revealed in Christ. He was absolutely unknown before Christ, 18 and men were in every respect strange to him. 19 Out of pure goodness and mercy, for these are the essential attributes of this God who judges not and is not wrathful, he espoused the cause of those beings who were foreign to him, as he could not bear to have them any longer tormented by their just and yet malevolent lord. 20 The God of love appeared in Christ and proclaimed a new kingdom (Tertull., adv. Marc. III. 24. fin.). Christ called to himself the weary and heavy laden, 21 and proclaimed to them that he would deliver them from the fetters of their lord and from the world. He shewed mercy to all while he sojourned on the earth, and did in every respect the opposite of what the creator of the world had done to men. They who believed in the creator of the world nailed him to the cross. But in doing so they were unconsciously serving his purpose, for his death was the price by which the God of love purchased men from the creator of the world. 22 He who places his hope in the Crucified can now be sure of escaping from the power of the creator of the world, and of being translated into the kingdom of the good God. But experience shews that, like the Jews, men who are virtuous according to the law of the creator of the world, do not allow themselves to be converted by Christ; it is rather sinners who accept his message of redemption. Christ, therefore, rescued from the underworld, not the righteous men of the Old Testament (Iren. I. 27. 3), but the sinners who were disobedient to the creator of the world. If the determining thought of Marcion's view of Christianity is here again very clearly shewn, the Gnostic woof cannot fail to be seen in the proposition that the good God delivers only the souls, not the bodies of believers. The antithesis of spirit and matter, appears here as the decisive one, and the good God of love becomes the God of the spirit, the Old Testament god the god of the flesh. In point of fact, Marcion seems to have given such a turn to the good God's attributes of love, and incapability of wrath, as to make Him the apathetic, infinitely exalted Being, free from all affections. The contradiction in which Marcion is here involved is evident, because he taught expressly that the spirit of man is in itself just as foreign to the good God as his body. But the strict asceticism which Marcion demanded as a Christian, could have had no motive, without the Greek assumption of a metaphysical contrast of flesh and Spirit, which in fact was also apparently the doctrine of Paul.

3.The relation in which Marcion placed the two Gods, appears at first sight to be one of equal rank.23 Marcion himself, according to the most reliable witnesses, expressly asserted that both were uncreated, eternal, etc. But if we look more closely we shall see that in Marcion's mind there can be no thought of equality. Not only did he himself expressly declare that the creator of the world is a self-contradictory being of limited knowledge and power, but the whole doctrine of redemption shews that he is a power subordinate to the good God. We need not stop to enquire about the details, but it is certain that the creator of the world formerly knew nothing of the existence of the good God, that he is in the end completely powerless against him, that he is overcome by him, and that history in its issue with regard to man, is determined solely by its relation to the good God. The just god appears at the end of history, not as an independent being, hostile to the good God, but as one subordinate to him, 24 so that some scholars, such as Neander, have attempted to claim for Marcion a doctrine of one principle, and to deny that he ever held the complete independence of the creator of the world, the creator of the world being simply an angel of the good God. This inference may certainly be drawn with little trouble, as the result of various considerations, but it is forbidden by reliable testimony. The characteristic of Marcion's teaching is just this, that as soon as we seek to raise his ideas from the sphere of practical considerations to that of a consistent theory, we come upon a tangled knot of contradictions. The theoretic contradictions are explained by the different interests which here cross each other in Marcion. In the first place, he was consciously dependent on the Pauline theology, and was resolved to defend everything which he held to be Pauline. Secondly, he was influenced by the contrast in which he saw the ethical powers involved. This contrast seemed to demand a metaphysical basis, and its actual solution seemed to forbid such a foundation. Finally, the theories of Gnosticism, the paradoxes of Paul, the recognition of the duty of strictly mortifying the flesh, suggested to Marcion the idea that the good God was the exalted God of the spirit, and the just god the god of the sensuous, of the flesh. This view, which involved the principle of a metaphysical dualism, had something very specious about it, and to its influence we must probably ascribe the fact that Marcion no longer attempted to derive the creator of the world from the good God. His disciples who had theoretical interests in the matter, no doubt noted the contradictions. In order to remove them, some of these disciples advanced to a doctrine of three principles, the good God, the just creator, of the world, the evil god, by conceiving the creator of the world sometimes as an independent being, sometimes as one dependent on the good God. Others reverted to the common dualism, God of the spirit and god of matter. But Apelles, the most important of Marcion's disciples, returned to the creed of the one God (mik arke), and conceived the creator of the world and Satan as his angels, without departing from the fundamental thought of the master, but rather following suggestions which he himself had given. 25 Apart from Apelles, who founded a Church of his own, we hear nothing of the controversies of disciples breaking up the Marcionite church. All those who lived in the faith for which the master had worked-viz., that the laws ruling in nature and history, as well as the course of common legality and righteousness, are the antitheses of the act of Divine mercy in Christ, and that cordial love and believing confidence have their proper contrasts in self-righteous pride and the natural religion of the heart, -those who rejected the Old Testament and clung solely to the Gospel proclaimed by Paul, and finally, those who considered that a strict mortification of the flesh and an earnest renunciation of the world were demanded in the name of the Gospel, felt themselves members of the same community, and to all appearance allowed perfect liberty to speculations about final causes.

4. Marcion had no interest in specially emphasising the distinction between the good God and Christ, which according to the Pauline Epistles, could not be denied. To him Christ is the manifestation of the good God himself. 26 But Marcion taught that Christ assumed absolutely nothing from the creation of the Demiurge, but came down from heaven in the I5th year of the Emperor Tiberius, and after the assumption of an apparent body, began his preaching in the synagogue of Capernaum. 27 This pronounced docetism which denies that Jesus was born, or subjected to any human process of development, 28 is the strongest expression of Marcion's abhorrence of the world. This aversion may have sprung from the severe attitude of the early Christians toward the world, but the inference which Marcion here draws, shews, that this feeling was, in his case, united with the Greek estimate of spirit and matter. But Marcion's docetism is all the more remarkable that, under Paul's guidance, he put a high value on the fact of Christ's death upon the cross. Here also is a glaring contradiction which his later disciples laboured to remove. This much, however, is unmistakable, that Marcion succeeded in placing the greatness and uniqueness of redemption through Christ in the clearest light and in beholding this redemption in the person of Christ, but chiefly in his death upon the cross.

5.Marcion's eschatology is also quite rudimentary. Yet he assumed with Paul that violent attacks were yet in store for the Church of the good God on the part of the Jewish Christ of the future, the Antichrist. He does not seem to have taught a visible return of Christ, but, in spite of the omnipotence and goodness of God, he did teach a twofold issue of history. The idea of a deliverance of all men, which seems to follow from his doctrine of boundless grace, was quite foreign to him. For this very reason, he could not help actually making the good God the judge, though in theory he rejected the idea, in order not to measure the will and acts of God by a human standard. Along with the fundamental proposition of Marcion, that God should be conceived only as goodness and grace, we must take into account the strict asceticism which he prescribed for the Christian communities, in order to see that that idea of God was not obtained from antinomianism. We know of no Christian community in the second century which insisted so strictly on renunciation of the world as the Marcionites. No union of the sexes was permitted. Those who were married had to separate ere they could be received by baptism into the community. The sternest precepts were laid down in the matter of food and drink. Martyrdom was enjoined; and from the fact that they were "palaipwoi kai misoumenoi" in the world, the members were to know that they were disciples of Christ. 29 With all that, the early Christian enthusiasm was wanting.

6. Marcion defined his position in theory and practice towards the prevailing form of Christianity, which, on the one hand, shewed throughout its connection with the Old Testament, and, on the other, left room for a secular ethical code, by assuming that it had been corrupted by Judaism, and therefore needed a reformation. 30 But he could not fail to note that this corruption was not of recent date, but belonged to the oldest tradition itself. The consciousness of this moved him to a historical criticism of the whole Christian tradition. 31 Marcion was the first Christian who undertook such a task. Those writings to which he owed his religious convictions, viz., the Pauline Epistles, furnished the basis for it. He found nothing in the rest of Christian literature that harmonised with the Gospel ot Paul. But he found in the Pauline Epistles hints which explained to him this result of his observations. The twelve Apostles whom Christ chose did not understand him, but regarded him as the Messiah of the god of creation. 32And therefore Christ inspired Paul by a special revelation, lest the Gospel of the grace of God should be lost through falsifications. 33 But even Paul had been understood only by few (by none?). His Gospel had also been misunderstood nay, his Epistles had been falsified in many passages, 34 in order to make them teach the identity of the god of creation and the God of redemption. A new reformation was therefore necessary. Marcion felt himself entrusted with this commission, and the church which he gathered recognised this vocation of his to be the reformer. 35 He did not appeal to a new revelation such as he presupposed for Paul. As the Pauline Epistles and an authentic "evangelion of the Lord" were in existence, it was only necessary to purify these from interpolations, and restore the genuine Paulinism which was just the Gospel itself. But it was also necessary to secure and preserve this true Christianity for the future. Marcion, in all probability, was the first to conceive and, in great measure, to realise the idea of placing Christendom on the firm foundation of a definite theory of what is Christian- but not of basing it on a theological doctrine- and of establishing this theory by a fixed collection of Christian writings with canonical authority. 36He was not a systematic thinker; but he was more, for he was not only a religious character, but at the same time a man with an organising talent, such as has no peer in the early Church. If we think of the lofty demands he made on Christians, and, on the other hand, ponder the results that accompanied his activity, we cannot fail to wonder. Wherever Christians were numerous about the year 160, there must have been Marcionite communities with the same fixed but free organisation, with the same canon and the same conception of the essence of Christianity, pre-eminent for the strictness of their morals and their joy in martyrdom. 37 The Catholic Church was then only in process of growth, and it was long ere it reached the solidity won by the Marcionite church through the activity of one man, who was animated by a faith so strong that he was able to oppose his conception of Christianity to all others as the only right one, and who did not shrink from making selections from tradition instead of explaining it away. He was the first who laid the firm foundation for establishing what is Christian, because, in view of the absoluteness of his faith, 38 he had no desire to appeal either to a secret evangelic tradition, or to prophecy, or to natural religion.

II. REMARKS and LITERATURE

Marcion

Adolf Von Harnack
History of Dogma, vol. I pp.281-286.
Published by Boston, Little,(1901)

Remarks. - The innovations of Marcion are unmistakable. The way in which he attempted to sever Christianity from the Old Testament was a bold stroke which demanded the sacrifice of the dearest possession of Christianity as a religion, viz., the belief that the God of creation is also the God of redemption. And yet this innovation was partly caused by a religious conviction, the origin of which must be sought not in heathenism, but on Old Testament and Christian soil. For the bold Anti-judaist was the disciple of a Jewish thinker, Paul, and the origin of Marcion's antinomianism may be ultimately found in the prophets. It will always be the glory of Marcion in the early history of the Church that he, the born heathen, could appreciate the religious criticism of the Old Testament religion as formerly exercised by Paul. The antinomianism of Marcion was ultimately based on the strength of his religious feeling, on his personal religion as contrasted with all statutory religion That was also its basis in the case of the prophets and of Paul, only the statutory religion which was felt to be a burden and a fetter was different in each case. As regards the prophets, it was the outer sacrificial worship, and the deliverance was the idea of Jehovah's righteousness. In the case of Paul, it was the pharisaic treatment of the law, and the deliverance was righteousness by faith. To Marcion it was the sum of all that the past had described as a revelation of God: only what Christ had given him was of real value to him. In this conviction he founded a Church: Before him there was no such thing in the sense of a community, firmly united by a fixed conviction, harmoniously organised, and spread over the whole world. Such a Church the Apostle Paul had in his mind's eye, but he was not able to realise it. That in the century of the great mixture of religion the greatest apparent paradox was actually realised: namely, a Paulinism with two Gods and without the Old Testament; and that this form of Christianity first resulted in a church which was based not only on intelligible words, but on a definite conception of the essence of Christianity as a religion, seems to be the greatest riddle which the earliest history of Christianity presents. But it only seems so. The Greek, whose mind was filled with certain fundamental features of the Pauline Gospel (law and grace), who was therefore convinced that in all respects the truth was there, and who on that account took pains to comprehend the real sense of Paul's statements, could hardly reach any other results than those of Marcion. The history of Pauline theology in the Church, a history first of silence, then of artificial interpretation, speaks loudly enough. And had not Paul really separated Christianity as religion from Judaism and the Old Testament? Must it not have seemed an inconceivable inconsistency, if he had clung to the special national relation of Christianity to the Jewish people, and if he had taught a view of history in which for paedagogic reasons indeed, the Father of mercies and God of all comfort had appeared as one so entirely different?

He who was not capable of translating himself into the consciousness of a Jew, and had not yet learned the method of special interpretation, had only the alternative, if he was convinced of the truth of the Gospel of Christ as Paul had proclaimed it, of either giving up this Gospel against the dictates of his conscience, or striking out of the Epistles whatever seemed Jewish. But in this case the god of creation also disappeared, and the fact that Marcion could make this sacrifice proves that this religious spirit, with all his energy, was not able to rise to the height of the religious faith which we find in the preaching of Jesus.

In basing his own position and that of his church on Paulinism, as he conceived and remodelled it, Marcion connected himself with that part of the earliest tradition of Christianity which is best known to us, and has enabled us to understand his undertaking historically as we do no other. Here we have the means of accurately indicating what part of this structure of the second century has come down from the Apostolic age and is really based on tradition, and what does not. Where else could we do that? But Marcion has taught us far more. He does not impart a correct understanding of early Christianity, as was once supposed, for his explanation of that is undoubtedly incorrect, but a correct estimate of the reliability of the traditions that were current in his day alongside of the Pauline. There can be no doubt that Marcion criticised tradition from a dogmatic stand-point. But would his undertaking have been at all possible, if at that time a reliable tradition of the twelve Apostles and their teaching had existed and been operative in wide circles? We may venture to say no. Consequently, Marcion gives important testimony against the historical reliability of the notion that the common Christianity was really based on the tradition of the twelve Apostles. It is not surprising that the first man who clearly put and answered the question, "What is Christian?" adhered exclusively to the Pauline Epistles, and therefore found a very imperfect solution. When more than 1600 years later the same question emerged for the first time in scientific form, its solution had likewise to be first attempted from the Pauline Epistles, and therefore led at the outset to a onesidedness similar to that of Marcion. The situation of Christendom in the middle of the second century was not really more favourable to a historical knowledge of early Christianity, than that of the 18th century, but in many respects more unfavourable. Even at that time, as attested by the enterprise of Marcion, its results, and the character of the polemic against him, there were besides the Pauline Epistles, no reliable documents from which the teaching of the twelve Apostles could have been gathered. The position which the Pauline Epistles occupy in the history of the world is, however, described by the fact that every tendency in the Church which was unwilling to introduce into Christianity the power of Greek mysticism, and was yet no longer influenced by the early Christian eschatology, learned from the Pauline Epistles a Christianity which, as a religion, was peculiarly vigorous. But that position is further described by the fact that every tendency which courageously disregards spurious traditions, is compelled to turn to the Pauline Epistles, which, on the one hand, present such a profound type of Christianity, and on the other, darken and narrow the judgment about the preaching of Christ himself, by their complicated theology. Marcion was the first, and for a long time the only Gentile Christian who took his stand on Paul. He was no moralist, no Greek mystic, no Apocalyptic enthusiast, but a religious character, nay, one of the few pronouncedly typical religious characters whom we know in the early Church before Augustine. But his attempt to resuscitate Paulinism is the first great proof that the conditions under which this Christianity originated do not repeat themselves, and that therefore Paulinism itself must receive a new construction if one desires to make it the basis of a Church. His attempt is a further proof of the unique value of the Old Testament to early Christendom, as the only means at that time of defending Christian monotheism. Finally, his attempt confirms the experience that a religious community can only be founded by a religious spirit who expects nothing from the world.

Nearly all ecclesiastical writers, from Justin to Origen, opposed Marcion. He appeared already to Justin as the most wicked enemy. We can understand this, and we can quite as well understand how the Church Fathers put him on a level with Basilides and Valentinus, and could not see the difference between them. Because Marcion elevated a better God above the god of creation, and consequently robbed the Christian God of his honour, he appeared to be worse than a heathen (Sentent. episc. LXXXVII., in Hartel's edition of Cyprian, I. p. 454; "Gentiles quamvis idola colant, tamen summum deum patrem creatorem cognoscunt et confitentur [!]; in hunc Marcion blasphemat, etc."), as a blaspheming emissary of demons, as the first-born of Satan (Polyc., Justin, Irenaenus). Because he rejected the allegoric interpretation of the Old Testament, and explained its predictions as referring to a Messiah of the Jews who was yet to come, he seemed to be a Jew (Tertull., adv. Marc. III.). Because he deprived Christianity of the apologetic proof (the proof from antiquity) he seemed to be a heathen and a Jew at the same time (see my Texte u. Unters. I. 3, p. 68; the antitheses of Marcion became very important for the heathen and Manichaean assaults on Christianity). Because he represented the twelve Apostles as unreliable witnesses, he appeared to be the most wicked and shameless of all heretics. Finally, because he gained so many adherents, and actually founded a church, he appeared to be the ravening wolf (Justin, Rhodon), and his church as the spurious church. (Tertull., adv. Marc. IV. 5). In Marcion the Church Fathers chiefly attacked what they attacked in all Gnostic heretics, but here error shewed itself in its worse form. They learned much in opposing Marcion (see Bk. II.). For instance, their interpretation of the regula fidei and of the New Tesfament received a directly Antimarcionite expression in the Church. One thing, however, they could not learn from him, and that was how to make Christianity into a philosophic system. He formed no such system, but he has given a clearly outlined conception, based on historic documents, of Christianity as the religion which redeems the world.

Literature.-All anti-heretical writings of the early Church, but especially Justin, Apol. 1. 26, 58; Iren; I. 27; Tertull., adv. Marc. I-V.; de ,praescr.; Hippol., Philos.; Adamant., de recta in deum fidei; Epiph. h. 42; Ephr. Syr.; Esnik. The older attempts to restore the Marcionite Gospel and Apostolicum have been antiquated by Zahn's Kanonsgeschichte, 1. c.. Hahn (Regimonti, 1823) has attempted to restore the Antitheses. We are still in want of a German monograph on Marcion (see the whole presentation of Gnosticism by Zahn, with his Excursus, 1. c.). Hilgenfeld, Ketzergesch. p.316 f. 522 f.; cf. my works, Zur Quellenkritik des Gnosticismus, 1873; de Apelles Gnosis Monarchia, T 874; Beitrage z. Gesch. der Marcionitischen Kirchen (Ztschr. f. wiss. Theol. 1876). Marcion's Commentar zum Evangelium (Ztschr. f. K. G. Bd. IV 4) Apelles Syllogismen in the Texte u, Unters. VI. H. 3. Zahn, die Dialoge des Adamantius in the Ztschr. f. K.-Gesch. IX. p. 193 ff. Meyboom, Marcion en de Marcionieten, Leiden, 1888.

BACK TO PREVIOUS SECTION

© 1997 dmahar@snet.net

Adolf von Harnack

MARCION

DAS EVANGELIUM VOM FREMDEN GOTT

Leipzig / Verlag der
J. C. Hinrichs'schen Buchhandlung

THE UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM
INFORMATION SERVICES
Main Library

Classmark BT 1415
H

Barcode
BU 1923808 8

BIRMINGHAM

THE UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM

INFORMATION SERVICES

This item must be returned promptly if recalled by another borrower, otherwise by latest date below.

-5 JUN 2000

30 JUN 2010

5202028 Repr. WB'ds in 95 ô Dr J. H. KOOPMANS

A 275.- 613/2346

MARCION:

DAS EVANGELIUM VOM FREMDEN GOTT

EINE MONOGRAPHIE

ZUR GESCHICHTE DER GRUNDLEGUNG

DER KATHOLISCHEN KIRCHE

VON

ADOLF VON HARNACK

ZWEITE, VERBESSERTE UND VERMEHRTE AUFLAGE

LEIPZIG

J. C. HINRICHS'SCHE BUCHHANDLUNG

1924

1921

BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

TEXTE UND UNTERSUCHUNGEN

ZUR GESCHICHTE DER ALTCHRISTLICHEN LITERATUR

ARCHIV FÜR DIE VON DER KIRCHENVÄTER-COMMISSION
DER PREUSSISCHEN AKADEMIE DER WISSENSCHAFTEN
UNTERNOMMENE
AUSGABE DER ÄLTEREN CHRISTLICHEN SCHRIFTSTELLER

HERAUSGEGEBEN VON
ADOLF VON HARNACK UND CARL SCHMIDT

3. REIHE 15. BAND

45. BAND

ZWEITE AUFLAGE

ALLE RECHTE VORBEHALTEN

COPYRIGHT 1924
BY J. C. HINRICHS'SCHE BUCHHANDLUNG, LEIPZIG

Printed in Germany.

94292666

Vorwort zur zweiten Auflage.

Der ersten Auflage habe ich im Jahre 1923 „Neue Studien zu Marcion" („Texte u. Unters.," Bd. 44, 4) nachgesandt, in denen ich die zahlreichen Kritiken dieses Werks verzeichnet und meinen Standpunkt gegenüber den Auffassungen von W. Bauer und H. Frhr. v. Soden festgehalten und schärfer begründet habe. In der neuen Auflage bin ich darauf nicht zurückgekommen, habe aber einige Ausführungen bestimmter gefaßt und vor Mißverständnissen geschützt.

Bereichert ist die neue Auflage durch mehrere Stücke, unter denen der Laodicenerbrief der Vulgata, der von mir als Marcionitische Fälschung entlarvt worden (s. Sitzungsber. der Preuß. Akad. d. Wiss. 1923, 1. Nov.), das wichtigste ist.

Die Probleme, welche der Bibeltext Marcions bietet, können so lange keine Förderung erfahren, als der sog. 𝔚Text und der Tatian-Text nicht sicherer bekannt und gründlicher durchgearbeitet sind. Das hat mich die dankenswerte Studie von Pott, der ich jedoch in wichtigen Ergebnissen nicht beizustimmen vermag, aufs neue gelehrt. Den Bibeltext Marcions so vollständig und zuverlässig zu rekonstruieren, als die Überlieferung es zuläßt, war hier mein Hauptziel; alles übrige in dem Buche, die Gesamtgeschichte des Bibeltextes anlangend, bitte ich daher als etwas Vorläufiges zu betrachten. —

Meine Studie über Marcion ist eine Monographie — patristische Texte sind in dem letzten Menschenalter in großer Fülle herausgegeben worden, und an religionsgeschichtlichen Begriffs- und Formenuntersuchungen ist kein Mangel; aber wo bleiben die Monographien? Sie fehlen nahezu für alle bedeutenden Väter und Häretiker; denn die alten Monographien, soweit solche vorhanden, reichen längst nicht mehr aus und werden deshalb auch nicht mehr gelesen. Das Verständnis aber der ältesten Kirchengeschichte und das Interesse für sie kann ohne tüchtige Monographien nicht ge-weckt werden und nicht erhalten bleiben. Heute muß das lebendige Wort des Lehrers alles tun; denn Texte und Kompendien allein schaffen kein Verständnis und kein Interesse. Videant consules! Es ist eine Ehrenpflicht der jüngeren und der kommenden Generation von Kirchenhistorikern, daß sie ihren Dank für die Texte und Vorarbeiten, die ihr bereitgestellt worden sind, in biographischen Monographien abstattet. Bleiben sie aus, so wird die Geschichtsschreibung der alten Kirche im nächsten Menschenalter verkümmern.

Berlin, September 1924.

v. Harnack.

Vorwort zur ersten Auflage.

Vor fünfzig Jahren stellte die Theologische Fakultät der Universität Dorpat die Preisaufgabe: „Marcionis doctrina e Tertulliani adversus Marcionem libris eruatur et explicetur". Ich übernahm die Aufgabe und erhielt am Stiftungstage der Universität, den 12. Dezember 1870, den Preis; zugleich forderte die Fakultät mich auf, die Arbeit zu revidieren und zu veröffentlichen. Das ist damals nicht geschehen; aber ich habe das Thema stets im Auge behalten und es erweitert. Nun lege ich diese Monographie vor; von der Jugendarbeit ist natürlich auch nicht ein Satz stehen geblieben.

Durch Marcion bin ich in die Textkritik des Neuen Testaments, in die älteste Kirchengeschichte, in die Geschichtsauffassung der Baurschen Schule und in die Probleme der systematischen Theologie eingeführt worden: es konnte keine bessere Einführung geben! Er ist daher in der Kirchengeschichte meine erste Liebe gewesen, und diese Neigung und Verehrung ist in dem halben Jahrhundert, das ich mit ihm durchlebt habe, selbst durch Augustin nicht geschwächt worden.

Marcion wird von der heutigen Wissenschaft als Textkritiker nicht vernachlässigt und auch in der Dogmengeschichte fort und fort aufmerksam behandelt — in meinem Lehrbuch dieser Disziplin ausführlicher als in den anderen —; aber keines der Probleme, die hier vorliegen, ist bisher erschöpfend erörtert, Wichtiges ist verkannt geblieben, und eine Monographie, wie sie M. gebührt, fehlt noch; denn durch Meybooms Arbeit (Marcion en de Marcioniten, 1888) ist die Aufgabe nicht erledigt.

Marcion reicht uns den Schlüssel, um die Mehrzahl der schwierigen Probleme zu erschließen, die der Übergang der Kirche aus dem nachapostolischen in das altkatholische Zeitalter bietet. Man kann hier jeden einzelnen Gnostiker ohne Schaden wegdenken, aber Marcion kann man nicht beiseite lassen, wenn man die gewaltige Entwicklung, ja die Metamorphose verstehen will, die in die Zeit jenes Übergangs fällt — nicht nur weil der Katholizismus gegen Marcion erbaut worden ist, sondern in noch höherem Grade, weil er Grundlegendes von diesem Häretiker übernommen hat.

Noch größer ist Marcions bisher schwer vernachlässigte Bedeutung in der allgemeinen Religionsgeschichte; denn er ist der einzige Denker in der Christenheit, der mit der Überzeugung vollen Ernst gemacht hat, daß die Gottheit, welche von der Welt erlöst, mit der Kosmologie und der kosmischen Teleologie schlechterdings nichts zu tun hat. Das neue Leben des Glaubens und der Freiheit war ihm der Welt gegenüber etwas so „Fremdes", daß er seiner Entstehung dieselbe verzweifelt-kühne Hypothese untergelegt hat, durch welche Helmholtz die Entstehung der Organismen auf der Erde erklären wollte. Dadurch erhielt Christus eine so erhaben-isolierte Stellung als der Begründer der wahren Religion wie in keinem anderen Religionssystem, und die Paulinisch-Johanneische Dialektik in bezug auf Welt und Gott, Gesetz und Gnade, Moralismus und Religion wurde zum Abschluß gebracht, aber zugleich „aufgehoben", so daß eine neue Religionsstiftung auf dem Grunde des Paulinischen Evangeliums in die Erscheinung trat. Paulus selbst ist kein Religionsstifter gewesen; aber was in seinen religiösen Konzeptionen wie eine neue Religionsschöpfung verstanden werden konnte und auch von seinen judaistischen Gegnern so verstanden worden ist, das hat Marcion ergriffen und gestaltet.

Diese Bedeutung Marcions wäre längst erkannt worden, hätte man nicht den „fremden" Gott, den er eingeführt hat, irrig mit dem „unbekannten" Gott, der in seiner Zeit in Wahrheit schon längst der „bekannte" war, identifiziert, und hätte man nicht einen Teil der Quellen fast ganz unbeachtet gelassen. Marcions Korrekturen am Evangelium und den Paulusbriefen und die Berichte der Kirchenväter über seine Lehre hat man herangezogen; aber sein großes Werk „Antithesen" mit den zahlreichen exegetischen Bemerkungen sowie der Bibeltext, den er stehen gelassen hat, sind bisher wenig berücksichtigt worden.

Ich habe Jahr um Jahr das Material gesammelt und Vollständigkeit angestrebt; aber im einzelnen gibt es hier noch viele Probleme, an denen weiter gearbeitet werden muß. Es winken hier Aufgaben, die ein Recht haben, die Bemühungen um die nahezu erschöpften Probleme, welche die Apostolischen Väter bieten, abzulösen; denn es gilt, die bedeutendste kirchengeschichtliche Erscheinung nach Paulus und vor Augustin auch zur hellsten zu machen.

In drei Hauptberufen stehend, habe ich diese Arbeit in abgestohlenen Stunden, ja in halben Stunden niederschreiben müssen und manchmal an der Vollendung verzweifelt. Der Abschluß des Werks ist mir doch vergönnt worden, und ich kann nur hoffen, daß die Spuren seiner mühsamen Entstehung nicht allzu deutlich sind. Das Inhaltsverzeichnis habe ich so ausführlich gefaßt, daß sich die Beigabe eines Registers erübrigte.

Meinem verehrten Kollegen, Herrn Prof. Carl Schmidt, danke ich auch an dieser Stelle herzlich für seine freundliche Unterstützung bei der Drucklegung des Werks.

Berlin, den 27. Juni 1920.

Inhaltsverzeichnis.

Seite

I. Einleitung. Die religionsgeschichtlichen Voraussetzungen der christlichen Verkündigung Marcions und die innere Lage der Christenheit bei seinem Auftreten 1

1. Der bekannte, der unbekannte und der fremde Gott: Marcion 1

2. Die Spannung zwischen Synkretismus und Eindeutigkeit im ältesten Christentum: Die „apostolische" Verkündigung, Paulus, die Häretiker und Marcion 5

3. Die vollendete Religion der Erlösung: Marcion 18

II. Marcions Leben und Wirksamkeit 21

III. Der Ausgangspunkt M.s: Gesetz und Evangelium; die Erlösung von der Welt, dem Gesetz und dem Schöpfer 30

IV. Der Kritiker und Restaurator. Die Bibel Marcions 35

Der judaistische Irrtum und die Verschwörung wider die Wahrheit; die Urapostel, die falschen Apostel und Paulus 35. Die falschen Evangelien und das verfälschte authentische Evangelium 39. Die Feststellung des authentischen Evangeliums 42. M. hat hier absolute Sicherheit nicht in Anspruch genommen 43 f. Die angeblichen judaistischen Fälschungen, d. h. die tendenziösen Korrekturen M.s im Galaterbrief 45, in den Korintherbriefen 47, im Römerbrief 48, in den übrigen Paulusbriefen 49, im Evangelium 52. Das formale kritische Verfahren M.s 61. Die theologischen Motive der Streichungen und Korrekturen 64. Die Ablehnung der allegorischen Erklärungen (Übereinstimmung mit der jüdischen Exegese) 66. Beurteilung des Verfahrens 67, Vergleichung mit dem des „Johannes“ 70. Blick auf die bibelkritischen Arbeiten der Schüler, auf Tatian und auf das katholische Neue Testament 72.

Seite

V. Die „Antithesen“ Marcions 74

Die „Antithesen“ sind M.s einziges Werk 74. Inhalt und Absicht des Werkes 75, s. auch 85. Ansehen in seiner Kirche 76. Anlage, Widmung und Form 77; nicht bloß Antithesen im engeren Sinn, sondern auch kritisch-geschichtliche und kritisch-dogmatische Darlegungen 78, dazu fortlaufende Bibelauslegungen 80, Unterscheidung zweier Teile 83. Rekonstruktion ist unmöglich, nur der reiche Stoff des Buchs kann aus der Überlieferung zusammengestellt werden 84. Zweck und Geist der Kritik 85. Zusammenstellung wichtiger Antithesen 89.

VI. Das Christentum Marcions und seine Verkündigung 93

Kein Lehrsystem, keine Pneumatik, Mysteriosophie und Philosophie.

1. Die Grundlegung 94
2. Der Weltschöpfer, die Welt und der Mensch . . 97
3. Der Weltschöpfer als der Judengott; die Gerechtigkeit als das Moralische; Gesetz, Propheten, Messias und h. Schrift des Judengottes 106
4. Der Erlösergott als der fremde und als der obere Gott 118
5. Der Erlösergott als der gute Gott, seine Erscheinung in Jesus Christus und das Werk der Erlösung. Die entscheidende Bedeutung des Glaubens. Die Eschatologie 121

Gott der Gute 121. Christus und seine Erscheinung 122. Die „Leiblichkeit“ Christi 124. Das Werk und die Reden Christi 126. Der Descensus ad inferos 129. Der Kreuzestod als Kaufpreis 131. Umfang des Werkes Christi 133. Der Glaube 134. Gegenwärtiger Zustand der Gläubigen 137. Eschatologie und Gericht 137. Untergang der Welt und des Schöpfers 140. Von Christus bis zum Gericht 141.

VII. Die heilige Kirche der Erlösten und ihre Lebensordnung (Kultus, Organisation und Ethik) 143

Die Kirche 143. Taufe, Abendmahl und Sakramentalien 144. Gottesdienst (nichts Enthusiastisches) 145. Organisation, klerische Rangstufen, aber freiere, keine Arkandisziplin 146. Frauen im Gottesdienst handelnd 147. Verkehr mit den Heiden (Mathematici?) 148. Ethik, Verbot jedes Geschlechtsverkehrs 148. Speiseenthaltung 149. Übermenschentum; Martyrium; die Seligpreisungen als ethische Richtschnur 150. Geschlossenheit und Straffheit der Organisation 151.

Seite

VIII. Die Geschichte der Marcionitischen Kirche. Die theologischen Schulen in ihrer Mitte und die Sekte des Apelles 153

1. Die äußere Geschichte 153

Ausbreitung 153. Persönliche Berührungen mit Andersgläubigen und Disputationen 153. Öffentlichkeit der Gottesdienste und ihre Gebäude; Name „Marcioniten"; Kleriker und klerische Sukzessionen 154. Höhepunkt der Entwicklung i. d. JJ. 150—190; die große katholische Gegenbewegung in dem folgenden halben Jahrhundert 154; Rückgang im Abendland seit der Mitte des 3. Jahrhunderts; Erlöschen dort z. Z. des Optatus und Ambrosiaster (Zusammenstellung mit den Sabellianern) 156. Geschichte der Kirche im Orient seit d. Z. des Origenes, Rückzug in den äußersten Osten, geschlossene Gruppierung in Dörfern, bedeutend noch bis zur Mitte des 5. Jahrhunderts, namentlich in Syrien 156. Marcioniten und Manichäer 158. Ausgänge 159.

2. Die innere Geschichte 160

Marcion kein Schulhaupt 160. Die Entstehung von Schulen in seiner Kirche, ihre Einheitlichkeit und Verschiedenheit, Vertreter einer Zwei-, Drei- und Vierprinzipienlehre (Potitus, Basilikus und Markus; Synerus, Megethius und Prepon) 161. Annäherung an den Manichäismus 167. 168 f. Singuläre und zweifelhafte Lehren 168. Esniks Bericht über die Lehre 169. 171. Christologisches 170. Der selbständige, aber dem Meister treue Schüler Lukanus 172. Veränderungen an der Bibel Marcions 172. Beziehungen zu anderen Sekten 174. Strengste Askese beibehalten 175. Mysterien (Arkandisziplin?) 175. Angebliche Wiederholung der Taufe 175. Taufe für die Verstorbenen 176.

3. Apelles und seine Sekte 177

Sein Leben; seine Genossin Philumene; das Werk „Phaneroseis" und die „Syllogismen" 177. Disput mit

Seite

Rhodon; Grundzüge des Christentums und der Philosophie des A. nach diesem Disput 180—187. Die Lehren des A. in ihrer Verschiedenheit von denen M.s 188. Die einzelnen Hauptlehren 189. Schlußurteil, Verhältnis zu Tatian 194.

IX. Marcions geschichtliche Stellung und seine Bedeutung für die Entstehung der katholischen Kirche 196

Verhältnis zum Gnostizismus 196. Der Kampf gegen das AT und das Jüdische 196. M. und Paulus 198. Der Paulinismus als Revolution in der jüdisch-christlichen Religionsgeschichte und als Fortbildung des Urchristentums in der Richtung auf M.; Inkonsequenz der Paulinischen Lehre vom AT 200. Fortbildung des Paulinismus im Hebräerbrief 203, im Barnabasbrief 203, bei Ignatius 203, bei Johannes 204 in der Richtung auf M. (vgl. S. 70 f.); Geschichtsbetrachtung bei Johannes und M. 205; M.s Trennung vom AT nichts Unvorbereitetes 206. M.s Geschichtskritik und die Semlers und Baurs 207. Der kirchliche Zustand vor M. 208. Die neue Kirchenstiftung M.s auf festem Grunde 210. Ihre Neuheit und Vorbildlichkeit 210. Die große Kirche wurde durch Bekämpfung und Nachahmung der Marcionitischen zur katholischen 212.

X. Marcions Christentum kirchengeschichtlich und religionsphilosophisch beleuchtet 215

1. Der Antinomismus und die Verwerfung des Alten Testaments 215

Begründung der Thesen: Das AT im 2. Jahrh. zu verwerfen, war ein Fehler, den die große Kirche mit Recht abgelehnt hat; es im 16. Jahrhundert beizubehalten, war ein Schicksal, dem sich die Reformation noch nicht zu entziehen vermochte; es aber seit dem 19. Jahrh. als kanonische, dem NT gleichwertige Urkunde im Protestantismus noch zu konservieren, ist die Folge einer religiösen und kirchlichen Lähmung 217.

2. Das Evangelium vom fremden Gott und der Panchristismus 223

Luther 225. Tolstoi 226. 228. 232. Gorki 232. „Das Evangelium der armen Seele“ 233.

Beilagen.

Seite

Beilage I: Untersuchungen über die Person und die Lebensgeschichte Marcions nach den ältesten Zeugnissen und späteren Angaben 3*

Die Quellen: Polykarp (Pastoralbriefe) 3*. Justin 6* (Marcioniten, Marcianer, Marciani[s]ten 9*). Papias (Prolog z. Joh. Ev.) 11*. (Ptolemäus, der Valentinianer 14*). Clemens Alex. 14*. Irenäus 15*. Rhodon 16*. Tertullian 17*, ein Brief Marcions 21*. Hippolyt und Epiphanius (Pseudotertullian und Filastrius) 23*. Quelle bei Hieronymus 29*. Edessenische Chronik und Fihrist 29*.

Beilage II: Cerdo und Marcion 31*

Beilage III: Das Apostolikon Marcions . 40*

A. Einleitung: Die Zeugen und die Methode der Wiederherstellung 40*

Das Verdienst Zahns und die Notwendigkeit einer Revision 40* (Origenes 42*). Tertullian (er legt seiner Widerlegung die lateinische Bibel der Marcioniten zugrunde) 43*. Die Dialoge des Adamantius 56*. Epiphanius 64*. Anhang: Eine armenisch erhaltene syrische Schrift gegen M. 67*.

B. Der Text des Apostolikons 67*

C. Die Marcionitischen Prologe 127*

D. Der Laodicener- und Alexandrinerbrief des Paulus (Marcionitische Fälschungen) 134*

E. Untersuchungen zum Apostolikon Marcions . . . 149*

Hauptresultate in bezug auf den Text: ein tendenziös durchkorrigierter 𝔚Text 149*. Der Charakter der ca. 100 Stellen, an denen der Marcion-Text gegen die anderen Hauptrezensionen mit dem 𝔚Text übereinstimmt 153*. Der Charakter der bei M. allein sich findenden Varianten (abgesehen von den tendenziösen) 155*. Welches Verhältnis besteht zwischen dem lateinischen Marcion-Text und dem lateinischen 𝔚Text? Hat jener diesen beeinflußt? Ist er sogar seine Grundlage? Resultat: M.s Apostolikon liegt der 𝔚Text zugrunde; aber jener hat dann diesen (griech. u. lat.) leicht beeinflußt 160*. Über Ephes. 1, 1; Röm. 1, 7. 15; Röm. 15 u. 16; Röm. 16, 25—27 s. S.

Seite

162*. 164*. 165*. Die Reihenfolge der Paulusbriefe bei M. 168*. Hatte das Apostolikon M.s schon eine Capitulatio? 169*. M. und die Pastoralbriefe 170*. M. und die Apostelgesch. u. die Apok. Johannis. Hat M. schon ein katholisches Apostolikon (18 Schriften) vorgefunden? 172*. Das Marcionitische Ersatzbuch für die Apostelgesch. Marcionitische Psalmen 174*.

Beilage IV: Das Evangelium Marcions 177*

A. Einleitung 177*

Tertullian 178*. Adamantius 181*. Epiphanius 182*. Irenäus, Origenes usw. 182*. Ein anonymer syrisch-armenischer Zeuge 183*.

B. Der Text des Evangeliums 183*

C. Untersuchungen zum Evangelium Marcions . . . 240*

Der Charakter des von M. benutzten Textes = ein bereits mit Matth. konformierter 𝔚Text 242*. Leichter Einfluß auf die katholischen Texte 247*. Marcion, das Luk.-Ev. und die drei anderen Evv. 249*. Anhang: M.s Ev. und Tatians Diatessaron 255* . . . . . .

Beilage V: Die Antithesen Marcions (nach Zitaten und Referaten) 256*

(1) Die Widmung 256*. (2) Ein Stück aus dem Prolog 256*. (3) Über die Urapostel, die falschen judaistischen Evangelisten, Paulus und das wahre Evangelium (Verwerfung der Apostelgeschichte und der Apokalypse) 256*. (4) Gegen die allegorische Methode 259*. (5) Die vier Hauptstellen für die Grundlegung der Lehre 260*. (6) Der Gegensatz von Gesetz und Evangelium 261*. (7) Der gerechte und der gute Gott (kein Gegensatz des Gottes des Lichts und der Finsternis) 262*. (8) Der richtende, eifernde und wilde Gott und der gütige, milde und geduldige Gott, der nicht richtet 264*. (9) Der bekannte Gott und Schöpfer dieser Welt und der fremde unbekannte Gott, der nur Unsichtbares geschaffen hat 265*. (10) Der widerspruchsvolle Gott und der weise eindeutige Gott 268*. (11) Der kleinliche und klägliche Schöpfergott; das Erbärmliche und Beschwerliche der Schöpfung 269*. (12) Der Schöpfergott als πονηρός (schlimm-beschwerlich), als conditor malorum und als böse (Schöpfung, bezw. Duldung von Sünde, Tod und Teufel; der Sündenfall zeigt seine schlimme Schwäche) 271*; er begünstigt schlimme Menschen 272*; seine schlechte Welt und schmutzige Zeugungseinrichtung 273*. (13) Der Weltschöpfer zwar Gott, aber deus inferior 274*. (14) Keine, sondern nur scheinbare Gleichheit der beiden Götter 275*. (15) Die Materie 276*. (16) Das Kleinliche der Gesetzgebung 276*. (17) Notwendigkeit des strengsten asketischen Verzichts auf die Welt (Zölibat und Fasten) 277*. (18) Zusammenfassung über die Eigenschaften des Weltschöpfers 278*. (19) Einzelne Antithesen in bezug auf das geschichtliche Verhalten der beiden Götter (Raub der ägyptischen Gefäße, jus talionis usw.) 279*. (20) Die beiden Christus, Herabstieg und Erscheinung Christi 283*. (21) Plötzliche Erscheinung und „Leiblichkeit" Christi, Ablehnung der ATlichen Weissagungen als unwirkliche und unnötige 284* (vgl. 290*). (22) Einheit des guten Gottes und seines Christus 286*. (23) Leugnung der Geburt Christi usw. 286*. (24) Fremdheit Christi den Menschen gegenüber und ihr Ankauf durch den Kreuzestod 288*. (25) Der Judenchristus 289*. (26) Weissagungen auf den Heiland-Christus gibt es nicht 290*. (27) Die Seligpreisungen und Antithesen in bezug auf die Lehre Christi 291*. (28) Eschatologie 293*. (29) Errettung von Kain usw. 294*. (30) Errettung nur der Seelen 295*. (31) Entscheidende Bedeutung des Glaubens 296*. (32) Die Verfolgungen zeigen den Zorn des Weltschöpfers über die Anhänger des neuen Gottes 296*. — Erklärungen M.s zum Evangelium 297*—305*; Erklärungen zum Apostolos 306*—313* (Kritik der Beschneidung 309*).

Seite

Beilage VI: Die Überlieferung über die Lehre Marcions und über seine Kirche 314*

1. Die Polemiker vor Tertullian 314*

Justin (Ptolemäus), ein kleinasiatischer Presbyter bei Irenäus, Dionysius v. Korinth, Philippus v. Gortyna, Modestus, Melito, Theophilus v. Antiochien, Miltiades, der Montanist Proklus, Hegesipp, Acta Pauli, das Muratorische Fragment, der Antimontanist bei Eusebius 314* (Das römische Symbol 316*). Irenäus 318*. Rhodon 321*. Clemens Alex. 322*. Bardesanes 325*. Celsus 325*.

2. Die Polemiker des 3. Jahrhunderts 328*

Tertullian 328*. Hippolyt 332* (Pseudotert.; Filastr.; Prepon gegen Bardesanes; Röm. Adoptianer; der Gnostiker Justin). Viktorin v. Pettau 334*. Cyprian, Saturnin v. Tucca 334*. Der römische Bischof Stephanus, Novatian, Dionysius Rom. 335*. Porphyrius 336*. Laktanz 337*. Julius Afrikanus 337*. Ambrosius, Freund des Orig. 337*. Origenes 337*. Martyrium Pionii 340*. Firmilian, Methodius, Didascalia Apostolica (Apostolische Konstitutionen) 340*.

Seite

3. Das Denkmal von Deir-Ali; Licinius und die Ketzer 341*

4. Die orientalischen Polemiker des 4. und der ersten Hälfte des 5. Jahrhunderts 344*

Adamantius 344*. Eusebius 348*. Konstantin, der Kaiser 348*. Die Acta Archelai und Mani 349*. Marcell v. Ancyra 350*. Athanasius 350*. Cyrill v. Jerusalem 351*. Didymus der Blinde 352*. Pseudoklementinische Homilien und Recognit. 352*. Brief des Eustathius an Tiberius; Basilius; Gregor v. Nazianz; Glaubensbekenntnis der Kirche von Laodicea Syr. 353*. Amphilochius, Nicetas v. Remesiana 354*. Aphraates und ein unbekannter Syrer 354*. Ephraem Syrus, Bar Bahlûl 356*. Ein anderer unbekannter Syrer 362*. Zenobius und Rabbulas (Joh. v. Ephesus) 362*. Maruta v. Maipherkat 363*. (Die Chronik von Edessa 29*). Isaak v. Niniveh und Philoxenus 364*. Epiphanius 364*. Die kaiserliche Gesetzgebung gegen die Häretiker 366*. Chrysostomus Theophylakt; Nicephorus, Antirrhet.) 368*. Isidor v. Pelusium 369*. Theodor v. Mopsveste 369*. Fünftes Konzil 369*. Theodoret 369*. (Eusebius v. Emesa hier als Bestreiter M.s genannt). Esnik 372*. Malalas 380*. (Trullanische Synode 380*. Anhang: (1) Artotyriten 381*. (2) Messalianer und Marcianus 382*. (3) Paulicianer (Bogomilen) 382*. Abulfaradsch, Fihrist 384*. Die eigentümlichen Marcionitischen Schriftzeichen 385*. Schahrastani 386*. Abulfaradsch (Barhebräus) 387*.

5. Die occidentalischen Polemiker des 4. und der ersten Hälfte des 5. Jahrhunderts 387*

Lucifer von Calaris 387*. Der gallische Bischof Sabbatius 387*. Optatus 388*. (Der röm. Bischof Zephyrin angeblicher Bestreiter M.s 388*). Ambrosiaster, Ambrosius, Augustin, Pacian, Aponius, Paulin von Nola, Parmenian, Petilian, Cresconius, Julian v. Eklanum, Jovinian, Priszillian, Prosper, unbekannter Arianischer Prediger, Patricius, Leo I., Sabellianer und Marcioniten 389*—393*. Consultatio Zachaei et Apollonii 392*. Prudentius 392*. Hieronymus 393*. Synode v. Braga 393*.

Seite

Carmina Pseudotertull. adv. Marc. 394*. Arnobius minor (Praedestinatus; hier auch Pamphilus); Gennadius; der Schreiber eines Cod. Casin.; Patrizius 399*, s. auch Beilage X.

Beilage VII: Lukanus, der Schüler Marcions 401*

Beilage VIII: Apelles, der Schüler Marcions und Sektenstifter 404*

Rhodon 404*. Tertullian 405*. Hippolyt (Pseudotert., Filastr.) 409*. Epiphanius 410*. Origenes (Ambrosius) 412*. Pamphilus 418*. Cyprian und Stephanus v. Rom 418*. Praedestinatus 418*. Firmilian 419*. Anthimus v. Nikomedien 419*. Theodoret 419*. Paulus v. Taron 419*. Pseudoclementinen 419*. Spätere Häresiologen 420*.

Beilage IX: Ein wahrscheinlich antimarcionitisches Fragment aus der Schrift Melitos von Sardes „Über die Taufe“ 421*

Beilage X: Inhaltsangabe und Fragmente der Schrift eines Patricianers (Neu-Marcioniten), gegen welche Augustin seinen Traktat „Contra adversarium legis et prophetarum“ (lib. II) gerichtet hat 424*

Beilage XI: Marcion in der Manichäischen Literatur genannt 434*

Beilage XII: Boussets Darstellung der Prinzipienlehre Marcions 436*

Beilage XIII: Zur Entstehungsgeschichte des Neuen Testaments 441*

(1) Hat Marcion seinem Evangelium und Apostolikon einen Gesamtnamen gegeben? 441*. (2) War M. der erste, der Herrnworte und Paulusworte zusammengestellt hat? 441*. (3) Läßt sich die Entstehung des folgenschweren Urteils M.s, die Paulusbriefe seien interpoliert, auch aus den Briefen selbst verständlich machen? 442*. (4) Läßt sich der Homologumenenkanon, wie er für 180—190 für Kleinasien und Rom gesichert ist, als Ergänzung der Bibel M.s begreifen? 442*.

Register 445*

Berichtigungen und Nachträge 454*

„Non putetis quia potuerunt fieri haereses per aliquas parvas animas; non fecerunt haereses nisi magni homines, sed quantum magni, tantum mali montes.“ Augustin.

„Nullus potest haeresim struere, nisi qui ardentis ingenii est et habet dona naturae, quae a deo artifice sunt creata, talis fuit Marcion, quem doctissimum legimus.“

Hieronymus (Origenes).

I. Einleitung.

Die religionsgeschichtlichen Voraussetzungen der christlichen Verkündigung Marcions und die innere Lage der Christenheit bei seinem Auftreten.

Der Mann, dem die folgenden Blätter gewidmet sind, war ein Religionsstifter; als solchen hat ihn schon sein Zeitgenosse und erster literarischer Gegner, Justin der Apologet, erkannt. Aber Marcion gehörte zu den Religionsstiftern, die selbst nicht wissen, daß sie es sind. Diese Selbsttäuschung war bei ihm entschuldbarer als bei irgendeinem anderen; denn der Apostel Paulus hat keinen überzeugteren Schüler als ihn gehabt, und von keinem anderen Gott wollte M. wissen als von dem, der in dem Gekreuzigten erschienen war.

1.

Im ersten Jahrhundert unserer Zeitrechnung las man in Athen und Rom, vermutlich auch in anderen Städten Altarinschriften, die da lauteten: „Den unbekannten Göttern“, oder: „Den Göttern Asiens, Europas und Afrikas, den unbekannten und fremden Göttern“, vielleicht auch: „Dem unbekannten Gott“ [1].

1 S. über sie die eindringenden Untersuchungen Nordens („Agnostos Theos“, 1913, S. 1 ff.).

Diese Inschriften wollten aus dem Motiv der Furcht heraus unliebsamen Eingriffen übersehener oder ausländischer Gottheiten im voraus begegnen („religio eventualis)". Das Attribut „unbekannt" barg also kein theologisches Geheimnis.

Aber schon seit Sokrates gab es in der Religionsphilosophie, wenn auch nicht unter diesem Namen, einen „unbekannten und fremden Gott". „Unbekannt" war er, weil er keinen Namen hat; „fremd" war er, weil er nicht zu den „dii patrii" gehörte. Das Wichtigste aber war, daß er in der Einzahl und als der Eigentliche vorgestellt werden mußte, und daß er daher alle anderen Götter entwertete und auflöste.

Eben dadurch wurde der unbekannte Gott ein kündlich großes Geheimnis und wurde zum bekannten. Zwar blieb er dem Namen nach der unbekannte, ja er erhielt erst jetzt diesen Namen oder ähnliche — denn die patriotische Überlieferung und das Volk kennen ihn nicht —; aber das religiöse Wissen wurde in bezug auf ihn immer beredter und in bezug auf die anderen Götter immer stummer und abschätziger; es arbeitete aus dem negativen Attribut „Unbekannt" eine Fülle positiver Attribute heraus und wußte mit den bekannten Göttern nichts mehr anzufangen. Mit den „unbekannten und fremden Göttern Asiens, Europas und Afrikas" hat dieser Unbekannte gar nichts zu tun; durch eine Weltenferne ist er von ihnen geschieden und lebt in einer ganz anderen Sphäre als sie. Er ist viel ferner und viel näher!

Dennoch, so erzählt die Apostelgeschichte, sind sie und er zusammengebracht worden, und durch keinen Geringeren als den Apostel Paulus in Athen. Daß ihm oder, wie einige meinen, seinem Erzähler — es tut nichts zur Sache — das möglich war, ist auch ein Zeichen der Zeit, d. h. des Synkretismus. Wie man zahlreiche sehr irdische Prophezeiungen damals ins Überirdische umdeutete, so deutete Paulus die gespenstischen oder nur „eventuellen" unbekannten Götter in den unbekannten Gott um. Alsbald aber stellte er diesen unbekannten als nur verkannten Gott dar und predigte von ihm als dem Schöpfer und Leiter der Welt.

Darin ist ihm die große Kirche gefolgt. Sie hat nur dann noch vom unbekannten Gott gesprochen, wenn sie die Blindheit des Heidentums ihm gegenüber ins Auge faßte oder wenn sie die Erhabenheit dieses Gottes über die menschliche Vernunft und ihre Erkenntnis zu betonen Grund hatte. Sonst kannte sie ihn durch seine Offenbarung in der Welt, in der Geschichte und in Jesus Christus; sie kannte ihn und rief ihn bei Namen.

Aber die christlichen Gnostiker, hellenischen Mystikern und Philosophen folgend, nahmen es mit dem Begriff „unbekannt" ernst: ihr Gott, obgleich der Vater Jesu Christi, war wirklich der unbekannte; denn auf dem langen Wege der Spekulation über ihn von Plato her hatte sich allmählich der Zusammenhang dieses Gottes mit der Welt nicht nur gelockert, sondern ganz aufgelöst. Von inneren Erfahrungen und Beobachtungen aus, die sich immer souveräner geltend machten, vermochten sie den reinen, guten und erhabenen Gott, den sie in ihrem Busen fanden, immer weniger in Beziehung zur äußeren Welt, die so schlecht ist, zu setzen, bis zuletzt das verbindende Band ganz zerriß: der unbekannte Gott ist nicht der Weltschöpfer. Eben darum ist er der unbekannte. Die aus der Innerlichkeit stammenden Attribute Gottes als des Geistigen, Heiligen und Guten erhoben ihn so hoch über die Welt, daß er nicht mehr als ihr Schöpfer und Regierer gedacht werden durfte. In dem Momente aber wurde die Welt vollends unwert, da nicht nur alle Werte, sondern auch alles wahre Sein bei dem Unbekannten zu suchen sind. Sie wurde zum Gefängnis, zur Hölle, zum Sinnlosen, zum eklen Schein, ja zum Nichts. Alle diese Urteile sind im Grunde identisch: das Recht zu sein, war ihr entzogen; also löste ihre sinnenfällige Existenz alle denkbaren Mißempfindungen und Verurteilungen aus.

Aber die Gnostiker machten dabei doch einen gewaltigen Vorbehalt. Der Mensch, mitten in der Welt stehend und durch Leib und Seele ihr zugehörig, besitzt in seinem Geiste einen Funken von dem Sein und Leben des unbekannten Gottes. Diese Ausstattung verbindet ihn so enge mit ihm, daß dieser Gott dem Geiste überhaupt kein Fremder und nur relativ ein Unbekannter ist: der Unbekannte braucht dem verdunkelten und geschwächten Geiste nur zu erscheinen und alsbald erkennt und erfaßt er ihn. Also ist in dieser raumzeitlichen und sinnlichen Welt doch etwas Göttliches vorhanden, und diese Erkenntnis konnte nicht ohne Folgen für die Betrachtung der Welt selbst bleiben: es steckt in diesem Kosmos irgendwie etwas Überirdisches und Wertvolles.

Alle namhaften Gnostiker dachten so, und wie sie ihr Selbstbewußtsein an diesem Gedanken ins Ungemessene zu steigern vermochten, so konnte auch die rettende Tat des erscheinenden Unbekannten nur wie die Einlösung einer gebotenen Verpflichtung erscheinen, die die Selbsterlösung des stammverwandten Geistes lediglich unterstützt.

Da erschien ein religiöser Denker auf dem Plan, der mit dem Hauptansatz dieser ganzen religiösen Betrachtung vollen Ernst machte. Er stand nicht innerhalb ihrer Entwicklungslinie, und war nicht in ihre Halbheiten verwickelt; ebendeshalb konnte er Ernst machen. Er kam von anderen Voraussetzungen her, vom Alten Testament, vom biblischen Christentum, von Paulus. Er hatte Gott an der Erscheinung Jesu Christi ganz und ausschließlich als Vater der Barmherzigkeit und Gott alles Trostes kennen gelernt und war gewiß, daß keine andere Aussage über ihn gültig, ja daß jede andere der schwerste Irrtum sei. Daher verkündigte er diesen Gott konsequent und ausschließlich als den guten Erlöser, zugleich aber als den Unbekannten und als den Fremden. Unbekannt ist er, weil er in keinem Sinn an der Welt und an dem Menschen erkannt werden kann; fremd ist er, weil ihn schlechterdings kein naturhaftes Band und keine Verpflichtung mit der Welt und dem Menschen verbindet, auch nicht mit seinem Geiste. Als ein in jedem Sinn fremder Gast und fremder Herr tritt dieser Gott in die Welt ein. Er ist eine ungeheure Paradoxie, und so darf auch die Religion selbst nur als solche empfunden werden, wenn sie die echte und nicht die falsche sein soll. Nun war wirklich und zum ersten Mal in der Religionsgeschichte „der unbekannte und fremde Gott" zur Erlösung in der Welt, die ihn nichts angeht, weil er nichts in ihr geschaffen hat, aus barmherziger Liebe erschienen. An einen solchen Gott hatten die am wenigsten gedacht, die in ihrer subalternen und furchtsamen Frömmigkeit den „unbekannten und fremden Göttern" Altäre errichteten.

Der Mann, der diesen Gott verkündigte, war der Christ Marcion aus Sinope. Daß sie Fremdlinge auf Erden seien, glaubten damals alle Christen zu wissen. M. korrigierte diesen Glauben: Gott ist der Fremde, der sie aus ihrer Heimat der Bedrückung und des Elends in ein ganz neues, bisher auch nicht einmal geahntes Vaterhaus führt. Die eine Linie, auf die M. gehört, ist damit bezeichnet: er hat die Religion der Innerlichkeit bis zur äußersten Konsequenz vollendet. Er bringt einen Abschluß einer fünfhundertjährigen Entwicklung in bezug auf die Verinnerlichung der Religion. Der Hellenismus aber lehnte diese Konsequenz ab; denn Gnostiker und Neuplatoniker, sonst so verschieden, blieben darin einig, daß Gott zwar der „Unbekannte", jedoch nicht „der Fremde" ist [1]. Aber Marcion gehört noch auf eine zweite und dritte Linie, und sie sind seine eigentlichen. Um ihm auf diesen die richtige Stelle anzuweisen, muß man ausführlicher werden.

2.

Die Stärke und Anziehungskraft der neuen Religion, die seit den Tagen des Kaisers Claudius aus Palästina in das Reich einzog, lag neben und mit der Verkündigung von Jesus Christus, dem Gekreuzigten und Auferstandenen, in der Fülle der polaren religiösen Elemente, die sie von Anfang an umfaßt hat. Indem sie, die Höchsterscheinung des Spätjudentums, alle diese Überlieferungen und Erkenntnisse mit christlichem Vorzeichen in ihren neuen Lebensbegriff, den „Glauben", aufnahm (einschließlich der für die Gemeinschaftsbildung und den Kultus maßgebenden Ideen), war sie von Anfang an eine eminent synkretistische und eben deshalb von Anfang an die katholische Religion. Als der volle Niederschlag der Religionsgeschichte eines eminent religiösen Volkes war sie nicht zugeschnitten auf die frommen Bedürfnisse eines einzelnen Kreises, sondern auf die zahlreichen und mannigfaltigen Bedürfnisse weitester, durch Anlage und Bildung verschiedener Kreise. Sie konnte im Fortgang ihrer Entwicklung

1 Merkwürdig aber — Marcions größter Gegner, Tertullian, hat einmal (im Apolog. 1) einer ähnlichen Grundstimmung in bezug auf „die Wahrheit" Ausdruck gegeben, wie M. in bezug auf Gott: „Die Wahrheit weiß wohl, daß sie nur als Fremdling auf Erden weilt, daß man unter Fremden leicht Feinde findet und daß sie im übrigen ihre Herkunft, Heimat und Hoffnung, ihren Dank und ihre Würde im Himmel hat". Man darf sich hier, sei es auch von ferne, des Goethe schen Gedankens erinnern: „Jede Idee tritt als ein fremder Gast in die Erscheinung".

wohl komplizierter, aber nicht vielseitiger werden, als sie es schon bei ihrem Eintritt in das römische Reich gewesen.

Infolge dieser Belastung hat die christliche Religion keine Jugend gehabt, ja auch keine urwüchsige Entwicklung. Sie war von Anfang an mit einem Maximum religiöser polarer Gedanken behaftet.

Diese Religion verkündigte einen bisher unbekannten Gott, und sie predigte zugleich den von allen geahnten und vielen schon bekannten Herrn des Himmels und der Erde.

Sie warb Anhänger für einen neuen Herrn und Heiland, der jüngst unter Tiberius gekreuzigt worden, aber sie behauptete zugleich, daß er bereits bei der Schöpfung beteiligt gewesen und sich von den Zeiten der Urväter her in der Menschenbrust und durch Propheten offenbart habe.

Sie verkündigte, daß alles neu sei, was ihr Heiland bringe und schaffe, und sie überlieferte zugleich ein altes heiliges Buch, das sie den Juden entrissen hatte, in welchem seit unvordenklichen Zeiten alles geweissagt sei, was Erkenntnis und Leben bedürfen.

Sie brachte eine unerschöpfliche Fülle erhabener Mythen, und sie predigte zugleich den alles umfassenden Logos, dessen Wesen und Wirken jene darstellen.

Sie verkündigte die Alleinwirksamkeit Gottes und zugleich die Selbstherrlichkeit des freien Willens.

Sie stellte alles auf den hellen Geist und die Wahrheit, und sie brachte doch einen harten und dunklen Buchstaben sowie Sakramente, welche der religiösen Sinnlichkeit und der Mystik entgegenkamen.

Sie erklärte den Kosmos für die gute Schöpfung des guten Gottes, zugleich aber für das üble Herrschaftsgebiet der bösen Dämonen.

Sie verkündigte die Auferstehung des Fleisches und betrachtete und behandelte zugleich dieses Fleisch als den schlimmsten Feind.

Sie schärfte in einer bisher unerhörten Weise durch die Ankündigung des nahen Gerichtstags des zürnenden Gottes die Gewissen, und sie verkündigte diesen Gott, für den sie alle Aussagen des AT in Kraft erhielt, zugleich als den Gott aller Barmherzigkeit und Liebe.

Sie forderte unter Androhung der Verdammung die strengste Lebensführung in Enthaltung und Entsagung, und sie verhieß eine vollkommene Vergebung aller Sünden.

Sie kam der einzelnen Seele so entgegen, als stünde diese allein auf der Welt, und sie berief alle in einen solidarischen Bruderbund, so umfassend wie das menschliche Leben und so tief wie die menschliche Not.

Sie richtete eine religiöse Demokratie auf und war von Anfang an darauf bedacht, diese unter starke Autoritäten zu beugen.

Auch in ihrer Fortentwicklung ist keine andere Religion jemals vielseitiger, komplizierter und „katholischer" gewesen, als es diese Religion — offenkundig und noch mehr latent — schon in ihrem Anfange war trotz ihres kurzen Bekenntnisses „Christus der Herr".

Woher diese Kompliziertheit, diese complexio oppositorum, die von dem oberflächlichen Blick noch immer verkannt und erst der späteren Entwicklung dieser Religion zugeschrieben wird? Die Antwort ist einfach: die Religion, welche Jesum Christum verkündigte, überlieferte mit dem AT auch den komplizierten, aus zahlreichen Quellen geflossenen religiösen Stoff des Spätjudentums mit allen seinen verschiedenen Höhenlagen als ihren „Glauben".

Dieser „Katholizismus" war nicht im Geist des Stifters; man weiß, daß ihm alle Überlieferungen, Lehren und Formen wesentlich gleichgültig waren, wenn nur Gott erkannt, sein Wille befolgt und seinem Reiche Raum gegeben wurde. Eine weitschichtige „Lehre" aufzustellen, lag Jesus Christus ganz fern, da er, Altes hervorholend und Neues verkündigend, stets nur die praktische Religion selbst an ihren entscheidenden Hauptpunkten im Auge hatte. Und auch darin war und blieb er Jude im Sinne der Propheten, daß es ihm ausschließlich auf das Reich Gottes und wiederum auf die „Gerechtigkeit" vor Gott ankam, nur daß er sie an einem anderen Maßstabe maß als die Schriftgelehrten und Pharisäer.

Wie er empfanden wahrscheinlich auch die palästinensischen judenchristlichen Gemeinden. Auch sie kannten keine Gott-Welt-Dogmatik. Der ungeheure komplizierte und disparate Stoff, der sich im Spätjudentum zusammengefunden hatte, blieb für sie noch immer strukturlos, war nicht Glaubenslehre, sondern eben „Stoff" mit unsicherer Geltung, aus dem man Anregungen, Admonitionen und Spekulationen nach Belieben schöpfte. Auf jüdischem Boden war die Verkündigung von Jesus Christus lediglich die Erfüllung der alten messianischen Verheißungen. Eine jahrhundertelange Überlieferung und Übung hatte das Judentum in den Stand gesetzt, sich gegenüber den rezipierten neuen Stoffen dogmatisch gleichsam immun zu erhalten, d. h. zwar ihren Reichtum zu benutzen, aber schließlich doch die Einfachheit des alten Glaubens nicht zu belasten. Diese Haltung und Kunst ging automatisch auch auf das Judenchristentum über.

Aber das änderte sich — man kann sagen, mit einem Schlage —, als die christliche Predigt auf griechischen Boden übertrat. Das Judentum selbst schon hatte diese Änderung erfahren, als es mit dem Griechentum in Berührung getreten war; aber, national und kultisch noch immer eine strenge Einheit bildend, blieb die „alexandrinische" Änderung verdeckt, beargwöhnt und unkräftig, wie sie sich ja auch geschichtlich nur als eine Episode im Judentum darstellt.

Worin bestand die Änderung? Die Religion wurde zur Religionsphilosophie — denn nur als solche verstand sie der höhere griechische Geist —; sie wurde dem Logos unterworfen; zugleich aber enthielt sie die Anweisung, alles das „logisch" durchzuarbeiten und in strenge Einheit und Geltung zu setzen, was nur immer als göttliche Offenbarung überliefert erschien.

Dieses „Offenbarte" aber war ein Stoff von unübersehbarer Fülle. Unübersehbar war vor allem schon das Hauptstück, das Alte Testament. Wer vermochte diesen Reichtum, wenn er sub specie λόγου betrachtet werden sollte, zu erfassen, diese Fülle von Aussagen über Gott und über sein äußeres und inneres Wirken, diese Vielheit von Geschichten und Lehren, von Anweisungen und Trostmitteln? Und wer vermochte die verschiedenen Stufen und Höhenlagen auszugleichen, welche die heilige Urkunde umfaßte, die doch ausgeglichen werden mußten, wenn alles von ein und demselben Geiste eingegeben war? Und mit dem AT flutete ein Strom von Apokalypsen, Weisheitslehren und Spekulationen herüber, jede Welle einen uralten Namen auf ihrem Kamme tragend, der durch die Offenbarungsurkunde geheiligt erschien.

Staunend steht man vor der Tatsache, daß sich Griechen dieses alles als heilige Offenbarung gefallen ließen. Allein eines hing hier am anderen und hing letztlich am Sechstagewerk, an den Psalmen und an einigen prophetischen Stücken. Sie, und nur sie, haben, wie zahllose Zeugnisse lehren, den ungeheuren Eindruck auf die Seelen und den Geist der Griechen gemacht, der sie bestimmte, auch alles andere als Gotteswort anzuerkennen, was mit diesen Offenbarungen in unlösbarem Zusammenhang stand. Einige von ihnen bekennen dabei frei, daß nicht die Predigt von Jesus Christus sie zunächst überzeugt hat, sondern daß das AT bzw. seine Kernstücke für sie die Brücke gewesen ist, die sie zum Christentum geführt hat und fort und fort bei ihm erhielt. „Evangelio non crederem, nisi me commoveret autoritas Veteris Testamenti", ist unzweifelhaft das Bekenntnis zahlreicher griechischer Christen der ältesten Zeit gewesen. Freilich die höchsten Geister waren es nicht; in die Oberschicht des griechischen Geistes vermochten das AT und die christliche Verkündigung erst einzudringen, als sich diese Oberschicht auflöste.

Was in Palästina Messianismus und Eschatologie war, enthüllte sich auf griechischem Boden als eine Religion, deren Inhalt — infolge der Sättigung des Spätjudentums mit religiösem Stoff — ein Maximum war.

Bis auf den heutigen Tag war und ist es die vornehmste Aufgabe der katholischen Kirchen, der christlichen Religion die ganze Fülle religiösen Kapitals, vor allem die complexio oppositorum, wie sie oben mit einigen Strichen charakterisiert worden ist, und damit die beispiellose religiöse Universalität zu erhalten. Die ganze Dogmengeschichte hat sich aus dieser Aufgabe entwickelt; die Ordnung des Kultus und des Absolutionssystems ist nach ihr eingerichtet, ja selbst die komplizierte Verfassung, die sie ausgebildet hat, ist vollständig nur von hier aus zu verstehen. Aber nicht schon der alten Kirche, sondern erst der aristotelischen Dialektik der mittelalterlichen Scholastik ist es nach vielen Jahrhunderten gelungen, mit dem Gedanken einheitlich den ganzen disparaten und konträren Stoff zu beherrschen.

Es liegt am Tage, daß dieser ganze Stoff auf keiner Stufe seiner Entwicklung „Privatreligion" sein und werden konnte. Mochte der einzelne auch noch so hoch stehen, mochten sein Geist, sein Empfindungsleben und seine religiöse Erfahrung auch noch so tief und bildsam sein und mochte sein lockeres Denken auch noch so viele Zumutungen ertragen, so konnte er doch immer nur Teile für sein inneres Leben aus diesem antithetischen Komplex herausgreifen. Dem Ganzen vermochte er nur Ehrfurcht und Gehorsam entgegenzubringen, und so ist es heute noch. Diese Tatsache schuf mit Notwendigkeit eine Zwischengröße als Trägerin des Ganzen. Jede höhere Religion fordert eine hypostasierte Gemeinschaft; aber hier war sie doppelt gefordert, weil nur eine solche hier stark genug war, das Ganze zu verstehen und zu vertreten und weil die alte Volksgemeinde Isreal der neuen Entwicklung sich versagte — die Kirche. Die Kirche, einst die konkrete Gemeinde von Jerusalem, ist schon im apostolischen Zeitalter neben Christus und über die Gemeinden und die einzelnen getreten; das ist ein Beweis ihrer aus der Sache sich ergebenden Unerläßlichkeit. Aus ihrem Reichtum leben die einzelnen, nähren sich in verschiedener Weise von ihm und überlassen das Verständnis des Ganzen und die Verantwortung für dasselbe gehorsam der Kirche, d. h. dem neuen sich entwickelnden Stande der Berufstheologen.

Daß aber dieser „idealen" Kirche auf Erden auch eine reale Darstellung entsprechen müsse, diese Einsicht hat sich erst im Laufe von zwei Jahrhunderten aus den Nötigungen entwickelt, den ganzen antithetischen Komplex der christlichen Botschaft in Kraft zu erhalten und gegen Verkürzungen und Bereicherungen zu verteidigen. Die sichtbare katholische Kirche ist daher keine „Zufallserscheinung" in der Entwicklung des Christlichen, auch nicht nur ein Produkt derselben im Zusammenwirken mit der umgebenden Welt und ihren eindringenden Kräften, sondern sie war von Anfang an gefordert, wenn alle die polaren Elemente neben und miteinander in Kraft erhalten werden sollten, welche bereits in der frühesten Verkündigung dieser Religion enthalten waren. Dem ungeheuren Exponenten der christlichen synkretistischen Theologie ist als Basis die Kirche untergeschoben.

Aber zu keiner Zeit läßt sich der Trieb in dem denkenden religiösen Menschen unterdrücken, sich das, was ihm als Religion gebracht wird, in seiner Totalität innerlich anzueignen oder, wenn ihm das nicht gelingt, das sich Widersprechende, Unverstandene und Anstößige auszuscheiden. Man muß also erwarten, daß vom Anfang der Kirchengeschichte an und fort und fort Männer nicht gefehlt haben, welche sich durch Ausscheidung, Akzentuierung und einheitliche Organisierung des Stoffes in der Religion heimisch zu machen suchten. Sie wollten ein eindeutiges Christentum lehren und dieses zu einem „Glauben" zusammenfassen, der keine sich widersprechenden oder anstößigen Gedanken aufnötigte. Zwar durch das Mittel der allegorischen Methode konnte das auch gelingen und man konnte mit ihrer Hilfe vieles Disparate zusammenhalten; aber diese Methode war doch nicht überall und immer anwendbar und auch nicht jedermanns Sache.

Schon die werdende katholische Kirche nannte solche Männer, die sich aus der Gesamtüberlieferung ihre eigene Religion zurecht machten und sie jener dann entgegensetzten, „Häretiker", d. h. Lehrer, die dem folgten, was sie sich „erwählt hatten".

Hier bereits ist des vornehmsten christlichen Missionars der ältesten Zeit, des Apostels Paulus, zu gedenken. Seine Stellung ist deshalb eine so einzigartige, weil er sowohl ein Vater der katholischen Kirche als auch der „Häresie" gewesen ist.

Paulus hat stets den höchsten Wert darauf gelegt, seine Predigt mit der der „Urapostel", d. h. mit dem großen Aggregat der christlichen Verkündigung, in Einklang zu halten. Mochte er seine apostolische Selbständigkeit auch noch so sehr betonen, die volle Übereinstimmung mit der alten Verkündigung in ihrer ganzen Breite und Vielseitigkeit sollte dadurch nicht gefährdet sein. Die große Kirche auf dem Grunde der Propheten und Apostel mit dem Eckstein Christus, d. h. die Kirche der Gesamtüberlieferung, hat er gebaut. Aber andrerseits bedrohte er sie nicht nur durch die dezidierte Betonung „seines" Evangeliums, sondern er schied auch einen bedeutenden Teil aus der komplexen Überlieferung stillschweigend oder ausdrücklich aus und akzentuierte andere Elemente so, daß ihre polaren Gegensätze zu verschwinden drohten. Er bahnte den Weg zu einem eindeutigen Verständnis der christlichen Botschaft; aber ebendas ist es, was diese Botschaft als universale und als complexio oppositorum nicht verträgt. Er gab dem Begriff des Gesetzes einen neuen Inhalt und vernichtete den alten; er schied die religiöse Bedeutung der „Werke" aus; er akzentuierte das „Neue" so, daß das AT seine Gegenwartsbedeutung einzubüßen drohte; er ließ den „Geist" so über den Buchstaben triumphieren, daß dieser transitorisch und unwert erschien; er faßte die „Sünde" und wiederum die „Erlösung" unter einem einzigen Gesichtspunkt und sprach damit allen anderen die Gültigkeit ab.

Alles zusammengefaßt: das Nebeneinander der religiösen und moralischen, der theozentrischen und anthropozentrischen, der prädestinatianischen und ergistischen, der dramatischen und ruhenden Elemente, wie es aus dem Spätjudentum von der christlichen Verkündigung übernommen war, genügte ihm nicht. Von dem Glauben an den gekreuzigten Gottessohn aus trachtete er nach einer Glaubenslehre, die von der Erlösung her die Gegensätze des inneren Lebens und den Gang der Geschichte beleuchtete und eindeutig erklärte. Ob er dabei selbst schon von griechischer Gnosis bestimmt war, ist eine Kontroverse, die hier nicht erörtert zu werden braucht. Auch wenn man sie in gewissem Umfang bejaht, bleibt seine religiöse Selbständigkeit noch groß genug.

Aber merkwürdig — er hat mit den Reduktionen und kraftvollen Vereinfachungen zunächst keine nennenswerten Erfolge gehabt; nur als Fermente gewahrt man sie innerhalb der Entwicklung des nachapostolischen Christentums. Seine großen Erfolge beschränkten sich wesentlich auf die Durchführung des Rechtes der Heiden, ohne weiteres Christen zu werden; im übrigen wirkte seine Predigt mit der der vielen Namenlosen zusammen, die, mehr oder weniger kritiklos, den breiten Strom polarer religiöser Elemente als christliche Verkündigung über die Welt sich ergießen ließen. Das, was man Paulinismus nennt, ist mehr eine Weissagung auf die Zukunft als ein durchschlagendes Moment in der sich zum Katholizismus entwickelnden Kirche gewesen. Die meisten der nachapostolischen christlichen Schriftsteller bis Irenäus zeigen nur geringe Paulinische Einflüsse. In gewisser Weise geht jeder von ihnen noch seinen eigenen Weg; aber andrerseits stimmen alle zusammen, weil keiner die Verkündigung des anderen bewußt ausschließt. Alle schöpfen sie aus dem ungeheuren Sammelbecken des Spätjudentums, in welches sich auch der christliche Quell ergossen hatte. Keiner von ihnen, „Johannes" ausgenommen, kristallisiert das, was er vorträgt; man hat den Eindruck, daß jeder von ihnen auch anderes hätte hervorholen können. Keiner ist ein „Häretiker", und keiner macht die anderen zu „Häretikern". Es gab noch keine eindeutige Theologie, die mit Akzenten und Exklusiven arbeitete.

Diesen Eindruck hat man, wenn man die Schriften des Lukas, Petrus, Jakobus und die sog. Patres Apostolici liest, Clemens, und Ignatius, Barnabas und Hermas. Aber seitwärts gab es bereits neben und nach Paulus christliche „Häretiker", und seit den Tagen Hadrians wurden sie eine Macht.

Für sie alle ist charakteristisch, daß sie den Synkretismus der religiösen Motive — denn die Complexio oppositorum et variorum ist nichts anderes als Synkretismus der religiösen Motive — nicht bestehen lassen wollten, sondern ihm eine mehr oder weniger eindeutige Religionsempfindung und Lehre entgegensetzten. Mit Recht erkannten sie dabei, daß die Quelle dieses unreinlichen Synkretismus vor allem in dem AT lag, in seinem häufig inferioren Buchstaben und in den Willkürlichkeiten des Verständnisses, zu denen er Anlaß gab. Sie alle verwarfen daher das AT bald vollständig, bald in einigen seiner Hauptteile.

Aber hier bemerkt man die paradoxe Tatsache, daß diese „Häretiker", indem sie sich vom AT, vom Spätjudentum und damit vom Synkretismus der religiösen Motive zu befreien und dem Christentum einen eindeutigen Ausdruck zu geben suchten, von einer anderen Seite her doch wieder einen Synkretismus einführten. Sie alle, wenn auch in verschiedener Weise, machten Anleihen bei Mythen- und Mysterien-Komplexen, die, wie sie schon dem orthodoxen, sei es auch manchem Fremden bereits aufgeschlossenen Judentum als heidnisch-dämonisch erschienen, so auch den Vertretern der christlichen Gesamtüberlieferung befremdlich und unannehmbar waren. In den „Gnostikern" tritt uns die merkwürdige Erscheinung entgegen, daß sie, von der Heilsbedeutung der Person Christi ausgehend und sich daher an Paulus in der Regel anschließend, dem Christentum durch Ausscheidung zahlreicher religiöser und sittlicher Leitmotive eine eindeutige Struktur gaben, aber dabei bei fremden Mysterienspekulationen die erheblichsten Anleihen machten.

Bis heute ist diese Tatsache geschichtlich und religionspsychologisch nicht scharf erfaßt[1] und daher nicht erklärt. Woher kommt es, daß die ersten eindeutigen christlichen Theologen Gnostiker gewesen sind, d. h. fremde Mythen samt den zugehörigen Spekulationen in das aus dem Judentum stammende Christentum eingeführt haben?

M. E. liegt der Grund hierfür darin, daß das Judentum mit und neben seiner heiligen Urkunde, d. h. mit und neben seinem „Gesetz" keine maßgebende Theologie ausgebildet hat. Es hat zwar in seinen Apokalypsen, Weisheitsbüchern und namentlich in seiner griechischen Literatur eine Fülle von religiösen Motiven und theologischen Spekulationen zum Ausdruck gebracht und an den Buchstaben des ATs geheftet — alles dies ging als formlose Masse in die christliche Verkündigung über —; aber das systematische Bedürfnis war sozusagen schon durch das „Gesetz" erschöpft; daher kam das Judentum in der Systematik im Grunde nicht über den einen Satz heraus: „Höre Israel, der Herr dein Gott ist ein einiger Gott". Und auch dieser Satz war durch die Einführung neuer religiöser Motive bedroht, ohne daß man es recht merkte, weil es eine theologisch-kirchliche Buchführung im Judentum überhaupt nicht gab.

Hatte nun das „Gesetz" mit ihm das Volkstum seine Geltung in den neuen christlichen Gemeinden verloren — welch ein Unterschied von den Judengemeinden! —, so mußte, um dem Zerfließen zu begegnen, eine neue bindende Macht eintreten: die katholische Kirche hat sie im Laufe des zweiten Jahrhunderts in dem kombinierten Gedanken „des Glaubens" und „der apostolischen Überlieferung" gefunden und trieb aus diesem Gedanken nach der Schöpfung der apostolischen Schriftensammlung und des apostolischen Amts der Bischöfe vorsichtig und allmählich die umfassende katholische Glaubenslehre hervor. Dennoch mißglückte, kirchlich betrachtet, der erste Abschluß, wie ihn Origenes vorgelegt hatte, und mußte in der Folgezeit durchgreifend korrigiert werden. Das Mißglücken bedeutete aber keine Katastrophe, weil die formalen Autoritäten der heiligen Schriften und der apostolischen Autorität der Kirche im Bunde mit dem ganz kurzen apostolischen Glaubensbekenntnis stark genug waren, Erschütterungen zu begegnen und das Bewußtsein eines unendlichen und doch gesicherten und zuverlässigen religiösen Besitzes aufrechtzuerhalten.

1 Man übersieht es, daß der Gnostizismus negativ die Ablehnung des spätjüdischen Synkretismus der disparaten religiösen Motive und positiv den Versuch der Durchführung eines eindeutigen religiösen Motivs auf dem Boden der christlichen Verkündigung bedeutet, weil man sich den Blick durch die bunte Fülle der von den Gnostikern herangezogenen Mythenspekulationen verwirren läßt. Diese sind ja nur herangezogen, um einem im Grunde einfachen religiösen Glauben einen Unterbau zu geben, da man in ihnen den theologischen Hauptgedanken, den man befolgen wollte, philosophisch und geschichtlich ausgeprägt zu erkennen glaubte.

Aber die „Häretiker", darin dem Apostel Paulus verwandt, wollten die Herstellung der Glaubenslehre, d. h. die geistige Durchdringung und organische Zentralisierung der Religion, nicht aufschieben[1]. Schon dieses Verlangen zeigt, daß sie Griechen waren — Paulus als Glaubenslehrer ist über sein Volk hinausgewachsen —; aber nicht nur waren sie Griechen, sondern die Hervorragenden unter ihnen müssen bereits, bevor sie Christen wurden, griechische Gnostiker gewesen sein, d. h. aus jener neuen geistigen und religiösen Atmosphäre stammen, die aus der Kombination orientalischer und hellenischer Mysterienweisheit, nicht ohne Einfluß der spätpythagoreischen, -platonischen und -stoischen Philosophie, seit einigen Generationen entstanden war.

Diese „Gnosis", in so mannigfaltigen Gebilden sie sich stoff-

---

1 Von den „Apologeten" muß hier abgesehen werden; denn für sie ist es charakteristisch, daß ihre systematischen Versuche, obschon sie den Bemühungen der altkatholischen Väter zugrunde liegen, lediglich der Verteidigung der christlichen Religion, bezw. der Missionsaufgabe dienen, nicht aber aus dem inneren Drange, sich der Religion geistig zu bemächtigen, hervorgegangen sind. Soweit eine solche Absicht bei ihnen doch bemerkbar ist, bleibt sie an Tiefe der Einsicht in das Wesen der Religion hinter den Gnostikern zurück. Doch würden wir vielleicht in bezug auf Justin darüber anders urteilen, wenn wir seine verlorenen Werke besäßen.

lich, kultisch und soziologisch darstellt, ist doch in ihrer christlichen Gestalt eine eindeutige Größe und nimmt in dieser das Stadium vorweg, in welches die nicht-christliche griechische Religionsphilosophie erst durch Jamblichus getreten ist. Die christlichen Gnostiker des 2. Jahrhunderts nehmen dieses Stadium vorweg, indem sie Offenbarungsphilosophen sind und das dramatische und vertikale nachplatonische Gott-Welt-System, sowie das hohe Lied vom Geiste, seinem Abstieg und Aufstieg, mit der christlichen Verkündigung verbinden. Dieser Verkündigung wird dabei der Supremat eingeräumt; denn Jesus Christus ist der Erlöser der Geister, d. h. die göttliche Macht, welche die durch den großen Abfall geschehene widernatürliche Verbindung von Geist und Materie, in welcher der Geist in Fesseln liegt, aufhebt und die Rückkehr des Geistes in seine Heimat ermöglicht.

Die christliche Verkündigung wurde von den Gnostikern — nur von den bedeutenden ist hier die Rede — mit dem hohen Ernste und dem heiligen Enthusiasmus des Paulus ergriffen, den sie als Führer verehrten; aber sie wurde ganz eingebettet in das dualistische System, das ursprünglich und wiederum am Schluß des Dramas als pantheistisches gedacht ist, weil das wieder auf sich selbst zurückgeworfene Kenoma ein Nichts ist. Das Recht zu dieser Kombination schien durch Paulus selbst gewährleistet; denn es fanden sich in seinen Briefen Stellen genug über Gott, Seele, Geist und Fleisch, Gott dieser Welt, Welt- und Geschichtsmysterien usw., die von einem Griechen kaum anders gedeutet werden konnten als im Sinne jenes Systems, und darüber hinaus traten in ihnen Spekulationen entgegen, die von Äonen-Spekulationen kaum verschieden waren. Der Äonen-Spekulationen aber konnten diese Gnostiker nicht entraten, da nur die Nachweisung eines Pleroma von Geistern mit absteigender Göttlichkeit den tatsächlichen Zustand der Welt als einer widernatürlichen und üblen Mischung vom Guten und Bösen zu erklären vermochte. Dem AT mußten diese Gnostiker durchweg mit scharfer Kritik entgegentreten; denn bereits sein grundlegender Anfang, die Schöpfungsgeschichte, war ihnen ganz unannehmbar, weil diese Geschichte das für gut erklärte, was sie als schlecht beurteilten — die Welt in ihrer konstitutiven Zuständlichkeit, ja in ihrem Sein. Aber für das AT tauschten sie die erhabene Dramatik eines uranfänglichen vorweltlichen Geschehens und das hohe Lied des Geistes ein. Warum sollen sie mit der christlichen Verkündigung unverträglich sein, die doch in ihrer Erhabenheit und in ihrer erschütternden und beseligenden Dramatik sich ihnen als wahlverwandt erweist? Und fordert nicht geradezu das Bekenntnis: „Christus der Herr" dazu auf, diese seine Herrschaft über das All und die Geschichte so zu fassen, wie es die Spekulation hier tut?

Die Situation, in welcher sich die vom Judentum politisch völlig losgelöste christliche Religion zur Zeit Hadrians befand, war die kritischste in ihrer Geschichte. Auf der einen Seite stand die formlose, unkristallisierte, an das AT gebundene, in Wahrheit vom Spätjudentum mit der Fülle seiner Stoffe und widerstreitenden Motive abhängige christliche Verkündigung, entschlossen alles ins „Apostololische" hineinzuziehen und nach Geist und Buchstaben zu bewahren. Auf der andern Seite standen bedeutende Lehrer, die eine eindeutige und feste christliche Gott-Welt-Erkenntnis darboten, in der die Erlösung durch Jesus Christus die höchste Stelle besaß und die die erhabensten Spekulationen der Griechen über die die Welt bewegenden letzten Gegensätze fortbildeten. Jene hielten die Autorität des ATs streng aufrecht, diese verwarfen sie; aber die Situation jener war noch dadurch erschwert, daß sich ihnen selbst die Schwierigkeiten immer mehr aufdrängten, die dieses Buch enthielt. Gehört es den Christen allein oder den Christen und Juden? Für welche seiner Teile gilt noch heute der Buchstabe? Für keinen (so der Barnabasbrief, der das buchstäbliche Verständnis für teuflisch erklärt) oder für alle oder für einige? Darf man etwa eine nur zeitweilige gottgewollte Geltung gewisser Teile annehmen? Ist das Gesetz gegeben worden, um die Sünden zu vermehren? Muß man alles allegorisieren? Wie soll man allegorisieren? Erschöpft sich die Bedeutung des Buchs in dem Typischen, Prophetischen? Ist nicht manches nur zur Kennzeichnung und Strafe der Juden gesagt? usw. Allerseits war man zwar im Katholizismus darüber einverstanden, daß das Zeremonialgesetz den Christen nicht gilt; aber bereits die Begründung dieses Satzes war zweifelhaft, und über ihn hinaus gab es die peinlichsten, bis zum Widerspruch sich steigernden Verschiedenheiten. So traten „die Apostolischen" mit schweren Unsicherheiten in die große Krisis ein.

Aus ihr die Christenheit zu befreien, sah sich Marcion berufen. Kein Synkretismus, sondern Simplifikation, Einheitlichkeit und Eindeutigkeit des Christlichen — das ist die zweite Linie, auf welcher er mit seiner Predigt vom fremden Gott und seiner Kirchenstiftung erscheint. Dem unübersehbaren und vieldeutigen Komplex des Überlieferten soll eine eindeutige religiöse Botschaft entgegengestellt werden. Steht Marcion aber hier nicht nur mit Paulus, sondern auch mit den Gnostikern zusammen und der Kirche gegenüber, so lehnt er gegen diese aufs schärfste den neuen Synkretismus ab, den sie in der verkehrten Meinung einführten, die aus der Mysterienspekulation hinzugebrachten Stoffe seien dem wahren christlichen Gedanken adäquat und daher beifallswert. So ist auch hier Marcion, wie bei seiner rücksichtslosen Durchführung der Paradoxie der Religion, der Konsequente: die wahre Religion muß ebenso eindeutig und transparent sein, wie sie fremd und absolut-paradox sein muß.

3.

Religion ist Erlösung — der Zeiger der Religionsgeschichte stand im 1. und 2. Jahrhundert an dieser Stelle; niemand konnte mehr ein Gott sein, der nicht ein Heiland war. In wundervoller Weise kam die neue christliche Religion dieser Erkenntnis entgegen, und der Apostel Paulus hat sie bereits so gestaltet, daß er Christus als Erlöser zum Mittelpunkte der gesamten christlichen Verkündigung machte. Aber sein Gottesbegriff, vom ATlichen genährt, zeigt im Vergleich mit seinem Christusbegriff noch einen gewaltigen Überschuß. Ob mit Recht oder Unrecht, kann hier noch unerörtert bleiben. Unwidersprechlich ist, daß sich der Vater Jesu Christi bei Paulus keineswegs mit Christus, dem Erlöser, einfach deckt. Er ist nicht nur der Vater der Barmherzigkeit und der Gott alles Trostes, sondern er ist auch der Unerforschliche, der in einem unzugänglichen Lichte wohnt, der Schöpfer der Welt, der Autor der mosaischen Gesetzgebung, der souveräne Lenker der Geschichte, insonderheit der ATlichen, ferner der Zürnende und Strafende und endlich der Richter, der mit dem großen Gerichtstage vor der Tür steht. Gewiß — Paulus hat bereits vieles gestrichen an dem alten jüdischen Gottesbegriff, teils durch das Mittel der allegorischen Auslegung, teils durch eine geschichtsphilosophische Betrachtung, die es auf Grund des Gedankens der Erziehung des Menschengeschlechts und einer heilsnotwendigen Akkomodation gestattete, zahlreiche Anstöße, zu entfernen. So war nicht nur das Zeremonialgesetz beseitigt, sondern auch ein großer Komplex unerträglicher ATlicher Aussagen. Und neben Paulus standen zahlreiche Lehrer, die an der Aufgabe arbeiteten, den christlichen Gottesbegriff nach dem Heiland Christus zu erfassen und zu bestimmen. Auch auf dieser Linie steht Marcion; aber auch auf ihr ist er bis zur äußersten Konsequenz fortgeschritten. Neben der Erlösung darf schlechthin nichts stehen; sie ist etwas so Großes, so Erhabenes, so Unvergleichliches, daß der, der sie hat und bringt, nichts anderes sein kann als eben der Erlöser. Der christliche Gottesbegriff muß daher ausschließlich und völlig restlos nach der Erlösung durch Christus festgestellt werden. Also kann und darf Gott nichts anderes sein als das Gute im Sinne der barmherzigen und erlösenden Liebe. Alles übrige ist streng auszuscheiden: Gott ist nicht der Schöpfer, nicht der Gesetzgeber, nicht der Richter, er zürnt und straft auch nicht, sondern er ist ausschließlich die verkörperte, erlösende und beseligende Liebe. Damit ist das Trachten der Zeit nach dem Gott der Erlösung und ihre Wertschätzung der Erlösung auf den denkbar schärfsten Ausdruck gebracht.

Die Religion ist die paradoxe Botschaft vom fremden Gott; sie ist schlechthin einheitliche und eindeutige Botschaft, und sie ist die exklusive Botschaft von dem Gott, der der Erlöser ist. Jede dieser Aussagen, die zu einem harmonischen Einklang zusammengehen, entspricht dem gewaltigen Sehnen und Ringen der Zeit, spricht es in einem Maximum aus und bringt ihm die höchste Erfüllung, indem sie diese Erfüllung in der Erscheinung Christi nachweist. In der Verkündigung Marcions „von dem fremden und guten Gott, dem Vater Jesu Christi, der die ihm völlig fremden, elenden Menschen aus den schwersten Banden — nämlich aus seinem ihm anerschaffenen Wesen und aus der der Verhaftung dieses Wesens unter ein verdammendes Gesetz — zu ewigem Leben durch den Glauben erlöst", hat sie ihren kürzesten, aber doch alles umfassenden Ausdruck gefunden. Die Paradoxie der Religion, ihre eindeutige Kraft und ihr ausschließlicher Charakter als Erlösung sind hier zusammengefaßt. Nicht kehren die Menschen durch die Erlösung in ihr Vaterhaus zurück, sondern eine herrliche Fremde ist aufgetan und wird ihnen zur Heimat.

Das Interesse, das sich an das Auftreten Marcions in der Religions- und Kirchengeschichte knüpft, ist hiermit bezeichnet. Keine zweite religiöse Persönlichkeit kann ihm zur Seite gestellt werden, die im Altertum nach Paulus und vor Augustin an Bedeutung mit ihm rivalisieren könnte. Daher ist alles der höchsten Aufmerksamkeit wert, was uns von ihm erhalten oder über ihn überliefert ist. Das ist nicht wenig: wir besitzen (1) die Berichte seiner Gegner über sein angebliches „System"; wir kennen (2) den Umfang seiner Bibel, und viele Abschnitte aus ihr sind uns im Wortlaut überliefert; wir wissen (3) um die Grundsätze seiner Bibelkritik und zahlreiche seiner Korrekturen liegen vor uns; endlich sind (4) umfangreiche Reste seines großen Werkes „Antithesen" auf uns gekommen samt zahlreichen Erklärungen biblischer Stellen. Aber es fehlt bisher viel an der gebotenen Ausbeutung dieser Quellen; namentlich sind die zweite und vierte ungebührlich vernachlässigt worden, die doch die wichtigsten sind. Infolge davon erscheint sein Christentum unbiblischer, abstrakter und unlebendiger, als es in Wahrheit gewesen ist, zumal da man den Berichten der Gegner den eigenen Ausführungen M.s gegenüber einen viel zu großen Spielraum gelassen hat. Wer z. B. hat darauf aufmerksam gemacht, daß M. eine Reihe von Aussagen stehen gelassen, nach denen die Begriffe „gerecht", „Gerechtigkeit", „rechtfertigen", „Gericht" auch vom guten Gotte gelten? Wer hat bisher den großen Unterschied aufgedeckt, der auch nach ihm zwischen den Uraposteln und den judaistischen Pseudoaposteln besteht? Wer seine Stellung zum Gesetz und zum AT über die dürftige Erkenntnis hinausgeführt, daß er sie verworfen hat? In allen diesen und vielen anderen Problemen hat sich die Geschichtsschreibung bislang wesentlich damit begnügt, die kurzen dezidierten Mitteilungen der Gegner zu wiederholen. Man bewegt sich heute noch durchaus in ihrem Fahrwasser: sie wollten zeigen, daß er Dualist war, aber aus dem, was er im NT stehen gelassen hat, widerlegt werden kann; der echten Geschichtsschreibung aber ist die Aufgabe gestellt, aus ebendiesem Materiale zu zeigen, was er denn eigentlich gewollt hat. Das ist mehr und tiefer und reicher, als was man bisher ermittelt hat. Auch ist es eine Freude, sich mit einem tief religiösen Mann von intellektueller Reinlichkeit zu beschäftigen, der allen Synkretismus, Allegorie und Sophisterei ablehnt.

II. Marcions Leben und Wirksamkeit [1].

Marcion war nach guter Überlieferung aus Sinope, der wichtigsten griechischen Handelsstadt am Südufer des Schwarzen Meeres, gebürtig, ein Landsmann also des Cynikers Diogenes, worauf Tert. (adv. Marc. I, 1) anspielt[2]. Er mag um das Jahr 85 oder etwas später geboren sein.

Im Pontus gab es in der frühen Kaiserzeit Judengemeinden. Der Mitarbeiter des Paulus, Aquila, stammte von dort (Apostelgesch. 18, 2) und ebenso der Bibelübersetzer gleichen Namens, ein jüdischer Proselyt. Er war ein genauer Zeitgenosse Marcions, ja, wenn man Epiphanius trauen darf, auch aus Sinope gebürtig (Iren. bei Euseb., V, 8, 10; Epiphan., De mens. et pond. 14 f)[3]. Merkwürdig — aus dieser Stadt sind der schärfste Gegner des Judentums und der skrupulöseste Übersetzer der jüdischen heiligen Schrift gleichzeitig hervorgegangen! [4] Gerne würde man

---

1 S hierzu die Beilage I: „Untersuchungen über die Person und die Lebensgeschichte Marcions".

2 Nur vom Pontus, nicht von Sinope, hat Tert. gewußt. — In der Bedürfnislosigkeit berührten sich Marcion und Diogenes. Die Gegner nannten diesen „den tollgewordenen Sokrates"; in bezug auf das Verhältnis jenes zu Paulus könnte Übelwollen etwas Ähnliches behaupten.

3 Daß beide Aquila' Pontiker waren, scheint mir unverdächtig (gegen Schürer, Gesch. des Volkes Israel Bd. III S. 435). Sinope als Vaterstadt des Bibelübersetzers wird man gelten lassen dürfen, auch wenn die anderen Angaben des Epiphanius (Aquila ein Verwandter Hadrians, zuerst Christ, als Astrologe ausgeschlossen, dann Jude) dahingestellt bleiben müssen.

4 Nach Epiphanius (l. c. 17 f., vgl. Chron. pasch. I p. 491) soll auch der andere jüdische Bibelübersetzer, Theodotion, aus dem Pontus, ja aus Sinope, stammen, ursprünglich Marcionit gewesen, dann zum Judentum hier Näheres über die Propaganda des Judentums erfahren und ihre antithetischen Wirkungen; aber die Überlieferung ist schweigsam.

In jedem Sinne antithetisch sind übrigens Marcion und der Bibelübersetzer Aquila nicht, vielmehr besteht sogar eine gewisse Wahlverwandtschaft: auch Marcion will von dem Buchstaben des ATs nichts abmarkten und buchstäbelt in seiner Weise wie Aquila. Das haben seine kirchlichen Gegner wohl bemerkt und ihm vorgerückt. Es läßt sich aber überhaupt die Frage aufwerfen, ob M. nicht eine Zeit erlebt hat, in der er dem Judentum nahe gestanden hat. Von hellenischem Geiste spürt man schlechterdings nichts in ihm, die jüdischen Auslegungen des ATs sind ihm wohlbekannt, und seine ganze Stellung zum AT und Judentum läßt sich am besten als Ressentiment begreifen. Bereits in den „Neuen Studien zu M." S. 15 habe ich die Hypothese aufgestellt: M. bezw. seine Familie kommt vom Judentum her; jüdischer Proselytismus ging der Bekehrung zum Christentum voran, was ja nicht auffallend, sondern bei den Bekehrungen ältester Zeit die Regel gewesen ist. Dafür spricht auch, daß er die messianischen Weissagungen ebenso erklärt wie die Juden[1]; sein Christentum erbaut sich also auf einem Ressentiment in bezug auf das Judentum und seine Religion. Eben deshalb hat er auch eine ähnliche Erfahrung machen können, wie Paulus, nur daß sie extensiv viel weiter greift wie beim Apostel, der nur mit dem Gesetze bricht, nicht aber mit dem Gesetzgeber und dem AT.

Christen im Pontus setzt der erste Petrusbrief voraus, und wie zahlreich und stark die christlichen Gemeinden dort schon übergetreten sein und unter Commodus gewirkt haben. Allein soweit man seine Angaben zu kontrollieren vermag, bestehen sie die Probe nicht. Nach Irenäus (l. c.) war Theodotion Ephesier und Proselyt wie Aquila; auch gegen den chronologischen Ansatz des Epiphanius erheben sich starke Bedenken.

---

1 Er kennt ihre zeitgeschichtlichen Deutungen und er hält das ganze AT für wahre Geschichte und traut seinem Buchstaben. Welche Gnostiker, welche Kirchenlehrer haben das sonst getan? Jene machen Unterscheidungen oder nehmen Lug und Trug an, diese allegorisieren. M. aber hält's mit den Juden! Man erinnere sich hier, daß Tert.s Polemik gegen M. und gegen die Juden auf großen Strecken einfach identisch ist.

z. Z. Trajans waren, lehrt uns der berühmte Brief des Plinius an Trajan. Er ist nach neueren Untersuchungen in oder bei Amisus geschrieben [1]. Auf eine feste Organisation der dortigen Gemeinden am Anfang des 2. Jahrhunderts lassen die „Diakonissen" schließen, welche Plinius erwähnt.

Daher hat die auch sonst unverdächtige Nachricht Hippolyts, Marcion sei der Sohn des Bischofs (eines Bischofs) von Sinope gewesen, nichts gegen sich; ja die Entwicklung Marcions wird uns verständlicher, wenn er von frühen Jahren her Christ gewesen ist und in der großen Gemeinde gestanden hat. Zeitlebens hat er, im Unterschied von den Gnostikern, für die große Gemeinde, d. h. die ganze Christenheit, gearbeitet, und niemals hat er ein Sektierer sein wollen. Auch seine Vertrautheit mit dem AT und der, sei es auch zum Abscheu gewordene, Respekt vor seinem Buchstaben erklären sich leichter, wenn er mit dem heiligen Buche aufgewachsen ist.

Aber die andere Nachricht, welche ebenfalls Hippolyt bringt, Marcion sei in Sinope von seinem Vater exkommuniziert worden, weil er eine Jungfrau verführt habe, verdient keinen Glauben. Hippolyt selbst hat sie in seinem späteren antignostischen Werk, der Refutatio, nicht wiederholt; Irenäus, Rhodon, Tertullian, die Alexandriner und Eusebius schweigen über sie; sie entstammt gewiß der polemischen Topik; generell sagt Hegesipp, die Ketzer hätten die Kirche, die reine Jungfrau, verführt [2].

Dagegen braucht man nicht zu bezweifeln, daß M. von seinem eigenen Vater exkommuniziert worden ist. Die Nachricht ist so singulär in der Ketzergeschichte, daß sie schon deshalb Glauben verdient. Ist M. aber in Sinope exkommuniziert worden, so wird es einer Irrlehre wegen geschehen sein, und das ist ja auch der Sinn der Legende, er habe eine Jungfrau verführt.

Exkommunikationen im Sinne der Praxis der späteren Kirche kann es unter Hadrian noch nicht gegeben haben: sie

---

1 S. Wilcken im „Hermes" Bd. 49 (1914) S. 120 ff.

2 Die Geschichte deshalb für wahrscheinlich zu halten, weil die strenge sexuelle Askese, die M. nachmals geboten hat, als Ressentiment zu verstehen sei, wäre auch dann noch fragwürdig, wenn die Anekdote genügend bezeugt wäre.

besagten teils mehr, teils weniger. Mehr, denn sie konnten unter so strengen Formen vollzogen worden sein, daß der Ausgestoßene dem Satan übergeben wurde; weniger, denn das Urteil der exkommunizierenden Gemeinde war nicht für andere Gemeinden ohne weiteres gültig. Sicher aber dürfen wir annehmen, daß nur eine schwere Irrlehre die Exkommunikation veranlaßt hat; denn nur im äußersten Fall entschloß man sich damals einen Bruder auszuschließen, wenn er doch Christus als seinen Herrn anerkannte. M. muß also schon damals die Grundzüge seiner der großen Kirche unerträglichen Lehre vertreten haben[1].

Er begab sich nach Kleinasien; es war schon eine Propagandareise. Eine unverächtliche Quelle erzählt, daß er Briefe Pontischer Brüder mit sich führte. Nur Empfehlungsschreiben können es gewesen sein, woraus folgt, daß er in seiner Heimat doch auch Anhänger besaß, daß seine Ausschließung dort also nicht ohne Widerspruch erfolgt war. Allein auch in Kleinasien (Ephesus: so die Quelle; wohl auch Smyrna und vielleicht Hierapolis), wo er Anerkennung bei den Gemeindevorstehern suchte und ihnen seine Auffassung des Evangeliums vorlegte, wurde er abgelehnt und zurückgestoßen. Damals wird wohl jene Begegnung mit Polykarp stattgefunden haben — oder doch erst später in Rom? —, von der uns Irenäus (nach Papias?) berichtet. Den Anerkennung begehrenden wies Polykarp in schärfster Weise ab: „Ich anerkenne dich als Erstgeborenen des Satan.“ M. muß schon seine „Zweigötter“-Lehre und die Verwerfung des AT vorgetragen und der Gemeinde insinuiert haben, wenn Polykarp ihm in dieser grausamen Weise begegnete.

Jetzt begab sich M. nach Rom: Pontus, Kleinasien, Rom be-

---

1 Von seinem Bildungsgang wissen wir nichts; aber seine Textkritik beweist, daß er ein gebildeter Mann war, also mindestens auch das übliche philosophische Wissen besaß. Seine dezidierte Abneigung gegen die Philosophie (s. u.) spricht nicht dagegen. „Ardens ingenii et doctissimus“ hat ihn Hieronymus, sicher Origenes ausschreibend (er beruft sich auf eine Überlieferung) Comm. in Osee l. II zu c. 10, 1 genannt; s. d. Motto oben S. 1. Daß die Kirchenväter alle möglichen griechischen Hauptphilosophen für seine Lehrmeister ausgegeben haben, kommt nicht in Betracht; aber ein Mann, den Origenes „doctissimus“ genannt hat, muß erstlich sehr bibelkundig gewesen sein — das können auch wir noch feststellen — und zweitens auch eine gute weltliche Bildung besessen haben.

deuteten auch kirchlich schon damals eine Klimax: wer auf die ganze Christenheit Einfluß gewinnen wollte, mußte in die Welthauptstadt gehen[1]. Auf seinem eigenen Schiffe fuhr er dorthin; denn wir hören aus besten Quellen (Rhodon in Rom, Tertullian), daß er ein begüterter Schiffsherr und in Rom als solcher bekannt war (ὁ ναύτης Μαρκίων, nauclerus [2]). Diese Reise fällt wahrscheinlich in das 1. Jahr des Antoninus Pius, sicher um diese Zeit. Eine Nachricht bei Hieronymus lautet, M. habe schon vorher eine Anhängerin dorthin geschickt, um seine Ankunft vorzubereiten. Das ist undurchsichtig.

Trotz der Abweisungen im Pontus und in Asien empfand und wußte sich M. noch immer als ein Glied der allgemeinen Christenheit und daher als „Bruder"; nach seiner Überzeugung vertrat er das Evangelium, wie es der Christenheit geschenkt war und wie sie es vertreten sollte. Er trat daher der römischen Christengemeinde bei und schenkte ihr bei seinem Eintritt 200 000 Sesterzen. In Rom wird man zunächst nichts von seiner Vorgeschichte und seiner Lehre gewußt haben; aber wenn sie auch bald bekannt geworden sind, so lag nicht sofort eine Nötigung für die Gemeinde vor, ihn auszuschließen. Sie konnten abwarten. Das Geldgeschenk mag auch dazu beigetragen haben, die Kritik an dem neuen Gemeindegliede nicht zu beschleunigen, und M. selbst kann die Propaganda seiner Lehre vorsichtig begonnen haben. Es ist auch für die Zeit nach seinem Bruche mit der großen Kirche charakteristisch, daß uns kein schmähendes oder böses Wort über diese und ihre Mitglieder überliefert ist [3].

Es ist aber auch möglich, ja es hat eine gewisse Wahrscheinlichkeit, daß M. sich zuerst in Rom noch ganz zurückgehalten hat, um in ernster Arbeit die Grundlagen seiner Lehre aufs sicherste auszubilden. Die Herstellung des e c h t e n Textes des Evangeliums und der Briefe des Paulus, d. h. ihre Reinigung

---

1 Vielleicht hat auch die Erwägung Marcion zur Reise nach Rom bestimmt, daß dort der Bruch der Kirche mit dem Judentum vollständiger war als in Asien. Man fastete am Sabbat und hielt Ostern nicht mit den Juden zusammen. M. konnte hoffen, dort einen günstigeren Boden zu finden.

2 Wiederholt benutzt Tertullian den weltlichen Beruf Marcions, um ihn zu verspotten.

3 Er entrüstet sich über die Urapostel und die judaistischen Evangelisten; aber die große Kirche seiner Zeit sieht er als verführte an.

von den judaistischen Interpolationen, und sodann die Abfassung des großen kritischen Werkes „Antithesen", das die Unvereinbarkeit des ATs mit dem Evangelium und seine Herkunft von einem anderen Gott erweisen sollte, waren so umfangreiche und gewaltige Aufgaben, daß sie nur in stiller, anhaltender Arbeit erfüllt werden konnten. Da ihnen der Text zugrunde liegt, der uns für Rom und das Abendland stärker bezeugt ist als für das Morgenland, ist es wahrscheinlich, wenn auch nicht gewiß, daß M. seine grundlegenden Werke erst in Rom verfaßt hat, und da der Bruch mit der römischen Kirche und die sich anschließende große Propaganda sie voraussetzen, muß M. sie im J. 144 abgeschlossen haben; denn in dieses Jahr (Ende Juli) fällt der Bruch. Also hat M. wahrscheinlich als reifer Mann in den ca. 5 Jahren zwischen 139 und 144 sein Neues Testament und sein Antithesenwerk in Rom geschaffen; doch ist die Möglichkeit offen zu lassen, daß das schon in Kleinasien geschehen ist.

Als er sie vollendet hatte, trat er vor die römische Gemeinde hin und forderte ihre Presbyter (wichtig, daß die Quelle [Hippolyt] hier keinen Bischof erwähnt) auf, zu dieser seiner Arbeit und damit zu seiner Lehre Stellung zu nehmen. Es kam zu einer förmlichen Verhandlung — der ersten dieser Art, die wir aus der alten Kirchengeschichte kennen, andererseits aber eine Parallele zum sog. Apostelkonzil. Von Luk. 6, 43 („der gute und der faule Baum") ging M. bei der Verhandlung aus. Auch der in seinem Sinn noch deutlichere Spruch Luk. 5, 36 f. („neuer Wein, alte Schläuche") scheint schon damals eine Rolle gespielt zu haben; jedenfalls bildete auch er eine Grundlage der Ausführungen M.s. Beide Sprüche in ihrer scharfen Antithese sind in der Tat als Ausgangspunkte der Marcionitischen Lehre besonders geeignet.

Die Verhandlungen endeten mit einer scharfen Abweisung der unerhörten Lehre und mit dem Ausschluß M.s; man gab ihm auch die 200 000 Sesterzen zurück. Noch nach zwei Menschenaltern wußte nicht nur Hippolyt in Rom, sondern auch Tertullian in Karthago von diesem eindrucksvollen Vorgang. Es wird für immer denkwürdig bleiben, daß auf der ersten römischen Synode, von der wir wissen, ein Mann vor den Presbytern gestanden hat, der ihnen den Unterschied von Gesetz und Evangelium darlegte und ihr Christentum für ein judaistisches erklärte. Wer denkt hier nicht an Luther![1]

Schon damals vielleicht oder später erst wurde M. — Tertullian berichtet es — auch ein Brief vorgehalten (vermutlich aus dem Archiv der römischen Kirche), in welchem er selbst bekannt hatte, daß er früher den Glauben der großen Kirche geteilt habe. Man braucht an der Echtheit des Briefs nicht zu zweifeln; und selbst wenn er besagte, daß M. sich, als er nach Rom kam, noch als in Glaubenseinheit mit den römischen Christen stehend gewußt hat (was ja auch der Eintritt in die Gemeinde und das Geldgeschenk beweisen), so ist das nicht auffallend[2]; denn M. nahm ja an, daß seine Lehre die genuine sei und daß sie daher — bis zum Beweise des Gegenteils — auch die Zustimmung der Christengemeinden finden müsse. Ganz vergeblich bemüht sich daher Tertullian, M. aus dem Brief einen Strick zu drehen. Auch sittlich ist es zu rechtfertigen, daß M., nachdem er in Pontus und in Asien abgewiesen war, in Rom nicht sofort als Reformator auftreten, sondern zunächst weiter forschen und seiner Glaubenslehre die volle Begründung geben wollte in der Hoffnung, sie würde in dieser Gestalt von der Gemeinde der Welthauptstadt und dann von der ganzen Christenheit anerkannt werden.

Gewiß mit schwerem Herzen hat M. das Urteil, das ihn ausschloß und seine Lehre als schlimmste Ketzerei ablehnte, entgegengenommen; aber nun zog er mit gewaltiger Energie die Konsequenz und begann seine reformatorische Propaganda im größten Stil. Schon wenige Jahre später, um das J. 150, schreibt Justin in der Apologie, daß sie sich über das ganze Menschengeschlecht erstrecke, und stellt M. neben den Erzketzer Simon Magus, nachdem er bereits vorher in seinem verlorenen Syntagma wider alle Häresien die literarische Bekämpfung dieses „Apostels der Dämonen" begonnen hatte. „Marcions häretische Tradition hat die ganze Welt erfüllt", schreibt auch Tertullian (adv. Marc. V, 19).

---

1 M. hat den Römern nicht vom Gott des Lichts und der Finsternis nicht vom Gegensatz des Geistes und der Materie o. ä. gesprochen, sondern von dem Gegensatz des AT.s und des Evangeliums, der die Annahme zweier Götter fordere.

2 Der Brief kann aber auch einer viel älteren Zeit angehören.

Schwerlich länger als etwa 15 Jahre nach dem J. 144 hat M.s Wirksamkeit gedauert; denn keine Quelle berichtet, daß er noch zur Zeit Marc Aurels gelebt hat. Wann und wo er gestorben ist, wissen wir nicht; die Legende bei Tertullian, er habe auf dem Totenbette bereut und um Wiederaufnahme in die Kirche gebeten, verdient keinen Glauben [1].

Leider wissen wir von den Jahren der großen Wirksamkeit M.s gar nichts; wir sehen nur die Früchte, die außerordentliche Verbreitung der Marcionitischen Kirche in allen Provinzen des Reichs schon im Zeitalter der Antonine; denn nicht labile Sekten, sondern eine große Kirche, bestehend aus geordneten und festgefügten Teilgemeinden — die Kirche Jesu Christi — setzte M. im Bewußtsein, der berufene Nachfolger des Paulus zu sein, der großen Kirche entgegen. Eben deshalb hat ihn Justin neben Simon den Magier gestellt. Nur die eine wichtige Nachricht ist noch auf uns gekommen, daß M. mit dem syrischen Gnostiker Cerdo in Rom in Verbindung getreten sei und dieser Einfluß auf ihn gewonnen habe. Einige Kirchenväter, Irenäus folgend, haben diesen Einfluß maßlos übertrieben, um M.s Originalität herabzudrücken und ihn dem landläufigen Gnostizismus unterzuordnen [2]; aber das Hauptstück der Lehre M.s, die Entgegensetzung des guten fremden Gottes und des gerechten Gottes, stammt nicht von Cerdo, der vielmehr den Gegensatz des guten und des schlechten Gottes, wie andere Gnostiker, verkündigte und ein syrischer Vulgärgnostiker war. Da die Marcionitische Kirche u. W. Cerdo nie genannt und ausschließlich M. als ihren Stifter verehrt hat, so beruht das Abhängigkeitsverhältnis, in welches Irenäus und Hippolyt M. gesetzt haben, auf einem Irrtum, bzw. einer Fälschung. Aber andrerseits ist es möglich, daß gewisse Züge der Lehre M.s, die loser mit der Hauptlehre zusammenhängen, dagegen mit syrisch-gnostischen Lehren aufs nächste verwandt sind (die Fassung des Verhältnisses von Geist und Fleisch; der strenge Doketismus), auf den Einfluß Cerdos zurückgehen.

---

1 Auch sie gehört höchst wahrscheinlich der polemischen konfessionellen Topik an, die noch heute in Kraft ist, wie die böse Fabel von der Verführung einer Jungfrau.

2 S. die Beilage II: „Cerdo und Marcion“.

Muß dies anerkannt werden, so ist es unwahrscheinlich, daß M., wie Epiphanius behauptet, erst nach seinem Bruch mit der römischen Gemeinde von Cerdo beeinflußt worden ist oder sich gar nunmehr „zur Häresie Cerdos geflüchtet hat"; denn jene Züge der Verwandtschaft treten in der Kritik des Textes des Evangeliums und der Paulusbriefe deutlich hervor sowie in dem Antithesenwerk M.s; diese Arbeiten aber sind (s. o.) schwerlich erst nach dem Bruch mit der Kirche abgefaßt worden [1].

Der Tag dieses Bruchs, unmittelbar nach den Verhandlungen mit den Presbytern der römischen Kirche, d. h. die Stiftung ihrer Reformationskirche, ist im Gedächtnis der Marcionitischen Kirche geblieben; er fiel in den Juli des J. 144; denn die Marcioniten berechneten nach ihm den zeitlichen Abstand zwischen Christus und M. auf 115 Jahre und 6½ Monate.

Daß M. sich persönlich (in Rom?) mit Valentin und Basilides berührt hat („wie ein Älterer mit Jüngeren"), kann man mindestens nicht mit Wahrscheinlichkeit aus einer Stelle bei Clemens (Strom. VII, 18, 107) schließen, und die abgerissene Nachricht im Muratorischen Fragment, Valentin und noch ein anderer hätten für M. ein neues Psalmbuch geschrieben, bleibt ganz dunkel. Ist der christliche römische Lehrer Ptolemäus, den Justin in der sog. zweiten Apologie erwähnt, mit dem bekannten

---

1 Von den persönlichen Verhältnissen Cerdos ist so gut wie nichts bekannt. Was die Voraussetzungen seiner Lehre betrifft, so bringt ihn Irenäus mit den Simonianern in Zusammenhang (ἀπὸ τῶν περὶ τὸν Σίμωνα), was nichts besagt, und bezeichnet M. als seinen Diadochen. Hippolyt nennt ihn den Lehrer M.s und sagt, daß er aus Syrien nach Rom gekommen sei. Epiphanius bringt ihn u. a. mit Satornil in Verbindung, zu dem er in der Tat zu gehören scheint. Aber auf guter Kunde beruht die Angabe des Irenäus, daß Cerdo wie Valentin unter dem Bischof Hygin nach Rom gekommen sei und daß sein Verhältnis zur Kirche sich erst allmählich negativ geklärt hat (πολλάκις εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἐλθὼν καὶ ἐξομολογούμενος οὕτως διετέλεσε, ποτὲ μὲν λαθροδιδασκαλῶν, ποτὲ δὲ πάλιν ἐξομολογούμενος, ποτὲ δὲ ὑπό τινων ἐλεγχόμενος ἐφ' οἷς ἐδίδασκε κακῶς καὶ ἀφιστάμενος τῆς τῶν θεοσεβῶν συνοδίας). Dies ist die kostbarste Nachricht, die wir in bezug auf die Schwierigkeiten besitzen, die im vorkatholischen Zeitalter, die Ausscheidung von Häretikern betreffend, bestanden haben, und wirft auch ein Licht auf M.s Verhältnis zur Kirche, bis es zum definitiven Bruch in Rom kam. Beide Häretiker wollten augenscheinlich in der großen Kirche bleiben.

römischen Valentinianer gleichen Namens identisch (was nicht unwahrscheinlich), so kann sich M. mit diesem in Rom berührt haben.

III. Der Ausgangspunkt Marcions.

Der Ausgangspunkt der Kritik M.s an der Überlieferung kann nicht verfehlt werden: er war in dem paulinischen Gegensatz von Gesetz und Evangelium, übelwollender, kleinlicher und grausamer Strafgerechtigkeit einerseits und barmherziger Liebe andrerseits gegeben. M. hat sich in die Grundgedanken des Galater- und Römerbriefs versenkt und in ihnen die volle Aufklärung über das Wesen der christlichen Religion, das AT und die Welt gefunden. Es muß ein Tag voll Lichts für ihn gewesen sein, aber auch voll Schauderns über die Dunkelheit, die dieses Licht in der Christenheit wieder geschwärzt hat, als er erkannte, daß Christus einen ganz neuen Gott darstellt und verkündet, ferner daß die Religion schlechthin nichts anderes ist als der hingebende Glaube an diesen Erlöser-Gott, der den Menschen umschafft, endlich daß das gesamte Weltgeschehen vorher das schlechte und widerliche Drama einer Gottheit ist, die keinen höheren Wert besitzt als die stumpfe und ekelhafte Welt selbst, deren Schöpfer und Regierer sie ist.

Alle religiösen Antithesen des Paulus wurden durch diese Erkenntnis auf den schärfsten Ausdruck gebracht, der sich aber durch diese Steigerung weit von den Absichten des Apostels entfernte. Marcion blieb ihnen nur in der beseligenden Gewißheit der gratia gratis data mit ihrem Kontraste zu der iustitia ex operibus treu, sowie in der Empfindung einer alle Vernunft übersteigenden Befreiung gegenüber dem Zustande einer schrecklichen Heillosigkeit; in dieser Überzeugung war die Universalität der Erlösung gegenüber ihrer Beschränkung auf ein Volk notwendig eingeschlossen. Das Religionsprinzip, welches in dem Gegensatz von Gesetz und Evangelium alle höhere Wahrheit zusammenfaßt, ist auch das Prinzip der Erklärung des gesamten Seins und Geschehens.

Diese Erkenntnis, in welcher sich die Religion der Erlösung und Innerlichkeit in einer nicht zu überbietenden Weise zur alles bestimmenden ethischen Metaphysik steigert, hatte die Preisgabe des AT zur unerbittlichen Folge. Was das aber für einen Frommen bedeuten mußte, der, wie M. mit der allgemeinen christlichen Überlieferung verwachsen gewesen (ja vielleicht vorher mit der jüdischen), ist heute kaum mehr nachzuempfinden. Diese Umwertung des ATs, die den Verzicht auf dasselbe bedeutete, hat sich nur unter tiefster Erschütterung und heißesten Schmerzen bei ihm vollziehen können; denn er mußte verbrennen, was er bisher angebetet hatte, und mußte mit dem Gesetz auch Propheten und Psalmen verurteilen, die doch so vieles enthielten, was mit dem Evangelium zu stimmen oder es vorzubereiten schien. Irrtum! Irrtum! Auch ihre erhebendsten und trostreichsten Worte sind nur Schein und Täuschung! Auch aus ihnen blickt, nur verlarvt, das schreckliche Antlitz des grausamen Judengottes und Weltschöpfers; denn Paulus meint nicht nur das Gesetz im engeren Sinn, wenn er verkündet, daß Christus das Ende desselben sei und daß es gegeben sei, um die Sünden zu vermehren, sondern die ganze alte Heilsordnung mit allen ihren Vertretern, und auch Christus sagt, daß nicht nur das Gesetz, sondern auch die Propheten nur bis Johannes reichen, daß sie also keine Geltung mehr besitzen[1]. Nichts aber kann göttlich sein, was seine Geltung verliert.

Das verkündet Christus selbst in seinem Evangelium; aber er bestätigt überhaupt und durchweg das Paulinische Evangelium. Hat er nicht das Gesetz fort und fort in seinem Leben und durch seine Anweisungen durchbrochen? Hat er nicht den Gesetzeslehrern den Krieg erklärt? Hat er nicht die Sünder berufen, während sie nur Gerechte als Jünger wollten? Hat er nicht den größten Propheten des ATlichen Gottes, Johannes den Täufer, für einen unwissenden und Ärgernis nehmenden Mann erklärt? Und vor allem — hat er nicht kurz und bündig gesagt, daß nur der Sohn den Vater kennt und offenbart, daß also alle, die vor ihm gewesen sind, einen falschen Gott verkündet haben?

---

1 Über eine gewisse, hier doch statthabende Einschränkung — weil das Sittengesetz dem Sinnlichen gegenüber zu Recht besteht — siehe später.

Diese Äußerungen sind von einer unerbittlichen Sicherheit und Klarheit; also ist auch die Auslegung zweier programmatischer Sprüche Christi klar und lassen keinen Zweifel zu. Wenn er von den zwei Bäumen geredet hat, dem schlechten und dem guten, die ausschließlich solche Früchte hervorzubringen vermögen, die durch ihre Natur gegeben sind, so kann er damit nur die zwei großen göttlichen Autores meinen, den ATlichen Gott, der ausschließlich Wertloses und Schlimmes schafft, und den Vater Jesu Christi, der ausschließlich Gutes hervorbringt; und wenn er es verbietet, auf ein altes Kleid einen neuen Lappen zu setzen und neuen Wein in alte Schläuche zu gießen, so hat er damit den Seinen aufs strikteste untersagt, seine Predigt mit der ATlichen irgendwie zu verbinden; diese müssen sich vielmehr auf immer fern bleiben, wie sie sich von Haus aus fremd und feindlich sind.

Das AT ist preisgegeben — in dem Momente stand aber die neue Religion nackt und bloß, entwurzelt und schutzlos da. Auf den Altersbeweis, auf alle geschichtlichen und literarischen Beweise überhaupt galt es zu verzichten! Aber eine tiefere Erwägung hat ihn belehrt, daß eben diese Schutz- und Beweislosigkeit von der Sache selbst gefordert ist und sie daher in ihrem wahren Wesen unterstützt. Die Gnade ist „gratis data", so lehren Christus und Paulus, und das ist der ganze Inhalt der Religion. Wie könnte die Gnade aber gratis data sein, wenn der, der sie spendet, auch nur die geringste Verpflichtung hätte, sie zu erweisen? Aber wenn er der Schöpfer des Menschen und wenn er vom Anfang her ihr Erzieher und Gesetzgeber wäre, so müßte er sich ihrer annehmen. Nur eine elende und sich Gott gegenüber schimpflich duckende Sophisterei könnte die Gottheit von dieser Verpflichtung entlasten! Also darf er keinen naturhaft-geschichtlichen Zusammenhang mit den Menschen haben, deren er sich erbarmt und die er erlöst; also kann er nicht der Weltschöpfer und Gesetzgeber sein; also kann auch weder das AT noch sonst eine erträumte Vorgeschichte Anspruch auf Geltung haben. Daß der Erlöser-Gott, der in Wahrheit Gott ist, in keiner Offenbarung irgendwelcher Art vor seiner Erscheinung in Christus an die Menschen herangetreten ist, ist daher durch die Natur seiner Erlösung gefordert:

nur als der absolut Fremde darf er verstanden werden. Daraus ergibt sich aber auch, daß das Feindselige, wovon die Erlösung durch Christus befreit, nichts Geringeres sein kann als die Welt selbst mitsamt ihrem Schöpfer. Da nun M. darin der jüdisch-christlichen Überlieferung treu blieb, daß er den Weltschöpfer und den Judengott identifizierte und in dem AT kein Lügenbuch, sondern die wahrhaftige Darstellung der wirklichen Geschichte sah — eine merkwürdige Einschränkung seines religiösen Antijudaismus! —, so mußte ihm der Judengott samt seiner Urkunde, dem AT, zum eigentlichen Feinde werden.

Man beachte hier noch einmal, wie schlechthin alles in dieser Betrachtung durch das religiöse christliche Prinzip bestimmt ist, welches freilich seine Schwingen nicht, frei über der Zeit schwebend, zu entfalten vermag, weil es die, sei es auch gebrochene, Kette des ATs nicht abstreifen kann. Die erhabene Konsequenz, mit der hier das Prinzip des Guten, als erlösende Kraft und ausschließlich in dieser Eigenschaft, zum obersten Prinzip erhoben ist, und ihm nicht sowohl „die Materie" als vielmehr grundzüglich das vielgestaltige schlimme Ethos der „Welt" zum Gegensatz gegeben wird[1], kontrastiert für uns in abstoßender Weise mit der Rückständigkeit, die vom AT bei aller Verurteilung doch nicht loszukommen vermag. Doch diesen Kontrast haben damals höchstens Griechen wie Celsus empfinden können; den Christen jeglicher Schattierung, die alle in den Ketten des ATs lagen, konnte er gar nicht zum Bewußtsein kommen. Sie sahen nur, daß M. das AT verachtete, aber sahen nicht, daß er in seinem Rahmen dachte.

Nachdem aber Marcion Klarheit über das Grundprinzip und

1 Die Frage, wovon Christus erlöst hat — von den Dämonen, vom Tode, von der Sünde, von der Schuld, vom Fleische (alle diese Antworten finden sich schon in sehr früher Zeit) — beantwortet M. radikal: er hat uns von der Schöpfung (also auch von uns selbst) und ihrem Gott erlöst, um uns zu Kindern eines neuen und fremden Gottes zu machen.

den Grundgegensatz gefunden hatte, begannen erst für ihn die neuen Aufgaben. Er mußte nun den wahren, so schwer verkannten Inhalt der Verkündigung Jesu und des Paulus für Erkenntnis und Leben darlegen. Das war gegenüber den disparaten und wogenden, an die spätjüdische Überlieferung angeschlossenen Glaubensgedanken der großen Christenheit und gegenüber den bunten Philosophemen und falschen Dualismen der christlichen Gnostiker eine ungeheure Aufgabe, auch wenn der Stoff, welchem der Inhalt zu entnehmen war, sicher umschrieben und zuverlässig überliefert, ihm vorgelegen hätte. Aber hier trat ihm in Wirklichkeit ein Zustand entgegen, der auch den mutigsten und energischsten Forscher zur Verzweiflung bringen konnte. Neben dem AT, das er für die Darlegung der christlichen Verkündigung nicht brauchen konnte, fand er keine Schriften von absoluter Dignität. Doch nein: es boten sich ihm vier Evangelien an, die, als er in Kleinasien und Rom sann und arbeitete, bereits eine Autorität in den dortigen Gemeinden besaßen, die einer absoluten sehr nahe kam. Dann waren jene Paulusbriefe vorhanden, aus denen er sein ganzes Christentum gelernt hatte; sie besaßen in der römischen Gemeinde ein apostolisches Ansehen. Endlich gab es da noch eine größere Zahl christlicher Schriften die Apostelgeschichte, die Johannes-Offenbarung, andere christliche Prophetenschriften und Briefe verschiedener Autoren unter den Namen von Aposteln und Apostelschülern, die sich zwar einer nicht festbestimmten, aber doch bedeutenden Geltung erfreuten. Aber wie Buntes, Verschiedenes, Widersprechendes stand in diesen Schriften, und wie unsicher bezeugten sie das reine Evangelium, daß Christus als Sohn eines fremden Gottes und als spiritus salutaris gekommen sei, um die Sünder aus der Gefangenschaft ihres Vaters und Herrn, des Weltschöpfers, zu befreien und selig zu machen! Als Kritiker und Restaurator mußte Marcion seine große Aufgabe für die Christenheit beginnen; denn die Sache und die Zeugnisse lagen unter schwerer Verdunkelung. In der Tat: kein christlicher Kritiker hat jemals vor einer schwierigeren Aufgabe gestanden: aus NTlichen Schriften zu beweisen, daß die Menschheit von ihrem Gott und Vater erlöst werden müsse und erlöst worden sei! Marcion ließ sich nicht abschrecken; den alten Büchern, dem Gesetz und den Propheten, stellte er neue Bücher entgegen — das Buch des Evangeliums[1] und die Briefe des Paulus.

IV. Der Kritiker und Restaurator. Die Bibel Marcions.

Marcion, seines eigenen Glaubens als des echtpaulinischen gewiß, sah die große Christenheit um sich in einer inneren Verfassung, in der alles verloren schien. Während er überzeugt war, daß Christus das AT und den Gott desselben abgetan und einen fremden Gott verkündet hatte, identifizierte sie fort und fort die beiden Götter und erbaute sich aus dem AT, war also durch und durch „judaistisch". Ferner, Bücher unter den gefeierten Namen der Urapostel stützten und förderten offenkundig durch ihre Erzählungen diesen Irrtum. Endlich — das Schlimmste — selbst in den Briefen des Paulus stand unverkennbar vieles, was unzweideutig den Irrglauben bestätigte, daß Christus der Sohn des Weltschöpfers sei und den Willen dieses seines Vaters in seinem Werke fortgesetzt habe.

Wie war das geschehen, und wie konnte es geschehen, wenn doch die Wahrheit nach einigen Hauptstellen in den paulinischen Briefen so unzweideutig und klar war? Eine große Verschwörung wider die Wahrheit muß, nachdem Christus die Welt verlassen, sofort eingesetzt und mit durchschlagendem Erfolg ihre Absichten durchgesetzt haben. Keine andere Erklärung reicht hier aus. M. griff diese Erklärung auf. Um sie zu beweisen, stand ihm aber, wie seine Ausführungen lehren, schlechterdings nichts zu Gebote als die Erinnerung an den Kampf, den Paulus mit seinen judaistischen Gegnern geführt hatte, und auch von diesem Kampfe wußte er nichts anderes, als was in den Briefen des Apostels zu lesen stand.

Es ist wichtig, diese Tatsache nicht zu übersehen. Niemals hat sich M. auf andere Zeugnisse zu berufen vermocht. Kein 1 M. ist u. W. der erste gewesen, der ein Buch „das Evangelium" genannt und mit ihm identifiziert hat; vor ihm sah man in dem Evangelium eine Botschaft, die u. A. auch in Büchern niedergelegt war.

---

lebendiger Widerhall jener Kämpfe war mehr zu ihm gekommen; von keiner fortgesetzten Aktion wußte er über das aus den Briefen Bekannte hinaus, und keine neue Urkunde stand ihm zu Gebote, die ihm über die Absichten, sei es des Paulus, sei es seiner Gegner Aufschluß geben konnte [1].

Aber bei Paulus selbst, im Galaterbrief vornehmlich, waren zwei Leitsterne, so schien es M., gegeben, denen man nur zu folgen brauchte, um aus dem Labyrinth der schlimmen Überlieferungen auf den sicheren Weg zu gelangen: (1) Paulus erklärt, daß es nur ein Evangelium gebe und daß er es allein vertrete, wie er es auch besonders empfangen habe; (2) er erklärt ferner, daß die anderen alle ein gefälschtes judaistisches Evangelium verkündigen und daß er sie daher alle schlechthin bekämpfen müsse als solche, welche in dem Irrglauben befangen sind, der Vater Jesu Christi sei mit dem Weltschöpfer und Gott des ATs identisch.

Aus diesen Erklärungen ergaben sich für M. folgende Einsichten:

(1) Das Evangelium, welches Paulus meint, muß nach seinen eigenen Worten von allem Judaismus frei sein, d. h. nicht nur keinen Zusammenhang mit dem AT haben, sondern ihm feindlich gegenüberstehen; also ist alles gefälscht, was als christlich gelten will, aber diesen Zusammenhang aufweist.

(2) Daraus ergab sich ihm sofort, daß auch die Briefe des Paulus verfälscht sein müßten, da sie in ihrem gegenwärtigen Bestand vieles Judaistische enthielten.

(3) Es ergab sich ihm aber ferner aus den paulinischen Briefen, daß das ganze apostolische Zeitalter ausschließlich von einem Hauptthema bewegt gewesen ist, von dem Kampfe der judaistischen Christen gegen das wahre, d. h. das paulinische

---

1 Man muß aus dieser Tatsache schließen, daß man selbst an Hauptplätzen der Christenheit um d. J. 140 bereits nicht mehr sichere Unterlagen für ein wirkliches geschichtliches Wissen vom Urchristentum besaß, als wir besitzen. Immer wieder freilich wird man nachsinnen und nachforschen, ob M. nicht doch bei seiner Kritik der Apostel in ihrem Verhältnis zu Paulus durch eine lebendige, sei es auch tendenziöse Tradition bestimmt gewesen ist, aber gewiß werden solche Nachforschungen negativ enden. M.s Kritik ist also durchaus eine jede geschichtliche Unterlage entbehrende Sach- und Wortkritik gewesen.

Evangelium. Der deutlichste Beweis für diese seine geschichtliche Ansicht sind die Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen, mögen sie nun von M. selbst stammen oder von einem seiner Schüler; denn in ihnen werden diese Briefe ausschließlich unter dem Gesichtspunkt betrachtet, wie die Gemeinden, an die sie gerichtet sind, zum paulinisch-judaistischen Kampfe stehen, und der Verfasser bringt es wirklich fertig, ihnen allen dieses Thema aufzunötigen: die „falsi apostoli" kommen entweder dem Paulus in der Mission zuvor oder dringen in seine Mission ein; die Gemeinden lassen sich entweder von ihnen berücken oder bleiben dem Evangelium des Paulus treu.

(4) Die „falsi apostoli" hat M. nach Gal. 1, 6—9; 2, 4 und II Kor. 11, 13. 14 bestimmt. Aus diesen Stellen, die er in eins faßte, ergab sich ihm, daß eine große Gruppe unautorisierter und namenloser Judaisten sich des Apostelamts in der Kirche Christi angemaßt und eine mit dem höchsten Erfolg gekrönte Propaganda im ganzen Reich in Szene gesetzt hat, und zwar muß ihr unheilvolles Treiben schon gleich nach der Auferstehung Christi begonnen haben. Sie werden (M. folgt dem Galaterbrief) zwar von den Uraposteln bestimmt unterschieden; aber M. hat sich überzeugt, daß diese eine ganz klägliche Rolle gespielt haben. Folgende Vorstellung von ihnen hat er sich gebildet: Jesus hat sie (die Zwölf) auserwählt (Luk. 6, 13 ff.; Tert. IV, 13) und sich die größte Mühe mit ihnen gegeben; aber selbst bei seinen Lebzeiten gelang es ihm nicht, sie dauernd zu dem Glauben zu bringen, daß er der Sohn eines fremden und nicht des AT lichen Gottes sei. Als Petrus in Cäsarea das große Bekenntnis zur Gottessohnschaft seines Meisters ablegte, mußte dieser ihm Schweigen auferlegen, weil Petrus ihn für den Sohn des Weltschöpfers hielt (Tert. IV, 21). Obgleich die Himmelsstimme bei der Verklärung deutlich erklärte, nicht Moses und Elias seien zu hören, sondern Christus, verstand Petrus das nicht, wie seine törichte Aufforderung, drei Hütten zu bauen, beweist (IV, 22). Zwar hatten die Jünger Lichtblicke in bezug auf die Erkenntnis „der Wahrheit des Evangeliums" und das rechte Verhalten, so damals, als einer von ihnen Jesum bat, sie beten zu lehren, was er nicht getan, wenn er noch an den Gott des AT geglaubt hätte (IV, 26), oder damals, als Jesus ihre Praxis gegenüber der der fastenden Johannesjünger rechtfertigte (IV, 11: „Christus discipulos defendit, ut merito aliter incedentes, aliam scil. et contrariam initiatos divinitatem"). Aber alsbald fielen sie wieder zurück, und sie sind gemeint, wenn Jesus klagend von dem „ungläubigen Geschlechte" spricht (Tert. IV, 22). Die Auferstehung Christi scheint sie eine kurze Zeit lang auf den rechten Weg geführt zu haben und sie wurden sogar als „Herolde eines anderen Gottes" von den Juden verfolgt (IV, 39); allein sehr rasch verdunkelte sich ihnen alles wieder, zumal da sie auch die Menschenfurcht nicht überwanden. Als daher Paulus seinen Kampf gegen die falschen Apostel begann, da machten sie zwar mit diesen nicht gemeinsame Sache, aber sie unterstützten den Zeugen der Wahrheit nicht, sondern offenbarten sich als halbe Judaisten („Petrum ceterosque apostolos vultis Iudaismi magis adfines subintelligi", Tert. V, 3), als Gesetzesmenschen („Petrus legis homo", Tert. IV, 11), als furchtsame Begünstiger der pseudoapostolischen Mission (Tert. V, 3), ja als solche, die durch Quertreiberei und Täuschung den Verdacht, an der Depravation des Evangeliums schuld zu sein, schwerlich abzuwälzen vermögen („Si apostolos praevaricationis et simulationis suspectos Marcion haberi queritur usque ad evangelii depravationem", Tert. IV, 3). Sie selbst schon haben in ihrem Unverständnis „Gesetzliches" der Überlieferung der Worte Jesu beigemischt (Iren. III, 2, 2: „Apostolos admiscuisse ea quae sunt legalia salvatoris verbis"), und aus ihrer Missionstätigkeit konnte nichts Ersprießliches hervorgehen, da sie die volle Wahrheit nicht erkannt und, noch immer durch jüdischen Sinn beeinflußt, das Evangelium nur gebrochen verkündet haben (Iren. III, 13, 2: „Non cognoverunt veritatem"; III, 12, 12: „Apostoli adhuc quae sunt Iudaeorum sentientes annuntiaverunt evangelium")[1]. Christus hat daher nicht nur durch die Wahl des Judas, sondern auch, wenn auch in anderer Weise, durch die Wahl der Zwölf eine schwere Enttäuschung erfahren. Daher mußte, sollte „die Wahrheit des Evangeliums" nicht untergehen, ein neuer Zeuge und Missionar

---

1 Dazu Tert., De praesc. 22 f.: „Proponunt ad ignorantiam aliquam apostolorum, quod Petrus et qui cum eo reprehensi sunt a Paulo; ‚adeo', inquiunt, ‚aliquid eis defuit' . . . ‚alia evangelii forma a Paulo superducta citra eam quae praemiserat Petrus et ceteri' . . . . suspectam faciunt doctrinam superiorem."

erweckt werden. Die Urapostel waren nicht dezidierte Irrlehrer, aber sie sind in einer schweren Konfusion stecken geblieben, ja immer tiefer in sie geraten und sind sogar nicht von dem „Schachern" mit dem Evangelium zurückgeschreckt (IIKor.2,17).

(5) Unzweideutig sagt Paulus, daß er ein von Christus selbst direkt berufener Apostel, daß sein Evangelium nicht durch menschliche Vermittlung an ihn gekommen sei, daß er es vielmehr durch Offenbarung erhalten habe und zwar durch eine Entrückung in den dritten Himmel, d. h. in einen Himmel, der hoch über dem Weltenhimmel liegt. Hieraus schloß M., daß Paulus als der Apostel von Christus berufen worden sei, um der falschen Predigt entgegenzuwirken, und ferner, daß ein Evangelium vorhanden sein müsse, das von keinem Menschen geschrieben, sondern direkt von Christus dargereicht sei — wie, darüber scheint sich M. keine deutliche Vorstellung gemacht zu haben. Die Schüler haben bald an Christus selbst als Verfasser gedacht, bald an Paulus (Adamant., Dial. I, 8; II, 13f.; Carmen adv. Marc. II, 29); aber Tert. berichtet nur IV, 2: „M. evangelio suo nullum adscribit auctorem." Bemerkenswert ist hier vor allem, daß M. es für selbstverständlich gehalten haben muß, (indem er gewisse Äußerungen des Paulus so deutete), daß Christus für ein authentisches geschriebenes Evangelium gesorgt hat — so verlassen war er von aller geschichtlichen Kunde und so gewaltsam machte er selbst Geschichte. Die Preisgabe des ATs hat ihn gewiß (neben den allgemeinen Zeitvorstellungen in bezug auf das, was eine zuverlässige Religion nötig hat) zu dieser fixen Idee geführt; denn eine littera scripta muß vorhanden sein, und wenn der Weltschöpfer eine solche gegeben hat, so mußte der fremde Gott erst recht eine solche darbieten. Wie unzureichend die mündliche Überlieferung sei, war ja durch die unzuverlässige Missionspredigt der zwölf Apostel aufs klarste dargetan.

Ein authentisches schriftliches Evangelium muß es geben — in dem Momente, in welchem M. sich davon überzeugte, trat bei dem Zustande der Evangelien-Literatur, den er vorfand, eine schwere Versuchung an ihn heran, nämlich die Versuchung, ein solches Evangelium selbst zu schaffen! Allein hier zeigt sich mit besonderer Deutlichkeit das merkwürdige Ineinander von Meisterung und von Treue gegenüber der Geschichte, das diesen seltsamen Geist charakterisiert, dazu das Ineinander einer Energie, wie sie nur der Religionsstifter hat, und der Bescheidenheit des Schülers. So gewiß es nämlich ist, daß seine Kirche ihn, den Stifter, sehr bald hoch gefeiert hat — sie sah ihn zur Linken des thronenden Christus sitzen (Paulus zur Rechten), sie rechnete nach dem Tag, da er in Rom mit der judaistischen Kirche endgültig gebrochen hatte, sie nannte ihn „den Bischof" (Adamant., Dial. I, 8) —, so gewiß ist auch, daß M. selbst niemals auf den Beruf und Rang eines Propheten oder Apostels Anspruch erhoben und niemals seine eigene Autorität oder gar Offenbarungen, die er gehabt, ausgespielt hat. Er wußte sich einfach als Schüler des Paulus; nur in dessen Spuren wollte er gehen, und wie er sich weit davon entfernt glaubte, eine eigene Frömmigkeit und Mystik zu lehren (s. u.), so hätte er es gewiß für den schwersten Frevel gehalten, die wahre Überlieferung oder gar das Evangelium zu schaffen.

Ein authentisches schriftliches Evangelium muß es geben; denn Paulus sagt es; aber wo ist es? Es muß unter den überlieferten vier Evangelien zu finden sein; denn daß es ganz wieder verschwunden, kann Christus nicht zugelassen haben. Daß es nur eines sein könne, war keine Idiosynkrasie M.s; vielmehr war der Zustand, den er vorfand, eine unleidliche Kalamität und Verlegenheit, die erst jüngst in einigen Hauptkirchen eingetreten war und bei der sich gewiß die wenigsten damals noch beruhigt haben — jener Zustand, nach welchem die Christenheit die authentische Überlieferung von Christus aus vier Evangelienbüchern schöpfen sollte, was eine contradictio in sich selbst ist! Im besten Falle war die Nebeneinanderstellung dieser vier Bücher etwas Vorläufiges; demnächst mußte sie durch eine Verarbeitung zu einer Einheit aufgehoben werden. Aber eine solche Verarbeitung zu leisten, mußte M. so fern liegen wie die Schöpfung des authentischen Evangeliums; denn nur die reine Überlieferung wiederherzustellen, war sein Amt; eine „Verarbeitung" wäre ein Attentat an ihr.

Welches von den vier Evangelien ist das authentische? Tert. berichtet uns, daß M. sie in den „Antithesen" alle geprüft hat, und auch aus den Mitteilungen des Irenäus und Origenes läßt sich das entnehmen. Zunächst stellt er fest, daß die Urapostel selbst nichts geschrieben haben (Adam., Dial. II, 12: ἐκήρυξαν ἀγράφως) — woher er das zu wissen meinte, ist uns unbekannt —; damit waren die Evangeliennamen „Matthäus" und „Johannes" sofort als Fälschungen erwiesen [1]; aber nicht nur die Namen sind gefälscht, sondern alle vier Evangelien sind, so wie sie vorliegen, nach Aufschrift [2] und Inhalt Fälschungen der Judaisten (Tert. IV, 3: „M. connititur [scil. in den „Antithesen"] ad destruendum statum eorum evangeliorum, quae propria et sub apostolorum nomine eduntur vel etiam apostolicorum, ut scil. fidem, quam illis adimit, suo conferat")[3]. Eines von ihnen aber muß nicht gefälscht, sondern, wie die Paulusbriefe, nur verfälscht sein; denn sonst wäre ja das Evangelium der Wahrheit untergegangen. M. entschied sich für das Evangelium, welches „die judaistische Überlieferung" fälschlich als das Lukanische bezeichnete [4].

Die Auswahl muß M. nicht leicht gefallen sein; er hat sie und die Zurückweisung der anderen Evangelien samt den Interpolationen im „echten" Ev. in seinen Antithesen begründet; leider fehlt uns die Begründung. Daß er das Matth.-Ev. sofort ablehnen mußte, ist freilich unzweifelhaft, und im 4. Evangelium mußten ihm sofort der Prolog („Er kam in sein Eigentum"), die Hochschätzung des Vorläufers Johannes, die Hochzeit von Kana usw., aber auch die ganze zum Spätjudentum gehörige Mystik äußerst unsympathisch sein, so lockend ihm auch ein

---

1 Da M. nach seinem abschätzigen Urteil über die Urapostel keinen Grund haben konnte, dem Matthäus und Johannes die Urheberschaft der unter ihrem Namen stehenden falschen Evangelien abzusprechen, so ist sein negatives Urteil in bezug auf die Verfasser dieser Evangelien auch heute noch nicht wertlos und darf nicht übersehen werden.

2 Für Markus fehlt ein direktes Zeugnis; aber da M. die drei anderen Autorennamen für Fälschungen gehalten hat, wird er bei Markus keine Ausnahme gemacht haben.

3 Über die Beschäftigung M.s mit den anderen Evangelien bzw. die Bekämpfung s. Beilage S. 249* f. Am sichersten ist, daß er den Spruch: „Ich bin nicht gekommen aufzulösen, sondern zu erfüllen", ausdrücklich bekämpft hat, also das Matth.-Ev. kannte.

4 S. Iren. III, 14, 3: „Secundum Lucam evangelium decurtantes gloriantur se habere evangelium." Tert. IV, 2: „Ex his commentatoribus quos habemus, Lucam videtur (= „apparet") M. elegisse"; IV, 4: „Evangelium, quod Lucae refertur apud nos, M. per Antitheseis suas arguit ut interpolatum a protectoribus Iudaismi ad concorporationem legis et prophetarum". So auch andere Zeugen.

Spruch wie der war: „Alle, die vor mir gekommen sind, sind Räuber und Mörder gewesen", und manches andere. Die Entscheidung mußte also entweder auf Lukas oder auf Markus fallen. Für diesen sprach, daß er keine Vorgeschichte bot, aber gegen ihn sprach die Dürftigkeit an Worten Jesu, die M. besonders empfindlich sein mußte. Für Lukas fielen der „heidenchristliche" und der asketische Charakter, wohl auch, trotz Preisgabe des Namens, der überlieferungsgeschichtliche Zusammenhang mit Paulus schwer ins Gewicht; aber andrerseits war die Vorgeschichte in M.s Augen ein ungeheures Skandalon der Fälschung. Wenn er sich doch für dieses Evangelium entschied und nicht für Markus, so hat der Grund vielleicht nur in äußeren Umständen gelegen: das erste Evangelium, welches in den Pontus gekommen ist, war wahrscheinlich das Lukas-Ev.; mit ihm wird M. am frühesten vertraut gewesen sein, wenn es nicht gar Jahre hindurch in seiner pontischen Heimat sein einziges Evangelium gewesen ist. So mag er an dem Evangelienbuch festgehalten haben, das er zuerst kennen gelernt hatte.

Die Prüfung ergab also: die „protectores Iudaismi" haben, nachdem schon die zwölf Apostel Judaistisches in die mündliche Überlieferung des Evangeliums eingemischt, drei falsche Evangelien (und dazu unter falschen Namen) in die Welt gesetzt und das wahre Evangelium, welches Paulus seiner Missionspredigt zugrunde gelegt hat, sowie die Briefe des Apostels verfälscht. Dem verfälschten authentischen Evangelienbuch haben sie den Namen des Lukas vorgesetzt; denn falsch muß dieser Name sein — Paulus hat ja das Evangelium nach seiner eigenen Aussage von Christus selbst erhalten.

Sind aber das wahre Evangelium und die Paulusbriefe verfälscht, so ist es, so schwer die Aufgabe auch sein mag, die oberste Verpflichtung, sie von dieser Fälschung zu befreien. Mit dieser Verpflichtung betraut zu sein — nicht mit einer „innovatio", sondern mit der „recuratio retro adulteratae regulae" (Tert. I, 20) —, darin bestand das reformatorische Bewußtsein M.s, und als den „Restaurator" hat ihn auch seine Kirche gefeiert. Aber für diese Aufgabe berief er sich nicht auf eine göttliche Offenbarung, auch nicht auf eine besondere Anweisung, auch nicht auf eine pneumatische Unterstützung; nicht als Enthusiast unternahm er sie, sondern, auf innere Gründe sich stützend, lediglich mit den Mitteln der Philologie.

Hieraus folgt sofort, daß er für seine Textreinigungen — es wird das gewöhnlich übersehen — absolute Sicherheit weder in Anspruch nehmen konnte, noch in Anspruch genommen hat. Das ergibt sich aber auch aus der Geschichte seines Textes; denn vielleicht noch unter seinen Augen, sicher seit seinem Tode, haben seine Schüler fort und fort — bald radikaler als er, bald konservativer — an den Texten geändert. Es ist uns das aufs bestimmteste von Celsus, Tertullian und Origenes, ja noch von Ephraem überliefert, und wir besitzen auch Proben. Die Marcionitische Kirche hat also von ihrem Meister das Evangelium und die zehn Paulusbriefe nicht mit der Anweisung erhalten, den wiederhergestellten Text als ein Noli me tangere zu verehren, sondern der Meister hat ihnen Freiheit gegeben, ja vielleicht die Verpflichtung hinterlassen, die Arbeit an der Herstellung des richtigen Textes fortzusetzen. Diese Freiheit ging so weit, daß spätere Marcioniten unbefangen die (gesäuberten) Pastoralbriefe zur Briefsammlung des Paulus gezogen haben — M. kann sie demnach nicht verworfen, sondern muß über sie geschwiegen haben —, und daß sie sich sogar nicht scheuten, aus den anderen Evangelien einzelne Stücke aufzunehmen [1]. Letzteres kann nicht auffallen; denn wenn auch M. diese Evangelien als gefälschte einfach verworfen hat, so kann ihm doch ihre Verwandtschaft mit dem Lukas-Evangelium, auch in dessen „echten" Abschnitten, nicht entgangen sein. Wenn sie also unzweifelhaft Zuverlässiges neben den vielen Fälschungen enthielten, so konnte auch M. schwerlich etwas dagegen einwenden, daß man sie in seiner Kirche nachträglich vorsichtig heranzog; ja, es ist nicht ganz ausgeschlossen, daß er selbst die Fassung von Herrensprüchen, die auch Matthäus bot, beachtet hat, wenn auch (s. u.) fast alle Übereinstimmungen seines Lukastextes mit dem Matthäustext (wider den ursprünglichen Lukastext) auf Konformationen zurückzuführen sind, die das Exemplar des Lukas-Ev., welches er in Rom durchkorrigierte, schon aufwies.

Wahrscheinlich in Rom, vielleicht schon früher, hat M. die

1 Die Fälschung eines Laodicenerbriefs steht auf einem anderen Blatte und liegt nicht auf der kritischen Linie des Stifters.

große Aufgabe der Wiederherstellung der Texte unternommen. In den Beilagen III und IV habe ich die Überlieferung der Texte untersucht, sie selbst, soweit möglich, wiederhergestellt und gezeigt, daß der sog. Wtext den Bemühungen Marcions zugrunde liegt und daß eine Fülle von Lesarten, die früher als Marcionitische galten, einfach abendländische sind — mit einem Wort: fast alle die, welche dogmatisch neutral sind (auch wenn sie sonst der Bezeugung entbehren); denn daß M. nebenbei auch eine kritische Diorthose des Textes rein stilistischer Art hat geben wollen, läßt sich nicht erweisen, wenn auch einige Stellen sich so deuten lassen. Hin und her, jedoch ist auch das nicht sicher, hat er der Neigung nachgegeben, zu unterstreichen und zu verdeutlichen; an einigen Stellen, an denen seine Änderungen für uns undurchsichtig sind, mag eine tendenziöse Absicht gewaltet haben, die wir nicht mehr zu durchschauen vermögen. Begonnen aber hat M. seine Arbeit höchst wahrscheinlich mit der „Reinigung" der Paulusbriefe; denn erst von hier aus konnte er den Maßstab für die Kritik der bunten Überlieferung finden, wie sie in dem „verfälschten" dritten Evangelium vorlag. Für das folgende bitte ich stets die Texte in den „Beilagen" zu vergleichen.

Nach welchen Prinzipien hat nun M. die Arbeit an den Texten vollzogen? Wir sind noch in der Lage, diese Frage in der Hauptsache befriedigend zu beantworten, so trümmerhaft uns der Marcionitische Bibelkanon überliefert ist und so unsicher wir bei zahlreichen Abschnitten bleiben müssen, ob sie bei M. gefehlt haben oder ob sie Tertullian (bzw. andere Zeugen) übergangen hat [1]. Bei der Beurteilung muß man stets im Auge behalten, daß in M.s Sinne das, was er ausläßt, Zusätze der judaistischen Pseudoapostel sind, und das, was er hinzusetzt, von ihnen weggelassen ist [2]. Am Apostolos hat M. folgende tendenziöse Korrekturen nachweisbar vorgenommen:

---

1 Wäre M. bei seiner Textkritik stets konsequent verfahren, so ließen sich ex analogia unter den von Tert. übergegangenen Abschnitten und Versen nicht wenige bezeichnen, die gefehlt haben müssen. Allein diese Schlüsse sind unsicher, da M. nicht immer konsequent gewesen ist, wie nicht wenige Stellen beweisen, die ihm deutlich ungünstig sind und die er doch stehen gelassen hat. Vielleicht hatte er auch curae repetitae sich vorbehalten.

2 Hat er selbst auch Zusätze gemacht? Kommen diese nicht vielleicht sämtlich auf Rechnung seiner Schüler?

Der Galaterbrief. In c. 1, 1 strich M. die (an sich nach Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ auffallenden) Worte „καὶ θεοῦ πατρός" und erhielt dadurch im folgenden die Aussage, daß Jesus sich selbst vom Tode erweckt habe. Bei seiner dem Modalismus nahekommenden Auffassung des Verhältnisses von Vater und Sohn mußte ihm ebendies willkommen sein. Die Korrektur ist darin interessant, daß sie eine bestehende Textschwierigkeit zum Ausgangspunkt genommen hat.

In c. 1, 7 fügte M. zu der Aussage, daß das Evangelium kein anderes neben sich habe, die Worte hinzu „κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου" (vgl. Röm. 2, 16). Es lag ihm daran, die Identität des Evangeliums mit dem Evangelium des Paulus im Eingang des Briefs zu markieren und damit sowohl das „judaistische" Evangelium als auch eine Mehrzahl von evangelischen Schriften auszuschließen. Die Korrektur in demselben Verse „θέλοντες (ὑμᾶς) μεταστρέψαι εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ" (für θέλοντες μεταστρέψαι τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ) liegt auf der Grenze einer tendenziösen Korrektur und einer Variante.

C. 1, 18—24 waren wahrscheinlich gestrichen, weil M. diese Beziehungen des Apostels zu Petrus und den judenchristlichen Gemeinden nicht gelten lassen konnte; sie mußten von den „pseudapostoli et Iudaici evangelizatores" (Tert. V, 9) eingefügt worden sein. 2, 1. 2 waren höchstens leicht verändert; doch fehlte aller Wahrscheinlichkeit nach „μετὰ Βαρνάβα" M. wünschte die apostolische Souveränetät des Paulus von keiner Seite beeinträchtigt zu sehen.

Die Einleitung zum Apostelkonzil fehlte entweder oder war umgestaltet (2, 6—9 a). In 9 b. 10 fehlte „κοινωνίας", wodurch Art und Geist der Übereinkunft andere werden, und fehlte „καὶ Βαρνάβα"; durch die letztere Streichung bei beibehaltenem Plural „μνημονεύωμεν" wird die dem Paulus gemachte Auflage zu einer Abmachung, die beide Teile bindet. So ist durch kleine Streichungen eine große Verschiebung des Sinns erreicht [1].

C. 3, 6—9. 14 a waren, wie ausdrücklich überliefert, gestrichen; denn nur die Judaisten konnten Abraham hier einge-

1 Nicht unwichtig ist die Vertauschung von ἀγαπήσαντος durch ἀγοράσαντος in Gal. 2, 20 und die Voranstellung des Petrus vor Jakobus (2, 9).

führt haben; die Verse 10—12 lauteten bei M. mit Tilgung des durch γέγραπται eingeführten AT lichen Zitats und in Umstellung: Μάθετε ὅτι ὁ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται· ὅσοι γὰρ ὑπὸ νόμον, ὑπὸ κατάραν εἰσίν, ὁ δὲ ποιήσας αὐτὰ ζήσεται ἐν αὐτοῖς, doch ist der Text hier nicht ganz sicher. Vollständig getilgt war die große Ausführung 3, 15—25 über das Testament, Abraham, den Samen und das Gesetz; ebenso war in v. 29 ἄρα τοῦ Ἀβραὰμ σπέρμα ἐστέ ausgestoßen.

In c. 4, 3 ist das aus 3, 15 hierher versetzte ἔτι κατὰ ἄνθρωπον λέγω undurchsichtig; in 4, 4 strich M. die Worte γενόμενον ἐκ γυναικός, γενόμενον ὑπὸ νόμον. Wie M. 4, 8. 9 gefaßt hat, ist nicht ganz deutlich; aber gewiß ist, daß er statt τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς geschrieben hat: τοῖς ἐν τῇ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς. Das ist eine seiner frappanten Korrekturen: ihm war es wichtig, die Heidengötter als Naturgötter bezeichnet zu sehen, während ihm ihre Bezeichnung als Nicht-Götter (um des Demiurgen und seiner Engel willen) unbequem war.

C. 4, 21—26 bringt den großen Eingriff (samt einer Neugestaltung des Textes), der besondere Aufmerksamkeit erfordert; leider kennt man den Text hier nur zum Teil; aber sicher ist, daß M. hier den Abraham stehen gelassen hat. Die wichtigsten Veränderungen sind die Substituierung des Begriffs „ἐπιδείξεις“ für διαθῆκαι, die Streichung von Jerusalem, die Einfügung von Eph. 1, 21 und — wenn der Text wirklich so lautete, bezw. von M. selbst herrührt — der Zusatz: „εἰς ἣν ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁγίαν ἐκκλησίαν, ἥτις ἐστὶν μήτηρ ἡμῶν“ samt der Einführung der Judensynagoge. Daß Abraham hier von M. stehen gelassen worden ist, kann nicht auf einer Flüchtigkeit beruhen, da er augenscheinlich die Satzgruppe sorgfältig überlegt und durchgearbeitet hat. Also scheute er sich nicht, das AT unter Umständen auch positiv zu benutzen. Wenn er Eph. 1, 21 und das Gelöbnis zur Kirche als Mutter hier einschob, so läßt sich das, wenn überhaupt, nur so verstehen, daß er hier einen liturgischen Text von prinzipieller Bedeutung schaffen wollte. Besonders wichtig ist es, daß er nicht von zwei Testamenten reden wollte, sondern dafür „Schaustellungen“ („Aufstellungen“) setzte. Dieses Wort, im Zusammenhang mit „ἀλληγορούμενα“ verpflichtete gegenüber dem AT zu nichts und vermied auch den Anklang an „Weissagungen“; „An Abrahams Söhnen von der Sklavin und von der Freien kann man, wenn man sie allegorisiert, die beiden grundverschiedenen Veranstaltungen, die zur Synagoge und zur Kirche geführt haben, erkennen."

C. 4, 27—30 (das Jesajaszitat über die Unfruchtbare, Isaak und Ismael) müssen gestrichen worden sein.

Wenn in c. 5, 14 (s. S. 153*) ἐν ὑμῖν die LA M.s ist („bei euch", nicht bei den Juden), so ist hier eine solche in die kirchliche abendländische Überlieferung gedrungen (denn sie wird von zahlreichen abendländischen Zeugen bezeugt), und dies ist deshalb gewiß, weil die Streichung des gleich folgenden „ἐν τῷ" sicher tendenziös ist (die Worte ἀγαπήσεις τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν sollten nicht als ATliches Zitat erscheinen); diese Streichung findet sich aber auch bei denselben abendländischen Zeugen!

Wahrscheinlich ist in 6, 17 „τῶν ἄλλων" eine tendenziöse Korrektur für „τοῦ λοιποῦ"; es sollten „die anderen" als die judenchristlichen Feinde des Apostels verstanden werden.

Der I. Korintherbrief. Nur wenige tendenziöse Streichungen lassen sich hier nachweisen[1]: In c. 3, 17 ersetzte M. φθερεῖ τοῦτον ὁ θέος durch „φθαρήσεται", der gute Gott verdirbt niemanden. In 10, 11 schrieb er wahrscheinlich „ταῦτ' ἀτύπως συνέβαινεν" > ταῦτα πάντα τύποι συνέβαινον, der „Typus" sollte ausgemerzt werden. In c. 10, 19 lag es ihm an der Präskribierung aller Opfer, während ihm das Nichtexistieren der Idola (vgl. Gal 4, 8 f.) unbequem war; er schrieb also: „ἱερόθυτόν τι ἐστιν ἢ εἰδωλόθυτόν τι ἐστιν;" für εἴδωλόν τί ἐστιν κτλ. In c. 15 sind vier tendenziöse Korrekturen nachweisbar: im Eingang des Kapitels strich er aus begreiflichen Gründen in v. 3 f. ὃ καὶ παρέλαβον und κατὰ τὰς γραφάς; in v. 20 verwandelte er ἐγήγερται in „κηρύσσεται ἀναστάναι", weil er nicht gern von einer „Erweckung" Christi hören wollte (s. Gal. 1, 1); in v. 38 haben spätere Marcioniten für σῶμα eingesetzt „πνεῦμα" in dem Satze: ὁ δὲ θεὸς αὐτῷ δίδωσι σῶμα καθὼς ἠθέλησε. In v. 45 endlich schrieb M. „ὁ ἔσχατος, κύριος, εἰς πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν" für ὁ ἔσχατος, Ἀδάμ, εἰς κτλ. Jesus sollte in keinem Sinn als „Adam" bezeichnet

---

1 Der Zusatz in I Kor. 6, 13: ὡς ὁ ναὸς τῷ θεῷ καὶ ὁ θεὸς τῷ ναῷ, ist kein tendenziöser; seine Entstehung ist rätselhaft; dagegen ist der Zusatz καὶ σοφία nach δύναμις in 1, 18 wohl überlegt: δύναμις allein schien keine ausreichende Antithese zu μωρία zu sein.

werden. Daß er die Erscheinungen des Auferstandenen am Anfang des Kap. nicht oder nicht ganz ausließ, ist wahrscheinlich.

Der II. Korintherbrief. In c. 1, 3 las M. „καὶ πατήρ" nach ὁ θεός nicht; ob tendenziös? Sicher ist das Fehlen von τῷ θεῷ in 2, 15 absichtlich: für den guten Gott gibt es nicht wie für den Weltschöpfer eine εὐωδία, und eine schwerwiegende Korrektur ist in 3, 14 (ἐπωρώθη τὰ νοήματα αὐτῶν) „τοῦ κόσμου" für αὐτῶν; denn da M. ὁ κόσμος = Weltschöpfer faßte, so läßt er Paulus sagen, daß sich die Gedanken dieses Gottes verhärtet hätten; auch am folgenden wird M. korrigiert haben. In 4, 10 ist die Korrektur „νέκρωσιν τοῦ θεοῦ" für νεκρ. τοῦ Ἰησοῦ modalistisch-tendenziös. Ob in 4, 11 διὰ Ἰησοῦν absichtlich getilgt, ist, ist fraglich. In 4, 13 ist der AT liche Spruch getilgt worden. Die späteren Marcioniten haben (5, 10) das „Tribunal" Christi als unpassend beurteilt und ausgemerzt. Von einer Befleckung des Fleisches und Geistes (7, 1) wollte M. nichts wissen; er setzte „αἵματος" für πνεύματος[1].

Der Römerbrief. In c. 1, 16 bot M. das „πρῶτον" nach Ἰουδαίῳ nicht. Da dies augenscheinlich eine tendenziöse Streichung ist, das Wort aber auch in G g, ja sogar in B fehlt, so ist hier ein Einfluß des Marcionitischen Textes auf den katholischen anzunehmen. Ferner strich M. in 1, 17 die Worte καθὼς γέγραπται· ὁ δὲ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται[2], und in 1, 18 „θεοῦ" nach ὀργή, jenes als Schriftzitat, dieses weil der gute Gott nicht zürnt. Er merzte sodann 1, 19—2, 1 gänzlich aus, weil ihm dies Stück natürlicher Religion ebenso zuwider sein mußte, wie der Gedanke, daß die Menschen von Gott den schwärzesten Lastern zur Strafe preisgegeben werden. Ebenso strich er 3, 31—4, 25 völlig; denn der Gedanke: νόμον ἱστῶμεν war ihm ebenso unerträglich wie die Abrahams-Theologie. In 6, 9 vertauschte er ἐγερθείς mit „ἀναστάς" (s. o.), und in 6, 19 schrieb er „παραστήσατε τ. μέλη τῷ θεῷ δουλεύειν ἐν τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ"

---

1 Hier könnte jemand folgern, M. habe, wie die Gnostiker, den menschlichen Geist für unbeflecklich gehalten; allein er ersetzte hier wahrscheinlich deshalb den „Geist" durch das Blut; weil er an den empfangenen Gottesgeist dachte, der nicht befleckt werden kann.

2 In Gal. 3, 11 hat M. die Worte stehen gelassen, daß der Gerechte seines Glaubens leben wird.

für παρασ. τ. μέλ. δοῦλα τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ), weil man sich Gott allein zu Dienst stellen soll. Verwandt ist die Streichung in 10, 3, wo M. für ἀγνοοῦντες τὴν τοῦ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην vielmehr „θεὸν ἀγνοοῦντες" schrieb. In 7, 5 ist „ἐν ἡμῖν' > ἐν τοῖς μέλεσιν ἡμῶν wahrscheinlich eine tendenziöse Korrektur: die Sünde war nach M. unter dem Weltschöpfer nicht nur in den Gliedern wirksam, sondern im ganzen Menschen. C. 8, 19—22 („das ängstliche Harren der Kreatur") mußte dem M. unverständlich, bzw. anstößig sein; er hat es ausgemerzt, ebenso den ganzen Abschnitt 9, 1—33 seiner Judenfreundlichkeit und der AT lichen Beziehungen wegen, endlich auch den großen Abschnitt 10, 5—11, 32, der ihm als ganz unerträglich für den guten Gott erscheinen mußte. In 11, 33 strich er καὶ γνώσεως nach σοφίας θεοῦ (welche Tendenz er dabei hatte, ist dunkel) sowie die ἀνεξερεύνητα κρίματα, denn der gute Gott richtet nicht. Aus demselben Grunde ist in 12, 19 ἀλλὰ δότε τόπον τῇ ὀργῇ entfernt und auch γέγραπται. Die Verse 18 und 19 sind bei M. umgestellt. — Das Fehlen der cc. 15 und 16 ist nicht M. zur Last zu legen, sondern schon der Vorlage, die er benutzte (s. S. 164* f.). Spätere Marcioniten haben 16, 25—27 hinzugefügt; die Fassung dieser Verse, die wir heute in unseren Bibeln lesen, ist eine Korrektur der Marcionitischen (a. a. O.). Hier hat also wiederum der Marcionitische Text auf den katholischen Einfluß geübt.

Der I. Thessalonicherbrief. Eine tendenziöse Einschaltung (ἰδίους) in 2, 15 bei προφήτας. In 4, 4 ist ἐν ἁγιασμῷ neben τιμῇ getilgt; in bezug auf das Verhalten zum Weibe schien dem M. jenes wohl als ein zu hoch gegriffener Ausdruck. In 4, 16 ist absichtlich θεοῦ aus der Verbindung mit σάλπιγγι (ἐσχάτῃ ist hinzugesetzt) gelöst und zu κελεύσματι gestellt, ebenso ist absichtlich ἐν Χριστῷ nach οἱ νεκροί getilgt; M. wollte hier die allgemeine Auferweckung erblicken. Daß es in demselben Vers von den Toten heißt: ἐγερθήσονται (> ἀναστήσονται) ist vielleicht eine absichtliche Korrektur M.s, obschon auch einige andere Zeugen sie bieten. Auch die Streichung des ὁλόκληρον vor Geist, Seele und Leib (5, 23) läßt sich aus M.s Lehre unschwer erklären. In demselben Vers ist „καὶ σωτῆρος" zu κυρίου hinzugesetzt; M. legte also auf diese Bezeichnung besonderes Gewicht, oder war sie ihm hier überliefert?

Der II. Thessalonicherbrief. In 1, 8 ist die Auslassung der Feuerflamme ebenso tendenziös wie die Vertauschung der Worte διδόντος ἐκδίκησιν durch „ἐρχομένου εἰς ἐκδίκησιν". Der gute Gott übt nicht selbst das Gericht, sondern ist nur beim Gericht zugegen. Daher schreibt M. auch 2, 11 nicht πέμπει αὐτοῖς ὁ θεὸς ἐνέργειαν πλάνης, sondern „ἔσται αὐτοῖς εἰς ἐνέργ. πλάν.". Auch εἰς τὸ πιστεῦσαι αὐτοὺς τῷ ψεύδει wollte er nicht stehen lassen, wie er ja auch Röm. 1 die Preisgabe der Menschen an die Sünden getilgt hat.

Der Laodizenerbrief (Epheserbrief). Ob M. 1, 21 hier bestehen ließ, da er den Vers schon Gal. 4, 24 angeführt hatte? In 2, 2 ist das Fehlen von τοῦ πνεύματος wohl als absichtliches zu beurteilen; in 2, 11 scheinen spätere Marcioniten ἐν σαρκί gestrichen zu haben. In 2, 14. 15 ist die Streichung von αὐτοῦ nach ἐν σαρκί tendenziös und ebenso die von ἐν vor δόγμασιν: nicht an seinem Fleisch hat Christus die Feindschaft aufgehoben und nicht in Dogmen bestanden die Gebote, sondern durch die (neuen) Dogmen hat Gott das Gesetz der Gebote beseitigt; M. hat also die δόγματα gegen die ἐντολαί gestellt und sah in jenen die christlichen Glaubenssätze. In 2, 20 strich M. tendenziös καὶ προφητῶν nach ἀποστόλων, weil jene nicht die Grundlage des neuen christlichen Baus bilden dürfen. In 3, 9 ist M.s berüchtigste Streichung enthalten: er merzte das ἐν vor τῷ θεῷ τῷ τὰ πάντα κτίσαντι aus und erhielt so einen locus classicus für seine Lehre, daß die Heilsökonomie des guten Gottes dem Weltschöpfer von Urzeiten her verborgen gewesen sei. Über die tendenziöse Einschaltung von ἡμῖν in 4, 6 s. S. 154*. In 5, 22 ff. nahm M. Verkürzungen vor; dieser Abschnitt über die Ehe war ihm überhaupt unbequem; in v. 22 fehlte wahrscheinlich ἰδίοις, bei ἀνδράσιν, ferner ὡς τῷ κυρίῳ und αὐτὸν σωτὴρ τοῦ σώματος; den Satz in v. 28 faßte er so: „Der liebt sein Fleisch, der sein Weib so liebt, wie auch Christus die Kirche" (d. h. ungeschlechtlich). Den ihm für Christus ganz unpassend scheinenden Vers 30 strich er, schrieb statt ἀντὶ τούτου vielmehr „ἀντὶ ταύτης", es auf die Kirche beziehend, und tilgte die Worte καὶ προσκολληθήσεται πρὸς τὴν γυναῖκα αὐτοῦ: „Statt der Kirche wird ein Mensch Vater und Mutter verlassen, und es werden die beiden (d. i. der Mensch und die Kirche) zu einem Fleisch". Da auch katholische Mss. die Worte καὶ προσκολλ. κτλ. nicht bieten, so ist auch hier Einfluß des Textes M.s auf den katholischen anzunehmen (s. S. 154*). In c. 6, 2 strich M. tendenziös bei dem Gebot, die Eltern zu ehren, die Worte: ἥτις ἐστὶν ἐντολὴ πρώτη ἐν ἐπαγγελίᾳ, sowie den folgenden Vers („damit es dir wohlgehe" usw.). Tendenziös ist auch die Streichung (v. 2) von σου bei πατέρα und ὑμῶν (v. 4) bei τέκνα; die Marcioniten sollten ja selbst nicht Väter sein; also mußte das Gebot in ein allgemeines umgewandelt werden, das von den Beziehungen der Väter als der älteren Generation zu den Kindern als der jüngeren handelte.

Der Kolosserbrief. Die große Aussage über den präexistenten Christus (1, 15—17) ist von M. in den kurzen Satz zusammengefaßt worden: „ὅς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ ἀοράτου, καὶ αὐτός ἐστιν πρὸ πάντων", denn zur Schöpfung durfte Christus keine Beziehungen haben. In 1, 19 ist ἑαυτῷ > αὐτῷ tendenziös und aus dem relativen Modalismus M.s zu verstehen; ebenso 1, 20 ἑαυτόν > αὐτόν. In 1, 22 hat M. τῆς σαρκός nach τῷ σώματι (= Kirche) gestrichen; denn Christus hat kein Fleisch. Eine ingeniöse Vertauschung liegt in 2, 8 vor: in dem Satze διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας καὶ κενῆς ἀπάτης verwandelt M. das καί in „ὡς". Wir erkennen hier, wie abschätzig er alle Philosophie beurteilt hat; den Ausdruck, den Paulus gewählt, hielt er für verfälscht, weil zu schwach. In 4, 14 strich er wahrscheinlich die Worte, die bei „Lukas" stehen: ὁ ἰατρὸς ὁ ἀγαπητός; er wünschte kein Lob des Lukas, dem er ja das Evangelium entrissen hatte.

Der Philipperbrief. In 1, 15 veränderte M. die Worte τινὲς δὲ καὶ δι' εὐδοκίαν zu „τ. δ. κ. διὰ λόγου δόξαν (oder λόγου εὐδοκίαν)" und wollte damit die eitle christliche Schulweisheit treffen. In 1, 16 setzte M. frei die Worte ein: „ἤδη καί τινες ἐξ ἀγῶνος"; es war ihm vermutlich ἐξ ἐριθείας noch nicht genug, und er wollte wohl ausdrücklich die kirchlichen Rivalitätskämpfe präskribiert sehen. In der berühmten Stelle 2, 7 ließ er γενόμενος und ὡς aus und erreichte so das christologische Bild, das er wünschte. In 3, 9 schrieb er wahrscheinlich: ἔχων δικαιοσύνην μὴ ἐμὴν ἤδη τὴν ἐκ νόμου, ἀλλὰ τὴν δι' αὐτοῦ ἐκ θεοῦ (oder τὴν δι' αὐτοῦ, τὴν ἐκ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην); er brachte so den Gegensatz zum Gesetz noch kräftiger zum Ausdruck.

LIBRARY BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY

Am Evangelium hat M. folgende Streichungen und Korrekturen vorgenommen [1]:

Kap. 1—4. Nach Streichung von 1, 1—4, 15 vertauschte M. — wohl um Jesus von Nazareth möglichst zu trennen — die Stellung der Perikope vom Auftreten Jesu in Nazareth (s. die Apparate zu 4, 16 ff. in Beilage IV) mit der von der Heilung des Dämonischen in Kapernaum (4, 31 ff.), nachdem er jene Perikope verändert und verkürzt hatte (Weglassung der Predigt [2]; spätere Marcioniten setzten Bethsaida für Nazareth ein, um jeden Zusammenhang Jesu mit dieser Stadt abzuschneiden; in 4, 34 hatte M. selbst Ναζαρηνέ gestrichen). Sicher fehlte hier 4, 27 (s. zu 17, 17 f). Unter den großen Streichungen, denen auch die Taufe Jesu zum Opfer fallen mußte, fällt die der Versuchungsgeschichte besonders auf; allein diese Geschichte war dem M. sicher zu „menschlich"; sein Christus war über solche Anläufe erhaben.

Bei der Feststellung der tendenziösen Streichungen M.s im Evangelium waltet die Schwierigkeit ob, daß Tert, fast niemals angibt, ob er die betreffenden Perikopen nicht vorgefunden oder ob er sie in seiner Kritik übergangen hat. Stellt man aber diese Stücke zusammen, vergleicht sie mit dem sicher von M. Gestrichenen und beachtet die Übergänge bei Tert. (auch Epiph.) genau, so ergibt sich in vielen Fällen eine Wahrscheinlichkeit für die Streichung, bei einigen eine sehr hohe, auch wenn man berücksichtigt, daß M. nicht überall konsequent verfahren ist. Ich stelle diese Perikopen zusammen, ganz Unbedeutendes beiseite lassend:

4, 36—39 (Allgemeines, Heilung der Schwiegermutter des Petrus) schwerlich gestrichen.

---

1 Wenn Tert. IV, 43 (zu Luk. 24, 38 f.) bemerkt: „Marcion quaedam contraria sibi illa, credo, industria eradere de evangelio suo noluit, ut ex his, quae eradere potuit nec erasit illa, quae erasit, aut negetur erasisse aut merito erasisse dicatur; nec parcit nisi eis, quae non minus aliter interpretando quam delendo subvertit — so ist das, wie schon „credo" zeigt, eine Unterstellung. Richtig, wenn auch hämisch, ist dagegen die Bemerkung V, 4 (zu Gal. 4, 22 ff.): „Ut furibus solet aliquid excidere de praeda in indicium, ita credo et Marcion novissimam Abrahae mentionem dereliquisse".

2 C. 4, 16 hat M. τεθραμμένος und αὐτῷ gestrichen, mit ἐλθὼν δέ begonnen und so dem Satz, noch andere Streichungen vornehmend, einen anderen Sinn gegeben.

4, 41 fin. („Sie wußten, daß er der Christus war") ungewiß, ob gestrichen.

4, 44 (Predigt in den Synagogen) ungewiß, ob gestrichen.

5, 27 Die Worte καὶ ἀσκοὶ ἀπολοῦνται fehlten wahrscheinlich.

5, 39 („Der alte Wein ist trefflicher") sicher gestrichen.

6, 17 Streichung von Judäa und Jerusalem sehr wahrscheinlich.

6, 19 b („Eine Kraft war von ihm ausgegangen") unsicher.

6, 23 a (Das Freuen und Hüpfen am Gerichtstage) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

6, 30 b (Fordre nichts vom Räuber zurück) schwerlich gestrichen.

6, 32. 33 (Unwert der Liebeserweise gegenüber denen, die uns lieben) schwerlich gestrichen.

6, 34 b (Die Sünder und das Zinsnehmen) schwerlich gestrichen.

6, 47—49 (Das Haus mit und ohne Grundlage) schwerlich gestrichen.

7, 29—35 (Die spielenden Kinder, das Verhalten des Volks zum Täufer und zu Jesus) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

8, 19 (Seine Mutter und Brüder kommen) gestrichen.

8, 28 (τοῦ ὑψίστου neben τοῦ θεοῦ) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

8, 32—37 (Die Geschichte von den Säuen innerhalb der Dämonengeschichte) ungewiß.

8, 40—42 a. 49—56 (Jairusgeschichte) ungewiß, ob gestrichen.

9, 23 (Kreuz auf sich nehmen) unsicher.

9, 25 (Schaden an der Seele nehmen) ungewiß.

9, 26 b. 27 (Kommen des Menschensohnes in Herrlichkeit mit Gefolge. „Es stehen etliche hier" usw.) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

9, 31 (Weissagung des Moses und Elias) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

9, 36 (Schluß der Verklärungsgeschichte) ungewiß.

9, 49. 50 (Jener, der in Jesu Namen Teufel austrieb) ungewiß.

10, 12—15 Wehe über die Städte wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

10, 21 hat M. πάτερ und καὶ τῆς γῆς im Gebet Jesu gestrichen. Die Übereinstimmung der Berichte Tert.s u. Epiph. ist hier besonders deutlich und wichtig.

10, 24 ἠθέλησαν ἰδεῖν (von den Propheten) sicher gestrichen, dafür οὐκ ἴδαν

10, 25 „Ewig" neben „Leben", sicher gestrichen.

10, 27 (καὶ τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν) ungewiß; die Verse 26. 28 waren getilgt; s. unten.

10, 29—37 (Der barmherzige Samariter) ungewiß.

10, 38—42 (Maria und Martha) ungewiß; aber man darf wohl vermuten, daß Tert. diese und die vorige Geschichte übergangen hat, weil er der Marcionitischen Auslegung nichts entgegenzusetzen wußte.

11, 4 Daß M. die zweite Hälfte der 5. Bitte gelesen hat, ist nicht bezeugt.

11, 23 (Wer nicht mit mir, ist wider mich) ungewiß.

11, 24—26 (Fortsetzung der Beelzebulgeschichte) ungewiß.

11, 29 (Jonas) u. 30—32 (Jonas, die Königin und Salomo) gestrichen.

11, 34—36 (Auge und Licht) ungewiß.

11, 42 fin. („Dieses soll man tun und jenes nicht lassen") gestrichen.

11, 44. 45 (Die Pharisäer μνημεῖα ἄδηλα die Frage des Gesetzeslehrers) ungewiß.

11, 49—51 (Der Spruch der Weisheit Gottes; das ungerechte Blut von Abel bis Zacharias) sicher gestrichen.

11, 53. 54 (Die Absichten der Pharisäer gegen Jesus) ungewiß.

12, 4 Die Streichungen von ὑμῖν bezw. von μου sollen die Bezeichnung der Jünger Jesu als Freunde Jesu tilgen.

12, 6. 7 (Gottes Fürsorge f. Sperlinge; der höhere Wert der Menschen) sicher gestrichen.

12, 8. 9 Statt „vor den Engeln Gottes" schrieb M. „vor Gott".

12, 24 Die Worte καὶ ὁ θεὸς τρέφει αὐτούς fehlten wahrscheinlich.

12, 25. 26 (Eine Elle seiner Länge zusetzen) ungewiß.

12, 28 (Bekleidung des Getreides) gestrichen, aber ὀλιγόπιστοι beibehalten.

12, 32 Nach ὁ πατήρ war ὑμῶν gestrichen.

12, 33. 34 (Vermögensentäußerung, Almosengeben, Schatz im Himmel) ungewiß.

12, 49 b. 50 („Ich wollte, das Feuer brennte schon"; „ich habe eine Taufe usw.") ungewiß.

12, 52 (Fünf in einem Hause) ungewiß.

13, 1—5 (Die gemordeten Galiläer. Turm von Siloam) sicher gestrichen.

13, 6—9 (Feigenbaum-Gleichnis) sicher gestrichen.

13, 22—24 (Die enge Pforte) ungewiß.

13, 29—35 (Die Mahlzeit im Himmelreiche, Botschaft an Herodes; der Spruch über Jerusalem, das die Propheten tötet) sicher gestrichen.

14, 1—6 (Heilung des Wassersüchtigen am Sabbat) ungewiß.

14, 7—11 (Zurechtweisung der Ehrgeizigen: nicht obenan sich setzen) ungewiß.

14, 15 (Selig, wer das Brot ißt im Reiche Gottes) ungewiß.

14. 25—35 (Vater und Mutter hassen; Kreuz tragen; der leichtsinnig unternommene Bau und Krieg; allem absagen; das dummgewordene Salz) ungewiß.

15, 10 (τῶν ἀγγέλων fehlt vor τοῦ θεοῦ) sicher gestrichen.

15, 11—32 (Der verlorene Sohn) sicher gestrichen.

16. 9 b (Aufnehmen in die ewigen Hütten) ungewiß.

16, 10 (Treue im Großen und Kleinen) ungewiß.

16, 15 b (Was vor den Menschen hoch ist, ist vor Gott ein Greuel) ungewiß.

16, 29. 30 (fehlt Abraham) absichtlich gestrichen. Nach M. ist 27—31 Gott selbst der Angeredete und Sprechende.

17, 5. 6 (Glaube wie ein Senfkorn) ungewiß.

17, 7—10 (der unnütze Knecht) ungewiß; sicher fehlte ἀχρεῖοι.

17, 11—19 (Die 10 Aussätzigen); in diese Perikope war 4, 27 eingesetzt (s. o.; warum dies geschehen, ist dunkel) und einiges fehlte; es ist aber unsicher, was fehlte, jedenfalls ἐν τῷ Ἰσραήλ (in 4, 27).

17, 23. 24 (Das Erscheinen des Menschensohnes wie der Blitz) ungewiß.

17, 33—37 (Die Seele suchen und verlieren; zwei werden in einem Bette sein, usw.) ungewiß.

18, 23—30 (Gespräch über den Reichtum und Verheißung an die Jünger, die alles verlassen haben) ungewiß; aber v. 29. 30 waren sicher gestrichen.

18, 31—33 (Leidensankündigung) sicher gestrichen.

18, 34 (Unverständnis der Jünger) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

18, 37 (ὁ Ναζωραῖος) sicher gestrichen.

19, 9b (Zakchäus) ein Sohn Abrahams: sicher gestrichen.

19, 10 Ob ζητῆσαι καί vor σῶσαι absichtlich fehlt?

19, 27 (Abschlachtung der Feinde) sicher gestrichen.

19, 28 (Reise nach Jerusalem) ungewiß.

19, 29—46 (Einzug in Jerusalem, Tempelreinigung) sicher gestrichen.

19, 47. 48. (Jesus lehrt im Tempel; die Schriftgelehrten trachten nach seinem Leben) ungewiß.

20, 9—18 (Die schlimmen Weingärtner) sicher gestrichen.

20, 37. 38 (Moses nennt Gott den Gott der Erzväter; Gott ein Gott der Lebendigen) sicher gestrichen.

20, 40 (Sie wagten ihn nichts mehr zu fragen) ungewiß.

20, 45—47 (Warnung vor den eitlen und ehrgeizigen Pharisäern, die der Witwen Häuser verschlingen) ungewiß.

21, 1—4 (Der Witwe Scherflein) ungewiß.

21, 18 (Kein Haar von eurem Haupte wird verloren gehen) sicher gestrichen.

21, 21—24 (Die Aufforderung an die Juden zu fliehen; Wehe den Schwangeren; Jerusalems Vernichtung) sicher gestrichen.

21, 35 b. 36 (Der Gerichtstag kommt über alle; wachet, damit ihr dem Schrecken entgehen könnt) ungewiß.

22, 2 (Die Schriftgelehrten suchen Jesum zu töten, fürchten sich vor dem Volk) ungewiß.

22, 3 (Der Satan fuhr in Judas) ungewiß.

22, 6. 7 (Judas sucht Gelegenheit zum Verrat; es kam der Passahtag) ungewiß.

22, 9—13 (Die Ausführung des Befehls, das Passahzimmer zu bereiten) ungewiß.

22, 14 Die Worte ὅτε ἐγένετο ἡ ὥρα scheinen gefehlt zu haben.

22, 15 τοῦτο vor τὸ πάσχα vielleicht absichtlich gestrichen.

22, 16 („Ich werde nicht mehr essen, bis daß es vollendet ist im Reiche Gottes") sicher gestrichen.

22, 17. 18 (Segnung und Darreichung des Kelches) sicher gestrichen, aber es fehlte wohl schon in der Vorlage.

22, 19 b („Dies tut zu meinem Gedächtnis") ungewiß.

22, 20 καινή neben διαθήκη gestrichen.

22, 23—30 (Frage, wer der Verräter sei, und Rangstreit der Jünger; Jesu Rede über die wahre Größe; Verheißung für die Jünger als zukünftige Richter) ungewiß, aber v. 30 konnte M. nicht stehen lassen.

22, 35—38 (Ob die Jünger je Mangel gelitten hätten? Die Schwerter) sicher gestrichen.

22, 39. 40 (Gang zum Ölberg) unbezeugt, aber ganz können sie nicht gefehlt haben.

22, 42—46 (Das Gebetsringen in Gethsemane; die schlafenden Jünger) wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

22. 48 („Verrätst du den Menschensohn durch einen Kuß?") ungewiß.

22, 49—51 (Die Geschichte vom abgehauenen Ohr) sicher gestrichen.

22, 52—62 (Rede an die Häscher, Verleugnung des Petrus) unbezeugt; aber v. 31—34 fordert, daß Petri Verleugnung erzählt war.

22, 65. 68. 71 wohl zufällig unbezeugt.

22, 70 Die Worte ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι hat M. wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

23, 4. 5 (Pilatus findet keine Schuld; die Gegner bezeichnen Jesum als Aufwiegler) ungewiß.

23, 13—17 (Verhandlungen des Pilatus mit den Hohenpriestern usw.) ungewiß.

23, 26 (Simeon von Kyrene) ungewiß.

23, 27—31 (Die wehklagenden Frauen von Jerusalem; das grüne Holz) ungewiß.

23, 34 b (Verteilen der Kleider) gestrichen, aber Epiph. las es wieder in seinem Marcion-Evang.

23, 35 (Verspottung) ungewiß.

23, 36—42 (Der Galletrank; rette dich selbst! Die Kreuzesinschrift; die Schächer) ungewiß; die Schächer wahrscheinlich gestrichen.

23, 43 („Heute wirst du im Paradiese sein") sicher gestrichen.

23, 46 Vielleicht haben spätere Marcioniten das Wort: „Vater in deine Hände" usw., getilgt.

23, 47—49 (Der Hauptmann, das Volk, die Bekannten und die Frauen beim Tode) ungewiß.

23, 54 (Daß der Sabbat bevorstand) ungewiß.

24, 2 (Der Stein abgewälzt) ungewiß.

24, 8 („Sie erinnerten sich seiner Worte") ungewiß.

24, 21 b—24 (Bericht der Emmauten über das, was am Ostermorgen geschehen) ungewiß, vielleicht getilgt.

24, 27 (Jesus rekapituliert die Weissagung) sicher gestrichen.

24, 28. 29 (Sie kommen ins Dorf Emmaus; Jesus soll bleiben) unbezeugt.

24, 32—36 (Rede der beiden Jünger; Rückkehr nach Jerusalem; Berichterstattung; der Herr dem Petrus erschienen; Jesu Eintritt in den Kreis) ungewiß.

24, 39 ψηλαφήσατέ με καὶ ἴδετε sicher gestrichen.

24, 39 σάρκας καί fehlte, was sehr merkwürdig ist.

24, 40 (Er zeigte ihnen seine Hände und Füße) sicher gestrichen.

24, 44—46 (Jesus öffnet den Jüngern die Schrift) sicher gestrichen.

24, 47 (ἀρξάμενον ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλήμ) wohl gestrichen.

24, 48—53 (Aussendung der Jünger; Bethanien) sicher gestrichen.

Außer den Streichungen, die bei weitem den größten Teil seiner Korrekturen ausgemacht haben, finden sich noch folgende Korrekturen:

5, 18 ff. Hier war vielleicht bemerkt, daß die Heilung des Gichtbrüchigen an einem Sabbat stattfand.

6, 43 Der schlechte Baum vor den guten gestellt.

7, 28 Hier hat M. den Text in seinem Sinne verdeutlicht, indem er μείζων πάντων τῶν γεννητῶν γυναικῶν προφήτης Ἰωάννης ἐστιν schrieb.

8, 20 f. („Mutter und Brüder") umgestaltet zu einer schroffen, ablehnenden Frage Jesu; an Stelle vom „Gotteswort" sind „meine Worte" eingesetzt.

9, 26 a lautete: ὃς ἂν ἐπαισχυνθῇ με, κἀγὼ ἐπαισχυνθήσομαι αὐτόν.

9, 30 συνέστησαν αὐτῷ für συνελάλουν (Moses und Elias sollten nicht mit Jesus sprechen); spätere Marcioniten lasen wieder συνελάλουν.

9, 41 Zugesetzt πρὸς αὐτούς, um die Jünger als die γενεὰ ἄπιστος erscheinen zu lassen.

9, 54 f. M. schaltete hier die Zusätze ein: ὡς καὶ Ἠλίας ἐποίησεν und καὶ εἶπεν· οὐκ οἴδατε οἵου πνεύματός ἐστε ὑμεῖς.

10, 21 M. schrieb tendenziös für ὅτι ἀπέκρυψας ταῦτα vielmehr ἅτινα ἦν κρυπτά.

10, 25 ff. Diese Geschichte war tendenziös so erzählt, daß nicht der Gesetzeslehrer, sondern Jesus den (nicht als ATliches Wort bezeichneten) Spruch von der Gottesliebe gesprochen hat; dadurch war eine beträchtliche Kürzung nötig (s. o.); die Marcioniten des Epiphanius lasen wieder den echten Text.

11, 3 M. änderte die 4. Bitte und schrieb τὸν ἄρτον σου (daß er als erste Bitte eine Bitte um den h. Geist brachte, ist nicht Korrektur, sondern ursprünglicher Lukastext).

11, 4 M. schrieb μὴ ἄφες ἡμᾶς εἰσενεχθῆναι εἰς πειρασμόν für μὴ εἰσενέγκῃς.

11, 42 Tendenziös τὴν κλῆσιν für τὴν κρίσιν. Die Überein-stimmung der Berichte Tert.s und Epiph. ist besonders bemerkenswert.

12, 4 M. schrieb: μὴ φοβηθῆτε ἀπὸ τῶν ὑμᾶς μόνον ἀποκτέννειν δυναμένων καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα μηδεμίαν εἰς ὑμᾶς ἐχόντων ἐξουσίαν.

12, 8. 9 Stilistische Änderung (außer der Streichung der Engel, s. o.).

12, 46 Hier ist wahrscheinlich διχοτομήσει getilgt und ἀποχωρίσει oder ein ähnliches Wort eingesetzt.

12, 46 Statt θήσει setzte M. τεθήσεται, um Gott nicht als Richter erscheinen zu lassen.

13, 28 Hier waren die Erzväter getilgt und dafür οἱ δίκαιοι eingesetzt, ferner war ἐκβαλλομένους durch κρατουμένους ἔξω ersetzt (so Tert. und Epiph.).

14, 21 Für ὀργισθείς tendenziös „motus" (κινηθείς?)

16, 12 Für τὸ ὑμέτερον tendenziös τὸ ἐμόν (so auch einige Itala-Codd. und Minuskel 157).

16, 17 Für τοῦ νόμου tendenziös τῶν λόγων μου.

16, 26 Für οἱ θέλοντες διαβῆναι steht οἱ ἐνταῦθα διαβῆναι (ob tendenziös?).

16, 28. 29 ἐκεῖ hinzugesetzt (verdeutlichend?).

18, 19 ὁ πατήρ war nach Origenes und Epiph. (nicht nach Tert.) hinzugesetzt zu ὁ θεός.

18, 20 M. schrieb wahrscheinlich ὁ δὲ ἔφη· τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδα für τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδας, um die ATlichen Gebote nicht aus dem Munde Jesu hören zu müssen.

20, 35 Für οἱ καταξιωθέντες schrieb M. οὓς κατηξίωσεν ὁ θεός und zog die Worte τοῦ αἰῶνος ἐκείνου zu θεός, um eine Beweisstelle für die Unterscheidung der zwei Götter zu erhalten.

21, 13 Zu εἰς μαρτύριον fügte M. καὶ σωτηρίαν hinzu.

21, 19 σώσετε ἑαυτούς für κτήσασθε τὰς ψυχὰς ὑμῶν (ob nach Matth. 24, 13?).

21, 27 Für ἐν νεφέλῃ tendenziös ἀπὸ τῶν οὐρανῶν.

21, 32. 33 M. schrieb: οὐ μὴ παρέλθῃ ὁ οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ γῆ, εἰ μὴ πάντα (γένηται)· ἡ (δὴ) γῆ καὶ ὁ οὐρανὸς παρελεύσονται, ὁ δὲ λόγος μου μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα.

23, 2 Zusatz: καὶ καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας und καὶ ἀποστρέφοντα τὰς γυναῖκας καὶ τὰ τέκνα.

23, 3 M. schrieb ὁ Χριστός für ὁ βασιλεὺς τῶν Ἰουδαίων, da Jesus diese Frage des Pilatus bejaht.

23, 56 M. schrieb tendenziös κατὰ τὸν νόμον für κατὰ τὴν ἐντολήν.

24, 25 M. schrieb οἷς ἐλάλησεν (spätere Marcioniten ἐλάλησα) πρὸς ὑμᾶς für οἷς ἐλάλησαν οἱ προφῆται.

24, 37 M. schrieb φάντασμα für πνεῦμα.

Was zunächst das formale Verfahren anlangt, so hat man zwischen Zusätzen, Streichungen und Umwandlungen in den Texten zu unterscheiden.

Die große Masse der Korrekturen besteht aus Streichungen, von der Streichung eines Wortes oder Wörtchens an[1] bis zu der großer Abschnitte. Das Lukasev. hat sämtliche Anfangskapitel bis c. 4, 32 (mit Ausnahme von c. 3, 1) verloren; der Römerbrief hat fast die Hälfte seines Stoffes eingebüßt; wie viel in den anderen Briefen und im Evangelium gefehlt hat, läßt sich leider nicht sagen, da die Quellen ein sicheres Urteil nicht zulassen. M. hat also angenommen, daß die judaistischen Fälscher die Texte durch Zusätze aller Art aufs schlimmste beschwert haben.

Die Zahl der von M. gemachten Zusätze ist so verschwindend gering, daß man skeptisch gegenüber den wenigen Fällen wird, in denen solche angenommen werden müssen; doch sind sie gut bezeugt[2]. M. hat also in der Regel nicht angenommen, daß die judaistischen Pseudoapostel Streichungen in den echten Texten vorgenommen haben, oder er hielt es nicht für möglich, diese Streichungen zu ermitteln. Das macht seiner Kritik Ehre, ebenso die Beobachtung, daß er Apokryphes nicht herangezogen hat. Die wenigen, keineswegs an allen Stellen sicheren Zusätze finden sich Gal. 1, 7 (κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον μου), I Kor. 1, 18 (σοφία),

---

1 Die einschneidendste ist die Streichung des ἐν in Ep. 3, 9; vgl. dieselbe, auch verhängnisvolle Streichung von ἐν in Eph. 2, 15 sowie die folgenreichen Streichungen von γενόμενος und ὡς in Phil. 2, 7. Sehr wichtig ist auch die Streichung von καινή bei διαθήκη in Luk. 22, 20, ferner von πάτερ und καὶ τῆς γῆς in Luk. 10, 21, von αἰώνιον (neben ζωήν) in Luk. 10, 25 (dagegen ist es 18, 18 stehen geblieben), von κοινωνίας in Gal. 2, 9, von ἐν τῷ in Gal. 5, 14.

2 Die Annahme liegt nahe, daß die Zusätze sämtlich von Schülern M.s herrühren (s. o.), und man kann einiges für diese Annahme anführen; aber sie läßt sich nicht beweisen. Möglich ist auch, daß einige „Zusätze" vormarcionitisch sind.

I Thess. 2, 15 (ἰδίους), I Thess. 5, 13 (καὶ σωτῆρος), Phil. 1, 16 (ἤδη καί τινες ἐξ ἀγῶνος), Luk. 9, 41 (πρὸς αὐτούς), Luk. 9, 54 f. (ὡς καὶ Ἠλίας ἐποίησεν und οὐκ οἴδατε οἵου πνεύματός ἐστε ὑμεῖς), Luk. 16, 28. 29 (ἐκεῖ), Luk. 18, 19 (ὁ πατήρ, zweifelhaft), Luk. 18, 20 (ὁ δὲ ἔφη), Luk. 21, 13 (καὶ σωτηρίαν), Luk. 23, 2 (καὶ καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας und καὶ ἀποστρέφοντα τὰς γυναῖκας καὶ τὰ τέκνα)[1].

Sehr bedeutend ist die Zahl der Stellen, an denen M. Umwandlungen durch die Fälscher vorausgesetzt hat; hier hat er ihnen die raffiniertesten Methoden zugetraut und seinen ganzen Scharfsinn angewendet, um hinter ihre vermeintlichen Schliche zu kommen, sie aufzudecken und zu korrigieren.

(a) Er hat angenommen, daß sie im Wortklang, bzw. in den Buchstaben ähnliche Worte miteinander vertauscht haben, um einen neuen Sinn zu gewinnen; deshalb setzte er Gal. 2, 20 ἀγοράσαντος für ἀγαπήσαντος, Gal. 4, 8 τοῖς ἐν τῇ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς für τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς, Gal. 5, 14 ἐν ὑμῖν für ἐν ἑνὶ (λόγῳ), II Kor. 7, 1 αἵματος für πνεύματος, Kol. 1, 19 ἑαυτῷ für αὐτῷ (s. auch v. 20), Luk. 11, 42 τὴν κλῆσιν für τὴν κρίσιν, Luk. 18, 20 οἶδα für οἶδας. I. Kor. 10, 11 verwandelte er wahrscheinlich τύποι mit vorangehendem πάντα in ἀτύπως. Diese Änderungen sind Konjekturen eines geschickten Philologen.

(b) Er glaubte sich überzeugt zu haben, daß die Fälscher öfters das Aktivum und Passivum für ihre tendenziösen Zwecke vertauscht hätten; daher schrieb er I Kor. 3, 17 φθαρήσεται für φθερεῖ αὐτὸν ὁ θεός, I Kor. 15, 25 θῶνται für θῇ (wenn diese LA nicht späteren Marcioniten gehört), Luk. 10, 21 ἅτινα ἦν κρυπτά für ὅτι ἀπέκρυψας ταῦτα, Luk. 11, 4 μὴ ἄφες ἡμᾶς εἰσενεχθῆναι für μὴ εἰσενέγκῃς, Luk. 12, 46 τεθήσεται für θήσει, Luk. 20, 35 οὓς κατηξίωσεν ὁ θεός für οἱ καταξιωθέντες. Hierher gehört auch, daß er an mehreren Stellen, wenn auch nicht konsequent (s. I Kor. 6, 14), die Auferweckung Jesu in Selbstauferweckung (Auferstehung) umgewandelt hat. Andere einschneidende Vertauschungen sind die von Pronomina (z. B. Luk. 11, 3 schrieb M. τὸν ἄρτον σου für ἡμῶν, Luk. 16, 12 τὸ ἐμόν für τὸ ὑμέτερον), von Partikeln (die wichtigste ist Kol. 2, 8, wo M. διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας ὡς κενῆς ἀπάτης gibt, während der echte Text καί und nicht ὡς liest), und von Personen (so im Gespräch Luk. 18, 18 ff., wodurch ein ganz anderer Sinn entsteht), vgl. auch das Gespräch Luk 8, 20 f.

1 Über den Zusatz in I Kor. 6, 13 s. o. S. 47.

(c) Auch Umstellungen von Sätzen haben die Fälscher nach M., wenn auch nicht häufig, vorgenommen; daher stellte er Luk. 6, 43 den schlechten Baum vor den guten und in Röm. 12 den 19. Vers vor den 18.; s. auch Gal. 4, 3; I Thess. 4, 16 usw.

(d) Er nahm an, daß die Fälscher auch ohne eine täuschende formelle Deckung ungescheut und frech einzelne Begriffe und auch sehr zahlreiche Sätze umgewandelt haben; daher sah er sich genötigt, sowohl einzelne Begriffe und Sätzchen umgestaltend zu divinieren, als auch große Sätze völlig umzugestalten. In bezug auf ersteres s. z. B. Gal. 4, 24, wo er die beiden διαθῆκαι nicht gelten lassen konnte und dafür ἐπιδείξεις oder ein ähnliches Wort einsetzte (wenn diese Operation nicht erst seinen Schülern gebührt); Gal. 6, 17 τῶν ἄλλων für τοῦ λοιποῦ; I Kor. 10, 19 ἱερόθυτον für εἴδωλον; 15, 20 κηρύσσεται ἀναστάναι für ἐγήγερται (s. o.); I Kor. 15, 45 κύριος für Ἀδάμ; II Kor. 3, 14 τοῦ κόσμου für αὐτῶν; II Kor. 4, 10 τοῦ θεοῦ für τοῦ Ἰησοῦ; Röm. 6, 19 τῷ θεῷ δουλεύειν ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ für δοῦλα τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ; Röm. 7, 5 ἐν ἡμῖν für ἐν τοῖς μέλεσιν ἡμῶν; Röm. 10, 3 θεὸν ἀγνοοῦντες für ἀγνοοῦντες τὴν τοῦ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην; I Thess. 4, 16 ἐγερθήσονται für ἀναστήσονται; II Thess. 1, 8 ἐρχομένου εἰς ἐκδίκησιν für διδόντος εἰς ἐκδίκησιν; II Thess. 2, 11 ἔσται . . εἰς für πέμπει; Phil. 1, 15 διὰ λόγου δόξαν für δι' εὐδοκίαν; Luk. 7, 28 πάντων τῶν γεννητῶν für ἐν γεννητοῖς; Luk. 8, 21 λόγον μου für λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ; Luk. 9, 30 συνέστησαν αὐτῷ für συνελάλουν; Luk. 12, 46 ἀποχωρίσει oder ähnlich für διχοτομήσει; Luk. 13, 28 οἱ δίκαιοι für die Erzväter; Luk. 14, 21 κινηθείς oder ähnlich für ὀργισθείς; Luk. 16, 17 τῶν λόγων μου für τοῦ νόμου; Luk. 21, 19 σώσετε ἑαυτοὺς für κτήσασθε τὰς ψυχὰς ὑμῶν; Luk. 21, 27 ἀπὸ τῶν οὐρανῶν für ἐν νεφέλῃ; Luk. 21, 33 ὁ λόγος μου μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα für οἱ λόγοι μου οὐ μὴ παρέλθωσιν; Luk. 23, 3 ὁ Χριστός für ὁ βασιλεὺς τῶν Ἰουδαίων; Luk. 23, 56 κατὰ τὸν νόμον für κατὰ τὴν ἐντολήν; Luk. 24, 25 οἷς ἐλάλησεν πρὸς ὑμᾶς für οἷς ἐλάλησαν οἱ προφῆται; Luk. 24, 37 φάντασμα für πνεῦμα. — Die Zahl der nachweisbaren umfangreichen Umgestaltungen ist nicht groß. Die wichtigste ist in Gal. 4, 21—26 zu finden; vgl.

Gal. 3, 10—12; Kol. 1, 15—17; auch kann Luk. 8, 20 f. und 10, 25 ff. hierher gezogen werden.

Was die Motive der Streichungen und Korrekturen anlangt, so liegen sie in den meisten Fällen auf der Hand, sobald man sich der Hauptlehren M.s erinnert[1]. Die wichtigsten Motive waren folgende:

(1) Der Weltschöpfer und Gott des AT darf nicht als Vater Jesu Christi erscheinen; er ist „gerecht" und bösartig; seine Verheißungen gelten dem jüdischen Volke und sind irdisch,

(2) das AT kann nichts geweissagt haben, was sich in Christus erfüllt hat; es darf nicht von Christus oder Paulus als Autorität herangezogen worden sein [2]; Gesetz und Propheten sind nach dem Buchstaben zu verstehen,

(3) der gute Gott muß bis zu seinem Erscheinen dem Weltschöpfer verborgen gewesen sein,

(4) er darf nicht als Lenker der Welt, bzw. als der Gott der weltlichen Vorsehung vorgestellt werden,

(5) er darf nicht als Richter erscheinen, sondern ausschließlich als der Barmherzige und als der Erlöser,

(6) seine Erlösungen und Verheißungen beziehen sich ausschließlich auf das ewige Leben.

(7) der Sohn des guten Gottes, Christus, ist in seinem Verhältnis zum Vater modalistisch zu verstehen,

(8) er hat nichts Irdisches an sich gehabt, also kein Fleisch und keinen Leib, und kann daher auch nicht geboren sein und Verwandte haben,

(9) er hat das Gesetz nicht erfüllt, sondern aufgelöst, den entscheidenden Gegensatz von Gesetz und Evangelium aufgedeckt und seine Erlösung allein auf den Glauben gestellt,

(10) er verlangt von den Menschen völlige Loslösung von der Welt und den Werken des Weltschöpfers,

(11) er hat nur einen echten Apostel erweckt, nachdem die ursprünglichen sich als unbelehrbar erwiesen haben; das Evangelium des Paulus ist das Evangelium Christi,

---

1 Bestimmte Äußerungen M.s über die Gründe seines Verfahrens bei der Kritik einzelner Stellen aus dem Evangelium oder dem Apostolos liegen nicht vor.

2 Über Einschränkungen dieser Grundannahmen bei M. s. später.

(12) er wird nicht als Richter wiedererscheinen, sondern am Ende der Tage die große Scheidung, die sich vollzogen hat, deklarieren.

Diese zwölf, in sich abgeschlossenen Motive kann man ohne weiteres aus den Streichungen und Korrekturen M.s ablesen [1]. Daneben hat er sich noch von einigen Motiven zweiten Ranges leiten lassen, die aber sämtlich mit den obengenannten in innerer Verbindung stehen; nur sehr wenige Streichungen sind in bezug auf ihre Motive undurchsichtig; denn bei genauerer Erwägung findet sich meistens das Motiv. Auf den ersten Blick ist man z. B. frappiert, daß das Gleichnis vom verlorenen Sohn (Luk. 15) gestrichen ist; allein so gewiß die Tendenz des Gleichnisses M. sympathisch sein mußte, so unannehmbar war für ihn der Rahmen: Rückkehr ins Vaterhaus! Die Tempelreinigung (Luk. 19) konnte ihm willkommen sein; aber die Worte: „Mein Haus ist ein Bethaus", waren ihm, wie Epiphanius richtig gesehen hat, unannehmbar. Freilich läßt sich einwenden, daß er ja nur dieses Wort hätte zu streichen gebraucht; aber bei genauerer Überlegung wird man sich sagen müssen, daß Christus ja durch die Reinigung selbst eine Wertschätzung des Tempels zum Ausdruck brachte, die M. unmöglich annehmen konnte. Übrigens bleibt es in zahlreichen Fällen ganz dunkel, warum er hier radikal verfahren ist und ganze Abschnitte gestrichen hat, dort durch kleine und feine Korrekturen den Sinn durchgreifend geändert hat. Eine Tradition kann ihn dabei nicht geleitet haben, denn er besaß eine solche nicht, sondern blieb durchweg der dogmatische Kritiker. Daher ist es auch ein Irrtum zu meinen, bei der Streichung der Kindheitsgeschichte sei er durch die ältere Überlieferung, die sie nicht gekannt hat, beeinflußt gewesen; er hat ja auch die Taufgeschichte gestrichen, die doch zum Ältesten gehörte und höchst wahrscheinlich schon in der Quelle Q vorhanden war.

1 Sehr mißlich und bedauerlich ist es, daß die Zahl der Stellen sehr groß ist, an denen es zweifelhaft bleiben muß, ob M. sie getilgt hat oder ob sie zufällig von seinen Gegnern nicht erwähnt worden sind. Die älteren Kritiker haben in diesen Fällen mehr oder weniger umfangreiche Erwägungen angestellt, um zu Entscheidungen zu gelangen, und auch Zahn hat sich, jedoch mit Zurückhaltung, an ihnen beteiligt. Ich habe mich von ihnen mit ganz geringen Ausnahmen vollständig fern gehalten, weil eine wirkliche Erweiterung unserer Kenntnisse der Lehre M.s durch sie doch nicht erreicht werden kann, da die Entscheidungen auf Grund des Bekannten getroffen werden müssen und sie außerdem bei den notorischen Inkonsequenzen M.s fast niemals ganz sicher sein können (s. o. S. 44 ff.).

Ein sicheres Bild von M.s Stellung zum Text kann man aber aus seinen Streichungen und Korrekturen noch nicht gewinnen; man muß vielmehr das hinzunehmen, was er stehen gelassen hat. Dann ergeben sich zwar sehr zahlreiche Inkonsequenzen und Unfertigkeiten; aber nur auf diesem Grunde — die Kritiker haben das bisher übersehen — ist es möglich, in seine Gedanken einzudringen und seinen Lehren Farbe und Leben zu geben. Es wird sich dann auch zeigen, daß seine Lehren in ihrer Anlehnung an das Evangelium und den Apostolos nicht mit einigen charakterisierenden Schlagworten und Antithesen zu erfassen oder gar zu erschöpfen sind, sondern eine sachliche und begriffliche Tiefe besitzen, die sie erst wertvoll macht (vgl. das Kapitel über die Lehre).

Bei der Feststellung des kritischen Standpunktes und des Verfahrens M.s darf schließlich nicht unbeachtet bleiben, daß er ein bewußter und entschiedener Gegner der allegorischen Erklärung war. Wir besitzen darüber zahlreiche ausdrückliche Zeugnisse, die uns belehren, daß M. die Frage prinzipiell erwogen hat (s. unten bei den „Antithesen"). Er hat ausdrücklich erklärt: Μὴ δεῖν ἀλληγορεῖν τὴν γραφήν, und verstand diesen Satz so, daß weder das AT noch das Evangelium und der Apostolos allegorisiert werden dürfen. Als „purae historiae deservientes" bezeichnet Origenes die Marcioniten (Comm. XV, 3 in Matth., T. III p. 333), und einem anderen Zeugnis entnehmen wir, daß für ihn auch das Evangelium nicht νοητόν, sondern ψιλόν war; es dürfe daher nur allegorisiert werden, wo es offenkundig Parabeln enthalte. Ob M. selbst diesen Standpunkt ganz rein hat durchführen können, ist eine andere Frage [1], aber jedenfalls

---

1 Tertullian hat III, 5 dem M. mit vollem Recht vorgerückt, daß auch er allegorisiere, bzw. die Allegorien des Paulus anerkenne: „Et quid ego de isto genere amplius? cum etiam haereticorum apostolus ipsam legem indulgentem bobus terrentibus os liberum non de bobus, sed de nobis interpretetur (I Kor. 9, 9f.), et petram, potui subministrando comitem, Christum adleget fuisse (I Kor. 10, 4), docens proinde et Galatas duo argu-

hat es in der ältesten Kirche keinen Theologen gegeben, der mit solcher Konsequenz die allegorische Erklärung abgelehnt hat wie er. Für das AT ergab sich daraus die Folge, daß er in seinen Erklärungen der wichtigsten ATlichen Stellen, namentlich der prophetischen und messianischen, ganz mit den Erklärungen der Juden zusammenstimmte, da auch er annahm, die Prophezeiungen seien teils schon erfüllt (in David, Salomo usw.), teils bezögen sie sich auf ein irdisches Reich und auf den Judenmessias, der als Kriegskönig noch kommen werde. Dieses Zusammentreffen mit der jüdischen Exegese war für die Gegner M.s ein schweres Skandalon: ein Christ war bereits gerichtet, wenn ihm diese Bundesgenossenschaft nachgewiesen werden konnte. Für uns aber bleibt es ein psychologisches Rätsel, wie ein Kritiker, der einerseits die Phantasien der Allegoristik ablehnte, die „historia pura" auf den Schild erhob und im AT keine Zeile änderte, ja den ganzen Text des weitschichtigen Buches als unverfälschte Geschichte anerkannte[1], andrerseits die christlichen Schriften in solchem Umfang als verfälscht zu beurteilen und die Wiederherstellung so zuversichtlich in Angriff zu nehmen vermochte! Nicht nur die Allegoristik, auch die Dogmatik kann Berge versetzen!

In diesem Zusammenhang hat Zahn (Kanonsgesch. I S. 652f. 717) die Frage aufgeworfen, ob und wie M.s Verfahren vom moralischen Standpunkt gerechtfertigt werden kann. Er geht von dem Zugeständnis aus, daß M. im allgemeinen ein gutes Gewissen gehabt haben wird, fährt aber dann fort: „Es ist doch schwer zu glauben, daß dies gute Gewissen und der positive Glaube, durch seine kritische Operation dem ursprünglichen menta filiorum Abrahae allegorice cucurrisse (Gal. 4, 22 ff), et suggerens Ephesiis, quod in primordio de homine praedicatum est, relicturo patrem et matrem et futuris duobus in unam carnem, id se in Christum et ecclesiam agnoscere" (Eph. 5, 31 f). Tert. hätte hinzufügen können, daß M.s locus classicus für die Unterscheidung der beiden Götter („der schlechte und der gute Baum") auf einer willkürlich allegorischen Interpretation eines Gleichnisses ruhe.

---

1 In dieser Haltung tritt ein Respekt zutage, der schwer verständlich ist, wenn M. nicht mit dem AT aufgewachsen ist (s. o. S. 22). Einfluß der jüdischen Exegese ist wahrscheinlich.

Paulus (und dem ursprünglichen Evangelium) wieder zum Wort zu verhelfen, ihn bei seiner Arbeit stets begleitet haben sollte. Wenn er das eine Mal Sätze, die in seiner Vorlage weit auseinanderlagen, künstlich verknüpfte, um einen ganz anderen Gedanken herauszubringen, wenn er mehrfach Umstellungen vornahm, welche im Falle ihrer Richtigkeit ein ganz zweckloses Verfahren der angeblichen judaistischen Fälscher voraussetzen würden, wenn er sehr häufig durch Zutun und Abtun von Silben und Wörtern den Gedanken in sein Gegenteil verkehrte, so verträgt sich dies künstliche und oft kleinliche Verfahren entweder nicht mit dem guten Gewissen oder nicht mit dem gesunden Verstande. Zwischen diesen beiden Erklärungsgründen eine sichere Wahl zu treffen, ist heute schwerlich noch möglich; aber man sollte es denen, die dem M. näher standen, nicht so übelnehmen, wenn sie unter dem Eindruck seiner geistigen Bedeutung mehr an seiner Redlichkeit, als an seinem Verstande zweifelten und ihn daher häufiger der dreisten Fälschung als der fanatischen Blindheit bezichtigten".

Das Problem ist damit richtig gestellt und die für M.s Charakter günstigere Lösung erscheint zunächst dadurch erschwert, daß zwei Milderungsgründe, die man geltend gemacht hat — den zweiten hat auch Zahn gelten lassen — m. E. kaum in Betracht kommen können. Weder darf man sich für M.s Verfahren, als sei damit eine volle Analogie gegeben, auf die Entstehung der synoptischen Evangelien berufen (so Baur und seine Schule, weil sie die großen Unterschiede zwischen ihnen auch auf Tendenzkritik zurückführten), noch auf die Verwilderung der Handschriften, die schon zu M.s Zeit bestanden haben wird. Die Abweichungen zwischen den Synoptikern beruhen in der Hauptsache auf mündlicher Überlieferung und nur in zweiter Linie auf tendenziösen Diorthosen, und sind auch diese öfters einschneidend und hin und her sogar dreist, so zeigen sich zwar Berührungspunkte mit dem Verfahren M.s, aber dieses bleibt doch sehr verschieden von ihnen. Man darf höchstens sagen, daß, was Lukas und Matthäus sich gegenüber Q und Markus an einzelnen Stellen erlaubt haben, das hat M. zum Prinzip seiner Kritik erhoben. Der andere Hinweis aber, die Verwilderung der Handschriften könne M.s Verfahren entschuldigen, trifft überhaupt nicht zu; denn wir wissen gar nichts darüber, ob ihm dieser Zustand überhaupt aufgefallen ist, oder vielmehr, es liegt, soviel wir zu urteilen vermögen, die Annahme nahe, daß er sich wesentlich an einen gegebenen Text gehalten hat; denn daß er Textvergleichungen vorgenommen, ist nirgends sicher bezeugt, wenn es auch an einigen Stellen vermutet werden kann.

Bleibt somit sein kritisches Verfahren in seiner tendenziösen Willkür einzigartig, so mag ihm zu einer gewissen Entschuldigung dienen, daß er in einem Zeitalter schrieb, in welchem autoritative Texte nicht nur durch Verwilderung, sondern vor allem durch Fälschungen sehr viel zu leiden hatten; klagt doch nur wenige Jahre später Dionysius von Korinth, daß seine Briefe hinter seinem Rücken von den Häretikern verfälscht würden, und Irenäus beschwört seine Abschreiber bei dem wiederkehrenden Christus, seine Bücher intakt zu lassen. Daß M. das Evangelium und die Paulusbriefe für durch und durch verfälscht halten konnte, darf man ihm daher zugestehen. Damit ist freilich sein positives Verfahren noch nicht gerechtfertigt. Aber m. E., und im Gegensatz zu Zahn, liegt doch kein Verdacht gegen die subjektive Ehrlichkeit M.s vor, d. h. gegen seine Überzeugung, das, was er getan, sei richtig und führe zum Ziel. Wäre er ein Schwindler gewesen, so stand ihm mehr als ein Weg offen, um seinen Fälschungen eine hohe, ja absolute Autorität zu geben. Er hätte sich auf den „Geist" berufen und erklären können, daß ihm dieser die Bücher eingegeben habe, oder er hätte eine Geheimtradition vorschwindeln können, aus der er das ursprüngliche Evangelium und die ursprünglichen Briefe erhalten habe, oder er hätte behaupten können, daß er eine Handschrift gefunden habe, in welcher diese Schriftstücke stünden. Jeder dieser Wege war damals leicht gangbar und hätte zum Ziel geführt — Beispiele fehlen nicht; er aber hat keinen von ihnen betreten und damit bewiesen, daß er kein Schwindler gewesen ist.

Aber wie ist dann das Rätsel dieser „kritischen" Schriftstellerei zu lösen, d. h. wie konnte M. an sein eigenes Unternehmen glauben? Zahn erklärt, wenn M. ein redlicher Mann war, muß er mit fanatischer Blindheit geschlagen gewesen sein und des gesunden Verstandes ermangelt haben. Unzweifelhaft liegt ein Defekt an gesundem Verstand vor; aber alles kommt darauf an, in welchem Maße er ihm gefehlt hat. Wenn festgestellt werden müßte, er habe diesen seinen Text bis zum letzten Buchstaben für den echten ausgegeben, so fehlte unter den gegebenen Umständen freilich jede Möglichkeit des Verständnisses für eine solche Behauptung. Allein wir sahen bereits oben S. 42f., daß M. dies nicht behauptet haben kann; denn seine Schüler haben die Textverbesserung eifrig fortgesetzt. Daher ist es sehr wahrscheinlich, daß M. die von ihm gereinigten und wiederhergestellten Texte nicht als schlechthin zuverlässige herausgegeben hat, sondern mit der Salvierung, daß die Arbeit zu revidieren und fortzusetzen sei. Auch dann freilich bleibt das Unternehmen im Hinblick auf viele Stellen fast unbegreiflich kühn; allein wenn man sich erinnert, was manche klassische Philologen in der Neuzeit an Korrekturen, Umstellungen und Ausmerzungen an den alten Texten, und zwar mit fleischlicher „Sicherheit", geleistet haben, so kommt man der Geistesverfassung, in der sich M. befunden haben wird, schon näher. Daß sie noch um einige Grade naiver war als die mancher Moderner, die sich selbst nichts weniger als naiv vorgekommen sind, ist einzuräumen; aber das ganze Zeitalter war in bezug auf Kritik mit wenigen Ausnahmen naiver. Man wird daher anzunehmen haben, daß M., gestützt auf sein vermeintlich sicheres Verständnis des Evangeliums und des Paulus, eine Reinigung der Texte mit dem naiven Bewußtsein unternommen hat, er werde im wesentlichen das Richtige treffen, zumal da es vor allem darauf ankomme, das Falsche zu entfernen. Die Streichungen sind ja doch die Hauptsache in seinem Verfahren; die positiven Ergänzungen und Umwandlungen, sofern auch sie sein geistiges Eigentum sind, können als Diorthosen erscheinen, zu denen der damalige Stand der philologischen Kritik ein gewisses Recht gab. Gerne würde man zur Erleichterung des Verständnisses dieses Verfahrens hören, M. habe sich dabei doch auch auf eine göttliche Unterstützung, bzw. Erleuchtung berufen; aber noch lieber stellt man den wirklichen Tatbestand fest, nach welchem M. so redlich gewesen ist, daß er keine göttliche Hilfe bei seiner Arbeit vorgespiegelt hat.

Das kritische Verfahren M.s — kühnste negative und produzierende dogmatische Kritik unter Anlehnung an gegebene Texte — ist einzigartig, und doch hat es eine Parallele, die ziemlich weit reicht. Wie ist denn der vierte Evangelist verfahren? Auch er fußt auf einer gegebenen urkundlichen Unterlage, den drei ersten Evangelien, und schaltet mit dieser Unterlage aufs freieste, läßt fort, stellt um und korrigiert im einzelnen wie M. Auch er unterwirft den gesamten Stoff einer negativen und produzierenden dogmatischen Kritik; er verfährt aber dabei weit kühner als M., indem er nicht nur lange Reden entwirft, sondern wahrscheinlich auch ganz neue geschichtliche Situationen erfindet. Er geht aber vor allem darin weit über M. hinaus, daß er die Autorität für sein Werk nicht aus den Quellen folgert, sondern ihm in geheimnisvoller Weise eine selbständige Autorität verleiht. M.s Unternehmen will Restitution sein, und so wenig es das ist, so gewiß ist es Restitution in der Meinung seines Verfassers; das vierte Evangelium dagegen gibt sich als Schauung und Überlieferung. Fragt man aber, bei welchem der beiden Kritiker die Übermalung des geschichtlichen Bildes die stärkere ist, so wird man schwerlich eine Entscheidung treffen können, wenn sich Johannes auch von dem kapitalen Irrtum frei erhalten hat, Christus vom AT ganz loszureißen. M.s innere Verfassung bei seiner Arbeit läßt sich, wenn auch nur annähernd, verstehen; für die des vierten Evangelisten aber ist uns ein gewisses Verständnis nur möglich, wenn wir ihn als Enthusiasten (Pneumatiker) nehmen, eine Prädizierung, die ein volles Verständnis von vornherein ausschließt. Kommt man aber auch hier mit dem „moralischen" Maßstab, so kann kein Zweifel sein, daß ein ehrlicher Moralismus bei dem vierten Evangelisten schwerer zu einer Freisprechung gelangen wird als bei Marcion, zumal da dieser mit aufgedeckten Karten spielt, was sich von jenem nicht sagen läßt. Aber der moralische Maßstab ist hier wie dort nicht angebracht, weil es sich in dem einen Fall um einen Enthusiasten voll Geistes handelt, dem gegenüber ehrerbietige Zurückhaltung geboten ist, in dem anderen um einen eigensinnigen, d. h. von einem Gedanken beseelten, nüchternen und tatkräftigen religiösen Denker [1].

Um einen tatkräftigen religiösen Denker — die Tatkraft M.s liegt hier darin, daß er nicht einige christliche Texte verbessern, sondern daß er der Gemeinde Christi eine neue Bibel schaffen wollte. Das Evangelium des Lukas und die Paulusbriefe hat er bearbeitet, um sie zusammenzustellen und dieses Corpus an die Stelle des AT zu setzen. Sowohl die Zusammenstellung im Sinne eines einheitlichen Kanons als die Idee, das AT durch eine neue Sammlung abzulösen, sind sein Werk [1], und dieses Werk hat er der großen Kirche siegreich aufgenötigt, wenn sie auch daneben das AT konserviert und die neue kanonische Sammlung anders bestimmt, d. h. durch „urapostolische" Schriften und die Pastoralbriefe erweitert und in das Licht der Apostelgeschichte gerückt hat. Hiervon wird im Kapitel über Marcion als Organisator zu handeln sein; aber schon hier mußte darauf hingewiesen werden, daß die großen textkritischen Bemühungen M.s nicht die Arbeit eines Literaten sind, sondern die eines Kirchenschöpfers, der mit genialem Blick die Notwendigkeit erkannte, seiner Kirche, der er das AT vorenthalten mußte, eine neue littera scripta als Urkunde ihres Glaubens zu geben.

1 Über die innere Verwandtschaft zwischen „Johannes" und Marcion, soweit sie besteht, wird später zu handeln sein.

Nach dem Tode des Meisters haben seine Schüler nicht nur die Arbeit am Texte der ihnen überlieferten Bibel fortgesetzt, sondern auch erstlich die Paulusbriefe durch vorangestellte „Argumenta" verständlich zu machen gesucht, zweitens einen gefälschten Laodizenerbrief der Bibel hinzugefügt, s. unten Kap. VIII und Beilage III S. 127*ff. 134*ff.

Vielleicht nur 20 Jahre, nachdem M. seine Bibel hergestellt hatte, und wahrscheinlich ebenfalls in Rom, hat Tatian in griechischer Sprache [2] sein mühsames Werk „Diatessaron" hergestellt und damit die ursprüngliche Absicht, die

---

1 S. meine Abhandlung: „Die Entstehung des NT.s" (Beiträge z. Einl. i. d. NT, 6. Teil, 1914).

2 In der Annahme, daß Tatian sein Diatessaron griechisch herausgegeben hat, bin ich durch das Werk von Plooij über den niederländisch-lateinischen Tatian (1923) nicht erschüttert worden, da ich seine Nachweise in bezug auf die Abhängigkeit des deutschen (lateinischen) Diatessarons vom syrischen so wenig für zwingend halten kann, wie die früheren „Nachweise" Harveys, der Bibeltext des Irenäus sei vom Syrer abhängig. Auf diesem Gebiet verlockendster Täuschungen ist der Gebrauch von Mikroskopen vom Übel. Es gelten nur sinnenfältige Evidenzen, und sie fehlen hier.

bei der Aussonderung und Zusammenstellung der vier Evangelien gewaltet hat, verwirklicht [1]. Daß dieses Werk auch eine Tatbekämpfung des Evangeliums M.s sein sollte, ist aus der geschichtlichen Situation a priori gewiß (so offenbar sich das Christentum Tatians an einigen wichtigen Punkten mit dem M.s berührte; aber es war doch anders fundamentiert); aber a posteriori läßt es sich nicht erweisen. Übereinstimmungen in der Textfassung, wo sich solche finden, erklären sich am einfachsten durch die Annahme, daß M. und Tatian den römischen Text vor sich hatten.

Keine 20 Jahre mehr kann es gedauert haben, da schritten maßgebende Bischöfe in Kleinasien-Rom dazu, der Marcionitischen Zweigeteilten Bibel eine ebenfalls zweigeteilte Sammlung entgegenzusetzen und sie als das apostolisch-katholische Neue Testament zu prädizieren. Diese Nachschöpfung, unter dem Eindruck der Schöpfung M.s entstanden, ist schwerlich als eine befremdliche Neuerung empfunden worden, weil die vier Evangelien bereits seit mehr als einem Menschenalter im Gebrauch jener Kirchen standen, neben ihnen längst Paulusbriefe und andere alte Briefe und Apokalypsen im Gottesdienst und sonst den Gemeinden zugänglich gemacht wurden und die Apostelgeschichte im Kampf gegen M. sich als unentbehrlich erwies.

Was den Text anlangt, den M. für das Evangelium und die Paulusbriefe benutzt hat, so läßt sich sicher feststellen, daß er ein 𝔚text (= der Itext Sodens) war. Die Sonderlesarten M.s, die sich nicht aus seinen Tendenzen erklären, sind daher mindestens zum größten Teil nicht als von ihm geschaffene Lesarten, sondern als Varianten des ihm überlieferten 𝔚texts zu beurteilen. Näheres s. in den Beilagen III und IV.

---

1 Daß die Aussonderung und Zusammenstellung der vier Evangelien ursprünglich nur den Sinn haben konnte, sie zu einem Werke zu verarbeiten, will ich nicht noch einmal beweisen. Es mußte aber die Ausführung von den führenden (d. h. den Kampf gegen die Häresien führenden) Kirchen unterlassen werden, weil sie bald alles Gewicht darauf legen mußten, authentische Schriften von Johannes und Matthäus zu besitzen; dadurch waren aber auch die Texte des Markus und Lukas gerettet.

V. Die „Antithesen“ Marcions[1].

Obgleich ein umfangreiches Material für die Rekonstruktion dieses Werks[2] zu Gebote steht, ist es bisher nicht gelungen, ein auch nur in den Grundzügen sicheres Bild von der Anlage des Buches zu gewinnen, und auch die nachstehende Untersuchung führt hier nicht zu einem befriedigenden Ergebnis. Fest steht, daß kein anderes Werk von M. selbst bekannt ist als die „Antithesen“[3]. Was also an Sätzen M.s zuverlässig überliefert ist oder was das Gepräge seiner eigenen Gedanken trägt, 1 Der einzige und ungenügende Versuch, M.s Antithesen wiederherzustellen, findet sich in Hahns „Antitheses Marcionis gnostici“ Königsberg, 1823.

---

2 Der kecke Titel „Ἀντιθέσεις“ — ein rhetorischer Begriff — ist m. W. in der griechischen Literatur einzigartig. Apelles, Marcions Schüler, gab ein Buch unter dem Titel „Συλλογισμοί“ heraus, Tatian, dem M. geistesverwandt, ein Werk „Προβλήματα“. Man erinnert sich des Werks des Stephanus Gobarus und des „Sic et Non“ Abälards.

3 Nur Tertullian hat noch einen Brief M.s erwähnt (s. o. S. 27. 21*; ob mehrere Briefe, darüber s. unten S. 78). Epiphanius spricht zwar (haer. 42, 9) von συντάγματα, die M. für die von ihm Verführten geschrieben hat, aber das ist nur ein Widerhall der Antithesen, Irenäus kündigt an, er werde M. aus seinen eigenen Schriften („scriptis“) widerlegen (I, 27), aber auch das führt nicht über die Antithesen hinaus. Ephraem spricht ebenfalls von Schriften M.s. Da er die Antithesen gekannt hat, muß man an diese denken. Über Marutas Angaben s. beim Apostolikon M.s S. 363*. Ein unbekannter alter syrischer Schriftsteller (Schäfers, Eine altsyr., antimarcionit. Erklärung von Parabeln des Herrn usw., 1917, S. 3f.) legt dem Marcion eine Schrift „Proevangelium“ bei, verbreitet sich über diesen Titel und bringt einen Jubelruf in bezug auf das Evangelium aus dem Anfang des Buches. Dieses Zitat paßt vorzüglich als Anfang des Antithesenwerks; man darf es daher für echt halten. Was aber den Namen „Proevangelium“ betrifft, so braucht er nicht, wie jener Schriftsteller meint, auszudrücken, daß das, was im Buche folge, früher sei als das Evangelium, sondern kann sehr wohl als „Einleitung“ zum Evangelium verstanden werden; dann aber darf man ohne Bedenken in dem „Proevangelium“ das Antithesenwerk erkennen, von dem Tertullian bemerkt, daß M. es dem Evangelium als „dos“ und „patrocinium“ zugestellt habe. R. Harris (Marcions Book of Contradict., im „Bull. of the John Rylands Libr.“, Manchester, Vol. VI Nr. 3, 1921, p. 289 ff.) hält es für undenkbar, daß das Jubelwort über das Evangelium am Anfang der „Antithesen“ gestanden hat. Dagegen hält er es für wahrscheinlich (nach Tert.

muß aus ihnen stammen. Fest steht ferner, daß, wie schon der Titel ahnen läßt und Tertullian ausdrücklich bemerkt, die Entgegenstellung der Worte und Taten des Weltschöpfers und des guten Gottes (bzw. seines Christus), damit aber auch die Entgegenstellung des Gesetzes (des ATs) und des Evangeliums, in der Form von „singulae iniectiones“ den wesentlichen Inhalt des Werks gebildet hat[1]. Weiter charakterisiert Tertullian das Werk im Sinne M.s als ein polemisch-apologetisches: es sollte aus den nachgewiesenen Gegensätzen im großen wie im einzelnen die Notwendigkeit hervorgehen, zwei feindliche Götter zu unter-

---

I, 2), daß dort Erwägungen über den Ursprung des Bösen gestanden haben. Allein, wenn Tertullian einen von M. verfaßten Eingang bzw. ein Vorwort zum Evangelium gelesen hätte, hätte er sich mit ihm befaßt, und wie soll M. es gewagt haben, dem Evangelium eine Einleitung zu geben!

1 Tert. I, 19: „Separatio legis et evangelii proprium et principale opus est Marcionis, nec poterunt negare discipuli eius quod in summo instrumento habent, quo denique initiantur et indurantur in hanc haeresim; nam hae sunt ‚Antithesîs‘ Marcionis, i. e. contrariae oppositiones, quae conantur discordiam evangelii cum lege committere, ut ex diversitate sententiarum utriusque testamenti diversitatem quoque argumententur deorum“. IV, 6: „. . . ipsum evangelium Marcionis provocantes sic quoque probaturi adulteratum. certe enim totum quod elaboravit etiam Antithesîs praestruendo in hoc cogit, ut VT et NT diversitatem constituat, proinde Christum suum a creatore separaturus, ut dei alterius, ut alienum legis et prophetarum. certe propterea contraria quaeque sententiae suae erasit, conspirantia cum creatore, quasi ⟨ab⟩ adsertoribus eius intexta, competentia autem sententiae suae reservavit“. IV, 1: „. . . ut fidem instrueret (suo evangelio), dotem quandam commentatus est illi — opus ex contrietatum oppositionibus ‚Antithesîs‘ cognominatum et ad separationem legis et evangelii coactum —, qua duos deos dividens, proinde diversos, alterum alterius instrumenti vel, quod magis usui est dicere, testamenti, ut exinde evangelio quoque secundum Antithesîs credendo patrocinaretur. sed et istas proprio congressu comminus i. e. per singulas iniectiones Pontici cecidissem, si non multo opportunius in ipso et cum ipso evangelio, cui procurant, retunderentur“. IV,4: „Si id evangelium, quod Lucae refertur apud nos — viderimus an et penes Marcionem — ipsum est, quod Marcion per Antithesîs suas arguit ut interpolatum a protectoribus Iudaismi ad concorporationem legis et prophetarum, qua etiam Christum inde confingerent, utique non potuisset arguere nisi quod invenerat“. II, 29: „Antitheses gestiunt ex qualitatibus ingeniorum sive legum sive virtutum discernere atque ita alienare Christum a creatore ut optimum a iudice et mitem a fero et salutarem ab exitioso“.

scheiden und daher die Unabhängigkeit des Evangeliums vom AT und seine absolute Neuheit anzuerkennen. Endlich sollte das Werk nicht nur eine literarische Zugabe („dos") zum Evangelium und eine Versicherung („patrocinium") für dasselbe sein, sondern auch ein für die Gemeinde maßgebendes Werk, also ihr symbolisches Buch. Zwar wissen wir nicht auf Grund eines positiven Zeugnisses, daß M. selbst diese Anweisung gegeben hat, aber wir dürfen es bestimmt vermuten; denn die Marcioniten hatten es bereits z. Z. Tertullians „in summo instrumento, quo initiantur et indurantur in hanc haeresim", was doch nichts anderes heißt [1], als daß seine Autorität von jedem Marcioniten anerkannt werden mußte, und zwar beim Eintritt, und es war M.s Art, alles in seiner Kirche auf umschriebene feste Grundlagen zu stellen [2]. Das Evangelium und Apostolikon M.s waren ja auch in ihren Absichten nur halbverständlich, wenn ihnen nicht die Erklärung zur Seite trat, welche die Antithesen boten; sie mußten daher von Anfang an diese begleiten.

Genannt mit dem Titel hat das Werk nur Tertullian

---

1 Man beachte den Ausdruck „in summo instrumento" (instrumentum heißt auch die h. Schrift bei Tert.; doch ist das „summum" eher eine Abschwächung als eine Verstärkung; denn hätten die Antithesen genau dieselbe Autorität bei M. besessen wie das Ev. und das Apostolikon, so hätte Tert. einfach „in instrumento" geschrieben; so aber darf man vermuten, daß Tert. subjektiv färbt und übertreibt). Zu vgl. ist IV, 4: „Antithesîs non modo fatentur Marcionis, sed et praeferunt".

2 Andere Zeugnisse über Inhalt und Charakter der Antithesen finden sich noch Tert. II, 28 (sie enthalten eine Zusammenstellung der „pusillitates et malignitates ceteraeque notae" des Weltschöpfers); II, 29 (Tert., nachdem er einzelne Antithesen in den zwei ersten Büchern adv. Marc. widerlegt hat, hält eine „operosior destructio" für unnötig); IV, 9 („Praestruximus quidem adversus Antithesîs nihil proficere proposíto Marcionis quam putat diversitatem legis et evangelii, ut et hanc a creatore dispositam"); IV, 24 (ausdrückliche Anführung einer Antithese M.s); IV, 36 (zu Luk. 18, 42; „. . . .atque ita caecus remanebit, ruens in Antithesin, ruentem et ipsam Antithesin"). Nicht eine inspirierte, wohl aber eine schlechthin maßgebende Autorität kam den Antithesen in M.s Kirche zu. Nach Maruta, der aber vielleicht nicht ganz richtig referiert, soll das Werk als „Summa" kanonisches Ansehen bei den Marcioniten besessen haben. Was sie vom AT erfuhren, erfuhren sie mit negativen Vorzeichen aus diesem Buch.

(und seine Ausschreiber)[1]. Gekannt haben es sicher nicht wenige katholische Polemiker der älteren Zeit; aber für uns kommen nur der Presbyter bei Irenäus, Irenäus selbst, Origenes (wahrscheinlich auch Celsus), Ephraem und ein unbekannter syrischer Schriftsteller in Betracht. Nicht gesehen haben es Adamantius, Hieronymus, Epiphanius, Maruta, Esnik[2], vermutlich auch nicht der Verfasser der pseudoklementinischen Homilien, usw.; aber Adamantius bringt sehr Wertvolles aus solchen Schriften, deren Verfasser die Antithesen gekannt haben.

Das Werk war einem ungenannten Konfessionsgenossen gewidmet; das ist wenigstens die wahrscheinlichste Deutung der Stelle Tert. IV, 9. Hier sieht sich Tert. genötigt, auf die unzulässigen Folgerungen einzugehen, die M. in ausführlicher Darlegung an die Perikope von der Heilung des Aussätzigen geheftet hat (Luk. 5, 12 ff.), und bemerkt: „Sed quoniam attentius argumentatur apud illum suum nescio quem συνταλαίπωρον i. e. commiseronem et συμμισούμενον i. e. coodibilem in leprosi purgationem, non pigebit ei occurrere“[3]. Der eine war für M. wohl Repräsentant aller seiner Gesinnungsgenossen, und so kann Tert. an einer anderen Stelle dem M. zurufen (IV, 36): „Age, Marcion omnesque iam ‚commiserones et coodibiles‘ eius haeretici, quid audebitis dicere?“[4] Man lernt aus Tert. IV, 9 ein Doppeltes: erstlich daß die Antithesen dem Tert. nicht (oder doch nicht nur) lateinisch, wie M.s Bibel, sondern auch griechisch vorlagen[5], zweitens daß sie nicht nur Antithesen im engsten

---

1 „Ἀντιπαραθέσεις“ (Hippol., Refut. VII, 30) ist eine Anspielung auf den Titel; vgl. auch das „e contrario opponentes“ des Presbyters bei Iren. I, 28, 1), von den Marcioniten gesagt, und Orig., Comm. V in Joh. p. 105: Ἐὰν σιωπήσωμεν, μὴ ἀντιπαρατιθέντες.

2 Esnik's Darstellung der Lehre M.s fußt auf einer späteren Marcionitischen Schrift; indirekt wird auch sie von den Antithesen aufs stärkste beeinflußt gewesen sein.

3 Zu vgl. Justin (Apol., Adresse); er sagt, daß er eintrete für die ἐκ παντὸς γένους ἀνθρώπων ἀδίκως μισούμενοι καὶ ἐπηρεαζόμενοι. Die Anrede συνταλαίπωρος (-οι) ist wohl aus Röm. 7, 24 zu erklären.

4 Tert. IV, 34 heißt es in einer wörtlich mitgeteilten Ausführung M.s zu Luk. 16, 18: „‚Vides diversitatem legis et evangelii, Moysis et Christi‘“.

5 Indirekt bestätigen die griechischen Worte, die er hier aus den Antithesen anführt, die Beobachtung, daß M.s Bibel dem Tert. nur lateinisch Sinn enthalten haben, sondern auch ausführlichere „argumentationes" in bezug auf den richtigen Sinn von Bibelstellen [1]. Nun aber bemerkt Tert. ferner noch (IV, 4, s. oben), daß M. in seinen Antithesen das Lukasev. als verfälscht dargestellt habe und zwar von den „protectoribus Iudaismi" (um die Einheit mit dem Gesetz und Propheten zu erweisen), und sagt dazu ausdrücklich (IV, 3): „M. conititur — natürlich in den Antithesen — ad destruendum statum eorum evangeliorum, quae propria et sub apostolorum nomine eduntur vel etiam apostolicorum ut scil. fidem, quam illis adimit, suo conferat" [2]. Also enthielten die Antithesen vorgelegen hat: denn niemals zitiert er griechisch aus ihr. Daß die Antithesen auch schon ins Lateinische übersetzt waren, ist bei dem engen Verhältnis zwischen ihnen und der Bibel M.s wahrscheinlich, wenn auch nicht ganz gewiß. Unter den zahlreichen Anführungen aus den Antithesen in allen fünf Büchern Tert.s gibt es nur noch einen Ausdruck, der auf eine griechische Vorlage (die Bezeichnung Christi als ὁ ἐπερχόμενος, Tert. IV, 23, 25) führen könnte; aber er braucht nicht notwendig ihnen entnommen zu sein. Daher der Einfall, die Stelle könne aus einem Briefe M.s stammen, also mit den Antithesen gar nichts zu tun haben. Hilgenfeld (Ketzergesch. S. 525) nimmt das sogar für gewiß an, indem er dazu aus de carne 2 folgert, Tert. müsse mehrere Briefe M.s gekannt haben, weil er dort den Ausdruck „in quadam epistula" brauche. Aber dieses Argument ist nichts weniger als sicher; viel näher liegt m. E. die Annahme, daß Tert. die Antithesen meint.

---

1 Nach IV, 1 kann es scheinen, als müßten die „Antithesen" durch Gegenüberstellung von ATlichen und evangelischen Stellen ausschließlich und in strengster Fassung nur dem Nachweis gedient haben, daß der Gott des Evangeliums ein neuer Gott sei, der im Gegensatz zum ATlichen stehe; denn Tert. glaubt das ganze Werk durch den kurzen hier gelieferten Nachweis zu widerlegen, daß der ATliche Gott selbst ein Neues vorher verkündigt habe, daß seine Schöpfung voller Antithesen sei und daß man daher aus der Verschiedenheit der Worte und Taten nicht auf die Verschiedenheit der Götter schließen dürfe. Er schließt diesen Nachweis (IV, 2) mit dem Satze: „Habes nunc ⟨ad⟩ Antithesîs expeditam a nobis responsionem; transeo nunc ad evangelii . . . demonstrationem". Allein Tert. kann hier nur an den Grundgedanken des Werks gedacht haben; denn er bringt ja in den folgenden Abschnitten selbst zahlreiche kritische Einzelheiten und Schriftauslegungen, die in den „Antithesen" gestanden haben, die keineswegs Antithesen im strengen Sinn sind und mit dem Hauptgedanken loser zusammenhängen.

2 Voransteht: „Marcion nactus epistulam Pauli ad Galatas, etiam ipsos apostolos suggillantis ut non recte pede incedentes ad veritatem auch die prinzipiellen Auseinandersetzungen über die „judaistischen Christen“, über die „Verfälschung“ des Evangeliums in der kirchlichen Tradition und gegen die vier Evangelien, die mithin als autoritative Sammlung damals schon existierten. Also müssen auch die Ausführungen über die Apostel und das apostolische Zeitalter, welche M. zu Gal. 1. 2 gegeben hat, hier gestanden haben [1].

evangelii (er bezog also den Tadel gegen Petrus auf alle Apostel), simul et accusantis pseudapostolos quosdam pervertentes evangelium Christi“. Man kann daher schwerlich zweifeln, daß M. bei Gal. 1. 2 die ganze Evangelienfrage abgehandelt hat.

1 Es gibt dafür einen von zwei Seiten ineinandergreifenden Beweis: Tert., der IV, 1 ff zur Prüfung der Bibel M.s übergeht, geht gleichzeitig zu den Antithesen über und erörtert sofort (c. 1—6) M.s Stellung zum apostolischen Zeitalter, zu den Aposteln, zu den vier Evv. in Anknüpfung an Gal. 2; Maruta aber teilt mit, daß die Marcioniten an Stelle der Apostelgeschichte, die sie verwerfen, die „Summa“, nämlich die Antithesen, gesetzt haben. — Daß M. den Vier-Evv.-Kanon kritisiert hat, folgt auch aus Iren. III, 11, 9: „Marcion totum reiciens evangelium, immo vero se ipsum abscindens ab evangelio, partem gloriatur se habere evangelii“. Überhaupt lehrt der direkt aus den Marcionitischen Urkunden selbst geflossene Bericht des Irenäus ebenfalls, daß in den Antithesen eine Kritik der Urapostel und Evangelisten enthalten war; s. I, 27: „Semetipsum esse veraciorem, quam sunt qui evangelium tradiderunt apostoli, suasit Marcion discipulis suis“. III, 2, 2: „Adversantur traditioni, dicentes se non solum presbyteris, sed etiam apostolis exsistentes sapientiores sinceram invenisse veritatem; apostolos enim admiscuisse ea quae sunt legalia salvatoris verbis“. III, 12, 12: „apostolos quidem adhuc quae sunt Iudaeorum sentientes annuntiasse evangelium, se autem sinceriores et prudentiores apostolis esse; unde et M. et qui ab eo sunt ad intercidendas conversi sunt scripturas, quasdam quidem in totum non cognoscentes, secundum Lucam autem evangelium et epistolas Pauli decurtantes haec sola legitima esse dicunt, quae ipsi minoraverunt“. III, 13, 1 f: „Solus Paulus veritatem cognovit, cui per revelationem manifestatum est mysterium .... apostoli non cognoverunt veritatem“. Der Ausdruck in bezug auf die Marcioniten: „gloriantur se habere evangelium“, den Iren. zweimal braucht (III, 11; III, 14), setzt eine Kritik an anderen Evangelien voraus, ebenso wie der andere Ausdruck „peritiores apostolis“ (IV, 5 und sonst) eine Kritik an den Aposteln. Bei den schweren Eingriffen übrigens, die auch das 3. Ev. nötig machte, um es der neuen Lehre anzupassen, versteht man Tert.s Bemerkung (IV, 5): „Cur non evangelia Iohannis et Matthei quoque Marcion attigit aut emendanda, si adulterata, aut agnoscenda, si integra? ... Igitur dabo consilium discipulis eius, ut aut et illa convertant, licet sero“ etc.

Sobald das aber sicher ist, kann nicht bezweifelt werden, daß auch der große Stoff Marcionitischer Erklärungen von Bibelstellen, den Tert. fortlaufend im 4. und 5. Buch adv. Marc. und auch schon in den drei ersten Büchern bringt[1] und den andere literarische Gegner M.s herbeiführen, ferner dogmatisch-kritische Darlegungen verschiedener Art[2] sowie polemische, disputartige Ausführungen aus den Antithesen stammen. Dann also waren die Antithesen keineswegs nur ein großes Bündel kurzgefaßter Thesen und Gegenthesen, sondern sie hatten von diesen nur den Namen; sie selber aber waren eingebettet in ein Werk, in welchem das Evangelium und Apostolikon, sei es fortlaufend, sei es — wahrscheinlicher — an zahlreichen einzelnen Stellen apologetisch-polemisch, d. h. auch antithetisch kommentiert waren.

Aber nicht nur Stellen aus Lukas und Paulus waren in den Antithesen behandelt, sondern auch solche aus den Schriften der „judaistischen" Apostel bzw. Evangelisten. Wenn man bei Origenes (Comm. XV, 1 ff. in Matth., T. III p. 333) eine Ausführung M.s zu Matth. 19, 12 ff. liest (Selbstentmannung), so kann diese nur in den Antithesen gestanden haben. Dasselbe gilt in bezug auf Matth. 5, 17; denn es unterliegt nach Tert. (IV. 7. 9. 12. 36; V, 14) keinem Zweifel, daß M. den Spruch, Jesus sei zur Erfüllung des Gesetzes und der Propheten gekommen, als einen falschen ausdrücklich abgelehnt und in sein Gegenteil verkehrt hat. Ferner geht aus Tert. III, 12f. deutlich hervor, daß M. sich gegen Matth. 1, 23 und 2, 11 gerichtet hat, indem er die Erfüllung der Weissagung Jes. 7, 14 in Jesus auf Grund von Jes. 8, 4 bestritt. In Hinsicht auf Tert. IV, 34 ist es, wie Zahn (Kanonsgesch. I S. 670) richtig gesehen hat, sehr wahrscheinlich, daß M., als er Luk. 16, 18 behandelte, auch Matth. 19, 3—8 ablehnend berücksichtigt hat. Um seine Auffassung vom Leibe Christi zu verteidigen, den er so auffaßte, wie sich die katho-

---

1 Nur an wenigen Stellen kann man zweifeln, ob Tert. wirklich Ausführungen M.s bringt oder ihm Erklärungen supponiert. Tert. ist in dieser Hinsicht gewissenhaft; vgl. auch seine ausdrückliche Bemerkung de bapt. 12: „Audivi domino teste eiusmodi, ne quis me tam perditum existimet, ut ultro excogitem libidine stili, quae aliis scrupulum incutiant". Wenn er dem M. etwas supponiert, ist die Supposition in der Regel an sich deutlich oder er fügt, wie II, 17 „dices forsitan" ein.

2 Vor allem eine Kritik der Geschichte vom Sündenfall.

lischen Christen die von den Engeln bei ihren Erscheinungen angenommenen Leiber dachten, hat M. (nach Tert., De carne 3) auch gefragt, wo denn der Leib der Taube geblieben sei, in welchem der h. Geist erschienen. Da die Taufgeschichte in seinem Evangelium gestrichen war, hat er sich hierbei also der anderen Evangelien erinnert. Daß Johanneische Stellen in den Antithesen behandelt waren, läßt sich nicht sicher nachweisen; aber es ist möglich, daß M. auf die Fußwaschung eingegangen ist (s. Chrysost., Hom. VII in Phil., T. XI p. 246), und Ephraem (47. Lied gegen die Ketzer c. 2) berichtet vom Spott der Marcioniten über die Hochzeit zu Kana [1]. Vgl. Beilage IV S. 249* ff.

Apokryphes findet sich unter den Sprüchen Jesu, die M. geboten hat, nicht; er hat sich streng an das korrigierte dritte Ev. gehalten. Es wird daher auch nicht Marcion sein, welcher nach Clem., Strom. IV, 6, 41, den evangelischen Spruch geboten hat: Μακάριοι οἱ δεδιωγμένοι ὑπὲρ τῆς δικαιοσύνης, ὅτι αὐτοὶ ἔσονται τέλειοι. Clemens macht zwar für ihn die μετατιθέντες τὰ εὐαγγέλια verantwortlich, so daß man an M. denken könnte; aber er hat hier wohl Enkratiten im Auge, wie ja auch der Begriff „τέλειος“ ihnen, nicht aber M., nahe lag. An einen apokryphen Spruch, bzw. an eine Textfassung bei Luk., die wir heute nicht mehr besitzen, kann man vielleicht bei Clem., Strom. III, 10, 69 denken, wo es heißt, nach der Exegese der Marcioniten habe der Herr gelehrt, μετὰ μὲν τῶν πλειόνων τὸν δημιουργὸν εἶναι, τὸν γενεσιουργὸν θεόν, μετὰ δὲ τοῦ ἑνὸς τοῦ ἐκλεκτοῦ τὸν σωτῆρα, ἄλλου δηλονότι θεοῦ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ υἱὸν πεφυκότα. Allein das kann auch eine Auslegung z. B. zur Geschichte von den zehn Aussätzigen sein. Was den Umfang des AT.s betrifft, das M. benutzt hat, so hat er, soviel ich sehe, nur solche Bücher herangezogen, die dem hebräischen Kanon angehören. Aber einen sicheren Schluß möchte ich hier nicht ziehen.

Von der Form des Werkes vermag man sich nach dieser Ausführung doch noch keine Vorstellung zu machen. Nicht nur bleibt die Frage im Dunkeln, ob fortlaufende Erklärungen anzunehmen sind, sondern auch das Verhältnis zur Bibel M.s bietet ein Problem. Liest man nämlich das 4. und 5. Buch Tert.s gegen M.,

1 Die Zitate des Marcioniten Markus (bei Adamantius) aus dem Joh.-Ev. kommen für M. selbst nicht in Betracht.

so hat man nicht den Eindruck, daß Tert. außer der Marcionitischen Bibel noch ein anderes Werk neben sich liegen hatte, vielmehr scheint er den Text und die Auslegungen und Exkurse M.s (samt den Antithesen im strengen Sinn des Worts) aus einem Werke zu schöpfen. Dieser Eindruck ist so stark, daß Hahn (Ev. Marcions S. 108 ff.) und Ritschl (Ev. M.s S. 18. 120) die Hypothese aufgestellt haben, die „Antithesen" hätten aus zwei Teilen bestanden, ein vorwiegend dogmatisch-historischer Hauptteil hätte als Einleitung vor dem Ev. und Apostolikon gestanden, und ein zweiter Teil hätte als Scholien exegetischer und kritischer Art den gesamten Text der biblischen Bücher begleitet. Allein die anderen Zeugen für M.s Bibel haben nichts anderes vor sich gehabt als den puren Text, und Tert. selbst behandelt die Antithesen, wenn er von ihnen ausdrücklich spricht, fraglos als ein ganz selbständiges Werk. Am deutlichsten ist das IV, 1, wo es heißt: „Ut fidem instrueret, dotem quandam commentatus est evangelio . . . . ., qua duos deos dividens . . . .evangelio . . . . . patrocinaretur. sed et istas proprio congressu comminus, i. e. per singulas iniectiones Pontici, cecidissem, si non multo opportunius in ipso et cum ipso evangelio, cui procurant, retunderentur". Es ist also Tert., der bei dem Unternehmen im 4. und 5. Buch, M. aus seiner eigenen Bibel zu widerlegen, diese und die Antithesen zusammengeschoben hat. Daß ihm aber das so glücken konnte, daß man meinen muß, er habe nur eine einzige Vorlage vor sich, kann schwerlich anders erklärt werden, als daß die „Antithesen" in einem Hauptabschnitt oder in dem Hauptteil den wichtigen Stellen in dem Evangelium und den Paulusbriefen Kapitel für Kapitel gefolgt sind. Dann konnte Tert. ohne Mühe bei jeder Stelle die Marcionitische Auslegung bzw. Bemerkung finden und wiedergeben. Die Bibeltexte waren also zu einem beträchtlichen Teil in den Antithesen wiederholt — das läßt sich namentlich auch aus den einzelnen Antithesen, wie sie bei Adamantius wiedergegeben sind, beweisen —, und von hier aus mag sich auch ein Teil der Unsicherheiten in der Textfassung M.s, die die Überlieferung aufweist, aufs einfachste erklären; denn daß die in die Antithesen hinübergenommenen Texte in Einzelheiten nicht immer mit den Texten im Kodex stimmten, ist nicht auffallend. Wir dürfen annehmen, daß vor allem die von Adamantius gebotenen Texte zu einem Teil nicht direkt aus der Bibel M.s, sondern aus den „Antithesen“, in denen sie standen, stammen.

Hiermit ist, die Form des Werkes betreffend, wenigstens soviel gewonnen, daß wir zwei Teile unterscheiden dürfen, (1) historisch-dogmatische Ausführungen, die mit der Darlegung des Verhältnisses des Paulus zu den Uraposteln [1], der Rechtfertigung der neuen Bibel und der Zurückweisung der falschen Evangelien und der Apostelgeschichte begannen, und (2) einen fortlaufenden, wenn auch eklektischen Scholienkommentar [2] mit „iniectiones“. Da aber auch dieser Teil durchweg auf einen Ton gestimmt war und in ermüdender Wiederholung den Gegensatz von Gesetz und Evangelium und deshalb der beiden Götter predigte, so konnte nicht nur das Ganze „Antitheses“ heißen, sondern es war auch wirklich ein Antithesen-Werk.

Eine Schwierigkeit ist bei der Rekonstruktion dieses Werkes noch dadurch gegeben, daß Tert. in seiner Polemik in allen fünf Büchern sich nicht nur gegen Marcion richtet, sondern in buntem Wechsel auch an die Marcioniten, und nicht nur jenen redend einführt, sondern ebensooft auch diese, ja öfters ist das Tiefste und Aufklärendste, was er aus der Lehre Marcions beibringt, in der Form gegeben: „Die Marcioniten sagen“ oder „Ihr sagt“. Es ist hier offenbar, daß Tert. wirklich Marcioniten vor sich hat, ja man hat an einigen Stellen den sicheren Eindruck, daß seine Ausführungen und die Bemerkungen seiner Gegner der

---

1 Merkwürdig ist, daß auch Porphyrius sein umfangreiches Werk über die Christen mit der Kritik des Streits des Paulus mit den Uraposteln (Gal. 2) begonnen hat; denn sie stand im 1. Buch des Werkes (s. meine Sammlung der Porphyrius-Fragmente Nr. 21, S. 53). Hat Porphyrius die „Antithesen“ direkt oder indirekt gekannt?

2 Aus Origenes' Auseinandersetzungen mit M. gewinnt man den sicheren Eindruck, daß ihm Erklärungen M.s zu sehr vielen Bibelstellen vorgelegen haben; deshalb kann er sich (Comm. I, 18 in Rom., T. VI p. 55 f. Lomm.) beschweren, daß die Marcioniten „ne extremo quidem digito“ die Schwierigkeiten berührt haben, die in Röm. 1, 24 f. liegen. Man kann geradezu sagen, daß ihm ein Teil der Marcionitischen Bibel kommentiert vorlag; aber das ist auch der Eindruck, den man aus Tert., Adv. Marc. IV. V gewinnt. Man muß sich diese Erklärungen formell etwa wie die in Bengels Gnomon denken, aber nicht als fortlaufende Beischriften zum NT, sondern im Antithesen-Werk.

Widerhall von Disputationen sind, die Tert. mit ihnen in Karthago geführt hat. Dennoch sind diese Partien nicht mit dem Messer von den Zitaten, die aus den Antithesen beigebracht werden, zu scheiden. Die Ungewißheit indes, die hier übrigbleibt, ist für die Frage des geistigen Eigentums M.s deshalb nicht störend, weil es sich in diesen Fällen nicht um das Problem der Ἀρχαί bei M. und ihr gegenseitiges Verhältnis handelt — hier gingen die Schüler sehr bald auseinander und ergänzten den Meister in verschiedener Weise —, sondern um die Grundfragen Marcionitischen Glaubens und Marcionitischer Gesinnung. In diesen ist aber selbst Apelles, der sich in der Theologie am weitesten von seinem Meister entfernte, ein echter Marcionit geblieben. Was die Schüler über die beiden Sphären, die der Gerechtigkeit und die der Liebe, ferner über Sünde, Gesetz, Evangelium und Erlösung geäußert haben, ist so einstimmig, daß es mit Sicherheit als das geistige Eigentum M.s selbst in Anspruch genommen werden darf.

Eine Rekonstruktion der Antithesen ist unmöglich, weil ja nicht einmal die Disposition des Werks deutlich ist. Durch bloße Zusammenstellungen der Antithesen im engsten Sinn des Worts ist wenig gewonnen, zumal da sich in der Überlieferung zahlreiche halbe Antithesen finden, die der Ergänzung bedürfen, sei es aus dem AT, sei es aus dem Evangelium. Von großer Wichtigkeit ist es aber, daß M. in den Antithesen augenscheinlich niemals gegen zwei schriftliche Testamente seiner Gegner polemisiert hat. Immer ist es lediglich das AT, das er als die geoffenbarte litera scripta des falschen Christentums angreift; von zwei Offenbarungsurkunden der großen Kirche, einer alten und einer neuen, weiß er schlechterdings nichts. Daraus folgt mit Evidenz, daß die Kirche seiner Zeit ein NT noch nicht besessen hat, wie das ja auch aus Justins Dialog mit Trypho deutlich hervorgeht [1]. Der litera scripta seiner Gegner, dem AT, setzt er seine neue litera scripta, das Evangelium und den Apostolos, entgegen. Gewiß sah er bereits die vier Evangelien als höchstgeschätzte Werke in ihren Händen; aber sie hatten bei ihnen noch nicht die Dignität, schriftliche Urkunde des neuen Bundes und daher das zweite Testament zu sein.

1 Die beiden Testamente als schriftliche sind auch bei dem Presbyter des Irenäus noch nicht deutlich.

Abgesehen von der Einleitung, welche die vier Evangelien der großen Kirche als falsche zurückwies, die Apostel und Apostelschüler des Judaismus zieh, den durch eine besondere Offenbarung berufenen Apostel Paulus allein gelten ließ und sein Evangelium mit dem direkt von Christus geschenkten, dem Lukas entfremdeten und von judaistischen Interpolationen gereinigten dritten Evangelium identifizierte — lag die Stärke der Antithesen, soweit sie nicht exegetische Ausführungen zur neuen Bibel enthielten, in der Kritik des ATs.

Diese Kritik verfolgte einen doppelten Zweck: erstlich sollte sie die unbarmherzige „Gerechtigkeit“, peinigende Strenge und Grausamkeiten, Leidenschaften, Eifer und Zorn des Weltschöpfers, ferner seine bösen Parteilichkeiten, Kleinlichkeiten und Beschränktheiten, endlich seine Selbstwidersprüche und Schwächen, sein haltloses Schwanken und seine sittlich oft so bedenklichen Gebote und Befehle ans Licht ziehen; diese Kritik gipfelte in dem Nachweis, daß er auch der „conditor malorum“, der Erreger von Kriegen, lügenhaft in seinen Versprechungen und boshaft in seinen Taten sei [1]. Zweitens sollte diese Kritik dartun, daß alle Verheißungen des Weltschöpfers irdisch und zeitlich seien und sich, soweit sie nicht ganz haltlos, bereits in der Geschichte des jüdischen Volkes erfüllt hätten oder noch erfüllen würden; deshalb sei auch der verheißene Messias ein irdischer Kriegskönig, der wirklich noch kommen werde; die auf ihn zielenden Weissagungen seien aber nicht zahlreich, da sich das meiste schon in David, Salomo usw. erfüllt habe und fälschlich auf den zukünftigen Messias gedeutet werde [2]. Mit dieser Kritik stellte sich M. in der Kontroverse zwischen den Großkirchenleuten und den Juden in bezug auf die Deutung des ATs auf die Seite der letzteren; die ungünstige und von seinen kirchlichen Gegnern

---

1 Eine gute Übersicht über alle schlimmen Eigenschaften des Weltschöpfers nach M. in den pseudoklementinischen Homilien II, 43.

2 Der Inhalt der Antithesen deckt sich also vollständig mit den Absichten, die M. bei seinen Korrekturen des Evangeliums und der Paulusbriefe geleitet haben; s. o. S. 64.

reichlich ausgebeutete [1] Position, in die er dadurch kam, nahm er entschlossen in den Kauf. Unzweifelhaft hat er Argumente benutzt, welche die jüdische Polemik gegen die kirchliche Auslegung der messianischen Stellen des ATs gerichtet hat. Daß er sie ihr entnommen hat, kann man mit großer Wahrscheinlichkeit, aber nicht mit Sicherheit behaupten, s. o. S. 22, auch 67.

Ein tieferes Eindringen in den Geist des ATs oder gar eine wirklich historische Betrachtung desselben fehlt auch M. vollständig. Indessen hat auch die moralisch-religiöse, einfach auf dem Wortlaut fußende Kritik ihr Recht einer Urkunde gegenüber, die als heilig und maßgebend gelten will. Sehr bemerkenswert ist aber, daß M. das AT als geschlossenes Ganze anerkannt, keine Verfälschungen, Interpolationen usw. angenommen und das Buch auch nicht für „lügenhaft", vielmehr für durchaus glaubwürdig gehalten hat. Während er zahlreiche urchristliche Bücher als judaistische Fälschungen beurteilte und das 3. Evangelium sowie die Paulusbriefe, wie sie die Kirche las, für stark interpoliert erklärte, dehnte er diese Art Kritik nicht auf das AT aus (s. o.)[2]. Dies ist um so auffallender, als zu seiner Zeit in einigen Kreisen des Spätjudentums, besonders aber bei den Gnostikern, Versuche einer differenzierenden Würdigung des ATs nicht fehlten, die bis zur Ausmerzung einzelner Teile und zur Annahme größerer oder geringerer Interpolationen vorschritten. Die ablehnende Haltung M.s [3] stellt ihn auch hier wiederum an die Seite des orthodoxen Judentums, dessen christenfeindliche, zeitgeschichtliche Auslegung des ATs er ja auch billigte und wahrscheinlich übernommen hat. In dieser Hinsicht kommt namentlich die Ablehnung jeder allegorischen und typologischen Erklärung in Betracht, die für M., wie bereits oben S. 66 f. gezeigt worden, besonders charakteristisch ist. Es haben in den Antithesen ausdrückliche Zurückweisungen dieser schwarzen

---

1 Tertullian hat z. T. wörtlich dieselben Argumente sowohl gegen die Juden (adv. Jud.) als auch gegen die Marcioniten (adv. Marc. III) hier gerichtet; vgl. III, 8: „Desinat nunc haereticus a Iudaeo mutuari venenum".

2 Daß er doch eine gewisse Unterscheidung im AT gemacht hat, darüber s. Kap. VI, 3.

3 Ob er nicht doch einiges im AT höher schätzte, wird später zu untersuchen sein.

Kunst nicht gefehlt[1], mittels welcher die Kirchenväter ihre ganze Geschichtsbetrachtung zum Ausdruck bringen. Indem M. sie ablehnte, war er von vornherein nicht mehr in der Lage, das AT anzuerkennen und seine Konkordanz mit der christlichen Offenbarung festzuhalten. Aber natürlich ist die Beanstandung dieser Konkordanz bei ihm das Erste und die Verwerfung der allegorischen Methode die Folge.

Der ergreifende Jubelruf (s. o. S. 74), mit dem das Antithesen-Werk höchstwahrscheinlich begonnen hat („O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen ist, daß man gar nichts über das Evangelium sagen, noch über dasselbe denken, noch es mit irgend etwas vergleichen kann") — der einzige längere Satz, den wir aus M.s Feder wörtlich besitzen —, ist sicher nicht maßgebend für die Feststellung des Stils, in dem das Werk verfaßt war; vielmehr zeigen die übrigen umfangreichen Reste einen ganz nüchternen und sachlichen Stil.

In der Beilage V sind die Reste der „Antithesen" vollständig, ja übervollständig gesammelt, da manches hier den Schülern zukommen mag, was sich von den Worten des Meisters nicht scheiden läßt (s. o. S. 83). Die Disposition des Materials mußte arbiträr sein. Den ausführlichen Bericht über M.s Lehre bei Esnik habe ich ausgeschlossen, da er wahrscheinlich nicht rein auf den Meister selbst zurückgeht.

Einiges Wesentliche zur Charakteristik der „Antithesen" soll aber auch an dieser Stelle zum Schluß mitgeteilt werden:

(1) Kein Stichwort scheint in den Antithesen häufiger gewesen zu sein als „neu". Es erklärt den Jubelruf, mit dem sie beginnen. Man vergleiche „Novus deus" (Tert. I, 9; IV, 20 und sonst), ἡ καινὴ θεότης (Orig., Comm. in Joh. I § 82), „regnum novum"; „regnum novum et inauditum" (Tert. III, 24; IV, 24); Christus bringt das Neue, weil er sich selbst gebracht hat (Iren. IV, 33, 14 f.), „Christus novus dominator atque possessor elementorum" (Tert. IV, 20), „novae doctrinae novi Christi" (IV, 28), „virtutes Christi novae" (III, 3 f.), „novum documentum der Macht und der Güte Christi durch die Erweckung des Jünglings von Nain" (IV, 18), „novum praeceptum, die Sünden immer wieder zu vergeben" (IV, 35), „novum est, allen Brüdern zu vergeben" (IV, 16), „nova Christi institutio der Sabbatsgebotsaufhebung" (IV, 12), „nova Christi benignitas" (IV, 10), „nova patientia, die sich in den neuen Geboten Christi offenbart" (IV, 16), „forma sermonis in Christo nova, cum similitudines obiicit, cum quaestiones refutat" (IV, 11), „Paulus auctor aut confirmator novus" (V, 10), „novitas testamenti spiritus" (V, 11), „nova creatura" (nach II Kor. 5, 17; Adamant. II, 16 f.).

1 Vermutlich hat er sich am Anfang der „Antithesen" über seine hermeneutischen Grundsätze, bzw. über die Ablehnung der allegorischen Methode geäußert.

(2) Auf gewisse Stellen im AT und in seinem NT hat Marcion in den Antithesen besonders kräftig und wahrscheinlich wiederholt hingewiesen — im AT auf den Sündenfall (Tert. I, 2: „languens circa mali quaestionem"; Tert. II, 5: „haec sunt argumentationis ossa, quae obroditis"; Orig., De princ. I, 8, 2; II, 5, 4: „famosissima quaestio Marcionitarum"), auf den Raub der silbernen und goldenen Gefäße Ägyptens (der Presbyter bei Irenäus IV, 30. 31, Tert. II, 20; IV, 24), auf Jesaj. 7, 14; 8, 4 (Tert. III, 12: „provoca, ut soles"); im NT auf die Stellen vom faulen und guten Baum und vom neuen Flicken und dem alten Kleid, auf Luk. 10, 22 („Nur der Sohn kennt den Vater;" Tert. IV, 25: „hinc et alii haeretici fulciuntur"), auf Galat. 2 („principalis adversus Judaeos epistula", vv. ll.), auf die Seligpreisungen (Tert. IV, 14: „venio nunc ad ordinarias sententias eius, per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit, ad edictum, ut ita dixerim, Christi"), auf Luk. 18, 19 („Niemand ist gut als Gott allein", Orig., De princ. II, 5, 4: „die Marcioniten sehen in diesem Spruch gleichsam einen eigens ihnen gegebenen Schild" [1]), auf Luk. 16, 16 („das Gesetz und die Propheten reichen bis Johannes" Tert. IV, 33) und auf II Kor. 3, 3—13 (Tert. V, 11: „novum testamentum quod manet in gloria, vetus quod evacuari habebat").

(3) Nicht in den kurzen förmlichen Antithesen, die zu vielen Dutzenden in dem Werk gestanden haben, konnte M. das Tiefste, was er zu sagen hatte, zum Ausdruck bringen, aber sie sind doch für seine dezidierte christliche Denkart besonders charakteristisch.

---

1 Vgl. Tert. I, 25: „Deus bonus beatum et incorruptibile est neque sibi neque aliis molestias praestat: hanc sententiam ruminat Marcion".

Daher mag hier die Mehrzahl in bunter Reihe stehen [1]. Angeregt haben ihn zu dieser literarischen Form sowohl die scharfen Gleichnisse Jesu (vom faulen und guten Baum und vom neuen Kleid und alten Flicken, die er auf die beiden Götter und ihre Ökonomie bezogen und an die Spitze seiner Darlegungen gestellt hat)[2], als auch die Paulinischen Antithesen im Galat.- und Römerbrief.

(I) Der Demiurg wurde Adam und den folgenden Geschlechtern bekannt, der Vater Christi aber ist unbekannt, wie Christus selbst von ihm in den Worten gesagt hat: Niemand hat den Vater erkannt außer der Sohn.

(II) Der Demiurg wußte nicht einmal, wo Adam weilte und rief daher: Wo bist du? Christus aber kannte auch die Gedanken der Menschen.

(III) Josua hat mit Gewalt und Grausamkeit das Land erobert; Christus aber verbietet alle Gewalt und predigt Barmherzigkeit und Friede.

(IV) Der Schöpfergott machte den erblindeten Isaak nicht wieder sehend, unser Herr aber, weil er gut ist, öffnete vielen Blinden die Augen.

(V) Moses mischte sich ungerufen in den Streit der Brüder, fuhr den Übeltäter an: Warum schlägst du deinen Nächsten? und wurde von ihm zurückgewiesen: Wer hat dich zum Lehrer oder Richter über uns gesetzt? Christus aber, als ihn einer aufforderte, daß er Erbschlichter sei zwischen ihm und seinem Bruder, verweigerte seine Mitwirkung sogar in einer so billigen Sache — weil er der Christus des guten und nicht des Richter-Gottes war — und sprach: Wer hat mich zum Richter über euch gesetzt?

(VI) Der Schöpfergott gab dem Moses beim Auszug aus Ägypten den Auftrag: Seid bereit, an den Lenden umgürtet, beschuht, die Stäbe in den Händen, die Säcke auf den Schultern, und traget Gold und Silber und all das, was den Ägyptern gehört, mit euch davon; unser Herr aber, der Gute, sprach zu seinen Jüngern bei ihrer Aussendung in die Welt: Habt keine Schuhe

---

1 Die Fundorte findet man in der Beilage.

2 Die nächste Parallele bieten die Antithesen der Bergpredigt bei Matth. 5; auch sie können M. angeregt haben, obgleich er das Matth.-Ev. nicht gelten ließ; denn er kannte es ja.

an den Füßen, keinen Sack, kein zweites Gewand, kein Kleingeld in euren Gürteln!

(VII) Der Prophet des Schöpfergotts stieg, als das Volk in der Schlacht stand, auf den Gipfel des Berges und breitete seine Hände aus zu Gott, damit er möglichst viele in der Schlacht töte; unser Herr aber, der Gute, breitete seine Hände (scil. am Kreuze) aus, nicht um Menschen zu töten, sondern um sie zu erlösen.

(VIII) Im Gesetze heißt es: Auge um Auge, Zahn um Zahn; der Herr aber, der Gute, spricht im Evangelium: Wenn dich jemand auf den einen Backen schlägt, so biete ihm auch den andern dar.

(IX) Im Gesetz heißt es: Kleid um Kleid; aber der gute Herr sagt: Wenn jemand dein Kleid nimmt, laß ihm auch den Mantel.

(X) Der Prophet des Schöpfergotts ließ, um in der Schlacht möglichst viele zu töten, die Sonne stille stehen, damit sie nicht untergehe, bevor die feindlichen Gegner des Volks sämtlich vernichtet seien; der Herr aber, der Gute, spricht: Die Sonne soll nicht untergehen über eurem Zorn.

(XI) Die Blinden sind David bei der Wiedereroberung von Zion feindlich entgegengetreten, indem sie gegen seinen Einzug sich stemmten, und David hat sie töten lassen; Christus aber kam aus freien Stücken den Blinden hilfreich entgegen.

(XII) Der Weltschöpfer schickt auf die Forderung des Elias die Feuerplage; Christus aber verbietet den Jüngern, Feuer vom Himmel zu erbitten.

(XIII) Der Prophet des Schöpfergotts gebot den Bären, aus den Dickicht hervorzubrechen und die ihm begegnenden Kinder zu fressen; der gute Herr aber spricht: Lasset die Kinder zu mir kommen und wehret ihnen nicht. denn solcher ist das Himmelreich.

(XIV) Elisa, der Prophet des Weltschöpfers, hat von so vielen israelitischen Aussätzigen nur den e i n e n Aussätzigen, den Syrer Naaman, gereinigt; Christus hat, obgleich „der Fremde", einen Israeliten geheilt, den sein Herr [der Weltschöpfer] nicht hatte heilen wollen, und Elisa brauchte einen Stoff zur Heilung, nämlich Wasser, und siebenmal, Christus aber heilte durch e i n einmaliges bloßes Wort und sofort. Elisa hat nur e i n e n Aussätzigen geheilt, Christus aber zehn, und diese gegen die gesetzlichen Bestimmungen; er ließ sie einfach des Weges gehen, auf daß sie sich den Priestern zeigten, und auf dem Wege reinigte er sie bereits — ohne Berührung und ohne ein Wort, durch schweigende Kraft, lediglich durch seinen Willen.

(XV) Der Prophet des Weltschöpfers spricht: Meine Bogen sind gespannt und meine Pfeile gespitzt gegen sie; der Apostel aber sagt: Ziehet die Rüstung Gottes an, auf daß ihr die feurigen Pfeile des Schlimmen auszulöschen vermögt.

(XVI) Der Weltschöpfer sagt: Mit den Ohren sollt ihr nicht (mehr) hören; Christus dagegen: Wer Ohren hat zu hören, der höre.

(XVII) Der Weltschöpfer sagt: Verflucht ist jeder, der an das Holz gehenkt ist; Christus aber erlitt den Kreuzestod.

(XVIII). Der Juden-Christus wird vom Weltschöpfer ausschließlich dafür bestimmt, das Judenvolk aus der Zerstreuung zurückzuführen, unser Christus aber ist vom guten Gott mit der Befreiung des gesamten Menschengeschlechts betraut worden.

(XIX) Der Gute ist gegen alle gut; der Weltschöpfer aber verheißt nur denen, die ihm gehorsam sind, das Heil . . . Der Gute erlöst die, die an ihn glauben, nicht aber richtet er die, die ihm ungehorsam sind; der Weltschöpfer aber erlöst seine Gläubigen und richtet und straft die Sünder.

(XX) Maledictio charakterisiert das Gesetz, benedictio den Glauben (das Evangelium).

(XXI) Der Weltschöpfer gebietet, den Brüdern zu geben, Christus aber, schlechthin allen Bittenden.

(XXII) Im Gesetz hat der Weltschöpfer gesagt: Ich mache den Reichen und den Armen; Christus aber preist (nur) die Armen selig.

(XXIII) In dem Gesetze des Gerechten wird das Glück den Reichen gegeben und das Unglück den Armen; im Evangelium ist es umgekehrt.

(XXIV) Im Gesetz spricht Gott (der Weltschöpfer): Du sollst lieben den, der dich liebt, und deinen Feind hassen; unser Herr, der Gute, aber sagt: Liebet eure Feinde und bittet für die, die euch verfolgen.

(XXV) Der Weltschöpfer hat den Sabbat angeordnet; Christus aber hebt ihn auf.

(XXVI) Der Weltschöpfer lehnt die Zöllner als nicht jüdische und profane Menschen ab; Christus nimmt die Zöllner an.

(XXVII) Das Gesetz verbietet die Berührung eines blutflüssigen Weibes, Christus berührt sie nicht nur, sondern heilt sie auch.

(XXVIII) Moses erlaubt die Ehescheidung, Christus verbietet sie.

(XXIX) Der Christus des AT verspricht den Juden die Wiederherstellung des früheren Zustandes durch Rückgabe ihres Landes und nach dem Tode in der Unterwelt eine Zuflucht in Abrahams Schoß; unser Christus wird das Reich Gottes, eine ewige und himmlische Besitzung, aufrichten.

(XXX) Beim Weltschöpfer sind der Straf- und der Zufluchtsort, beide, in der Unterwelt gelegen für die, die in der Hörigkeit des Gesetzes und der Propheten stehen; Christus aber und der Gott, zu dem er gehört, haben einen himmlischen Ruheort und Hafen, den der Weltschöpfer niemals verkündet hat.

Wer die Antithesen mit dem von M. hergestellten Bibeltext (aber auch mit dem Inhalt des gefälschten Laodizenerbriefs und dem der „Argumenta") vergleicht, muß staunen über die wuchtige Einheit und Einförmigkeit der wenigen Hauptgedanken, auf die alles hier reduziert wird. Nach M. soll man Evangelium, Briefe und AT n u r unter dem Gesichtspunkte lesen, wie neu die Botschaft von dem erlösenden Gott der Liebe und wie furchtbar und jämmerlich zugleich der schlimm-gerechte Gott der Welt und des Gesetzes ist. Nie wieder sind in der Geschichte des Christentums das Evangelium und das überlieferte ATliche und spätjüdische Kapital so stark reduziert, so eindeutig interpretiert und in einer so einfachen Formulierung zusammengefaßt worden, wie es hier geschehen ist. Nur Luther mit seinem Rechtfertigungsglauben vermag hier mit Marcion zu rivalisieren; aber indem er die Identität des Schöpfergottes und des Erlösergottes festhielt, vermochte er mit diesem Glauben den ganzen Reichtum der Heilsgeschichte und der „Gottesspuren" zu verbinden, den M. preisgeben mußte.

VI. Das Christentum Marcions und seine Verkündigung.

Wer zu lesen versteht, der kann aus den Resten der Antithesen und des Kanons alles ablesen, was M. gewollt und verkündigt hat; allein es ist doch geboten, das Überlieferte zu ordnen und zu durchleuchten [1]. Für die Darstellung der Verkündigung Marcions sind folgende vorläufige Beobachtungen von Wichtigkeit: (1) daß von einem Lehrsystem oder etwas dem Ähnlichen, was er aufgestellt und veröffentlicht hat, nichts bekannt ist, daß sich seine Schüler auf Lehrsätze von ihm in begrifflicher Form niemals berufen haben und daß alles, was er schriftlich hinterlassen hat, in den „Antithesen", bzw. in den hier gegebenen Exegesen von Bibelstellen niedergelegt war, (2) daß er sich niemals auf den „Geist" oder eine besondere, ihm zuteil gewordene Offenbarung berufen hat, (3) daß er, die Quellen seiner Lehre anlangend, alles „Apokryphe" abgelehnt und sich mit strenger Ausschließlichkeit an das Evangelium und den Apostolos, dazu auch an das AT gehalten hat [2], (4) daß er die Herbeiziehung irgendwelcher Mysterienweisheit und jeglicher „Philosophie" abgelehnt hat da er sie als „leeren Betrug" beurteilte, (5) daß er die allegorische und typologische Erklärung der Texte grundsätzlich verworfen hat [3], (6) daß sich in seiner Kirche sofort verschiedene Prinzipienlehren entwickelt haben, ohne daß diese Differenzierung — Apelles ausgenommen — zu Spaltungen der Kirche führten.

Marcions Verkündigung des Christentums will also nichts anderes sein als biblische Theologie, d. h. als Religionslehre, die sich positiv ausschließlich auf das Buch gründet, welches das Evangelium und die Paulusbriefe umfaßt, negativ auf das andere, auch tatsächlich richtige Buch, das AT. Beide Bücher wollen als ψιλαὶ γραφαί verstanden sein, 1 Es ist dabei nicht beabsichtigt, auf alle Einzelheiten einzugehen; in bezug auf zahlreiche Details genügt es, sie in den „Antithesen" gelesen zu haben.

---

2 Ob letzterem gegenüber rein antithetisch, wird zu untersuchen sein.

3 Einige notgedrungene Ausnahmen wird man im folgenden finden.

d. h. ihr Inhalt liegt vollständig in ihrem Buchstaben beschlossen. Marcions Christentum — die ξένη γνῶσις, wie Clemens sie nennt — stellt sich als exklusive Buchreligion dar. Als erster in der Christenheit stützt er sich auf zwei große Buchsammlungen; aber sie gehören nicht zusammen, sondern die zweite stößt die erste ab.

1. Die Grundlegung.

Die Darstellung der christlichen Verkündigung M.s hat an das oben im III. Kapitel Ausgeführte anzuknüpfen. Daß die Lehre von den beiden Göttern, d. h. die Unterscheidung des Gesetzes und des Evangeliums, angeschlossen an „den schlechten und guten Baum" — „famosissima quaestio Marcionitarum" —, das Grundschema der Predigt bildete, unterliegt keinem Zweifel; aber wie M. religiös empfunden und wie er das Wesentliche bestimmt hat, ist zunächst nicht deutlich und doch die oberste Frage. Hier aber kommen uns zum Glück vier Zeugnisse entgegen, die uns über seine christliche Grundempfindung in ausgezeichneter Weise aufklären: (1) Das Antithesenwerk hat (s. o. S. 87) mit den Worten begonnen: „O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen ist, daß man gar nichts über das Evangelium sagen, noch über dasselbe denken, noch es mit irgend etwas vergleichen kann." Dem entspricht es, daß das Evangelium wiederholt und in allen Stücken als etwas ganz Neues bezeichnet wird, sowohl seinem Inhalt nach (von der plötzlichen und neuen Erscheinung Christi, der „nova et hospita dispositio" (Tert. I, 2), an bis zu der „nova patientia", (IV, 16), als auch in seiner Form (IV, 11: „forma sermonis nova"). (2) Tertullian überliefert uns (I, 17) das Marcionitische Wort: „Sufficit unum hoc opus deo nostro, quod hominem liberavit summa et praecipua bonitate sua et omnibus locustis anteponenda." (3) Tertullian und andere Zeugen berichten, der Grundgedanke des Galater- und Römerbriefs sei für M. der maßgebende gewesen, daß der Gerechte durch den Glauben an den Gekreuzigten eine „Umbildung" (μεταβολή) erlebe und in diesem Glauben „ex dilectione dei" die Erlösung und das ewige Leben empfange; M.s Schüler Apelles bestätigt das präzis und klar. (4) Tertullian (IV, 14) teilt uns mit, daß M. die Seligpreisungen als die „ordinariae (die eigentlichen) sententiae Christi" bezeichnet habe, „per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit"; er nennt sie daher im Sinne M.s das „edictum Christi" und berichtet weiter (IV, 9 36), daß M. seine Glaubensgenossen als συνταλαίπωροι καὶ συμμισούμενοι bezeichnet und angeredet habe.

Aus diesen Zeugnissen bricht die Art der christlichen Erfahrung und Frömmigkeit M.s mit leuchtender Klarheit hervor. Das erste ist vielleicht das wichtigste; denn es lehrt uns, daß M. die ganze Macht und Gewalt des „Numinosen", um mit Otto zu reden, am Evangelium empfunden hat. Dies zu wissen ist aber von höchster Bedeutung; denn zunächst liegt der Verdacht sehr nahe, daß ein religiöser Denker, der nicht nur den Zorn und die Strafgerechtigkeit von der Gottheit ausschließt, sondern ihr auch die Schöpfung der Welt und diese selbst entzieht, einer schwächlichen Religion huldigt. Wenn es Gott gegenüber schlechthin keine Furcht und kein Zittern geben darf und wenn alle erhabenen Gefühle, welche die Anschauung der Welt und der große Gang des Weltgeschehens erzeugen, für apokryph, ja für irreligiös erklärt werden, so steigt die Vermutung auf, daß sich hier eine seltsam eingeschränkte und laue Frömmigkeit an die Stelle der Kraft gesetzt habe. Allein das gewaltige Brausen der Worte: „O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen" usw. zerstreut hier jeden Verdacht: Marcion hat das Evangelium — aber ausschließlich nur das Evangelium — als kündlich großes mysterium tremendum et fascinosum empfunden; es ist ihm licht und dunkel zugleich, und er steht vor ihm, dem Neuen, ja dem einzig Neuen in Welt und Geschichte, in schauernder und schweigender Andacht [1]. Also hat die „Religion" hier nichts eingebüßt.

Das zweite Zeugnis begründet die Ausschließlichkeit des Evangeliums als Objekt der Religion: es bringt Erlösung, und an diese durch eine unermeßliche und unvergleichliche Güte herbeigeführte Erlösung reicht kein anderes Werk heran, darf darum auch kein anderes angeknüpft werden [2].

---

1 Daß die Offenbarung des Erlösergottes als „des Fremden" bzw. des fremden Gastes ein Mysterium einschließt, das Distanz und beseligende Nähe zugleich enthält, darüber s. unten.

2 S. bei Tert., De resurr. 2: „Humana salus urgentior causa ante omnia requirenda".

Der Gott, der dieses Werk vollbracht hat, kann kein anderes geschaffen haben, also auch nicht diese Welt, deren Wesen und Wert durch das ekle Ungeziefer charakterisiert ist, das sie anfüllt, und durch die widerliche Sexualität und Fortpflanzung. Mit größerer Verachtung kann die Welt nicht zurückgestoßen werden als durch die Worte: „et omnibus locustis anteponenda". Die Erlösung erlöst so vollkommen, daß von dem gegebenen Alten schlechthin nichts übrig bleibt; sie macht bis zum letzten Grund der Dinge hin alles neu; also ist alles, was bisher bestanden hat, verderblich und nichtig; denn die Erlösung ist Erlösung nicht nur von der Welt, sondern auch von ihrem Schöpfer und Herrn.

Das dritte Zeugnis bestimmt die geschichtliche Tatsächlichkeit und die Aneignung der im Evangelium gegebenen Erlösung: Jesus Christus, seinen Tod und seine Auferstehung, im Glauben, der eine innere Umschaffung bedeutet, zu ergreifen. Christus ist innerhalb der Erlösung und in dem neuen Leben, welches zugleich das ewige ist, alles in allem und daher auch der Anfänger und Vollender des Glaubens. Vor ihm waren nur Pseudopropheten, und nach ihm bedarf es keiner Offenbarung mehr, sondern nur einer restituierenden Reformation.

Das vierte Zeugnis endlich besagt im Zusammenhang mit dem vorigen, daß zwar die Erlösung schon vollzogen ist, daß die Gläubigen sie aber erst als gewisse Hoffnung mit dem Unterpfand des h. Geistes besitzen. Sie sollen daher wissen, daß sie, solange sie noch in dieser abscheulichen Welt unter dem harten und verächtlichen Weltschöpfer leben, Arme, Trauernde, Weinende und Verfolgte sein müssen. Sie dürfen sich mit der Welt schlechthin nicht einlassen; daraus ergibt sich von selbst, daß sie die Gehaßten sind und daß sie die überschwengliche Seligkeit der Erlösung hier auf Erden nur im Glauben besitzen können; aber schon dieser Glaube ist Seligkeit.

Ein größerer Kontrast als der, in welchem der Marcionitische Gläubige lebte, ist nicht denkbar: einerseits wußte er sich erlöst nicht nur von Sünde und Schuld, nicht nur von Tod und Teufel, nicht nur von dem ganzen Weltwesen, sondern auch von dem Gott und Vater, dem er früher entweder in Furcht und Zittern gedient oder den er in sträflichem Leichtsinn mit bösem Gewissen geflohen hatte; andrerseits lebte er noch als der Gehaßte und Verfolgte dieses Gottes auf der Erde! Wer ist dieser Gott?

2. Der Weltschöpfer, die Welt und der Mensch.

Man hätte sich viele Unsicherheiten in bezug auf M.s Prinzipienlehre erspart, wenn man stets festgehalten hätte, daß M. als exklusiver biblischer Theologe den Gott, von dem Christus die Gläubigen erlöst, in den Zügen gesehen hat, welche das AT der Gottheit verleiht, und die im Evangelium und den Briefen in bezug auf den ATlichen Gott erkennbar sind. Der Gott, den nach Marcion Christus ins Unrecht gesetzt hat, ist also nicht der persische Ahriman, nicht das böse Prinzip schlechthin — M. ließ den Teufel, wie die Testamente lehren, neben ihm bestehen und dachte über den Teufel nicht anders als die große Christenheit —, nicht der Schöpfer der Finsternis im Gegensatz zum Licht (er hat beide geschaffen, s. S. 263*f.), noch weniger die Materie, sondern einfach der jüdische Schöpfergott, wie ihn das Gesetz und die Propheten verkündigt haben.

Jedoch unterliegt diese Erkenntnis einer Einschränkung bzw. Modifikation. Zwar ist sie noch nicht damit gegeben, daß nach M. Gott die Welt aus einer Materie geschaffen hat, die gleich ursprünglich ist wie er; denn so haben in jener Zeit unbefangen auch hellenistische Juden und Großchristen gelehrt; allein sie dachten an eine qualitätslose Materie; M. aber hat nach sicheren Zeugnissen (s. o. S. 276*: Tertullian, Clemens, Ephraem, Theodoret, Esnik; die Zeugnisse der beiden letzteren allein würden nicht genügen) die Materie [1] für schlecht gehalten und den präzisen Satz gebildet, daß die Welt-Physis schlecht ist, weil sie aus einem Zusammenwirken der schlechten Materie und des gerechten Demiurgs stamme (Clemens) [2]. Das Auffallende aber

1 „Die Materie nennen sie die Kraft der Erde“ (Esnik).

2 Vgl. Tert. I, 15: „Creator mundum ex aliqua materia subiacente molitus est, innata et infecta et contemporali deo . . . amplius et malum materiae deputat“.

hier ist dies, daß M. von dieser Annahme, die er nicht weiter ausgeführt hat [1], weder bei seinen Exegesen noch bei seinen sonstigen Aussagen irgendwelchen Gebrauch gemacht, ja daß er u. W. außer bei der Schöpfung [2] sonst die Materie nirgendwo auch nur genannt hat. Dazu kommt, daß er, abgesehen von den malignitates creatoris, den Teufel als den Urheber des Bösen kennt. Immer aber hat er es nur mit den zwei Göttern zu tun. Scheint daher „die schlechte Materie" als ein Fremdkörper innerhalb seiner Glaubensanschauung gelten zu müssen, so liegt es nahe, hier den Einfluß zu erkennen, den er nach der Überlieferung von der syrischen Gnosis durch Vermittelung des Cerdo erlitten hat, und wenn wir im Fortgang der Darstellung einen zweiten Fremdkörper bemerken, nämlich die besondere Verurteilung des Fleisches und die Einschränkung der Erlösung auf Seele und Geist (während diese doch dem „fremden Gott" ebenso fremd sind wie das Fleisch), so verstärkt sich die Vermutung, daß diese beiden nahe zusammenhängenden Lehren (die von der schlechten Materie und die von dem erlösungsunfähigen Fleisch) der ursprünglichen Konzeption M.s nicht angehören. Indessen darf das mindestens in bezug auf den ersten Punkt nicht für sicher gelten. Da ihm nämlich der Weltschöpfer nicht „schlecht" war, so bedurfte er auf alle Fälle neben ihm und zu seiner Entlastung eines schlechten Prinzips, und zwar gerade für den Anfang der Dinge, an dem der Teufel doch noch nicht auftreten konnte, da er nach biblischer Überlieferung selbst eine Kreatur Gottes ist. Von hier aus war ihm die Materie, die er, sobald der Teufel da war, unberücksichtigt lassen konnte und in der Tat nun fallen ließ, doch notwendig.

---

1 Bei Esnik ist sie ausgeführt (s. S. 374*ff.); aber es ist sehr unwahrscheinlich, daß die mythologische Schöpfungsgeschichte, wie er sie erzählt, von M. selbst herrührt, da er in der „Geschichte" über das Biblische niemals hinausgeschritten ist. Dazu: hätte sie Tert. in den Antithesen gelesen, also dort u. a. gelesen, daß der Weltschöpfer die Menschen seiner Genossin, der Materie, gestohlen habe, so hätte er die grimmigste Strafpredigt seinem Gegner gehalten.

2 Bei der Schöpfung hat M. die Hinzuziehung der Materie auch deshalb begrüßt, weil sie lehrt, daß der Weltschöpfer ohne einen Stoff nicht schaffen kann (anders der andere Gott). Das führt auf ein Interesse, welches mit der Schlechtigkeit der Materie nichts zu tun hat.

Die Unklarheit, die hier besteht (Materie und Teufel), ist für das „Mitten im Denken stehenbleiben" M.s, ja für seine Flucht vor dem philosophischen Denken charakteristisch [1].

Kehren wir zum Weltschöpfer zurück. Wie M. ihn sich vorgestellt hat, das geht aus den Resten der Antithesen, wie sie S. 260*ff. mitgeteilt worden sind, deutlich hervor, und alles einzelne braucht hier nicht wiederholt zu werden. Am schnellsten überschaut man die beschränkten und widerspruchsvollen Eigenschaften und die anstößigen Aktionen und Liebhabereien des kleinlichen und unbeständigen, ungeduldigen und eifernden, kriegerischen und wilden Schöpfergottes in der übersichtlichen Zusammenstellung, welche die pseudoklementinischen Homilien gegeben haben (S. 278*f.). Man darf sich aber durch ihre Inferioritäten und ihre disparate Fülle in der Anerkennung nicht beirren lassen, daß nach M. die iustitia im Sinne der formalen Gerechtigkeit („Auge um Auge, Zahn um Zahn") und in der richterlichen Ausübung sowie die schlimme Lästigkeit die Grundeigenschaften des Schöpfergottes sind, nicht aber die Schlechtigkeit.

Dies scheint freilich durch zahlreiche Stellen widerlegt zu werden, an denen eine unverhüllte Schlimmheit hervortritt, und durch jene Hauptstelle, an welcher M. den Schöpfergott einfach „den schlechten Baum" genannt hat. Allein wenn man die S. 271* f. zusammengefaßten Zeugnisse prüft, kommt man doch zu einem anderen Ergebnis, das übrigens schon deshalb gefordert ist, weil darüber kein Zweifel bestehen kann, daß M. als die wesentliche Eigenschaft des Schöpfergottes die Gerechtigkeit bezeichnet hat. Auch hätte er es nicht nötig gehabt, auf solche Stellen wie die: „Ego sum qui condo mala", und ähnliche triumphierend den Finger zu legen, wenn er das Böse für das Element des Schöpfers gehalten hätte.

---

1 Nichts ist sicherer, als daß M. mindestens in der Regel nicht von „Prinzipien" (ἀρχαί) gesprochen hat, sondern von θεοί, weil er ein biblischer Denker war. Wenn seit Rhodon (bei Euseb., h. e. V, 13) in der Überlieferung auch jenes Wort (spärlich) auftaucht, so liegt die Annahme nahe, daß, weil Apelles eine „ἀρχή" gelehrt hat, man ihm gegenüber die zwei θεοί des Meisters als zwei „ἀρχαί" bezeichnet hat. Die Materie ist von M. selbst, soweit wir zu urteilen vermögen, niemals „θεός" und auch nicht „ἀρχή" genannt worden, obschon er sie so hätte nennen müssen.

Worin zeigt sich seine malitia?

(1) In der Menschenschöpfung, indem er den Menschen schwach, hilflos und sterblich geschaffen und seine Verführung zugelassen hat, und auch darin zeigt sie sich, daß er überhaupt Sünde, Tod und den Teufel, der doch sein Geschöpf ist, sowie jegliches Schlechte duldet,

(2) in den zahlreichen Strafübeln, die er verhängt, in dem Unverhältnismäßigen der Strafe gegenüber der Schuld und in der Sendung von Übeln überhaupt,

(3) in zahlreichen Härten, Grausamkeiten, kriegerischem Wüten, Blutgier usw.,

(4) in seiner Praxis, die Sünden der Väter an den Kindern zu strafen und Unschuldige für Schuldige leiden zu lassen,

(5) in den Verstockungen im Bösen, die er über die Widerspenstigen verhängt,

(6) in dem Neide, mit welchem er die ersten Menschen vom Baum des Lebens abgehalten hat,

(7) in der Parteilichkeit, mit welcher er seine Verehrer, auch wenn sie schlecht sind, begünstigt, ja ihnen Ungerechtigkeit, Betrug und Raub und Gewalttat aller Art gegen seine Widersacher erlaubt, ja befiehlt.

Fast alle diese Züge sind mit der „Gerechtigkeit" dann verträglich, wenn man den Schöpfergott als den Despoten im antiken Sinn und im Sinn zahlreicher ATlicher Stellen faßt, der nach dem Grundsatz: „Voluntas regis suprema lex" verfährt, der vor allem seine Ehre sucht, bei seinen Untertanen die Unterwürfigkeit und den Gehorsam als die höchsten Tugenden schätzt und seine Widersacher als Frevler für rechtlos erklärt und zerschmettert. Unter Voraussetzung dieser Obersätze kann der Despot ein höchst gerechter Mann sein. Allerdings ist dabei in bezug auf den Schöpfergott M.s noch eine negative Voraussetzung hinzuzufügen, die aber auch bei den Despoten zuzutreffen pflegt: er sollte allwissend, vollkommen überlegt, sicher voraussehend, widerspruchslos, in sich geschlossen, zuverlässig und allmächtig sein, um bei seiner Machtfülle nicht in Torheiten, Fehler und Widersprüche zu geraten; aber er ist es nicht. So ist auch die Gerechtigkeit des Marcionitischen Weltschöpfers durch diese Mängel, die ihm anhaften, übel entstellt; — um z. B. bessere Menschen zu schaffen und das Böse ganz abzuschaffen, dazu ist er einfach zu schwach —; dennoch aber will dieser Gott gerecht sein und ist es auch, solange seine Ehre nicht im Spiele ist und seine Beschränktheit sich nicht geltend macht. Also ist nicht das Schlechte sein Element, sondern seine iustitia ist ihrer Aufgabe nicht gewachsen und wird durch Eifern und Schwäche unter Umständen zur iniquitas, pusillitas und malitia[1].

Dazu: man darf nicht übersehen, daß M. auch alle die herrlichen und erhebenden Aussagen vom Schöpfergott gelten lassen mußte, welche die Propheten und namentlich die Psalmen über ihn enthalten. Dieser Gott ist es, der gesprochen hat: „Fürchte dich nicht, Ich habe dich erlöset, Ich habe dich bei deinem Namen gerufen, du bist mein", und wiederum der Gläubige des Schöpfergottes ist es, der zu ihm spricht: „Wenn ich nur dich habe, frage ich nicht nach Himmel und Erde". Daß in den uns erhaltenen Resten der Antithesen diese Seite des Schöpfergottes nicht hervortritt, ist wohl verständlich, da uns diese Reste aus den Händen der Gegner M.s zugekommen sind; aber auch M. selbst wird schwerlich lange bei ihnen verweilt haben, da sie ihn in Verlegenheit setzen mußten. Wie er diese Verlegenheit, wo es möglich war, bemeistert hat, wissen wir: er deutete alles, was das AT an Trost, Verheißung und Erlösung enthält, auf eine irdische Erlösung, die ihren Inhalt an einem langen gesättigten Leben und an der Aussicht auf ein zeitliches und irdisches Reich der Freude und Herrlichkeit hat. „Ewigkeit" im intensiven Sinn des Worts gibt es bei dem Weltschöpfer nicht — M. strich im NT das Wort, wo man es auf das Leben, welches der Weltschöpfer gewährt, beziehen muß, und depotenzierte es im AT —; alles ist auf das Diesseits und auf eine zukünftige herrliche Steigerung des Weltlebens abgezweckt, in der sich die Erlösung erschöpft. Daß M. mit solcher Deutung die tiefsten Stellen des AT mißhandelt und entleert hat und weit hinter dem Verständnis zurückbleibt, welches sich damals auch bei frommen und geistlich geförderten Juden fand, braucht nicht erst gesagt zu werden; aber da in dem für inspiriert geltenden, kanonischen

---

1 Mit dem Mammon, so scheint es, hat M. den Weltschöpfer nicht identifiziert, da dieser das Prädikat „ungerecht" führt; doch kann man hier nicht zu voller Klarheit kommen; vgl. Tert. IV, 33 zu Luk. 16, 13 und Iren. III, 8, 1.

Buch alles auf einer Fläche stand, ist es verständlich, daß einmal einer auftrat, der das Buch nicht von rechts nach links, sondern von links nach rechts las und nach dem Primitiven das Hochentwickelte und Wundervolle erklärte.

Um die Eigenart des Schöpfergottes nach M. richtig zu erfassen, sind aber noch folgende Züge hervorzuheben: seine Unwissenheit in bezug auf die Existenz des anderen Gottes, seine profane Offenbarheit, die Identität seines Wesens mit dem Wesen der Welt, sei es auch dem höheren, und die gemeine und häßliche Fortpflanzungsmethode, die er eingerichtet hat oder duldet.

Die totale Unwissenheit des Weltschöpfers in bezug auf den anderen Gott ist von allen seinen Unwissenheiten die schlimmste; sie erweist ihn als im höchsten Maße inferior. Da ihm aber, weil er den anderen Gott nicht kennt, auch die Sphäre und Art desselben unfaßlich ist, so ist ihm auch das wahrhaft Gute völlig verschlossen. Zwar hat auch er „Gutes", ja ist selbst „gut" (s. unten über das „Gesetz"); aber das ist eine Art von Güte, die, gemessen an dem wahrhaft Guten, diesen Namen doch eigentlich nicht verdient.

Der Weltschöpfer ist absolut „bekannt" und daher auch kündbar (κατονόμαστος); von seiner Schöpfung und Offenbarung läßt sich sein Wesen vollkommen restlos ablesen. Diese profane Offenbarheit, die kein Mysterium übrig läßt, erweist ihn als einen inferioren Gott. Die entsetzlichen Halbheiten, Schwankungen, Widersprüche und Unzuverlässigkeiten aber, die dieser Gott aufweist, sind nach M. nichts weniger als ein Mysterium, sondern genau wie bei den Menschen ein Zeichen haltloser Schwäche und charakterloser Leidenschaftlichkeit [1].

Diese Welt, ein Produkt des gerechten Weltschöpfers und der schlechten Materie, ist eine φύσις κακή. „Die Mar-

---

1 In dem Wort (Deut. 32, 39): Ἐγὼ ἀποκτενῶ καὶ ζῆν ποιήσω, das M. für die Charakteristik des Weltschöpfers bevorzugt hat, stellt sich der große innere Widerspruch dieses Gottes dar, der alle anderen Widersprüche bestimmt. Das Leben kann nach M. kein wirkliches, ewiges sein, dessen Spender auch tötet. So werden beim Weltschöpfer auch Liebe, Gnade, Leben usw. wertlos, da sie den Zorn und den Tod nicht ausschließen.

cioniten", sagt Tertullian (I, 13), „rümpfen die Nase und sagen höhnisch: ‚Nicht wahr, die Welt ist eine große und eines Gottes würdige Schöpfung?' " „Haec paupertina elementa", „haec cellula creatoris" (I, 14), so titulieren sie die Welt, für die sie nur Verachtung haben. Mit Empörung mußte das jeden Hellenen, aber auch die Juden und Christen erfüllen. War aber für M. diese von Ungeziefer wimmelnde, stupide und schlechte Welt, dieses armselige Loch nur ein Gegenstand der Verachtung [1], so bedeutet es die abschätzigste Kritik M.s an dem Weltschöpfer, wenn er ihn wiederholt mit der Welt identifiziert, bzw. in seinen Exegesen der Welt substituiert. Wenn Paulus sagt, ihm sei durch Christus die Welt gekreuzigt und er der Welt, so ist nach M. hier der Weltschöpfer zu verstehen. Dasselbe gilt von dem Satze, Gott habe die Weisheit dieser Welt töricht gemacht, sowie von dem anderen, die Apostel seien ein Schauspiel für die Welt geworden. II Kor. 3, 14 las M. ἐπωρώθη τὰ νοήματα τοῦ κόσμου für τ. ν. αὐτῶν, und deutete dann die Welt als den Weltschöpfer, und Ephes. 2, 2 verstand er unter dem αἰὼν τοῦ κόσμου τούτου den Äon des Weltschöpfers (s. S. 311*). Diese Identifizierungen sind von hoher Wichtigkeit für die vollständige Erfassung des Marcionitischen Weltschöpfers; denn sie lehren, daß M. das Bild, welches das AT von dem jüdischen Schöpfergott bot, dadurch geschwärzt hat, daß er nach Gutdünken an verschiedenen Stellen den Charakter des Weltschöpfers nach dem der Welt bestimmte: die Weisheit des Weltschöpfers deckt sich mit der Weisheit der Welt! Wie verächtlich also ist die Weisheit des Weltschöpfers! Gott ist die Welt, und die Welt ist Gott — nicht im pantheistischen Sinn, sondern im ethischen; jedes ist ein Spiegel des anderen.

Endlich — der Weltschöpfer ist verantwortlich für den abscheulichen Apparat der Fortpflanzung und für all das Ekelhafte, was das Fleisch von seiner Entstehung bis zu seiner Fäulnis aufweist. Überschaut man alles, was uns von M. erhalten ist, so gewahrt man, daß der durch Überlegung und Ruhe sich auszeichnende Mann doch auch tief erregt werden konnte; aber nur an zwei Stellen ist uns das überliefert, nämlich dort, wo er sich die Neuheit und die überschwengliche und unsägliche Herrlichkeit des Evangeliums vor Augen stellt (in seinem Einleitungswort zu den Antithesen), und im Gegensatz dazu hier, wo er über das Fleisch und vor allem seine Zeugung und Geburt urteilt. Dort bricht er in einen Jubel aus, der keine Worte mehr finden kann, hier hat er (s. die Zeugnisse Tertullians oben S. 273*) sich in den bittersten „perorationes" ergangen, in Schmähungen über das Fleisch, seinen Ursprung, seine Bestandteile, seine Zufälle, „seinen ganzen Ausgang, daß es von Anfang an unrein sei als die Faeces der Erde, daß es in der Folge noch mehr verunreinigt worden durch den Unflat seines eigenen Samens, daß es nichtswürdig, schwach, verbrecherisch, beschwert, überlästig sei und zuletzt, als Schluß der ganzen Litanei seiner niedrigen Gemeinheit, daß es in die Erde, aus der es gekommen, als Kadaver zurücksinke, aber auch noch diesen Namen verliere und in ein Nichts zergehe — nicht einmal ein Name mehr, sondern ein jeglicher Benennung entbehrendes Nichts". Diese „caro stercoribus infersa", welche aus dem ehelichen „negotium impudicitiae" entsteht, im Mutterleibe aus den abscheulichen Zeugungsstoffen zusammenrinnt, durch denselben Unrat neun Monate ernährt wird, vermittels der Schamteile ans Licht kommt und unter Possen großgefüttert wird! Die „sanctissima et reverenda opera naturae" (so Tertullian!) sind ihm eine Fabrik des Unflats und eine quellende Masse des Gemeinen und Abscheulichen! Die „blasphemia creatoris", welche die Kirchenväter Marcion vorwerfen, kommt hier auf ihren Höhepunkt; aber es wurde oben (bei der „Materie" S. 98) darauf hingewiesen, daß durch diese Beurteilung des Fleisches ein Element in M.s religiöses Denken gekommen ist, das in dem leitenden Gegensatz von „gut" und „gerecht" nicht enthalten ist, sondern auf eine andere Quelle weist [1].

---

1 Es scheint bei dieser Empfindung auch eine gewisse hysterische Gereiztheit gegenüber den eklen Plagen des Lebens bei M. im Spiele gewesen zu sein.

---

1 Ebendeshalb darf man diesen Gott nur insofern zum Schöpfer des Fleisches und seiner häßlichen Fortpflanzung machen, als er bei seiner Schwäche die Materie bei der Schöpfung hat zu Hilfe nehmen müssen und es nun dulden mußte, daß aus diesem Beisatz das Abscheuliche hervorquoll. Nimmt man hier einen Einfluß der syrischen Gnosis durch Cerdo an, so ist doch andrerseits zu bemerken, daß die grimme Wut gegen das „Fleisch" den Eindruck eines Ressentiments eigenster Art macht. Auch hier läßt sich also ein sicheres Urteil nicht gewinnen.

Auch M. hat nach dem Bericht der Genesis den Menschen als den Zweck der Schöpfung anerkannt; aber in der Beurteilung dieser „Krone der Schöpfung" kommt er zu einem völlig anderen Ergebnis als die Juden und die Großchristen — die Schöpfung des Menschen ist eine jämmerliche Tragödie, an der der Schöpfer allein schuld ist; denn

(1) Gott hat dem Menschen zwar durch die Einblasung der Seele seine eigene Substanz mitgeteilt und ihm damit noch mehr gegeben als sein Gleichnis und Ebenbild [1], aber nicht nur ist diese göttliche Substanz selbst unvollkommen und labil, sondern ihr ist auch von Gott durch die Beigabe des Fleisches die schlechte Materie beigemengt worden; so entstand, sei es aus mangelnder Güte oder aus mangelnder Voraussicht oder aus mangelnder Kraft des Schöpfers — Marcion hat dies offen gelassen, aber nahm wohl alle diese Mängel zugleich an (s. S. 271* f. 273) — ein hilfloses, schwaches Gebilde, das nicht einmal unsterblich war, sondern dem Tode ausgesetzt.

(2) Kaum war es geschaffen, so regte sich, wie immer bei Despoten, in dem Schöpfer die eifersüchtige Sorge, er könne in seiner Ehre beeinträchtigt werden; er zeigte sich daher dem Menschen mißgünstig und sperrte ihn von dem Erkenntnis- und Lebensbaum ab; außerdem vermochte er es in seiner Schwäche nicht zu hindern, daß einer seiner Engel von ihm abfiel, schlecht wurde und es darauf absah, auch den Menschen von seinem Schöpfer abwendig zu machen.

(3) So trat die Katastrophe ein: der Mensch ließ sich vom Teufel verführen und wurde seinem Schöpfer ungehorsam. Diese Katastrophe überraschte den Weltschöpfer vollkommen, und es reute ihn, daß er den Menschen geschaffen habe; er trieb ihn aus dem Paradies, um ihn außerhalb desselben mit allen Mitteln wieder zurückzugewinnen. Auch im Sinne seines Urhebers ist der Mensch eine verfehlte Schöpfung, also eine Mißgeburt.

Aus dieser Auffassung der Schöpfungsgeschichte ergibt sich, daß der gute Gott an dem Menschen schlechterdings keinen Anteil hat, auch nicht an seinem Geiste oder seiner Seele, und

---

1 Also kann man, wie von der Welt, so auch von den Menschen die Eigenart des Weltschöpfers ablesen.

daß die Menschheit auf Grund ihrer Konstitution und durch die Verführung des Teufels [1] in einen jämmerlichen, ja unsäglich traurigen und hoffnungslosen Zustand geraten ist: von Hause aus ekelhaft konstituiert, schwach und hilflos, durch den Sündenfall noch weiter geschwächt und in ihrer mangelhaften Erkenntnis noch mehr verdunkelt, ist sie aus dem Paradiese verwiesen, in die greuliche und kummervolle Welt gestoßen und steht hier ihrem gerechten, eifrigen und zürnenden „Vater" gegenüber, der jede Hinneigung des Menschen zum Materiellen hart bestraft, strenge Gesetze gibt und sein Recht der Vergeltung grausam geltend macht.

3. Der Weltschöpfer als der Judengott; die Gerechtigkeit als das Moralische; Gesetz, Propheten, Messias und h. Schrift des Judengottes.

Erst wenn man von M.s Gedanken über Gott als den Weltschöpfer zu seinen Gedanken über Gott als den Gesetzgeber übergeht, kommt man zu dem ihn leitenden und entscheidenden Interesse; denn für M. ist es, wie für Paulus, das Wichtigste, daß die, welche Christus nicht erlöst hat, unter dem Gesetz stehen, und die Bedeutung des Gesetzes ist so groß, daß er den Weltschöpfer (zu Röm. 7, 7) dem Gesetz ebenso substituiert hat wie der Welt.

Der Gesetzgeber aber ist der Judengott [2]. M. folgte auch hier ohne jede Kritik dem AT. Nach dem Sündenfall vergaßen die Menschen Gottes vollständig, Gott aber erwählte sich Abraham und sein Geschlecht, um die Menschen zurückzurufen, und nachdem er durch Moses den Nachkommen Abrahams das Gesetz gegeben hatte, brauchte er ebendieses Gesetz, um das jüdische Volk bei sich zu erhalten und bei den anderen Völkern, die,

---

1 Daß nach M. Gott selbst der Urheber der Sünde ist, ist eine Konsequenzmacherei Tertullians; M. hat ausdrücklich, neben der schlechten Konstitution des Menschen, den Teufel als Urheber gezeichnet; s. oben S. 271*f.

2 Das Judenvolk ist das schlimmste Volk; aber dennoch hat M. Luk. 7, 9 stehengelassen („Solchen Glauben habe ich in Israel nicht gefunden"); „cur non licuerit illi", sagte M., „alienae fidei exemplo uti?" (Tert. IV, 18).

dem Teufel folgend, in der Nacht der Gottlosigkeit und des Polytheismus wandelten, für sich zu missionieren. Nicht anders also können die Heiden — obgleich eine natürliche Gesetzeskenntnis nach Röm. 2 zugestanden wird — zum Schöpfergott zurückkehren, als indem sie Juden, d. h. Proselyten werden; denn alle Verheißungen irdischen Glücks und eines zukünftigen Herrlichkeitsreiches auf Erden gelten dem erwählten Volke. Der Schöpfergott sorgt als Vater nur für sein Volk, die Juden, für die übrigen Menschen aber nur durch Vermittelung dieses Volkes.

Das Gesetz (von seinen Kleinlichkeiten, dem ganzen Opferdienst und dem Zeremoniellen, die freilich untrennbar mit ihm verbunden sind, abgesehen) ist, weil das Gerechte, das Moralische, und M. ist, wie Paulus, von allem Antinomismus zu Gunsten einer libertinistischen Lebensführung weit entfernt. Zwar unterstreicht er, was Paulus über das Gesetz als zur Sünde verführend usw. gesagt hat; aber er ist mit ihm der Überzeugung, daß die gerechten, d. h. die sittlichen Forderungen des Gesetzes unter allen Umständen zu beobachten sind: niemand soll töten, ehebrechen, stehlen und betrügen [1]. Wenn, wie wir sehen werden, dennoch nicht die Gesetzestreuen vom guten Gott gerettet werden, sondern die groben Sünder sich retten lassen und gerettet werden, so bedeutet das keine Umwertung der Werte in dem Sinne, daß das Moralische für das Unmoralische zu halten sei, vielmehr kreuzen sich hier bei M. zwei grundverschiedene Gesichtspunkte, nämlich der moralische und der religiöse. Nach jenem ist das Moralische gerecht, ja man kann es selbst gut nennen, und das Unmoralische ist schlecht; nach diesem, dem übergeordneten, ist nur gut, was aus dem Glauben an Christus, den Erlöser, kommt, und das moralisch Gute, d. h. das Gerechte, das sich von selbst versteht, wird zum schwersten Hemmnis der Erlösung, wenn man sich bei ihm beruhigt. Deshalb mußte der Erlöser als „aemulus legis" auftreten (Tert. IV, 9), obgleich er, wie der Weltschöpfer, das Schlechte, welches das Gesetz verbietet, auch als Schlechtes von sich stößt.

---

1 M. bezog die in Röm. 2, 21 f. gegen die Juden erhobenen Vorwürfe, soweit möglich, auch auf den Judengott selbst, so den Vorwurf des Diebstahls (wegen der ägyptischen goldenen und silbernen Gefäße); aber das erwählte Volk ist von seinem Gott autorisiert, die Heiden zu bestehlen, zu betrügen und auszurotten. Dadurch werden die Sittengebote nicht verletzt. Übrigens erscheint Moses dem unbarmherzigen Weltschöpfer gegenüber sogar als der bessere (Tert. II, 25—28): „Pusillus deus in ipsa ferocia sua, cum ob vituli consecrationem efferatus in populum de famulo suo postulat Moyse: ‚Sine me, ut indignatus ira disperdam illos et faciam te in nationem magnam.‘ unde meliorem soletis affirmare Moysen deo suo, deprecatorem, immo et prohibitorem irae; ‚non facies enim‘, inquit, ‚istud aut et me una cum eis impende‘ “.

M.s Stellung zum Gesetz unterscheidet sich also nicht stark von der des Paulus, wenn man die letzte Voraussetzung der beiden Götter wegläßt. Er hat folgende Stellen aus dem Römerbrief in bezug auf das Gesetz ruhig stehengelassen (nicht nur 5, 20; 7, 4. 5. 8. 23)[1]:

Röm. 2, 12: ὅσοι ἀνόμως ἥμαρτον, ἀνόμως καὶ ἀπολοῦνται, καὶ ὅσοι ἐν νόμῳ ἥμαρτον, διὰ νόμου κριθήσονται — über diese Stelle wird noch bei Christus zu reden sein.

Röm. 2, 13: οὐ γὰρ οἱ ἀκροαταὶ τοῦ νόμου δίκαιοι παρὰ τῷ θεῷ, ἀλλ' οἱ ποιηταὶ τοῦ νόμου δικαιωθήσονται.

Röm. 2, 14: τὰ μὴ νόμον ἔχοντα φύσει τὰ τοῦ νόμου ποιοῦσιν.

Röm. 2, 20: ἔχοντα τὴν μόρφωσιν τῆς γνώσεως καὶ τῆς ἀληθείας ἐν τῷ νόμῳ — also auch das wird von M. zugestanden.

Röm. 2, 25: περιτομὴ μὲν γὰρ ὠφελεῖ, ἐὰν νόμον πράσσῃς· ἐὰν δὲ παραβάτης νόμου ᾖς, ἡ περιτομή σου ἀκροβυστία γέγονεν.

Röm. 7, 7: τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν; ὅτι νόμος ἁμαρτία; μὴ γένοιτο· ἀλλ' ἐγὼ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν οὐ γινώσκω εἰ μὴ διὰ νόμου.

Röm. 7, 12: ὁ νόμος ἅγιος καὶ ἡ ἐντολὴ ἁγία καὶ δικαία καὶ ἀγαθή — man staunt mit Tertullian, daß M. das stehen gelassen hat, s. auch 7, 13: ἡ ἁμαρτία, ἵνα φανῇ ἁμαρτία, διὰ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ (!) μοι κατεργαζομένη θάνατον.

Röm. 7, 14: ὁ νόμος πνευματικός — das ist das frappierendste Zugeständnis.

Röm. 7, 25: ἄρα γὰρ αὐτὸς ἐγὼ τῷ μὲν νοῒ δουλεύω τῷ νόμῳ τοῦ θεοῦ.

Nach diesen Stellen wird man bei dem oberflächlichen

---

1 Man darf, um M.s merkwürdige Haltung hier zu erklären, nicht mit der Hypothese kommen, M. sei mit seiner Kritik des Textes des Römerbriefs nicht fertig geworden und könne manche weitere Korrekturen sich vorbehalten haben; denn gerade den Römerbrief hat er augenscheinlich besonders sorgfältig durchforscht und die Hälfte seines Textes gestrichen.

Urteil, M. habe das Gesetz als die Kundgebung des gerechten Gottes einfach verworfen und sei daher Antinomist im vollen Sinn des Worts, nicht stehen bleiben dürfen, da die Sachlage komplizierter ist: M. hat das Gesetz, d. h. gewisse Teile desselben (das Moralgesetz), für heilig, gut und sogar für geistlich erklärt und damit für eine unverbrüchliche Norm; aber er hat es trotzdem nicht vom guten Gott abgeleitet, weil es zum Sündenstande gehört und die Sünde mehrt. Dann aber ist die Annahme unvermeidlich, daß er zwischen „gut" und gut, „heilig" und heilig, „geistlich" und geistlich unterschieden hat. Die „Güte", „Heiligkeit" und „Geistlichkeit" des Gesetzes folgt lediglich aus seinem Kontraste gegenüber dem Bösen und der Sünde; in Hinsicht aber auf die Güte, die sich in der Barmherzigkeit und Erlösung ausspricht, ist es weder gut noch heilig noch geistlich. Die Dialektik M.s ist hier also andersartig als die des Apostels, dem er folgt; denn der Apostel kennt keine Gutheit und Heiligkeit erster und zweiter Ordnung; für M. aber ist nur der Begriff „Schlecht" eindeutig; dagegen unterscheidet er zwischen einer moralischen Gutheit, die nur irdischen Charakter hat, und einer religiösen [1]. Paulus verlegt die Spannung der eindeutig erfaßten Begriffe „Gerecht" und „Gut" in die Gottheit selbst; Marcion befreit die Gottheit von dieser Spannung, kennt aber eine doppelte Gerechtigkeit und doppelte Gutheit, verteilt sie auf zwei Götter und nennt in der Regel die niedere Gerechtigkeit, also auch den Weltschöpfer, nicht gut, sondern nur gerecht und die höhere Gutheit nicht gerecht, sondern nur gut. Nimmt man aber seinen Standort bei dem Schlechten (der Sünde), so kann man auch den Schöpfer und sein Gesetz der Sinnlichkeit und Sünde gegenüber „geistlich" und „gut" nennen [2].

---

1 Ebenso wie er zwischen „Leben" und „Leben" (nämlich ewigem) und zwischen Paradies und wirklicher Seligkeit unterscheidet.

2 Von den zahlreichen paulinischen Stellen, an denen das Gesetz erwähnt wird und die M. beibehalten hat (daß Jesus unter das Gesetz getan war, hat er natürlich gestrichen, Gal. 4, 4), seien noch folgende erwähnt, die des weiteren belegen, daß M.s Stellung zum Gesetz nur in der Hauptsache eindeutig und klar, sonst aber kompliziert war. Erstlich hat er einige Berufungen des Paulus auf das AT beibehalten, s. I Kor. 9, 8 f. (hier ist κατὰ νόμον dem κατὰ ἄνθρωπον entgegengesetzt!), 14, 19 (hier

Dies bestätigt sich, wenn man den Begriff νόμος im Evangelium M.s untersucht und weiter die Stellen vergleicht, an denen δικαιοσύνη und δίκαιος steht. Natürlich hat M. den νόμος in dem Spruch Luk. 16, 16 stehen gelassen (ὁ νόμος καὶ οἱ προφῆται ἕως Ἰωάννου), und ebenso verständlich hat er ihn in dem Spruch Luk. 16, 17 getilgt und dafür τῶν λόγων μου eingesetzt; denn nicht das Gesetz, sondern die Worte des Erlösers sind dauernder als Himmel und Erde. Dagegen ist es sehr bemerkenswert, daß er die Perikope 10, 25 ff. nicht nur nicht getilgt, sondern beibehalten und so korrigiert hat [1], daß Jesus es ist, der da sagt, daß im Gesetz geschrieben steht, man solle Gott ist M.s Text nicht sicher und nicht durchsichtig), 14, 21 (hier ist eine Verheißung des Gesetzes auf die neue Zeit übernommen, wenn sie auch von M. gewiß anders gedeutet wurde), 14, 34 (hier wird das Verbot des Auftretens von Frauen in den Versammlungen durch das analoge im AT verstärkt). Zweitens ist Röm. 8, 4 beibehalten, daß sich τὸ δικαίωμα τοῦ νόμου in den Erlösten erfüllt habe. Drittens wird νόμος mehrmals als Gesetz des guten Gottes beibehalten; s. Röm. 8, 2 (ὁ νόμος τοῦ πνεύματος τῆς ζωῆς), 8, 7 (τὸ φρόνημα τῆς σαρκός > ὁ νόμος τοῦ θεοῦ), 13, 9 f. (hier werden — das ist von besonderer Wichtigkeit — erst die Gebote der zweiten Gesetzestafel aufgezählt, und dann wird gesagt, daß sie in dem Liebesgebot zusammengefaßt seien und daß deshalb die Liebe des Gesetzes Erfüllung sei; es steckt also im Gesetz des Schöpfergottes doch etwas, was unverwerflich ist, so daß es vom guten Gott als sein Gesetz anerkannt werden kann; s. auch den beibehaltenen Vers Gal. 5, 14, daß sich das ganze Gesetz in dem Liebesgebot erfülle) und Gal. 6, 2 (ὁ νόμος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, der inhaltlich sich mit der tätigen Nächstenliebe deckt, die auch im Gesetz des Weltschöpfers enthalten ist). Andrerseits aber hat M. Ephes. 6, 2 bei den Worten: τίμα τὸν πατέρα σου καὶ τὴν μητέρα σου, den paulinischen Zusatz: ἥτις ἐστὶν ἐντολὴ πρώτη ἐν ἐπαγγελίᾳ, getilgt; denn diese Verheißung eines langen Lebens war ihm anstößig; auch war es ihm gewiß willkommen, die ausdrückliche Erinnerung an das Gesetz, ein einzelnes Gebot betreffend, zu vermeiden. — Von hier aus (d. h. von der Erkenntnis aus, daß M. eine doppelte Gutheit unterscheidet, da er auch im νόμος etwas Gutes anerkennt) versteht man es erst, daß er vom Erlösergott sagt, er habe die Menschen erlöst — nicht „bonitate", sondern vielmehr „summa et praecipua bonitate" (Tert. I, 17; vgl. I, 23: „perfecta et principalis bonitas").

---

1 So nach Tert.; nach Epiphanius lasen die Marcioniten hier den kanonischen Text. Zahn (s. S. 206*f.) bestreitet, daß Tert. hier anders als Epiphanius gelesen hat.

den Herrn von ganzem Herzen lieben usw. Jesus selbst zitiert hier also das Gesetz, und zwar beifällig; M. muß also der Meinung gewesen sein, daß die „Hauptsumme" des Gesetzes richtig ist; freilich hat hier Jesus im stillen den wichtigen Vorbehalt gemacht, daß der Erlösergott der Gegenstand der Liebe sei; indessen hat er sich doch an das Wort des Gesetzes angeschlossen [1]. Noch wichtiger ist Luk. 16, 29 f.: Jesus sagt hier dem reichen Mann in bezug auf seine noch lebenden und prassenden Brüder, sie sollen Moses und die Propheten hören; denn selbst ein Auferstandener würde bei ihnen nichts ausrichten können, wenn sie die Predigt jener in bezug auf die Barmherzigkeit gegen den Nächsten in den Wind schlügen. Das bedeutet doch eine offenbare Anerkennung des Wertes des Gesetzes gegenüber dem Schlechten und der Sünde, die weit über die langmütige Akkommodation an das Gesetz herausgeht, die Jesus nach M. auch geübt hat, indem er (Luk. 5, 14) dem Aussätzigen befahl, sich dem Priester zu zeigen. Es muß daher konstatiert werden, daß nach M. die beiden Götter darin übereinstimmen, daß sie beide das Schlechte für schlecht und die Gottes- und Nächstenliebe für gut erklären [2].

Ähnlich wie mit νόμος steht es mit δίκαιος, δικαιοσύνη, δικαιοῦν usw. Die Gerechtigkeit ist nur in der Art, wie sie der Weltschöpfer ausübt, verwerflich; aber an und für sich ist sie es nicht. Daher liest man bei M. nicht nur δίκαιον παρὰ θεῷ (I Thess. 1, 6),

1 Das entspricht der Beibehaltung der paulinischen Stellen Gal. 5, 14 und Röm. 13, 9, daß die Liebe die Erfüllung des Gesetzes sei (s. o.). Die obige Stelle erklärte M. so, daß er Christus die Frage so beantworten ließ, wie sie von dem Fragenden gestellt war, der nur das rechte Mittel wissen wollte, um ein langes irdisches Leben zu erwerben; aber Christus legte für die, die ihn verstehen, den Gedanken hinein: „Ex dei dilectione consequimur vitam aeternam".

2 Lehrreich ist in diesem Zusammenhang M.s Antithese in bezug auf die Ehe, die er doch für die Christen ganz verwirft: Christus verbietet die Ehescheidung; Moses aber wird deshalb von M. getadelt, weil er sie zuläßt (s. Tert. IV, 34 zu Luk. 16, 18 und V, 7 zu I Kor. 7, 1 ff.). Nach M. soll also die Ehe untrennbar sein, wenn sie geschlossen ist, d. h. er erkennt ein bedingtes Recht der Ehe an.

sondern auch δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ ἐν εὐαγγελίῳ ἀποκαλύπτεται (Röm. 1, 17) οὐχ οἱ ἀκροαταὶ τοῦ νόμου δίκαιοι παρὰ τῷ θεῷ . . . ἀλλ' οἱ ποιηταὶ δικαιωθήσονται (Röm. 2, 13), δικαιωθέντες ἐκ πίστεως (Röm. 5, 1), οὐ δικαιοῦται ἄνθρωπος ἐξ ἔργων νόμου . . . ἀλλ' ἐκ πίστεως (Gal. 2, 16; cf. 3, 11), τὸ δικαίωμα τοῦ νόμου πληρωθῇ (Röm. 8, 4), εἰς δικαιοσύνην παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι (Röm. 10, 4), τί δὲ καὶ ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν οὐ κρίνετε τὸ δίκαιον (Luk. 12, 57), ἐκδίκησις vom guten Gott (Luk. 18, 7), δεδικαιωμένος vom Zöllner (Luk. 18, 14). Am lehrreichsten ist hier aber, daß M. Luk. 13, 28 die Erzväter getilgt (denn sie sind nicht im Reiche Gottes zu erblicken), aber dafür unbefangen „οἱ δίκαιοι" eingesetzt hat. Hieraus ist evident, daß er die Bezeichnung „die Gerechten" für die, welche der gute Gott annimmt, so wenig gescheut hat, wie die Gerechtigkeit als Eigenschaft und Forderung ebendieses guten Gottes. Dieser ist gut und deshalb auch gerecht[1], dem Weltschöpfer aber fehlt die barmherzige Güte, und daher muß seine Gerechtigkeit notwendig zur Härte, Grausamkeit und bei seiner exklusiven Vorliebe für sein erwähltes Volk zur Ungerechtigkeit werden[2]. Daneben ist diese „Ge-

---

1 Besonders willkommen ist, daß durch den Bericht des Esnik (S. 376*) noch ausdrücklich bestätigt wird, daß die wahre Gerechtigkeit beim „fremden" Gott ist. Jesus spricht zum „gerechten" Gott: „Ich bin mit Recht gerechter als du und habe große Wohltaten getan an deinen Geschöpfen".

2 I Kor. 1, 30 (Christus zur Gerechtigkeit gemacht) scheint bei M. trotz Adamantius gefehlt zu haben; in Luk. 14, 14 hat M. τῶν δικαίων nach τῇ ἀναστάσει wahrscheinlich ausgelassen. In Röm. 1, 17 hat er καθὼς γέγραπται· Ὁ δὲ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται getilgt, aber nur, weil der Spruch als Schriftwort eingeführt war; Gal. 3, 11 hat er unbefangen den Apostel schreiben lassen: Μάθετε ὅτι ὁ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται. Röm. 10, 3 hat er zwar θεὸν ἀγνοοῦντες für ἀγνοοῦντες τὴν τοῦ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην eingesetzt, aber dann τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ θεοῦ οὐχ ὑπετάγησαν ruhig beibehalten. —Wer diese Marcionitische Dialektik in bezug auf die ethischen Hauptbegriffe („gerecht", „gut" usw.) als für jene Zeit unglaubwürdig beanstandet, der hat die Ausführungen des Valentinianers Ptolemäus (Ep. ad Floram c. 5 bei Epiph. haer. 31, 7) vergessen, die gerade dieselbe Dialektik enthalten (Ob unabhängig von M.? Schwerlich.): „Wenn der vollkommene Gott gut ist gemäß seiner Naturbeschaffenheit, wie er es denn auch ist — denn unser Heiland hat von seinem Vater, den er offenbart hat, gesagt, daß er einzig und allein der gute Gott sei —, wenn aber ferner der mit der Natur des Widersachers behaftete Schlechte und Schlimme durch die Ungerechtigkeit rechtigkeit" durch die „pusillitates" und die anstößigen Liebhabereien übel entstellt; für M. war die Forderung der Beschneidung das widerlichste Stück unter ihnen; Origenes berichtet uns, M. habe sie wiederholt verhöhnt, und hat uns eine interessante Kritik M.s an ihr aufbewahrt (s. S. 309* f.), aus der hervorgeht, daß der Kritiker nicht nur die Geschmacklosigkeit des Weltschöpfers getadelt hat, sein Bundeszeichen an die obszöne Stelle zu setzen, auch nicht nur den Widerspruch, einen Körperteil zu schaffen und ihn alsbald entfernen zu lassen, sondern auch das Blutvergießen. Andrerseits hat er eine Einrichtung wie die des Passah nicht so detestiert, daß er von ihr nicht mehr geredet wissen wollte; vielmehr hat er I Kor. 5, 7 den Satz stehen gelassen: Τὸ πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη Χριστός.

Die Prophetie als solche hat M. so wenig verworfen (s. I Thess. 5, 20; I Kor. 11, 5; 12, 10) wie die Gerechtigkeit und das Gesetz (im Sinne des Liebesgebots); aber von den ATlichen Propheten wollte er nichts wissen. Das zeigen zahlreiche Stellen, an denen er ihre Erwähnung getilgt hat. In seinem Apostolos lassen sie sich nur I Thess. 2, 15 nachweisen („die auch den Herrn Christus getötet haben und ihre eigenen Propheten"). Daß die Juden ihre eigenen Propheten getötet haben, hat er auch im Evangelium tadelnd stehen gelassen (Luk. 6, 23; 11, 47), um ihre Schlechtigkeit zu erweisen; denn er hielt Moses und die Propheten, obgleich sie ausschließlich dem Schöpfergott anhingen [1], doch für moralisch besser als die sich wider sie auflehnende und charakterisiert wird, so durfte der, der als Mittlerer zwischen ihnen steht und weder gut noch schlecht noch ungerecht ist, i m e i g e n t ü m l i c h e n S i n n „g e r e c h t" heißen, indem er der Leitende i n d e r G e r e c h t i g k e i t i s t, w i e e r s i e v e r s t e h t. Dieser Gott nun wird niedriger sein als der vollkommene Gott und geringer als die G e r e c h t i g k e i t j e n e s". Der höchste Gott ist also gut und gerecht, und der Weltschöpfer hat eine Gerechtigkeit, wie er sie versteht.

---

1 Daher konnte M. (Luk. 10, 24) nicht stehen lassen, daß „die Propheten das sehen w o l l t e n, was ihr sehet"; er schrieb daher: „sie haben nicht gesehen, was ihr sehet". Ebenso mußte er die Stellen tilgen, an denen zu lesen stand, daß der Vater Jesu Christi die Propheten gesandt habe (Luk. 11, 49 usw.), daß sich alles erfüllen werde, was von den Propheten geschrieben worden (Luk. 18, 31), und daß es eine Herzenshärtigkeit sei, dem Prophetenwort den Glauben zu verweigern (Luk. 24, 25; er setzte dafür das Herrenwort ein).

in heidnisches Leben zurückfallende Masse des mörderischen jüdischen Volks. Wie das Gesetz, so haben auch die Propheten Anweisungen und Lehren gegeben, die die Zuchtlosen und Unbarmherzigen hören sollten (s. S. 111: „sie haben Moses und die Propheten"); der Name „Prophet" ist ein Ehrenname, und der Täufer wird von Jesus dadurch hoch gewertet, daß er ihn als den größten Propheten bezeichnet (7, 28), bei dem Gesetz und Propheten ihren Abschluß gefunden haben (Luk. 16, 16). Freilich soll man gerade an diesem größten Propheten erkennen, wie blind sie alle waren; denn er kannte den guten Gott nicht, nahm an Christus ein schweres Ärgernis und lehrte seine Jünger zum Weltschöpfer beten, weshalb im Kreise der Christusjünger dieses Gebet unmöglich war und sie sich ein eigenes Gebet von Christus erbitten mußten (M. zu Luk. 11, 1). Hier aber entsteht nun eine schwere Aporie: wenn Johannes ganz und gar zum Weltschöpfer gehört, wie durfte M. den Vers 7, 27 stehen lassen [1], in welchem sich Jesus mit γέγραπται auf Mal. 3, 1 beruft und den Täufer als seinen Wegbereiter bezeichnet? Beides scheint doch im Sinne M.s unerträglich, sowohl die Berufung auf das AT (eine echte Weissagung bietend), als auch die Verkündigung, der Täufer sei der Wegbereiter Jesu!

Die zweite Schwierigkeit läßt sich durch die Erwägung beseitigen, daß der Täufer als großer Asket von M. als Vorläufer Jesu in diesem Stück anerkannt werden konnte; in dieser Hinsicht ist es wichtig, daß M. 7. 33. 34 (den Gegensatz des Asketen Johannes und des essenden und trinkenden Jesus) wahrscheinlich getilgt hat. Um die erste Schwierigkeit aber zu heben, müssen die Stellen ins Auge gefaßt werden, an denen M. γέγραπται stehen gelassen hat [2] oder sich ohne diese Formel auf das AT beruft.

In Lukas 6, 1 ff. beruft sich Jesus für das Verhalten seiner Jünger auf David und die Schaubrote gegenüber den Vorwürfen der Juden, in Luk. 10, 26 (s. o. S. 110 f.) erkennt Jesus das ATliche Gebot der Gottesliebe an,

---

1 Daß er den Vers stehen gelassen hat, ist sicher.

2 Die Ausdrücke ἡ γραφή, αἱ γραφαί finden sich im NT M.s nirgendwo. — Getilgt hat er γέγραπται an mehreren Stellen, s. Röm. 1, 17; 12, 19; II Kor. 4, 13, wohl auch 2, 24 und I Kor. 15, 45, usw.

(in Gal. 3, 11 [s. o. S. 112] wird die Habakukstelle angeführt, aber nicht gesagt, daß sie dem AT entstamme), in Gal. 3, 13 bot M.: γέγραπται· Ἐπικατάρατος πᾶς ὁ κρεμάμενος ἐπὶ ξύλου, und sah diese Stelle als in Christus erfüllt an,

Gal. 4, 22 ist es zwar nicht ganz sicher, daß γέγραπται von M. stehen gelassen worden ist, ganz sicher aber ist, daß er die beiden Söhne Abrahams ausgedeutet hat,

Eph. 5, 31 hat M. das Zitat Gen. 2, 24 stehen gelassen; es ist allerdings nicht ausdrücklich als solches bezeichnet,

Eph. 6, 2 (s. o. S. 110) hat M. die dem AT entnommenen Worte τίμα τὸν πατέρα σου beibehalten; sie waren nicht als Zitat bezeichnet; v. 2 b hat er getilgt,

I Kor. 1, 19 hat M. stehen gelassen: γέγραπται γάρ· Ἀπολῶ τὴν σοφίαν κτλ.,

I Kor. 1, 31 ist καθὼς γέγραπται· Ὁ καυχώμενος κτλ. stehen gelassen,

I Kor. 3, 19 ebenso: γέγραπται γάρ· Ὁ δρασσόμενος τοὺς σοφοὺς ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτῶν, und ebenso v. 20: Κύριος γινώσκει τοὺς διαλογισμοὺς κτλ. Das sind doch klare Aussagen über den guten Gott.

I Kor. 5, 7 (s. o.) ist Christus als unser Passah bezeichnet,

I Kor. 9, 9 liest man bei M.: ἐν γὰρ τῷ Μωσέως νόμῳ γέγραπται· Οὐ φιμώσεις κτλ., ja noch mehr: es ist auch das Folgende stehen geblieben[1]: ἢ δι' ἡμᾶς πάντως λέγει; δι' ἡμᾶς γὰρ ἐγράφη κτλ.,

I Kor. 10, 1—6. Dieser ganze Abschnitt ist beibehalten, also auch daß Christus die Speise und der Trank und der mit wandernde Fels gewesen ist; beibehalten ist auch v. 11, aber wahrscheinlich in folgender Fassung: ταῦτ' ἀτύπως συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν (oder: ταῦτ' καθὼς συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν),

I Kor. 14, 21 beibehalten: ἐν τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται, ὅτι Ἐν ἑτερογλώσσοις κτλ.,

I Kor. 15, 54 beibehalten: τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος· Κατεπόθη κτλ.,

---

1 Zahn ist zweifelhaft; aber nach Tert. V, 7 (s. auch III, 5) kann man nicht zweifeln.

Ephes. 5, 31 ist das allerdings als solches nicht bezeichnete Zitat Gen. 2, 24 beibehalten [1].

Da man nicht annehmen kann, daß M. alle diese Stellen „übersehen" hat oder erst später korrigieren wollte — eine Annahme, die bei einigen von ihnen schon deshalb ausgeschlossen ist, weil er an ihnen korrigiert hat —, so folgt, daß die Beobachtung die wir schon bei dem „Gesetz" gemacht haben, erweitert werden muß. Folgendes ist festzustellen:

M. hat das AT zwar als Buch des Weltschöpfers verworfen, aber gelehrt, daß (wie es ja auch kein Lügenbuch ist, und wie es in seinem Gesetz dem Schlechten und der Sünde gegenüber Richtiges enthält) manches in ihm πρὸς νουθεσίαν für uns geschrieben ist; deshalb enthält es auch Geschichten, aus denen wir, so wie sie geschehen sind, lernen können [2], ferner andere, die der Apostel typisch auslegen durfte (wir dagegen sind zu allegorischen Auslegungen nicht berechtigt), endlich sogar solche, die Jesus Christus erfüllt hat; denn in seiner Geschichte hat es sich erfüllt, daß ein Wegbereiter vorangegangen ist; er ist das Passahlamm, und durch seine Auferstehung ist das Wort wahr geworden: „Der Tod ist verschlungen in den Sieg". Wenn es nun aber sicher ist, daß der Schöpfergott von dem guten Gott schlechterdings nichts gewußt hat, also auch nicht auf ihn hin weissagen konnte, so bleibt nur die Annahme übrig, entweder daß der gute Gott schon vor seiner Erscheinung in Christus in verborgener Weise die Hand im Spiele der ATlichen Urkunde gehabt und in das Buch leise eingegriffen hat — aber diese Auskunft ist sehr mißlich — oder daß der Weltschöpfer unwissentlich oder vermessen Dinge gesagt und Aussagen gemacht hat, die ihm nicht zukommen und die ihre Wahrheit erst beim guten Gott erhalten haben. Auch diese Annahme ist unbequem; denn sie stört die einfachen Linien, in denen sonst die Anschauung M.s vor uns liegt; allein sie ist m. E. unvermeidlich, und sie hat ihre Analogie an der Auffassung der Antike, daß auch böse Dämonen in einigen Fällen imstande sind, Richtiges zu weissagen.

---

1 Dies und die Konservierung der ganzen Stelle Ephes. 5, 22—32, die M. größtenteils sehr unsympatisch sein mußte, ist sehr auffallend. Über das wahrscheinliche Motiv der Beibehaltung s. Cap. VII.

2 Man vgl. auch Stellen wie Luk. 12, 27 (Salomo), 13, 16 (Tochter Abrahams) usw.

Dagegen war M.s Anschauung vom jüdischen Messias im Unterschied von Jesus Christus ganz eindeutig: dieser wird noch kommen (nicht unter dem Namen Jesus, der im AT nicht geweissagt ist, Tert. III, 15), daher haben die Juden vollkommen recht, ihn noch zu erwarten; er wird ein kriegerischer Held sein — schon deshalb war er dem M. verwerflich, der ein ausgesprochener Gegner von Blutvergießen und Krieg war — und das sichtbare Herrlichkeitsreich der Juden aufrichten. Doch kann seine Wirksamkeit nur eine zeitlich begrenzte sein; denn den zu erhoffenden Abschluß wird Jesus Christus bringen [1].

Dies sind die Grundzüge der Anschauungen M.s vom Weltschöpfer als Gesetzgeber und Geschichtslenker. Vermißt man eine straffe Einheitlichkeit, so ist zu bedenken, daß der Weltschöpfer ja ein widerspruchsvolles Wesen sein soll [2]; dazu erinnere man sich, daß M. kein Lehrsystem aufgestellt, sondern

---

1 Das Nähere s. S. 290*. Nach M. sind zahlreiche „messianische" Weissagungen nicht messianisch, sondern haben sich bereits in David, Salomo, Ezechias usw. erfüllt. Die messianischen Hauptpunkte sind folgende: (1) Der Messias wird ein purer Mensch sein aus dem Stamme Davids, (2) er ist lediglich für das Judenvolk bestimmt, um es aus der Zerstreuung zurückzuführen; nur solchen Heiden, die Proselyten werden, kommt seine Erscheinung zugut. (3) Wenn er erscheint, werden sich die Reiche und Völker gegen ihn auflehnen; er aber wird sie besiegen und die Völker mit eiserner Rute weiden; denn er wird ein „militaris et armatus bellator" sein. (4) Daß er noch nicht erschienen ist, zeigen die Details der jesajanischen Weissagung auf ihn, die sich noch nicht erfüllt haben, sowie die Reiche der Welt, die zur Zeit noch bestehen. — Der Christus des guten Gottes hat ausdrücklich vor ihm gewarnt (Tert. IV, 38 zu Luk. 21, 8).

2 Abgesehen von den großen Widersprüchen im Wesen des Weltschöpfers, die ihn zu widersprechenden Anordnungen und Gesetzen führten, sind es ganz deutlich die „pusillitates" in seinem Wesen (also auch im Wesen der Welt), die M. zu besonderem Anstoß gereichten. Er muß eine großzügige Natur gewesen sein, dabei aber, wie bereits bemerkt, außerordentlich nervös in bezug auf die Widerwärtigkeiten und Kleinlichkeiten der Welt und des Lebens. Hierzu kam sein starker Abscheu vor Blutvergießen und Krieg; er war, so würde man heute sagen, Pazifist, und das AT war ihm vor allem auch um seines kriegerischen Geistes willen ein fatales Buch. Endlich war ihm die Juden-Vorliebe dieses Gottes unbegreiflich und widerwärtig, da dieses Volk doch nach seinem eigenen heiligen Buch ein besonders schlechtes ist.

als streng biblischer Theologe lediglich gegebene Texte teils korrigiert, teils aufklärende Auslegungen zu ihnen gestellt hat, endlich ist nicht zu vergessen, daß er eine reformatorische Revisionsarbeit unternommen hat, die ihrer Natur nach eine Vollendung nicht zuließ.

4. Der Erlösergott als der fremde und als der obere Gott.

Die Erfahrung, die M. am Evangelium gemacht hatte: „O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen ist, daß man gar nichts über das Evangelium sagen, noch über dasselbe denken, noch es mit irgend etwas vergleichen kann", gab ihm die Gewißheit, daß es etwas schlechthin Neues sei, und er wußte sich in dieser überschwenglichen Erfahrung mit dem Apostel Paulus aufs engste verbunden. Ist dieses Evangelium aber in seiner Botschaft und in seinen Wirkungen („Neue Kreatur") vollkommen neu, so muß auch sein Urheber ein bisher unbekannter Gott sein („novus utique agnitione", Tert. I, 9): „Ein neuer Gott . . ., in der alten Welt und in der alten Weltzeit und unter dem alten Gott unbekannt, den Jesus Christus — auch er ein neuer unter dem alten Namen — offenbart hat und keiner vorher" (I, 8). Aber nicht nur unbekannt war dieser neue Gott, sondern auch fremd, ja er ist „der Fremde"; denn Welt und Geschichte lehren, daß er sich vor Christus niemals offenbart hat, und die Erfahrung lehrt, daß kein Mensch von Natur etwas von ihm weiß (V, 16: „Deus Marcionis naturaliter ignotus nec usquam nisi in evangelio revelatus") und daß ihn kein naturhaftes Band mit den Menschen verbindet. Dies wird durch den Offenbarer dieses neuen Gottes ausdrücklich bestätigt; denn in feierlicher Rede hat Er verkündet, daß niemand Seinen Vater kenne als Er, der Sohn, und wem Er es offenbaren wolle (Luk. 10, 22), und Er hat ferner gesagt, man solle seine Feinde lieben, d. h. den Gott nachahmen, der durch seine Erlösung („nova et hospita dispositio" I, 2) „extraneos et hostes" erkauft und befreit hat — „suos et amicos" aber erkauft man nicht: „Christus magis adamavit hominem, quando alienum redemit" (Tert., De carne 4) [1]. Durch die Jahrhunderte hindurch, solange die Marcioni-

1 Tert. I, 23: „Deus processit in salutem hominis alieni . . . haec est principalis et perfecta bonitas, cum sine ullo debito familiari tische Kirche bestanden hat und in allen Sprachen, welche die Marcioniten sprachen, blieb „der Fremde“ bzw. „der gute Fremde“ der eigentliche Name für ihren Gott. Umgekehrt hießen vom Standpunkt Gottes auch die Menschen „die Fremden“. Daß sie dennoch zusammengekommen waren und die Fremden zu Kindern Gottes geworden sind, das war das kündlich große Geheimnis dieser Religion.

Da aber dieser unbekannte Gott als ein fremder Gast in die ihm fremde Welt durch eine fremde, weil neue und unerhörte „dispositio“ eingetreten ist, so mußte der Gott dieser Welt sein schärfster Widersacher werden; denn der Fremde entführte ihm ja seine Kinder und störte seine Vorsehung und Weltleitung. Von seinem Erscheinen ebenso überrascht wie das Judenvolk und die Menschheit, mußte er ihn mit allen Mitteln bekämpfen.

Obschon jeder von den beiden „deus“ und „pater“ ist und heißt (auch „der Fremde“, der das Unsichtbare geschaffen hat, besitzt seinen Himmel und seine Welt, die ihrer Substanz nach dem Auge und Ohr unzugänglich sind), ist doch der Kampf zwischen ihnen ein sehr ungleicher; denn „der Fremde“ ist, weil er das Größere geschaffen, auch „der Größere“ und der Schöpfergott ist der Geringere. Jener ist der deus superior (sublimior) und residiert in seinem dritten Himmel hoch über dem Weltschöpfer, von dem er durch eine infinite Distanz geschieden ist. „Der Fremde“ ist von all den Beschränkungen frei, welche der Weltschöpfer aufweist; er kannte den Weltschöpfer von Anfang an, und er brauchte keinen Stoff, um schaffen zu können; nur er ist wirklich „super omnia“; der Weltschöpfer ist „deus saeculi huius“, aber „der Fremde“ ist „deus, qui est super omnem principatum et initium (ἀρχή) et potestatem“ [1]. Also ist jener in extraneos voluntaria et libera effundatur, secundum quam inimicos quoque nostros et hoc nomine iam extraneos diligere iubeamur“. Iren. III, 11, 2: „Christus non in sua venit, sed in aliena“.

---

1 „Deus, qui est super omnem principatum et initium (ἀρχήν) et potestatem“ muß eine solenne Bezeichnung M.s für diesen Gott gewesen sein; denn Irenäus berichtet so (III, 7, 1), und nach Tertullian hat M. in Gal. 4, 26 die Worte eingeschoben: ἄλλη (scil. göttliche Veranstaltung) δὲ ὑπεράνω πάσης ἀρχῆς γεννῶσα καὶ δυνάμεως καὶ ἐξουσίας. Wahrscheinlich hat Iren. diesen Marcionitischen Text gekannt. — Aus der vollen Gottheit dieses Gottes ergibt sich auch, daß er „tranquillus“, nicht diesem gegenüber „in deminutione", d. h. es stehen sich keineswegs zwei gleiche Gottheiten gegenüber, sondern eine stärkere und eine schwächere („nomine magnitudinis et nomine benignitatis praelatior deus ignotus creatore", Tert. I, 8), und dieser schwächere Gott ist so sehr an seinen Himmel und an seine Erde gebunden, daß, wenn sie zergehen, auch er notwendig vergehen muß [1].

Der Tatbeweis seiner Schwäche aber ist, daß „der Fremde" ungehindert von seinem Himmel durch den des Weltschöpfers zur Erde niedersteigt und dem Weltschöpfer alsbald die Herrschaft streitig macht und ihm seine Kinder entzieht. „Den Teufel hat er besiegt und die Lehren des Weltschöpfers abgetan" (Adamant., Dial. I, 4); er ist der Stärkere, der den Starken überwindet (Tert. IV, 26); er gebietet auch den Elementen des Weltschöpfers, dem Meere und den Winden (IV, 20); er steigt selbst in die Unterwelt seines Gegners nieder und bringt seine Erlösung auch dorthin. Am Ende der Dinge wird sich seine Superiorität definitiv offenbaren, während sie zur Zeit noch gehemmt ist (s. den nächsten Abschnitt). In dem Glauben an Gott als den Fremden, als den Oberen und als den Erlöser empfand M. die Distanz und die hilfreiche Kraft der Gottheit zugleich — das trostvolle Wesen der neuen Religion; denn der Fremde ist zu uns gekommen, und er ist größer als die Welt mitsamt ihrem Gott und als unser Herz.

In der „Fremdheit", die zwischen der Gottheit, die es allein in Wahrheit ist, und der Welt besteht (also auch zwischen der Religion und allem menschlichen Sein und Tun), kombiniert mit der Gutheit, liegt die Eigenart der Religions- und Weltanschauung M.s. Ich weiß keine Belege dafür, daß vor ihm in der gesamten Religionsgeschichte irgend jemand etwas Ähnliches gelehrt hat [2].

---

affizierbar usw. ist, weshalb Gegner M. den stoischen Gottesbegriff zugeschrieben haben. Auch die „Geduld" dieses Gottes hat M. hervorgehoben und u. a. aus ihr erklärt, daß er den Weltschöpfer so lange habe walten lassen (Tert. IV, 38; Celsus bei Origenes, VI, 52). Dagegen wird es diesem als Schwäche vorgerückt, daß er den Teufel usw. habe bestehen lassen.

1 Die Belege für diese Ausführungen s. S. 274* f.

2 Wenn sich in den Ausführungen des Porphyrius gegen Joh. 12, 31 (Fragm. 72 S. 90 meiner Ausgabe) u. a. auch der Satz findet: τίς δὲ ἡ αἰτία τοῦ βληθῆναι τὸν ἄρχοντα ἔξω ὡς ξένον τοῦ κόσμου; καὶ πῶς ξένος ὢν ἦρξε; — so hat das mit dem Gedanken M.s nichts gemein.

5. Der Erlösergott als der gute Gott, seine Erscheinung in Jesus Christus und das Werk der Erlösung. Die Berufung des Apostels Paulus.

Der obere Gott ist seinem inneren Wesen nach gut („optimus et ultro bonus" Tert. IV, 36) und nichts anderes als gut, ja die Gutheit selbst (Tert. I, 2 „sola et pura benignitas", I, 26 „solitaria bonitas", I, 23 „principalis et perfecta bonitas", Orig., De princ. II, 5, 4: „proprium vocabulum patris Christi", I, 25 „sola bonitas negatis ceteris adpendicibus sensibus et adfectibus", „bonus et optimus" usw.); diese Gutheit aber, durch welche dieser Gott „die Seligkeit und das Unvergängliche" ist, „das weder sich noch irgend jemandem anderen Mühsal bereitet" [1] (Tert. I, 25), ist erbarmende Liebe. So ganz und gar ist dieser Gott aber nur Gutheit, d. h. Liebe (I, 24: „Deus tantummodo et perfecte bonus"; I, 6: „tantummodo bonus atque optimus"; Esnik S. 179: „der Guttäter"), daß keine anderen Eigenschaften von ihm ausgesagt werden sollen, bzw. daß die, welche er noch hat, mit der Liebe eine Einheit bilden: er ist „spiritus", aber „spiritus salutaris" (I, 19); er ist „tranquillus", „mitis", „placidus", er zürnt, richtet und verdammt schlechterdings nicht; er ist auch „iustus", aber die Gerechtigkeit ist bei ihm die Gerechtigkeit der Liebe; er ist „sapiens" usw., aber er ist das alles, weil er die Liebe ist, die als solche diese Eigenschaften einschließt [2]. Ebendeshalb kann es aber für diesen Gott kein anderes Werk geben als Selbstoffenbarung, und diese wiederum kann nichts anderes sein als Erlösung [3] (Tert. I, 19: „Deus noster, etsi non ab initio,

---

1 Hier sieht man deutlich, in welchem Sinne der Weltschöpfer πονηρός ist.

2 Die Eigenschaft der Weisheit des Erlösergottes muß M. gern betont haben; Irenäus und Chrysostomus bezeugen es, und in I Kor. 1, 18 hat M. σοφία eingeschoben; aber die Weisheit war ihm die Weisheit der Liebe, die den Zweck erreicht, den der törichte und wilde Eifer des Weltschöpfers verfehlt.

3 Man könnte annehmen, daß M. lediglich aus der Not (weil er für seinen Gott keine sichtbare Schöpfung nachzuweisen vermochte) eine Tugend gemacht hat, indem er lehrte, daß die Erlösung die einzig würdige Art der Offenbarung des wahren Gottes sei; aber man würde ihm mit dieser Erklärung unrecht tun. Er hat klar erkannt, daß physische Schöpfungen nicht Beweise der Gutheit und Liebe sein können, sondern daß etsi non per conditionem, sed per semetipsum revelatus est in Christo Jesu"; I, 17: „Sufficit unum hoc opus deo nostro, quod hominem liberavit summa et praecipua bonitate sua"; I, 14: „Hominem, hoc opus dei creatoris, ille deus melior adamavit, propter quem in haec paupertina elementa de tertio caelo descendere laboravit, cuius causa in hac cellula creatoris etiam crucifixus est"; Adamant. I, 3: Συνεπάθησεν ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἀλλοτρίοις ὡς ἁμαρτωλοῖς· οὔτε ὡς ἀγαθῶν οὔτε ὡς κακῶν ἐπεθύμησεν αὐτῶν, ἀλλὰ σπλαγχνισθεὶς ἠλέησεν). An dieser Erlösung eben erkennt man, daß er der „Vater der Barmherzigkeit und Gott alles Trostes" ist und genannt werden muß (Tert. V, 11).

Weil der gute Gott aber die Sünder erlösen wollte, so brachte er seine Erlösung der ganzen Menschheit; denn sie sind allzumal Sünder. Die Parteilichkeit für ein Volk kennt er nicht, sondern er bringt eine universale Erlösung. Er erkannte aber auch, daß es mit der Welt und ihrem Schöpfer das Gesetz ist, von welchem die Menschheit erlöst werden muß; weil es aber das Gesetz ist, so ist es auch der Gesetzgeber; denn beide fallen zusammen. Das Gesetz ist die Kraft der Sünde; das Gesetz hat den trostlosen Zustand der Menschheit verstärkt; das Gesetz ist eine furchtbare Last; das Gesetz hat die „Gerechten" knechtisch, furchtsam und zum wahrhaft Guten unfähig gemacht, also muß es aufgehoben werden mitsamt dem ganzen Buch, in welchem es steht [1]. Der gute Gott kam, um das Gesetz und die Propheten aufzulösen, nicht um sie zu erfüllen; er tut das durch das Evangelium, um die Seelen zu erlösen.

Wie aber das Gesetz der Gesetzgeber selbst ist, so ist das Evangelium Jesus Christus (V, 19: „M. segregat alii deo legem et alii deo Christum"). Wer ist dieser Jesus Christus? Marcion antwortet:

„Der Sohn des Vaters, Gott von Art, Ein Gast auf der Welt hier ward, diese sich nur in erlösendem, liebevollem Wirken auszusprechen vermögen. Paul von Samosata hat dasselbe erkannt, aber nicht dieselbe Konsequenz gezogen.

---

1 Tert. I, 19: „Separatio legis evangelii proprium et principale opus est Marcionis".

Er führt uns aus dem Jammertal
Und macht uns Erben in seinem Saal."

Wie der Weltschöpfer einen Sohn hat, den er demnächst auf die Erde schicken wird, so hat auch der gute Gott einen Sohn, der jenem Sohn zuvorgekommen ist; aber mit diesem „Sohn" hat es eine andere Bewandtnis als mit jenem. Jener heißt nur uneigentlich Sohn, denn er wird ein Mensch aus Davids Stamm sein, der mit dem Geist seines Gottes gesalbt werden wird; auch dieser heißt nur uneigentlich Sohn; aber er unterscheidet sich von seinem Vater nur durch den Namen; denn „in Christo deus per semetipsum revelatus est". Der Vater und der Sohn bilden ebenso eine Gleichung, wie der Sohn und das Evangelium.

M. war Modalist wie andere urchristliche Lehrer, aber wahrscheinlich bewußter wie sie; er legte Gewicht darauf (wie der Verf. des 4. Evangeliums), daß Christus sich selbst erweckt habe, und korrigierte das in die Texte (jedoch nicht konsequent) hinein. Als nachmals die modalistische Frage in der Kirche brennend wurde, stellten die Gegner des modalistischen Monarchianismus seinen sonst orthodoxen Vertretern die Marcioniten zur Seite, um jene dadurch zu diskreditieren (s. Beilage S. 391*.)[1].

Daß der Erlöser (Tert. I, 19: „spiritus salutaris"; Orig., Fragm. in Gal., T. V p. 266: „spiritalis natura") sich Christus nannte, wie der vom Weltschöpfer Verheißene, war für M. unstreitig eine Verlegenheit, die durch die Auskunft (Tert. III, 15), daß er nur unter diesem Namen bei den Juden Eingang finden konnte, schlecht verhüllt ist[2]. Um so wichtiger war es M., daß der Name Jesus im AT nicht geweissagt war (l. c.). Eine Ver-

---

1 Über den Jesus- und Christus-Namen s. S. 154*. Sein Modalismus veranlaßte M. und später seine Anhänger, an einigen Stellen „Gott den Vater" neben „Christus" wegzulassen (s. zu Gal. 1, 1 und den gefälschten Laod. Brief) oder Christus für Gott-Vater zu setzen (s. den gefälschten Laod. Brief). Der Modalismus M.s ist ihm übrigens nicht eigentümlich. Er ist derselbe, zu dem sich zahlreiche Montanisten und noch der römische Bischof Zephyrin bekannt haben.

2 Doch ist darauf hinzuweisen, daß Marcioniten noch im Anfang des 4. Jahrh. (Inschrift von Lebaba) den Namen Χρηστός schrieben und gewiß nicht übersehen haben, wie passend dieser Name für die persönliche Manifestation des guten Gottes ist.

legenheit für ihn war auch die Selbstbezeichnung Jesu als „der Menschensohn"; er mußte sie allegorisch verstehen (s. Megethius, Dial. I, 7 zu Luk. 6, 22) [1]. Daß er die Bezeichnung „ὁ ἐπερχόμενος" bevorzugt hat, ist begreiflich, wie er denn auch gern von der παρουσία (ἐπιδημία) des Erlösers gesprochen hat. Wie der gute Gott selbst, so hieß auch sein Christus bei den Marcioniten „der Fremde".

Ist der Erlöser nicht auch der Schöpfer und ist sein Erscheinen weder durch die Schöpfung noch durch die Geschichte noch durch Weissagungen [2] vorbereitet, so konnte er nur unerwartet und plötzlich erscheinen; ferner, ist „das Fleisch", weil aus der Materie stammend, grundschlecht, so konnte es der Erlöser, da er doch rein bleiben mußte, nicht annehmen und sich auch nicht der schmählichen Fortpflanzungsordnung unterwerfen [3]; endlich die unsichtbare Substanz des oberen Gottes vermag sich in dieser unserer Welt nicht zu manifestieren [4]. Hieraus folgt mit Notwendigkeit, daß die Geschichte Christi auf Erden erst mit seinem Auftreten als Erlöser anhebt, d. h. im 15. Jahr des Kaisers Tiberius, und daß er in einem Scheinleib erschienen ist [5].

---

1 Auch sonst sah sich M. an einigen wenigen Stellen des Evangeliums genötigt, sie allegorisch zu verstehen; so bemerkte er zum „Großen Abendmahl": „Caeleste convivium spiritalis saturitatis et iocunditatis" (IV, 31 zu Luk. 14, 16 ff.), und „hoc est corpus meum" deutete er in „figura corporis mei" um (IV, 40).

2 Man könnte wiederum vermuten, daß M. aus der Not eine Tugend gemacht habe (weil er Weissagungen — die nach der damaligen Auffassung den Wert autoritativer Zeugnisse besitzen — auf seinen Christus nicht nachzuweisen vermochte); aber man würde ihm auch hier unrecht tun. Nach der S. 285* mitgeteilten prägnanten Stelle bei Origenes unterliegt es keinem Zweifel, daß M. nur die Beweise des Geistes und der Kraft anerkannte und von autoritativen Zeugnissen nichts gehalten hat.

3 Auch die Kirche hat sie durch das Theologumenon von der Parthenogenesis zurückgestoßen, aber ursprünglich den Geburtsakt hingenommen, ihn jedoch später als natürlichen nicht mehr gelten lassen („perpetua virginitas Mariae").

4 Es scheint auch, daß M. oder seine Schüler bereits die Erwägung angestellt haben, daß der göttliche Erlöser nur durch eine „Konversion" hätte Mensch werden können; wer sich aber konvertiert, hört auf, das zu sein, was er war; da nun das Unendliche nicht aufhören kann, kann es auch nicht konvertibel sein.

5 „Non vere, sed visu sub specie quasi amplioris gloriae" (Orig. T. V „Doketismus“ bedeutete im antiken Zeitalter etwas anderes als heute, weil man die Konsequenzen nicht zog, die wir ziehen zu müssen glauben [1]. Verglichen mit den natürlichen Menschenleibern war der Leib Christi ein φάντασμα; aber wie die Engel, die zu Abraham kamen, nicht Gespenster waren, sondern als leibhaftige und wirkliche Menschen handelten und aßen [2], so war auch Christus kein Gespenst [3], sondern der Gott trat in menschlicher Erscheinung auf und setzte sich selbst in den Stand, wie ein Mensch zu empfinden, zu handeln und zu leiden, obgleich die Identität mit einem natürlich erzeugten Fleischesleib nur scheinbar war, da die Substanz des Fleisches fehlte. Es ist also durchaus unrichtig, zu meinen, nach M. habe Christus nur scheinbar gelitten, sei nur scheinbar gestorben usw. So urteilten die Gegner; er selbst aber bezog hier den Schein nur auf die Fleischessubstanz [4]. Natürlich nahm er nicht an, daß die Gottheit gelitten habe; aber daraus zu schließen, Leiden und Tod Christi seien ihm ein bloßes Schattenspiel gewesen, ist unrichtig. Zwar kann man es den Gegnern nicht verübeln, wenn sie mit Origenes in bezug auf M.s Lehre erklärten: Κατὰ φαντασίαν ἐδραματούργει ὁ Ἰησοῦς τὴν ἔνσαρκον αὐτοῦ παρουσίαν, ja es ist auch möglich, daß M. wörtlich gesagt hat: δοκήσει ὁ

---

p. 283 f.). Beweise für den Doketismus fand M. zahlreich in dem Evangelium; s. seine Bemerkung zu Luk. 4, 30 usw.

1 Der Doketismus war in jener Zeit auch ein Ausdruck dafür, daß Christus nicht Produkt seiner Zeit ist und daß das Geniale und Göttliche sich nicht aus der Natur heraus entwickelt.

2 S. Tert. III, 9; De carne 3; Ephraem, Ev. Conc. Expos. p. 255. Man sieht auch hier, daß das AT, trotz seiner Ungültigkeit, nach M. uns zur Lehre dienen soll. Wenn er oder seine Schüler sich außerdem gegenüber den Einwürfen der Katholiken auf den h. Geist mit dem Taubenleib berufen haben, obwohl sie selbst die ganze Taufgeschichte nicht anerkannten, so war dies eine argumentatio ad hominem.

3 Nach dem Evangelium, wie M. es las, sind es die Jünger, die ihn nach der Auferstehung für ein φάντασμα hielten; Jesus will das aber sogar als Auferstandener nicht sein.

4 Ebendeshalb traf ihn auch der Vorwurf der Gegner nicht, daß alles hier Täuschung und Betrug sei; vielmehr lediglich bei dem Irrtum mußte Christus („satis erat ei conscientia sua“, Tert., De carne 3) seine Gegner lassen, daß er eine Fleischessubstanz habe. Nach Hippol., Refut. X, 19 war Christus „der innere Mensch“; aber das ist nicht deutlich.

Χριστὸς πέπονθεν, allein dann bezog er δοκεῖν ausschließlich auf den als Fleischesleib vorgestellten Leib. Als biblischer Theologe hielt er sich an die Philipperstelle: ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπου γέγονεν. Sie war ihm die Grundstelle für die Lösung des hier vorliegenden Problems, und er lehrte deshalb, daß Christus in und an der menschlichen Gleichgestalt, in die er sich begeben hat, wirklich gelitten hat. Zum Heil der Menschen stieg er hernieder. Kann es eine größere Liebe und ein größeres Erbarmen geben als das, welches ihn vom Himmelszelt getrieben hat? Die verfehlte Schöpfung eines widerwärtigen Gottes, die jämmerliche Menschheit, und in ihr die Elendesten, will er aus purer Liebe retten! (s. die ergreifenden Worte De carne 4). Das, was nach Ursprung und Entwicklung dem Tode mit Recht verfallen war, weil es nichts Lebenswürdiges in sich hatte, will er zu ewigem Leben erlösen, und den Gott will er ins Unrecht setzen, der selbst da, wo er sein Recht verfolgt, alles verschlimmert und verdirbt.

In Reden und in Taten (nova documenta dei novi) erwies er alsbald das unerhört Neue, das er brachte (nova benignitas, nova et hospita dispositio, nova patientia, nova liberalitas, nova vita). Er predigt das Reich Gottes [1]; aber man soll auch wissen: „in evangelio est dei regnum Christus ipse" (Tert. IV, 33). Sich selbst brachte er also, bzw. seinen Vater, was dasselbe ist. In der neuen Gotteserkenntnis, die nur der Sohn mitteilt, ist alles beschlossen [2]. Auch die Form seiner Rede empfand M. als neu, „wenn er Gleichnisse entgegenwirft und Fragen widerlegt" (IV, 11. 19) [3]; M. besaß also Ohr und Sinn für die Genialität der

---

1 „Regnum dei Christus novum atque inauditum adnuntiavit" (Tert. IV, 24). Diese Botschaft braucht ebensowenig einen „Beweis", wie die ganze Erscheinung Christi; denn sie beweist sich durch ihren Inhalt und ihre Kraft selbst, wie auch die Worte und Taten Christi; s. vor allem Orig., Comm. II § 199 f. in Joh. (S. 285*).

2 Zum großen Bekenntnis Jesu (Luk. 10, 21 f.): „Ipsam magnitudinem sui deus absconderat. quam cum maxime per Christum revelabat, in destructionem rerum creatoris, uti traduceret eas" ... „‚Omnia mihi tradita', i. e. omnes nationes".

3 In der Parabelform sah M. die Jesu eigentümliche Redeweise. Damit muß man vergleichen, daß er ein scharfer Gegner der allegorischen Auslegungsmethode war. Ein in den Einzelzügen vollständiges Bild Christi nach M. vermögen wir deshalb nicht zu gewinnen, weil es an so vielen Stellen Reden Jesu und empfand den Kontrast ihrer Güte, Weisheit und Simplizität zu den peremptorischen, starren und kleinlichen Gesetzen des Weltschöpfers — die „novitas spiritus" (V, 1) leuchtete ihm auf. Aber obwohl nach M. Christus deutlich ausgesprochen hat, daß er gekommen sei, das Gesetz und die Propheten aufzulösen, und obwohl sich all sein Tun offenbar in dieser Richtung bewegte, so hat er nach M. doch nicht unzweideutig erklärt: „Ich verkündige einen neuen Gott", sondern hat die Konsequenz seinen Hörern überlassen. Mit Verwunderung hat dies Tertullian konstatiert (IV, 17), und es ist in der Tat verwunderlich. Aber das überlieferte Evangelium erlaubte nicht, Christo die offene Verkündigung zweier Götter zuzuschreiben. Die Zurückhaltung erklärte M. so, daß Christus auch hier seine Geduld und Langmut habe beweisen wollen; deshalb erlaubte er auch dem Aussätzigen, sich dem Priester zu zeigen (IV, 9), korrigierte die nicht, die seiner Wunder wegen den Weltschöpfer priesen (IV, 18) und ertrug die Mißverständnisse seiner Jünger, sogar das große des Petrus bei seinem Bekenntnis (IV, 21).

Vor allem sah M. in den Seligpreisungen die „proprietas" der Verkündigung Christi (IV, 14) und stellte sie als Magna charta der neuen Religion in den Vordergrund. In ihnen strömte für ihn die beseligende Liebe des Erlösergottes. Den Armen, Hungernden, Weinenden, Gehaßten, Geschmähten und Ausgestoßenen, also den Parias des gerechten Gottes [1], bringt Christus mit dem Evangelium die Seligkeit. „In den Gesetzen des Gerechten wird das Glück den Reichen gegeben und das Unglück den Armen, im Evangelium aber umgekehrt." Man muß dazu das Verbot der Sorge um Irdisches stellen [2], sowie weiter die zweifelhaft bleiben muß (s. S. 44 ff.), was er getilgt und was er stehen gelassen hat. Sehr wichtig ist es, zu wissen, daß er nicht nur die Taufe durch Johannes, die Versuchungsgeschichte, den Einzug in Jerusalem und die Tempelreinigung getilgt hat, sondern auch das Gleichnis vom verlornen Sohn; denn wie kann „der fremde Gott" der Vater sein, in dessen Haus der reuige Sohn zurückkehrt? Daß die trostreichen Sprüche von der Fürsorge Gottes für die Sperlinge und für die Haare auf dem Haupt fallen mußten, war schlechthin notwendig.

---

1 Den Zöllnern, s. seine Bemerkung zu Luk. 5, 27 ff.

2 S. M.s Bemerkung zu Luk. 12, 22 ff.: „Christus deprecator creatoris non vult de eiusmodi frivolis (Nahrung, Kleidung usw.) cogitari". Sehr förmlichen Antithesen, die M. in bezug auf das Verfahren des Schöpfers und Christi komponiert hat, um zu erkennen, wie ausschließlich er die Liebe, Güte, Geduld und Überweltlichkeit des neuen in Christus erschienenen Gottes erkannt sehen wollte: „In lege maledictio est, in fide vero benedictio" (Tert. V, 3). Dabei sah er auch in der Universalität das Neue: „Creator quidem fratribus dari iussit, Christus vero omnibus petentibus": „hoc est novum et diversum" (IV, 16), sowie in der Schrankenlosigkeit der Vergebung, die nie ermüden darf (IV, 35. 38). Über die Universalität aber und die unbeschränkte Vergebung noch hinaus ist die Feindesliebe die charakteristische Note des Marcionitischen Christentums, weil sie allein mit der Liebesgroßtat des Gottes korrespondiert, der die „extranei et inimici" erlöst, der noch dazu der Vater solcher zu werden begehrt, die der Auswurf der ihm fremden und armseligen Menschheit sind, der für seine Peiniger gebetet und seine Hände ausgestreckt hat — nicht um wie Moses viele zu töten, sondern viele zu retten.

Freilich — die „Gerechten" lassen sich nicht retten; denn sie sind ganz versunken in den Dienst des inferioren Gottes und in den Grundsatz „Auge um Auge, Zahn um Zahn"; wer diesem Grundsatz unbarmherzig folgt [1], der ist verhärtet und erlösungsunfähig.

Die Reden und Taten des Erlösers [2] waren aber auch von den deutlichsten Beweisen seiner Macht begleitet: er heilt Unmerkwürdig ist daher, daß er Luk. 12, 30 f. stehen gelassen hat (οἶδεν ὁ πατήρ, ὅτι χρήζετε τούτων· ζητεῖτε δὲ τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ ταῦτα [πάντα?] προστεθήσεται ὑμῖν). Wie mag M. die letzten Worte verstanden haben? Nach dem klaren Sinn, in welchem sie zu verstehen sind, gewiß nicht, und sicher würde man mit Unrecht aus ihnen folgern, daß M. eine spendende Vorsehung des guten Gottes in bezug auf irdische Dinge für seine Gläubigen angenommen habe.

---

1 M. hat die Lehre des Weltschöpfers, die von den Pharisäern vertreten wird, auch als Hypokrisie beurteilt, weil sie das wahre Gute nicht kennt und etwas anderes dafür hält; s. zu Luk. 12, 1 (Tert. IV, 28): „Fermentum, quod est hypocrisis i. e. praedicatio creatoris".

2 Da M. bei dem Unternehmen, den Lukastext seiner Theologie anzupassen, möglichst konservativ verfuhr und Streichungen augenscheinlich unterließ, wo sie nicht unumgänglich nötig erschienen, so mußte er an vielen Stellen höchst gezwungene, ja sophistische Auslegungen bieten, Jesus auf anderes antworten lassen, als was die Fragenden gefragt hatten, zählige, ohne einer Materie zu bedürfen, nur durch das Wort, ja selbst ohne Wort „tacita potestate et sola voluntate" (Tert. IV, 9. 15. 35); er gebietet Wind und Wellen [1], er kommt als der Stärkere über den Starken [2], ja er dringt selbst in die Unterwelt des Weltschöpfers ein und führt die, welche ihm folgen, heraus, nämlich Kain und seinesgleichen, die Sodomiten, die Ägypter und ihresgleichen und überhaupt alle Heiden, die in jeglicher Bosheit gewandelt sind, die aber ihm entgegenliefen, als er bei ihnen erschien.

Hier muß man stille halten; denn hier ist der Punkt, der nicht nur den Kirchenvätern als der Gipfel der blasphemischen Bosheit M.s erschien, sondern der auch uns heute noch anstößig ist, und doch ist nach den Prinzipien M.s alles in Ordnung.

---

die Antworten umdeuten oder abschwächen, Fremdes in die Erklärung einmischen, anstößige, angeblich geduldige AkkommodationenJesu annehmen, innerhalb einer und derselben Rede das Thema ändern, in ein und derselben Aussage verschiedene Subjekte annehmen und dergleichen; s. Beispiele zu Luk. 6, 23. 24 ff. 35; 7, 9; 9, 21; 10, 25; 11, 42 ff.; 12, 46; 17, 20 f.; 20, 27 ff.; 21, 25 ff.; 22, 70. Das Anstößigste ist, daß Jesus fort und fort das Dunkel darüber bestehen läßt, daß er der Sohn eines andern Gottes ist (s. o.; zur Erklärung ist auch das noch mangelnde Verständnis der Hörer von M. herbeigezogen worden). Auch beim Verhör habe er sich noch nicht als Sohn eines anderen Gottes bekannt, „ut pati posset" (Tert. IV, 41 zu Luk. 22, 61 f.) und nach M. bei Ephraem, Evang. Conc. Expos. p. 122 f. soll er sogar noch beim Abendmahl seinen Leib deshalb zum Essen dargeboten haben, „ut magnitudinem suam absconderet et opinionem eis inderet, se esse corporalem, quia eum nondum poterant intelligere". Ob das zuverlässig ist, ist ungewiß.

1 Zu Luk. 8, 25 bemerkte M. (Tert. IV, 20): „Iste qui ventis et mari imperat, novus dominator atque possessor est elementorum subacti iam et exclusi creatoris"; aber nur Proben seiner Übermacht hat Jesus auf Erden geben wollen; er läßt die Herrschaft des deus saeculi doch bestehen, solange das saeculum dauert; s. u. Vgl. die Ausführung zu Luk. 8, 27 ff. (der Dämonische): „Daemones ignoraverunt quod novi et ignoti dei virtus operetur in terris" (l. c.). Es ist sehr verständlich, daß Ephraem (Conc. Evang. Expos. p. 75) an der Stillung des Sturms Anstoß genommen hat; er sagt, M. hätte ihn nicht stehen lassen dürfen, da Christus hier „vis et imperium" habe anwenden müssen, die er als Sohn des guten Gottes doch nicht habe.

2 Zu Luk. 11, 22 (Tert. IV, 26): „Creator ab alio deo subactus". Aber auch das ist nur eine „Markierung"; der gute Gott handelt sogar mit dem Weltschöpfer nicht gewalttätig (s. u.).

Zunächst — daß Christus in die Unterwelt gehen und seine Erlösung dorthin bringen mußte, war ein selbstverständliches Stück allgemeiner urchristlicher Glaubensüberzeugung, das auch M. nicht beiseite lassen konnte. Darüber hat uns jüngst Carl Schmidt in seinem Werk „Gespräche Jesu mit seinen Jüngern nach der Auferstehung" (1919) aufs neue aufklärend und umfassend belehrt. Die Universalität der Erlösung hing davon ab, daß nicht nur die Zeitgenossen Jesu und der Apostel und die Nachgeborenen das Evangelium hören, sondern die ganze Menschheit von Adam an. Was heute in den Kirchen eine vertrocknete Reliquie ist, war damals nicht nur ein, sondern nahezu das Hauptstück der Verkündigung vom Erlöser [1]. In der Unterwelt befanden sich nach M. sowohl die Verworfenen als auch die Gerechten des Schöpfers, wenn auch in verschiedenen Abteilungen und in verschiedener Lage („Utraque merces creatoris sive tormenti sive refrigerii apud inferos est eis posita, qui legi et prophetis oboedierint" Tert. IV, 34). Indem aber M. seinen Christus in die Unterwelt bringen mußte, mußte es sich entscheiden, welcher von den beiden Gesichtspunkten für ihn der übergeordnete war, ob der Gesichtspunkt, nach welchem die Beobachtung der Moral „gut" ist gegenüber Sünde und Verbrechen (s. o. S. 109 f), oder der Gesichtspunkt, nach welchem diese Beobachtung, wenn sie als „das Gute" gilt, das schwerste Hemmnis ist, um sich von der barmherzigen Liebe finden und ergreifen zu lassen. Die Entscheidung konnte nicht zweifelhaft sein. Abel, Henoch, Abraham, Moses usw. konnten nicht gerettet werden; denn ihre Beobachtung der Moral stand im Dienste des Gottes, der mit seiner Norm „Auge um Auge" der schlimmste Gegner des guten Gottes ist. Ihm hatten sie sich ganz ergeben in Furcht und Zittern, Glaube und Mißtrauen. Ihr Mißtrauen, daß ihr Gott, der sie immer wieder durch Versuchungen gepeinigt hatte, ihnen hier aufs neue eine Falle lege, hebt M. bei Irenäus

---

1 Fast die ganze Menschheit war ja bereits in der Unterwelt; was auf Erden bis zum nahen Weltende noch übrig war, war ja nur noch ein ganz kleiner Rest. Also findet der in die Unterwelt niedersteigende Erlöser erst dort die Masse der Zuerlösenden. Vgl. Apoc. Esra II, 5 (S. 38 Violet): „Ich sagte, Herr, siehe, denen verheißt du es, die am Ende sind. Aber was sollen die machen, die vor uns waren?"

als Grund ihrer Ablehnung hervor; bei Epiphanius heißt es einfach, daß sie Christus nicht folgen wollten, weil sie aus dem Glauben an ihren Judengott nicht mehr heraus konnten. Somit mußten sie in der Unterwelt bleiben; die vom Weltschöpfer aber zur Strafe gefolterten groben Verbrecher und die gottlosen Heiden, die ja sämtlich nach dem grausamen Strafkodex des gerechten Gottes bereits Doppeltes und Dreifaches für ihre Sünde erhalten hatten, liefen sehnsüchtig herzu zu dem neuen Erlösergott. Seine barmherzige Liebe rief sie alle, und sie alle kamen, und er errettete sie alle, die gläubig in seine Arme stürzten, und führte sie heraus aus dem Ort der Qual in sein Reich der Seligen. Man kann nach dem Bericht des Irenäus nicht zweifeln, daß M. eine Apokatastasis schlechthin aller vorchristlichen Menschen gelehrt hat, die sich nicht dem Judengott im Leben ergeben hatten [1], wie blutrot auch ihre Sünden gewesen; nur die Patrjarchen, Moses, die Propheten und ihr Anhang blieben in ihrem trübseligen „Refrigerium" zurück. Welch ein übersteigerter Paulinismus, zugleich aber — welch eine vor keiner Konsequenz zurückschaudernde Überzeugung von der Allmacht und Allgewalt der barmherzigen Liebe und von der Inferiorität der Moral, die, wo sie allein herrscht, zur Todfeindin des Guten wird.

Kein Zweifel — nach M. hat Christus als der Superiore Macht und Gewalt genug, um alle Kinder des Weltschöpfers, d. h. die Menschheit, ihrem natürlichen Vater zu entreißen und an sich zu ziehen. Die Kirchenväter behaupten daher auch, nach Marcion habe Christus mit Gewalt das Eigentum des Schöpfers in Besitz genommen, und dieser Christus sei mithin ein Dieb und Räuber. Allein M. war weit davon entfernt, so zu lehren; denn was er bei Paulus über den Tod Christi las, mußte ihn veranlassen, den Vollzug der Erlösung an diesen anzuknüpfen, damit aber alle Gewalt auszuscheiden, deren Anwendung ja überhaupt dem guten Gott nicht ziemt.

Christus hat allerdings schon im Laufe seines Wirkens dem Weltschöpfer gezeigt, daß er der Stärkere sei, allein das waren sozusagen nur Proben, und er beabsichtigte nicht, mit Gewalt seinen Gegner zu überwinden und ihm seine Kinder zu entreißen. Man muß sich hier erinnern, was oben über δίκαιος und δικαιοσύνη ausgeführt worden ist: M. kennt eine Gerechtigkeit, die zur Gutheit gehört und die die wahre Gerechtigkeit ist, während die „Gerechtigkeit" des Weltschöpfers in Bosheit übergeht. Er respektiert auch, wie wir gesehen haben, das Gesetz, daß man nicht stehlen und rauben soll, als eine selbstverständliche Norm. Unter dieser Voraussetzung hat er sich einige Gedanken des Apostels Paulus über den Tod Christi nicht nur aneignen können, sondern er erfaßte insbesondere, und zwar mit Ausschließlichkeit und mit Pathos, den Gedanken, daß Christus die Menschen durch seinen Tod vom Weltschöpfer erkauft habe.

1 Über einen Einwurf, der hier aus den Quellen erhoben werden kann, s. u.

Ὁ θάνατος τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ σωτηρία ἀνθρώπων ἐγίνετο (Adamant. II, 9): das wurde M.s Grundbekenntnis und ebenso das seiner Schüler: „Wer auf den Gekreuzigten hofft, wird selig", sagt Apelles, und zwar war dieser Tod ein an den Weltschöpfer gezahlter Kaufpreis: M. hat nicht nur auf Gal. 3, 13 den Finger gelegt, sondern auch 2, 20 ἀγοράσαντος für ἀγαπήσαντος eingesetzt. Daß der Tod Kreuzestod war, war M. besonders willkommen; denn über diesen hatte der Weltschöpfer den Fluch ausgesprochen und ihn daher für seinen Christus nicht in Aussicht genommen (Tert. III, 18; V, 3; I, 11) — der deutlichste Beweis, daß der erschienene Christus nicht zum Weltschöpfer gehört. Ebenso willkommen war ihm aber auch die Vorstellung eines Kaufes; denn sein Eigentum kauft man nicht; also waren die Menschen dem guten Gott fremd, und er mußte sie erwerben (s. S. 288* f)[1]; zugleich aber zeigt sich in dieser Erwerbung der Fremden seine alle Vernunft übersteigende Liebe. Endlich erscheint das „Placidum" des Erlöser-Gottes in hellem

1 Der Einwurf der Gegner, daß der Weltschöpfer die Seele (oder das Blut) Christi nicht behalten hat, weil Christus auferstanden ist, und daß demnach der Kauf sofort illusorisch geworden ist, ist von M. unseres Wissens nicht berücksichtigt worden. Über die ausgeführte Lehre der Marcioniten bei Esnik s. dort. Ich kann sie nur für eine spätere Ausspinnung halten; denn sie geht über die biblische Grundlage, die M. nie verlassen hat, heraus, Tert. hätte sie sicher berücksichtigt, wenn er sie in M.s Antithesen gefunden hätte, und sie setzt voraus, daß die Macht des Weltschöpfers schon durch die Auferstehung Christi völlig gebrochen worden ist.

Licht; denn obgleich ihn der Weltschöpfer bzw. die irdischen Gewalten, die er kommandierte, in Unkenntnis, blinder Ungerechtigkeit und Eifersucht als Gesetzesübertreter ans Kreuz gebracht haben (Tert. V, 6; III, 23; Adamant. II, 9) und er also berechtigt gewesen wäre, sich den Leiden zu entziehen und sie niederzuschlagen, wählte er doch den gütlichen Weg. Ob hier bei M. noch eine tiefere Einsicht mitgesprochen hat auf Grund anderer Paulinischer Stellen, die in seinem Kanon standen, läßt sich nicht sicher sagen [1]; aber wahrscheinlich genügte ihm der unendliche Liebesbeweis, der in diesem Tode zum Zweck der Erkaufung liegt.

Welchen Umfang aber hat diese Erkaufung bzw. Erlösung, und ist sie bedingungslos oder unbedingt? Ferner, in welchem Zustand befinden sich die Erlösten in der Gegenwart? Endlich, wie steht es mit dem Endgericht und dem zukünftigen Zustand? Diese drei Fragen müssen noch beantwortet werden.

Daß der Erlöser nach M. die vorchristliche Menschheit, die in der Unterwelt schmachtete, in ihrer Totalität mit Ausnahme der Gerechten des Weltschöpfers erlöst hat, ist oben festgestellt worden (s. auch Tert. V. 11 „liberavit genus humanum"); allein auf Erden hat seine Erscheinung von Anfang an bis heute nicht denselben Erfolg. „Non omnes salvi fiunt, sed pauciores omnibus et Judaeis et Christianis creatoris" (Tert. I, 24; vgl. Iren. IV, 27, 4 ff. und Clemens Strom. III, 10, 69: Μετὰ μὲν τῶν πλειόνων ὁ δημιουργός ἐστιν, μετὰ δὲ τοῦ ἑνὸς τοῦ ἐκλεκτοῦ ὁ σωτήρ) [2]. Schon mit seinen Jüngern hatte Christus traurige Erfahrungen machen müssen, und zuletzt fielen sie wieder ganz in das alte Wesen zurück, hielten ihren Herrn und Meister doch wieder für den Sohn des Weltschöpfers oder gerieten in schlimme Halbheiten und leisteten den judaistischen Pseudoaposteln, welche der Weltschöpfer nun gegen das Evangelium aussandte, Vorschub

---

1 Auf die Vergebung der Sünden legte M. das größte Gewicht; s. seine Exegesen, so zu Luk. 5, 20 (Vergebung der Sünden beim Gichtbrüchigen): „Nova ista Christi benignitas".

2 Dieser unerträglich scheinende Widerspruch zwischen der geringen Anzahl der nachchristlichen Erlösten zu der Fülle der vorchristlichen erleichtert sich, wenn man auf den urchristlichen Standpunkt tritt. Nach diesem erschien Christus am Ende der Weltzeit, in der alles Schlimme auf seinem Höhepunkt ist; da können nur noch wenige gerettet werden.

(s. o. S. 35 ff. 256* ff). Die halbschlächtige Konvention mit Paulus in Jerusalem war das letzte Aufflackern besserer Erinnerung in ihnen; aber auch sie war keine Konvention der Gemeinschaft (M. strich κοινωνίας in Gal. 2, 9), sondern eine halt- und fruchtlose, weil nur scheinbar friedliche Auseinandersetzung. Der neue Apostel, den der Erlöser statt ihrer nun erweckte, Paulus, entsprach zwar seiner Aufgabe vollkommen, hatte aber einen furchtbar schweren Stand; denn er mußte nicht nur gegen Juden und Heiden kämpfen, sondern auch gegen die falschen judaistischen Christen, und das war der schwerste Kampf. Er konnte daher nur verhältnismäßig wenige gewinnen, zumal da sich auch die „verbosa eloquentia philosophiae" (διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας ὡς κενῆς ἀπάτης κατὰ τὴν παράδοσιν τῶν ἀνθρώπων, κατὰ τὰ στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου, so las M. Kol. 2, 8) ihm entgegenstellte. Er mußte erfahren, daß der Glaube nicht jedermanns Ding sei. Auf den Glauben aber an Christus kommt alles an; das hat M. von Paulus gelernt und wiederholt es in seinen „Antithesen" bzw. den Exegesen [1]. Unter diesem Gesichtspunkt erklärte er die Geschichten von der großen Sünderin, vom blutflüssigen Weib, von den zehn Aussätzigen (Tert. IV, 18. 20. 35) usw. Glauben aber heißt sich auf die unverdiente Liebe Gottes in Christo verlassen und deshalb das Gesetz, welches den Glauben hindert (M. bei Iren. IV, 2, 7: „Lex prohibet credere in filium dei"), verachten und durchkreuzen, wie es die Blutflüssige getan hat [2]. Weil man das ewige Leben allein der Liebe Gottes verdankt (Tert. IV, 25: „Ex dilectione dei consequuntur vitam aeternam Marcionitae"), so ist die einzige, aber auch notwendige Bedingung hier der Glaube. Er steht dem sklavischen Gehorsam und der Furcht gegenüber, die das Gesetz verlangt. Immer wieder hat M. eingeschärft, daß dem guten Gott im Gegensatz zum Weltschöpfer, der gefürchtet werden will, nichts entgegengebracht werden darf als Glaube und daß alle Furcht beseitigt ist („Deus bonus timendus non est," Tert. IV, 8). Κακοὺς τοὺς ἀνθρώπους

---

1 Christus hat also dem Weltschöpfer durch seinen Tod zwar die ganze Menschheit abgekauft, aber nur die erlöst er wirklich, die seinem Evangelium im Glauben folgen.

2 „Hanc vis mulieris fidem constituere, qua contempserat legem" (Tert. IV, 20).

ὄντας ῥυσάμενος ἐκ τοῦ πονηροῦ ὁ ἀγαθὸς μετέβαλε[1] διὰ τῆς πίστεως καὶ ἐποίησεν ἀγαθοὺς[2] τοὺς πιστεύοντας αὐτῷ (Megethius, Dial. II, 6) und Ὁ ἀγαθὸς τοὺς πιστεύοντας αὐτῷ σώζει (Markus, Dial. II, 1 f.)[2b]. Indem M. das Moment der Furcht aus dem Glauben völlig ausschied (Phil. 2, 12 hat gewiß nicht in M.s Bibel gestanden), entfernte er sich von Paulus, aber begegnete sich mit Johannes. Wenige nur lassen sich retten; die Geretteten aber sind ausschließlich die, welche glauben[3]. Auf die Frage Tertullians an Marcion aber, warum er nicht sündige, wenn sein Gott nicht zu fürchten sei und nicht strafe, liest man die wunderbar einfache Antwort: „Absit, absit"[4]. Das heißt doch nichts anderes, als daß M. keine Nötigung für die Gläubigen empfand, die „Moral" eigens noch zu begründen. Von der barmherzigen Liebe ergriffen und ihr sich im Glauben hingebend, ist

---

1 Μεταβολή kenne ich (aus der vorkatholischen Literatur) aus Justin, Apol. I, 66; dort heißt es, daß durch die h. Speise im Abendmahl unser Fleisch und Blut κατὰ μεταβολήν ernährt werden. Eine mystisch-sakramentale Veränderung unserer leiblichen Natur ist gemeint. M. dagegen denkt an eine innere Umwandlung durch den Glauben. Paulus spricht von der neuen Kreatur. M. hat ihn verstanden. Apol. II, 2 nennt Justin die (erhoffte) Bekehrung eines in Sünden lebenden Menschen μεταβολή. Das ist derselbe Sprachgebrauch, den M. befolgt.

2 Durch den Glauben werden die Sünder wirklich zu Guten transformiert.

2b Apelles hat die entscheidende Bedeutung des Glaubens festgehalten, s. bei Rhodon (Euseb., h. e. V, 13): Σωθήσεσθαι τοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν ἐσταυρωμένον ἠλπικότας. S. auch „τοῖς πιστεύουσιν", Hippol., Refut. VII, 38 Schluß.

3 Nach einer Marcionitischen Aussage bei Esnik (bei Schmid S. 144) waren und sind die Menschen dem erschienenen Christus Glaube (und Nachfolge) schuldig, weil Güte nicht zurückgewiesen werden darf: „M. schwatzt, daß es den Geschöpfen des Gerechten eine Schuldigkeit ist dem guten Fremden Verehrung zu erweisen wegen der Güte"). Ich zweifle nicht. Daß M. selbst so gelehrt hat.

4 Tert.s Kritik (I, 27) ist hier sehr peinlich: „Age itaque, qui deum non times quasi bonum, quid non in omnem libidinem ebullis, summum, quod sciam, fructum vitae omnibus, qui deum non timent? quid non frequentas tam sollemnes voluptates circi furentis et cavae saevientis et scaenae lascivientis? quid non et in persecutionibus statim oblata acerra animam negatione lucraris?" Vgl. Esnik (S. 379 *): „Ist es daher (weil der gute Gott keine Strafleiden verhängt) nicht klar, daß sich die Marcioniten vor den Qualen nicht fürchten und daß sie vor den Sünden nicht zurückscheuen?"

der Erlöste in eine Sphäre erhoben, an welche der Schmutz der Materie und die inferiore Legalität nicht heranreichen; er braucht daher keine Normen der Moral und keine Begründung für sie; es bleibt also dabei, daß der Glaube genügt, weil Gott durch den Glauben aus Schlechten Gute macht [1]. Jenes „absit, absit" ist ein religionsgeschichtliches Dokument ersten Ranges (s. u.) [2].

Zur Frage des Umfangs der Erlösung gehört auch die Frage, ob der ganze Mensch gerettet wird oder nur seine Seele. Nach dem, was M. über die Materie und das Fleisch gelehrt hat, konnte die Entscheidung ihm nicht zweifelhaft sein: nur die Seele wird gerettet; denn im Fleische, das ja nicht einmal Erzeugnis des Weltschöpfers ist, sondern der Materie angehört, steckt ja nichts wesentlich Menschliches, sondern es ist nur eine ekle Beimischung. Daher trifft der Einwurf der Gegner, nach M. werde der Mensch nur unvollkommen erlöst, M.s Auffassung nicht. Übrigens dachte er sich die durch den Tod hindurchgedrungenen Erlösten nicht substanzlos. „Deus tuus", sagt Tert. III, 9, „veram

---

1 Wenn Apelles der Bedingung des Glaubens hinzufügt: μόνον ἐὰν ἐν ἔργοις ἀγαθοῖς εὑρίσκωνται, so ist das nach M. entweder selbstverständlich oder — wenn es mehr sein soll — schwerlich in seinem Sinne.

2 v. Soden, W. Bauer und Grejdanus haben, wenn auch in verschiedener Weise, bestritten, daß M. ein tieferes oder überhaupt ein Schuldgefühl besessen habe, und haben daraus gefolgert, daß seine Frömmigkeit und Lehre im Grunde von der paulinischen ganz verschieden sei und tief unter ihr stehe. Eine gewisse Verschiedenheit leugne ich nicht; aber M. das Schuldgefühl abzusprechen, scheint mir eine seelsorgerische Ketzerspürerei zu sein und dem zu widersprechen, was wir von M.s Glaubensbegriff wissen. Ich habe in den „Neuen Studien zu M." (1923) ihre Annahmen, hoffe ich, widerlegt und glaube das dort Ausgeführte nicht wiederholen zu sollen. Die Christen dieses Zeitalters und der folgenden haben fast sämtlich die erste Hälfte des Bekenntnisses: „Herz, freu' dich, du sollst werden vom Elend dieser Erden und von der Sündenarbeit frei" stärker betont als die zweite; aber ihnen darum das Schuldgefühl abzusprechen, geht viel zu weit. Wendet man aber ein, daß M.s Schuldgefühl schon deshalb unterwertig sein müsse, weil sich die Schuld nicht auf den Gott, der da erlöst, bezieht, so übersieht man, (1) daß dieses Manko gedeckt wird durch das Gefühl eines unerschöpflichen Dankes an den, der uns zuerst geliebt und als Fremde in unbegreiflicher Barmherzigkeit zu seinen Kindern gemacht hat, (2) daß, wie gezeigt worden ist, Marcion den Sündenzustand, der sich als sittliche Verwahrlosung und Anarchie zeigt, für Sünde und Schuld gehalten hat.

quandoquidem substantiam angelorum hominibus pollicetur; ‚erunt enim', inquit, ‚sicut angeli' ".

In schneidendem Kontrast zur Erlösung, die der Gläubige im Glauben erlebt, steht seine tatsächliche Lage in der Gegenwart; denn, wie Tertullian bezeugt: „Marcion putat se liberatum esse de regno creatoris, de futuro, non de praesenti" (I, 24). Es ist also keineswegs so, daß das siegreiche Wirken des Erlösers in Krafttaten während seines Lebens auf Erden — sie waren nur Exempel — oder daß seine Auferstehung den Weltschöpfer bereits überwunden hat. Zwar hat er ihm die Menschen abgekauft, aber das ist ein, wenn auch absolut sicherer, Wechsel auf die Zukunft, weil, so lange dieses Säkulum besteht, auch noch die Herrschaft des deus huius saeculi [1] dauert. Daher bleiben die Armen, Hungernden, Geschmähten und Verfolgten nicht nur, was sie sind, sondern sie, die sich dem guten Gott im Glauben angeschlossen haben, erfahren größeres Leid als je zuvor. Die Heiden, Juden und die falschen Christen, dazu die weltliche Obrigkeit, angestachelt vom Gesetzgeber [2], verfolgen sie schonungslos; sie sind daher die Gemeinde „der Elenden und Gehaßten" in der Welt, und all ihr Trost liegt in ihrem Glauben und in der Zukunft. Schlechthin kein Strahl des Lichts fällt in der Gegenwart auf ihre äußere Lage; nur in dem e i n e n werden sie durch diese Lage bestärkt, nämlich in der Überzeugung, daß sie nicht mehr Kinder des Weltschöpfers sind, sondern dem „Fremden" gehören; denn der Weltschöpfer würde seine Kinder nicht also leiden und bluten lassen (Adamant., Dial. I, 21).

Wie aber gestaltet sich das Ende der Dinge? Hier mußte für M. eine große Schwierigkeit entstehen; denn wie er aufs bestimmteste erklärt hat, daß der gute Gott nicht gefürchtet wird, so hat er auch jede Gelegenheit, welche die h. Schrift bot, er-

---

1 Der gute Gott ist ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος ἐκείνου (Tert. IV, 38) und will nicht ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου sein.

2 Er, der nach dem Verkauf gerechterweise Ruhe halten sollte, ist jetzt doppelt eifersüchtig, und, die Glaubensbedingung seines Gegners kennend, sucht er auf alle Weise die Gläubigen zu verfolgen, zu quälen und vom Glauben abzubringen, um seine Kinder nicht dem guten Gott überlassen zu müssen. War er schon vor der Erscheinung Christi wild und grausam, so überschreiten jetzt seine Leidenschaften alles Maß, und seine „Gerechtigkeit" wird von ihnen überwältigt.

griffen, um zu bezeugen, daß der gute Gott überhaupt nicht richtet (Adamant., Dial. II, 1 f.: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς οὐ κατακρίνει τοὺς ἀπειθήσαντας αὐτῷ), und hat in der Regel gestrichen oder korrigiert, wo der überlieferte Text ihn als Richter erscheinen ließ. Wie aber soll es dann zu einer Scheidung kommen, wenn doch an eine ἀποκατάστασις πάντων nicht zu denken ist? Hier muß man darauf achten, wie M. den Begriff und die Worte „Richten, Richter, Gericht" in seiner Bibel behandelt hat, wo er sie nicht (wie Luk. 12, 58 u. a. a. St.) auf den Gesetzgeber beziehen konnte. In Luk. 11, 42 hat er κρίσιν in κλῆσιν verwandelt; in Röm. 11, 33 hat er κρίματα getilgt; aber nicht durchweg verfuhr er so. Tert. hat uns den wichtigen Satz M.s mitgeteilt (I, 27): „Deus melior iudicat plane malum nolendo et damnat prohibendo"[1]. In diesem Sinne konnte M. also Richten und Verdammen auch bei dem guten Gott anerkennen. Daher ließ er Röm. 2, 2 stehen: τὸ κρίμα τοῦ θεοῦ ἐστι κατὰ ἀλήθειαν, ferner Gal. 5, 10: ὁ ταράσσων ὑμᾶς βαστάσει τὸ κρίμα, und auch den gewichtigen Satz Röm. 2, 16 konservierte er: ἐν ἡμέρᾳ, ὅτι κρινεῖ ὁ θεὸς τὰ κρυπτὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων, κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου, διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, sowie den anderen II Thess. 2, 12: ἵνα κριθῶσι πάντες οἱ μὴ πιστεύσαντες τῇ ἀληθείᾳ. Auch die ernste Vorhaltung in bezug auf das Abendmahl: „Der isset sich das Gericht" (I Kor. 11, 29. cf. v. 34) behielt er bei und vermutlich auch v. 32 [2].

---

1 Die Stelle ist auch deshalb wichtig, weil sie in Analogie steht zu der Marcionitischen Dialektik der Begriffe „Gerechtigkeit", „Gesetz" („Gutheit" usw.) und sie gegenüber prinzipiellen Einwürfen bestätigt. Wie man auch vom guten Gott ein „iudicare" und „damnare" aussagen kann, so auch umgekehrt vom gerechten Gott und vom Gesetz ein „bonum".

2 Das „Wehe" Luk. 6, 24 ff. strich M. nicht, bemerkte aber: „Vae non tam maledictionis est quam admonitionis". Zu dem „Wehe" gegen die Pharisäer Luk. 11, 42 ff. bemerkte er: „Ad infuscandum creatorem Christus ingerebat ut saevum, erga quem delinquentes Vae habituri essent". In Luk. 12, 46 las M.: ἀποχωρίσει (für διχοτομήσει) αὐτὸν καὶ τὸ μέρος αὐτοῦ μετὰ τῶν ἀπίστων τεθήσεται, und bemerkte höchst gezwungen dazu: „tranquillitatis et mansuetudinis est segregare solummodo et partem eius cum infidelibus ponere". Luk. 17, 1 (Wider den, der Ärgernis gibt) erklärte er: „Alius ulciscatur scandalum discipulorum eius." Zu Luk. 12, 49 (Ich bin gekommen, ein Feuer anzuzünden) bemerkte er: „Figura est." Luk. 12, 58 f. bezog er natürlich auf den Weltschöpfer. Esnik (S. 379*): „Und

Aus der Konservierung von Röm. 2, 16 folgt, daß M. einen Gerichtstag des guten Gottes (Christi) am Ende der Dinge anerkannt hat, und das folgt auch aus der Beibehaltung des Richterstuhls Christi Röm. 14, 10 (II Kor. 5, 10) [1]. An dem Gerichtstage wird Christus nach diesem Spruch alle Menschen richten — damit erscheint am Ende der Zeit der gute Gott als der Herr aller —, aber er wird, wie wir eben gehört haben, prohibendo richten, d. h. durch die bloße Exklusive. Was wird der Erfolg für die Sünder — die Gotteskinder werden, in der Substanz von Engeln „vitam aeternam" und „spiritalem saturitatem et iocunditatem" genießen (IV, 31) [2] — sein? Auch hier hat uns Tert. (I, 28) eine kostbare Nachricht überliefert: „Interrogati Marcionitae: Quid fiet peccatori cuique die illo? respondent: ‚Abici illum quasi ab oculis' " ... „Exitus autem illi abiecto quis? ‚Ab igni', inquiunt, ‚creatoris deprehendetur.' "

Hiernach ist M.s Lehre deutlich: Christus (der gute Gott) straft auch beim Endgericht nicht; aber indem er die Sünder von seinem Angesicht entfernt (prohibendo, segregando, abiciendo), verfallen sie dem Feuer des Weltschöpfers. Da aber M. die Paulinische Lehre teilt, daß alle Menschen, wenn sie sich nicht von Christus erlösen lassen, Sünder sind und es nach der kritiwenn du fragst, ob der gute (Gott) über Qualen verfüge, so sagen die Marcioniten: sie bestehen nicht ... Sie sagen, sie sind aus diesem Grunde vor dem gerechten (Gott) geflohen, weil er in seinen Gesetzen furchtbare Drohungen androht, nämlich: ‚Das Feuer ist entfacht in meinem Zorn und wird brennen bis in die unterste Hölle' und ‚Alles dieses (die Strafen) wurde aufbewahrt in meinem Schatze' und anderswo: ‚Durch Feuer richtet Gott' ".

---

1 Da M. den Text der eschatologischen Abschnitte der Thessalonicherbriefe wahrscheinlich wesentlich unverändert gelassen hat, so muß er eine förmliche Wiederkunft Christi gelehrt haben; anders sein Schüler Apelles in Übereinstimmung mit Gnostikern; s. unten Kap. VIII, 3.

2 Nach Tert. V, 10 zu I Kor. 15, 44 lehrte M., daß die Seele bei der Auferstehung zu Geist werden wird, und zu I Kor. 15, 49, daß die Erlösten eine substantia caelestis haben werden. Ihr Leib steht überhaupt nicht wieder auf; dagegen sagte ein Marcionit zu Hieronymus (s. S. 394*): „Vae ei qui in hac carne et in his ossibus resurrexerit", d. h. die Nicht-Erlösten stehen mit Haut und Haaren wieder auf, um nun vom Höllenfeuer des Weltschöpfers ergriffen zu werden.

schen Erscheinung Christi Gerechte im Sinne des Weltschöpfers nicht mehr geben kann, so sind diese alle in gleicher Verdammnis. Wo aber bleiben die vorchristlichen Gerechten des Weltschöpfers, und wo bleibt der Weltschöpfer selbst, der hier am Schluß im Dienste des guten Gottes erscheint, weil ja auch er den Sündern die Verdammnis in seinem Gesetz angekündigt hat? [1] Die ältesten Quellen geben hier keine direkte Antwort; aber die vorchristlichen Gerechten befanden sich ja, wenn auch in einem leidlichen Zustande, so doch in der Unterwelt, und ewiges Leben kann der Weltschöpfer ihnen nicht geben und hat es ihnen auch niemals verheißen. Also wird man annehmen müssen, daß ihre Tage zu Ende gehen, wenn sie auch nicht durch das Höllenfeuer vernichtet werden wie die Sünder. Diese wie jene sterben also; denn da der Weltschöpfer nichts Ewiges besitzt, muß bei ihm alles auf den Tod in strengem Sinn hinauslaufen, und von einer ewigen Verdammnis kann nicht die Rede sein. Und er selbst? Da M. annahm, daß Himmel und Erde vergehen werde, da er ferner Welt und Weltschöpfer häufig identifizierte, und da er endlich I Kor. 15, 22 ff. beibehalten hat, so ist es sehr wahrscheinlich, daß nach seiner Lehre auch der Weltschöpfer am Ende dieses Säkulums verschwinden wird. Bestätigt wird dies durch Esniks ausdrückliches Zeugnis. Er schreibt (s. S. 378 *): „Ferner das andere Wort des Apostels, welches richtig gesprochen ist, untergraben sie: ‚Wenn er alle Herrschaften und Mächte zerstört haben wird, muß er herrschen, bis daß alle seine Feinde unter seine Füße gestellt sind' (I Kor. 15, 24 ff.). Und die Marcioniten sagen, daß der Herr der Welt sich selbst zerstört und seine Welt in Ewigkeit" [2]. M. nahm also an, daß auch dem Weltschöpfer Christus zum kritischen Zeichen geworden ist,

---

1 Man sieht auch hier wieder, daß doch ein gewisses Band den superioren und inferioren Gott verbindet (s. o. S. 107 f.), weil beide die Moral in Kraft erhalten, deren Gebote nach dem Urteil des superioren Gottes auch von denen übertreten worden sind, die der gerechte Gott für gerecht hält; aber eine Zusammengehörigkeit ergibt sich daraus nicht.

2 Wie sonst an manchen Stellen hat M. also auch hier das Subjekt wechseln lassen: in v. 24 soll der Zerstörer der Weltschöpfer, aber in v. 25 der Herrscher nicht er, sondern Christus sein. Diese Exegese ist entsetzlich, aber der Gedanke, der sie leitet, ist großartig.

bzw. werden wird: seit seiner Erscheinung vollzieht sich die Zersetzung der Welt. Der Weltschöpfer selbst zerstört sie, indem er alle seine Mächte und Herrschaften zerstört, um dann selbst mit ihnen zu zergehen und zu verschwinden. Durch Selbstvernichtung geht er mit der von ihm geschaffenen Welt zugrunde, so daß der gute Gott nun der einzige ist [1].

Wir haben hier vorgegriffen; aber das Übergangene ist schon oben Kap. III und IV dargelegt worden. Nach der Auferstehung des Erlösers, die das Weltdrama virtuell bereits zu Ende geführt hat, zeigte sich sofort der durch Nachsicht und Langmut herbeigeführte Mißerfolg der Auswahl der zwölf Jünger: sie fielen immer mehr in das alte Wesen zurück [2]. Jesus berief daher den Paulus durch eine besondere Offenbarung zum Apostel, und damit waren die Zwölf faktisch ihrer Würde entkleidet. In Paulus fand der Erlöser d e n Apostel [3], und er sollte fortab der einzige sein, beglaubigt lediglich durch Christus und in den

---

1 Am Ende offenbart sich also (was man bei der Inferiorität des Weltschöpfers immer schon vermuten mußte), daß er schließlich als dienendes Organ den Willen des guten Gottes vollzieht — denn auch dieser will ja nicht, daß die Sünder ewiges Leben haben — und daß er trotz des Namens „Gott" kein wirklicher Gott ist; denn ein wirklicher Gott stirbt nicht. Was ist er denn? Der Weltgeist, die Welt! — Von hier aus ist vielleicht die Behauptung Hippolyts (c. Noët. 11) zu verstehen, daß auch die Marcioniten, wie die anderen Häretiker, unfreiwillig zu der Anerkennung gezwungen seien, ὅτι πᾶν εἰς ἕνα ἀνατρέχει (und ὅτι εἷς αἴτιος τῶν πάντων).

2 Tert. I, 21: „Ecclesiae apostolici census a primordio corruptae sunt". Zwar haben die Zwölf am Anfang einen guten Ansatz gemacht (Tert. III, 22: „Cum huic negotio [der Mission] accingerentur apostoli renuntiaverunt presbyteris et archontis et sacerdotibus Iudaeorum; ‚an non vel maxime', inquit, ‚ut alterius dei praedicatores?'" .... „Quae dehinc passi sunt apostoli? ‚Omnem', inquis, ‚iniquitatem persecutionum, ab hominibus scilicet creatoris, ut adversarii eius, quem praedicabant.'" Woher weiß das M., wenn nicht aus der Apostelgeschichte?); aber sehr bald verdunkelte sich ihr Verständnis.

3 Die Berufung des Paulus muß von M. als eine Manifestation Christi aufgefaßt worden sein, welche der ersten Erscheinung und Wirksamkeit nahezu ebenbürtig sei; s. den Bericht des Esnik, dessen Bericht zwar nicht nach M. selbst gegeben ist, aber seine Stimmung und sein Haupturteil wiedergibt.

dritten Himmel erhoben, um unaussprechliche Worte zu hören [1]. Ihm übergab Jesus das schriftliche Evangelium [2], denn die mündliche apostolische Überlieferung wurde immer schlechter und transponierte den Erlöser ins Gesetzliche zurück. Das eine Evangelium duldet, wie der Apostel, keinen Rivalen neben sich; Paulus durfte es „Mein Evangelium" nennen; denn ihm war es gegeben, und er allein wurde auch autorisiert, es durch seine Briefe zu verdeutlichen und zu verteidigen. Diese Briefe samt dem Evangelium sind nach Christi Anordnung „die heilige Schrift", treten an die Stelle des ATs und begründen und nähren die Gemeinde der Gläubigen. Sie hat an diesen Urkunden die vollkommene Darstellung der Erscheinung und des Werkes des Erlösers — gleichsam eine Wiederholung in dauernder schriftlicher Gestalt. Das wahre Christentum ist daher objektiv biblische Theologie und nichts anderes.

Die Lehre des Paulus ist mit der Lehre Christi absolut identisch; daher ist auch die Evangelienschrift nach den Briefen zu erklären, und so ist M. selbst bei seinen Auslegungen verfahren. Wie er die Briefe aufgefaßt und zur Entfaltung der Lehre benutzt hat, nachdem er sie durchkorrigiert, darüber s. S. 45 ff. 256* ff. 306*. Auch die Prologe sind zu berücksichtigen (S. 127* ff.); die Auslegungen und die Prologe zeigen, daß M. nur für wenige Hauptpunkte in den Briefen einen Sinn hatte und das andere beiseite ließ oder es gewaltsam auf die Hauptpunkte bezog. Das Wichtigste ist von uns in die Darstellung der Verkündigung M.s verwebt worden.

Auch Paulus ist mit „der Wahrheit des Evangeliums" nicht durchgedrungen; aber dem Apostel, der im Himmel zur Rechten Christi steht, folgte der Reformator. Einen Giganten und Theomachen hat ihn Clemens, sein großer Gegner, genannt.

---

1 Nach Esnik behaupteten die Marcioniten (s. S. 377*), daß sie die unaussprechlichen Worte predigten; denn M. habe gesagt, daß er sie gehört habe; aber das stammt schwerlich von M. selbst.

2 Das „bis heute" II Kor. 3, 15 erklärte M. durch „bis auf Paulus, den Apostel des neuen Christus", der „die Decke" weggenommen habe. Durch Marcion wurde Paulus den katholischen Christen vollends unbequem, und unwillig hat ihn Tert. „apostolus Marcionis", „apostolus haereticorum" genannt.

Zur Linken Christi sah ihn seine Kirche stehen, wenn sie gen Himmel blickte.

VII. Die heilige Kirche der Erlösten und ihre Lebensordnung (Kultus, Organisation und Ethik).

Die Bedeutung der Kirche hat M. von Paulus gelernt; man darf ohne weiteres die originelle und große Konzeption des Apostels als von ihm anerkannt und wertgeschätzt ansehen. Der deutlichste Beweis hierfür ist, daß er Ephes. 5, 22—32 beibehalten hat. Diese Stelle mußte ihm an sich in hohem Grade unsympathisch, ja anstößig sein; denn sowohl das Verhältnis von Mann und Frau als auch das des Menschen zu seinem Fleisch mußten ihn anwidern. Trotzdem hat er die Ausführungen (nach einer Korrektur) nicht getilgt, weil er keine andere Stelle in den Paulinischen Briefen fand, die die enge Zusammengehörigkeit der Kirche mit Christus so deutlich machte: Christus das Haupt der Kirche; Christus die Kirche innig liebend und hegend [1]; der in der Kirche Stehende verläßt Vater und Mutter und wächst mit Christus zu einer Einheit zusammen. Wie M. über die Kirche dachte, geht noch aus einer zweiten Stelle hervor; Gal. 4, 26 hat er (oder ein Schüler?) durch Änderung und Zusatz so gefaßt, daß er gegenüber der Veranstaltung des Weltschöpfers, die auf die Synagoge abzweckt, die überschwenglich große Veranstaltung des guten Gottes εἰς ἣν ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁ γ ί α ν ἐ κ κ λ η σ ί α ν, ἥτις ἐστὶν μήτηρ ἡμῶν, abzwecken läßt. Die Kirche ist also die durch das Erlösungswerk hervorgebrachte Schöpfung Gottes, sie ist heilig (gewiß im Sinne des Paulus), und sie ist die Mutter der Erlösten. Widerwillig haben auch die Gegner anerkannt, daß M. „Kirchen" hat und nicht nur Schulen oder formlose Gemeinschaften [2].

---

1 Nach Ephraem nannten die Marcioniten die Kirche die Braut Christi.

2 Tert. IV, 5: „Habet plane et evangelium Marcionis ecclesias, sed suas, tam posteras quam adulteras, quarum si censum requiras, facilius apostaticum invenias quam apostolicum, Marcione scilicet conditore vel aliquo de Marcionis examine. faciunt favos et vespae, faciunt ecclesias et Marcionitae".

In dieser Kirche wurde getauft und das Abendmahl gehalten wie bei den anderen Christen. Der Taufritus war auch kein anderer; sonst hätte die Marcionitische Taufe in Rom nicht als gültig angesehen werden können (vgl. Cypr., ep. 73, 4; 74, 7; übrigens bestätigt die Gleichartigkeit des Vollzugs ausdrücklich Augustin, De bapt. c. Donat. III, 15)[1]. Auch das Abendmahl vollzog sich in der überlieferten Weise, jedoch mit Wasser neben dem Brot; aber das findet sich auch sonst häufiger in jener Zeit[2]. Auch andere Ritualien fehlten nicht; s. Tert. I, 14: „Ille quidem (der Christus M.s) usque nunc nec aquam reprobavit creatoris, qua suos abluit[3], nec oleum, quo suos unguit[4], nec mellis et lactis societatem, qua suos infantat, nec panem, quo ipsum corpus suum repraesentat, etiam in sacramentis propriis egens mendicitatibus creatoris"[5]. Dazu I, 23: „Non putem impudentiorem quam qui in aliena aqua alii deo tingitur, ad alienum caelum alii deo expanditur, in aliena terra alii deo

---

1 Über die Taufe Verstorbener und über die Wiederholung der Taufe s. im nächsten Kapitel.

2 Vgl. meine Abhandlung über Brot und Wasser beim Abendmahl in den „Texten u. Untersuch." Bd. VII, H. 2 (1891). Der Ersatz des Weins durch Wasser wird für M. von Epiphanius und Timotheus ausdrücklich bezeugt, s. S. 365*, 381*. Die Worte zum biblischen Text („hoc est corpus meum"): „id est figura corporis mei" (Tert. IV, 40), die oft als Tertullianische angeführt werden, gehören M. an; denn Tert. fährt fort: „figura autem non fuisset, nisi veritatis esset corpus; ceterum vacua res, quod est phantasma, figuram capere non posset". M. hat also das Einsetzungswort figürlich verstanden. Die weiteren Worte aber: „aut si propterea panem corpus sibi finxit quia corporis carebat veritate, ergo panem debuit tradere pro nobis" richten sich schwerlich gegen eine Behauptung M.s. Sehr beachtenswert ist, daß M. im Vater-Unser τὸν ἄρτον ἡμῶν in τὸν ἄρτον σου verwandelt hat. Also wollte er die Bitte auf das Brot im Abendmahl bezogen wissen (ebenso viele Kirchenväter nach ihm ohne Textänderung); denn die Bitte um die Leibesnahrung erschien ihm als „frivola".

3 Vgl. I, 24: „Et caro tingitur apud Marcionem". I, 28: „Cui rei baptisma quoque apud Marcionem exigitur?"

4 Bousset, Hauptprobleme der Gnosis S. 297, bemerkt lediglich auf Grund dieser Worte: „Eine Öltaufe kennen die Marcioniten"; allein dann kennen auch die Katholiken eine „Öltaufe".

5 Man beachte, daß „Wein" fehlt.

sternitur[1], super alienum panem alii deo gratiarum actionibus fungitur, de alienis bonis ob alium deum nomine eleemosynae et dilectionis operatur". Generell heißt es III, 22: „Gloriae relatio et benedictio et laus et hymni et signaculum frontium et ecclesiarum sacramenta et munditiae sacrificiorum in te (scil. in deinen Kirchen) quoque deprehenduntur". Hiernach können sich die Marcionitischen Gottesdienste und h. Handlungen nicht wesentlich von denen der großen Kirche unterschieden haben[2]. „Korinthisch" kann es in ihnen nicht zugegangen sein; denn wenn auch Marcion behauptet haben mag, das Zungenreden sei eine dem neuen Gott eigentümliche charismatische Form (zu I Kor. 12, 10 bei Tert. V, 8; ganz sicher ist das nicht), so beweisen doch mehrere Stellen bei Tert., daß von enthusiastischen Vorgängen in den Gottesdiensten M.s und sonst in seinen Gemeinden nichts bekannt war. L. c. schreibt Tert: „Exhibeat M. dei sui dona, aliquos prophetas . . . edat aliquem psalmum, aliquam visionem, aliquam orationem, dumtaxat spiritalem, in ecstasi . . . probet etiam mihi mulierem apud se prophetasse" etc., und V, 15 zu I Thess. 5, 19 f: „Incumbit Marcioni exhibere hodie apud ecclesiam suam exinde spiritum dei sui qui non sit extinguendus, et prophetias quae non sint nihil habendae. et si exhibuit quod putat, sciat nos quodcunque illud ad formam spiritalis et propheticae gratiae atque virtutis provocaturos, . . . cum nihil tale protulerit et probarit, nos proferemus et spiritum et prophetias creatoris secundum ipsum praedicantes". Die Marcionitischen Gemeinden waren also, den Enthusiasmus anlangend, keine Rivalinnen der Montanistischen, und schon M. selbst lebte nicht mehr in der urchristlichen enthusiastischen Stimmung. Sehr

---

1 Lob- und Bußgebete sind gemeint. Sündenbekenntnis bei den Marcioniten nach Aphraates III, 6.

2 M.s Textfassung von Gal. 4, 26: εἰς ἣν ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁγίαν ἐκκλησίαν, macht es gewiß, daß auch er bei der Taufe ein verpflichtendes Bekenntnis ablegen ließ und daß in ihm die Kirche erwähnt war. Das ist für die Geschichte des apostolischen Symbols von Wichtigkeit. Doch folgt daraus nicht, daß er auch hier der großen Kirche in Rom vorangegangen ist (s. S. 316* über das Apostolische Symbol und M. und vgl. unten die Mitteilungen zu Apelles). Nach Esnik (S. 379*) wurden die Marcioniten „von der Taufe an verlobt zur Enthaltung vom Fleischessen und von der Ehe". Es wurde also ein Gelübde abgelegt.

zu bedauern ist es, daß uns keine Gebete M.s erhalten sind; erst dann würde das Bild seiner Frömmigkeit vollständig sein, wenn wir solche besäßen; sie müssen ganz eigenartig gewesen sein, da Hauptstücke der allgemeinen christlichen Gebete ihnen gefehlt haben, der Lobpreis des Schöpfers, der Dank für seine Gaben und die Zuversicht zu seiner Vorsehung und Weltleitung.

Was die Organisation der Gemeinden betrifft, so fand M. in den paulinischen Briefen „Bischöfe" und „Diakonen" und in der Überlieferung „Presbyter". Diese Ämter sind in den Marcionitischen Gemeinden rezipiert worden und damit auch der Unterschied von Klerus und Laien [1], zu welchem der andere Unterschied zwischen Getauften und Katechumenen trat. Fehlen uns auch Zeugnisse, daß M. selbst schon diese Organisation hat gelten lassen, bzw. eingeführt, so ist es doch sehr wahrscheinlich; denn die Zeugnisse für sie beginnen so frühe, als wir irgend erwarten können (s. das nächste Kapitel). Allein andrerseits scheinen alle Unterschiede, die hier wie in den großkirchlichen Gemeinden bestanden, in den Marcionitischen nicht so fest gewesen, bzw. freier behandelt worden zu sein als dort. Hierfür besitzen wir ein urkundliches Zeugnis aus M.s Antithesen (Auslegung von Gal. 6, 6: Κοινωνείτω ὁ κατηχούμενος τὸν λόγον τῷ κατηχοῦντι ἐν πᾶσιν ἀγαθοῖς) bei Origenes (in dem Plagiat des Hieronymus): „M. hunc locum ita interpretatus est, ut putaret fideles et catechumenos simul orare debere et magistrum communicare in oratione discipulis, illo vel maxime elatus, quod sequatur ‚in omnibus bonis' ". Diese Mitteilung trifft zusammen mit der Bemerkung Tert.s de praescr. 41 in seiner allgemeinen Schilderung der „conversatio haeretica": „Imprimis quis catechumenus, quis fidelis incertum est; pariter adeunt, pariter audiunt, pariter orant, etiam ethnici, si supervenerint; sanctum canibus et porcis margaritas, licet non veras, iactabunt. simplicitatem volunt esse prostrationem disciplinae, cuius penes nos curam lenocinium vocant". M. strebte also nach Einfachheit in den Ordnungen, verwarf im Gottesdienst jede Geheimnistuerei (d. h.

1 Beispiele für „Bischöfe" usw. in den Marcionitischen Kirchen s. im nächsten Kapitel.

die Anfänge der Arkandisziplin)[1] und richtete sich gegen hierarchisches Kastenwesen und heilige Weltlichkeit. Ist es nun gewiß, daß die eben angeführten Sätze Tert.s sich auf die Marcioniten beziehen, so kann man schwerlich zweifeln, daß sein weiterer, zwar wohl übertriebener, aber nicht erfundener Bericht ebenfalls auf sie geht, zumal da dieser Bericht wirkliche Gemeinden voraussetzt und nicht Schulen wie die Valentinianischen (l. c.): „Ordinationes eorum temerariae, leves, inconstantes, nunc neophytos collocant, nunc saeculo obstrictos, nunc apostatas nostros .... itaque alius hodie episcopus, cras alius; hodie diaconus, qui cras lector, hodie presbyter, qui cras laicus; nam et laicis sacerdotalia munera iniungunt"[2]. Sicher würde man irren, wenn man diese Schilderung wörtlich nimmt; aber zuverlässig wird sein, daß die Funktionen der einzelnen Stände und Ämter nicht scharf geschieden waren, daß M. von jener Amtsgnade nichts wissen wollte, die in verschiedener Art und Stärke jedem einzelnen Amte angeblich anhaftet, und daß gegebenenfalls auch Laien vorübergehend geistliche Funktionen in den Gemeinden übernehmen konnten. Was sonst noch aus der Schilderung Tert.s auf die Marcioniten geht, ist nicht leicht zu ermitteln — wahrscheinlich die Bemerkung: „Ipsae mulieres haereticae quam procaces! quae audeant docere, contendere, exorcismos agere, curationes repromittere, forsitan et tingere"; denn Epiphanius (Haer. 42, 3. 4) berichtet, daß in der Marcionitischen Kirche die Frauen taufen dürfen. Da die Geschlechtlichkeit bei den Erlösten keine Rolle mehr spielen durfte (s. u.), so kann man sich nur wundern, daß M. nicht auch alle Ämter und Funktionen den Frauen zugänglich gemacht hat. Welche Bewandtnis es mit einer dunklen Andeutung Tert.s („sanctiores feminae" M.s) hat, wissen wir nicht, wie uns ja auch die abgerissene Nachricht, M. habe eine Frau als Wegbereiterin nach Rom vorangeschickt (Hieron., ep. 131), dunkel ist.

Nicht auf M. allein, sondern auf alle Häretiker bezieht sich die gewiß berechtigte Klage Tert.s (l. c. 42), sie gewönnen ihren

---

1 Auch Epiphanius (haer. 42, 3. 4) berichtet, daß bei den Marcioniten die Mysterien unter den Augen der Katechumenen vollzogen werden.

2 S. auch c. 42: „Nec suis praesidibus reverentiam noverunt".

Anhang nicht aus der Heidenbekehrung. sondern aus der Christenverführung.

Ohne Bedenken wäre die Charakteristik Tert.s (l. c. 43), die Häretiker verkehrten besonders häufig „cum magis, circulatoribus, astrologis, philosophis, curiositati scilicet deditis" ganz von den Marcioniten abzuwälzen, führe er nicht fort: „Negant deum timendum; itaque libera sunt illis omnia et soluta", und behauptete er nicht (I, 18): „Et mathematici plurimum Marcionitae, nec hoc erubescentes, de ipsis etiam stellis vivere creatoris". Man wird daher annehmen müssen, daß sich wirklich einige Marcioniten mit der astronomischen (also wohl auch mit der astrologischen) Wissenschaft beschäftigt haben, und daß sie Tert. deshalb leichtfertig mit den weltförmigen Häretikern zusammengeworfen hat. Daß M. von der Philosophie als einem „leeren Betrug" nichts wissen wollte, ist bekannt, und ein Freund der Astrologie war er gewiß nicht.

Auch die Ethik M.s legt hier Protest ein; denn eine weltflüchtigere und schwerere Lebensordnung und -führung hat keine christliche Gemeinschaft vorgeschrieben als die Marcionitische. M. verbot seinen Gläubigen die Ehe [1] und jeglichen Geschlechtsverkehr ganz und taufte daher nur solche Katechumenen und ließ nur solche zum Abendmahl zu, die das Gelübde der Ehelosigkeit leisteten, bzw. solche Eheleute, die eine vollständige Trennung fortan gelobten [2]. Er stellte also Leben und Wachstum seiner Gemeinden ausschließlich auf die Gewinnung neuer Mitglieder; denn die Gläubigen durften sich nicht fort-

---

1 War die Ehe einmal geschlossen, so respektierte sie M. und hat das Gebot Christi, ihre Unauflöslichkeit betreffend, respektiert; das Verbot des Ehebruchs des Weltschöpfers hat er gelten lassen wie die anderen Hauptstücke der Moral (s. o. S. 111); es blieb ja auch für die Marcionitischen Katechumenen von Wichtigkeit.

2 S. die Zeugnisse oben S. 277*; vor allem Tert. 1, 29: „Non tingitur apud illum caro, nisi virgo, nisi vidua, caelebs, nisi divortio baptisma mercata . . . sine dubio ex damnatione coniugis institutio ista constabit . . . coniugium accusatur spurcitiae nomine ad destructionem creatoris". IV, 34: „Quomodo tu nuptias dirimis nec coniungens marem et feminam nec alibi coniunctos ad sacramentum baptismatis et eucharistiae admittens nisi inter se coniuraverint adversus fructum nuptiarum?"

pflanzen[1]. Die Ehe ist nicht nur eine schmutzige Schändlichkeit (πορνεία), sondern gebiert auch den Tod (φθορά)[2].

Das Motiv dieser Vorschrift war zunächst das übliche, die Befreiung vom sündigen Fleisch; aber nicht nur trat diese Forderung hier mit einer sonst unerhörten Kräftigkeit des Ekels auf (s. S. 273*. 103 f.), sondern es kam noch ein zweites Motiv dazu: man soll den Bereich des Weltschöpfers nicht vergrößern helfen, sondern man soll ihn einschränken, soweit es in Menschenmöglichkeit liegt; man soll diesen üblen Gott ärgern, ihn reizen, ihm trotzen und ihm dadurch zeigen, daß man nicht mehr in seinem Dienste steht, sondern einem andern Herrn gehört[3]. Der entschlossene Verzicht auf die Geschlechtlichkeit ist also bei M. nicht nur ein Protest gegen die Materie und das Fleisch[4], sondern auch ein Protest gegen den Gott der Welt und des Gesetzes. Er bezeichnet den gewollten Abfall und Austritt.

Aber nicht nur durch die vollkommene geschlechtliche Enthaltung soll man dem Schöpfer trotzen, sondern ebenso durch die strengste Enthaltung in Speise und Trank und durch die Bereitwilligkeit zum Martyrium. „Escarum usum quasi inhonestum criminant"; daher waren nicht nur Fleisch und wahrscheinlich auch Wein[5] verboten (Fische erlaubt, s. Tert. I, 14;

---

1 Freilich wissen wir nicht, wie groß die Zahl der Katechumenen im Verhältnis zu den Gläubigen in den Marcionitischen Gemeinden gewesen ist; man darf vermuten, daß sie stets sehr groß war. Sie durften heiraten, bzw. in der Ehe leben; aber „viderint catechumeni" sagt Tert. V, 7 im Sinne Marcions.

2 Die Ehe als φθορά Iren. I, 28, 1: φθορὰ καὶ πορνεία, Hippol., Refut. X, 19) ist der stärkste Ausdruck der Verachtung für die sich fortzeugende Menschheit, die ohne die Erlösung überhaupt kein Existenzrecht hat.

3 Die Zeugnisse für dieses Motiv S. 277*.

4 Wo M. es irgend vermochte, hat er in seinen Exegesen die Ermahnung zu vollkommener Keuschheit angebracht.

5 Die Marcioniten, welche Esnik (s. S. 379*) kannte, erlaubten den Weingenuß, worüber er sich wundert; im Fihrist heißt es S. 384*), daß die Marcioniten ihn vermeiden. Da sie das Abendmahl ohne Wein feierten, wird er auch wohl sonst in der Regel vermieden worden sein. — Von ununterbrochenem Fasten bei den Marcioniten spricht der Fihrist (a. a. O.).

Esnik)[1], daher wurde nicht nur eine besonders strenge Fastenordnung eingeführt, die sich auch zum Trotz des Gesetzgebers auf den Sabbat bezog (Epiph., Haer. 42, 3), sondern Essen und Trinken überhaupt sowie jede Berührung mit dem Geschaffenen sollten „ad destruenda et contemnenda et abominanda opera creatoris" auf das geringstmögliche Maß eingeschränkt werden — das ist die „plenior disciplinarum ratio", die M. zu befolgen vorschrieb, eine Entweltlichung und Entkörperung des Lebens bis zum Äußersten.

Die so leben, sind Übermenschen geworden; denn sie betrachten den Menschen in sich als Feind[2]; aber irdisch angesehen, stehen sie im äußersten Elend. Sie sollen sich als „Elende und Gehaßte", ja als „Auswurf" zusammenschließen[3] und — das Martyrium nicht fliehen, sondern es auf sich nehmen. Sicher ist es nicht zufällig, daß wir von der Zeit des Irenäus ab immer wieder von Marcionitischen Märtyrern hören[4]; sie müssen in besonders großer Zahl vorhanden gewesen sein, und den Gegnern war es augenscheinlich peinlich, daß sie das nicht übersehen und vertuschen konnten.

Nur von M.s Askese (Tert., De praescr. 30 höhnisch: „Marcion sanctissimus magister") berichten seine Gegner[5]; mit welcher Stärke er das positive Gebot der Liebe verkündet hat, sagen sie uns nicht; aber gewiß hat er es in seinen Gemeinden in Kraft gesetzt, wenn doch die Gottesliebe der Mittelpunkt seiner Frömmig-

---

1 Nach Esnik (s. S. 378*) beriefen sich die Marcioniten für die Erlaubnis, Fische zu essen, auf die Erzählung, daß Jesus nach der Auferstehung Fische gegessen habe.

2 Carmen Pseudotert. adv. Marc. V, 90: „Vetus homo, quem dicitis hostem".

3 M. redete die Seinigen als συνταλαίπωροι und συμμισούμενοι an IV, 9. 36); daß sie das seien, daran sollten sie ihre Jüngerschaft Christi erkennen: sie sollen sich das Elend und den Haß der Welt zuziehen.

4 S. Iren. IV, 33, 9; Tert. I, 24; I, 27. Clemens, Strom. IV, 4, 17; der Antimontanist bei Euseb., h. e. V, 16, 21; die Märtyrerakte des Pionius usw., vgl. auch das nächste Kapitel. Es ist wahrscheinlich, daß jene Häretiker, die sich nach Clemens Alex. (Strom. IV, 4, 17) wie die indischen Gymnosophisten in den Tod stürzen, um dem verhaßten Schöpfer zu entgehen, Marcioniten waren. Der Antimontanist sagt, daß sie von allen Häretikern die meisten Märtyrer haben.

5 Marcioniten-Cyniker bei Hippolyt, Refut. VII, 29.

keit war. Ein Zeugnis de silentio besitzen wir in bezug auf die von ihm geübte Feindesliebe: seine Gegner haben kein schmähendes Wort M.s gegen die Kirche, der er einst angehört hat und die er als falsch beurteilte, ihm aufzurücken vermocht, so scharf er den Weltschöpfer und die Pseudoapostel auch bekämpft hat.

Von Kommunismus in den Marcionitischen Gemeinden hören wir nichts; aber da die Seligpreisungen nach Tert. die „ordinariae sententiae" M.s waren, „per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit", und Esnik (s. S. 378*) bestätigt, daß M. den Finger darauf gelegt hat, daß nach M. der Weltschöpfer den Reichen Glück verheiße, Christus aber den Armen, so muß er den Reichtum noch ungünstiger beurteilt und in seinen Gemeinden behandelt haben, als dies in der großen Kirche geschah. Vielleicht ist auch das große Geldgeschenk, welches er der römischen Kirche schon vor dem Bruche darbrachte, von hier aus zu verstehen.

Marcions Organisation seiner Kirche ist durch diese Darlegungen noch nicht erschöpft, ja der entscheidende Punkt ist noch nicht getroffen. M. begann mit einer geschichtlichen Kritik aller christlichen Überlieferung; man darf sagen, er machte zunächst vollständig tabula rasa, indem er sowohl das AT als auch die gesamte vulgäre apostolische Tradition verwarf. Dann begann er einen neuen Bau aufzuführen und führte ihn wirklich, freilich mit den größten Gewaltsamkeiten, durch. Erstlich, er fand den Zustand unerträglich, daß die Christenheit als littera scripta nur ein Buch besaß, das ihr größter Apostel selbst als tötenden Buchstaben bezeichnet hatte, und neben ihm nur mündliche Traditionen und Bücher von noch ganz unsicherer Autorität; er schuf daher eine Urkunde von absoluter Autorität aus elf Schriften und gründete auf sie die Christenheit. Diese Urkunde ist als solche ganz und gar sein Werk; er ist der Schöpfer der christlichen heiligen Schrift. Zweitens, an die Stelle des AT setzte er ein kritisches Werk, welches den Gegensatz der neuen Urkunde und dieses Judenbuches zum Ausdruck brachte (die Antithesen) und neben jener „in summo instrumento" gehalten und von allen Gläubigen beherzigt werden sollte; im Schatten der Antithesen das AT noch zu lesen, verbot er nicht; denn es enthält wahre, also lehrreiche, freilich trübselige Geschichte. Bevor sich also die große Christenheit in Nachfolge Marcions das Neue Testament schuf und so zwei angeblich harmonische Testamente besaß, kannte die Marcionitische Kirche bereits zwei feindliche schriftliche Testamente. Drittens, eine formulierte Lehre hat M. seiner Kirche nicht gegeben — alle philosophische Dogmatik und alles Schulwesen waren ihm augenscheinlich verdächtig —, noch weniger hat er Propheten und Enthusiasten in ihr erweckt, deren Gedanken die Kirche leiten sollten, sondern er hat in den „Antithesen" lediglich durch Exegesen des Bibelworts den Inhalt der Urkunde zu verdeutlichen gesucht; die christliche Lehre soll nichts anderes sein als biblische Theologie, und er zweifelte nicht, daß diese in allen Hauptpunkten nur eine Auffassung zulasse und vor jedem Irrtum behüte. Viertens, durch den Glauben an den in Christus erschienenen fremden Gott als den Erlöser, durch den Abscheu gegen den Schöpfer, durch die Unterwerfung unter die neue Urkunde, durch eine einfache, aber bestimmte lokale Organisation und Gottesdienstesordnung und durch die strengste Lebensführung band er die Gläubigen aufs engste zusammen und konnte gewiß sein, daß diese Kräfte stark genug seien, um ihnen inmitten der allgemeinen Konfusion und Unsicherheit über das, was christlich ist, einen festen und einheitlichen Charakter aufzuprägen. In allem übrigen konnte er in seinen Gemeinden größere Freiheit walten lassen — in Lehrfragen, in den Verfassungsordnungen und im Kultus —, als die großkirchlichen Gemeinden zuließen.

Das ist die feste Grundlage der Organisation, die M. seiner Kirche gegeben hat; sie erweist ihn als einen wahrhaft genialen Organisator, der auch als solcher die große Christenheit durch seine Konzeptionen beeinflußt hat. Er brachte eine einheitliche, das Reich umspannende Kirche zustande durch sein persönliches Wirken und durch einfache Organisationsmittel; die Kirche der Bischöfe hat mehrere Menschenalter gebraucht, bis sie soweit kam — erst die Ausbildung des Synoden-Instituts hat sie das Ziel erreichen lassen; M. hat dieses Mittel, wie es scheint, nicht nötig gehabt.

VIII. Die Geschichte der Marcionitischen Kirche. Die theologischen Schulen in ihrer Mitte und die Sekte des Apelles.

1. Die äussere Geschichte [1].

Von der äußeren Geschichte der Marcionitischen Kirche wissen wir wenig. Die Angabe Justins, daß M. selbst seine Lehre bereits „in dem ganzen Menschengeschlecht" verbreitet habe, bestätigt sich durch die Zeugnisse, die wir in bezug auf die zweite Hälfte des zweiten Jahrhunderts für Asien, Lydien, Bithynien, Korinth, Kreta, Antiochien, Alexandrien, Rom, Lyon und Karthago besitzen. (Tert. V, 19: „Marcionis traditio haeretica totum implevit mundum"). Überall schrieb man hier gegen die entsetzliche teuflische Sekte, die schon im zweiten Jahrhundert ihre Lehre auch in der lateinischen Sprache verkündigte, und spätestens seit Anfang des dritten auch in der syrischen [2]. Celsus, der griechische Römer, der als erster gründliche Kenntnis des Christentums verrät, hat die Marcionitische Kirche ebenso studiert wie ihre Gegnerin, die katholische. In der Folgezeit trifft man jene überall an, wohin sich das Christentum verbreitete; die Aufzählung bei Epiphanius (haer. 42, 1: Marcioniten in Rom, Italien, Ägypten, Palästina, Arabien, Syrien, Cypern, Thebais, Persien und anderen Gegenden) ist daher unvollständig. Weit entfernt, sich sektenhaft gegen die große Kirche abzuschließen, haben die Marcioniten stets versucht, auf diese missionierend einzuwirken und die ganze Christenheit in sich aufzunehmen. In bezug auf keine andere häretische Gemeinschaft hören wir soviel von ihren persönlichen Berührungen mit Andersgläubigen. Wie M. selbst an Polykarp und die römischen Presbyter herangetreten ist, so sind persönliche Berührungen, bzw. Disputationen mit Rhodon in Rom, Tertullian, Origenes, Bardesanes, Adamantius, Ephraem, einem unbekannten Syrer, Hieronymus, Chrysostomus und Esnik überliefert oder zu erschließen.

---

1 Die Belege, soweit sie hier nicht mitgeteilt sind, findet man in der Beilage S. 314 ff*.

2 Es wäre ein Irrtum, wollte man aus Tert. III, 12 herauslesen, daß es auch Marcionitische Hebraei-Christiani gegeben hat.

Ihre Gemeindegottesdienste standen jedermann offen, auch den Heiden, und in den Städten und auf dem Lande sah man ihre Kirchengebäude. Origenes spricht schon von ihnen (Fragm. XIII in Jerem. p. 204); im Dorfe Lebaba bei Damaskus stand i. J. 318 eines, und der Bischof Cyrill von Jerusalem warnt die Gläubigen daß sie nicht, wenn sie in einer Stadt unbefangen nach der „Kirche" fragen, in eine Marcionitische geraten. In der Organisation und im Gottesdienst waren die Marcionitischen Gemeinschaften den katholischen so ähnlich, daß die Unkundigen leicht getäuscht werden konnten. Hier begegnet einem ein Marcionitischer Bischof, dort ein Presbyter[1]; von Jesus Christus und Paulus konnte nirgendwo mit größerer Devotion gesprochen und gepredigt werden als hier, und der Sonntagskultus scheint in den Gemeinden M.s nicht wesentlich anders verlaufen zu sein als in den großen Kirchen[2]. Dabei verbargen die Marcioniten aber nicht, wie manche Gnostiker, daß sie Marcioniten waren und heißen wollten. Zahlreiche Gegner haben ihnen vorgeworfen, daß sie sich nach ihrem menschlichen Stifter nennen, und machten ihnen das zum schweren Vorwurf; sie aber blieben dem Namen, den sie gleich anfangs angenommen hatten, treu und setzten ihn sogar auf ihre Kirchengebäude (s. die Inschrift von Lebaba S. 341* f.).

In dem Menschenalter zwischen 150 und 190 war die Gefahr, welche diese Kirche für die Christenheit bildete, am größten — in dieser Zeit war sie und sie allein wirklich Gegenkirche: aus der Fülle der Gegenschriften folgt diese Beobachtung, ferner aus der Art der Bekämpfung seitens Justins, und auch aus dem Werk des Celsus kann man es herauslesen. Jener rechnet Marcion zu den dämonischen neuen Religionsstiftern in christlicher Verbrämung; dieser spricht manchmal so, als gäbe es nur die zwei Kirchen, die „große" und die Marcionitische, und neben ihnen nur gnostisches Gestrüpp. Als dann

1 Der Marcionitische Bischof Asklepius in der Gegend von Cäsarea Pal. z. Z. des Kaisers Daza (Euseb., De mart. Pal. 10, 3), der Marcionitische Presbyter Metrodorus in Smyrna z. Z. des Decius (Mart. Pionii 21), der Marcionitische Presbyter Paulus in Lebaba im Hauran (Inschrift). Bischöfliche Sukzessionen bei den Marcioniten erwähnt Adamant. I, 8: Ἐξ ὅτου Μαρκίων ἐτελεύτησε, τοσούτων ἐπισκόπων, μᾶλλον δὲ ψευδεπισκόπων, παρ' ὑμῖν διαδοχαὶ γεγόνασιν.

2 S. S. 144 f. das Zeugnis Tertullians.

Irenäus, Clemens, Tertullian und Hippolyt zur Feder griffen, war die Situation für die Kirche zwar noch immer höchst gefährlich — Irenäus, der hauptsächlich gegen die Valentinianer schreiben will, schreibt vom II.—V. Buch in Wahrheit mehr gegen die Marcioniten, und Tertullians Werk gegen diese ist neben dem Apologeticus das Hauptwerk des eifrigen Polemikers —; allein die Gefahr, von den Marcioniten überrannt zu werden, die einst bestanden haben muß, war nicht mehr vorhanden. Dies beweist schon die Art, wie sie von und seit Irenäus in die Ketzerkataloge neben und zwischen den Gnostikern, Valentinianern, Ebioniten usw. eingeordnet wurden, während Justin alle Ketzer als Abkömmlinge von Simon Magus, Menander und Marcion beurteilt hat. Aber noch Origenes hat in Marcion den Hauptgegner der Kirche gesehen und sich mit allem Fleiß und ganzer Kraft in den Kampf gegen die „doctrina Marcionis" geworfen, die er scharf von der „longa fabulositas" des Basilides und den „traditiones" Valentins unterscheidet [1]. Er und die großen altkatholischen Theologen vor ihm haben neben den alten und den neugeschaffenen Autoritäten, die sie ins Feld führten, doch auch die geistigen Waffen geschmiedet, mit denen sie dem Marcionitismus begegneten. Die kirchliche Theologie, die sie ausbildeten und die heute noch die Lehrgrundlage der großen Konfessionen ist, ist in viel höherem Maße eine antimarcionitische als eine antivalentinianische oder antiebionitische. Man darf auch unbedenklich annehmen, daß diese Theologie einen großen Anteil an der Zurückdrängung der Marcionitischen Kirche gehabt hat [2].

---

1 Natürlich behandelt auch er die Kirche M.s wie eine „schola", um sie verächtlich zu machen (s. z. B. Comm. I, 18 in Rom., T. VI p. 55: „M. et omnes, qui de schola eius velut serpentium germina pullularunt"); hat doch Hippolyt sogar in der römischen Gemeinde unter dem Episkopat des Kallist nur eine „Schule" gesehen.

2 Die Quellen geben keine Antwort auf die Frage, worauf die Anziehungskraft des Marcionitismus hauptsächlich beruht hat; wir sind daher auf Vermutungen angewiesen: wahrscheinlich war es die Paradoxie der Kombination der Verkündigung des ausschließlich guten Gottes, Christus, mit der Verwerfung des AT, mit einer Askese, die zum Übermenschentum zu führen verhieß, und mit dem grimmen Abscheu vor der „Welt", über die man sich hocherhaben fühlte. — Über den Einfluß M.s auf die werdende katholische Kirche s. das nächste Kapitel.

Spätestens nach der Mitte des 3. Jahrhunderts setzte im Abendland der Rückgang der Bewegung ein. Zwar ist noch im Ketzertaufstreit augenscheinlich die Marcionitische Taufe die eigentlich umstrittene gewesen; allein die Haltung Cyprians läßt schließen, daß die Marcionitische Gefahr in Afrika längst nicht mehr so groß war wie zu Tertullians Zeit und wie vielleicht damals noch in Rom (vgl. Novatians Werk de trinitate; auch der römische Bischof Dionysius bezieht sich noch an hervorragender Stelle auf die Marcioniten). Dann dauerte es im Abendland nur noch hundert Jahre und der Marcionitismus hatte ausgespielt. In Afrika war nach dem Zeugnis des Optatus selbst der Name vergessen, und selbst in Rom gab es nach dem Zeugnis Ambrosiasters nur noch kümmerliche Reste von ihm [1]. Was sich nach dem J. 400 noch gegen ihn rührt, kennt ihn entweder nur literarisch — man kam ja gerne bei der Bekämpfung neuer Häresien (Manichäer, Priscillianer usw.) auf die alten zurück — oder sah sich durch ein singuläres Aufflackern der alten Sekte zu einer Bekämpfung veranlaßt (Pseudotertullians Carmen adv. Marc. ?) [2]. Die Reste des Marcionitismus hat im Abendland sicher der Manichäismus aufgenommen, nachdem er ihn ausgesogen hatte, und auch die kurzlebige Bewegung des Patricius in Rom, eine Art von Neu-Marcionitismus, mag zu seinem Verschwinden beigetragen haben [3].

Aber im Orient, von wo er ausgezogen ist und wohin er trotz seines Agnostizismus gehört, hat der Marcionitismus noch eine lange Geschichte gehabt. Gedrückt und demütig, wie der

---

1 Man darf sich durch Hieronymus' Polemik nicht täuschen lassen; er schreibt die ältere Polemik ab, und er ist nicht nur ein lateinischer, sondern auch ein griechischer Christ.

2 Seltsam ist es, daß die Erinnerung an den Marcionitismus im Abendland dadurch am längsten wach erhalten worden ist, daß man die „Sabellianer", deren Lehre dort sich noch immer regte, zur Abschreckung mit ihnen zusammenstellte.

3 S. S. 390* f. 424* ff. — Daß der Manichäismus den viel tieferen und geistigeren Marcionitismus allmählich verdrängte, läßt sich aus dem Rückgang der allgemeinen Kultur erklären, dem auch die religiöse folgte. In der Organisation der Manichäischen Kirche gegenüber der Marcionitischen steckte außerdem noch eine besondere Anziehungskraft.

Stifter es verlangte [1] und durch Martyrien in den großen Verfolgungszeiten bewährt [2], trat die Kirche M.s dort als eine große und starke Gemeinschaft in das konstantinische Zeitalter ein, die noch immer eine bedeutende Propaganda machte [3]. Man beobachtet jedoch, daß sie im Laufe des 4. Jahrhunderts allmählich in Ägypten und dem westlichen Kleinasien verdrängt wurde, in dem griechisch sprechenden Syrien bald darauf, namentlich durch die Bemühungen des Chrysostomus, der aber beiläufig berichtet (S. 368* f.), daß in Antiochia zu seiner Zeit ein hoher Beamter und seine Frau Marcioniten waren. Dagegen erhielt sie sich in Cypern und Palästina länger, und in dem syrischen Syrien ist sie (bis nach Armenien und Persien hin) wahrscheinlich an Bedeutung noch gewachsen. In Cypern (s. S. 367*: die Stadt Salamis dort war von Marcioniten geradezu belagert) war sie besonders stark, in Palästina nicht minder (Cyrill v. Jerus.). In der syrischen Stadt Laodicea sah man sich noch um die Mitte des 4. Jahrh. genötigt, in den ersten Artikel des Glaubensbekenntnisses die Worte aufzunehmen: τὸν θεὸν τοῦ νόμου καὶ εὐαγγελίου, δίκαιον καὶ ἀγαθόν (S. 353*), und die großen Bischöfe Antiochiens bis Nestorius führten einen unausgesetzten Kampf gegen die gefährliche Sekte. Aber die Bedrohung dieser Kirchengebiete erscheint doch gering — soviel Sorge uns auch noch aus dem umfangreichen Kapitel des Epiphanius gegen die Marcioniten entgegentritt — gegenüber dem nationalsyrischen Gebiet, das in Edessa sein Zentrum hatte. Aus den Werken Ephraems

---

1 Celsus berichtet, die Marcioniten hätten sich selbst „σκύβαλα" genannt (nach Phil. 3, 8).

2 S. S. 315* f. 348*; zu den Marcionitischen Märtyrern Metrodorus (Presb.) und Asklepius (Bischof) kommt noch in der Valerianischen Verfolgung ein Weib (Euseb., h. e. VIII, 12) in Cäsarea Pal.

3 Die Frage, ob zu den Voraussetzungen der Lehre Manis selbst der Marcionitismus gehört, d. h. ob Mani die Schriften Marcions gekannt und ausgebeutet hat, ist noch nicht spruchreif, aber wahrscheinlich ist sie zu bejahen. Ist sie zu verneinen, so ist doch gewiß, daß bereits am Anfang des 4. Jahrhunderts (s. die Acta Archelai) die Manichäer sich M.s Beurteilung des Gegensatzes von Jesus und dem AT. zunutz gemacht und die „Antithesen" reichlich ausgebeutet haben (s. Beilage VI, S. 349* f.). Gegen die Bardesaniten hat Mani drei Schriften innerhalb des „Buchs der Geheimnisse" verfaßt, (s. Flügel, Mani S. 102). Marcions Name kommt in der Überlieferung über Mani nicht vor.

u. a. gewinnt man den Eindruck, daß die Marcionitische Gefahr dort der Manichäischen nichts nachgab, ja sie noch übertraf. Marcioniten, die „den Fremden" anbeteten, und Manichäer — zuerst von Eusebius zusammengestellt (s. S. 348*) — sind im Orient viele Menschenalter lang getrennt marschiert, indem jene sich ihrer Eigenart voll bewußt blieben, aber galten der katholischen Kirche als sehr verwandte Brüder. Erst seit der Mitte des 5. Jahrhunderts ist der Marcionitismus auch dort zurückgetreten, nachdem sich namentlich Rabbulas um seine Bekämpfung bemüht hatte (s. S. 362*), und in seiner Diözese Cyrus Theodoret. Dieser berichtet triumphierend in seinen Briefen, er habe acht Marcionitische Dörfer bekehrt und überhaupt Tausende, ja Zehntausende von Marcioniten (s. S. 369* f.).

Marcionitische Dörfer — diese Angabe darf nicht übersehen werden und führt uns auf die Stellung der Staatsgewalt zu den Ketzern. Bis zur Zeit des Konstantin machte diese bekanntlich unter den Christen keinen Unterschied, und die Toleranzedikte von Mailand und Nikomedien kamen daher auch den Häresien zu gut. Die Kircheninschrift von Lebaba (s. S. 341* f.) im Gebiet des Licinius zeigt uns, daß die Marcionitische Gemeinde dort im J. 318/9 ein Kirchengebäude mit einer Inschrift errichten konnte, auf der die Besitzerin des Gebäudes jedermann kundgetan war. Aber die Freude dauerte nicht lange. Bereits Konstantin begann damit, die häretischen Zusammenkünfte zu verbieten, die Versammlungshäuser zu zerstören, selbst die Gottesdienste in den Privathäusern zu untersagen, die Grundstücke einzuziehen und die ketzerischen Bücher zu konfiszieren. Obschon diese Bestimmungen ein halbes Jahrhundert lang sehr mangelhaft durchgeführt wurden, blieben sie doch nicht ganz ohne Wirkung. Der Prozeß der Zurückziehung der Ketzer aus dem Westen in den Osten und aus den Städten auf das Land muß schon damals in einzelnen Gegenden kräftig begonnen haben. Mit den Edikten des Gratian und Theodosius setzte aber die unnachsichtliche Verfolgung der von den großen Bischöfen aufgestachelten Staatsgewalt ein. Staat und Kirche im Bunde waren zu vollkommener Unterdrückung der Häresien entschlossen und trafen die entsprechenden Maßnahmen. Jetzt erfolgte die „Landflucht" im großen Stil — denn auf dem Lande war die Staatsgewalt gegen die Heiden und die Ketzer nachsichtiger —, soweit die Unglücklichen ihren Glauben nicht schon scharenweise unter dem doppelten Druck abgeschworen hatten: „Gott sandte zu ihnen Furcht vor dem h. Rabbulas, und sie nahmen gläubig die Wahrheit an, indem sie ihren Irrtum ableugneten". Nicht nur der h. Rabbulas, sondern auch die anderen großen Bischöfe hatten handgreifliche Waffen zu ihrer Verfügung und drangen nun auch in die ländlichen Bezirke ein. Wenn Theodoret acht Marcionitische Dörfer in seiner Diözese bekehren konnte, so zeigt das die soziale Gruppierung der Häresie, wie sie sich seit einem Jahrhundert vollzogen hatte, ihre noch bestehende äußere Stärke, aber zugleich ihre mangelnde Widerstandskraft. Der Rückzug auf das Land wird schon in vorkonstantinischer Zeit begonnen haben. Nicht nur die Existenz einer Marcionitischen Gemeinde in Lebaba im Hauran spricht dafür, sondern noch mehr, daß sie sich eine Inschrift in griechischer Sprache gesetzt hat. Man sprach dort nicht griechisch; also waren die Marcioniten daselbst griechische Ansiedler, die sich in diese abgelegene Gegend zurückgezogen hatten; ja es ist sehr wohl möglich, daß das ganze Dorf Marcionitisch war (s. S. 342* f.). Dies war der Fall bei den acht Dörfern, die Theodoret bekehrt hat. Also zog man sich nicht nur auf das Land zurück, sondern die Marcioniten bildeten daselbst auch geschlossene Ansiedlungen. Ihre schroffe Stellung zur Welt erklärt das sehr wohl, auch wenn man nicht an den ersehnten Schutz vor Verfolgungen denkt: sie vermochten so ihre Eigenart besser zu bewahren. Allein jede religiöse Sekte, die sich genötigt sieht, die Städte zu verlassen, muß notwendig verbauern, und wenn sie dadurch auch eine gewisse Zähigkeit in der Behauptung ihrer Überlieferungen empfängt, so büßt sie doch an geistiger Widerstandskraft ein und muß schließlich erliegen. So ist es auch der Marcionitischen Kirche im Osten ergangen. Übrigens hat sie dem Manichäismus gegenüber hier lange Zeit hindurch noch eine beachtenswerte Selbständigkeit bewährt [1], konnte aber nach der Mitte des 5. Jahrhunderts im Vergleich mit ihm wahrscheinlich nur noch eine unbedeutendere

1 Der „Fihrist" (s. S. 384* f.) bezeugt ihre größere Christlichkeit gegenüber den Manichäern.

Rolle spielen. Daß sie ihm näher rückte, zeigt vor allem auch (nach dem „Fihrist") die ganz nahe Verwandtschaft ihrer besonderen (den persischen und syrischen Buchstaben nachgebildeten) Schriftcharaktere mit den von Mani (bzw. den Manichäern) aus diesen Alphabeten entwickelten eigentümlichen Buchstaben (s. S. 385* [1].)

Was sich über den Ausgang des Marcionitismus im Osten ermitteln läßt (insonderheit über das Verhältnis zu den Paulizianern), ist in der Beilage (S. 381* ff.) zusammengestellt. Der Verfasser des „Fihrist" hat im J. 987/8 nur im fernen Osten noch Marcioniten konstatieren können, nämlich im Gebiet zwischen dem Kaspischen Meer und dem Oxus: „sie verkriechen sich hinter das Christentum". Seine Nachrichten aber über die Sekte und ihre Lehre beruhen vielleicht nicht auf zeitgenössischer Kunde, sondern auf literarischer Überlieferung.

2. Die innere Geschichte.

Marcion, der Kirchenstifter, hat als grundsätzlicher Biblizist und Gegner aller Philosophie kein philosophisch-theologisches System aufgestellt und nicht als Systematiker „Prinzipien" gelehrt, sondern den guten Gott in Christus verkündet, die Erlösung gepredigt und den gerechten Gott der Welt und des Gesetzes entlarvt. An den einen, den Fremden, soll man glauben und dem andern, der hinreichend bekannt ist, den Gehorsam versagen [2]. Gewiß sind im Sinne M.s beide Götter, aber sehr ungleiche Götter, da der zweite mit seinem Himmel und seiner

---

1 Haben die Marcioniten eine mit der Manichäischen fast identische Geheimschrift angenommen, so ist das nicht nur ein Beweis dafür, daß sie sich dem Manichäismus sehr stark genähert, sondern auch, daß sie ihre ursprüngliche Öffentlichkeit aufgegeben haben; denn eine Geheimschrift wählt man nur, wenn man nur von Auserwählten gelesen sein will.

2 Treu hat der älteste Berichterstatter, Justin, M.s Lehre wiedergegeben, sofern er überhaupt nicht von Prinzipien (ἀρχαί) bei M. spricht, sondern einfach von zwei Göttern, dem Weltschöpfer und dem anderen, guten Gott; aber auch Tert. spricht fast ausnahmslos von Göttern und nicht von Prinzipien. Jedoch hat M. den Ausdruck ἀρχαί nicht durchweg vermieden (er brauchte ihn um der Materie willen); das ergibt sich aus dem Zeugnis seines Schülers Apelles (bei Anthimus von Nikomedien; s. S. 419* a).

Erde untergehen wird, also keine Ewigkeit besitzt. Daher kann man nur mit bedingtem Rechte sagen, M. habe zwei „Prinzipien" gelehrt; in gewissem Sinne ist das zuviel gesagt und zugleich zuwenig; denn ewiger Gott ist nur einer, und ungeschaffene Wesen gibt es nach ihm drei, da auch die Materie, aus welcher der gerechte Gott die Welt geschaffen hat, ungeschaffen ist. Zwar spielt sie in seinen rein biblischen Darlegungen als handelndes Prinzip durchaus keine Rolle; aber sofern alles Stoffliche und Leibliche von ihr herrührt und die Schöpfung des Schöpfers noch schlimmer gemacht hat, hat sie als φύσις doch im Ganzen der Schöpfung eine große Bedeutung.

Man versteht es von hier aus, daß auch solche Gegner, welche die eigene Lehre M.s und nicht die späterer Marcioniten ins Auge gefaßt haben, schwanken konnten, ob sie bei der Zusammenfassung ihm zwei oder drei „Prinzipien" beilegen sollten. Dieses Schwanken aber mußte sich durch einen Blick auf die Entwicklung der Marcionitischen Kirche verstärken.

Das Wichtigste in dieser Entwicklung nämlich war, daß die Marcionitische Kirche zwar den Charakter und Geist, den ihr der Stifter gegeben, streng und treu festhielt und mit einer Ausnahme (Apelles) keine Spaltung in ihrer Mitte aufkommen ließ, daß sich aber schon bald nach dem Tode des Meisters theologische Schulen auf ihrem Grund und Boden bildeten. Hierin zeigt sich wiederum, daß der Marcionitismus eine der großen Kirche ebenbürtige Erscheinung gewesen ist; denn auch in dieser bildeten sich ja schon seit der zweiten Hälfte des zweiten Jahrhunderts Schulen (die älteste uns bekannte ist die des Justin), die sich bald untereinander zu streiten begannen, deren Mitglieder aber deshalb nicht aufhörten, treue Kinder der großen Kirche zu sein [1].

---

1 Daß diese Schulen in einigen Fällen doch schismatisch oder gar häretisch wurden, und daß der offiziellen Kirche die ganze Schulbildung in der Regel verdächtig gewesen ist, daran soll hier nur erinnert werden. Das große Problem von Kirche und Theologie hat hier begonnen, welches in allen seinen Entwicklungsstadien immer so geendigt hat, daß die Kirche zwar theologischer wurde, aber zugleich die selbständige Theologie immer heftiger ablehnte. Ob es in den Marcionitischen Kirchen ähnlich zugegangen ist, wissen wir nicht; aber es ist nicht wahrscheinlich; denn diese Kirchen waren nicht auf eine Schul- und Prinzipienlehre gestellt; wir hören

Die Einheit der Marcionitischen Schulen war (1) in der Anerkennung der von dem Stifter zusammengestellten Bibel (die „Antithesen" eingeschlossen), (2) in der Verwerfung des Schöpfers und des ATs, (3) in der Verkündigung von dem in Christus zur Erlösung erschienenen, fremden Gotte und (4) in der strengen Askese gegeben [1], sowie endlich (5) in der Hochschätzung des Meisters [2]. In diesen Stücken gewahrt man innerhalb der Kirche, auch nichts von Streitigkeiten in ihr, und nach den Dialogen des Adamantius stehen die beiden Marcioniten Megethius und Markus friedlich nebeneinander, obgleich der eine die Drei- und der andere die Zweiprinzipienlehre vertritt.

---

1 Auf diese Punkte bezieht es sich also nicht, wenn Tert. (de praescr. 42) schreibt, daß die Marcioniten „etiam a regulis suis variant inter se, dum unusquisque proinde suo arbitrio modulatur quae accepit . . . idem licuit Marcionitis quod Marcioni, de arbitrio suo fidem innovare", sondern auf die Prinzipienlehre und verwandte Fragen.

2 Die Hochschätzung des Meisters, der selbst für sich keinen Titel in Anspruch genommen hat, zeigt sich in der einstimmig bezeugten Fortführung und Hochhaltung der einzigen Selbstbezeichnung „Marcioniten" (vgl. u. a. die Inschrift von Lebaba), ferner in der Prädizierung Marcions als des Bischofs κατεξοχήν (Megethius bei Adamant. I, 8; ob allgemein?), weiter in der Aufstellung einer Marcionitischen Ära (Tert. I, 19), endlich in der Glaubensvorstellung, daß im Himmel zur Rechten Christi Paulus sitze und zur Linken Marcion (Orig., Hom. XXV in Luk., T. V p. 181; diese Vorstellung spiegelt sich in der dreizeiligen Inschrift von Lebaba wider: auf der ersten Zeile liest man Marcions Namen, auf der mittleren den Jesu Christi, auf der dritten den Namen Paulus, wenn auch als Namen eines Marcionitischen Presbyters). Doch hat M. in seiner Gemeinde den Namen „Apostel" mindestens zunächst nicht erhalten; der Biblizismus verbot das. Es ist Tert., der IV, 9 schreibt: „Christus Marcionis habiturus apostolum quandoque nauclerum Marcionem"; aber er selbst weiß nichts davon, daß M. als Apostel bei den Seinen gegolten hat; sonst hätte er de carne 2 nicht schreiben können: „Exhibe auctoritatem; si propheta es, praenuntia aliquid, si apostolus, praedica publice". Vollends ist es nur ein polemischer Fechterstreich, wenn Ephraem (Lied 56) schreibt: „Bei den Marcioniten heißt es nicht: So spricht der Herr, sondern: So spricht Marcion". Dennoch konnte es die Marcionitische Kirche nicht anders ansehen, als daß ihr Stifter in die Heilsgeschichte im weiteren Sinn des Worts gehört; denn die Christenheit wäre nach ihrem zweiten Sündenfall, den sie durch Mißverständnis und Abfall von Paulus begangen hat (der erste liegt zwischen Christus und Paulus), in die Anbetung des Schöpfergottes zurückgefallen, hätte sie nicht M. wieder auf den richtigen Weg gebracht.

solange sie bestanden hat, keine Veränderung und kein Schwanken. Dagegen mußten sich Verschiedenheiten einstellen, sobald man die biblisch expressionistische Verkündigung M.s theologisch zu systematisieren versuchte. Alsbald mußte sich zeigen, daß der Stifter hier der Theorie Lücken und ungelöste Probleme zurückgelassen hatte. Sie bezogen sich auf die Zahl der Prinzipien und ihr gegenseitiges Verhältnis, auf die Natur des Gottes dieser Welt, auf die Entstehung der Sünde und auf die Person Christi. Eine Theologie im Sinne einer rationalen Religionsphilosophie vertrug diese Religionsverkündigung letztlich ebensowenig wie die sog. „apostolische", obgleich sie als Religion ungleich einheitlicher und geschlossener war als diese; daher mußten sich Verschiedenheiten einstellen, sobald hier theologische Schulen entstanden.

Rhodon in Rom gegen Ende des 2. Jahrhunderts, zwei oder drei Jahrzehnte nach Marcions Tod, ist der erste, der uns von den Marcionitischen Schulen und der Abspaltung des Apelles berichtet. Mit diesem hat er selbst einen Disput gehabt und auch Anhänger des Marcionschülers Synerus sind ihm persönlich bekannt geworden; direkt von ihnen hat er die Nachricht über die Sondermeinung ihres Lehrers erhalten. Der Bericht bestätigt zunächst auch sonst Bekanntes und gibt dann folgendes Bild: Eine „unhaltbare Meinung" beherrscht alle Marcioniten und hält ihre Herde zusammen. Da diese nicht in der Prinzipienlehre zu suchen ist, so muß sie in den anderen (oben genannten) Stücken liegen, d. h. vor allem in der Überzeugung von der Erlösung durch den fremden Gott. Auf diesem Grunde aber erhoben sich theologische Meinungsverschiedenheiten — Rhodon sagt, die richtige διαίρεσις τῶν πραγμάτων wurde verkannt [1] —, die zur Schulbildung auf Grund einer Zweiprinzipien-

M. wird in seiner Kirche fort und fort mindestens die Rolle gespielt haben, die einige Dogmatiker des 17. Jahrh. Luther zubilligten, wenn sie ihm einen besonderen Artikel „De vocatione Lutheri" widmeten. Darüber hinaus berichtet ein später Zeuge, Maruta — sicher übertreibend —: „Statt des Petrus haben sie sich gesetzt als Haupt der Apostel den Marcion".

1 Der Ausdruck διαίρεσις ist zunächst technisch für die Einteilung der Rede; aber hier ist das Wort auf Dinge, bzw. Tatsachen, nämlich auf die gesamten Welterscheinungen angewendet, und das ist nicht nur hier geschehen, s. die philosophisch-kosmologische Anwendung in Athenag., lehre (Potitus und Basilikus) und einer „noch schlimmeren" Dreiprinzipienlehre, bzw. Dreinaturenlehre (Synerus) führten. Leider gibt Rhodon Näheres nicht an. Ob jene genau so wie der Marcionit Markus (bei Adamantius) lehrten, dieser aber wie der Marcionit Megethius (ebendort), ist nicht festzustellen.

Was die Quellen betrifft, so geben Justin, Irenäus, Tertullian, Clemens, Hippolyt (Ref. X, 19 init.), Origenes und Ephraem die genuine Verkündigung M.s wieder. Der Marcionit Markus lehrt eine Zweiprinzipienlehre, aber sie ist nicht mehr die genuine; denn er unterscheidet zwar die beiden Götter als den Erlöser und als den Schöpfer und Richter, sagt auch zutreffend, daß die Menschen an diesem Gott gesündigt haben, der Erlöser ihnen aber ἀμνηστία und ἄφεσις bringe [1], bezeichnet aber den

---

Suppl. 10, 3; 12, 2; Tatian, Orat. 12, 1; vielleicht mit Recht hat ihn Schwartz auch in Tatian 5, 2 für αἵρεσις gesetzt (Orig., De orat. 3 schreibt: Πᾶν σῶμα διαίρετόν ἐστιν, und Athenag. 4, 1: Ἡμῖν διαιροῦσιν ἀπὸ τῆς ὕλης τὸν θεὸν καὶ δεικνύουσιν ἕτερον μέν τι εἶναν τὴν ὕλην, ἄλλο δὲ τὸν θεόν). Wenn Rhodon sagt, jene Marcionitischen Schulhäupter hätten die διαίρεσις der in der Welt gegebenen Tatbestände nicht finden können, so kann das nur ein verkürzter Ausdruck dafür sein, daß sie den Grund der Verschiedenheiten nicht fanden. Hier kann es sich nur um die letzte und tiefste διαίρεσις handeln, um die Frage von gut und böse, bzw. um die Frage: „Unde malum?" (Das bezeugt auch Tert. 1, 2 für M.; aber man darf vermuten, daß er es von Marcionitischen Theologen gehört und mit genuin Marcionitischem vermengt hat; denn M. selbst hat nicht Probleme aufgeworfen und beantwortet, sondern, unbekümmert um die Probleme, Impressionen wiedergegeben: „Languens circa mali quaestionem, unde malum, et obtunsis sensibus ipsa enormitate curiositatis inveniens creatorem pronuntiantem: ‚Ego sum qui condo mala'" etc.). Dieses Problem vermochten sie durch die kirchliche Lehre von dem einen Gott nicht zu lösen und wandten sich nun der schnellfertigen Entscheidung (ἐπὶ τὴν εὐχέρειαν ἐτράποντο) zu, man müsse das Gottwidrige auf ein zweites Prinzip zurückführen. Auch diesen Schulhäuptern aber hat Rhodon den Vorwurf gemacht, den schon Justin dem M. selbst entgegengehalten hatte, daß sie ψιλῶς καὶ ἀναποδείκτως (Justin: ἀλόγως) lehren, d. h. daß sie philosophische Vertiefung und wirkliche Beweisführung (sei es durch ratio, sei es durch auctoritas) vermissen lassen.

1 Im Sinne M.s ist es auch, wenn er sagt, daß der Schöpfer seine Gläubigen erlöst (natürlich ist diese Erlösung irdisch zu denken) und die Sünder richtet und straft (Dial. II, 3 f.).

Schöpfer nicht als gerecht, sondern als πονηρός [1] und behauptet ferner, sich weit von M. entfernend und ein gnostisches Hauptdogma aufnehmend, daß der Geist im Menschen bei der Menschenschöpfung vom guten Gott eingeflößt worden sei und daß nur dieser Geist von ihm gerettet werde. (Rettung auch der Seele wird ausdrücklich abgelehnt, da sie vom Demiurgen geschaffen ist) [2]. Damit ist der Grundgedanke der Auffassung M.s, daß der Mensch durch kein natürliches Band mit dem Schöpfer verbunden ist, aufgehoben; doch hält Markus die Ansicht fest, daß Christus von niemandem vorher geahnt worden ist (Dial. II, 13 f: Ξένος ὁ Χριστὸς καὶ μηδὲ εἰς ἔννοιάν τινος πώποτε ἀφιγμένος). Jene vermeintliche Korrektur ist aus rationalen Gründen wohlverständlich und setzte zugleich an den beiden schwachen Punkten in der Verkündigung M.s ein, daß der gute Gott nicht den ganzen Menschen rettet, obgleich das Seelisch-geistige ihm nicht näher steht als das Leibliche, und daß der Demiurg bei M. ein zwischen gerecht und lästig (als Quälgeist) schillerndes Wesen ist. Der Marcionit Megethius (Dial. I, 3 f.) unterscheidet drei ἀρχαί, den guten Gott, den Demiurgen (= den Gerechten = τὸν μέσον) und den schlechten Gott (= den Teufel) und verteilt die drei ἀρχαί auf Christen, Juden und Heiden. Einen schlechten Gott neben dem gerechten hat M. nicht gekannt (Meg. substituiert ihn der Materie), und die Heiden gehören ihm nicht zu einem Gott, sondern sind vom Schöpfer abgefallene und in das Materielle und deshalb in den Götzendienst versunkene Sünder. Die drei ἀρχαί sind aber keineswegs nach Megethius „gleich", sondern ἡ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ ἰσχυροτέρα (das ist genuin Marcionitisch). αἱ ἀτονώτεραι ἀρχαὶ ὑπόκεινται τῇ ἰσχυροτέρᾳ, jedoch haben sie das, was sie getan haben, nicht κατὰ βούλησιν τοῦ κρείττονος getan. Dennoch rückt Meg. den „Mittleren" (den Demiurg) sehr viel näher an das gute Prinzip heran als Marcion selbst, wenn er zu II Thess. 1, 6f. (Dial. II, 6) bemerkt: Ἡ μέση ἀρχὴ ὑπακούσασα τῷ ἀγαθῷ ἄνεσιν δίδωσιν, ὑπακούσασα δὲ τῷ πονηρῷ θλῖψιν δίδωσιν. Das kann sich nur auf das Ende der Dinge beziehen; aber auch hier ist diese Lehre für M. selbst falsch und beruht auf der Vorstellung, es gebe nur eine ἄνεσις, während M. das vorübergehende und mangelhafte Refrigerium des Weltschöpfers von der Seligkeit, die nur der gute Gott gewähren kann, scharf unterschieden hat. Die Schöpfung ist nach Megethius so verlaufen (II, 6f): Der Demiurg hat die Menschen nach seinem Willen geschaffen; da sie aber schlecht gerieten, reute es ihn und er wollte sie richten und vernichten; genauer: auch die Seele des Menschen, die der Demiurg ihm eingeflößt, versagte ihm im Paradiese den Gehorsam, und er verwarf sie; der böse Gott zog sie nun an sich, aber dann kam der gute Gott und erlöste voll Erbarmen die Seelen „und befreite die böse gewordenen Menschen vom bösen Gott und veränderte sie durch den Glauben und machte diese seine Gläubigen zu Guten". Diese Lehrfassung zeigt, daß Meg. für die Heiden das Hauptinteresse gehabt hat und die Juden weniger beachtete (anders der Biblizist Marcion). Trotzdem aber blieb Meg. der Lehre des M. darin treu, daß er den Kaufakt der Erlösung, den er ausführlich wiedergibt, sich nicht zwischen dem guten Gott und dem bösen abspielen läßt, sondern zwischen jenem und dem gerechten Gott, der also als der rechtmäßige Eigentümer der Menschen anerkannt bleibt. Nicht von der Sünde (bzw. dem bösen Gott), sagt er ausdrücklich, hat uns Christus nach Paulus erkauft, sondern vom Demiurg.

1 Markus ist also wirklich ein Vertreter des Dualismus ὁ ἀγαθός > ὁ πονηρός (ohne Berücksichtigung der Gerechtigkeit) gewesen, den Hippolyt leichtfertig dem M. selbst zugeschrieben hat. Des Epiphanius unsinnige Mitteilung (s. S. 365*), M. habe den zwei Prinzipien seines Meisters Cerdo (dem unsichtbaren guten Gott und dem sichtbaren Schöpfergott) den Teufel hinzugefügt und zwar als mittleren zwischen den beiden, bedarf keiner Widerlegung; denn an die „Feinheit" ist doch nicht zu denken, daß, sei es Epiphanius, sei es sonst jemand den Teufel als mittleren bezeichnet habe, weil schließlich die zum Teufel Abgefallenen nach M. noch gerettet werden, die Getreuen des Weltschöpfers aber nicht.

2 Ὁ δημιουργός, ὅτε ἔπλασε τὸν ἄνθρωπον καὶ ἐνεφύσησεν αὐτῷ, οὐκ ἠδυνήθη αὐτὸν τελεσφορῆσαι. ἰδὼν δὲ ἄνωθεν ὁ ἀγαθὸς κυλιόμενον τὸ πλάσμα καὶ σκαρίζον, ἔπεμψεν ἐκ τοῦ ἰδίου πνεύματος καὶ ἐζωογόνησε τὸν ἄνθρωπον. τοῦτο οὖν φαμεν ἡμεῖς τὸ πνεῦμα, ὅ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ θεοῦ ἐστιν, σώζειν (Dial. II, 8, vgl. die gleiche Lehre Satornils).

Drei Prinzipien, bzw. Götter, legen den Marcioniten bei Dionysius von Rom (τρεῖς μεμερισμένας ὑποστάσεις καὶ θεότητας s. S. 335*f), Athanasius (s. S 350*f), Cyrill von Jerusalem (s. Katech. 16, 3; aber 6, 16 spricht er nur vom Gegensatz des guten Gottes und des Weltschöpfers, s. S. 351*), Gregor von Na-zianz (Korrekt: die beiden Götter des A und NT, jedoch drei φύσεις[1] so daß der ATliche Gott, wie bei Megethius, als der Herr der „mittleren" φύσις erscheint; so wird wohl auch Basilius zu verstehen sein, wenn er auch nur dem Gegensatz des A und NTlichen Gottes bei M. Ausdruck gibt, s. S. 353*), Maruta („einen Guten, einen Bösen und einen Gerechten, den Mittleren zwischen ihnen", s. S. 363* f.) und Abulfaradsch (Korrect: „Aequum, Bonum et Malum, Aequum autem opera sua in Malo, i. e. Materia, exercuisse atque ex eo mundum condidisse", s. S. 387*). Diese Berichte enthalten eine Trübung der Lehre des Stifters und gehen auf verbreitete Schulmeinungen zurück, wenn sie rund drei Götter annehmen und den gerechten Gott für den „Mittleren" erklären. Durch letztere Präzisierung[2] wird das Marcionitische Christentum schwer verwundet oder vielmehr zum Vulgären abgestumpft; denn sobald das Gerechte als das Mittlere erscheint, wie schon bei Megethius, nicht aber als der tiefste Gegensatz zum Guten, ist der Marcionitismus in seiner Eigenart verletzt und dem Gnostizismus und Manichäismus angenähert, mag man auch sonst die Lehre des Meisters in Worten fortgeführt haben[3] In weiten Kreisen der Kirche wird sich diese Verschlechterung wirklich vollzogen haben; denn an Erfindungen der Berichterstatter ist nicht zu denken.

Die Dreiprinzipienlehre des Megethius (Gut, Gerecht, Schlecht) findet sich auch bei dem assyrischen Schüler M.s Prepon (der z. Z. Hippolyts gegen Bardesanes den Marcionitismus verteidigt hat, s. S. 333* f.), hier aber mit der seltsamen und auf den Spruch: „Nur einer ist gut", begründeten Wendung, Christus sei als „der Mittlere", wie ihn Paulus bezeichne, zwar „von der ganzen Natur des Schlechten" frei gewesen, aber auch von der des Guten. Hiernach würde Christus der Sohn des mittleren Gottes sein oder vielmehr der Mittlere selbst. S. darüber unten.

---

1 Dieser Ausdruck auch bei Rhodon in bezug auf die Lehre des Marcionschülers Synerus (s. S. 321* f.).

2 Auch bei Epiphanius c. 6, 8 heißt der Gerechte „der Mittlere".

3 Die Dreigötterlehre (mit dem „Mittleren") und die falsche Zweigötterlehre (der Weltschöpfer als der schlechte Gott) rücken sich sehr nahe, was keines Beweises bedarf.

Daß einige Schüler zu einer Vierprinzipienlehre fortgeschritten sind (Gut, Gerecht, Materie, Schlecht), hören wir von Hippolyt (Ref. X, 19): die Differenzierung der Materie und des schlechten Gottes lag ja nahe, da die Zusammenordnung „der gute Gott, der Schöpfer und die Materie" ungeschickt erscheinen konnte. Derselbe berichtet auch von dem Schwanken, daß einige Marcioniten den Gerechten nur gerecht nennen, andere gerecht und schlecht [1].

Daß die Dreiprinzipienlehre einen gewissen Halt gegenüber dem Manichäismus bot, ist klar; aber dieser Halt drohte zu verschwinden, wenn der gute und der schlechte Gott als Gott des Lichts und der Finsternis unterschieden wurden. Daß dies nicht M.s Meinung war, darüber s. S. 97. 263* f.; aber später haben Marcioniten so gelehrt; das zeigen die Berichte des „Fihrist" und Schahrastanis: „Sie behaupten, daß die beiden ewigen Prinzipien das Licht und die Finsternis seien und daß es ein drittes Wesen gebe, welches sich ihnen beigemischt habe". „Sie nehmen zwei ewige, sich befeindende Grundwesen an, das Licht und die Finsternis, aber auch noch ein drittes Grundwesen, nämlich den gerechten Vermittler, den Verbinder; er sei die Ursache der Vermischung; denn die beiden sich Bekämpfenden und feindlich Gegenüberstehenden vermischen sich nur durch einen, der sie verbindet. Sie sagen, der Vermittler sei auf der Stufe unter dem Licht und über der Finsternis, und diese Welt sei entstanden durch die Verbindung und Vermischung. Es gibt unter ihnen solche, welche sagen, die Vermischung sei nur zwischen der Finsternis und dem Gerechten vor sich gegangen, da er dieser näher stehe, sie sei aber mit ihm vermischt worden, damit sie durch ihn besser gemacht werde und durch seine Vergnügungen ergötzt werde ....; sie sagen aber, wir nehmen den Gerechten nur an, weil das Licht, welches der höchste Gott ist, sich mit dem Satan nicht vermischen kann; wie sollte es auch

---

1 Nach Hippolyt legt auch Theodoret (S. 369* f.) M. die Vierprinzipienlehre bei; er unterscheidet dabei πονηρός und κακός, so daß sich die Lehre so gestaltet: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς καὶ ἄγνωστος, ὁ δίκαιος δημιουργός (der auch πονηρός ist), ἡ κακὴ ὕλη, ὁ κακός. — Theodoret erwähnt übrigens einen Marcionschüler Pithon, der sonst nirgends genannt wird, als Schulvorsteher. Vielleicht liegt hier lediglich ein Irrtum vor (Prepon?).

möglich sein, daß die beiden Gegner, welche von Natur miteinander im Kampf sind und vermöge ihres inneren Wesens voneinander ausgeschlossen sind, sich miteinander vereinigen und vermischen? Es sei also ein Vermittler notwendig, der unter dem Licht und über der Finsternis stehe und mit welchem (durch welchen) die Vermittlung stattfinde" (s. S. 386*). Hier hat die materialistisch-manichäische Grundbetrachtung übel auf den Marcionitismus eingewirkt, und die Beurteilung des mittleren Prinzips, des Marcionitischen Demiurgs, wird nun eine total andere, mehr oder weniger günstige; dadurch wird aber die ganze Lehre M.s verdorben. Dieser Marcionitismus ist nichts anderes als ein gemilderter Manichäismus und mag als solcher eine gewisse Anziehungskraft besessen haben.

Vom Verfasser der pseudoaugustinischen Quästionen (siehe S. 389*) hören wir die Kunde, daß nach M. der Satan die Welt und auch den Leib des Menschen geschaffen habe, die Seele aber „errore quodam" gefallen und so in diese Welt der Finsternis geraten sei. Auch hier liegt gnostisch-manichäischer Einfluß vor, wenn der Bericht glaubwürdig ist. Andrerseits berichtet Theodoret (s. S. 371*), daß nach der Lehre der Marcioniten die Schlange besser sei als der Weltschöpfer, weil dieser das Essen vom Baum der Erkenntnis verboten, die Schlange aber dazu aufgefordert habe. So hat M. sicher nicht gelehrt; aber es ist vielleicht keine Erfindung Theodorets, da er berichtet, daß einige Marcioniten Schlangenverehrer seien und er selbst bei ihnen eine eherne Schlange in einem Kasten gefunden habe, die bei ihren Mysterien gebraucht werde. Möglich, daß hier Ophitismus eingewirkt hat; aber man tut besser, diese Erzählung beiseite zu legen.

Die Marcionitische Prinzipienlehre und Kosmologie, wie sie Esnik schildert, sind noch wesentlich genuin (der gute Gott, der Weltschöpfer, die Materie; der Mensch ein Produkt des Weltschöpfers mit Hilfe der Materie), und der Charakter des Weltschöpfers, wie ihn M. gezeichnet hat, ist festgehalten; aber die Ausspinnung der Kosmologie, der Vertrag zwischen dem Weltschöpfer und der Materie, der Betrug des Weltschöpfers ihr gegenüber und ihre Rache sind späteren Ursprungs; denn niemand, der die Antithesen gelesen, hat diese Erzählungen gekannt, und der Biblizist M. hätte sie abgelehnt (s. S. 374* f). Immerhin aber beweist die Esnik'sche Darstellung hier und in ihrer Fortsetzung (Erlösungslehre), daß es in bezug auf die Prinzipienlehre noch eine dem Stifter treue Gruppe unter den Marcioniten im 5. Jahrhundert gegeben hat [1].

In bezug auf die Christologie finden sich in der Geschichte der Sekte ein paar merkwürdige Theorien. Wenn oben (S. 167) mitgeteilt worden ist, daß der assyrische Marcionit Prepon nach Hippolyt gelehrt habe, Christus gehöre weder zu dem guten noch zu dem schlechten Prinzip, sondern sei der Mittlere, da ja Gott allein gut sei und Paulus Christus als „den Mittleren" bezeichne, so kann man zunächst geneigt sein, hier einen bösen Irrtum Hippolyts anzunehmen, der den gerechten Gott als den μέσος und Christus als den μέσος (aber in ganz anderem Sinn) identifiziert habe. Allein das scheint nicht der Fall zu sein, denn Epiphanius c. 14 (s. S. 365* f.) berichtet, einige Marcioniten sagen, Christus sei der Sohn des schlechten Gottes, andere des gerechten; er habe, da er barmherziger und gut war, seinen eigenen Vater verlassen, sei zu dem oberen Gott aufgestiegen, habe ihm angehangen und sei von diesem zur Erlösung in die Welt gesandt worden und πρὸς ἀντιδικίαν τοῦ ἰδίου πατρὸς καταλῦσαι τὰ πάντα ὅσα ὁ κατὰ φύσιν πατὴρ αὐτοῦ ἐνομοθέτει (sei dieser der gerechte Gesetzesgott, sei er der schlechte Gott). Hiernach darf man nicht mehr behaupten, daß Hippolyt einen Irrtum begangen habe; vielmehr muß man glauben, daß es im Marcionitismus — sonderbar genug — ziemlich frühe schon Lehren gab, nach denen Christus von Hause aus nicht zum oberen guten Gott gehörte. Hier kommt auch der Bericht im „Fihrist" in Betracht. Er sagt, die Marcioniten seien verschiedener Meinung darüber, was das dritte Wesen sei; „Einige sagen, daß es das Leben d. i. Isa (Jesus) sei, andere behaupten, daß Isa der Gesandte dieses dritten Wesens sei, der die Dinge auf dessen Befehl und vermittelst dessen Macht geschaffen habe" [2]. Diese drei Mit-

---

1 Wie bei Megethius tritt bei den Marcioniten Esniks das Interesse für die Juden hinter das für alle Menschen in bezug auf Schöpfung und Erlösung zurück.

2 Bei Schahrastani ist Christus Sohn und Gesandter des Lichtgottes. Er stellt ihn nicht zum mittleren Prinzip, welches die Vermischung von Gut und Schlecht ermöglicht: „Das Licht hat einen Christus-Geist in die vermischte Welt gesandt, das ist der Geist und sein Sohn".

teilungen machen nicht den Eindruck, als stammten sie aus einem Motiv; leider sind sie sämtlich zu abgerissen und kurz, um sichere Schlüsse zuzulassen. Prepon und der „Fihrist" gehören wohl zusammen. Schon Prepon scheint den Dualismus so streng gefaßt zu haben, daß er ein drittes Prinzip brauchte, aus welchem er Schöpfung und Erlösung dieser Welt ableitete [1], und ähnliches mögen gewisse Marcioniten gelehrt haben, von denen im „Fihrist" berichtet ist. Daß damit der ganze Marcionitismus umgestoßen wurde, liegt auf der Hand. Die Marcioniten aber, von denen Epiphanius gehört hat, sind vielleicht adoptianisch beeinflußt gewesen und wollten Christus dadurch noch besonders ehren, daß sie eine sittliche Großtat von ihm aussagten. Auch dieses Theologumenon ist freilich antimarcionitisch. Wieder steht es bei Esnik so, daß die Marcioniten, auf die sich sein Bericht bezieht, auch in der Christologie die Lehre des Meisters streng festgehalten haben; nur ausgesponnen haben sie sie, namentlich bei der Erzählung von dem Tode Christi und seinem Effekt gegenüber dem Weltschöpfer: nach der Auferstehung und Himmelfahrt steigt Jesus zum zweiten Mal, in der Gestalt seiner Gottheit herab zum Weltschöpfer und hält mit ihm Gericht wegen seines Todes. Jetzt erst erkennt dieser, daß ein anderer Gott außer ihm da ist; Jesus legt das eigene Gesetz des Weltschöpfers der Verhandlung zugrunde. Weil er selbst geschrieben hat, daß der sterben soll, der das Blut des Gerechten vergießt, muß er sich auf Tod und Leben in die Hände Jesu geben, der zu ihm spricht: „Ich bin mit Recht gerechter als du und habe deinen Geschöpfen große Wohltaten erwiesen". Jetzt bat der Weltschöpfer um sein Leben und sprach: „Dafür daß ich gesündigt und dich unwissend getötet habe, weil ich nicht wußte, daß du Gott seist, dafür gebe ich dir zur Genugtuung alle jene, welche an dich glauben werden". Auf dieses Anerbieten ging Jesus ein [2]. Das hat nicht M. erzählt; aber der Geist des Berichts verstößt nicht gegen seine Lehre. —

---

1 Bei der Erlösung muß aber der gute Gott doch mitgewirkt haben.

2 Jesus verzichtet also auf sein Recht, den Weltschöpfer zu töten und ihm seine Kinder zu nehmen, und zahlt einen Preis. Auch darin soll man erkennen, daß der gute Gott sich nicht nach dem Grundsatz richtet: „Auge um Auge, Zahn um Zahn".

Sieht man von Apelles ab, dessen eigentümliche Bedeutung besonders dargestellt werden muß, so hat die Marcionitische Kirche nach M. nur ein Schulhaupt besessen, das als Schriftsteller auftrat und dem Meister treu blieb, aber so bedeutend war, daß die Häreseologen ihm einen besonderen Platz nach dem Vorgang Tertullians, Hippolyts und Origenes' eingeräumt haben — das war Lukanus. Es ist freilich nur sehr wenig, was wir von ihm wissen. Er scheint im Abendland seine Schule geleitet zu haben (Rom?) und hat, sich mit Aristoteles beschäftigend [1], festgestellt, daß es über der Seele noch ein höheres Element im Menschen gebe, und dieses könne allein der Auferstehung teilhaftig werden [2]. Er hat die textkritische Arbeit des Meisters fortgesetzt und seine Schüler zu ihr angeleitet, und er hat nach dem Bericht des Epiphanius (Hippolyt) als Anhänger der Dreiprinzipienlehre den Schriftbeweis gegen den Schöpfergott ausgebaut. Auch als strenger Verfechter der Marcionitischen Askese ist er aufgetreten. Man hat den Eindruck, daß er nach dem Tode M.s der bedeutendste Marcionit gewesen ist (s. S. 401*f).

Einen bedeutenden Einblick in die Geschichte der Kirche nach dem Tode M.'s (aber noch im 2. Jahrh.) haben wir erst in der letzten Zeit durch zwei Entdeckungen erhalten — durch die Entdeckung von de Bruyne und Corssen, daß die seit alters weit verbreiteten Vulgata-Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen Marcionitischen Ursprungs sind, und durch den von mir geführten Nachweis, daß der in den Bibelhandschriften des Abendlandes weit verbreitete falsche Laodizenerbrief eine Marcionitische Fälschung ist (s. Beilage III). Jene Prologe, die Inhalt und Absicht der Paulusbriefe lediglich nach dem Gesichtspunkt des Kampfes Pauli mit den Judaisten bestimmen, zeigen, wie streng sich die Marcionitische Kirche an das Hauptinteresse ihres Meisters gebunden wußte; dieser gefälschte Brief, der mit dem Geist der Prologe aufs engste verwandt ist, zeigt aber, daß man auch zu Fälschungen geschritten ist, die der Meister sicher weit von sich

---

1 Das war allerdings nicht im Sinne des Meisters.

2 Tert., De resurr. 2: „Viderit unus aliqui Lucanus, nec huic quidem substantiae (scil. der Seele) parcens, quam secundum Aristotelem dissolvens aliud quid pro ea subicit, tertium quiddam resurrecturus, neque anima neque caro, i. e. non homo, sed ursus forsitan, qua Lucanus".

gewiesen hätte. Auch kann man leider nicht einen einzenlen Marcioniten für die Fälschung verantwortlich machen; denn — abgesehen davon, daß wir noch von einer zweiten Fälschung hören, einem gefälschten Alexandrinerbrief des Paulus — sie hätte sich nicht so weit verbreiten können, wenn nicht eine propagandistische Autorität hinter ihr gestanden hätte. Andrerseits aber ist wichtig, daß keiner unserer Berichterstatter eine Marcionitische Bibel mit dem gefälschten Brief gekannt hat, weder Tertullian, noch Origenes, noch Epiphanius usw. Er scheint ein Exportartikel gewesen zu sein und, paradox genug, stärker in den katholischen „Apostolos" eingedrungen zu sein als in den Marcionitischen. Daß aber überhaupt diese Marcionitischen Stücke so häufig in die katholische Bibel gedrungen sind, ist ein Beweis dafür, daß (1) die Verbreitung katholischer Exemplare der Paulusbriefe im 2. Jahrhundert noch beschränkt gewesen sein muß, und daß (2) in eben diesem Jahrhundert uns undurchsichtige Einflußmöglichkeiten der Kirche M.'s auf die katholischen Kirchen bestanden haben. Dies bestätigt sich auch, wenn man auf die Geschichte des Textes blickt.

An dem Text Marcions ist von den Marcioniten fort und fort geändert worden; denn der Meister hatte das nicht untersagt, ja vielleicht dazu ermuntert (s. S. 43 f). Nicht nur der gebildete Schüler Lukanus hat geändert, sondern auch namenlose Korrektoren, wie direkt bezeugt ist (Tert. IV, 5: „Quotidie reformant evangelium, prout a nobis quotidie revincuntur"; Celsus bei Orig. II, 27; Origenes selbst; Ephraem, Lied 24, 1). Beispiele fehlen nicht; s. Adamant., Dial., II, 25 (hiernach haben spätere Marcioniten in I Kor. 15, 38 πνεῦμα für σῶμα eingesetzt); Esnik, S. 378* (hier ist in I Kor. 15, 25 θῇ in das Passiv verwandelt worden); vor allem vgl. man die verschiedenen Textüberlieferungen bei Tert. und Epiphanius, die mindestens z. T. auf spätere Marcionitische Korrekturen zurückgehen. Aber es sind auch aus andern NTlichen Büchern Zusätze zur Bibel gemacht worden. Johanneische Stellen werden vom Marcioniten Markus (Dial. II, 16 u. 20: Joh. 13, 34 u. 15, 19) zitiert; nach Isidor von Pelusium (s. S. 369*) war das Wort: „Ich bin gekommen, das Gesetz und die Propheten aufzulösen", in das Evangelium eingerückt. Nach Epiphanius (haer. 42, 3) muß man annehmen, daß Mark. 10, 37 f. (bzw. die Matthäusparallele) in einem Marcionitischen Evangelienexemplar gestanden hat, und das ist auch nach Origenes wahrscheinlich (s. S. 252*). Ephraem scheint Matth. 23, 8 bei den Marcioniten gelesen zu haben (s. S. 359*), und vielleicht haben syrische Marcioniten die Taufe Jesu durch Johannes wieder aufgenommen (S. 357*). Bei einigen Marcioniten wurden auch die Pastoralbriefe gelesen, wie die Prologe beweisen und wie aus einer Stelle bei Chrysostomus hervorgeht (S. 368*): „Die Marcioniten folgern aus den Worten: δῴη ὁ κύριος παρὰ κυρίου, daß es zwei Herren gebe". (Ist das wirklich Marcionitisch, so liegt dieser Erklärung eine Auffassung vom Verhältnis der beiden Götter zugrunde, die nicht mehr die echte ist.) Auch Erklärungen nicht M.s, sondern späterer Marcioniten zum Evangelium lassen sich erkennen; so mag die eine der beiden verschiedenen Auslegungen zu dem Befehl Jesu, sich den Priestern zu zeigen (Luk. 5, 14 u. 17, 14; s. Tert. IV, 9. 35), eine spätere sein; so unterscheidet Tert. zu Luk. 6, 24 zwei Auslegungen, die eine (genuin Marcionitische), welche das „Vae" nicht als „maledictio", sondern als „admonitio" faßt, und die andere, nach welcher Christus hier davon spricht, was der Demiurg tun wird (Tert. IV, 15: „‚Alii adgnoscunt quidem verbum maledictionis, sed volunt Christum sic ‚Vae' pronuntiasse, non quasi ex sententia sua proprie, sed quod ‚Vae' a creatore sit et voluerit illis asperitatem creatoris opponere"). Möglich ist auch, daß ihm IV, 30 zu Luk. 13, 19 zwei Auslegungen vorgelegen haben. In den Dialogen des Adamantius finden sich zahlreiche Auslegungen, die wahrscheinlich nicht von M. selbst, sondern von späteren Marcioniten herrühren; aber wenn sie gut Marcionitisch sind, hat es kein Interesse, die wenig aussichtsvolle Aufspürung von Kriterien der Unterscheidung zu versuchen.

Was uns sonst noch aus der späteren Geschichte der Marcionitischen Kirche in bezug auf ihre Schriften und ihren Glauben bekannt ist, ist wenig genug. Undurchsichtig sind uns ihre Beziehungen zu anderen Sekten, wenn wir auch ein paar halbe Nachrichten vom Muratorischen Fragment an besitzen und wissen, daß die „Antithesen" auch außerhalb der Kirche M.s von solchen gelesen worden sind, die sich vom AT befreit hatten; besonders der Manichäismus hat sie für seine Zwecke verwertet, ferner Patricius u. a. Ob die heidnische Polemik von ihnen Gebrauch gemacht hat (Porphyrius), ist so ungewiß, wie umgekehrt das Verhältnis der „Antithesen" zur jüdischen antichristlichen Polemik; doch ist in beiden Fällen Abhängigkeit wahrscheinlich.

Wie ernst es in dieser Kirche auch noch im 5. Jahrhundert mit der dem Schöpfer trotzenden Askese gehalten worden ist, zeigt eine Anekdote bei Theodoret (s. S. 371*). Er erzählt, er habe einen 90 jährigen Marcioniten gekannt, der sich am Morgen stets mit seinem Speichel gewaschen habe, um, wie er erklärte, nichts mit den Produkten des Schöpfers, also auch nichts mit dem Wasser, zu tun zu haben; er würde am liebsten auch Speise und Trank usw. vermeiden, aber leider könne man ohne diese Dinge nicht leben und auch die Mysterien nicht vollziehen.

Die Mysterien anlangend, so behauptet Esnik (s. S. 377*), daß die nähere Darlegung der Art der Erlösung (Erkaufung durch den Tod Christi als Preis) in der Marcionitischen Kirche geheimgehalten und nicht allen — und auch diesen nur mündlich — überliefert werde; zwar daß wir durch eine Erkaufung erlöst seien, werde mündlich allen mitgeteilt, aber „wie und wodurch Christus erkauft habe, das wissen nicht alle". Ist diese Nachricht, die durch kein zweites Zeugnis gestützt wird, zuverlässig? Wenn sie es ist, so ist die ursprüngliche Offenheit, durch die sich die Marcionitische Kirche einst ausgezeichnet hat (s. S. 146 f), hier eingeschränkt worden. Möglich ist das; äußere oder innere Einflüsse können maßgebend gewesen sein, und Esnik ist ein zuverlässiger Zeuge [1].

Von der Taufe behauptet Epiphanius, M. habe ihre Wiederholung zugelassen (haer. 42, 3), sogar über dreimal („so habe ich von vielen gehört"). Da Esnik, der dasselbe sagt, hier von Epiphanius abhängig ist, so ist dieser der einzige Zeuge. Nun aber berichtet Esnik dort, wo er auf Grund eigener Kenntnisse erzählt (s. S. 379*): „Die Marcioniten lügen dem (Tauf)gelübde; denn weil sie der Begehrlichkeit nicht widerstehen, unterwerfen sie (die Sünder) wieder einer Buße . . . die wahrhaft Gläubigen (die Katholiken) sind nicht wie jene, die da großsprechen, daß ‚wir von der Taufe an verlobt werden zur Enthaltung vom Fleischessen und von der Ehe', und dann das Gelübde lösen und in die Buße eintreten". Da der Biblizist M. unmöglich eine wiederholte Taufe zugelassen haben kann, da sich Epiphanius, der einzige Zeuge, nur auf Hören-Sagen beruft und da endlich Esnik von einer Buße bei den Marcioniten spricht, durch die die Restitutio erlangt werden kann, so haben die Gewährsmänner des Epiphanius sich höchstwahrscheinlich getäuscht oder gehässig berichtet. Jene Marcioniten haben die Buße als wiederholte Taufe betrachtet und da sie auf sie Luk. 12, 50 und Mark. 10, 38 anwendeten („die neue Taufe"), so war das Mißverständnis bzw. die Verleumdnng sehr naheliegend, die Marcioniten ließen die Wiederholung der Taufe zu [1]. Aber das geht allerdings aus den Berichten des Epiphanius und Esnik hervor, daß auch die Marcioniten Wasser in ihren Wein haben gießen und eine Bußmöglichkeit für alle Sünden haben einführen müssen, die sich mit der späteren katholischen deckte und schwerlich im Sinne des Meisters gewesen ist. Auch das katholische Bußsakrament ist nichts anderes als eine Wiederholung der Taufe.

1 Von Epiphanius gilt nicht dasselbe; wenn er und nur er (haer. 42,4) behauptet, M. lehre die Seelenwanderung, so ist das an sich unwahrscheinlich und wird durch Clemens widerlegt (s. S. 365*).

Noch eine angebliche Singularität ist überliefert. Tertullian (V, 10) bemerkt zu I Kor. 15, 29 (Taufe für Verstorbene): „Noli apostolum novum statim auctorem aut confirmatorem denotare, ut tanto magis sisteret carnis resurrectionem, quanto illi, qui vane pro mortuis baptizarentur, fide resurrectionis hoc facerent". Hieraus kann man nichts für einen besonderen Marcionitischen Brauch schließen, sondern M. hat zu der Stelle lediglich bemerkt, daß, da im Evangelium nichts von einer Taufe für Verstorbene stehe, die Anerkennung dieses Brauchs durch Paulus seine gesetzgeberische Würde in der Kirche dartue. Auch aus Tert., de carne 48 läßt sich für M. nichts erschließen. Chrysostomus aber berichtet zu I Kor. 15, 29, daß, wenn ein Katechumen bei den Marcioniten gestorben sei, er gefragt würde, ob er die Taufe begehre; die bejahende Antwort erteile dann ein unter das Bett gekrochener Bruder und nun werde die Taufe vollzogen (s. S. 367*f.). Diese von Esnik bestätigte Mitteilung (s. S. 380*); ob von Chrysostomus abhängig?) zeigt lediglich, daß sich in der

---

1 Zu vgl. ist die gehässige dunkle Andeutung Hippolyts (Refut. IX, 12 fin.) in bezug auf die römische Gemeinde unter dem Episkopat des Kallist: Ἐπὶ τούτου πρώτως τετόλμηται δεύτερον αὐτοῖς βάπτισμα.

Marcionitischen Kirche ein Brauch des apostolischen Zeitalters länger erhalten hat als in der katholischen, bietet also nichts Besonderes [1].

3. Apelles und seine Sekte [2].

Apelles wurde von Marcion als Schüler gewonnen (vermutlich in Rom); er verließ ihn (De praescr. 30: „ab oculis sanctissimi magistri secessit") und ging nach Alexandrien [3], von wo er als selbständiger Lehrer, der sich von seinem Meister getrennt hatte, zurückkehrte. Da er jetzt den Dualismus M.s verwarf und die Monarchie Gottes sowie die Präexistenz der Seelen lehrte, so ist es wahrscheinlich, daß die theologische Spekulation in Alexandrien, der die Lehrer des Clemens und Origenes gehuldigt haben, auf ihn Einfluß gewonnen hatte. In Rom gründete er eine Schule außerhalb der Marcionitischen Kirche. Zu ihr gehörte eine ekstatische Jungfrau Philumene [4], eine Prophetin, mit der er wie ein

---

1 Der Brauch, der für das frühe Eindringen der Mysterienmagie in die Gemeinden besonders charakteristisch ist (doch ist nicht zu übersehen, daß die katholischen sich schon bald von ihm wieder befreit haben müssen), ist auch für Montanisten (Filastr., haer. 49) und Cerinthianer (Epiph., haer. 28, 6) überliefert: Dort heißt es: „Hi mortuos baptizant", hier: καί τι παραδόσεως πρᾶγμα ἦλθεν εἰς ἡμᾶς, ὡς τινῶν μὲν παρ' αὐτοῖς προφθανόντων τελευτῆσαι ἄνευ βαπτίσματος, ἄλλους δὲ ἀντ' αὐτῶν, εἰς ὄνομα ἐκείνων βαπτίζεσθαι, ὑπὲρ τοῦ μὴ ἐν τῇ ἀναστάσει ἀναστάντας αὐτοὺς δίκην δοῦναι τιμωρίας, βάπτισμα μὴ εἰλήφοτας.

2 S. die vollständigen Belege in Beilage VIII, ferner meine Dissertation: De Apellis gnosi Monarchica, 1874 (sie ist durch die neue Darstellung antiquiert) und meine Abhandlung (in den „Geschichtlichen Studien, Albert Hauck dargebracht", 1916): Rhodon und Apelles, die ich z. T. hier wiedergebe.

3 Daß eine Fleischessünde dabei im Spiele war, berichtet nur Tertullian, während die Römer Rhodon und Hippolyt davon nichts wissen; umgekehrt berichtet Hippolyt die Fleischessünde von Marcion, und Tertullian schweigt (s. o. S. 23). Ist sie nicht für Apelles ebenso gehässig erfunden wie für Marcion?

4 „Postea immane prostibulum", behauptet Tert., was ihm niemand glauben wird. Was uns von ihr bekannt ist, geht auf Rhodon und Tertullian zurück. Als Hippolyt sein Syntagma schrieb, wußte er noch nichts von ihr (daher weiß auch Epiphanius nichts); in der Refutatio kennt er sie und ihre Phaneroseis aber, weil er unterdessen Tertullians uns verlorene Schrift adv. Apelleiacos gelesen hat. Diese hat auch Pseudoterhingebender Adept zusammenarbeitete, indem er ihr seine Gedanken vortrug und ihre Offenbarungen und Weissagungen entgegennahm. Auf Grund dieser schrieb er das verlorene Werk „Phaneroseis“ [1]. Ein klares Bild von dieser Frau läßt sich nicht gewinnen, die einen so hochgebildeten Mann wie Apelles zu fesseln verstand, von ihren Visionen erzählte, in denen ihr ein Jüngling erschien, der sich selbst bald als Christus, bald als Paulus bezeichnete, und die wie ein Orakel Antworten erteilte, die A. dann den Fragenden weitergab. Auch Wunder soll sie getan und sich ausschließlich von einem großen Brote genährt haben, das sie (täglich) in eine Flasche mit ganz dünnem Hals unversehrt praktizierte und mit den Fingerspitzen unversehrt herauszog [2].

Mit der romantisch-religiösen Betätigung verband Apelles im Verein mit dieser Frau eine kritisch-theologische. Sein ehemaliger Meister hatte „Antithesen“ geschrieben und in ihnen den religiösen Unwert des AT nachgewiesen (es dabei aber für ein durchweg glaubwürdiges Buch haltend); Apelles verfaßte ein großes Werk von mindestens 38 Bänden, dem er den Titel tullian kennen gelernt und seine Notiz über Philumene ihr entnommen. De praescr. 6 führt Tert. die Häresie des Apelles geradezu auf Philumene zurück.

---

1 Alles, was Tert. über die Lehre des A. berichtet, scheint aus diesem Werk genommen zu sein, sowie das oben im Text folgende. Nach Pseudotert., der sicher den Tert. ausgeschrieben hat, scheinen die „Phaneroseis“ kanonisches Ansehen in der Sekte genossen zu haben; der Ausdruck „privatae, sed extraordinariae lectiones“ ist etwas dunkel.

2 Dies alles nach dem in einer Augustin-Handschrift zufällig erhaltenen Fragment aus Tertullians Schrift adv. Apelleiacos. Daß in Visionen die himmlischen Erscheinungen (Tert., De praesc. 6 [ein dämonischer Engel soll sie bewirkt haben] etc.; hiernach Hieron. zu Gal. 1, 8) als „pueri“ auftreten, ist auch sonst bezeugt. Wenn sich hier der Jüngling bald als Christus, bald als Paulus bezeichnet hat, so erkennt man noch die Sphäre Marcions. Der h. Thekla erschien Christus in der Gestalt des Paulus, was sich aus ihrem Verhältnis zu Paulus erklärt. Zum Mirakel s. den Aufsatz von Buchholtz „Das okkulte Berlin“ („Berliner Zeitung am Mittag“, 3. Juni 1920). In einer spiritistischen Sitzung erzählt hier ein Teilnehmer: „Neulich gelangte von mir ein Salzfaß in eine dünnhalsige Flasche“. — In dem Brot darf man wohl das geweihte Brot erkennen, von dem die Prophetin ausschließlich gelebt hat.

„Syllogismen" gab und in welchem er die Fabeleien und Widersprüche, kurz die Unglaubwürdigkeit und dazu den dem Christentum fremden Geist des Gesetzes und der Propheten dartat. Die Reste dieses Werkes zeigen, daß er dabei mit keckem Rationalismus verfuhr [1]. Gegen seinen Lehrer, obgleich er ihm in der Hauptsache doch treu blieb, nahm er kein Blatt vor den Mund: „M. lügt", schrieb er, „wenn er von (mehreren) Prinzipien spricht" [2].

In Rom und von Rom aus hat Apelles eine sehr erfolgreiche Wirksamkeit ausgeübt. Zwar hat Irenäus noch nicht von ihr Notiz genommen (auch Clemens nicht); aber schon in der frühen Schrift Tert.s „De praescr. haer." erscheint die Sekte des Apelles neben denen Marcions und Valentins als die bedeutendste häretische [3]. Diese Trias, die sich öfters bei Tert. findet, stellt auch Origenes an vielen Stellen zum Zweck der Polemik zusammen neben der anderen „Marcion, Valentin, Basilides" oder schiebt beide ineinander — ein Beweis, daß die Secte des A.[4] in Palästina und sonst in orientalischen Gebieten [5] Wurzeln geschlagen hatte

---

1 Rhodon spricht von mehreren Schriften blasphemischen Inhalts, die mit großem Fleiß zur Widerlegung des AT von Apelles verfaßt worden seien. Origenes und Tertullian (in der verlorenen Schrift gegen A.) haben die Syllogismen gekannt und sich mit ihnen eingehend auseinandergesetzt; den Titel nennt nur Pseudotert. (nach Tertullian). Epiphanius hat außer dem Syntagma Hippolyts (der hier und in der Refutatio eine Bekenntnisschrift des Apelles [oder eine ältere Gegenschrift? Rhodon?] zur Hand gehabt hat) zwar nicht die Syllogismen, wohl aber eine Schrift des Apelles (vielleicht dieselbe wie Hippolyt) direkt oder indirekt benutzt. Eine Schrift des Apelles hat auch Anthimus gekannt.

2 S. bei Anthimus, Beilage S. 419*, vgl. Apelles bei Epiph., Haer. 44, 1: πεπλάνηται Μαρκίων.

3 Die vier großen Spezialschriften Tert.s richten sich gegen Marcion, Apelles, Valentin und Hermogenes; in der Schrift de carne Christi werden fast ausschließlich die drei erstgenannten bekämpft; sie werden de praescr. 37 als die „insigniores et frequentiores" von den anderen Häresien unterschieden.

4 Ob die von A. gestiftete Gemeinschaft eine förmliche Kirche war wie die M.s, von der sie sich streng geschieden hatte, oder eine Schulsekte, ist nicht sicher auszumachen. Ihre kurze Lebensdauer spricht für letzteres. Epiph., Haer. 44, 1: σχολή.

5 Ob auch in Aegypten, ist nicht gewiß, da Origenes erst in seinen späteren Werken auf Apelles eingeht.

und mit den bedeutendsten Häresien rivalisierte. Doch war ihr ein sehr viel kürzeres Leben beschieden als der Kirche Marcions. Wir haben keine Gewähr, daß sie sich nach dem Zeitalter des Origenes, der ihr unermüdlicher Gegner gewesen — er hat auch Reisen unternommen, um sie in verschiedenen Städten in Vorträgen zu bekämpfen [1] — noch lange erhalten hat. Das Urteil Firmilians, A. habe der Blasphemie des M. beigestimmt, dazu aber vieles dem Glauben und der Wahrheit noch Feindseligere hinzugefügt [2], war wohl trotz der Einprinzipienlehre des Apelles in der Kirche allgemein und hat zu besonders heftigem Kampf gegen den Ketzer angespornt, der das AT in Märchen und Fabeln auflöste.

Wie uns von Marcion und den Marcioniten Dispute mit Katholiken überliefert sind, so auch von Apelles. Hippolyt im Syntagma berichtet, Apelles habe in einer Unterredung über den Glauben geäußert: „Ich brauche nicht von Marcion zu lernen, um mit ihm zwei gleichewige Prinzipien zu behaupten; ich verkündige ein Prinzip". Wichtiger ist das Religionsgespräch, das Rhodon mit dem schon im Greisenalter stehenden Apelles [3] geführt hat [4], ja es ist das bedeutendste Religionsgespräch, welches wir aus der ältesten Kirchengeschichte überhaupt besitzen. Es wird gegen Ende der Regierung Marc Aurels stattgefunden haben:

„Der greise Apelles" — schreibt Rhodon — „ließ sich mit uns in ein Gespräch ein [5] und wurde dabei überführt, daß er in vielen Stücken Schlimmes behaupte. Daher sagte er auch, man dürfe schlechterdings nicht die Lehre (jemandes) untersuchen, sondern jedermann solle in dem Glauben bleiben, wie er ihn einmal angenommen habe; denn, so behauptete er, erlöst würden die, welche auf den Gekreuzigten ihre Hoffnung gesetzt haben (σωθήσεσθαι τοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν ἐσταυ-

1 S. Beilage S. 418*.

2 S. Beilage, S. 419*.

3 „Der sich auf seinen (strengen) Lebenswandel und sein Alter etwas zugut tut", schreibt Rhodon bissig.

4 Es ist möglich, daß Hippolyt eben dieses Gespräch meint; denn in beiden hat sich A. kurz und klar zur Einprinzipienlehre bekannt.

5 Apelles also hat die Initiative ergriffen.

ρωμένον ἠλπικότας) ‚wenn sie nur in guten Werken erfunden würden. Als das undeutlichste Objekt aber von allem wurde von ihm, wie wir schon bemerkt haben [1], immer wieder die Lehre von Gott bezeichnet (τὸ δὲ πάντων ἀσαφέστατον ἐδογματίζετο αὐτῷ πρᾶγμα, καθὼς προειρήκαμεν, τὸ περὶ θεοῦ) denn er sagte wiederholt ‚ein Prinzip', wie auch unsere Lehre lautet."

Eusebius fährt in seinem Exzerpt also fort: Nachdem Rhodon hierauf des Apelles ganze Lehrmeinung dargelegt, fügt er folgendes hinzu:

„Als ich aber zu ihm sagte: ‚Woher hast du den hier nötigen Beweis oder wie kannst du ein Prinzip behaupten? Sag es uns!', entgegnete er, daß die Weissagungen sich selbst widerlegen, weil sie schlechterdings nichts Wahres gesagt haben; denn sie sind unstimmig und lügenhaft und mit sich selbst im Streit; wie aber ein Prinzip sei — so erklärte er wiederholt — das wisse er nicht, sondern werde dazu nur getrieben (τὸ δὲ πῶς ἐστιν μία ἀρχή, μὴ γινώσκειν ἔλεγεν, οὕτως δὲ κινεῖσθαι μόνον). Als ich ihn darauf beschwor, die Wahrheit zu sagen [2], schwur er, daß er mit voller Aufrichtigkeit rede, er wisse nicht, wie ein ungezeugter Gott sei (μὴ ἐπίστασθαι πῶς εἷς ἐστιν ἀγέννητος θεός), aber er glaube es. Ich aber gab ihm unter Lachen meine Verachtung kund, daß er ein Lehrer zu sein behaupte, aber das von ihm Gelehrte nicht zu beweisen wisse."

Rhodon stellt das Ergebnis so dar, als seien die letzten Aussagen des Häretikers, nämlich die, auf welche sich leider die Wiedergabe Eusebs beschränkt hat, ein Ausfluß der Verzweiflung des in die Enge getriebenen alten Mannes, und Euseb verstand sie ebenso und hat die Worte angeführt, um Apelles bloßzustellen. Aber es ist nicht der einzige Fall in seiner „Kirchengeschichte", in welchem er durch seine Zitate eine ganz andere Wirkung bei der Nachwelt erzielt hat, als er beabsichtigte. Die Worte sind auch keineswegs aus einer augenblicklichen Verlegenheit entsprungen — dazu sind sie viel zu gewichtig —, sondern

---

1 Das muß in einem früheren Abschnitt geschehen sein, den Eusebius nicht exzerpiert hat.

2 Rhodon argwöhnte wohl, Apelles habe eine Geheimlehre, die er nicht enthüllen wolle (wie die Valentinianer und andere Gnostiker).

stellen die wohlerwogene Überzeugung des Apelles, ja ihren Kern und Stern dar. Nur das ist nicht sofort deutlich, ob sie als Resignation zu verstehen sind oder ob erst Rhodon den resignierten Ton hineingebracht hat, und auch die Frage bleibt offen, ob Apelles sich als Lehrer immer so ausgesprochen hat oder erst als Greis.

In dem Satze: „Das Heil ist denen gewiß, die auf den Gekreuzigten ihre Hoffnung gesetzt haben, wenn sie nur in guten Werken erfunden werden", hat sich A. zum paulinischen Christentum, wie sein ehemaliger Meister Marcion, unzweideutig bekannt — auch in der Formulierung, wie das absolute „ὁ ἐσταυρωμένος" beweist[1], das sonst m. W. in der ganzen nachapostolischen Literatur nicht vorkommt und dem Gedanken eine besondere Wucht verleiht. Wie in einer Devise ist das Wesen des Christentums hier zusammengefaßt[2].

Aber erst aus dem folgenden Gedanken erkennt man, welche über Paulus hinausgehende Tragweite dieses Bekenntnis bei Apelles hat. Nach Paulus ist ἠλπικέναι εἰς Χριστόν und πιστεύειν εἰς ἕνα θεόν gleich wesentlich, gleich notwendig und unzertrennbar; er hätte sich gar nicht vorstellen können, daß jemand diese Verbindung zerreißen könne; anders Apelles. Schlechthin notwendig zum Heil ist nach ihm vielmehr nur die Hoffnung auf den Gekreuzigten, d. h. auf die im Kreuzestod sich darstellende Gottestat der Erlösung[3]. Diese Glaubenshoffnung ist zwar bei ihm selbst mit der Annahme nur eines Prinzips, des ἑνὸς ἀγεννήτου θεοῦ, verbunden[4]; aber er weiß,

1 Röm. 8, 24 (τῇ ἐλπίδι ἐσώθημεν), I Kor. 1, 23; 2, 2; 15, 19 (ἠλπικότες ἐσμὲν ἐν Χριστῷ; II Kor. 1, 10 (εἰς ὃν ἠλπίκαμεν). Auch das εὑρίσκεσθαι ἐν ist paulinisch (Phil. 3, 9), und Paulus hätte auch den Satz: μόνον ἐὰν ἐν ἔργοις εὑρίσκωνται schreiben können (s. II Kor. 5, 10 und sogar Gal.); denn es ist nicht anzunehmen, daß Apelles ihn als gleichwertig zu ἐλπίζειν εἰς τὸν ἐσταυρωμένον gemeint hat.

2 Vgl. auch den Satz des Apelles bei Hippolyt, Refut. VII, 38: (Χριστὸς bei seinem Aufstieg zum Vater) καταλιπὼν τὸ τῆς ζωῆς σπέρμα εἰς τὸν κόσμον διὰ τῶν μαθητῶν τοῖς πιστεύουσι. Das „σπέρμα" erinnert an I Joh. 3, 9. M. hätte sich nicht so ausdrücken können.

3 Auch dies ist M.s Meinung; denn er rückt den guten Gott und Christus bis zur Identität zusammen.

4 Die von A. selbst gebotene Paraphrasierung des Begriffs μία ἀρχή = εἷς ἀγένητος oder ἀγέννητος θεός ist zu beachten (in den alt-daß andere Christen darüber anders denken und das stört ihn nicht, vielmehr meint er, daß wo jene Hoffnung auf den Gekreuzigten (samt dem heiligen Leben) sich findet, man jeden in bezug auf das Gottesproblem bei dem Glauben lassen solle, den er einmal angenommen hat [1]. Selbst die Frage, wie viele ewige Prinzipien es gibt, entscheidet nach A. nicht über den Christenstand; denn der Gekreuzigte allein ist das A und das O [2]. Die ganze „theoretische" Theologie wird hier aus der christlichen Religion einfach ausgewiesen und jedes „ἐξετάζειν τὸν λόγον" kategorisch verboten. Die christliche Religion ist sichere Hoffnung und hat es einzig mit dem Heil und dem gekreuzigten Erlöser zu tun. So verkündete dieser Christ im Zeitalter des Platonismus und des alles beherrschenden religiösen Intellektualismus!

Wie rechtfertigt A. aber seine Haltung in bezug auf die theoretische Theologie? Durch zwei in sich verbundene Urteile, ein negatives und ein positives. Das erstere lautet: Τὸ πρᾶγμα τὸ περὶ θεοῦ ist von allen Problemen das dunkelste [3], ja es gibt überhaupt keine Gnosis und kein Wissen über Gott (οὐ γινώσκω, οὐκ ἐπίσταμαι). Damit wird jede Erkenntnis Gottes aus der Welt abgelehnt, aber dazu noch ausdrücklich hervorgehoben, daß eine solche Erkenntnis auch nicht aus dem AT zu holen sei [4], denn in diesem Buche finde man nichts kirchlichen Bekenntnissen ist ἀγένητος selten [s. Ulfilas' und Patricius' Bekenntnis], ebenso ἀγέννητος. Unter den Apologeten ist der philosophische Athenagoras der einzige, der ἀγένητος — recht häufig — braucht; Justin [und nur er] braucht ebenso häufig ἀγέννητος).

---

1 Man hat zu beachten, daß Apelles der Klarheit wegen statt des Worts πιστεύειν für den Heilsglauben ἐλπίζειν braucht, πιστεύειν aber einen weiteren Sinn gibt, nach welchem es eine Überzeugung im allgemeinen ausdrückt. — Zur Sache vgl. das Goethesche Wort: „Frage nicht, durch welche Pforte du in Gottes Haus gekommen, sondern bleib am stillen Orte, wo du einmal Platz genommen".

2 Das ist wohl verständlich, wenn Apelles' Theologie und Christologie lautete wie die seines jüngeren Zeitgenossen, des römischen Bischof Zephyrin: Ἐγὼ οἶδα ἕνα θεὸν Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν, καὶ πλὴν αὐτοῦ ἕτερον οὐδένα.

3 So beginnt auch bei Plato die Gotteslehre; aber dann gehen A. und er auseinander.

4 Auch in diesen beiden Überzeugungen geht A. mit Marcion, aber nicht mehr bei Begründung der zweiten.

Wirkliches und Wahres; was es enthält, sei unsinnig, lügenhaft und in sich voll Widersprüche. Es bleibt in bezug auf Gott das πῶς ἐστιν[1] dem Wissen verschlossen und deshalb ist auch jeder Beweis hier unmöglich. Das zweite Urteil aber ist aus der Selbstbeobachtung geschöpft: „Ich für meine Person habe zwar den Glauben an das eine Prinzip (den einen ungezeugten Gott)[2], aber ich vermag ihn nicht durch Beweis zu übertragen; denn er ist kein rationales oder auf Autoritäten sich gründendes Wissen, sondern Sache einer innern Bestimmtheit (οὕτως κινοῦμαι), über die ich nicht weiter Rechenschaft geben kann".

A. ist also kein Skeptiker[3]; er ist vielmehr Gottes gewiß und zwar als des einzigen Prinzips; aber diese Gewißheit ist für ihn kein Heilsglaube, sie ruht auch nicht auf einer Einsicht, sondern ausschließlich auf einem „κινεῖσθαι".

Dieses „οὕτως κινοῦμαι" ist unstreitig neben dem runden Paulinischen Bekenntnis zum Gekreuzigten das Wertvollste in der ganzen Ausführung. Κινεῖσθαι, ein stoischer Begriff, ist eine seelische Erregung im Sinne des innern Bestimmtwerdens[4]. Verdient A. nicht eine ausgezeichnete Stelle in der Geschichte der Religionspsychologie mit der Erklärung, daß die Gottesfrage (im Sinne der Existenz und der Einheit) nicht Sache des Wissens (weder des logischen noch des historischen), sondern ausschließlich Sache eines seelischen Bestimmtseins sei? Wer hat denn vor ihm das so sicher ausgesprochen, ja wer hat es überhaupt ausgesprochen? Wer hat vor ihm jedes Wissen über Gott aufgehoben und vom Standpunkt der theoretischen Erkenntnis die Gottesfrage für πάντων ἀσαφέστατον erklärt, ohne in Materialismus oder Skeptizismus zu enden, sondern um für seine Person zu erklären, daß auf diesem Gebiet πιστεύειν = κινεῖσθαι sei und daß dieses κινεῖσθαι ihm die Antwort auf die Frage τὸ πῶς ἐστιν μία ἀρχή d. h. πῶς εἷς ἐστιν ἀγέννητος θεός ersetze. Ist

1 D. h. wie er angesichts des Tatbestandes der Welt und der Menschheit überhaupt und wie er ein einziger sein kann.

2 D. h. ich bin überzeugt, daß er ist und daß er einer ist.

3 Schon seine stets dezidierte Ausdrucksweise, mag er vom AT oder von Gott oder vom Heil oder von Christus oder von Marcion sprechen, beweist das.

4 S. Norden, Agnostos Theos, S. 19 ff.

das nicht die Unterscheidung der „theoretischen" und „praktischen" Vernunft Kants, so jedoch, daß an Stelle des zweideutigen Begriffs der praktischen Vernunft der eindeutige Begriff einer seelischen Tatsache tritt, die sich als solche nicht begründen, aber auch nicht übertragen läßt. A. hat wie ein anderer Schüler M.s, Lukanus (s. o. S. 172), Philosophie studiert — das zeigt seine Terminologie — und hat das AT gründlich durchgearbeitet; aber beide hat er als Quelle der Gotteserkenntnis verworfen. Diese hat er überhaupt verworfen, aber dafür das subjektive Gottesbewußtsein eingesetzt — und zwar das monotheistische, und es mit den Mitteln der Stoa, aber über sie hinausgehend als ein innerliches Getrieben- und Bestimmtwerden beschrieben. Sein „κινοῦμαι" entspricht dem „ad te" Augustins, und es ist psychologisch genauer beobachtet als das „absolute Abhängigkeitsgefühl" Schleiermachers, dem es in der starken Betonung der μία ἀρχή verwandt ist. Für A. ist und bleibt Gott ἄγνωστος (im schlichten Sinn des Worts); aber das ist nicht sein letztes Wort; denn durch eine innere Bestimmtheit ist ihm Gott als Seiender und als einer subjektiv aufgenötigt und er glaubt ihn daher.

Allein nun darf man nicht übersehen, daß die Verwandtschaft mit Kant und Schleiermacher doch nur eine bedingte ist. Warum? Weil für A. die Gottesfrage in der Religion — auch in der Beantwortung durch das κινεῖσθαι — nicht die entscheidende Rolle spielt. Er will vielmehr hier jedwede Erfahrung gelten und sich auch solche Christen gefallen lassen, die einen Zwei- und Dreiprinzipienglauben haben, also von dem eindeutigen κινεῖσθαι nichts verspüren. Er will das, ja er fordert, daß jeder bei seinem subjektiven metaphysischen Glauben bleibe, weil für die Erlösung und das Heil nur die Hoffnung auf den Gekreuzigten in Betracht kommt. Diese Hoffnung hat A. also nicht nur vom Wissen, sondern auch vom monotheistischen Glauben völlig losgerissen.

Aber worauf beruht sie dann selbst, wenn sie doch für jedermann notwendig ist und weder demonstriert werden kann, noch den metaphysischen monotheistischen Glauben (das κινεῖσθαι) zu ihrer Grundlage hat? Die Antwort kann nur lauten: entweder kommt hier ein zweites κινεῖσθαι in Betracht, das im

Unterschied von jenem ersten nicht nur subjektiv ist — denn jedermann kann und soll auf den Gekreuzigten hoffen — oder die Tatsache des Gekreuzigten spricht einfach für sich selber und das Evangelium schafft sich die Hoffenden. Nur letzteres kann A. gemeint haben; denn ein κινεῖσθαι ist und bleibt subjektiv. Also ordnen sich die Gedanken des A. so: es gibt (1) ein seligmachendes ἐλπίζειν an den Gekreuzigten, das aus der Tatsache selbst, bzw. der Predigt entsteht; wer es gewonnen hat, ist des Heils gewiß, weil nur aus dem Erfassen des Gekreuzigten die Erkenntnis des barmherzigen (guten) Gottes entspringt; das hat A. hier zwar nicht ausdrücklich gesagt; aber es folgt aus dem Zusammenhang und steht nach seiner Marcionitischen Überlieferung fest [1]. Das κινεῖσθαι hat keine Beziehung auf Gott als den Barmherzigen (den Erlöser) [2]. Es gibt (2) ein innerliches κινεῖσθαι, welches diesen und jenen zum metaphysischen Glauben an einen einheitlichen Weltgrund führt, also an einen Gott; aber da es nicht jedermann erlebt, kann die Anerkennung der μία ἀρχή nicht zum Heile notwendig sein [3]; auch bleibt die Frage: πῶς ἐστιν εἷς θεός, wissenschaftlich stets unbeantwortet. Es gibt (3) ein rationales, der Demonstration fähiges Wissen (γινώσκειν. ἐπίστασθαι), aber

---

1 Dazu: wo er von der Prinzipienfrage und der μία ἀρχή spricht, setzt er für diese nicht etwa τὸν ἕνα ἀγαθὸν θεόν, sondern τὸν ἕνα ἀγέννητον θεόν ein.

2 Im ἐσταυρωμένος steckt vielmehr der Erlösergott.

3 Apelles identifiziert für seine Person den im Gekreuzigten erschienenen Erlösergott mit der μία ἀρχή, aber er fordert diese Identifizierung von anderen nicht. — Sehr beachtenswert ist hier die Übereinstimmung und die Verschiedenheit zwischen Apelles und Augustin (Confessiones, Prolog; s. meine Abhandlung in den „Reden und Aufsätzen" Bd 5 S. 69 ff.). Dem κινεῖσθαι entsprechen bei Augustin das „ad te" und das „inquietum", dem ἠλπικέναι ἐπὶ τὸν ἐσταυρωμένον aber die „praedicatio", durch welche erst das „ad te" seinen für das Subjekt erkennbaren und beseligenden Inhalt empfängt. Der Unterschied ist hier jedoch folgender: nach Augustin ist die „praedicatio" für sich allein wurzellos; Apelles dagegen stellt alles auf die „praedicatio", bemerkt aber bei sich — er sieht das nicht für etwas Generelles, sondern für etwas Subjektives an —, daß ihr ein κινεῖσθαι entgegenkommt.

es bezieht sich ausschließlich auf die Welt; die Gottesfrage bleibt ihm als metaphysische und als beseligende verschlossen.

Das ἠλπικέναι ἐπὶ τὸν ἐσταυρωμένον (und damit an ein gutes, erlösendes Prinzip) und das πιστεύειν εἰς ἕνα ἀγέννητον θεόν, das auf einem κινεῖσθαι beruht, hat A. auseinander gerissen und dazu noch beides vom Erkennen und Wissen getrennt! Er hat also die christliche Religion ausschließlich auf den Eindruck ihres geschichtlichen Inhalts gestellt. Hat er die ungeheure Resignation, die darin liegt, selbst empfunden? Man darf das wohl annehmen; denn neben dem κινεῖσθαι steht ein bedeutsames „μόνον", welches erst recht auch zu dem Heilsglauben gehört. Dazu kommt, daß wir wissen (s. o.), daß er früher die Zweiprinzipienlehre seines Lehrers für Irrtum und Lüge erklärt hat, also unmöglich schon damals den Satz vertreten haben kann, jeder könne und solle bei dem πιστεύειν in bezug auf die ἀρχαί bleiben, das er habe. Also ist es der greise Apelles, der das, was er selbst früher als eine Sache des Wissens beurteilt hat, nunmehr für eine subjektive, außerhalb der Erkenntnis liegende Bestimmtheit erklärt, von der der Heilsglaube ganz unabhängig ist. Solch eine Wandlung kann sich nicht ohne Resignation vollzogen haben[1].

Durch die scharfe Unterscheidung der drei Größen (rationale Welterkenntnis, die es zu keinem Wissen von Gott bringen kann – psychologisch-subjektiv bedingter Glaube an Gott als den einen Weltgrund — auf Geschichte sich gründender christlicher Hoffnungsglaube an Gott, den Erlöser) verdient Apelles einen hohen Platz in der Religionsgeschichte. Er ist vor Augustin der einzige christliche Theologe, mit dem wir uns heute noch ohne mühsame Akkomodation zu verständigen vermögen[2].

1 Für seine Person ist A. niemals an seinem alten Bekenntnis: εἷς ἀγέννητος ἀγαθὸς θεός irre geworden; aber er differenzierte nunmehr die Beziehung auf diesen Gott: die erlösende Liebe, so lehrte er nun, kann aus dem Evangelium jedermann erfahren, aber nicht jedermann braucht sich von der Einheitlichkeit des Weltgrundes zu überzeugen, da diese Überzeugung zur Seligkeit nicht notwendig ist und erfahrungsgemäß auch gute Christen nicht zu ihr bewogen werden können. Hat er damit nicht seinem Lehrer Marcion, den er einst so scharf angegriffen, am Schlusse seines Lebens die versöhnende Hand gereicht?

2 Sein Gegner Rhodon hat sich selbst hinreichend charakterisiert in den Worten: „Ich aber gab ihm unter Lachen meine Verachtung kund, Die Lehre des Apelles in ihren Abweichungen von Marcion ist aus den Resten seiner Schriften noch erkennbar und verständlich; sie setzt überall bei offenbaren logischen Schwächen der Lehren M.s ein; die sachliche Superiorität ist dabei keineswegs immer auf Seiten des Apelles.

(1) M. nahm zwei Prinzipien an, aber da er sie nicht gleichsetzen, vielmehr den guten Gott gegenüber dem gerechten als den oberen fassen und dazu lehren mußte, daß es am Ende der Dinge auch mit dem gerechten Gott aus sein werde, so erschien die Statuierung zweier Prinzipien logisch nicht haltbar; Apelles statuierte daher, damit der allgemeinen christlichen Lehre entgegenkommend, nur ein göttliches Prinzip; dieses habe außer den Engeln noch eine besondere „virtus" geschaffen; Apelles nannte sie „den berühmten Engel", ja auch im weiteren Sinn ἀρχή; denn sie ist der Weltschöpfer.

(2) M. hat die Schöpfung (incl. des Menschen) in ihrer Totalität und im einzelnen als ein wertloses und schlimmes, ihrem Schöpfer gleichartiges Produkt beurteilt, im „Fleische" jedoch noch etwas besonders Abscheuliches erblickt, was aus dem Stoff, dessen sich der Schöpfer bedienen mußte, entstanden sei; diese Beurteilung der Welt vermochte Apelles nicht zu billigen (in bezug auf das Fleisch dachte er wie M.), weil sie dem offenbaren Tatbestande nicht gerecht werde. Hier setzte er nun mit der Erkenntnis ein, die er von den alexandrinischen Religionsphilosophen gelernt hatte: in der Welt steckt doch auch etwas relativ Erhabenes und Gutes, so schlimm sie ist; dieses Gute erklärt sich am besten, wenn man die Welt als das nicht gelungene Abbild einer höheren besseren Welt auffaßt, in der sich deshalb auch ein tragischer Zug der Reue finde[1]; also muß ihr Schöpfer besten Willen mit Schwäche verbunden haben. Dazu tritt noch eine Beobachtung, die ganz und gar die platonische Herkunft verrät, aber sich daß er ein Lehrer zu sein behauptete, aber das von ihm Gelehrte nicht zu beweisen wisse". Man weiß nun von ihm selbst, daß er zu den Dutzendphilosophen des Zeitalters gehört hat.

1 S. den Bericht des Pseudotertull.: „Mundum institutum ad imitationem mundi superioris, cui mundo (ab angelo creatore) permiscuisse paenitentiam"; Tert., de carne 8: „Angelum quendam inclytum nominant qui mundum hunc instituerit et instituto eo paenitentiam admiserit".

zugleich von M.s Auffassung völlig entfernt: es gibt in dieser unvollkommenen Welt etwas, was trotz seiner traurigen Zuständlichkeit doch einen himmlischen Ursprung haben muß, die menschlichen Seelen; sie können nur von der μία ἀρχή selbst stammen. Wie konnte M. ihre Hoheit verkennen; aber wie sind sie in diese Welt gekommen?

(3) M. hat die Schöpfung und das AT qualitativ einfach identifiziert; beide sind ihm in ihrer Art gleich und gleich schlimm; aber er hat es völlig übersehen, das AT auf seine Glaubwürdigkeit zu prüfen, und sich mit einer rein religiösen Kritik begnügt. Hier setzte A. ein; er untersuchte das Buch eingehend und fand, daß es ein Fabel- und Lügenbuch sei; sind aber Moses und die Propheten nichts anderes als eine große Lügenlegende, so sind sie weit schlimmer als die Schöpfung; also muß hinter ihnen eine andere Macht stehen als der Weltschöpfer; ein zweiter „Engel" muß hier im Spiele sein, ein Abgefallener, und es kann nur jener feurige Lügengeist sein, der zu Moses im Busch geredet hat. Er, der praeses mali, ist der Gott Israels und auch der Gott der Christen, die dem Gott Israels folgen; er war es auch, der die Seelen durch gemeine Verführung („terrenis escis") aus den oberen Regionen des guten Gottes verlockt hat, um sie hier unten mit dem sündigen Fleisch zu bekleiden.

(4) M. hat den Leib Christi nicht geboren sein lassen und für einen bloßen Scheinleib erklärt. Ersteres nahm auch A. an; aber er sah ein, daß der Doketismus M.s schwer zu verteidigen sei, weil er dem Erlöser eine Täuschung zumutet und weil er die Wirklichkeit des Werkes Christi in Frage stellt, auf die alles ankommt; daher legte Apelles Christo einen wirklichen, aber aus den reinen Elementen gebildeten Leib bei, mit dem er sich bei seiner Herabkunft, als er die Sternenwelt passierte, bekleidet hat.

Dies sind die wichtigsten Abweichungen von M.s Lehre, die eine neue Lehre begründen. Durch die erste und zweite ist Gott als der fremde Gott beseitigt: das ist der Hauptpunkt der Differenz zwischen Marcion und Apelles.

Hiernach lautete der Katechismus des Apelles also:

(a) Die christliche Bibel, auf der sich allein die Lehre zu gründen hat, ist von M. richtig bestimmt worden; sie besteht also aus dem (verkürzten und verfälschten) Evangelium des Lukas und den (verkürzten und verfälschten) Paulusbriefen; das AT ist abzulehnen [1]. Auch die „Offenbarungen" der Prophetin Philumene sind zu lesen (s. o. S. 177 f.).

(b) Es gibt einen guten Gott (εἷς ἐστιν ἀγαθὸς θεὸς καὶ μία ἀρχὴ καὶ μία δύναμις ἀκατονόμαστος) [2]; dieser Gott hat Engelmächte und eine obere Welt, sowie auch die Menschenseelen geschaffen, die ursprünglich bei ihm in den oberen Regionen waren [3], aber die Welt hat er nicht geschaffen und er kümmerte sich auch nicht um sie [4]. Bei ihm ist von Ewigkeit sein Christus, der Sohn [5].

(c) Der höchste der geschaffenen Engel („inclytus", „gloriosus") — so hoch, daß er als „virtus", δευτέρα ἀρχή, ἄλλος θεός, δεύτερος θεός [6] und κύριος zu bezeichen ist, somit also dem Logos ganz nahe kommt; doch scheint A. diesen Namen vermieden zu haben — gehorcht den Winken, Geboten und Befehlen des obersten Gottes in allen Stücken. Dieser hat ihm mit

---

1 Daß Apelles ein eigenes Evangelium gehabt hat, ist dem Hieronymus nicht zu glauben (s. Beilage S. 418*); Pseudotertullian bezeugt den Marcionitischen Kanon für A. Das verirrte Schaf und Luk. 8, 20 sind von ihm zitiert worden (Tert., De carne 7, der in demselben Kapitel voraussetzt, daß A. das Joh.-Ev. verwirft), und die Geburtsgeschichte fehlte. Allerdings zitiert A. (bei Epiphanius, Haer. 44, 2) das Wort: „Werdet gute Geldwechsler", als im Evangelium stehend: aber das entscheidet nicht. Übrigens spricht nichts dagegen, daß A. am Evangelium M.s ebenso geändert hat, wie andere Schüler. Hippol. (Ref. VII, 38) drückt sich zu allgemein aus, wenn er von A. sagt, er habe aus den Evangelien und dem Apostolos herausgenommen, was ihm gefiel.

2 Epiph., haer. 44, 1, (auch ὁ ἅγιος ἄνωθεν θεὸς καὶ ἀγαθός) und Origenes, Comm. in Tit. („Ingenitus et bonus deus").

3 Tert., de anima 23. 36; de carne 8. Dort schon waren die Seelen männlich und weiblich (so Philumene in den Phaneroseis). Es verdient besondere Beachtung, daß sich die Prophetin mit dem sexuellen Problem beschäftigt und die Differenzierung nicht in dem Leiblichen (das paßte sich also nur an), sondern in der seelischen Anlage gefunden hat. Sie muß also auf ihr Geschlecht etwas gehalten haben.

4 Epiph., l. c. und sonst.

5 Gewiß, wie M. lehrte, in unzertrennlicher Einheit als der erscheinende „spiritus".

6 Fälschlich behauptet Hipp., Ref. X, 20, der Weltschöpfer werde von A. nicht Gott genannt.

der Weltschöpfung betraut, die er nach dem Bilde der oberen Welt zu Ehren („gloria") des Einen vollbringen sollte, und Christus unterstützte ihn dabei mit seinem Geiste und Willen und mit seiner Kraft. Aber da dieser Engel nicht „gut" sein konnte, weil dies dem obersten Gott allein vorbehalten ist, wurde die Welt (Himmel, Erde und alles, was in dem Kosmos ist, auch die sichtbaren Gestirne) unvollkommen und ihr Schöpfer mischte ihr die „Reue" darüber bei, ja in dieser Reue hat er sich schamvoll von dem guten Gott vollends entfernt, sodaß er mit dem verirrten Schaf im Evangelium zu vergleichen ist [1].

(d) Mit der Welt, bzw. mit dem Menschen, wurde es aber noch schlimmer; denn ein zweiter Engel fiel gänzlich vom obersten Gott ab, wurde zum „praeses mali" und lockte die Seelen aus der oberen Welt durch irdische Speisen zu sich, um sie mit dem Sündenfleisch zu bekleiden; aber damit begnügte er sich nicht: als feuriger (also verzehrender) Engel sprach er im Busch zu Moses und entführte das jüdische Volk dem Weltschöpfer, dazu diejenigen Christen, die, wie die Juden, ihn als ihren Gott verehren [2].

---

1 Die wichtigsten Zeugnisse hier stehen bei Tert., de praescr. 34; de carne 8; Orig., Comm. in Tit.; Pseudotert. und Filaster. Epiphanius vergröbert und fälscht (l. c.), wenn er sagt, der Weltschöpfer habe κατὰ τὴν αὐτοῦ φαύλην διάνοιαν die Welt geschaffen. Bei Hippol., Refut. VII, 38 heißt er ὁ δίκαιος.

2 S. Tert., de praescr. 7. 33; de carne 8; de anima 23; de resurr. 5 („Corpusculum istud, quod malum appellare non horrent"); Hipp., l. c. — Die komplizierte Kosmologie ist natürlich nur der Exponent der Weltbeurteilung des Apelles: er sah im Kosmos einen göttlichen Plan und die ursprüngliche Einwirkung göttlicher Kräfte; er sah sogar in den Seelen Größen, die eigentlich zur oberen Welt gehören, aber er sah daneben nicht nur eine sehr unvollkommene Durchführung des Planes, sondern auch Teuflisches und Böses, das Wirken eines satanischen Geistes, das sich vor allem in dem Zustand der Menschen zeigt, die neben ihrem himmlischen Teil das abscheuliche Fleisch an sich haben und die, sofern sie Juden sind, sich unter das Joch des lügenhaften „Gottes" gebeugt haben. Sehr fein ist es, daß Apelles der ganzen Welt, soweit sie nicht durch den praeses mali verkommen ist, den Stempel der „Reue" aufgeprägt fand. Was Valentin als „Pathos" aufgefaßt hat, faßte Apelles tiefer als schmerzliches Bewußtsein der Unvollkommenheit mit dem Wunsche, besser zu werden. — Wenn Hippol. in der Refut. X, 20 vom feurigen Engel noch einen anderen bösen Engel unterscheidet und Christus als fünften rechnet, so ist das irrig. Nicht völlig ins klare kommt man in bezug auf den Weltschöpfer des Apelles und sein Verhältnis zum feurigen Engel. Epiphanius sagt von ihm ἀπέβη οὐκ ἀγαθός, und da ihn A. mit dem verirrten Schaf verglichen hat, so liegt es nahe, daß eine Verschlechterung bei ihm stattgefunden hat; aber das ist doch nicht wahrscheinlich; denn er bittet den obersten Gott, Christus zu senden, um die Menschheit zu erlösen. Wer regiert diese vor dem Erscheinen Christi? Hat der Weltschöpfer alle Macht gegenüber dem feurigen Engel verloren? Regiert der Weltschöpfer etwa die Heiden? Dann wären diese die besseren gegenüber den Juden. Das ist wohl denkbar.

(e) Von ebendiesem feurigen Engel, dem Widersacher- und Lügengeist, stammt das Lügenbuch, das AT, welches voll Fabeln, Absurditäten, Widersprüchen und logischen und tatsächlichen Unmöglichkeiten ist. Das Gesetz und die Propheten haben das Juden- und gemeine Christenvolk vollends verführt und in ihre Bande geschlagen. In den „Syllogismen" kann jeder lesen, wie es um dieses Buch steht. Doch ist einiges im AT von Christus Inspirierte enthalten [1].

---

1 Alle Zeugen bestätigen die Verwerfung des AT (μύρια κατὰ τοῦ Μωυσέως νόμου ἠσέβησε), und mehrere, von ihnen lehren, daß A. der Verwerfung aus religiösen Gründen (Marcion) die Ablehnung aus rationalen hinzufügte. Die zahlreichen Fragmente bei Orig. geben ein gutes Bild von Apelles' Keckheit, Scharfsinn und logischer Nüchternheit (s. Beilage S. 412* ff). Interessant ist, daß er u. a. auch die Geschichte vom Sündenfall deshalb verworfen hat, weil sie gegen die paulinischen Theologie verstößt: „Si hominem non perfectum fecit deus, unusquisque autem per industriam propriam perfectionem sibi virtutis adsciscit, nonne videtur plus sibi homo acquirere, quam ei deus contulit?" — Man ist nach den allgemeinen Äußerungen der Gegner über Apelles' Kritik am AT nicht darauf gefaßt, daß doch einiges in dem Buch vom Weltschöpfer gesagt, ja sogar von Christus inspiriert ist; aber die Sache leidet keinen Zweifel; denn Origenes berichtet es beiläufig (Comm. in Tit: „Non omnibus modis dei esse legem vel prophetas denegavit") und Epiphanius (Hippolyt) ausdrücklich und mit den Worten des Apelles selbst (haer. 44, 2: „Christus hat uns gezeigt, was und in welcher Schrift von ihm her gesagt ist und was vom Demiurgen; denn so sprach er im Evangelium: ‚Werdet erprobte Geldwechsler'; so brauche ich denn nun aus jeglicher Schrift das Nützliche, es sammelnd"). — Leider ist uns keine einzige ATliche Stelle namhaft gemacht, die A. auf den Weltschöpfer oder Christus zurückgeführt hat. Seine Unterscheidung im AT ist alexandrinisch-gnostisch (s. auch die ep. Ptolem. ad Floram) und entspricht seiner Unterscheidung in dem Bestande der Welt. Aber die Welt ist etwas Mittleres mit guten und schlechten

(f) Der gute Gott erbarmte sich der Menschheit und sandte in dieser Endzeit auf Bitten des Weltschöpfers seinen Sohn zur Erlösung der Menschheit [1]; vor ihm ist kein Bote dieses Gottes aufgetreten [2]. Mit dem Sohne kam auch der h. Geist.

(g) Der Sohn, Christus, bildete sich bei seiner Herabkunft aus den vier Elementen, wie sie sich auch in der zum Kosmos gehörigen Sternenwelt finden, einen Leib und erschien also auf Erden mit einem wirklichen Leibe. In diesem hat er alles, was er getan und gelitten, wirklich getan. Das wichtigste Stück der Glaubenslehre lautet [3]: „Beim Herabsteigen aus dem überhimmlischen Gebiet kam er auf die Erde und komponierte sich aus den vier Elementen einen Leib; denn von dem Trocknen nahm er das Trockne und von dem Warmen das Warme usw. . . . Dann gab er sich dem Leiden in ebendiesem Leibe preis und wurde wahrhaftig gekreuzigt und wahrhaftig begraben und auferstand wahrhaftig und zeigte sein Fleisch seinen Jüngern und dann löste er sein Menschsein wieder auf und teilte den einzelnen Elementen das ihrige wieder zu, hob damit sein σῶμα ἔνσαρκον wieder auf und flog in den Himmel zurück, woher er gekommen war [4].

Zusätzen; das AT aber ist etwas Schlechtes mit wenigen mittleren und guten Zusätzen. — Die Mühe, die sich A. in den Syllogismen gegeben hat, das AT als Fabelbuch zu zerstampfen, zeigt die Energie seiner reformatorischen Absicht, die Christenheit von diesem Buch zu befreien. — Zweifelhaft bleibt, ob A. die Geschichte vom Sündenfall ebenso für eine Fabel gehalten hat wie die von Noas Arche. Hat er es nicht getan — und bei dem Eifer, mit dem er die Geschichte zerpflückt, ist mir das wahrscheinlich —, so muß man bei den Alternativen, die er bei seiner Kritik stellt, annehmen, A. habe nicht sowohl die Schlechtigkeit als die Schwäche des Weltschöpfers ans Licht stellen wollen.

1 Genauer (Epiph. 44, 2): ἐπὶ σωτηρίᾳ τῶν εἰς γνῶσιν αὐτοῦ ἐρχομένων; vgl. Orig., Comm. in Tit.

2 S. A. bei Orig., c. Cels. V. 24: Μόνος οὗτος ἐπιδεδήμηκε τῷ γένει τῶν ἀνθρώπων. Ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν καιρῶν Epiph. 44, 2.

3 Bei Epiphan., l. c. (Hippolyt).

4 Die Berichte über den Leib Christi sind darin einstimmig, daß er nicht aus dem Gebiet des oberen Gottes stammt, sondern zu dieser Welt gehört; aber der eine Bericht läßt Christus den Leib bei seiner Herabkunft aus den vier Elementen schaffen, die er in der irdischen Sternenwelt findet und auch dort wieder ablegen (bei der Himmelfahrt); nach dem

In dem wirklich erlittenen Kreuzestod besteht sein Erlösungswerk [1].

(h) Die Erlösung bezieht sich nur auf die Seelen [2]; denn wie die Annahme des Sündenfleisches Christus befleckt hätte, so muß auch der vollendete Gläubige es abstreifen.

(i) Die Ehe ist gänzlich zu verwerfen [3].

Die Lehre des Apelles — von der Stellung, die er zuletzt eingenommen hat, sehe ich ab — ist eine interessante Verbindung des Marcionitismus mit dem Gnostizismus auf Kosten des ersteren [4]; andern bildet sich Christus den Leib erst auf der Erde selbst und legt ihn auch dort vor der Himmelfahrt wieder ab. Die Differenz ist unerheblich. — Deutlich ist, daß in dieser Glaubensregel eine Nachbildung des altrömischen Symbols steckt (vgl. besonders das ταφέντα und das ὅθεν καὶ ἧκεν für ὅθεν καὶ ἔρχεται), so daß Apelles als ein Zeuge desselben in Anspruch genommen werden darf (vgl. Kattenbusch, Das Apostolische Symbol II S. 87. 639 f). Man erinnere sich hier auch der ἁγία ἐκκλησία bei Marcion (oben S. 181 f.). — Die Wiederkunft Christi hat Apelles abgelehnt (wie andere Gnostiker auch). Das folgt aus dem „ὅθεν καὶ ἧκεν" und aus der Lehre, Christus habe sein Fleisch bei der Himmelfahrt abgelegt. Er weicht also auch an diesem Punkt von seinem Meister ab. — Da heute wieder Neigung bei den Forschern besteht, das altrömische Symbol bis um d. J. 200 herunter zu drücken, so ist demgegenüber geltend zu machen, daß die Glaubensformel des Apelles es höchst wahrscheinlich voraussetzt.

---

1 Vgl. zum Glaubensbekenntnis bei Epiph. die Stelle de carne 7: „Confitentur vere corpus habuisse Christum". Nach Abstreifung des Leibes ist Christus wieder nur „spiritus" (Pseudotert.).

2 Aber auch der Weltschöpfer muß von Christus nach Apelles errettet worden sein oder werden; sonst hätte er ihn nicht mit dem verirrten Schaf vergleichen können.

3 De praescr. 33. Hieraus ist zu folgern, daß A. in der Askese ebenso streng war wie Marcion; aber war er es auch noch am Ende seines Lebens, als er erklärte, daß die auf den Gekreuzigten Hoffenden gerettet werden, wenn sie nur in guten Werken erfunden werden? Ich glaube, daß die Frage zu bejahen ist; denn seinen Widerwillen gegen das Fleisch wird A. schwerlich verloren haben.

4 Nahezu eigentümlich innerhalb des Gnostizismus ist dem Apelles die Unterscheidung zwischen dem Weltschöpfer und dem Gott des Gesetzes (Judengott). Indem er den letzteren moralisch tief unter den Weltschöpfer (also auch unter die Welt) stellt, bringt er seinen Abscheu vor dem AT. noch stärker zum Ausdruck als sein ehemaliger Lehrer.

sie steht dem Valentinianismus [1] nahe (auch Clemens Alexandrinus), am nächsten aber, so scheint es, Tatian [2] und ist umsichtiger und „verständiger" als die Lehre Marcions, aber in dem Maße als sie das ist, ist sie schwächlicher und matter [3]. Sie ist Korrektur des Marcionitismus durch eine mit der valentinianischen verwandte Spekulation. Unzweifelhaft rückt sie aber auch durch die Einprinzipienlehre der Theologie des vulgären Christentums näher als die Lehre M.s; daß jedoch A. jenem Christentum hat Konzessionen machen wollen, ist eine zwar beliebte, aber unerweisliche Annahme, an die auch kein Kirchenvater jemals gedacht hat. Am Ende seines Lebens hat A. den Gnostizismus wieder abgeschüttelt, als Denker eine ganz eigenartige, weitherzige Position eingenommen und als Christ sich auf der Planke des paulinischen Heilsglaubens gerettet, tolerant gegen alle, die sie mit ihm ergreifen. Festgehalten aber hat er auch in diesem letzten Stadium an der Erkenntnis, daß das AT in seinen Hauptteilen ein Fabelbuch sei. Durch diese Erkenntnis trat er an die Seite der gebildeten Griechen, die das Christentum bekämpften [4],

---

1 Mit dem Valentianismus, dessen Äonenlehre ihm freilich völlig fremd geblieben ist, teilt Apelles die differenzierende Beurteilung der Welt und des AT, welche göttliche, „mittlere" und schlechte Bestandteile unterscheidet.

2 Tatian ist rigider Enkratit und Ehefeind wie Apelles und hat den Weltschöpfer ähnlich aufgefaßt wie dieser; denn seine Meinung, der Weltschöpfer habe in dem Worte „Fiat lux" eine Bitte an die oberste Gottheit gerichtet (Clemens, Eclog. 38; Orig., de orat 24), kommt der Ansicht des Apelles sehr nahe, er sei bei der Schöpfung von Christus unterstützt worden und habe auch den obersten Gott gebeten, seinen Sohn zur Erlösung zu senden. Da beide ihre Schule in Rom hatten (die Tatians war die ältere, da Irenäus sie schon kennt), so darf man einen gewissen Zusammenhang hier vermuten, über den sich aber nichts Näheres sagen läßt.

3 Im Grunde ist Apelles trotz seines Monotheismus „mythologischer" als Marcion; denn seine beiden Engel, der weltschaffende und der feurige, sind in Wahrheit Halbgötter (M.s Weltschöpfer ist das seiner Theorie nach nicht), und seine Lehre vom Leibe Christi, den auch er für ungeboren hält, ist vorwitziger als M.s Doketismus, der bei der negativen Beurteilung stehen bleibt.

4 Sein ehemaliger Lehrer M. stand bekanntlich auf seiten der Juden, weil er das AT. für ein wahrhaftiges, wörtlich zu erklärendes Buch hielt.

und diese fatale Bundesgenossenschaft wird der Verbreitung seiner Schule nicht zuträglich gewesen sein.

IX. Marcions geschichtliche Stellung und seine Bedeutung für die Entstehung der katholischen Kirche.

Die geschichtliche Orientierung, die wir an die Spitze dieser Darstellung gestellt haben, ist hier wieder aufzunehmen:

Das Lebenswerk eines Mannes ist durch den Kampf bestimmt, den er geführt hat. M. hat nur einen Gegner bekämpft, die „pseudoapostoli et Judaici evangelizatores". Kein Wort von ihm, das die Heiden angreift, ist uns bekannt; — den „Betrug" und „die wortreiche Eloquenz" ihrer Philosophen schob er einfach beiseite — über Judenchristen im nationalen Sinn des Worts schweigt er ganz, die Gnostiker erwähnt er nicht [1], und die Juden bekämpft er, weil er die judaistischen Christen bekämpft.

---

1 Was das Verhältnis des Christentums M.s zum Gnostizismus betrifft, so stelle ich den Satz voran: Wo der Marcionitismus oberflächlich, d. h. nach seinen Lehren und nicht zugleich nach seinen Motiven aufgefaßt und angeeignet wurde, konnte er sehr leicht als „Gnostizismus" erscheinen und wirken, und ist nicht nur seinen Gegnern, sondern vermutlich auch manchen seiner Anhänger so erschienen; denn er hatte mit vielen Gnostikern gemeinsam:

(1) die Verwerfung des AT.'s,

(2) die Auffassung Gottes als des Unbekannten,

(3) die Trennung des Weltschöpfers vom höchsten Gott,

(4) die Auffassung Gottes als des absolut Guten,

(5) die Auffassung vom Weltschöpfer (= Gesetzgeber) als eines irgendwie mittleren Wesens,

(6) die Annahme der Ewigkeit der Materie,

(7) den Doketismus in bezug auf Christus,

(8) die Lehre, daß das Fleisch nicht aufersteht,

(9) die dualistische Askese.

Aber eben die Verwandtschaft in diesen Lehren allein zeigt, daß durch sie weder das Wesen des Gnostizismus noch das des Marcionitismus zum Ausdruck gebracht werden kann; denn

Unter diesen aber, den von den pseudoapostoli und Judaici evangelizatores Bekehrten und Betörten, versteht er die ganze große Christenheit; sie ihres Irrtums zu überführen und durch Reformation zum wahren Christentum zurückzubringen, ist sein einziges Streben gewesen.

---

(1) im Gnostizismus ist die Religion durch die Gnosis bestimmt, bei Marcion bestimmt sie die Pistis an den gekreuzigten Christus; dort wird die Aristokratie der Geistesmenschen gesammelt, hier sind die demütigen Brüder die Berufenen.

(2) dort herrscht in Abgrund und Schweigen der unnennbare Gott, hier herrscht Gott als Christus; dort ist der Menschengeist dem höchsten Gott stammverwandt, hier ist dieser der absolut Fremde und erst durch die Erlösung Nahe,

(3) dort herrschen außerbiblische Mythen, hier fehlen sie,

(4) dort ist die Lehre vom Abstieg und Aufstieg der Seele (des Geistes) fundamental, hier fehlt sie; dort kehrt der Geist in seine Heimat zurück, hier soll ihm eine Fremde zur Heimat werden,

(5) dort herrscht eine apostolische Geheimtradition, hier fehlt sie,

(6) dort bleiben die Schlechten schlecht, hier sind sie erlösungsfähig,

(7) dort gibt es Mysterienmagie, hier fehlt sie.

Die bedeutendsten elementa concordiae et discordiae zwischen dem Gnostizismus und Marcion mögen damit bezeichnet sein; ohne Zweifel sind die letzteren die wichtigeren; zugleich zeigen sie die Verwandtschaft mit den großkirchlichen Glaubensüberzeugungen aufs deutlichste. Von hier aus könnte man den Marcionitismus in die Mitte zwischen der Großkirche und dem Gnostizismus setzen; aber solch' eine Betrachtung wäre nichts weniger als aufklärend, da in jenem Zeitalter schlechterdings niemand so geurteilt hat und urteilen konnte. Aber begreiflich ist es von hier aus, daß der Marcionitismus eine Kirche bilden konnte wie die vorkatholischen Christen, und anderseits, daß diese ihn mit dem Gnostizismus in einen Topf werfen mußten. Aber auch das ist zu erwarten, daß, wie nach freilich sehr übertriebener Überlieferung Marcion vom Gnostizismus gelernt hat, so auch umgekehrt Gnostiker von ihm gelernt haben. Sein Antithesenwerk vor allem mußte ihnen sehr willkommen sein, und es gibt auch einige Spuren der Wirksamkeit des Werks bei ihnen. Nicht unwahrscheinlich ist ferner, daß der Valentinianer Ptolemäus von M.s doppelter Auffassung des „Gerechten" gelernt hat (s. o. S. 112 f.). Andrerseits ist darauf hinzuweisen, daß, wenn jene oben zusammengestellten neun Stücke im ganzen der Religion die Hauptsachen gewesen wären, alle gnostischen Schulen in der imponierenden Kirche Marcions sehr bald hätten untergehen müssen; aber das Gegenteil ist der Fall: sie bleiben neben ihr bestehen, vor allem auch Worin sah er ihren Irrtum? Im Grunde in einem Element, aus dem sich, wie aus einer schlechten Wurzel, ein ganzer Baum des Irrtums entwickelt hat: sie haben den neuen Wein in die alten Schläuche gegossen und das Evangelium in das AT transponiert. Diese Transposition sah er nicht in Einzelheiten und Kleinigkeiten — die Christenheit hatte zwar die jüdische Beschneidung, die Festordnung, die Speisegesetze usw. nicht angenommen; aber das machte auf ihn nicht den geringsten Eindruck und vermochte ihn nicht im geringsten zu beruhigen; denn der Schaden lag in seinen Augen viel tiefer: diese Christenheit betrachtet Gesetz und Evangelium als eine Einheit und verleugnet damit das Wesen des Evangeliums. Wo alles darauf ankommt zu scheiden[1], verbindet sie! Und auch das genügte ihm nicht, daß die Christenheit, wie er selbst, den gegenwärtigen Äon für gottfeindlich hielt, aus ihm herauswollte und das Unterpfand der Seligkeit in der Erlösung durch Christus zu besitzen gewiß war; denn wie konnte das der rechte Glaube sein, der in dem Schöpfer der Welt den Vater Jesu Christi erkannte?

Wie immer M. den Gegensatz von Glaube und Werken, Evangelium und Gesetz aufgefaßt und welche Folgerungen er aus ihm für die Religionslehre gezogen hat — er war das wirklich, was er sein wollte, ein Jünger des Paulus, der das Werk und den Kampf des Apostels wiederaufgenommen hat als ein wirklicher Reformator[2]; man versteht es, daß Neander ihn den ersten Protestanten nennen konnte.

---

deswegen, weil der Dualismus M.s kein echter metaphysischer ist und weil die religiöse Denkmethode und ihre Voraussetzungen bei den Gnostikern, wie sie sich in den oben angeführten 7 Punkten aussprechen, von denen M.s toto coelo verschieden sind. Ein Valentin hätte gewiß die Glaubenslehre M.s für eine „Bauernreligion" erklärt, d. h. für eine Spielart der psychischen Religion. Somit besteht die scharfe Unterscheidung, die wir in der Kirchengeschichte machen müssen, zwischen den Gnostikern und Marcion zu Recht, und ihre Aufhebung bedeutet eine schwere Verdunkelung.

1 M. nach Tertull. I, 19: „Separatio legis et evangelii proprium et principale opus".

2 M. nach Tertull. I, 20: „Non innovo regulam separatione legis et evangelii, sed retro adulteratam recuro".

Man darf noch einen Schritt weiter gehen: nicht nur den Kampf und das Werk des Paulus hat er wiederaufgenommen, sondern er hat das auch in der Glaubensgesinnung des Apostels getan; denn nur Christus den Gekreuzigten wollte er kennen; in ihm allein schaute er das Angesicht des gnädigen Gottes, und mit diesem Gott der Güte und Barmherzigkeit wußte er sich in Glaube und Liebe untrennbar verbunden, weil er sich durch Christus erkauft und erlöst wußte. Hinter ihm lag Sünde und Welt, hinter ihm Gebot und Gesetz.

Und hätte Paulus, wenn er nach drei Menschenaltern wiedererschienen wäre, über die Christenheit, die er nun fand, nicht auch die schärfsten Urteile gefällt, ja sie des Abfalls geziehen? Was hätte er wohl gesagt, wenn man ihm „den Hirten" des Hermas vorgelegt und ihm mitgeteilt hätte, die Christenheit folge diesem Buche als einer echten Offenbarung? Wie hätte er über diese Mandate, diese Visionen und Gleichnisse geurteilt, wie über die Selbstgerechtigkeit und Selbstgefälligkeit des Verfassers und über die stumpfe Bußgesinnung, die aus diesem Buche spricht, in welchem der Name Christi überhaupt nicht vorkommt? Oder welches Urteil hätten die Werke des Justin von ihm empfangen? Gewiß hätte er vieles mit Freude in ihnen gelesen; aber wie hätte er die Freiheits- und Tugendlehre Justins aufgenommen? Was hätte er über die Auseinandersetzung mit der Philosophie, über die Anerkennung Sokrates' und Platos was über die neue Gesetzlichkeit, die ihm in jeder nachapostolischen Schrift entgegentrat, gesagt?

Kein Zweifel — Paulus hätte das Auswachsen des christlichen Synkretismus mit Schmerz und Entrüstung wahrgenommen, wäre der Marcionitischen Kritik der Christenheit in den wichtigsten Stücken beigetreten, hätte diese auch als eine verführte und verirrte Herde beurteilt und in dem Mann, der hier als Reformator auftrat, seinen echten Schüler gesehen.

Aber Marcion zerschnitt das Band zwischen dem Gesetz und dem Evangelium, verwarf das AT, wies es einem anderen Gott zu, verkündigte Jesum Christum als Sohn eines fremden Gottes und leugnete seine Geburt und die Wahrhaftigkeit seines Fleisches. Kein Zweifel — Paulus hätte sich mit Entsetzen von diesem blasphemischen Lehrer abgewandt und ihn dem Satan übergeben, und sicher wäre ihm niemals auch nur von ferne die Frage aufgetaucht, ob er nicht selbst mit seiner Lehre an diesen grundstürzenden Irrtümern M.s schuld sei.

Und doch ist diese Frage eine sehr nötige Frage, und es ist nicht schwer zu zeigen, daß die extreme Lehre M.s, durch die er geradezu zum Stifter einer neuen Religion auf dem Boden der christlichen Überlieferung geworden ist, aus dem Paulinismus, bzw. aus einer Fortbildung desselben entstanden ist. Auch ist M. nicht der erste Fortbildner gewesen, sondern er führt diese Fortbildung nur zum Abschluß.

Zunächst muß man sich hier vergegenwärtigen, welche Fortbildung des Urchristentums die Lehre des Paulus selbst bedeutet; dabei mag die Lehre Christi auf sich beruhen bleiben; denn es ist nicht nötig, soweit zurückzugehen [1]:

Paulus hat die Geltung des ATlichen Gesetzes und damit das AT als eindeutige Unterlage der Religion für die zu bekehrenden Heiden außer Kraft gesetzt, an die Stelle des Messiasglaubens den Kyrios Christos mit seinem Heilswerk des Todes und der Auferstehung gestellt und die Religion mit dem Glauben an den Vater Christi, den Gott der Liebe und Erlösung, streng identifiziert. Etwas ganz Neues — auch im Sinne des Paulus — war damit gegeben: das Alte ist vergangen, siehe, es ist alles neu geworden [2]. Um den inneren Zusammenhang mit dem Gott des Gesetzes und der Propheten aber doch festhalten zu können, der ihm so selbstverständlich war, daß ihm hier niemals ein Zweifel auftauchen konnte, mußte er statt eines Mittels eine ganze Reihe aufbieten; denn jedes tut nur unvollkommene Dienste und hat seine enggezogenen Grenzen. Aber statt, angesichts der Unvollkommenheit jedes einzelnen Mittels zur Erklärung des Problems stutzig zu werden, sah Paulus in ihrer Fülle nur den Reichtum und die Weisheit Gottes und zog sich

---

1 Doch ist die Betrachtung nicht abzuweisen, vielmehr der weiteren Erwägung in hohem Maße würdig, daß von einem wichtigen Gesichtspunkt aus Jesu Verkündigung, die Lehre des Paulus und die Lehre Marcions eine konsequente Entwicklungslinie gegenüber der jüdischen Religion bilden.

2 S. hierzu die Einleitung, oben S. 11 f. Paulus ist dem urchristlichen Synkretismus der religiösen Motive und Überlieferungen durch die Reduktion des Stoffs auf eindeutige Glaubenserkenntnisse entgegengetreten und hat ebendadurch die Neuheit des Evangeliums ans Licht gestellt.

zuletzt, wenn jedes Mittel versagte, auf seine Unerforschlichkeit zurück. Die Mittel, die er aufbot, waren (1) eine eigentümliche dialektische Betrachtung der Erziehung des Menschengeschlechts im Zusammenhang mit einer Adam-Christus-Antithese, (2) eine besondere Dialektik in bezug auf Sünde und Gnade, Sünde und Gesetz, Schuld und Erlösung, Leben und Tod und (3) die allegorische Auslegung von Schriftstellen. Lehnt man diese Mittel ab oder vermag man ihnen überhaupt kein Verständnis abzugewinnen, so muß man Paulus streng dualistisch (prinzipieller Gegensatz des Gottes des Gesetzes und des Gottes des Evangeliums) verstehen, und muß dann folgerecht das, was dieser Auffassung widerspricht, für Interpolationen erklären[1].

---

1 Es gab freilich noch drei Auswege, die alle drei gewählt worden sind. Man konnte einfach über jene Paulinischen Ausführungen stillschweigend zur Tagesordnung übergehen, als existierten sie gar nicht (so ist in der Christenheit vor Irenäus vielfach verfahren worden), oder man konnte sie drehen, deuteln und abstumpfen (auch das ist geschehen) oder man konnte diesen Paulus für einen unsäglich verworrenen, aus Widersprüchen aller Art zusammengesetzten Denker und Schriftsteller erklären, mit dem jede Auseinandersetzung unmöglich sei. Das ist das Urteil, welches Porphyrius gefällt hat. — Das Urteil, zu welchem M. kam (prinzipieller Dualismus bei Paulus) wurde auch von zahlreichen Gnostikern geteilt, und wenn man sich auf den Standpunkt eines geborenen Griechen oder Römers stellt, war es fast unvermeidlich; denn wie sollte ein solcher in dem Gegensatz „Gott und der Gott dieser Welt" „Geist und Fleisch" usw. etwas anderes erkennen als den ihm von Plato und sonsther geläufigen Gegensatz? M.s Größe aber besteht darin, daß er zwar auch einen prinzipiellen Gegensatz hier erkannte, aber nicht den geläufigen religionsphilosophischen, und daß er scharfblickend und ehrlich genug war, um andrerseits einzusehen, wie viele Ausführungen in den Briefen zu diesem Gegensatz nicht stimmen. Die übrigen, die den Apostel zu einem Dualisten machten, halfen sich durch sophistische Auslegungen über die monotheistischen und das AT anerkennenden Ausführungen des Apostels hinweg (genau so, wie umgekehrt die kirchlichen Theologen die Sätze über Sünde, Gnade und Prädestination mißhandelten) — Marcion allein zog die Konsequenz, die schlechterdings unvermeidlich ist, wenn man sich (irrtümlich) überzeugt hat, daß Paulus den Gott des Evan-

Diesen Standpunkt nahm M. ein. Auf die Sache, d. h. auf die Religion gesehen, tat er damit von dem gegebenen Boden des Paulinismus aus einen Schritt, der an sich nicht größer, sondern kleiner war als der Schritt, den Paulus getan hatte[1]; denn nach Paulus ist die alte Religionsordnung des jüdischen Gottes, an welchem das Urchristentum vor und neben ihm festhielt, abgetan, und das AT ist nicht mehr die göttliche Urkunde, aus welcher man den Heilswillen Gottes und sein Wesen jetzt zu erkennen hat. Eine Urkunde aber, zumal eine göttliche, die nur bedingt gilt, ist im Grunde geliums von dem des Gesetzes trenne: er erklärte, daß in den paulinischen Briefen Unpaulinisches stecke, das man tilgen müsse. Diese Folgerichtigkeit machte M. in einem Zeitalter der Konfusionen und Verkleisterungen nur Ehre, so verkehrt der Ausgangspunkt ist.

---

Es mag hier die Stelle sein, um M.s Verhältnis zu Paulus an dem Hauptpunkte kurz zu beleuchten. Überzeugt man sich, daß M. in bezug auf die tiefe Würdigung der Begriffe Sünde und Gnade, Gesetz und Evangelium, Gesetzesgehorsam und Glaube wirklich ein Schüler des Paulus gewesen ist und sie ihm nachempfunden hat, so muß man andererseits anerkennen, daß ihm die paulinische Denkweise (s. Leisegang, Der Apostel Paulus als Denker, 1923) absolut verschlossen geblieben ist. Während die Denktechnik des Paulus in bezug auf die ersten und letzten Dinge durchaus dialektisch ist (weil Gott ihm πάντα ἐν πᾶσιν ist), ist dieses Niveau M. unverständlich und unerreichbar geblieben. Sein Denken ist vielmehr von dem Satz des Widerspruchs vollkommen beherrscht und von der Unfähigkeit, über ihn hinaus etwas zu verstehen. Das ist überall klar, zeigt sich aber am deutlichsten bei seinem Begriff der „Gerechtigkeit". Hier wäre er genötigt gewesen, das Problem dialektisch durchzudenken (denn auch der gute Gott hat nach M. Gerechtigkeit und das gerechte Gesetz hat auch Gutes); allein er ist, soweit wir zu urteilen vermögen (s. S. 112), in diesem Problem stecken geblieben und hat es nicht durchdacht. Als Erlöster empfindet er also mit Paulus und ist wie dieser innerlich beherrscht von dem Glauben an den gekreuzigten Christus, als theologischer Denker bezeichnet er aber geradezu den Gegenpol zu Paulus, zieht den Apostel gewaltsam auf sein eigenes Niveau herab und entstellt ihn damit aufs schlimmste; indessen — kommt er ihm zuletzt nicht doch nahe, indem auch nach seiner Eschatologie der Demiurg schließlich verschwindet und Gott als πάντα ἐν πᾶσιν erscheint? Unterscheidet er sich, von hier aus betrachtet, nicht lediglich durch einen stärkeren Pessimismus in bezug auf die Welt und den gegenwärtigen Weltlauf von dem Apostel?

1 In seinen Konsequenzen freilich war er unübersehbar groß.

samt ihrem Urheber außer Kraft gesetzt. Der Paulinismus bedeutete also eine ungeheure Revolution in der jüdisch-christlichen Religionsgeschichte. Daß die Kirche bei der Paulinischen Halbheit stehen geblieben ist, ja sie bald sogar nach rückwärts revidiert hat, ist erstaunlich und ausschließlich aus der ungeheuren äußeren und inneren Autorität des AT im Zusammenhang mit dem geschichtlichen Ursprung des Christentums aus dem Judentum zu verstehen. Aber es steht doch keineswegs so, als sei M. der einzige gewesen, der die Paulinische Halbheit empfunden hat, vielmehr sind uns aus der nichtgnostischen Christenheit des nachapostolischen Zeitalters mehrere Ansätze verschiedener Art überliefert, über sie hinauszukommen. Wenn der Verfasser des Hebräerbriefs in bezug auf das AT nur die Betrachtung gelten läßt, daß es etwas Schattenhaftes (c. 10, 1) und nunmehr veraltet sei (c. 8, 13), so geht er damit in der Beurteilung dieses Buchs weiter als Paulus und spricht ihm jede Geltung für die Gegenwart ab; wenn ferner der Verf. des Barnabasbriefs unzweideutig und mit dem Bewußtsein, daß es sich um die wichtigste Sache handelt, erklärt, durchweg und überall sei das wörtliche Verständnis des AT ein vom Teufel herbeigeführtes, greuliches Mißverständnis der Juden und wer diesem Mißverständnis in Glauben, Lehre, Kultus, Lebensordnung usw. folge, sei ein Satanskind — so schafft er einfach und förmlich aus dem AT ein zweites Buch; nur dieses Buch hat für die Christen Gültigkeit! Auch hier ist die Identität des Gottes des Gesetzes und des Evangeliums, wie von Paulus, festgehalten, aber um welchen Preis! Auf solch eine Sophisterei wollte sich Marcion nicht einlassen. Sehr beachtenswert ist es auch, daß Ignatius in seinem Brief an die Philadelphener (c. 8) gegen die These judaistischer Christen: „Wenn ich etwas nicht im Archiv (im AT) finde, so glaube ich es nicht, auch wenn es im Evangelium steht", schreibt: „Mir ist das Archiv Jesus Christus, sein Kreuz, sein Tod, seine Auferstehung und der von ihm gestiftete Glaube". Das kommt einer Abrogation des AT, weil durch das Evangelium ersetzt und daher überflüssig, sehr nahe. M. schuf wirklich aus den Paulusbriefen und dem Evangelium „das Archiv", weil sie den Kreuzestod und die Auferstehung enthalten. Auch auf den Verfasser des Diognetbrief sei noch hingewiesen, der in seiner Apologetik ganz vom AT. absieht, Christus als den einzigen Gottesgesandten erscheinen läßt und in Gott nur die Liebe und Güte hervorhebt [1].

Aber die wichtigste Erscheinung auf der Linie von Paulus zu Marcion ist das Johannesevangelium samt den Briefen. Zwar steht der Verf. in bezug auf das Gesetz und die Propheten theoretisch auf dem Grunde des Paulus, läßt Jesum erklären, daß das Heil von den Juden kommt und daß das AT ihn bezeugt. Er denkt nicht daran, zwei Götter zu unterscheiden [2]; aber in seinem lebendigen religiösen Denken geht er in bezug auf den Gottesbegriff und die verwandten Fragen über Paulus und zwar in der Richtung auf M. hinaus. Inwiefern er mit diesem verwandt ist in bezug auf das Unternehmen, ein neues Evangelium vorzulegen, weil ihm die kursierenden Evangelienschriften nicht genügten, darauf ist bereits oben S. 70 f. hingewiesen worden. Die souveräne Stellung gegenüber der Tradition, ja gegebenenfalls ihre Nichtachtung charakterisiert beide, und die Motive sind hier und dort sehr ähnlich: Johannes und Marcion wollen aus dem bunten Stoff, den jene Schriften bringen, eine durch Hauptgedanken zentralisierte Darstellung schaffen; sie wollen die Neuheit der Erscheinung Christi und seines Evangeliums scharf herausarbeiten; sie wollen den absoluten Wert seiner Person und seines Werkes begründen, seine schlechthinige Überweltlichkeit und mit ihr seine volle Gottheit zu deutlicher Darstellung bringen und allein die neue trostreiche Gotteserkenntnis, die durch ihn und an ihm aufgeleuchtet ist, aussagen.

Im Sachlichen und Geschichtlichen zeigt sich die Verwandtschaft. In bezug auf jenes sei darauf hingewiesen, daß auch nach Johannes Gott (er ist „Geist", wie bei Marcion: „spiritus salutaris") die Liebe ist, welche die Furcht austreibt [3], und ausschließlich als Liebe soll er vorgestellt werden — freilich

---

1 Bunsen legte deshalb den Brief Marcion bei!

2 Wie diese, so liegen auch andere durchgreifende Unterschiede zwischen Marcion und Johannes so klar auf der Hand, daß es unnötig ist, sie anzuführen.

3 In dieser Richtung geht der Johanneische Gottesbegriff im ersten Brief über den Paulinischen hinaus (trotz Röm. 8, 35; denn s. Phil. 2, 12) und ist eindeutiger; gerade dies ist aber auch die Richtung, in der M. bis zum Ende gegangen ist.

nach M. hat Gott nicht die W e l t geliebt, sondern die Menschen. Ferner erscheint der Sohn als ein solcher, der selbst Macht hat, sein Leben zu opfern und zu nehmen (10, 18); nach M. hat er sich selbst auferweckt, und dem Marcionitischen Modalismus entsprechen zahlreiche Johanneische Aussagen. Die ganze Johanneische Dialektik über das „Richten" Gottes hat den Gedanken zur Voraussetzung, daß der Vater nicht richtet, sondern das Gericht dem Sohn übergeben hat; aber auch der Sohn spricht (12, 47), daß er die Ungläubigen nicht richten werde; „denn ich bin nicht gekommen, die Welt zu richten, sondern die Welt selig zu machen". Auch er ist also nur Liebe und Erlösung. Das ist ganz im Sinne Marcions. Und wie bei ihm, steht in e i n e r Gedankenreihe des Johannes der Kosmos als eine dunkle, fremde, feindliche Macht Gott gegenüber; die Menschen gehören zu diesem Kosmos, der (I Joh. 5, 19) ganz und gar ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ κεῖται, und müssen von ihm und aus ihm erlöst werden. Auch was Johannes von den „Juden" sagt, nähert sich der Auffassung M.s von ihnen; denn, unbeschadet anderer Auffassungen, die Joh. über sie hegt, sind sie die eigentlichen Feinde Christi, die Kosmos-Menschen, d e r e n V a t e r d e r T e u f e l i s t. Dies und vieles Verwandte wird zwar bei Johannes bekanntlich dann wiederum einer anderen Betrachtung unterworfen, nach welcher sie nicht das letzte und abschließende Wort dieses religiösen Denkers enthalten; aber sie sind doch da und dürfen nicht übersehen werden. Für M. sind sie das letzte Wort: die Juden sind ihm als das erwählte Volk des Weltschöpfers die Feinde Christi κατεξοχήν, und ihre Patriarchen, Propheten und Führer können nicht erlöst werden. Die Eigenschaften aber, um derenwillen die Juden nach M. unerlösbar sind, ihr Pochen auf Moses, ihre verblendete Verkennung des wahrhaft Guten und ihre fleischliche Selbstgerechtigkeit, sind auch nach Johannes, der sie in der Apokalypse „die Synagoge des Satan" nennt, für sie charakteristisch.

Damit sind wir bereits zur g e s c h i c h t l i c h e n Betrachtung, welcher beide Männer gefolgt sind, übergegangen. Über Paulus hinaus stellt Joh. in dem Gespräch Jesu mit der Samariterin der neuen Anbetung im Geist und in der Wahrheit die jüdische und heidnische Anbetung als gleichartig und gleichfalsch gegenüber; wie M. kann er Jesum sagen lassen, daß alle, die vor ihm gekommen, Räuber und Mörder gewesen sind; wie M. schließt er die Verkündigung der Gnade und der Wahrheit aus dem AT aus — nur das Gesetz hat Moses verkündigt. Aber weiter; es liegt auf dem Wege zu Marcion, wenn es Joh. für überflüssig hält, obgleich Matthäus und Lukas bereits ihre Evangelien verfaßt hatten, von der Geburt Christi zu reden, wenn er ferner die Bedeutung der Taufe Christi auf ein Zeichen herabdrückt, das dem Täufer gegeben werden sollte, und wenn er zwar die Botschaft: „Das Wort ward Fleisch", verkündet, aber das Menschliche in Christus in einer gespenstigen Schwebe hält.

Diese Züge, die sich vermehren lassen, mögen genügen, um zu zeigen, daß der Marcionitismus geschichtlich nicht wie aus der Pistole geschossen in die Erscheinung getreten ist. Gewiß — nicht Johannes hat ihn vorbereitet, wohl aber eine Entwicklung, die sich an den Paulinismus auf heidenchristlichem Gebiet mit innerer Notwendigkeit anschließen mußte, und deren stärkste Elemente wir bei Johannes finden. Er selbst allerdings als geborener Jude hat es verstanden, die letzten Konsequenzen zugunsten der allgemeinen Tradition zu vermeiden und die Autorität des jüdischen Gottes samt seinem Buche aufrecht zu erhalten.

Marcion und zahlreiche Christen mit und neben ihm vollzogen den Schnitt [1] und trennten im Interesse der Neuheit des Christentums, seiner Eindeutigkeit und seiner Kraft, das Evangelium vom AT und von seinem Gott; aber nur von M. wissen wir, daß er sich geschichtlich Rechenschaft gegeben hat, warum er es tat und wie das gewaltige Unternehmen zu rechtfertigen sei. Während Johannes mit pneumatischer Souveränität und Sicherheit seine einschneidenden Korrekturen und Sublimierungen der Tradition als geschichtliche Tatsachen vorgetragen hat, besaß M. — das gibt ihm in der gesamten Geschichte der

---

1 Wie groß im Verhältnis zu den traditionstreuen Christen die Zahl der Christen war, die im nachapostolischen Zeitalter und bis gegen das Ende des 2. Jahrh. das AT verworfen haben, wissen wir leider nicht. Merkwürdig ist es immerhin, daß Tert. V, 20 schreibt: „Hodie maior pars est omnibus in locis sententiae nostrae quam haereticae". Es ist nicht ganz unmöglich, daß es im 2. Jahrhundert ein Jahrzehnt gegeben hat, in welchem die Christen, welche das AT verwarfen, zahlreicher waren als die, welche es anerkannten.

alten Kirche eine einzigartige Stellung — ein klares Bewußtsein von seiner Pflicht als Kritiker, seinen Standpunkt geschichtlich zu begründen. Es wird dabei immer denkwürdig bleiben, daß er mit sicherem Griff den Galaterbrief zur Unterlage wählte — wie in der Neuzeit Semler und F. Chr. Baur —, ferner aber, daß neben diesem Brief und den anderen Paulusbriefen allgemein anerkannte Urkunden oder zuverlässige Überlieferungen schon damals nicht mehr vorhanden gewesen sein können, die so übertriebene Schlüsse verboten, wie er und später Semler und Baur sie gezogen haben[1]. Aus dem Galaterbrief schloß M., daß Paulus ein total anderes Evangelium verkündet habe als die Urapostel, nämlich das echte Evangelium Christi, das jene judaistisch verfälscht hätten, ferner, daß Paulus in allen seinen Briefen nur eine Lebensaufgabe und einen Kampf gekannt habe, den Kampf gegen die Judaisten. In seinen Auslegungen der Paulusbriefe stellte er dies ans Licht, und nun war es ihm auch möglich, Echtes und Unechtes in ihnen

1 Das ganze Unternehmen M.s ist ein Beweis dafür, daß es zwei bis drei Menschenalter nach Paulus ein maßgebendes, jede Subjektivität in der Konstruktion der Vergangenheit zügelndes Wissen um den geschichtlichen Verlauf der Dinge (abgesehen von den Schriften, die auch wir noch besitzen) nicht mehr gegeben hat; sonst hätte es M. gar nicht wagen können, mit einer so grundstürzenden Betrachtung hervorzutreten. Der Satz Ritschls bewährt sich auch hier: „Nirgendwo ist das geschichtliche Gedächtnis kürzer als unter der Herrschaft einer Tradition"; die Tradition war in diesem Fall die willkürliche Bestimmung und Schätzung des „Apostolischen". Unter den Schutz dieses Titels stellte man die Ausgestaltung des urchristlichen Synkretismus und aller der religiösen Motive, die man in der Gegenwart brauchte. M. hat ganz richtig den Unwert dieser Tradition erkannt; sein Heilmittel aber, obgleich aus dem Grundgedanken des Paulus geboren, war geschichtlich betrachtet noch falscher. — Die Apostelgeschichte, eine für die Paulinische Zeit wesentlich zuverlässige Quelle, war allerdings vorhanden und M. hat sie gekannt; aber er hat sie, die übrigens noch nirgendwo als ein heiliges Buch galt, als eine durchaus falsche Quelle beurteilt und verworfen, weil sie nach seiner Auffassung den Paulusbriefen widersprach und dazu jenem Lukas zugeschrieben wurde, dessen Namen die Judaisten dem echten Evangelium vorgesetzt haben, als sie es verfälschten.

zu unterscheiden und diese Unterscheidung auf das Evangelium auszudehnen. Die Parallelen zur Arbeit der Tübinger Schule sind hier überall so frappant, daß sie einer Hervorhebung nicht bedürfen. Allerdings besteht der Unterschied, daß diese Schule nicht soweit gegangen ist, dem Paulus die Anerkennung des AT und des ATlichen Gottes abzusprechen, und daß sie andere Mittel als M. besaß, um das echt Paulinische vom „Deuteropaulinismus" zu trennen; aber dieser Unterschied ist schließlich nicht sehr groß; denn in der „Idee" hat Paulus auch nach Baur den ATlichen Gott preisgegeben und in gewissem Sinn hat er mit dieser Behauptung recht (s. o.) [1].

Wenn M. aber den angeblichen Befund in den echten Briefen des Paulus mit dem gegenwärtigen Zustand der großen Christen-

---

1 Die Übereinstimmung zwischen M. und den Tübingern ist sehr groß. Beide haben darin recht, daß man die bewegende Seele des Paulinismus, die Größe des Lebenswerks des Apostels und das Verständnis des apostolischen Zeitalters vor allem aus dem Kampf gegen die Judaisten zu erkennen habe — eine geschichtliche Einsicht ersten Ranges, die in der langen Periode zwischen M. und den Tübingern verloren ging und auch von Luther nicht als geschichtliche Erkenntnis für das Verständnis des Urchristentums geltend gemacht worden ist. Aber beide haben darin unrecht, daß sie den ganzen Paulus mit seinen Gedanken und Interessen, sowie alle urchristlichen Entwicklungen aus jenem Kampfe glaubten verstehen zu können. Bei M. hatte diese Überzeugung den Erfolg, daß er (wie die Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen, aber auch seine Exegesen lehren) in den Partien der Briefe, die er für echt erkannte, in der gewaltsamsten Weise alles auf den judaistischen Gegensatz zurückführte; aber auch bei den Tübingern ist es nicht wesentlich anders, wenn ihr Verfahren auch nicht ganz so grotesk ist. Da sie aber beide wirkliche Kritiker waren und nicht Sophisten, so sahen sie sich beide genötigt, aus ein und demselben Gesichtspunkt große Streichungen in den Paulusbriefen vorzunehmen. Dabei verfuhren die Tübinger radikaler als M., da sie nicht weniger als sechs von den zehn Paulusbriefen für unecht erklärten, M. aber verwegener, da er sich zutraute, die angeblichen höchst zahlreichen großen und kleinen Interpolationen erkennen und ausscheiden zu können, welche die Briefe durch die Judaisten erlitten hätten. Übrigens haben es auch die Tübinger versucht, eine Reihe von Schwierigkeiten durch die Annahme von tendenziösen Interpolationen zu beseitigen, namentlich die Jüngeren unter ihnen, nachdem sie den Radikalismus der Schule gemildert hatten (vgl. die Arbeiten von Hilgenfeld und Holtzmann); sie sind also als Kritiker Marcioniten geworden.

heit verglich, mußte er einsehen, daß der Apostel umsonst gearbeitet hatte, und daß trotz seiner unsäglichen Bemühungen alles beim alten geblieben war; alles hatte sich wieder infolge der Anerkennung des AT in gesetzliche Formen niedergeschlagen, und mit Schmerz sah M., daß die Christenheit wieder eine Spielart des Judentums geworden war. Die Energie und die Kraft der Organisation, die er nun einsetzte, um das Werk des Paulus wieder aufzunehmen, eine reformierte und geschlossene Christenheit zu schaffen und alle abgefallenen Brüder zurückzurufen, ist neben seiner religiösen Konzeption das Bewundernswerteste an ihm, und erstaunlich waren seine Erfolge. In dem VII. und VIII. Kap. ist dargestellt worden, was er als Organisator gewollt und durchgesetzt hat; hier muß diese Leistung noch im Zusammenhang gesetzt werden mit der Entwicklungsgeschichte des Urchristentums zum Katholizismus:

Die große Christenheit war „katholisch" durch die Fülle der religiösen Motive (den Synkretismus), die sie umspannte, und sie war „katholisch" durch die Universalität ihrer Mission; aber da sie lediglich dasselbe Buch wie die Synagoge besaß, mußte ihre Verkündigung „zweier" Bünde", auf die sie sich, dem Apostel folgend, stützte (s. Justins Dialog), unvollkommen und fragwürdig bleiben; sie hatte für den zweiten und wichtigeren Bund keine Urkunde! Aber sie hatte auch keine zentralisierte, katholische Lehre; denn so wichtig es war, daß wenigstens ein kurzes und gehaltvolles Taufbekenntnis in Rom, vielleicht auch in Kleinasien, existierte, so besaß dasselbe doch noch keine „katholische" Verbreitung und Dignität, und neben ihm erbaute, lehrte und spekulierte jeder christliche Lehrer auf eigene Faust. Endlich entsprach dieser concordia discors der Lehre, die nur ganz unsicher durch die Berufung auf die unformulierte „apostolische Überlieferung" zusammengehalten wurde, die lockere Verbindung der Gemeinden untereinander. Den fehlenden inneren Zusammenhang suchten Bischöfe und Lehrer durch persönliche Mahnschreiben und Beschwörungen zu ersetzen; der Erfolg konnte nur ein ganz unvollkommener sein. Nur die römische Gemeinde sprach und handelte auch damals schon als Gemeinde in der Richtung auf den Aufbau einer Gesamtkirche.

Über diesen diffusen und für den Bestand der Christenheit gefährlichen Zustand der Dinge brach die Reformation Marcions herein. Die erste Notwendigkeit, die ihm aufgegangen war, da er die alte Urkunde verwarf und nur einen Bund anerkannte, war die Herstellung einer litera scripta ebendieses einzigen Bundes. Er und kein anderer hat sie geschaffen! Die zweite Notwendigkeit, die sich ihm aufgedrängt hatte, weil sie auf seinem Standpunkt selbstverständlich war, war die Verbindung des Evangeliums mit den Paulusbriefen und damit die segensreiche, zugleich aber verhängnisvolle Zweiteiligkeit des neuen Kanons. Er und kein anderer hat sie konzipiert! Die dritte Notwendigkeit, die er eingesehen, war, dem herrschenden Synkretismus der religiösen Erkenntnisse und Motive, dazu dem Prophetismus, der Allegoristik, der eindringenden philosophischen Spekulation, dem Rationalismus und Gnostizismus, kurz allen subjektiven Elementen ein Ende zu machen und an ihre Stelle nicht eine menschlich erklügelte „Lehre", wohl aber eine klare und eindeutige biblische Theologie zu setzen. Er hat dies durch seine „Antithesen" d. h. den in seiner Einförmigkeit höchst kräftigen Bibelkommentar getan! Endlich hat er die Notwendigkeit eingesehen, mit diesen neugeschaffenen Mitteln eine tatsächliche Einheit der Christenheit in Form einer großen Kirche herzustellen und dadurch ebendieser Christenheit Kraft und Dauer zu geben. Er selbst ist sein eigener Missionar gewesen und hat nach dem Zeugnis seines Zeitgenossen Justin seine Schöpfung „im ganzen Menschengeschlecht", d. h. im ganzen Reiche, ausgebreitet [1].

Die Einwendungen, daß er in allen diesen Stücken nicht der erste gewesen sei, sondern schon Vorhandenes nachgeahmt habe, sind sämtlich hinfällig. Vergebens hat man sich bemüht nachzuweisen, daß die Konzeption und Schöpfung einer zweiten heiligen Urkunde, des NT, schon vor M. in der großen Christen-

---

1 Es ist wohl möglich, daß nicht nur eine ursprüngliche Anlage M. zum Kirchenorganisator großen Stils gemacht hat, sondern auch sein Aufenthalt in Rom und seine zeitweilige Zugehörigkeit zur römischen Gemeinde. An ihrer universalkirchlichen Sorge mag er erkannt und gelernt haben, was für die Christenheit als ganze zu tun sei, und übertraf dann im Anlauf seine Lehrmeisterin an Energie und Tatkraft. Wenn dem so ist, so steckt in seinem „Katholizismus" ein römisch-katholisches Element.

heit erfolgt sei. Der Dialog Justins mit Trypho, von anderen negativen Zeugnissen zu schweigen, protestiert gegen diese Behauptung [1]. Wohl wußte man in der großen Christenheit seit Paulus von zwei Testamenten, aber in Form der Schrift besaß man nur eines, das alte, und dachte an keine Verdoppelung. Woher hätte man auch die Autorität für die Schöpfung eines neuen Testaments aufbringen sollen? [2] Ferner, wohl besaßen einige führende Gemeinden zur Zeit M.s schon die vier Evangelien und lasen sie im Gottesdienst neben dem AT, aber weder war diese Sammlung schon allgemein verbreitet, noch galt sie als die dem AT entsprechende, formell gleichwertige Urkunde [3]. Weiter, die Konzeption, die Briefe des Paulus dem Evangelium mit gleicher Dignität zuzuordnen, konnte dort nicht entstehen, wo der Apostel im Schatten der Urapostel stand; in diesem Schatten stand er aber in der großen Christenheit, entsprechend dem eigentümlichen Inhalt der „apostolischen Tradition", die auf Augenzeugenschaft alles Gewicht legte. Wenn daher die große Christenheit aus sich heraus das Evangelium und die Paulusbriefe verbinden wollte, hätte das immer nur durch ein urapostolisches Medium geschehen können; die Zeugnisse für einen so gestalteten Kanon sind aber sämtlich nachmarcionitisch [4]. Dazu, die Notwendigkeit, den Lehrinhalt des Christentums gegenüber allem groben und feinen Synkretismus und Subjektivismus, woher er auch komme, in sichere Grenzen zu fassen und ihn als biblische Theologie lediglich aus der heiligen Urkunde zu schöpfen, diese Theologie aber nicht kosmologisch, sondern soteriologisch aufzubauen, hat M. zuerst erkannt und ihr die konsequenteste

---

1 In der Christenheit sind also, bevor es zwei verbundene schriftliche Testamente gab, zwei feindliche vorhanden gewesen; das geschriebene NT ist als Gegner des AT von M. geschaffen worden, um dann erst, im Gegensatz zu ihm, in friedlicher Verbindung mit dem AT als die Oberstufe in der katholischen Kirche zu erscheinen; s. meine Schrift „Die Entstehung des NTs" S. 21 ff. (Beiträge zur Einl. in das NT, 6. Heft, 1914).

2 Diese Autorität war erst dann vorhanden, als die Konzeption gefaßt war, die gesamte echte schriftliche Hinterlassenschaft der Apostel sei ipso facto die heilige Grundlage und Richtschnur der Christenheit.

3 S. „Entstehung des NT.s" S. 46 ff.

4 S. a. a. O. S. 39 ff.

Folge gegeben. Endlich, die verstreuten Gemeinden durch dieses Verständnis des Christentums zu einer geschlossenen Einheit, zu einer tatsächlichen Kirche zusammenzuschließen und dadurch vor Zerfließen in die Zeitströmungen und in den Judaismus zu bewahren, hat ebenfalls M. als einzelner mit bewunderungswürdiger Energie zuerst unternommen.

Was taten die Bischöfe und Lehrer der großen Christenheit, als dieser „Wolf", wie sie sagten, in die Herde einbrach, als dieses „στόμα ἀθεότητος" zu reden anhob und dieser „Gigant" wider den Schöpfergott den Kampf begann. Was taten sie, als wie aus dem Boden gestampft sich inmitten der verstreuten Einzelgemeinden im Reich der geschlossene Bau der Marcionitischen katholischen Kirche erhob. Wir haben schon erzählt, daß sie den höchsten Eifer einsetzten und daß wir die Verbreitung der neuen Kirche in allen Provinzen des Reichs aus der Fülle der Gegenschriften kennen, die zwischen 150 und 200 überall geschrieben wurden. Daß diese Kirche zu verdammen sei, darüber gab es keinen Zweifel; aber um sich ihrer zu erwehren, hat die große Christenheit alles von Marcion rezipieren müssen und rezipiert, was er geschaffen hat, mit Ausnahme des religiösen Grundgedankens. Sie selbst hat nun erst auch ein schriftliches NT hervorgebracht; sie hat in diesem NT „Evangelium" und „Apostolus" wie M. auf einer Fläche verbunden (den „Apostolus" nach ihrer Tradition erweiternd); sie hat alsbald von M. gelernt, daß man die Lehre gegen ihr Zerfließen und gegen Einflüsse von außen sicherstellen müsse, indem man sie als Theologie des NTs zu fassen habe, und sie hat ebenfalls von ihm zu lernen begonnen, daß die Soteriologie der Kosmologie überzuordnen sei [1].

---

1 Bei der großen Gegenbewegung gegen M., die sich entwickelte, hatte die römische Gemeinde, von der er mit seiner Kirchenstiftung ausgegangen war, unzweifelhaft die Führung. Sie hat zuerst von M. gelernt, was von ihm zu lernen war, und es die anderen Gemeinden gelehrt. Sie hat dann noch Kräftigeres über M. hinaus zum Bau und zur Sicherstellung der neuen katholischen Kirche hervorgebracht. Die Konzeption des Gedankens der bischöflichen Sukzession und ihre Verbindung mit dem

Nicht nur durch die Tatsache, daß alle diese Stücke bei M. früher auftauchen als in der großen Kirche, wird die kausierende Priorität dieses einzigen Mannes bewiesen[1], sondern noch sicherer durch die Beobachtungen (s. Beilage III u. IV), wie stark die Marcionitische Bibel als solche auf die katholische eingewirkt hat. Vor allem spricht hier das mächtige Eindringen der Marcionitischen Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen in die lateinische Bibel der Kirche die beredteste Sprache[2]. Wie oft muß anfangs die Marcionitische Briefsammlung in die Hände der Katholiken gekommen und zunächst unerkannt geblieben sein!

Gedanken der Garantie für die traditio veritatis sind nicht von M., wenn wir auch in späterer Zeit von διαδοχαὶ τῶν ἐπισκόπων in den Marcionitischen Kirchen hören.

1 Daß auch ohne die Marcionitische Bewegung die innere kirchliche Entwicklung zur Schöpfung des NTs, zu seiner Zweiteiligkeit, zur christlichen Theologie als Theologie des neuen Buchs und zur (relativen) Zurückdrängung der Kosmologie geführt hätte, ist eine These, über die sich schwer diskutieren läßt; mir scheint sie keineswegs sicher. Wahrscheinlicher ist mir, daß die Kirche ohne jene Bewegung sich mit den vier Evangelien (in kanonisch unsicherer Dignität) neben dem AT begnügt hätte, daß sie daher auch schwerlich zur Überwindung des Diffusen in ihrer Lehre und zur Theologie des Buchs gekommen wäre (auch so ist sie durch die zwei Testamente, die sie nun anerkannte, und aus anderen Gründen nur sehr bedingt zu ihr gekommen) und daß die Kosmologie ihre Überordnung über der Soteriologie behauptet hätte. Wendet man aber ein, daß doch nicht M. allein hier in Betracht komme, sondern auch der Gnostizismus, so verkennt man die numerische und sachliche Inferiorität des Gnostizismus als kirchengeschichtlichen Faktors neben der Marcionitischen Kirche. Wohl nennt Tert. die Valentinianer — sie können allein hier in Betracht kommen — „frequentissimum collegium", aber eben „collegium". Gewiß haben Irenäus und er sie eingehend bekämpft, aber die exotischen valentinianischen geheimen Spekulationen reizten durch ihre Kuriositäten zur Aufdeckung und Widerlegung und da sie in die christliche Oberschicht eindrangen, verlangten sie eine besondere Aufmerksamkeit.

2 Es sei hier nochmals (s. S. 132* f.) daran erinnert, daß so konservative Kritiker wie die Herausgeber des „Novum Testamentum domini nostri J. Chr., Latine sec. edit. S. Hieronymi (Wordsworth und White) geschrieben haben (T. II, 1, 1913, p. 41): „Marcionis ‚Apostolicon' Latine etiam circumlatum est et communi usu tritum... et alias abunde testatum est, ecclesiam nonnihil etiam in Novi Testamenti corpore conformando haereticis debere".

Es fehlten eben Jahrzehnte lang in den katholischen Kirchen Exemplare der Paulusbriefe (s. o.). Aber auch die offenbare Tatsache, daß Irenäus, der Begründer der soteriologischen Kirchenlehre, sowie Tertullian und Origenes ihre biblischen Lehren über Güte und Gerechtigkeit, über Evangelium und Gesetz, über den Schöpfergott und den Erlösergott usw. im Kampf gegen M. entwickelt und dabei von ihm gelernt haben, ist von höchstem Belang[1]. Endlich — durch M. ist auch für die große Kirche Paulus wiedererweckt worden, den z. B. ein Lehrer wie Justin bereits ganz zur Seite geschoben und der römische Christ Hermas völlig ignoriert hatte. Vor allem aber die Stellung der großen Christenheit zum AT ist infolge der Auseinandersetzung mit M. eine wesentlich andere geworden als früher. Vorher war die Gefahr brennend, daß man das AT als die christliche Urkunde, teils wörtlich, teils allegorisch erklärt, anerkannte und sich mit ihr begnügte; jetzt wurde zwar diese Gefahr noch immer nicht endgültig beseitigt und eine befriedigende Klarheit nicht hergestellt, aber die Beurteilung, daß im AT „das Erz noch in den Gruben liegt" und daß es die legisdatio in servitutem sei gegenüber der NTlichen legisdatio in libertatem, schaffte sich doch Raum und Ansehen. Ja wir hören jetzt von hervorragenden Kirchenlehrern Äußerungen über das AT, die noch über Paulus hinausgehen. Das verdankt die Kirche Marcion.

Nimmt man hinzu, daß erst nach M. in der großen Christenheit die zielstrebige Arbeit begonnen hat, die h. Kirche, die Braut Christi, die geistliche Eva, den jenseitigen Äon vom Himmel herabzuführen und auf Erden die Gemeinden zu einer tatsächlichen Gemeinschaft und Einheit auf dem Grunde einer festen, im NT wurzelnden Lehre zusammenzuschließen, wie er es getan hat, so ist erwiesen, daß M. durch seine organisatorischen und theologischen Kon-zeptionen und durch sein Wirken den entscheidenden Anstoß zur Schöpfung der altkatholischen Kirche gegeben und das Vorbild geliefert hat. Ihm gebührt ferner das Verdienst, die Idee einer kanonischen Sammlung christlicher Schriften, des Neuen Testaments, zuerst erfaßt und zuerst verwirklicht zu haben. Endlich hat er als erster in der Kirche nach Paulus die Soteriologie zum Mittelpunkt der Lehre gemacht, während die kirchlichen Apologeten neben ihm die christliche Lehre auf die Kosmologie gründeten[1].

1 Die beiden Hauptsätze des Irenäus: „Der Schöpfergott ist auch der Erlösergott" und „der Sohn Gottes ist zum Menschensohn geworden", auf denen die ganze weitere Entwicklung der Kirchenlehre ruht, sind streng antimarcionitisch, und doch steckt M. hinter ihnen, weil Irenäus sie soteriologisch verstanden und entwickelt hat im Unterschied von der rationalistischen Dürftigkeit der meisten Apologeten vor ihm.

X. Marcions Christentum kirchengeschichtlich und religionsphilosophisch beleuchtet.

1. Der Antinomismus und die Verwerfung des Alten Testaments.

Zur Verwerfung des AT ist M. sowohl durch die Zurückweisung des Schöpfergottes als auch durch die Ablehnung des Gesetzes geführt worden; doch schon die letztere allein hätte

1 Ich habe diese Thesen, allerdings noch nicht mit der nötigen Bestimmtheit, sowohl in meinem Lehrbuch der Dogmengeschichte als auch in der Schrift über die Entstehung des NT seit Jahren dargelegt und erhärtet; aber in den kirchen- und dogmengeschichtlichen Lehrbüchern und Monographien, die seitdem erschienen sind, sind sie noch immer nicht gebührend anerkannt worden. Die Geschichte der Entwicklung des Urchristentums zur katholischen Kirche muß einen anderen Aufbau erhalten als bisher; M. und seiner Kirche muß für das 2. Jahrhundert mutatis mutandis eine so hervorragende Stelle (und eine ähnliche, in mancher Hinsicht noch weiter greifende Bedeutung) gegeben werden wie der Reformation im 16. Jahrhundert. Der Gnostizismus neben M. muß kirchengeschichtlich (anders ideengeschichtlich) einen bescheidenen Platz erhalten, und die altkatholische Kirche muß als ein (antithetisches und synthetisches) Produkt der Einwirkung Marcions auf das nachapostolische Christentum erscheinen. Die Christenheit (die Kirche) vor Marcion und nach Marcion — das ist ein noch viel größerer Unterschied als die abendländische Kirche vor der Reformation und nach der Reformation!

ihn dazu bestimmt; denn Gesetzliches in der Religion erschien ihm als ihre Verkehrung, und Apelles beurteilte, gewiß im Sinne des Meisters, das Gesetz der Schöpfung gegenüber als das noch Schlimmere. Denkt man mit Paulus und M. den Gegensatz zwischen „der Gerechtigkeit aus dem Glauben" und „der Gerechtigkeit aus den Werken" scharf durch und überzeugt sich zugleich von dem Unzureichenden der Mittel, mit denen Paulus das kanonische Ansehen des AT festhalten zu können geglaubt hat, so vermag kein konsequentes Denken die Geltung des AT als kanonischer Urkunde in der christlichen Kirche zu ertragen. Man darf es auch als sichere Erkenntnis aussprechen, daß die Kirche das AT weniger aus sachlichen Gründen festgehalten hat, als aus geschichtlichen. Zu den geschichtlichen muß auch die für die Kirche der alten Zeit maßgebende Erkenntnis gerechnet werden, daß Jesus selbst und Paulus auf dem Boden des AT gestanden haben. Über dieses Argument hätte auch M. als Kind seiner Zeit nicht hinwegkommen können; ebendarum beseitigte er es durch einen Gewaltstrich, indem er die Tradition über diese Stellung Jesu und seines Apostels für gefälscht erklärte.

Aber was wollen überhaupt in jener Zeit in bezug auf religiöse Erkenntnisse „Beweise" besagen? Sie waren unzureichend, verfehlt, sophistisch, ja oft nichts anderes als schillernde Seifenblasen. Und was will zu allen Zeiten in der Religion die gemeine Logik der Konsequenzen besagen, da sie doch ihre eigene Logik hat? Nur die Sachen selbst haben ein Interesse und verdienen eine ernsthafte Würdigung; denn in ihnen steckt das Unveränderliche und Unverlierbare.

Marcion hat die Christenheit vom AT befreien wollen, die Kirche aber hat es beibehalten; er hat nicht verboten, das Buch in die Hand zu nehmen, ja er hat sogar anerkannt, daß in ihm Nützliches zu lesen sei; aber er sah in ihm einen anderen Geist als im Evangelium, und er wollte in der Religion von zwei Geistern nichts wissen. Hat er recht oder hat die Kirche recht, die sich von dem Buche nicht getrennt hat? Die Frage muß aufgeworfen werden; denn vor uns steht nicht ein beliebiger Theologe ohne Wirksamkeit und Anhang, sondern der Mann, der das Neue Testament begründet und eine große Kirche geschaffen hat, die Jahrhunderte lang blühte. Er darf mit Recht auf die Ehre Anspruch machen, daß man ihn noch heute ernsthaft nimmt. Auch ist jene Geschichtsphilosophie noch nicht allgemein gültig, die unter allen Umständen dem Gewordenen recht gibt.

Die These, die im folgenden begründet werden soll, lautet: das AT im 2. Jahrhundert zu verwerfen, war ein Fehler, den die große Kirche mit Recht abgelehnt hat; es im 16. Jahrhundert beizubehalten, war ein Schicksal, dem sich die Reformation noch nicht zu entziehen vermochte; es aber seit dem 19. Jahrhundert als kanonische Urkunde im Protestantismus noch zu konservieren, ist die Folge einer religiösen und kirchlichen Lähmung.

Die Begründung der Erkenntnis, daß die Verwerfung des AT im 2. Jahrhundert (und im kirchlichen Altertum und Mittelalter überhaupt) ein Fehler war, ist leicht zu geben: damals war es, weil das Werden in der Geschichte den Augen verborgen war, schlechthin unmöglich, das AT zu verwerfen, wenn man nicht jede Verbindung der christlichen Religion mit ihm abschnitt und es für das Buch eines falschen Gottes erklärte [1]. So ist M. verfahren. Diese Behauptung ist aber so ungeschichtlich und grundstürzend, zugleich aber auch religiös so verwirrend, daß die Kirche ihr gegenüber alle Schwierigkeiten, alle verhängnisvollen Folgen und alle Sophismen, die die Beibehaltung des AT mit sich brachte, instinktiv und mit Recht in den Kauf genommen hat. Gewiß wird man dem Manne die Anerkennung nicht versagen, der, weil er das Evangelium und das Gesetz für unvereinbar hielt, sich mutig der mächtigsten Tradition entgegenwarf und das AT opferte; aber — von dem geschichtlichen Vacuum, das hinter der christlichen Religion nun entstand, und von der Vergewaltigung der Verkündigung Jesu und des Paulus abgesehen — welche unsägliche Verwirrung mußte entstehen, wenn man die Frömmigkeit der Psalmisten und die tiefen Prophetenworte als die Wirkungen einer verwerflichen Gottheit zu verurteilen gezwungen war! Unheiliges als Heiliges nehmen zu müssen, das kann jede Religion bis zu einem gewissen Grade ertragen; aber Gutes für schlecht, Heiliges für verwerflich zu halten, das muß sich rächen. Das AT hat die Christenheit in einen tragischen Konflikt gebracht: er war im 2. Jahrhundert und bis auf weiteres nicht so zu lösen, wie ihn M. gelöst hat, sondern wie die Kirche ihn löste. Das NT half ihr seit dem Ausgang des 2. Jahrhunderts dabei und beseitigte wenigstens einen Teil der drückenden Schwierigkeiten und der Sophismen, mit denen man sich die Augen verblendete; nun durfte man Stufen unterscheiden und das AT auf die niedere stellen; freilich blieb diese Unterscheidung immer bedroht, denn es kann — das erschien selbstverständlich — nur eine Inspiration und nur eine durch sie gesetzte lex veritatis geben.

1 Oder für ein Fabel- und Lügenbuch, was auf dasselbe herauskommt. Die wissenschaftlich sehr beachtenswerte vermittelnde Betrachtung, welche verschiedene Bestandteile in dem Buch unterschied (Ptolemäus, Pseudoklementinen u. a.), läuft auch auf eine Verwerfung als Ganzes hinaus; sie konnte übrigens nur Sache der Gelehrten und theologischen Schulen sein.

Durch Luther[1] wurde die Paulinisch-Marcionitische Erkenntnis des Unterschieds von Gesetz und Evangelium wieder in den Mittelpunkt gestellt; sie wurde der Hebel der Reformation als geistlicher Bewegung. Seine allen anderen Glaubensbetrachtungen übergeordnete These lautete im Negativen: „Lex non potest nobis monstrare verum deum"; das Gesetz ist „der Juden Sachsenspiegel", ist ein „leibliches Gesetz", das die Christen nicht mehr bedürfen, sie haben dafür das kaiserliche Recht; die Gerechtigkeit, die aus dem Gesetz kommt, auch aus seiner Summe, ist ficta et servilis. Die ganze Gesetzessphäre als irdische untersteht dem Christen[2], nicht er ihr; als religiöse aber gehört sie einer

---

1 Ich gehe sofort zu ihm über, obgleich die Geschichte der alten und mittelalterlichen Kirche hier auch noch Beachtenswertes bietet; doch ist es nicht von solcher Wichtigkeit, daß es erwähnt werden müßte. Vor allem kommt Augustin in Betracht und die Augustinisch-Paulinischen, sowie die antinomistischen Reaktionen in der Kirche; sie bieten alle eine Seite, nach der sie mit dem Marcionitismus verwandt sind. Eine Untersuchung: „Marcion und Augustin", wäre von besonderem Interesse; vgl. auch meine Abhandlung: „Geschichte der Lehre von der Seligkeit allein durch den Glauben in der alten Kirche" („Ztschr. f. Theol. u. Kirche" I, 1891, S. 82—178) und den zweiten Abschnitt dieses Kapitels.

2 „De legibus quibuscumque tandem nemo potest iudicare nisi ille, qui evangelium habet et intelligit" (Wrampelmeyer, Tagebuch über Luther des Cordatus, 1885, S. 55).

überwundenen Stufe an; wer das nicht erkennt, muß Jude bleiben. Da aber das Gesetz durch das gesamte AT, einschließlich der Propheten, hindurchgeht, so liegt das ganze einheitliche Buch unterhalb der Christenheit.

Noch deutlicher sah Agricola: er beurteilte das Gesetz als einen verfehlten Versuch Gottes, durch Drohung die Menschen zu leiten. Kann Gott aber etwas verfehlen?[1] Von hier aus war kaum mehr als ein Schritt zu der besonnenen Erklärung, die Luther in bezug auf die alexandrinischen Bestandteile des AT ja auch wirklich abgegeben hat, die ATlichen Bücher seien „gut und nützlich zu lesen", gehörten aber nicht neben das NT, weil sie keine kanonische Richtschnur seien. Welch eine Entlastung der Christenheit und ihrer Lehre wäre es gewesen, wenn Luther diesen Schritt getan hätte! Gehörte mehr christlicher Freimut und Kühnheit zu ihm als zu dem Schritt, den er in der Schrift De captivitate Babylonica gegenüber den Sakramenten unternommen hat, und war nicht die kritische Geschichtserkenntnis schon erwacht? Hatte Luther nicht selbst seit der Leipziger Disputation und bis zu der Schrift über die Konzilien und Kirchen ein einschneidendes Urteil nach dem anderen an der kirchengeschichtlichen Überlieferung vollzogen? Waren nicht auch in bezug auf das AT alle Prämissen gegeben, um ihm endlich sein kanonisches Ansehen in der Christenheit zu nehmen und ihm die hohe geschichtliche Stelle anzuweisen, die ihm gebührt?

Die Prämissen waren vorhanden, aber ihre Konsequenzen konnten noch nicht gezogen werden; denn an diesem Punkt waren Tradition und Gewohnheit doch noch stärker als die erst aufdämmernde geschichtliche Kritik — die Bibel stand fester als die Kirchenlehre, die allegorische Erklärung herrschte noch, und Luther waren die Psalmen so teuer wie die Paulusbriefe — und wenn ihm auch der Mut und die Kraft zuzutrauen sind, daß er einer bloßen Tradition entgegengetreten wäre, so war er an diesem Punkt noch religiös gebunden. Dies war das Entscheidende. Während Agricola wie Marcion

---

1 Auf die Verwandtschaft zwischen Agricola und Marcion hat Frank aufmerksam gemacht (Theologie der Konkordienformel II, S. 255).

verkündigte, daß Gottes Güte allein die Buße bewirkt, und damit die Überflüssigkeit des Gesetzes für den ordo salutis proclamierte, glaubte Luther, das Gesetz zur Erweckung der Gewissen nicht entbehren zu können und fand auch sonst Gesichtspunkte, nach welchen die Verkündigung des Gesetzes als des deutlichen Ausdrucks des h. Willens Gottes nicht aufhören dürfe. Er trat damit zwar in Widerspruch zu anderen, ihm teuren Glaubensgedanken, und das hat ihn selbst innerlich angefochten; aber seine konservative Stellung zum AT war entschieden. Daher blieb dem evangelischen Christentum die kanonische Autorität des AT als Schicksal; die widerstrebenden Mächte waren zu schwach, und die Erkenntnis: „Lex non potest nobis monstrare verum deum", fiel, auf das ganze AT angewendet, kraftlos zu Boden. Man muß noch mehr sagen: durch die Reformation erhielt der Biblizismus, der schon vor ihr im Wachsen gewesen war, eine außerordentliche Verstärkung, und das kam auch dem AT zu gut. Im Gebiete des Luthertums machten sich seine bedenklichen Wirkungen zwar weniger geltend, um so stärker aber in den täuferischen und den aus Täufertum und Reformation gemischten Kirchen, zu welchen die Calvinischen gehören. Hier hat das dem NT völlig gleichgestellte AT unheilvoll auf die Dogmatik, die Frömmigkeit und die christliche Lebenspraxis eingewirkt, in einigen Gruppen sogar einen islamitischen Eifer erzeugt, in anderen eine neue Art von Judaismus hervorgerufen und durchweg ein gesetzliches Wesen befördert. Durch das allmähliche Zurücktreten der allegorischen Methode der Exegese wurden diese Wirkungen verschlimmert; denn diese hatte die inferiorsten und bedenklichen Züge des AT zu einem großen Teil außer Kraft gesetzt. Wäre Marcion zur Zeit der Hugenotten und Cromwells wiedererschienen, so wäre er dem kriegerischen Gott Israels, den er verabscheute, mitten in der Christenheit wieder begegnet. Die Reaktion konnte nicht ausbleiben, und sie entstand in demselben Gebiete der Christenheit, dem Calvinischen, in welchem man so unbedenklich dem ATlichen Geiste Raum gelassen hatte.

Beim Übergang des 17. zum 18. Jahrhundert tauchte, zunächst in der englischen Aufklärung, die Frage nach dem Recht des AT in der Kirche wieder auf, jetzt aber als allgemeine Religions- und Geschichtsfrage. Auch wo sie in Anlehnung an Paulus beantwortet wurde, blieb doch sein tief begründeter Antinomismus außer Spiel. Am weitesten ist, Tindal folgend, Thomas Morgan gegangen und zeigt dabei in den Ergebnissen seiner geschichtlich-philosophischen Spekulation die frappantesten Parallelen zu Marcion, ohne ihm wirklich innerlich nahe zu stehen. Schon der Titel seines berühmten Dialogs zwischen einem christlichen Deisten und einem christlichen Juden (1737) mutet Marcionitisch an. Der Gott des AT wird ungefähr so gezeichnet wie von M. als ein beschränkter, kleinlicher und widerspruchsvoller Nationalgott, der auch Unmoralisches tut; die Mosaische Gesetzgebung ist ein ganz unbefriedigendes, partikular beschränktes und anstößiges Werk, eine Entstellung der lex naturae, die sich von den heidnischen Religionen wenig unterscheidet. Das Volk Israel, von Haus aus von schlechtem Charakter, geht an diesem Gesetze zugrunde. Jesus bringt die durch Offenbarung geklärte lex naturae; er hat zum wahren Schüler nur Paulus gehabt; die anderen Apostel alle haben Jesus mißverstanden und sind in das jüdische Wesen zurückgefallen, mit ihnen die Kirche, die also, wenn auch Verbesserungen durch die Einwirkungen des Paulus nicht gefehlt haben [1], bis heute noch zur Hälfte im Judentum steckt. Daß diese Darlegung, obgleich sie sehr viel Richtiges und Wertvolles enthielt, in ihren kecken Übertreibungen keinen Eindruck auf die offiziellen Kirchen machen konnte, versteht man. Für die Entstehung einer universalen und positiv-kritischen Geschichtsphilosophie ist sie von unermeßlicher Bedeutung geworden.

Diese hat sich im Anfang des 19. Jahrhunderts auf dem Grunde, aber unter scharfer Korrektur, der religionsgeschichtlichen Erkenntnisse der englischen Aufklärung entwickelt und dabei von Schleiermacher, Hegel, sowie von der Gesamtheit der aus dem Pietismus stammenden Denker den Sinn für die Eigenart und Würde der christlichen Religion erhalten. Im Formalen war (neben der Schulung für die Beobachtung des Tatsächlichen in allen seinen Erscheinungen) die Erkenntnis der Immanenz der Ideen im Wirklichen und der Entwicklung der Wahrheit im Gange

1 Die Idee, die katholische Kirche sei nach Kämpfen ein Ausgleich zwischen Petrinern und Paulinern, findet sich auch bei Morgan.

der Geschichte das Hauptergebnis. Im Materialen darf man, die christliche Religion anlangend, die Erkenntnis von der Eigenart ihres Gottesbegriffs sub specie Christi als das Hauptergebnis betrachten. Aus geschichtskritischen und religiösen Gründen folgte von hier aus mit zwingender Notwendigkeit und Evidenz, zumal da der Begriff der Inspiration im alten Sinne aufgelöst war, daß jede Art der Gleichstellung des AT mit dem NT und jede Autorität desselben im Christentum unstatthaft ist. Klar hat das Schleiermacher erkannt und andere neben ihm; Marcion hat recht bekommen, wenn auch teilweise mit anderer Begründung. Seit einem Jahrhundert wissen das die evangelischen Kirchen und haben nach ihren Prinzipien die Pflicht, dem Folge zu geben, d. h. das AT zwar an die Spitze der Bücher zu stellen, „die gut und nützlich zu lesen sind" und die Kenntnis der wirklich erbaulichen Abschnitte in Kraft zu erhalten, aber den Gemeinden keinen Zweifel darüber zu lassen, daß das AT kein kanonisches Buch ist. Aber diese Kirchen sind gelähmt, haben sich kein Organ schaffen können, durch welches sie sich von veralteten Traditionen zu befreien vermögen, und finden auch nicht die Kraft und den Mut, der Wahrheit die Ehre zu geben; sie fürchten sich vor den Folgen eines Bruchs mit der Tradition, während sie die viel verhängnisvolleren Folgen nicht sehen oder mißachten, die fort und fort aus der Aufrechterhaltung des ATs als heiliger und daher untrüglicher Schrift entstehen. Stammt doch die größte Zahl der Einwendungen, welche „das Volk" gegen das Christentum und gegen die Wahrhaftigkeit der Kirche erhebt, aus dem Ansehen, welches die Kirche noch immer dem AT gibt. Hier reinen Tisch zu machen und der Wahrheit in Bekenntnis und Unterricht die Ehre zu geben, das ist die Großtat, die heute — fast schon zu spät — vom Protestantismus verlangt wird. Die Einwendung der Überklugen und Verschlagenen aber, die Autorität des NT im alten Sinn (Buchstaben-Autorität) sei durch Zerstörung des Inspirationsdogmas ja auch aufgelöst, also könne man die beiden Testamente wie bisher ruhig beieinander lassen, ist nur eine Ausflucht. Gewiß ist auch die Autorität des NT eine andere geworden, und das soll unzweideutig bekannt werden; aber es bleibt doch der Kanon für die Kirche, nicht aus formalen Gründen und nicht mit der formalen Autorität des Buchstabens — wie es als Sammlung zustande gekommen ist, wissen wir jetzt; Marcion hat den Grund gelegt —, sondern weil sich eine bessere Urkundensammlung für die Bestimmung dessen, was christlich ist, nicht schaffen läßt. Zu diesem Kanon darf das AT nicht gestellt werden; denn was christlich ist, kann man aus ihm nicht ersehen. Die beiden anderen Einwendungen aber, man müsse dem AT die alte Stellung und Schätzung belassen, weil Jesus es als heilige Schrift anerkannt habe und weil es die große Urkunde für die Vorgeschichte des Christentums sei, dürfen auch nicht ins Gewicht fallen; denn Jesus selbst hat in seinem feierlichsten Wort seinen Jüngern gesagt, daß fortab alle Gotteserkenntnis durch ihn gehe, und der wissenschaftliche Gesichtspunkt, die Urkunden der Vorgeschichte des Christentums mit seinen eigenen auf einer Fläche zu verbinden, ist kein religiöser, sondern ein profaner.

So steht die Frage des AT, die M. einst gestellt und entschieden hat, heute noch fordernd vor der evangelischen Christenheit. Die übrige Christenheit muß sie überhören; denn sie ist außerstande, die richtige Antwort zu geben, der Protestantismus aber kann es und kann es um so mehr, als das schreckliche Dilemma, unter welchem M. einst gestanden, längst weggeräumt ist. Er mußte das AT als ein falsches, widergöttliches Buch verwerfen, um das Evangelium rein behalten zu können; von „verwerfen" ist aber heute nicht die Rede, vielmehr wird dieses Buch erst dann in seiner Eigenart und Bedeutung (die Propheten) allüberall gewürdigt und geschätzt werden, wenn ihm die kanonische Autorität, die ihm nicht gebührt, entzogen ist [1].

2. Das Evangelium vom fremden Gott und der Panchristismus.

Die Schriften sind ihrem Wortsinn nach zu verstehen; alle Allegoristik ist zu verbannen — das Evangelium steht auf sich

1 Ich protestiere hiermit dagegen, daß meine Ausführungen mit denen von Friedrich Delitzsch („Die große Täuschung") zusammengestellt werden, wie dies mehrfach geschehen ist; diese sind vom wissenschaftlichen Standpunkt aus ebenso rückständig wie vom religiösen verwerflich.

selbst; es bedarf keiner Beglaubigung durch äußere Autoritäten und Weissagungsbeweise [1], keines Unterbaus durch die Philosophie, keiner Verklärung durch die ästhetische Anschauung und keiner Belebung durch den Synkretismus oder durch Enthusiasmus, Mystik und Pneumatik — das AT ist das Buch des minderwertigen jüdischen Gottes — für das geschichtliche Verständnis des kirchlichen Christentums mit seinen Gesetzlichkeiten muß man auf den Kampf zwischen Paulus und den judaistischen Christen zurückgreifen — um das Wesen des Christentums für die Zukunft sicher zu stellen, bedarf es gegenüber dem AT und modernen Schriften einer kanonischen Sammlung seiner echten Urkunden — diese Sammlung muß zweiteilig sein, d. h. Christus und Paulus umfassen; denn dieser, und nur er, ist der authentische Interpret jenes — die Kirche ist nicht nur im Glauben, sondern auch tatsächlich einheitlich zusammenzuschließen und zu begründen, aber nicht auf irgendeine philosophische Dogmatik, sondern auf die Glaubens- und Lebensprinzipien des Evangeliums –: wenn Marcion nur diese Sätze geltend gemacht und, wie er es getan, kraftvoll vertreten hätte, so hätte er schon genug getan, um sich eine einzigartige und eminente Stellung in der Kirchengeschichte als ein ebenso scharfer, wie profunder, und als ein ebenso realistischer wie religiöser Geist zu sichern.

Ist doch in dem, was er ablehnt und was er fordert, ein ganz bestimmter und charaktervoller christlicher Religionstypus gegeben, nämlich der, nach welchem die christliche Religion schlechthin nichts anderes ist als Glaube (im Sinne der fides historica und fiducia) an die Offenbarung Gottes

---

1 Es seien hier um ihrer Bedeutung willen die Marcionitischen Worte deutsch wiedergegeben, die uns durch Origenes (in Joh. II, § 199; s. o. S. 108) erhalten sind: „Der Sohn Gottes braucht keine ‚Zeugen' (d. h. keine Propheten, die auf ihn geweissagt haben); denn in seinen machtvollen Heilandsworten und in seinen Wundertaten liegt die überzeugende und tieferschütternde Kraft". Und nun ganz wörtlich: „Wenn Moses Glauben gefunden hat um seines Wortes und seiner Krafttaten willen und nicht nötig hatte, daß ihm weissagende Zeugen vorangingen, und wenn ebenso jeder Prophet vom Volk als von Gott gesandt angenommen wurde, um wieviel mehr hat nicht der, der viel mehr war als Moses und die Propheten, die Kraft, ohne vorherbezeugende Propheten das auszuführen, was er will, und der Menschheit zu helfen".

in Christus. Da dabei der Rekurs auf jede religiöse Anlage (im Sinne des Prologs der Konfessionen Augustins) wegfällt, der Mensch also der (fremden) Heilsbotschaft gegenüber „truncus et lapis" ist, so ist wirklich der Glaubensbegriff Luthers derjenige, der dem Marcionitischen am nächsten steht, wie schon Neander (s. S. 198) gesehen hat.

Aber weit über Luther hinaus hat M. den Kontrast zwischen Gott dem Heiland und der Welt, zwischen dem Wunder der Erlösung und dem Menschlichen — sei es auch dem höchsten — auf die Spitze getrieben, und hierin besteht seine singuläre Eigenart. Er hat das Evangelium, d. h. Christus, so erlebt, daß er schlechthin jede religiöse Offenbarung und Erweckung außer ihm als falsch und feindlich beurteilt hat.

Hieraus mußte er die erschütternde, aber in ihrer Einfachheit zugleich befreiende Folgerung ziehen, die ihn auf dem Boden des Christentums zum Religionsstifter gemacht hat: der bekannte Gott dieser Welt ist ein verwerfliches Wesen; das Evangelium aber ist die Botschaft vom fremden Gott; er ruft uns nicht aus der Fremde, in die wir uns verirrt, in die Heimat, sondern aus der grauenvollen Heimat, zu der wir gehören, in eine selige Fremde.

Nur sofern sie soteriologisch orientiert ist, trägt diese Religionsstiftung den Stempel ihrer Zeit [1]; sonst ist sie vollkommen unjüdisch und ebenso unhellenisch. Kann es etwas Unhellenischeres geben, als diesen völligen Verzicht auf die Kosmologie, die Metaphysik und das Ästhetische? [2] Und wenn hier jedes Paktieren mit dem höheren Menschentum, mit dem Genialischen, dem Prophetischen und dem Spekulativen, ebenso streng ausgeschlossen ist wie mit dem Moralismus, dem Legalen und dem bloß Autoritativen — welch' eine Umwertung der Werte und welch' eine Auflösung der Kultur mußte die Folge sein! Im neuen Lichte des Evangeliums verkündigte Marcion der ganzen

---

1 Niemand konnte damals ein Gott sein, der nicht auch ein Heiland war; nur die wenigen genuinen Stoiker dachten darüber anders.

2 „Haec cellula creatoris" — hätte je ein Hellene so abschätzig von Himmel und Erde sprechen können? Diese Welt des physischen und moralischen Ungeziefers!

alten Welt und ihren gleißenden Idealen die Götterdämmerung: „Die falschen Götzen macht zu Spott; ein neuer Herr ist Gott“ [1].

Man muß, um M. vollkommen zu verstehen, den Versuch machen, die zeitgeschichtlichen Gerüste abzubrechen. Man kann das, ohne ihn auch nur in einem Zuge zu modernisieren; im folgenden ist der Versuch gemacht:

In dieser bösen Welt, der wir angehören, und in uns selbst verschlingen sich zwei Reiche: das eine ist das der Materie und des Fleisches, das andere das des „Geistes“, der Moral und der Gerechtigkeit. Vereint und in sich verschlungen sind sie, obschon sie im Gegensatz zueinander stehen; das weist auf die jammervolle Schwäche dessen zurück, der für diese Schöpfung verantwortlich ist; er, obgleich „Geist“ und moralische Kraft, war nicht imstande, etwas Besseres als diese entsetzliche Welt zu schaffen, zu der er den „Stoff“ aus der von ihm als schlecht gehaßten Materie nehmen mußte. In dieser Welt steht der Mensch; aus fleischlicher Lust und der unsäglich gemeinen Begattung entstehend, mit dem Leibe behaftet und an ihn gekettet, zieht es ihn hinunter in das Treiben der Natur, und die große Menge der Menschen ergeht sich in allen Schanden und Lastern und lebt in brutalem Egoismus schlimm, schamlos und „heidnisch“. So will sie der Gott nicht, der sie geschaffen hat; er will sie „gerecht“, hat ihnen einen Sinn für das Gerecht-Gute eingepflanzt und sucht sie zu diesem zu leiten. Aber was ist dieses „Gerecht-Gute“, was ist das höchste Ideal? Und wie leitet er sie? Die Antwort auf diese Fragen kann man aus der „Welt“ und der Geschichte, aus dem „Gesetz“ und der Moral selbst ablesen; denn die „Welt“ und das „Gesetz“ sind ja nichts anderes als der Gott dieser Welt und als der Gott des Gesetzes [2].

Der objektive Befund zeigt also ein widerspruchsvolles Durcheinander, das jeder Rechtfertigung spottet. Einerseits gewahrt man eine strenge und peinliche Gerechtigkeit, die sich im Physischen und Moralischen durchzusetzen strebt, mit Verboten, Prämien und Strafen arbeitet und so das Naturhafte und Gemeine zu überwinden trachtet; man gewahrt den Geist der zehn Gebote, der Autorität, der Gehorsamsforderung, des Knechtisch-

---

1 Auf die Verwandtschaft mit Tolstoi sei schon hier hingewiesen.

2 Marcion hat diese Gleichungen ausdrücklich vollzogen, s. S. 103.

Guten und einer mühsam sich durchsetzenden, angeblich sittlichen Weltordnung. Aber mit diesem „Gerechten" ist Sinnloses, Härte und Grausamkeit und wiederum Schwanken, Schwäche und Kleinliches so untrennbar verbunden, daß alles zu einem jämmerlichen Schauspiel wird. Und selbst damit ist noch nicht das Schlimmste gesagt: diese Gerechtigkeit selbst, und zwar gerade dort, wo sie am reinsten erscheint und das Naturhafte mehr oder weniger gebändigt hat, ist im tiefsten unsittlich; denn sie ist ohne Liebe, stellt alles unter Zwang, reizt ebendadurch erst zur Sünde und führt nicht aus der Welt heraus.

Dieser „Gott", d. h. also diese Welt, ist das Schicksal des Menschen; ihm bleibt nur eine bange Wahl: entweder er entzieht seinem Schöpfer durch Libertinismus, Schande und Laster den Gehorsam und verfällt damit als entsprungener Sklave seinem Zorn und Gericht — das ist das Los der großen Mehrzahl —, oder er folgt ihm und seinem launenhaften Willen mit knechtischem Gehorsam und wird ein Gerechtigkeits-, Gesetzes- und Kulturmensch; dann überwindet er zwar das Gemeine, aber es wird schlimmer mit ihm; denn im Grunde ist nicht das Böse der Feind des Guten — sie sind inkommensurabel und das Böse ist heilbar —, sondern jene erzwungene, angelernte und selbstzufriedene „Gerechtigkeit", die von Liebe ebensowenig weiß wie von einer Erhebung ins Überweltliche, und die zwischen Furcht und tugendstolzem Behagen abwechselnd, niemals zur Freiheit kommt.

Die furchtbare Tragik des Menschenschicksals ist damit gegeben. Nicht gleißende Laster sind die Tugenden des Menschen, wohl aber stumpfen sie hoffnungslos gegen Höheres ab. Wieviel tiefer schaute Marcion in das Menschliche hinein als die Durchschnittschristenheit seiner Tage [1]: das angepriesene Heilmittel, das heteronome Gesetz, ist in seinem Effekt, so lehrte er, schlimmer als das Grundübel! Es befreit wohl von diesem Übel, aber es führt ein schlimmeres herauf, die Verhärtung in einer selbstgerechten Lieblosigkeit und Mediocrité, die unheilbar ist. Daher — fort mit jeder Theodizee und fort mit jeder teleologischen Kosmologie; an dieser Welt samt ihren Idealen und ihrem Gott ist nichts zu rechtfertigen, und ihre „Gerechten" sind Sklaven! Hier gilt nicht nur: „Valet will ich dir geben, du arge, falsche Welt" sondern noch vielmehr ein heiliger Trotz gegenüber den „himmlischen Mächten", die in dieses Leben hineinführen, den Menschen schuldig werden lassen und ihn mit ihrer empörenden „Gerechtigkeit" beherrschen —: bis zum physischen Ekel vor allem, was die Menge „Gott" nennt und was doch „Welt" ist, soll man den Widerwillen empfinden [1].

1 Sie konnte unter Umständen die Welt wohl noch härter beurteilen als Marcion, indem sie erklärte, dieser Äon sei ganz des Teufels; aber — der mundus ist doch gut, nur das saeculum ist schlecht, und als vernünftiges Wesen kann der Mensch jederzeit zum „Guten" sich erheben.

Aber so zu empfinden vermag nur, wem das „Ganz Andere", das „Fremde" aufgegangen ist — aufgegangen als die Macht der Liebe, und nicht nur als ein subjektiv, sondern auch als ein objektiv Neues. Hier bleiben selbst die weit hinter Marcion zurück, die, wie Paulus und seine Schüler, von der „neuen Kreatur" und dem „neuen Zustand der Seele" in ergreifenden Bekenntnissen gesprochen haben [2]; denn sie dachten immer nur an eine neue Art der Offenbarung Gottes; solch ein Halbgedanke aber in bezug auf Gott war M. ein Greuel. Er verkündete deshalb den fremden Gott mit einer ganz neuen „dispositio". An Christus hatte er ihn erlebt und nur an ihm; daher erhob er den geschichtlichen Realismus des christlichen Erlebnisses zum transzendenten und erblickte über der dunklen und dumpfen Sphäre der Welt und ihres Schöpfers die Sphäre einer neuen Wirklichkeit, d. h. einer neuen Gottheit [3].

---

1 Man erinnere sich wiederum Tolstois.

2 Pascal, Pensées p. 340: „La première chose que Dieu inspire à l'âme qu'il daigne toucher véritablement, est une connaissance et une vue tout extraordinaire, par laquelle l'âme considère les choses et elle même d'une façon toute nouvelle. Cette nouvelle lumière lui donne de la crainte".

3 Wenn heute die Religionsphilosophie wieder das Objekt der Religion (das „Heilige") grundlegend als das „ganz Andere", als das „Fremde" oder ähnlich definiert und zu dieser Grunddefinition Forscher vom Pietismus, von der reformatorischen Orthodoxie, vom Katholizismus und vom Kritizismus her gelangen, und wenn sie ferner von allen „Beweisen" abzusehen lehren und allein das Phänomen für sich sprechen lassen wollen,

Sie ist Liebe, nichts als Liebe; schlechterdings kein anderer Zug ist ihr beigemischt. Und sie ist unbegreifliche Liebe; denn sie nimmt sich in purem Erbarmen eines ihr ganz fremden Gebildes an und bringt ihm, indem sie alle Furcht austreibt, das neue, ewige Leben. Nunmehr gibt es etwas in der Welt, was nicht von dieser Welt ist und über sie erhebt! Als unfaßliches Geschenk wird es durch das Evangelium verkündet und ausgeteilt: „O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen ist, daß man gar nichts über das Evangelium sagen, noch über dasselbe zu denken, noch es mit irgendetwas vergleichen kann!" In demütigem Glauben allein wird es empfangen von den Armen und denen, die da hungern und dürsten.

In der Konzeption, daß Gott nichts ist als Liebe, ist der Gottesbegriff zugleich auf die höchste und auf die eindeutigste Formel gebracht. Wohl muß man fragen, ob da noch das Heilige als mysterium fascinosum et tremendum bestehen kann, wo der „Zorn" Gottes" abgelehnt wird, wo es keine „Furcht" mehr geben soll, wo der Lobpreis „die Himmel erzählen die Ehre Gottes" verstummt, und wo sich die Liebe an kein Gesetz gebunden weiß. Aber es bedarf nur eines Blicks auf die eben zitierten Worte Marcions: „O Wunder über Wunder" usw., um zu erkennen, daß für diesen Mann das Erhabene und Geheimnisvolle, das Große und Heilige der Religion wirklich in der Liebe beschlossen war; denn diese Liebe war ihm doch die unfaßbare, allmächtige Liebe. Zwar kann zur Zeit der fremde Gott, der tief das Innerste erregt, „nach außen nichts bewegen"; als Elende und Gehaßte müssen daher seine Gläubigen diese entsetzliche Welt noch ertragen; aber in Christus ist sie schon überwunden, und am Ende des Weltlaufs wird es sich zeigen, daß der, der jetzt in uns ist, größer ist als der, der in der Welt ist. Die Welt mitsamt ihrer Gerechtigkeit, ihrer Kultur und ihrem Gott wird vergehen; aber das neue Reich der Liebe wird bleiben. Und in der Gewißheit, daß nichts von der Liebe Gottes scheiden so haben sie allen Grund, sich des einzigen Vorgängers in der alten Kirchengeschichte zu erinnern, der diesen fremden Gott kannte, bei Namen rief und alle Beweise und „Bezeugungen", damit man an ihn glauben könne, abgelehnt hat.

kann, die in Christus erschienen ist, sind die Elenden und Gehaßten doch auch jetzt schon die Triumphierenden. Vom Geiste der Liebe regiert und zu einem Bruderbund in der heiligen Kirche zusammengeschlossen, sind sie schon jetzt über die Leiden dieser Zeit erhaben. Sie haben Geduld und können warten.

Dies alles ist aber keine blasse und erklügelte, aus dem Trotz der Verzweiflung über die Welt ersonnene Spekulation, sondern christliches Erlebnis; denn an der Person Christi ist dieses Neue eine leibhaftige Wirklichkeit; an ihm ist sie empfunden. Die Liebe ist Er, und Er ist die Liebe; die Erbarmung ist Er, und Er ist die Erscheinung des überweltlichen Gottes und des überweltlichen Lebens. Das Reich des Guten und der Liebe ist Panchristismus. Durch Christus und nur durch Ihn vollzieht sich auch die Umwertung der Werte: gewiß, auch Er lehnt das naturhaft Gemeine, den Fleischessinn ebenso ab wie der Weltschöpfer — diese moralische Ablehnung versteht sich immer von selbst —, aber nur die Sünder vermag er zu erlösen; denn die, welche sich aus der Sünde in die „Gerechtigkeit" dieser Welt geflüchtet haben, in ihr Gesetz und ihre Kultur, sind als verhärtete „Gerechte" der Erlösung nicht mehr fähig. Ist das eine verstiegene Behauptung?

Hat M. nicht wirklich recht gegenüber der großen Christenheit, damals und heute noch? Bringt er nicht das konsequente Schlußglied für die Kette, die durch die Propheten, Jesus und Paulus bezeichnet ist, trotz des gewaltigen Unterschieds? Ist denn der paradoxe Unterschied zwischen den Propheten und Jesus etwa geringer, wenn Jesus die Propheten zwar bestätigt, aber verkündigt: „Niemand kennt den Vater denn nur der Sohn"? Und wiederum, ist der paradoxe Unterschied zwischen Jesus und Paulus kleiner, wenn Paulus sich zwar in allem an das Wort des Herrn halten will, aber ihn gegen dieses Wort als das Ende des Gesetzes bezeichnet und einen antinomistischen Glaubensbegriff entwickelt, der durch kein Wort Jesu wirklich gedeckt ist? Ferner, gibt es eine rationale Theodizee, die nicht ihrer selbst spottet, und ist es nicht ein immer wieder gescheitertes Unternehmen, Wesen und Art, Grund und Hoffnung des Glaubens irgendwie mit der „Welt" in Einklang zu setzen, d. h. von der Vernunft und dem Weltlauf aus zu begreifen? Wird der Geist nicht wirklich erst zum Geist, die Seele zur Seele und die Freiheit zur Freiheit, wenn ihnen jene unbegreifliche Liebe geschenkt wird, die nicht von dieser Welt ist? Und sind „Gerechtigkeit", Moral und Kultur wirkliche Heilmittel für den ans Sinnliche gebundenen Menschen, sind sie nicht Palliative, die schließlich das Übel noch ärger machen, wenn der selbstlose höhere Liebeswille fehlt? Erzeugt der gestirnte Himmel über mir und das Sittengesetz in mir wirklich den Aufschwung zur aeterna veritas und vera aeternitas, die in der Liebe zu Gott und den Brüdern gegeben ist, oder sind sie nicht Kräfte, die bei jeder großen Probe versagen? Gibt es nicht wirklich drei Reiche, von denen zwei trotz ihres Gegensatzes untrennbar in sich verflochten sind, und nur das dritte eine neue Sphäre bezeichnet? Und ist nicht Christus — tatsächlich, was geht einen lebendigen Menschen die Frage nach dem Absoluten an? — der Anfänger und Vollender der neuen, freimachenden Gotteskraft?

In allen diesen Fragen, die hier nicht willkürlich an M. herangebracht sind, sondern in denen sein Glaube lebte, ist seine Entscheidung klar. Der Christ und der Religionsphilosoph mag aber noch folgendes bedenken:

M. hat mit einer herrlichen Sicherheit verkündet, daß der Liebeswille Jesu, also Gottes, nicht richtet, sondern hilft, und er will, daß schlechthin nichts anderes von ihm ausgesagt werde. Er hat ferner diesem Evangelium so vertraut, daß er das Furchtmotiv in jedem Sinne ausgeschaltet hat und daher auch in bezug auf die Sünde nur das eine Motiv gelten läßt: „Absit, absit"; d. h. nur die Abkehr von der Sünde ist wirklich Abkehr, die aus dem Abscheu von ihr entspringt. Es ist auch kein Sophismus, wenn er erklärt, daß Gott am Ende der Dinge nicht richten werde, und doch einräumt, daß die große Menge der Menschen nicht erlöst werden wird; denn sie werden, wie er sich ausdrückt, von den Augen Gottes entfernt, weil sie sich selbst schon definitiv von ihm entfernt haben. Im übrigen kommt er hier, wie an anderen Punkten seiner Orientierung über Welt und Religion dem gesunden Agnostizismus sehr nahe. Im Grunde hat er ja auch keine Prinzipienlehre — er muß diese (wie die verschiedenen Schulen, die er zugelassen hat, beweisen, s. o.) freigelassen haben —; vielmehr zeigt die völlig verschiedene Art, in welcher er den guten Gott, den Weltschöpfer und die Materie faßt, daß ihre Nebeneinanderstellung nicht den Sinn haben kann und soll, als seien sie formell gleichartige Größen. Er ist, so muß man seine Gedanken deuten, bei seinen Betrachtungen auf die Sinnlichkeit, auf die Welt (als Kosmos und Gesetz) und auf die reine Liebe als auf die letzten, nicht weiter zu reduzierenden und unvereinbaren Größen gestoßen, hat folgerecht bei ihnen haltgemacht und ihre Gebiete durch die Integrale Materie, Weltschöpfer (Gesetzgeber) und „fremder Gott" bezeichnet [1].

Das alles ist so rein gedacht und — eben weil weitere Spekulationen ausgeschlossen werden (anders Apelles), — so widerspruchslos, daß man auch intellektuelle Freude an seinen Gedanken hat, die Dutzende von Einwürfen, denen die Kirchenlehre ausgesetzt ist, entwaffnen. Auch kommt, das sei nur nebenbei bemerkt, seine Art das Evangelium zu verkündigen, den Bedürfnissen der Gegenwart merkwürdig entgegen, vielleicht auch deshalb, weil die Zustände seiner Zeit den unsrigen verwandt waren. Die tiefsten Kenner der Volksseele, wie sie in den Verächtern des kirchlichen Christentums heute lebt, versichern uns, daß nur die Verkündigung der Liebe, die nicht richtet, sondern hilft, noch Aussicht hat gehört zu werden. Hier tritt M. auch Tolstoi zur Seite und hier Gorki. Jener ist durch und durch ein marcionitischer Christ. Was wir an direkten religiösen Aussagen von M. besitzen, könnte auch er geschrieben haben, und umgekehrt würde M. in Tolstois „Elenden und Gehaßten", in seiner Auslegung der Bergpredigt (die ja auch für M. „die Gedanken Jesu waren, in denen er die Eigenheit seiner Lehre ausgedrückt hat") und in seinem Eifer gegen die gemeine Christenheit sich selbst wiedererkannt haben. Gorkis ergreifendes Stück „Das Nachtasyl" aber kann einfach als ein Marcionitisches Schauspiel bezeichnet werden; denn „der Fremde", der hier auftritt, ist der Marcionitische Christus, und sein „Nachtasyl" ist die Welt.

Soviel ist gewiß — daß in der Kirchengeschichte und in

---

1 Daß „Sinnlichkeit" und „Kosmos" sehr wohl vereinbar sind und daß M. vielleicht durch gnostische Einflüsse zu ihrer Trennung gekommen ist, daran sei erinnert.

der Religionsphilosophie das Marcionitische Evangelium kaum jemals wieder verkündigt worden ist, ist mindestens in der Regel nicht die Folge einer tieferen und reicheren Erfahrung gewesen, sondern ein Zeichen religiöser Stumpfheit und träger Abhängigkeit von der Tradition. Zwar geht ein Marcionitisches Wetterleuchten durch die ganze Kirchen- und Dogmengeschichte von Augustins Gnaden- und Freiheitsempfindung an, deren theoretischer Deutung die Marcionitische Lehre ohne große Schwierigkeiten unterlegt werden kann; aber eben nur ein Wetterleuchten ist zu konstatieren. Nur ein religionsphilosophisches Werk gibt es, welches streng Marcionitisch ist, wenn auch M.s Name in ihm nicht genannt wird: „Das Evangelium der armen Seele" (mit einem Vorwort von H. Lotze, 1871 [1]). Der anonyme Verfasser (Julius Baumann) hat jedoch seine Aufgabe nicht streng wissenschaftlich aufgefaßt und schrieb breit und zerflossen. So ist das sehr beachtenswerte Buch wirkungslos zu Boden gefallen; heute aber müßte es wieder aufgenommen werden; denn der Marcionitismus, den es vertritt, hat Tieferes zu sagen als die Erscheinungen der Philosophie des „Als ob" und des Agnostizismus.

Ernstlich erhebt sich sowohl für die christliche Dogmatik wie für die Religionsphilosophie die Frage, ob der Marcionitismus, wie er heute gefaßt werden muß — wie leicht lassen sich seine zeitgeschichtlichen Gerüste abbrechen! —, nicht wirklich die gesuchte Lösung des größten Problems ist, d. h. ob die Kurve „die Propheten, Jesus, Paulus" sich nicht zutreffend nur in Marcion fortsetzt, und ob die Religionsphilosophie sich nicht genötigt sehen muß, die Antithese „Gnade (neuer Geist und Freiheit) > Welt (einschließlich der Moral)" als das letzte Wort anzuerkennen. Was läßt sich gegen M. einwenden? Hier eine erschöpfende Antwort zu geben, die letztlich nur eine ablehnende sein kann, aber die Hauptmotive M.s in Kraft erhält, hieße die

---

1 Neben dieses Werk kann auch die Lehre der beiden Mill (vgl. J. St. Mills Aufsatz über die Natur u. s. Jodl, Gesch. d. Ethik [2] II (1912) S. 474 f., 713 f.) gestellt werden, woran mich K. Thieme mit Recht erinnert hat.

ganze religionsphilosophische Frage aufrollen: ich beschränke mich daher auf einige Andeutungen:

Erstlich, es liegt etwas Expressionistisches in der Marcionitischen Orientierung über Gott und Welt, man kann auch sagen, eine gewisse Flucht vor dem Denken; einem scharfen Denker muß es, wie im Altertum so auch heute noch, schwer fallen, sich bei ihr zu beruhigen. Dazu kommt, daß seine Deutung des Wirklichen zur Mythologie zu führen droht; denn nach der Anlage unseres Geistes können wir als Denker wohl Monisten und Pluralisten, nicht aber Dualisten sein, ohne Mythologen zu werden, d. h. uns in Phantasien zu verlieren. Sodann empfindet man das dezidierte Urteil über die Welt bei aller berechtigten Empörung über den Weltlauf doch als Vermessenheit; kommt es dem Menschen zu, über die Gesamtheit des Wirklichen in Natur und Geschichte, soweit es nicht Gnade und Freiheit ist, den Stab zu brechen? Und sind „Moral" und Freiheit im geschenkten Guten wirklich nur Gegensätze und nicht auch Stufen? Weiter, man darf zwar M. den Vorwurf nicht machen, daß er keine Vorsehung kennt — er leugnet sie nur in bezug auf den Weltlauf, ist jedoch gewiß, daß den Erlösten nichts von der Liebe Gottes zu scheiden vermag, und fordert daher eine unerschütterliche Geduld —; aber er beschneidet doch das Leben der Frömmigkeit aufs empfindlichste, wenn sie Kreuz und Leiden nicht mehr als Schikkungen desselben Gottes betrachten darf, der das Heil schenkt. Ferner, ist es nicht falsche Innerlichkeit, ja Lieblosigkeit, wenn man gebietet, die ganze Welt als unheilbar preiszugeben, sich nur auf die Predigt des Evangeliums zu beschränken und sonst nichts in Wirken und Tat zu versuchen?[1] Setzt aber nicht alles Wirken die Reformabilität des Wirklichen und damit ein ursprünglich Gutes in ihm voraus? Damit hängt endlich das letzte eng zusammen: eine Gottes- und Weltanschauung, die, wenn sie die Bilanz zieht, die Askese so weit treiben muß, daß sie die Fortpflanzung des Menschengeschlechts für alle unterbindet, kann nicht die richtige sein; denn sie hebt die Grundvoraussetzung alles positiven Denkens auf, nämlich, daß das Leben irgendwie etwas Wertvolles sein muß. Und wenn die Liebe nicht nur alles duldet, sondern auch alles hofft, darf man da die Hoffnung aufgeben, daß ihr Geheimnis und ihre Kraft, sei es auch wider allen Augenschein, doch auch die Welt und die Geschichte mit ihrem Elend und ihrer Sünde a fundamentis umspannen, um sie in melius zu reformieren?

1 Max Scheler („Von zwei deutschen Krankheiten", in dem Werk „Der Leuchter", 1919, S. 161 ff.) hält dem Lutherischen Protestantismus die Gefahr der falschen Innerlichkeit vor — mit welchem Rechte, mag hier dahingestellt bleiben; aber auf M. scheint der Vorwurf zutreffend zu sein.

Dies mögen die wichtigsten Einwürfe sein, die man M. entgegenzuhalten hat; er hätte wohl auf jeden etwas zu sagen, aber ich zweifle, ob etwas Durchschlagendes. Die Kirchenlehre samt ihrem Alten Testament ist freilich damit noch lange nicht gerettet, wohl aber der erste, allen Marcionitismus abstoßende Artikel ihres Glaubens: „Ich glaube an Gott, den allmächtigen Vater". Dennoch kann man nur wünschen, daß sich in dem wirren Chor der Gottsuchenden heute wieder auch Marcioniten fänden; denn „leichter erhebt sich die Wahrheit aus der Verirrung als aus der Verwirrung!"

Beilagen.

Beilage I: Untersuchungen über die Person und die Lebensgeschichte Marcions nach den ältesten Zeugnissen und späteren Angaben.

Für eine Biographie Marcions fehlen die Unterlagen. Ob aus dem, was uns von seinem Wirken erhalten ist, Schlüsse auf seine Entwicklung gezogen werden können, muß die Untersuchung zeigen. Doch lassen sich wenigstens einige sichere Daten, die Zeit seiner Wirksamkeit und Persönliches betreffend, aus äußeren Zeugnissen feststellen. Diese habe ich (Die Chronologie der altchristlichen Literatur I, 1897, S. 297—311) eingehend untersucht. Indem ich hierauf verweise, nehme ich die Aufgabe noch einmal auf, die Untersuchung teils verkürzend, teils erweiternd.

1. Das älteste Zeugnis, das des Polykarp, Bischofs von Smyrna[1].

Unter den großen Häretikern des 2. Jahrhunderts ist Marcion der Einzige, der sich nachweisbar mit einem hervorragenden

---

1 Baur, der die Pastoralbriefe gegen die Marcioniten geschrieben sein ließ, wollte in den „ἀντιθέσεις" I Tim. 6, 20 f. das Hauptwerk M.s erkennen (τὴν παραθήκην φύλαξον, ἐκτρεπόμενος τὰς βεβήλους κενοφωνίας [καινοφωνίας nach Cod. G und wenigen griechischen Zeugen; aber „vocum novitates" ist die nahezu einstimmige altlateinische Lesart] καὶ ἀντιθέσεις τῆς ψευδωνύμου γνώσεως, ἥν τινες ἐπαγγελόμενοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν ἠστόχησαν). Daß die Pastoralbriefe antimarcionitisch sind, ist längst widerlegt; aber I Tim. 6, 17—21 ist höchstwahrscheinlich ein Zusatz; er könnte antimarcionitisch sein und auf die „Antithesen" anspielen. Allein wenn ἀντιθέσεις auf den Buchtitel anspielen sollte, wäre es schwerlich mit κενοφωνίαι zu einem Ausdruck verbunden, und auch die unzutreffende Bezeichnung ἡ ψευδώνυμος γνῶσις für M.s Lehre wäre in so früher Zeit befremdlich, da noch Irenäus und Tertullian scharf zwischen Gnostikern und Marcioniten unterscheiden. Es ist daher wahrscheinlich, daß das Zusammentreffen mit dem Titel des marcionitischen Hauptwerks zufällig ist; ein Rest von Unsicherheit bleibt nach, weil sich m. W.

Apostelschüler noch persönlich berührt hat; das ist für seine geschichtliche Stellung von Bedeutung [1]. Irenäus (III, 3, 4) berichtet: „Polykarp nahm unter Anicet einen Aufenthalt in Rom und führte (daselbst) viele von den vorhergenannten Häretikern (d. h. von den Valentinianern und Marcioniten) wieder in die Kirche Gottes zurück“[2]. Hierauf erzählt er eine Anekdote von dem Zusammentreffen des Johannes mit Cerinth und fährt dann fort: „Polykarp erwiderte dem Marcion, als er ihm einmal unter die Augen kam und sagte: „Erkenne uns an“: „Ja, ich erkenne dich an — als den Erstgeborenen des Satan“ [3].

Da Polykarp am 23. Febr. 155 den Märtyrertod erlitten hat [4], so steht nach diesem Zeugnis fest, daß es, als er kurz vorher in Rom war, damals schon eine zahlreiche marcionitische Gemeinde dort gegeben hat. Daß er aber in Rom persönlich mit M. zusammengetroffen ist, sagt Irenäus nicht, ja er scheint es auszuschließen, weil er den Bericht nicht mit Polykarps Marcioniten-Bekehrung ἀντιθέσεις im emphatischen Sinn weder in der philosophischen noch in der häretisch-christlichen Literatur außer bei M. findet. — Tert. nennt adv. Marc. III, 8 die im Johannesbrief bekämpften Häretiker „praecoci et abortivi Marcionitae“.

---

1 Die Basilidianer rühmten sich, daß ihr Stifter den Glaukias, „den Hermeneuten des Petrus“, zum Lehrer gehabt habe, die Valentinianer, daß Valentin ein Hörer des Theodas, „des Schülers des Paulus“, gewesen sei (Clemens, Strom. VII, 17, 106 f.); allein selbst wenn man die Zuverlässigkeit dieser Überlieferungen annimmt, sind sie für uns nahezu wertlos, da wir weder von Glaukias noch von Theodas etwas wissen.

2 Ὃς (scil. Πολύκαρπος) καὶ ἐπὶ Ἀνικήτου ἐπιδημήσας τῇ Ῥώμῃ πολλοὺς ἀπὸ τῶν προειρημένων αἱρετικῶν ἐπέστρεψεν εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν τοῦ θεοῦ.

3 Καὶ αὐτὸς δὲ ὁ Πολύκαρπος Μαρκίωνί ποτε εἰς ὄψιν αὐτῷ ἐλθόντι καὶ φήσαντι· Ἐπιγίνωσκε ἡμᾶς, ἀπεκρίθη· Ἐπιγινώσκω ἐπιγινώσκω σε τὸν πρωτότοκον τοῦ Σατανᾶ. Der Originaltext ist von Euseb. (IV, 14, 7, Nicephorus und dem Chron. pasch.) und dem Martyr. Polyc. (Recens. Mosq.) bezeugt. Ἐπιγίνωσκε Codd. Euseb. BDM, Euseb. Syr., Rufin, Mart. Pol., Hieron. (de vir. ill. 17) > ἐπιγινώσκεις Codd. Euseb. ATER, Iren. Lat., Chron. pasch. — σε Iren. Lat., Euseb. Syr., Chron. pasch. — Die Einleitung im Mart. Pol. Mosq. lautet: Συναντήσαντός ποτε τῷ ἁγίῳ Πολυκάρπῳ Μαρκίωνος, ἀφ' οὗ οἱ λεγόμενοι Μαρκιωνισταί, καὶ εἰπόντος κτλ.

4 S. Chronologie I S. 341—356; Zahn, Forschungen VI S. 94 f. — Anicet war wahrscheinlich der erste monarchische römische Bischof in strengem Sinn; er hat 11 Jahre regiert, 154 (155)—165 (166); s. Chronologie I in Rom verbindet [1]. Die Begegnung wird also schon früher und in Asien stattgefunden haben. Wie die Worte lauten [2], setzen sie voraus, daß schon früher Beziehungen zwischen beiden Männern stattgefunden haben und daß M. noch hoffte, die Anerkennung des maßgebenden kleinasiatischen Bischofs erlangen zu können [3].

Die Nachricht über Polykarps antimarcionitisches Wirken in Rom kann Irenäus nur aus der Überlieferung der römischen Gemeinde bezogen haben, von der er auch sonst die wertvollsten Mitteilungen erhalten hat. Woher er den Bericht über die persönliche Begegnung M.s mit Polykarp geschöpft hat, wissen wir nicht. Sie gehört vermutlich zu den kleinasiatischen Presbyter-Überlieferungen; vielleicht stammt sie von Papias [4].

S. 158. 200 f. Daß Polykarp i. J. 154 nach Rom gereist ist, ist nicht gewiß; denn die Berechnung der Dauer des Episkopats Anicets ist zwar sehr alt, aber wohl nachträglich gemacht.

1 Auch Hieronymus sagt nicht, daß Polykarp mit M. in Rom zusammengetroffen sei (gegen H a r v e y u. a.); sein Zeugnis wäre übrigens wertlos.

2 Der Wechsel von ἡμᾶς und σέ ist vielleicht beachtenswert: M. wünscht die Anerkennung seiner Sekte, Polykarp verdammt in seiner Antwort den M. persönlich.

3 Nach ihren ursprünglichen Grundsätzen war es den Kirchen sehr schwer, Bekennern des Herrn Christus die brüderliche Gemeinschaft zu versagen. Es war daher einer der folgenschwersten Schritte in ihrer Entwicklung, als sie sich zu Exkommunikationen Christusgläubiger entschlossen (s. u.). — Die beißende Ironie in der Antwort Polykarps ist der in seiner Verhandlung vor dem Richter ähnlich. Der Richter sagt (Mart. Polyc. 9): „Sprich die Worte αἶρε τοὺς ἀθέους, Polykarp seufzt, blickt zum Himmel und spricht: αἶρε τοὺς ἀθέους, aber im entgegengesetzten Sinn.

4 Mit Unrecht hat man in Polykarps Brief an die Gemeinde zu Philippi (c. 6 f.) eine Beziehung auf Marcion gefunden und deshalb den Brief entweder für unecht oder für interpoliert erklärt, da M. kein Häretiker der Zeit Trajans sein kann. Die Worte lauten: . . . . ἀπεχόμενοι σκανδάλων καὶ τῶν ψευδαδέλφων καὶ τῶν ἐν ὑποκρίσει φερόντων τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ κυρίου, οἵτινες ἀποπλανῶσι κενοὺς ἀνθρώπους. πᾶς γὰρ ὃς ἂν μὴ ὁμολογῇ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθέναι, ἀντίχριστός ἐστιν· καὶ ὃς ἂν μὴ ὁμολογῇ τὸ μαρτύριον τοῦ σταυροῦ, ἐκ τοῦ διαβόλου ἐστίν· καὶ ὃς ἂν μεθοδεύῃ τὰ λόγια τοῦ κυρίου πρὸς τὰς ἰδίας ἐπιθυμίας καὶ λέγῃ μήτε ἀνάστασιν μήτε κρίσιν εἶναι, οὗτος πρωτότοκός ἐστι τοῦ σατανᾶ. διὸ ἀπολιπόντες τὴν ματαιότητα τῶν πολλῶν καὶ τὰς ψευδοδιδασκαλίας ἐπὶ τὸν ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἡμῖν παραδοθέντα λόγον ἐπιστρέψωμεν. Die Bezugnahme auf M. ist deshalb unwahrscheinlich, weil Polykarp hier Häretiker überhaupt, nicht

2. Das Zeugnis Justins.

In seiner nicht vor d. J. 150, aber sehr bald nachher — also ungefähr um die Zeit des Aufenthalts Polykarps in Rom — ebendort verfaßten Apologie [1] hat Justin an zwei in ihrem Aufbau parallelen Stellen sehr wichtige Mitteilungen über M. gemacht. Nachdem er von dem verderblichen Wirken der bösen Dämonen im Heidentum gesprochen, fährt er fort (Apol. I, 26) [2]:

Μετὰ τὴν ἀνέλευσιν τοῦ Χριστοῦ [3] εἰς οὐρανὸν προεβάλλοντο οἱ δαίμονες ἀνθρώπους τινὰς λέγοντας ἑαυτοὺς εἶναι θεούς, οἳ οὐ μόνον οὐκ ἐδιώχθησαν ὑφ' ὑμῶν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τιμῶν κατηξιώθησαν [4]. Σίμωνα μέν τινα Σαμαρέα . . ., Μένανδρον δέ τινα καὶ αὐτὸν Σαμαρέα . . ., Μαρκίωνα δέ τινα Ποντικόν, ὃς καὶ νῦν ἔτι ἐστὶ διδάσκων τοὺς πειθομένους ἄλλον τινὰ νομίζειν μείζονα τοῦ δημιουργοῦ θεόν· ὃς [5] κατὰ πᾶν γένος ἀνθρώπων διὰ τῆς τῶν δαιμόνων συλλήψεως πολλοὺς πεποίηκε [6] aber eine bestimmte Gruppe im Auge hat, weil ferner der Doketismus und die Leugnung der Realität des Kreuzestodes, des Gerichts und der Auferstehung (des Fleisches) nicht spezifisch marcionitische Lehren sind — es fehlen die Hauptlehren M.s von den beiden Göttern und von der Verwerflichkeit des AT.s — und weil der Ausdruck πρωτότοκος τοῦ σατανᾶ (auf welchem der Beweis hauptsächlich auferbaut wird) hier keine spezifische Bedeutung hat, sondern nur ein Synonymum zu ἀντίχριστος und ἐκ τοῦ διαβόλου ist. Dazu kommt, daß der Ausdruck μεθοδεύῃ κτλ. M.s eigentümliche kritische Behandlung des Evangeliums nicht trifft; Polykarp scheint vielmehr solche Häretiker im Auge zu haben, welche aus sittlicher Laxheit die Herrnworte so arglistig auslegen, daß sie die Auferstehung und das Gericht eskamotieren. Man muß daher annehmen, daß Polykarp den Ausdruck πρωτότοκος τοῦ σατανᾶ öfters, aber nicht ausschließlich von M. gebraucht hat.

---

1 Vgl. Chronologie I S. 274 ff.; Zahn, Forschungen VI S. 8 ff. 364. Die Festlegung der ägyptischen Amtszeit des Präfekten L. Munatius Felix auf Grund zweier Papyri (Apol. I, 29; s. Papyr. Mus. Brit. nr. 358, dazu Kenyon, Academy 1896 p. 98, ferner The Oxyrhynchus Papyri, Part II nr. 237 p. 141 ff.) hat die Feststellung des Datums der Apologie bestätigt, bez. in noch engeren Grenzen bestimmt.

2 Auch bei Euseb., h. e. II, 13, 3 und IV, 11, 9, 10. Eusebius hat (l. c. c. 8) den Schein nicht vermieden, als schöpfte er aus einer Schrift Justins gegen M., von der er durch Irenäus wußte: ὁ Ἰουστῖνος γράψας κατὰ Μαρκίωνος σύγγραμμα μνημονεύει ὡς καθ' ὃν συνέταττε καιρὸν γνωριζομένου τῷ βίῳ τἀνδρός, φησὶν δὲ οὕτως.

3 ἀνάληψιν τοῦ κυρίου Euseb.

4 ἠξιώθησαν Euseb.

5 ὃς καί Euseb. 6 πέπεικε Euseb.

βλασφημίας[1] λέγειν καὶ ἀρνεῖσθαι τὸν ποιητὴν τοῦδε τοῦ παντός[2], ἄλλον δέ τινα, ὡς ὄντα μείζονα, τὰ μείζονα[3] παρὰ τοῦτον ὁμολογεῖν πεποιηκέναι[4]. καὶ[5] πάντες οἱ ἀπὸ τούτων ὁρμώμενοι Χριστιανοὶ καλοῦνται, ὃν τρόπον καὶ οὐ κοινῶν ὄντων δογμάτων τοῖς φιλοσόφοις τὸ ἐπικαλούμενον[6] ὄνομα τῆς φιλοσοφίας κοινόν ἐστιν[7] . . . ἔστι δὲ ἡμῖν καὶ σύνταγμα κατὰ πασῶν τῶν γεγενημένων αἱρέσεων συντεταγμένον[8], ᾧ εἰ βούλεσθε ἐντυχεῖν, δώσομεν.

Dasselbe wiederholt er Apol. I, 58. Nachdem auch hier Simon Magus und Menander vorher erwähnt und charakterisiert waren, fährt er fort:

Καὶ Μαρκίωνα δὲ τὸν ἀπὸ Πόντου, ὡς προέφημεν, προεβάλλοντο οἱ φαῦλοι δαίμονες, ὃς ἀρνεῖσθαι μὲν τὸν ποιητὴν τῶν οὐρανίων καὶ γηΐων ἁπάντων θεὸν καὶ τὸν προκηρυχθέντα διὰ τῶν προφητῶν Χριστὸν υἱὸν αὐτοῦ καὶ νῦν διδάσκει, ἄλλον δέ τινα καταγγέλλει παρὰ τὸν δημιουργὸν τῶν[9] πάντων θεὸν καὶ ὁμοίως ἕτερον υἱόν· ᾧ πολλοὶ πεισθέντες, ὡς μόνῳ τἀληθῆ ἐπισταμένῳ, ἡμῶν καταγελῶσιν, ἀπόδειξιν μηδεμίαν περὶ ὧν λέγουσιν ἔχοντες, ἀλλὰ ἀλόγως ὡς ὑπὸ λύκου ἄρνες συνηρπασμένοι βορὰ τῶν ἀθέων δογμάτων καὶ δαιμόνων γίνονται.

Die Zusammenstellung M.s mit den Sektenstiftern, die sich für Götter ausgegeben haben, ist ganz unzutreffend und besonders gehässig; sie zeigt aber, wie gefährlich M. dem Justin erschienen ist, wie fremd ihm sein Christentum war und wie hoch das Ansehen M.s in seiner Kirche gewesen ist. Wir erfahren hier weiter, daß der aus dem Pontus stammende Häretiker noch jetzt lebt und tätig ist, aber schon eine längere Wirksamkeit hinter sich hat, die sich über weite Gebiete beider Reichshälften erstreckt (διὰ πᾶν γένος ἀνθρώπων) und durch die er bereits viele gewonnen hat. Seine Häresie ist die blasphemia creatoris und

---

1 βλάσφημα Euseb.

2 Nach παντός bietet der Justin-Kodex θεόν, Euseb. πατέρα εἶναι τοῦ Χριστοῦ, beides wohl Glossen (s. Schwartz' Ausgabe).

3 τ μείζονα fehlt bei Euseb. und Schwartz.

4 fehlt bei Euseb. Syr. und Lat.

5 fehlt im Justin-Kodex.

6 καὶ οἱ οὐ κοινωνοῦντες τῶν αὐτῶν δογμάτων . . . ἐπικατηγορούμενον Justin-Kodex.

7 ἐστιν Euseb., ἔχουσιν Justin-Kodex.

8 συντεταγμένον Justin-Kod., Euseb. Lat., fehlt bei Euseb. Graec. u. Syr.

9 τὸν πάντων Cod.

daher die Substituierung eines „anderen" Gottes und eines „anderen" Sohnes an Stelle des Weltschöpfers und seines Christus sowie die Verwerfung des A. T.s. Als wahrscheinlich darf man annehmen, daß diese Charakterisierung aus den „Antithesen" M.s geflossen ist, daß diese also samt dem „Instrumentum" M.s (Evangelium und zehn Paulusbriefe) damals schon vorhanden waren [1]. Die Wirksamkeit M.s muß schon eine längere Reihe von Jahren gedauert und die aller anderen Sektenstifter übertroffen haben. Letzteres geht daraus hervor, daß Justin den Kaisern neben den alten angeblichen Begründern der Häresie, Simon und Menander, nur M. mit Namen nennt, alle übrigen Sekten aber nur summarisch, ohne ihre Namen zu nennen, zusammenfaßt. So erscheint neben der allgemeinen Christenheit, für die Justin als Anwalt vor den Kaisern und dem Senat auftritt, als die Afterchristenheit der Gegenwart nur die marcionitische. Nicht übersehen darf man, daß in Justins kurzer Charakteristik indirekt sowohl das exklusive Vertrauen der Marcioniten zu ihrem Stifter hervortritt — „er allein kennt die religiöse Wahrheit" —, als auch ihr Verzicht darauf, diese Wahrheit in der Weise der großen Kirche zu begründen (Verzicht auf die „apostolische" Tradition, Verzicht auf den Altersbeweis; daher „ἀπόδειξιν μηδεμίαν περὶ ὧν λέγουσιν ἔχοντες" und „ἀλόγως"), ferner auch ihre Verachtung dessen, was die große Christenheit für Christentum hält („καταγελῶσιν").

In seiner apologetischen Naivetät glaubt Justin, seine Adressaten würden sich für seine Mitteilungen über die bösen Häresien interessieren. In diesem Sinne sucht er den philosophischen Kaiser gegen die alogische und beweislose Lehre M.s von vornherein einzunehmen und verweist zugleich auf ein früheres Werk („Syntagma"), in welchem er alle Häresien bereits charakterisiert und widerlegt habe.

Dieses Werk, welches gewiß auch der doppelten Charakteristik M.s in der Apologie zu Grunde liegt, ist fast spurlos verloren gegangen, vermutlich weil es die späteren Ketzerbestreitungen verdrängt haben [2]. Nur mit einer gewissen Wahrscheinlichkeit läßt sich einiges über Anlage und Inhalt des Werkes

---

1 Eine universale Wirksamkeit M.s ohne die Unterlage dieser Werke ist nicht leicht denkbar.

2 Tertullian hat es gekannt, s. adv. Valent. 5.

ermitteln[1]. Da es spätestens ins 5. Jahrzehnt des 2. Jahrhunderts fällt, ist schon sein bloßes Erscheinen ein Beweis dafür, wie mächtig die häretische Bewegung bereits in der ersten Hälfte der Regierungszeit des Antoninus Pius war. Wenn Justin in dem nicht lange nach der Apologie verfaßten Dialog mit Trypho (c. 35) die Reihenfolge „Marcianer, Valentinianer, Basilidianer, Satornilianer" bietet und Hegesipp, sein jüngerer Zeitgenosse und vermutlich Landsmann (bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 22, 4 ff), die Reihenfolge Simon ... Menandrianer, Marcianisten, Karpokratianer, Valentinianer, Basilidianer, Sartornilianer"[2], so ist es wahrscheinlich, daß diese, sehr bald durch eine andere Suk-

---

1 S. Harnack, Zur Quellenkritik der Geschichte des Gnostizismus 1873 und die Fortsetzung dieser Abhandlung in der Zeitschr. f. d. hist. Theol. 1874.

2 Dial. 35: *Ἄλλοι κατ' ἄλλον τρόπον βλασφημεῖν τὸν ποιητὴν τῶν ὅλων καὶ τὸν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ προφητευόμενον ἐλεύσεσθαι Χριστὸν καὶ τὸν θεὸν Ἀβραάμ . . . διδάσκουσιν· ὧν οὐδενὶ κοινωνοῦμεν, οἱ γνωρίζοντες ἀθέους καὶ ἀσεβεῖς καὶ ἀδίκους καὶ ἀνόμους αὐτοὺς ὑπάρχοντας καὶ ἀντὶ τοῦ τὸν Ἰησοῦν σέβειν ὀνόματι μόνον ὁμολογοῦντας (*Cod. ὁμολογεῖν). καὶ Χριστιανοὺς ἑαυτοὺς λέγουσιν ὃν τρόπον οἱ ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσι τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ θεοῦ ἐπιγράφουσι τοῖς χειροποιήτοις καὶ ἀνόμοις καὶ ἀθέοις τελεταῖς κοινωνοῦσι. καί εἰσιν αὐτῶν οἱ μέν τινες καλούμενοι Μαρκιανοί, οἱ δὲ Οὐαλεντιανοί, οἱ δὲ Βασιλιδιανοί, οἱ δὲ Σατορνιλιανοὶ καὶ ἄλλοι ἄλλῳ ὀνόματι, ἀπὸ τοῦ ἀρχηγέτου τῆς γνώμης ἕκαστος ὀνομαζόμενος. Die Μαρκιανοί sind höchstwahrscheinlich Marcioniten; denn bei Hegesipp, der von Justin nicht unabhängig sein wird, liest man l. c. Μαρκιανισταί. Daß aber diese (die Codd. TcERB, Euseb. Lat., Euseb. Syr. Μαρκιωνισταί) Marcioniten sind, ergibt sich aus Euseb. V, 16, 21: οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος αἱρέσεως Μαρκιανισταί (so Schwartz mit AT[1]D). Korrekt ist Μαρκιανισταί für die Messalianer (Euchiten), genannt nach dem Wechsler Marcianus; s. Anrich, Hagios Nikolaos I S. 425; II S. 340 f. Die Marcianisten im Theodos. Codex XVI, 5, 65 (Gesetz v. 30. Mai 428 = Justinian. I, 5, 5) zwischen Phrygern und Borborianern sind wohl Anhänger des Gnostikers Marcus. Aber auch Marcions Anhänger konnten „Marcianisten" und „Marcianer" heißen, da „Marcion" lediglich eine Nebenform zu „Marcus" ist; diese Nebenform ist nicht häufig; doch s. den christkatholischen Bruder „Marcion" im Mart. Polyc. 20 und die Inschrift auf der Basis Capitolina (s. unten). — Justin, Dial. 80 bezieht sich mindestens auch auf die Marcioniten: ἄθεοι καὶ ἀσεβεῖς αἱρεσιῶται, die da den Gott Abrahams verlästern, κατὰ πάντα βλάσφημα καὶ ἄθεα καὶ ἀνόητα διδάσκουσιν καὶ λέγουσιν μὴ εἶναι νεκρῶν ἀνάστασιν, ἀλλ' ἅμα τῷ ἀποθνήσκειν τὰς ψυχὰς αὐτῶν ἀναλαμβάνεσθαι εἰς τὸν οὐρανόν.

zession verdrängte Reihenfolge (s. Irenäus und Hippolyt) die des Justinischen Syntagmas gewesen ist. Man darf aus ihr schließen, daß die marcionitische Bewegung älter war als die der nach ihr angeführten Sektenstifter (s. dazu unten bei Clemens Alex.).

Von dem Justinischen Syntagma hören wir noch zweimal etwas, nämlich bei Irenäus. Zwar zitiert er Justin mit den Worten: „ἐν τῷ πρὸς Μαρκίωνα συντάγματι; allein da Justin in der Apologie nur Marcion neben Simon und Menander mit Namen nennt und die übrigen Häresien in Bausch und Bogen folgen läßt, so ist es wahrscheinlich, daß auch das Syntagma gegen alle Häresien hauptsächlich gegen M. gerichtet war und daher auch so bezeichnet werden konnte; jedoch muß die Möglichkeit offen bleiben, daß es sich um zwei Werke handelt. An der ersten von Irenäus zitierten Stelle (IV, 6, 2; griechisch bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 18, 9) erklärt Justin, daß er dem Herrn selbst nicht Glauben schenken würde, wenn er einen anderen Gott als den Weltschöpfer verkündigt hätte [1], und an der zweiten (V, 26, 2, griechisch bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 18, 9; s. auch Cramer, Cat. in epp. cath. p. 81) — die Fundstelle bei Justin ist hier nicht angegeben, ergibt sich aber aus dem vorigen Zitat — spricht er über das Verhalten des Satan vor und nach der Erscheinung des Herrn [2].

---

1 Καὶ καλῶς Ἰουστῖνος ἐν τῷ πρὸς Μαρκίωνα συντάγματι φησίν· ὅτι αὐτῷ (καὶ αὐτῷ Iren. Lat.) τῷ κυρίῳ οὐδ' ἂν ἐπείσθην, ἄλλον θεὸν καταγγέλλοντι παρὰ τὸν δημιουργόν. Die Identität mit dem Syntagma gegen alle Häresien ist auch deshalb wahrscheinlich, weil Irenäus fortfährt: „Hic autem est fabricator coeliet terrae, quemadmodum ex sermonibus eius ostenditur, et non is, qui a Marcione vel a Valentino, aut a Basilide aut a Carpocrate aut Simone aut reliquis falso cognominatis Gnosticis adinventus est falsus pater". Hier sind die Häresien nahezu in derselben Reihenfolge genannt, deren Bekämpfung durch Justin im Syntagma nach Dial. 35 u. Hegesipp. (l. c.) feststeht.

2 Καλῶς ὁ Ἰουστῖνος ἔφη, ὅτι πρὸ μὲν τῆς τοῦ κυρίου παρουσίας οὐδέποτε ἐτόλμησεν ὁ Σατανᾶς βλασφημῆσαι τὸν θεόν, ἅτε μηδέπω εἰδὼς αὐτοῦ τὴν κατάκρισιν (hier bricht Euseb. ab) διὰ τὸ ἐν παραβολαῖς καὶ ἀλληγορίαις κεῖσθαι· μετὰ δὲ τὴν παρουσίαν τοῦ κυρίου ἐκ τῶν λόγων Χριστοῦ καὶ τῶν ἀποστόλων αὐτοῦ μαθὼν ἀναφανδὸν ὅτι πῦρ αἰώνιον αὐτῷ ἡτοίμασται . . . βλασφημεῖ τὸν τὴν κρίσιν ἐπάγοντα κύριον ὡς ἤδη κατακεκριμένος καὶ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν τῆς ἰδίας ἀποστασίας τῷ ἐκτικότι αὐτὸν ἀποκαλεῖ κτλ. Der Mund, durch den der Satan seine Blasphemien ausstößt, ist Marcion.

3. Das Zeugnis des Papias.

Justin bezeugt, daß M. aus dem Pontus stammte, und von ihm und Polykarp erfahren wir, daß er schon um das J. 150 auf der Höhe seiner universalen Wirksamkeit gestanden hat. Eine versteckte weitere Nachricht bringt uns noch ihr Zeitgenosse, der Bischof Papias von Hierapolis.

Prologus in Ev. Ioh. ex Codice Toletano(T), Reginae Suetiae (S) et Stuttgartiensi (Stutt.); s. Wordsworth-White, Novum Testamentum domini nostri Iesu Christi Latine, Part. I Fasc. IV p. 490 f [1]:

T: „Hoc igitur evangelium post apocalipsin scribtum manifestum et datum est ecclesiis in Asia a Iohanne adhuc in corpore constituto, sicut Papias nomine Iheropolitanus episcopus discipulus Iohannis et carus in exotericis suis, id est in extremis quinque libris, retulit, qui hoc evangelium Iohanne subdictante conscribsit. Verum Archinon [sic] hereticus, quum ab eo fuisset reprobatus eo quod contraria sentiset [sic], prelectus [sic] est a Iohanne; hic vero scribtum vel epistulas ad eum pertulerat a fratribus missus qui in Ponto erant fideles in domino nostro."

S: „Evangelium Iohannis manifestatum et datum [Stutt. om. „et datum"] est ecclesis ab Iohanne adhuc in corpore constituto, sicut Papias nomine Hierapolitanus, discipulus Iohannis carus, in exotericis, id est in extremis quinque libris, retulit; descripsit vero evangelium dictante Iohanne recte. verum Martion [Stutt. „Marcion"] haereticus, cum ab eo fuisset [Stutt. „esset"] improbatus eo quod contraria sentiebat, abiectus est a Iohanne. is vero scripta vel epistolas ad eum pertulerat a fratribus qui in Ponto fuerunt."

Über die erste Hälfte dieses aus dem Griechischen übersetzten und durch mehrere Hände gegangenen Stücks ist seit Overbecks verfehltem Erklärungsversuch viel verhandelt worden von Lightfoot, Zahn, Harnack, Corssen usw. und jüngst noch von Clemen (Entstehung des Joh. Ev.,

---

1 S. De Bruyne (Rev. Bénéd. 1921 Okt. p. 14 f.) bemerkt, daß dieser sehr alte Prolog von dem Autor des Markus-(„Marcus adseruit qui colobodactylus") und Lukas-Prologs („Est quidem Lucas Antiochensis") stammt. Man findet öfters alle drei oder zwei in denselben Mss.; z. B. alle drei im Tolet., den Markus- und Joh.-Prolog im Cod. Barberin. 637 (saec. VIII), Monac. 6212 u. Stuttgart.

1912, S. 375) und Bacon (Journ. of Bibl. Lit. XXXII, 1913, Part. III p. 194 ff.) Entgegen der aus Joh. 21, 23.24 gefolgerten Meinung, das Ev. sei nach dem Tode des Johannes von anderen herausgegeben worden, sagt Papias an einer Stelle seiner fünf Bücher „Exegetica" (so ist natürlich für „Exoterica" zu lesen) oder im 5. Buch derselben [1], daß Johannes selbst [2] sein Evangelium den Kirchen in Asien, nach der Apokalypse, gegeben habe. Daß Papias wirklich so geschrieben hat, braucht nicht bezweifelt zu werden [3]. Der folgende Satz darf nicht korrigiert werden, da er durch die Corder sche Katene (Cat. Graec. PP. in St. Joh., Antwerp. 1630) geschützt ist: κατ' ἐκεῖνο καιροῦ αἱρέσεων ἀναφυεισῶν δεινῶν ὑπηγόρευσε (scil. Johannes) τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τῷ ἑαυτοῦ μαθητῇ Παπίᾳ. Bei Papias kann es nicht gestanden haben; denn das hätte Eusebius nicht verschweigen können. Der Verfasser des Prologs muß ihn aus einer anderen Quelle haben. Daß die folgende Angabe über Marcion auf eine alte Quelle zurückgeht, zeigt ihr unerfindbarer Inhalt. Aber der, welcher Marcion abgewiesen hat, ist nicht Johannes gewesen, sondern höchstwahrscheinlich der vorher genannte Papias („a Johanne" ist zu tilgen; es müßte ja schon vorher statt „ab eo" vielmehr „a Johanne" heißen). Es sind uns hier vier wichtige Nachrichten mitgeteilt: (1) daß M. aus dem Pontus

---

1 Nachdem „Exegetica" zu „Exoterica" (vgl. die λόγοι ἐξωτερικοί des Aristoteles; zu „Exegetica" s. die Ἐξηγητικά des Basilides bei Clem., Strom. IV, 83 und die Aufschrift zum Joh.-Komm. des Origenes im Cod. Reg. Ὠριγένους τῶν εἰς τὸ κατὰ Ἰωάννην εὐαγγέλιον Ἐξηγητικῶν τόμοι λβ') geworden waren, wurden diese von einem Abschreiben durch „Extrema" erläutert. Es kann aber auch ursprünglich „in extremo quinto libro" geheißen haben. Die Änderungen können schon im Griechischen vor sich gegangen sein.

2 Zum Ausdruck „adhuc in corpore constituto" s. Orig., in Matth. ser. 138 (Comm. V. p. 167): ἔτι ἐν σώματι καθεστῶτος.

3 Freilich gibt es noch eine andere Möglichkeit: der Ausdruck „a Johanne adhuc in corpore constituto" ist sehr auffallend. Wie, wenn der griechische Text gelautet hat: Τὸ τοῦ Ἰωάννου εὐαγγέλιον . . . ἐδόθη ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις ταῖς ἐν τῇ Ἀσίᾳ ὑπὸ Ἰωάννου (τοῦ πρεσβυτέρου, τοῦ ἀποστόλου Ἰωάννου) ἔτι ἐν σώματι καθεστῶτος, ὡς ὁ Παπίας ὀνόματι Ἱεραπολίτης, ὁ τοῦ Ἰωάννου μαθητὴς ἀγαπητός, ἐν ταῖς τῶν Ἐξηγητικῶν αὐτοῦ πέντε βίβλοις ἀπήγγειλεν? Ich habe früher diese Hypothese bevorzugt und halte sie auch jetzt noch für möglich, aber natürlich für unbeweisbar.

nach Kleinasien kam, (2) daß er Schriftstücke („vel epistolas" ist wohl interpoliert) im Auftrag pontischer Christen an eine maßgebende Instanz in Asien, wahrscheinlich an Papias, gebracht hat, (3) daß er, nach dem Urteil dieser Instanz, „contraria sentiebat", (4) daß seine Lehre keine Billigung fand, er vielmehr als Irrlehrer verworfen wurde.

Die Vertauschung von Papias und Johannes in dem Prolog findet sich auch bei Filastrius. Er schreibt (haer. 45): „(Marcion) devictus atque fugatus a beato Iohanne evangelista et a presbyteris de civitate Efesi Romae hanc haeresim seminabat" [1]. Der Glaubwürdigkeit der Nachrichten, die wohl die ältesten sind, die wir über M. besitzen, steht m. E. nichts im Wege. Dann aber ergibt sich, daß M., schon seine Sonderlehre hegend, den Pontus verlassen [2] und sich, Anerkennung suchend, nach Asien gewendet hat. Über „die Brüder", die ihn gesandt haben und die ihm ein Schriftstück mitgegeben haben, läßt sich nur vermuten, daß es Gesinnungsgenossen waren, die ihn empfahlen [3]. An eine Exkommunikation im späteren Sinn des Worts in seiner heimatlichen Kirche darf überhaupt nicht gedacht werden, sondern an eine Ausweisung aus der Gemeinde: für sie war er tot [4].

M. ist aus dem Pontus nach Asien gegangen; („Ephesus" darf man nicht festhalten, wenn man „Johannes" streicht; aber es ist natürlich so wenig ausgeschlossen wie Smyrna); es war

---

1 Manches von dem, was im nachapostolischen Zeitalter in Kleinasien geschehen ist, wurde später einfach dem „Johannes" beigelegt. Man braucht nur an die schlagende Parallele zu erinnern, daß Tert. in de bapt. 17 erzählt, der Verf. der falschen Paulusakten sei in Kleinasien entlarvt worden und Hieronymus diese Nachricht aus Tert. mit der Hinzufügung wiedergibt: „(convictus) a p u d J o h a n n e m" (de vir. ill. 7), sich um die 100 Jahre die dazwischen liegen, nicht kümmernd.

2 Der Pontus als Heimat M.s ist, außer durch Justin, auch durch Irenäus, Rhodon, Tertullian, Clemens und Hippolyt bezeugt.

3 Die Worte im Cod. T „fideles in domino nostro" müssen als ein irriger Zusatz beurteilt werden.

4 Anders liegt der Fall I Clem. 54 (an die Führer der Unruhen in Korinth): Τίς οὖν ἐν ὑμῖν γενναῖος; τίς εὔσπλαγχνος; τίς πεπληροφορημένος ἀγάπης· εἰπάτω· εἰ δι' ἐμὲ στάσις καὶ ἔρις καὶ σχίσματα, ἐκχωρῶ, ἄπειμι οὗ ἐὰν βούλησθε, καὶ ποιῶ τὰ προστασσόμενα ὑπὸ τοῦ πλήθους, μόνον τὸ ποίμνιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ εἰρηνευέτω μετὰ τῶν καθεσταμένων πρεσβυτέρων.

bereits eine Propaganda-Reise; aber sie endete mit einem zweiten Mißerfolg. Damals wird sich die Begegnung mit Polykarp (s. o.) zugetragen haben. Die Reise muß noch in die Zeit Hadrians fallen; denn ein Jahrzehnt propagandistischer Wirksamkeit reicht schwerlich aus, um den Erfolg zu erklären, der durch Justin für die Zeit um das Jahr 150 feststeht[1].

4. Das Zeugnis des Clemens Alexandrinus.

Strom. VII. 17, 106 f: Κάτω περὶ τοὺς Ἀδριανοῦ τοῦ βασιλέως χρόνους οἱ τὰς αἱρέσεις ἐπινοήσαντες γεγόνασι καὶ μέχρι γε τῆς Ἀντωνίνου τοῦ πρεσβυτέρου διέτειναν ἡλικίας, καθάπερ ὁ Βασιλείδης, κἂν Γλαυκίαν ἐπιγράφηται δ δάσκαλον, ὡς αὐχοῦσιν αὐτοί, τὸν Πέτρου ἑρμηνέα. ὡσαύτως δὲ καὶ Οὐαλεντῖνον Θεοδᾶ διακηκοέναι φέρουσιν· γνώριμος δ' οὗτος γεγόνει Παύλου. Μαρκίων γὰρ κατὰ τὴν αὐτὴν αὐτοῖς ἡλικίαν γενόμενος ὡς πρεσβύτης νεωτέροις συνεγένετο.

Die Stelle steht in dem Zusammenhang des Nachweises, daß, während die Zeit Jesu und der Apostel bis Tiberius, bzw. bis Nero reicht, die großen Häretiker viel später sind. Werden sie von Clemens doch schon auf die Zeit Hadrians datiert, so darf man sicher sein, daß dies nicht unrichtig ist; denn Clemens hatte ein Interesse daran, sie möglichst weit vom apostolischen Zeitalter zu entfernen. Wir haben hier also ein zuverlässiges Zeugnis, daß M. schon unter Hadrian aufgetreten ist. Aber die Stelle sagt noch mehr, nämlich (1) daß Ms. Wirksamkeit (ebensowie die des Basilides und Valentin) sich nicht bis in das Zeitalter M. Aurels erstreckt hat, (2) daß in der Gruppe „Basilides, Valentin, Marcion" der letztere wie ein alter (Lehrer) den jüngeren (Schülern) gegenübersteht[2]. Dies konnte Clemens nur sagen, wenn

---

1 Die gleichzeitigen Zeugen sind durch Polykarp, Justin und Papias erschöpft; denn auf den Valentinianer Ptolemäus darf man sich nicht mit Sicherheit berufen. Es ist nur möglich, daß er Marcioniten gemeint hat, wenn er (Ep. ad. Floram bei Epiph., haer 31, 3—7) christliche Lehrer bekämpft, die das Gesetz und die Weltschöpfung dem Widersacher, dem verderbenstiftenden Teufel, zuschreiben, den sie auch πατήρ und ποιητής nennen. Er bezeichnet das als eine ἀνυπόστατος σοφία τῶν ψευδηγορούντων (c. 3, 2. 6), bez. τῶν ἀπρονοήτων ἀνθρώπων (c. 3, 7), und meint, daß man so etwas nicht einmal aussprechen dürfe (c. 5, 2). S. Harnack, Der Brief des Ptolemäus an die Flora, Sitzungsberichte d. Preuß. Akad. d. Wissensch. 1902, S. 507 ff.

2 So sind die Ausdrücke „συνγίνεσθαι" und „νεώτεροι" zu verstehen. Man braucht deshalb nicht anzunehmen, daß Basilides und Valentin per-er etwas Genaueres über M.s Leben wußte, den er übrigens (Strom. III, 4, 25) „ὁ Ποντικός“ nennt. Wir müssen also annehmen, daß M. schon im Zeitalter Hadrians ein gestandener Mann war und gegen Ende der Regierungszeit des Pius gestorben ist. Er wird + 85 geboren sein, während die Geburt des Basilides und Valentin etwa 20 JJ. später zu setzen ist.

5. Das Zeugnis des Irenäus.

In bezug auf die Lehre Ms. ist Irenäus für uns der grundlegende Zeuge; in bezug auf die Person ist er leider ziemlich stumm[1]. Er bezeichnet ihn als „ὁ Ποντικός“ und als Diadoche des Häretikers Cerdo (I, 27, 2; III, 4, 3); über diese Angabe s. die Untersuchung unten: „Cerdo und Marcion“. Das Zeitalter sönliche Schüler M.s waren, sondern Clemens sieht wie die Apostel, so die Sektenstifter als eine i d e e l l e Einheit an, und in dieser verhält sich M. zu den anderen wie ein älterer Lehrer zu Jüngeren. Das γάρ nach Μαρκίων verlangt eine ziemlich umständliche Paraphrase, etwa diese: Die Behauptung der Basilidianer und Valentinianer, ihre Stifter reichten durch je ein Mitglied bis zu den Aposteln herauf, ist belanglos, auch wenn sie zutreffend ist; denn Marcion, der selbst nicht vor der Zeit Hadrians aufgetreten ist, hat zu Basilides und Valentin im Verhältnis eines älteren (Lehrers) zu jüngeren (Schülern) gestanden; wie sollen also Basilides und Valentin bis zum apostolischen Zeitalter hinaufreichen? Übrigens scheint man doch folgern zu müssen, daß Clemens angenommen hat, Marcion habe durch seine Lehre den Basilides und Valentin beeinflußt. Eine gewisse Verbindung zwischen Valentin und Marcion scheint auch aus dem dunklen Schluß des Muratorischen Fragments hervorzugehen. Daß der MAliche Häreseologe Paulus (de haeres. libellus. O e h l e r , Corp. Haereseol. I p. 316) Valentin „Marcionis discipulum“ nennt, kommt natürlich nicht in Betracht; möglicherweise aber ist de carne 1 („ Quasi non eadem licentia haeretica et ipse [scil. Marcion] potuisset aut admissa carne nativitatem negare, ut Apelles discipulus et postea desertor ipsius, aut et carnem et nativitatem confessus aliter illas interpretari, ut condiscipulus et condesertor eius Valentinus“) so zu verstehen, daß Valentin Schüler M.s gewesen ist. Die grammatisch nächstliegende Erklärung ist das gewiß („eius“ auf Apelles zu beziehen); aber die Nachricht ist so singulär und wird auch nirgends sonst von Tert. selbst bezeugt, daß es wahrscheinlicher ist, „eius“ auf M. zu beziehen und eine gewisse Verwirrung, bez. Nachlässigkeit bei Tert. anzunehmen; er wollte nur sagen, daß Valentin wie M. ein Abtrünniger gewesen sei, und ließ sich in der Form der Aussage unbedacht durch die Worte leiten, die er für Apelles gebraucht hatte.

---

1 Doch verdanken wir ihm die Anekdote über Polykarp und Marcion; s. o.

betreffend, bringt er die Angabe (III, 4, 3): „Invaluit sub Aniceto". Da die Zeit dieses Bischofs (s. o.) ziemlich sicher ist (154 [155] — 165 [166]), so ergibt sich, daß M. auf dem Höhepunkt seiner Wirksamkeit gestorben ist; denn die Zeit M. Aurels ist für ihn ausgeschlossen. Man wird also schwerlich fehlgehen, wenn man den Tod M.s auf d. J. + 160 ansetzt (s. o.) [1]. Ohne Schuld hat Irenäus in bezug auf die Zeit M.s dadurch Mißverständnisse hervorgerufen, daß er in III, 4 die Häretiker nach der Zeit ihres Auftretens in Rom geordnet und demgemäß auch im Häretikerkatalog Marcion fast ans Ende gesetzt hat. Bestärkt wurde er in der Herabdrückung M.s durch die Annahme, M. sei der Diadoche Cerdos und dieser stehe parallel zu Valentin. Das ist augenscheinlich römische Überlieferung (s. unter „Cerdo"), die von der früheren Zeit der Wirksamkeit M.s absah [2].

6. Das Zeugnis Rhodons.

Rhodon, Asiat von Herkunft und rechtgläubiger Schüler Tatians in Rom, hat in einem Werke gegen Marcion (s. Euseb., h. e. V. 13), verfaßt in der Endzeit M. Aurels oder unter Commodus und durch genaue Kenntnis der Entwicklung der Schule M.s ausgezeichnet, den Marcion „ὁ ναύτης" genannt. Diese römische Tradition wird durch Tertullian beglaubigt (s. dort).

7. Das Zeugnis Tertullians.

Tertullian bestätigt die pontische Herkunft M.s — öfters kommt er auf sie zu sprechen und sucht M. auch von hier aus (der Pontus galt als barbarisches Land, s. adv. Marc. III, 6: „Lex Rhodia .... lex Pontica") zu diskreditieren, der schlimmer sei als ein Skythe und Massaget —, seine Abhängigkeit von Cerdo 1 „Der Presbyter des Irenäus" ist der erste Zeuge, der uns Ausführlicheres über die Lehre M.s bringt, aber für seine Person schweigt er.

---

2 „Valentin kam nach Rom unter Hygin, hatte seinen Höhepunkt unter Pius und blieb bis Anicet; Cerdo aber, der vor Marcion war, kam ebenfalls unter Hygin in die (römische) Kirche .... Marcion aber, sein Nachfolger, hatte seinen Höhepunkt unter Anicet." Die Reihenfolge der Häretiker, wie sie Irenäus nach der Widerlegung des Valentinianers Ptolemäus und der übrigen Valentinianer im 1. Buch gegeben hat, lautet: Simon, Menander, Satornil, Basilides, Karpokrates, Cerinth, Ebioniten, Nikolaiten, Cerdo, Marcion, Enkratiten und Tatian, Gnostiker. Sie ist keine chronologische, bez. die chronologische Betrachtung spielt nur sekundär hinein.

(s. dort) und sein Gewerbe als „nauta" oder „nauclerus". Schon de praescr. 30 bezeichnet er ihn so („Ponticus nauclerus") und spielt in seinem Hauptwerk häufig darauf an. M. war nicht Matrose, sondern Schiffsherr und zwar ein begüterter; als solcher kam er nach Rom [1]. Dies ergibt sich aus der Angabe Tert.s, M. habe der römischen Gemeinde ein Geschenk von 200 000 Sesterzien gemacht, das aber diese ihm nach dem Bruch zurückgegeben habe. Zweimal wird dies erwähnt, de praescr. 30: „Marcion cum ducentis sestertiis, quae ecclesiae intulerat .... in perpetuum discidium relegatus", und adv. Marc. IV, 4: „Adeo antiquius Marcionis (evangelio) est (evangelium), quod est secundum nos, ut et ipse illi Marcion aliquando crediderit, cum et pecuniam in primo calore fidei catholicae ecclesiae contulit, proiectam mox cum ipso, posteaquam in haeresim suam a nostra veritate desciit". Wir haben hier eine römische Lokaltraditon, die uns lehrt, daß der wohlhabende Schiffsherr M. nicht als notorischer, schlechthin zu fliehender Ketzer nach Rom gekommen ist — war er irgendwo schon von einer Gemeinde ausgewiesen, so hatte das bei den damaligen Verhältnissen noch keine allgemeine Folge —, daß aber sein Bruch mit der römischen Kirche bald nach seiner Ankunft erfolgt ist. Daß Tert. den M. bei seiner Ankunft in Rom noch für einen guten katholischen Christen hält und von seinem „primus calor fidei" spricht, zeigt nur, daß er von M.s früherem Leben nichts gewußt hat. Sowohl das Geldgeschenk beim Eintritt in die Gemeinde als auch die Rückgabe beim Bruch sind interessante Tatsachen; wäre das etwas Gewöhnliches gewesen, so hätte sich das Gedächtnis daran nicht zwei Generationen hindurch erhalten [2].

---

1 Tert. erlaubt sich die unverschämte Bemerkung (V, 1): „Pontice nauclere, si nusquam furtivas merces vel inlicitas in acatos tuos recipisti, si nusquam omnino onus avertisti vel adulterasti" etc. Die Ausschweifungen der Schiffsleute (adv. Valent. 12: „Quis nauclerus non etiam cum dedecore laetatur? videmus cotidie nauticorum lascivias gaudiorum") hat Tert. niemals dem M. zur Last gelegt.

2 Krüger (Artikel „Marcion" in Hauks REncyklopädie), Hilgenfeld (Ketzergesch.) u. a. nehmen an, Tertullian überliefere, daß M. erst in Rom Christ geworden sei und bei seinem Übertritt das Geldgeschenk gemacht habe, und Krüger verwirft auf Grund dieser Überlieferung die anderen entgegenstehenden Zeugnisse. Nun ist einzuräumen, daß der Ausdruck „in primo calore fidei" so zu verstehen ist. Allein er

Da M. dem Tert. nur seit seiner Ankunft in Rom bekannt ist, so bezeichnet er ihn konsequent als „haereticus Antoninianus"; aber er hat noch Genaueres über die Chronologie gewußt. De praescr. 30 schreibt er: „Ubi tunc Marcion, Ponticus nauclerus, Stoicae studiosus? (Vgl. c. 7: „Inde Marcionis deus melior de tranquillitate, a Stoicis venerat"; adv. Marc. II, 27: M.s Gott = „philosophorum deus") [1]. Ubi tunc Valentinus, Platonicae sectator? nam constat illos neque adeo olim fuisse, Antonini fere principatu, et in catholicae primo doctrinam credidisse apud ecclesiam Romanensem sub episcopatu Telesfori [2] muß nicht so verstanden werden; er kann auch eine falsche pragmatische Stilblüte Tert.s sein. Daß man ihn nicht pressen darf, scheint mir aus de praescr. 30 zu folgen; denn wenn es dort von M. und Valentin heißt, daß sie „in catholicae primo doctrinam crediderunt apud ecclesiam Romanensem", so soll das gewiß nicht bedeuten, daß beide in Rom zum Christentum übergetreten sind, sondern daß sie in ihrer vorhäretischen Periode in Rom mit der dortigen Gemeinde in Glaubensgemeinschaft gestanden haben. Sollte aber Tert. wirklich angenommen haben, M. sei erst in Rom zum Christentum übergetreten, so muß diese seine Meinung notwendig falsch sein; denn wenn man auch über das Papias-Zeugnis hinwegkommen kann, so ist es doch unmöglich, das Zeugnis des stadtrömischen Schriftstellers Hippolyt, der gleichzeitig mit Tert. geschrieben hat, zu verwerfen (s. u.). — Ich gestehe, daß meine Rekonstruktion der Geschichte M.s nicht völlig sturmfest ist, aber die entgegenstehende ist es noch weniger, und auch in bezug auf M. muß man sich Rufins Wort erinnern (Expos. Symb.), daß keine Häresie in Rom ihren Anfang genommen habe. Was aber die Tatsache betrifft, daß M. in Rom von der Gemeinde aufgenommen wurde, obgleich er anderswo ausgeschlossen war, so hat man sich zu erinnern, daß dies auch noch in viel späterer Zeit vorkam und „den 12. Kanon der h. Apostel" (Lagarde, Reliq. iur. eccl. antiquiss. p. 22, 6 f.) nötig machte: Εἴ τις κληρικὸς ἢ λαϊκὸς ἀφωρισμένος ἤτοι ἄδεκτος ἀπελθὼν ἐν ἑτέρᾳ πόλει δεχθῇ ἄνευ γραμμάτων συστατικῶν, ἀφοριζέσθω καὶ ὁ δεξάμενος καὶ ὁ δεχθείς. Vgl. auch c. 16 p. 23, 1 f.; c. 33 p. 26, 3 f.

---

1 Stoische Studien darf man hieraus nicht folgern. Die Kirchenväter haben M. mit der Stoa, mit Epikur, mit den Cynikern, mit Empedokles, mit Pythagoras und Plato in Zusammenhang gesetzt, um ihn zu diskreditieren. Diese Musterkarte widerlegt sich selbst. Philosophische Studien treten nirgends hervor, aber das kann Absicht sein. Seine Textkritik zeigt den schulmäßig gebildeten Mann.

2 Im Texte steht „Eleutheri"; dieser Anachronismus (Eleutherus war römischer Bischof c. 176—c. 189) ist Tert. nicht zuzutrauen. Auch benedicti, donec ob inquietam semper curiositatem, qua fratres quoque vitiabant, novissime in perpetuum discidium relegati[1] venena doctrinarum suarum disseminaverunt", u. adv. Marc. 1, 19: „Anno XV. Tiberii Christus Jesus de caelo manare dignatus est, spiritus salutaris Marcionis. salutis † qui ita voluit quoto quidem anno Antonini maioris de Ponto suo exhalaverit aura canicularis, non curavi investigare. De quo tamen constat, Antoninianus haereticus est, sub Pio impius. a Tiberio autem usque ad An-die Verweisung auf Hegesipp (bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 22, 3), der mitteilt, Eleutherus sei der Diakon des Anicet gewesen, reicht nicht aus, auch wenn man annimmt, er habe unter diesem Bischof bereits eine bedeutende Rolle gespielt. Da der Zusatz „benedicti" es nahe legt, daß der betreffende Bischof Märtyrer oder Confessor war, da ferner Irenäus von dem römischen Bischof Telesphorus — und in der Reihe der römischen Bischöfe nur von ihm — sagt (III, 3, 3): ὃς ἐνδόξως ἐμαρτύρησε (was beides bedeuten kann), da weiter Tert. adv. Valent. 4 bemerkt: „Speraverat (Romae) episcopatum Valentinus . . . ., sed alium ex martyrii praerogativa loci potitum indignatus de ecclesia authenticae regulae abrupit", und da endlich lautlich „episcopatu telesfori" und „episcopatu eleftheri" sich sehr ähnlich sind (zumal wenn, wie wahrscheinlich in beiden Namen, nur einer der beiden Doppelkonsonanten gesprochen wurde), so wird ein sehr früher Schreiber die Namen verwechselt haben. Zwar sagt Irenäus, Valentin und Cerdo seien unter dem Nachfolger des Telesphorus, Hyginus, nach Rom gekommen und Marcion nach Cerdo; allein diese kleine Differenz fällt um so weniger ins Gewicht, als damals der monarchische Episkopat in Rom noch nicht ausgebildet war, Telesphorus und Hyginus als Bischöfe nebeneinander gestanden haben mögen und Valentin sich nicht sowohl um d a s Bischofsamt, als vielmehr nur um ein Bischofsamt in Rom bemüht haben wird. Beachtenswert ist endlich, daß nach dem Carmen Pseudotertulliani adv. Marc. III, 282 ff. Cerdo unter Telesphorus nach Rom gekommen ist. Hier haben wir also die Verbindung e i n e s der drei ziemlich gleichzeitig in Rom auftauchenden Häresiarchen (Cerdo, Valentin, Marcion) mit dem Namen des Bischofs Telesphorus. Der Verf. des Carmen hat als seine Hauptquellen Irenäus und Tertullian benutzt. Er wird also in de praescr. 30 noch den Namen „Telesphorus" gelesen haben; denn wie soll er sonst auf ihn gekommen sein?

---

1 Da Tert. hier M. und Valentin einfach zusammenfaßt, so darf man die Angaben nicht pressen; sie stimmen z. T. mit dem überein, was Irenäus über Cerdo, jedoch viel konkreter berichtet (III, 4, 3: Κέρδων πολλάκις εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἐλθὼν καὶ ἐξομολογούμενος, οὕτως διετέλεσε, ποτὲ μὲν λαθροδιδασκαλῶν, ποτὲ δὲ πάλιν ἐξομολογούμενος, ποτὲ δὲ ὑπό τινων ἐλεγχόμενος ἐφ' οἷς ἐδίδασκε κακῶς καὶ ἀφιστάμενος τῆς τῶν ἀδελφῶν συνοδίας.) toninum anni fere CXV et dimidium anni cum dimidio mensis. tantundem temporis ponunt inter Christum et Marcionem".

Ich habe in meiner Chronologie (I S. 297 ff., 306 f) die letztere Stelle ausführlich behandelt. Die 115 Jahre und 6½ Monate bezeichnen nicht den Abstand zwischen zwei Ereignissen aus dem Leben der Kaiser Tiberius und Pius, sondern den zwischen Christus und Marcion [1]. Die römischen Marcioniten haben ihn berechnet und auch in dieser Berechnung ihre hohe Meinung von der Bedeutung ihres Stifters zum Ausdruck gebracht; erst in der Gemeinde Muhameds stößt man wieder auf Ähnliches. Die Zahl führt aber, vom 15. Jahr des Tiberius (29 p. Chr.) gerechnet und zwar von seinem Anfang, auf die zweite Hälfte des Juli des J. 144. Das kann nur das Jahr des vollendeten Bruchs M.s mit der Kirche und der Gründung seiner eigenen Kirche auf dem Fundament des neuen Schriftenkanons sein [2]. Zu diesem Jahr fügt sich auch anderes chronologisches Material; s. u. Da M. nach Tert. „bald" nach seiner Ankunft in Rom, andrerseits aber doch erst nach einer gewissen Zeit gefährlicher Wirksamkeit („inquieta semper curiositas" — geht das auf die Bibelkritik, die Abfassung der Antithesen und die Herstellung des Kanons? — „vitiatio fratrum") definitiv aus der römischen Gemeinde ausgeschlossen worden ist, so wird seine Ankunft in Rom ungefähr mit dem Regierungsantritt des Kaisers Pius zusammenfallen (s. u.) [3].

---

1 Auf den ersten Blick sieht es freilich so aus, als beziehe sich die Berechnung auf die Kaiser; allein erstens stimmt die Berechnung hier nicht, wie man auch ihren Anfangs- und ihren Endpunkt ansetzen mag; zweitens sieht man nicht ein, welches Interesse Tert. in diesem Zusammenhang haben sollte, den Abstand zwischen Tiberius und Pius auf den Tag zu berechnen; drittens ist das „tantundem ponunt" nur verständlich, wenn die Rechnung von Marcionitischer Seite herrührt.

2 Ganz deutlich müssen dabei die Marcioniten einem bestimmten Monatstag im Auge gehabt haben als den Stiftungstag ihrer Kirche.

3 Bill (Texte u. Unters. Bd. 38 H. 2 S. 66—72) hat sich auch davon überzeugt, daß die 115 JJ. 6½ Monate aus einer Marcionitischen Rechnung stammen müssen und daher ein Tag in der 2. Hälfte des Juli 144 für M. ein bedeutendes Ereignis bezeichne; er besteht aber gegen Lipsius, Krüger und mich darauf, es müsse der Abreisetag M.s aus dem Pontus sein, weil die Stelle von Tert. mit den Worten eingeführt würde: „Quoto Die marcionitische Kirche hat also ihren Stiftungstag im Gedächtnis behalten und überliefert; die rechtgläubige römische Gemeinde aber hat die Verhandlungen mit M. nicht vergessen, die zum Bruch geführt haben, samt dem Geldgeschenk. Über diese Verhandlungen werden wir noch von Hippolyt Näheres hören (s. u.). Vielleicht steht mit ihnen auch ein Brief in Zusammenhang, den Tert. dreimal erwähnt[1]. De carne 2 schreibt er: „Cum Christianus fuisses, excidisti rescindendo quod retro credidisti, sicut et ipse confiteris in quadam epistola et tui non negant et nostri probant"; adv. Marc. I, 1: „Marcion deum, quem invenerat, extincto lumine fidei suae amisit; non negabunt discipuli eius primam illius fidem nobiscum fuisse, ipsius litteris testibus", und IV, 4: „Quid nunc, si negaverint Marcionitae qrimam apud nos fidem eius adversus epistolam puoque ipsius? quid si nec epistolam agnoverint? certe Antitheseis non modo fatentur Marcionis, sed et praeferunt. ex his mihi probatio sufficit". Ob Tert. selbst den Brief eingesehen hat[2] und ob Marcioniten anno Antonini maioris de Ponto suo exhalaverit aura canicularis" etc. Allein das ist ein kleinliches Argument; den römischen Marcioniten war es doch gewiß gleichgültig (selbst wenn es sich hätte feststellen lassen), an welchem Tage M. den Pontus verlassen hat, vielmehr interessierte sie es nur, wann der Wind ihn nach Rom geweht hat. Aber auch hier war nicht der Ankunftstag der entscheidende, sondern der Tag, an dem der einst in Judäa aufgetretene Jesus nach Paulus endlich wieder einen wahrhaftigen Zeugen erhalten hat, der der judaistisch gewordenen Kirche den Kampf ansagte und die wahre Kirche neu begründete. Man bemerkte aber auch, daß Tert. zwar mit der Frage beginnt, wann die Hundstagluft M. aus seinem Pontus ausgehaucht hat, aber diese Frage nicht nur nicht bereinigt, sondern dahingestellt sein läßt, dann aber sagt: „Zwischen Christus und Marcion zählen die Marcioniten 115 Jahre und $6^1/_2$ Monate." Also muß der Marcion-Tag, der hier zugrunde liegt, ebenso bedeutend sein wie der Christus-Tag. Dieser Tag war der Tag der Epiphanie Christi, mit der das Heil anhob, also muß der Marcion-Tag der Kirchengründungstag sein. Die Epiphanie Christi haben diese Marcioniten entweder schon nach einer Überlieferung auf den 6. Januar gesetzt oder einfach das Jahr 29 (Anfang) angenommen. In beiden Fällen wird man auf den Monat geführt, den auch die Hundstage fordern.

---

1 Ob noch ein Brief M.s zur Kenntnis Tert.s gekommen ist, darüber s. oben in dem Kapitel über die „Antithesen".

2 Daß die Geschichte vom Geldgeschenk im Brief gestanden hat, ist unwahrscheinlich.

in der Verlegenheit wirklich einmal die Echtheit des Briefs beanstandet haben, mag auf sich beruhen [1]. Daß er echt war, braucht man nicht zu bezweifeln; aber wir können den Worten Tert.s nicht mehr entnehmen, als daß M. nach seinem eigenen Zeugnis der großen Kirche einst angehört und sie dann verlassen hat, „rescindendo quod retro credidit“ [2]. Er hat sich also in einer inneren Auseinandersetzung von dem alten Glauben, d. h. dem damaligen christlichen Gemeinglauben, befreit. Daß er noch als überzeugter Anhänger desselben nach Rom gekommen ist, läßt sich aus den Angaben nicht schließen. Wir haben den Brief wohl im Archiv der römischen Gemeinde zu suchen, und M. mag ihn geschrieben haben, um der Gemeinde offen seine innere Entwicklung darzulegen. Der Brief ist dann öfters besprochen, bezw. den Anhängern M.s vorgerückt worden, die natürlich die Beweiskraft des Briefes gegen die Lehre des Meisters (als eine spätere, also jüngere und deshalb schon falsche) ablehnten. Zieht doch Tert. selbst ganz ungerechtfertigte Folgerungen aus dem Brief, wenn er von dem „primus calor fidei“ M.s spricht und in IV, 4 augenscheinlich auch aus dem Brief beweisen will, der kirchliche Vier-Evangelien-Kanon sei älter als M.s Evangelium. Augenscheinlich hat Tert. von dem Leben M.s so gut wie nichts gewußt; wäre es ihm bekannt gewesen, so hätte er sich nicht adv. Marc. I, 1 in abgeschmackten Ausführungen über den Pontus ergangen, während er an dieser Stelle nach schriftstellerischem Herkommen von der Person und den Lebensumständen M.s hätte reden müssen. Sein Wissen beschränkte sich auf wenige Nachrichten: „den Ponticus nauclerus“; den Eintritt in die römische Gemeinde, begleitet von einem namhaften Geldgeschenk; den „Brief“, in welchem er Rechenschaft gegeben hat, warum er die herrschenden christlichen Lehranschauungen nicht teilen könne; die stetige Beunruhigung der Brüder durch dogmatisch-historische Fragen; die Prädizierung als Diadoche des Lehrers Cerdo; die definitive Exkommunikation samt der Rückgabe des Geldes. Die genaue

---

1 Mir ist beides wahrscheinlich.

2 Daher schreibt Tert. auch de carne 3: „Angelos creatoris conversos in effigiem humanam aliquando legisti et credidisti.“

Bestimmung der Zeit zwischen Christus und Marcion verdankt Tert. einer Marcionitischen Angabe [1].

In de praescr. 30 steht noch etwas zu lesen, nämlich: „Postmodum Marcion paenitentiam confessus cum conditioni sibi datae occurrit, ita pacem recepturus, si ceteros, quos perditioni erudisset, ecclesiae restituerat, morte praeventus est". Allein diese Nachricht ist höchst wahrscheinlich unglaubwürdig und ein Kirchenklatsch, der sehr rasch wieder verstummt ist; denn 1. kein Zeuge sonst erwähnt ihn, auch nicht der Römer Hippolyt, 2. Tert. selbst hat später der Nachricht keinen Glauben mehr geschenkt; denn in dem großen Werk gegen M. schweigt er über sie, er hätte sie aber mindestens I, 1 erwähnen müssen, wo er davon spricht, daß M. früher den Glauben der Kirche geteilt habe, 3. die dem M. angeblich auferlegte Bedingung war unmöglich zu leisten [2]. Interessant ist aber, daß schon so frühe einem Ketzer gegenüber die pragmatisch-tendenziöse Legende gearbeitet hat: Selbstmord (bezw. vom Teufel geholt) oder Bekehrung auf dem Totenbett sind bekanntlich nach der Legende der fünfte Akt im Leben eines Ketzerhauptes.

8. Das Zeugnis Hippolyts und Epiphanius' [3].

Hippolyt hat in seinem verlorenen Syntagma gegen 32 Häresien, in seiner späteren „Refutatio" der Häretiker (Philosoph.)

---

1 Bei Esnik (J. M. Schmid, Esnik von Kolb, 1900, S. 176) besitzen wir noch eine Marcionitische Berechnung, nämlich die sonst unbezeugte Angabe, es seien vom Sündenfall bis zum Erscheinen Christi 2900 Jahre verlaufen. Diese Vertauschung von 3000 JJ. mit 2900 kann doch nur aus der Tendenz entsprungen sein, die überlieferten 3000 JJ. auf das Erscheinen Marcions zu deuten, mit und nach dessen Auftreten das Weltende kommt. Hiernach wäre M. also im J. 129 aufgetreten. Allein die von 3000 JJ. abgezogenen 100 Jahre dürfen doch wohl nur als runde Summe aufgefaßt werden (s. oben: die Marcioniten haben 115 JJ. und $6^1/_2$ Monate zwischen Christus und Marcion gesetzt), und deshalb bestätigt die interessante Stelle (neben der Überzeugung von der Nähe des Weltendes, die hier zum Ausdruck kommt) nur die chronologische, auf Marcion zielende Berechnung, die wir aus Tertullian kennen.

2 Man darf sich nicht auf Cypr., ep. 55, 11 berufen; denn hier lag der Fall ganz anders.

3 Die persönlichen Angaben Esniks über M. stammen sämtlich aus Epiph.

und, nach dem Zeugnis des Eusebius (h. e. VI, 22), außerdem noch in einer besonderen (verlorenen) Schrift den M. bekämpft. Im Syntagma, dessen Abfassungszeit in die Zeit der Abfassung der Tertull. Schrift de praescript. fällt, hat er mehrere persönliche Angaben über M. gemacht [1], dagegen beschränkt er sich in der Refut. auf die Mitteilung, Cerdo sei der Lehrer des Pontikers Marcion. Dies stand auch im Syntagma und zwar genauer: M. wurde in Rom der Schüler Cerdos. Außerdem enthielt das Syntagma mindestens noch folgende Mitteilungen:

(1) M. war der Sohn eines pontischen Bischofs und zwar des von Sinope [2];

(2) er wurde dort exkommuniziert, weil er eine Jungfrau verführt hatte;

(3) er ist dann nach Rom gekommen und hat dort „den Presbytern und Lehrern, den Schülern der Apostelschüler" [3], die

---

1 Die Rekonstruktion des Syntagmas, wie sie Lipsius geboten hat, ist deshalb unzuverlässig, weil er übersehen hat, daß von den drei Benutzern des Werks Pseudotertullian, Epiphanius und Filastrius der dritte zugleich auch den zweiten benutzt hat. Mir ist es wahrscheinlich, daß Pseudotertullian und Filastrius nur die Epitome des Syntagmas, welches ein ausführliches Werk war, ausgeschrieben haben, Epiphanius aber das Werk selbst. Unter dieser Voraussetzung bleibt es in einer Reihe von Fällen zweifelhaft, was Epiphanius dem Hippolyt entnommen, was er aus anderen Quellen geschöpft und was er selbst hinzuphantasiert hat.

2 Pseudotert. nennt Sinope nicht; da er aber „episopi filius" und den Pontus bezeugt, wird er wohl auch „Sinope" gelesen haben. Er verkürzt ja auch sonst stark. Daß Tert. Sinope als Vaterstadt M.s gekannt hat, möchte ich trotz I, 1 nicht annehmen, wo er sich des Diogenes, der auch aus Sinope stammte, erinnert; denn er fährt fort: „Ne tu, Euxine, probabiliorem feram philosophis edidisti quam Christianis". Hätte er gewußt, daß M. nicht nur als Pontiker, sondern auch als Bürger von Sinope Landsmann des Diogenes war, so hätte er statt „Euxine" die Stadt Sinope genannt. — Gewiß hat schon Hippolyt geschrieben „des Bischofs von Sinope"; aber daraus folgt nicht, daß damals schon in Sinope ein monarchischer Bischof war. Optatus (IV, 5) macht den M. selbst zum Bischof („ex episcopo apostata factus"); er hat Pseudotertullian, den er gekannt hat, flüchtig gelesen. Eine späte Legende weiß zu berichten, daß unter Trajan der Bischof Phokas in Sinope hingerichtet worden sei.

3 Epiph. schreibt ἀπὸ τῶν μαθητῶν τῶν ἀποστόλων ὁρμώμενοι — das geht gewiß auf Hippolyt zurück, der in seinen Schriften so oft die Apostelschüler, bez. ihre Schüler als Instanzen ausspielt. Übrigens saßen Frage vorgelegt, wie Luk. 6, 43 zu deuten sei [1]. Die Verhandlungen führten schließlich zu seiner Exkommunikation, und er schloß sich nun dem Häretiker Cerdo an [2].

Aus diesen Mitteilungen schimmert deutlich hervor, daß M. schon mit einer eigentümlichen Lehranschauung nach Rom gekommen ist, daß er aber ursprünglich noch nicht als erklärter Häretiker außerhalb der Gemeinde gestanden hat, sondern erst nach einer gewissen Zeit und auf Grund einer förmlichen Verhandlung in der Gemeinde ausgeschlossen worden ist. Daß bei dieser Verhandlung Luk. 6, 43 eine Rolle gespielt hat, läßt sich aus Tert., adv. Marc. I, 2 bestätigen [3]. Auch Tert. muß gehört oder bei M. gelesen haben, daß M. diesem Spruch Jesu eine grundlegende Bedeutung beigelegt hat; denn er beginnt seine Darstellung der Lehre M.s mit diesem Spruch, d. h. mit der Marcionitischen Auslegung desselben, durch welche die Existenz zweier Götter bewiesen sein soll. Beachtenswert ist, daß bei Hippolyt (anders bei Epiphanius) die Anekdote, M. sei bereits in seiner Heimat einer Fleischessünde wegen exkommuniziert worden, in keine deutliche Verbindung mit der Exkommunikation in Rom gesetzt war. Diese Anekdote ist schwerlich glaubwürdig. Zwar das Schweigen Tert.s, ja seine sarkastische Prädizierung M.s als „sanctissimus magister" (de praesc. 30) besagt nichts — „sanctissimus" war M. als Lehrer der vollkommenen Ehelosigkeit —, und warum soll ein späterer Asket nicht früher einmal in Sünde gefallen sein? Aber soll M. wirklich einmal einer Fleischessünde wegen in seiner Vaterstadt und einmal der Irrlehre wegen in Rom aus der Gemeinde entfernt worden sein?

---

im J. 144 wirklich noch Schüler von Apostelschülern im römischen Presbyterium.

1 So nach Pseudotert. Epiphanius setzt dafür Luk. 5, 36 f. ein, ein im Sinne M.s noch klarer Spruch, auf den der Meister und seine Kirche auch großes Gewicht gelegt haben, was Epiph. bekannt gewesen sein muß. Filastrius bringt beide Sprüche, da er von Hippolyt und von Epiph. abhängig ist.

2 Die Nachricht des Filastrius (s. o.), M. sei von Johannes in Ephesus abgewiesen worden, kann nicht im Syntagma gestanden haben; denn sonst hätte sie sich Epiphanius nicht entgehen lassen.

3 Vgl. auch Orig., Comm. Ser. 117 in Matth., T. V. p. 23; Comm. III, 6 in Rom., T. VI p. 195.

Wie nahe lag es dagegen andrerseits, daß sich das Urteil, er habe schon in seiner Vaterstadt durch seine Irrlehre die Kirche, die reine Jungfrau, verführt, zu der Legende verdichtete, er habe eine Jungfrau dort verführt? Schreibt doch Epiphanius (h. 42, 3): Οὗτος τὸ γένος Ποντικὸς ὑπῆρχεν, Σινώπης δὲ πόλεως, ὡς πολὺς περὶ αὐτοῦ ᾄδεται λόγος. Man wußte sich also viel von der Frühzeit M.s zu erzählen, was selbst Epiphanius weiterzugeben Bedenken getragen hat. Und Tert. schreibt de praescr. 44: „Quid ergo dicent qui illam stupraverint adulterio haeretico virginem traditam a Christo", vgl. Hegesipp (bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 22, 1): Διὰ τοῦτο ἐκάλουν τὴν ἐκκλησίαν παρθένον· οὔπω γὰρ ἔφθαρτο ἀκοαῖς ματαίαις [1].

Die Glaubwürdigkeit dieses Berichts, abgesehen von der Verführungsgeschichte, ist unantastbar [2]; fraglich bleibt nur, ob M. seine Vaterstadt schon als dort Exkommunizierter verlassen hat. Unwahrscheinlich ist das nicht, vielmehr sehr glaublich, weil es die Voraussetzung der falschen Anekdote zu sein scheint. Die Exkommunikation aus einer Gemeinde war noch damals nur für diese gültig (s. o.).

Was Epiphanius diesem Bericht noch hinzugefügt hat, muß beiseite gelassen werden; denn es trägt den Stempel der Amplifikation oder der Tendenz an der Stirn. Er berichtet (c. 1), M. sei ursprünglich Asket gewesen (τὸν πρῶτον αὐτοῦ βίον παρθενίαν δῆθεν ἤσκει· μονάζων γὰρ ὑπῆρχεν), sein Vater habe sich durch besondere Gewissenhaftigkeit als Bischof ausgezeichnet und deshalb seien alle Bitten des Sohnes, ihn vor der Ausschließung (einer Fleischessünde wegen) zu bewahren, vergeblich

---

1 Fort und fort ist in der Kirche so gesprochen worden; s. z. B. die besonders deutliche Stelle Georg v. Eliberis, Comm. in Cantic. l. II (Heine-Volbeding, Biblioth. Anekd., 1848, S. 145): „‚Mulieres' itaque has haereticorum plebes praedicatas esse nulla est dubitatio, quae adulterino doctrinae stupro corruptae et perversae traditionis adulterio violatae iam non ‚virgines', sed ‚mulieres' dici meruerunt," und Ephraem in dem 24. Gedicht gegen die Ketzer c. 5 (deutsch v. Zingerle, 1873, S. 263): „Die Braut des Sohnes schändeten (die Sektenstifter) unter den Griechen, weil auch ihre Jünger sich nach dem Namen ihrer Lehrer nannten."

2 Für die Glaubwürdigkeit spricht auch, daß die Verhandlung nicht vor einem Bischof geführt wird, vielmehr „die Presbyter und Lehrer" die Autoritäten sind (vgl. den Hirten des Hermas).

gewesen. M., so fährt Epiph. fort, ist darauf sofort nach Rom gegangen [1], aber seine Bitte, ihn in die Gemeinde aufzunehmen, wurde von den dortigen Presbytern abgelehnt; wütend darüber und weil er nicht das Bischofsamt in Rom erlangen konnte [2], ist er zur Sekte Cerdos übergetreten.

Epiph. hebt dann aufs neue an (c. 2): M. legte den römischen Presbytern und Lehrern die Frage vom neuen Wein und den alten Schläuchen usw. vor; diese geben ihm sanftmütig eine lange Erklärung der Stelle, M. aber lehnt sie ab und bietet eine andere. Da sie ihn nun nicht aufnehmen wollten und er sie deshalb zur Rede stellte, erklärten sie, sie könnten ihn ohne Erlaubnis seines verehrungswürdigen Vaters nicht aufnehmen. Da schleuderte er ihnen das Wort zu: σχίσω τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ὑμῶν καὶ βαλῶ σχίσμα ἐν αὐτῇ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. Diese dramatische Szene hat nichts Glaubwürdiges, auch wenn es damals dramatisch in der Versammlung zugegangen ist.

Daß M. einen Bischof zum Vater gehabt hat, ist wichtig. Darf man hiernach annehmen, was nicht unwahrscheinlich, daß er in christlicher Luft aufgewachsen ist, so fügt sich das trefflich zu seinem Bilde. Seine Entwicklung wird verständlicher,

---

1 Μετὰ τὸ τελευτῆσαι Ὑγῖνον τὸν ἐπίσκοπον Ῥώμης — ich habe früher diese genaue Nachricht auf Hippolyt zurückgeführt und für beachtenswert gehalten; es erscheint mir aber jetzt wahrscheinlicher, daß sie dem Epiph. gebührt und aus der Angabe des Irenäus entstanden ist, die Epiph. wiederholt hat, Cerdo sei unter Hygin nach Rom gekommen. Da M. auch nach Irenäus später als Cerdo Rom betreten hat, so war es das Bequemste, seine Ankunft auf die Zeit unmittelbar nach dem Tode des Hyginus anzusetzen. Wahrscheinlich aber hat Epiphanius nicht ἐπὶ τοῦ Πίου ἐπισκόπου geschrieben, weil er in seiner Quelle (Hippolyt) fand, daß M. mit den Presbytern und Lehrern verhandelt hat, und das so verstand, als sei damals in Rom der bischöfliche Thron erledigt gewesen; er behauptet ja auch, M. habe nach ihm gestrebt. — In haer. 48, 1 schreibt Epiph.: Ὁ Μαρκίων δὲ καὶ οἱ περὶ Τατιανὸν καὶ οἱ ἀπ' αὐτοῦ διαδεξάμενοι Ἐγκρατῖται ἐν χρόνοις Ἀδριανοῦ καὶ μετὰ Ἀδριανόν. Er muß doch wohl von irgendwoher eine Nachricht besessen haben, daß M. schon in die Zeit Hadrians gehört (s. o. bei Clemens).

2 Der Satz ζήλῳ λοιπὸν ἐπαρθείς, ὡς οὐκ ἀπείληφε τὴν προεδρίαν τε καὶ τὴν εἴσδυσιν τῆς ἐκκλησίας, ist selbst für Epiph. naiv. Das folgende ἐπινοεῖ ἑαυτῷ verstehe ich nicht.

wenn er lange innerhalb der großen Kirche gestanden und es mit ihrem Christentum ernstlich versucht hat [1].

Von drei Ausweisungen, bez. Exkommunikationen M.s berichtet uns die Überlieferung: in Sinope, in Asien und in Rom. Die zweite macht es wahrscheinlich, was an sich wahrscheinlich war, daß M. auch schon in Sinope aus der Gemeinde ausgewiesen worden ist, weil seine Lehre unerträglich erschien [2]. So ergibt sich ein gewisses Bild von der Geschichte M.s vor seinem definitiven Bruch mit der großen Kirche. Schon in Sinope hatte er Grundzüge seiner Lehre ausgebildet und wollte sie in die Gemeinde einführen; aber der Versuch glückte nicht, und er mußte die Gemeinde verlassen. Er begab sich nun nach Asien, um dort den Versuch aufs neue aufzunehmen; aber auch dort wurde er abgewiesen, ja die Säule Asiens, Polykarp, schleuderte ihm das Wort „Erstgeborener des Satans" zu. Allein M. ließ sich in seinem Bestreben, die von ihm gewonnene Erkenntnis des Evangeliums in der Christenheit durchzusetzen, nicht erschüttern, sondern ging nach Rom (um d. J. 140), um die dortige Gemeinde zu gewinnen. Eine Zeitlang hat er sich dort gehalten; aber schließlich kam es i. J. 144 — der Monatstag blieb in der Kirche M.s unvergessen — nach einer großen Verhandlung in der Gemeinde zu einem definitiven Bruch, und er gründete seine eigene Kirche, die in wenigen Jahren sich über das ganze Reich verbreitete.

---

1 Vgl. Orig., Comm. II in Cantic., T. XIV p. 10: „Omnes haeretici primo ad credulitatem veniunt et post haec ab itinere fidei et dogmatum veritate dei declinant"; derselbe, Sel. in Prov., T. XIII p. 228: Οἱ ἀλλότριοι τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἄλλα μὲν ἐπαγγέλλονται κατ' ἀρχάς, ἄλλα δὲ κατὰ τέλη· ἀφιστᾶσι μὲν γὰρ εἰδωλολατρείας ἐξ ἀρχῆς καὶ προσάγουσι τῷ δημιουργῷ· εἶτα μετατιθέμενοι τὴν παλαιὰν ἀθετοῦσι γραφὴν ἐναντιούμενοι τῇ στοιχειώδει νεότητι.

2 Doch würde man dem Bericht des Epiph. zuviel Ehre antun, wenn man aus den Worten, mit denen die Presbyter in Rom die Aufnahme M.s ablehnten (οὐ δυνάμεθα ἄνευ τῆς ἐπιτροπῆς τοῦ τιμίου πατρός σου τοῦτο ποιῆσαι· μία γάρ ἐστιν ἡ πίστις καὶ μία ἡ ὁμόνοια καὶ οὐ δυνάμεθα ἐναντιωθῆναι τῷ καλῷ συλλειτουργῷ πατρὶ δὲ σῷ), schließen wollte, hier schimmere noch durch, daß Irrlehre der Grund der Abweisung gewesen sei und nicht eine Fleischessünde. — Woher H e n k e (Gesch. der christl. Kirche I[5] S. 115) weiß, M.s eigener Vater habe die römische Gemeinde vor seinem Sohne gewarnt, ist mir nicht bekannt.

9. Das Zeugnis einer unbekannten Quelle des Hieronymus (Origenes?).

Hieronymus, der selbständig nichts mehr von M. weiß, bringt in ep. 133, 4 die abgerissene Notiz: „Marcion Romam praemisit mulierem, quae decipiendos sibi animos praepararet". Sie erweist, daß M. schon mindestens die Grundzüge seiner Lehre gefaßt hatte und auf die Propaganda seines Christentums bedacht war, bevor er nach Rom kam. Also werden unsere oben gegebenen Ausführungen bestätigt [1].

10. Das Zeugnis der Edessenischen Chronik und des Fihrist.

In dieser Chronik (s. Hallier i. d. Texten u. Unters. IX, 1 S. 89) findet sich zum Jahr 449 = 137/8 p. Chr. die Bemerkung: „In diesem Jahr schied M. aus der katholischen Kirche aus". Vgl. Lib. Chaliph. (Land, Anecd. I, 18,8): „Im J. 448 = 136/7 p. Chr. wurden die Häretiker Marcion und Montanus bekannt" (dazu Joh. Malalas p. 279 edit. Bonn). Im Fihrist des Muhammed ben Ishak (s. u.), der sich durch beachtenswerte Angaben über die Häretiker auszeichnet, wird berichtet (Flügel, Mani S. 85): „Marcion ist c. 100 Jahre vor Mani, der im 2. Jahr des Kaisers Gallus erschien, aufgetreten unter der Regierung des T. Antoninus und zwar im ersten Jahr seiner Herrschaft (Bardesanes ist c. 30 Jahre nach M. erschienen)". Diese drei Zeugnisse gehen wahrscheinlich auf eine Quelle zurück, die das 1. Jahr des Pius für M. angab (welches die beiden anderen Zeugen falsch berechnet haben). Das fügt sich gut zu der Angabe (s. o. S. 19f.*), daß M. im J. 144 seine Kirche in Rom begründet hat, also wenige Jahre vorher dorthin gekommen ist [2]. Da wir aus Tert. wissen, daß die römischen Marcioniten jenes Datum aus M.s Leben festgelegt haben, so ist es möglich, daß auch die Datierung „Erstes

---

1 Ein Skeptischer könnte mit Ittig in der Notiz eine Verwechslung sehen, die aus Iren. I, 25, 1 entstanden sei, wo es von der Karpokratianerin Marcellina heißt: „Marcellina, quae Romam sub Aniceto venit, cum esset huius (Carpocratis) doctrinae, multos exterminavit" (vgl. Epiph., haer. 27, 6): allein eine solche Annahme liegt doch nicht nahe; auch ist das Akumen „praemisit" nicht gedeckt.

2 Ephraem (24. Lied gegen die Ketzer, e. 10) bemerkt, daß man zur Zeit, als nach der Zerstörung des Tempels in Jerusalem eine Kirche begründet wurde, von M. noch nichts wußte.

Jahr des Antoninus Pius" von ihnen stammt, und sie kann dann schwerlich etwas anderes bedeuten als die Ankunft ihres Meisters in Rom. Allerdings heißt es in der Edessenischen Chronik, daß M. in diesem Jahre aus der katholischen Kirche ausgeschieden sei; aber das ist wohl eine Verwechslung. Will man das nicht annehmen, so muß man das Jahr 138/9 gegenüber dem J. 144 preisgeben.

Über die Bildung M.s läßt sich Näheres nichts ermitteln, als was Kap. 2 bereits dargelegt ist. Tert.s Wort (III, 6): „Haeretica dementia coacta est cum Iudaico errore sociari et ab eo argumentationem sibi struere", ist aller Wahrscheinlichkeit so zu verstehen, daß der „Judaicus error" eine bleibende Voraussetzung seiner neuen Erfassung des Christlichen gewesen ist. Mit Recht wundert sich Tert. (l. c.), daß M. so fast zeitlebens bei dem jüdischen Verständnis des A. T. geblieben ist und nennt die Juden „partiarii erroris Marcionis" (III, 16).

Beilage II: Cerdo und Marcion.

Irenaeus I, 27, 1: Κέρδων δέ τις (voran stehen die Ebioniten und Nikolaiten) ἀπὸ τῶν περὶ τὸν Σίμωνα τὰς ἀφορμὰς λαβὼν καὶ ἐπιδημήσας ἐν τῇ Ῥώμῃ ἐπὶ Ὑγίνου ὄγδοον κλῆρον τῆς ἐπισκοπικῆς διαδοχῆς ἀπὸ τῶν ἀποστόλων ἔχοντος ἐδίδαξε τὸν ὑπὸ τοῦ νόμου καὶ προφητῶν κεκηρυγμένον θεὸν μὴ εἶναι πατέρα τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ· τὸν μὲν γὰρ γνωρίζεσθαι, τὸν δὲ ἀγνῶτα εἶναι, καὶ τὸν μὲν δίκαιον, τὸν δὲ ἀγαθὸν ὑπάρχειν. δεξάμενος δὲ αὐτὸν Μαρκίων ὁ Ποντικὸς ηὔξησεν τὸ διδασκαλεῖον ἀπηρυθριασμένως βλασφημῶν.

Griechisch bei Euseb., h. e. IV, 11 und z. T. auch bei Hippol., Philos. VII, 37 u. a. — 3 ὄγδοον ist für Iren. richtig, obgleich Iren. Lat. u. Euseb. ἕνατον bieten — 7 ἐγνῶσθαι . . . ἄγνωστον Hippol.

Irenaeus III, 4, 3: Κέρδων δ' ὁ πρὸ Μαρκίωνος καὶ αὐτὸς (wie Valentin) ἐπὶ Ὑγίνου, ὃς ἦν ὄγδοος ἐπίσκοπος, πολλάκις εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἐλθὼν καὶ ἐξομολογούμενος οὕτως διετέλεσε, ποτὲ μὲν λαθροδιδασκαλῶν, ποτὲ δὲ πάλιν ἐξομολογούμενος, ποτὲ δὲ ὑπό τινων ἐλεγχόμενος ἐφ' οἷς ἐδίδασκε κακῶς καὶ ἀφιστάμενος τῆς τῶν ἀδελφῶν συνοδίας. „Marcion autem illi succedens invaluit sub Aniceto."

Griechisch bei Euseb. h. e. IV, 11—2 ὄγδοος Iren. Lat., ἕνατος Euseb., Cypr. ep. 74, 2 und Pseudotert., Carmen III, 293 — 4 πάλιν fehlt bei Iren. Lat. — 5 ὑπό τινων fehlt bei Euseb. — 6 ἀδελφῶν Euseb., religiosorum hominum (= θεοσεβῶν) Iren. Lat., wahrscheinlich richtig.

Tertull., adv. Marc. I, 2: „Marcion habuit et Cerdonem quendam informatorem scandali huius, quo facilius duos deos caeci perspexisse se existimaverunt". Cf. I, 22: „(‚Bonus deus') a Tiberio, immo, quod verius, a Cerdone et Marcione"; III, 21: „Nullo adhuc Cerdone, nedum Marcione"; IV, 17: „Nec Marcion aliquid boni de thesauro Cerdonis malo protulit".

Pseudotertull., adv. omnes haereses 6: „Accedit his (scil. Valentino et discipulis eius) Cerdo quidam. hic introducit initia duo, i. e. duos deos, unum bonum et alterum saevum, bonum superiorem, saevum huius mundi creatorem. hic prophetias et legem repudiat, deo creatori renuntiat, superioris dei filium Christum venisse tractat, hunc in substantia carnis negat, in phantasmate solo fuisse pronuntiat nec omnino passum, sed quasi passum, nec ex virgine natum, sed omnino nec natum. resurrectionem animae tantummodo probat, corporis negat. solum evangelium Lucae nec tamen totum recipit. apostoli Pauli neque omnes neque totas epistolas sumit. Acta Apostolorum et Apocalypsin quasi falsa reicit. post hunc discipulus ipsius emersit, Marcion".

Hippol., Philos. VII, 10: Τίνα Κέρδωνι ἔδοξε, καὶ αὐτῷ τὰ Ἐμπεδοκλέους εἰπόντι καὶ κακῶς προβιβάσαντι τὸν Μαρκίωνα. VII, 37: Κέρδων δέ τις καὶ αὐτὸς ἀφορμὰς ὁμοίως παρὰ τούτων λαβὼν καὶ Σίμωνος, λέγει τὸν ὑπὸ Μωσέως καὶ προφητῶν θεὸν κεκηρυγμένον μὴ εἶναι πατέρα Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ· τοῦτον μὲν γὰρ ἐγνῶσθαι, τὸν δὲ τοῦ Χριστοῦ πατέρα εἶναι ἄγνωστον, καὶ τὸν μὲν εἶναι δίκαιον, τὸν δὲ ἀγαθόν· τούτου δὲ τὸ δόγμα ἐκράτυνε Μαρκίων κτλ. X, 19: Μαρκίων ὁ Ποντικὸς καὶ Κέρδων ὅ τούτου διδάσκαλος καὶ αὐτοὶ ὁρίζουσιν εἶναι τρεῖς τὰς τοῦ παντὸς ἀρχάς, ἀγαθόν, δίκαιον, ὕλην.

Epiphan., haer. 41, 1: Κέρδων τις τούτους (die Archontiker) καὶ τὸν Ἡρακλέωνα διαδέχετει ἐκ τῆς αὐτῆς ὢν σχολῆς, ἀπὸ Σίμωνός τε καὶ Σατορνίλου λαβὼν τὰς προφάσεις. οὗτος μετανάστης γίνεται ἀπὸ τῆς Συρίας καὶ ἐπὶ τὴν Ῥώμην ἐλθών . . . Ὁ Κέρδων ἐν χρόνοις Ὑγίνου γέγονεν ἐπισκόπου, τοῦ ἕνατον κλῆρον ἄγοντος ἀπὸ τῆς τῶν περὶ Ἰάκωβον καὶ Πέτρον καὶ Παῦλον ἀποστόλων διαδοχῆς . . . Δύο καὶ οὗτος ἀρχὰς κεκήρυχεν τῷ βίῳ καὶ δύο δῆθεν θεούς, ἕνα ἀγαθὸν καὶ [ἕνα] ἄγνωστον τοῖς ἅπασιν, ὃν καὶ πατέρα τοῦ Ἰησοῦ κέκληκεν, καὶ ἕνα τὸν δημιουργόν, πονηρὸν ὄντα καὶ γνωστόν, λαλήσαντα ἐν τῷ νόμῳ καὶ[ἐν]τοῖς προφήταις φανέντα καὶ ὁρατὸν πολλάκις γενόμενον· μὴ εἶναι δὲ τὸν Χριστὸν γεγεννημένον ἐκ Μαρίας μηδὲ ἐν σαρκὶ πεφηνέναι, ἀλλὰ δοκήσει ὄντα καὶ δοκήσει πεφηνότα, δοκήσει δὲ τὰ ὅλα πεποιηκότα. καὶ αὐτὸς δὲ σαρκὸς ἀνάστασιν ἀπωθεῖται, παλαιὰν δὲ ἀπαγορεύει διαθήκην τήν [τε] διὰ Μωυσέως καὶ τῶν προφητῶν, ὡς ἀλλοτρίαν οὖσαν θεοῦ. ἐληλυθέναι δὲ τὸν Χριστὸν ἀπὸ τῶν ἄνωθεν ἐκ τοῦ ἀγνώστου πατρὸς εἰς ἀθέτησιν τῆς τοῦ κοσμοποιοῦ καὶ δημιουργοῦ ἐνταῦθα, φησίν, ἀρχῆς καὶ τυραννίδος, ὥσπερ ἀμέλει καὶ πολλαὶ τῶν αἱρέσεων ἐξεῖπαν. ὀλίγῳ δὲ τῷ χρόνῳ οὗτος ἐν Ῥώμῃ γενόμενος μεταδέδωκεν αὐτοῦ τὸν ἰὸν Μαρκίωνι· διόπερ τοῦτον ὁ Μαρκίων διεδέξατο. haer. 41, 3: λέγει δὲ ὁ ἠλίθιος καὶ τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας τῆς φαύλης καὶ ἐναντίας εἶναι ἀρχῆς, τὸν δὲ Χριστὸν τῆς ἀγαθῆς . . . Καὶ πολλά μοι ἔστι περὶ μαρτυριῶν λέγειν, καθὼς συναγείρας σχολὴν ἑαυτῷ ἐποίησεν ὁ ἐπὶ συγκυρήματι πονηρῷ τῷ κόσμῳ ἐπιβλαστήσας καὶ πλανήσας τοὺς ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πεπλανημένους. haer. 42, 1: Μαρκίων ἐκ τούτου τοῦ προειρημένου Κέρδωνος τὴν πρόφασιν εἰληφώς. 42, 1: M., von der römischen Gemeinde abgewiesen, προσφεύγει τ. Κέρδωνος αἱρέσει. haer. 42, 3: Ἔλαβε (ὁ Μαρκίων) τὴν πρόφασιν παρὰ τοῦ προειρημένου Κέρδωνος, γόητος καὶ ἀπατηλοῦ. καὶ αὐτὸς μὲν γὰρ δύο κηρύττει ἀρχάς, προσθεὶς δὲ πάλιν ἐκείνῳ, φημὶ τῷ Κέρδωνι, ἕτερόν τι παρ' ἐκεῖνον δείκνυσι, λέγων τρεῖς εἶναι ἀρχάς. Haer. anaceph. p. 142: Κερδωνιανοί, οἱ ἀπὸ Κέρδωνος τοῦ Ἡρακλέωνος διαδεξαμένου τὴν μετοχὴν τῆς πλάνης, ἀπὸ δὲ τῆς Συρίας εἰς Ῥώμην μεταναστάντος καὶ κήρυγμα ἑαυτοῦ ἐκθεμένου ἐν χρόνοις Ὑγίνου ἐπισκόπου. δύο δὲ ἀρχὰς κηρύττει οὗτος ἐναντίας, μὴ εἶναι δὲ τὸν Χριστὸν γεννητόν, ὁμοίως τε νεκρῶν ἀνάστασιν ἀθετῶν καὶ τὴν παλαιὰν διαθήκην.

Filastrius, haer. 44 (nach Herakleon, Markus, Kolarbasus): „Cerdon autem quidam surrexit post hos, peius suis doctoribus praedicans. qui cum venisset Romam de Syria, ausus est dicere duo esse principia, id est unum deum bonum et unum malum, et deum quidem bonum bona facere, et malum mala; Iesum autem salvatorem non natum adserit de virgine nec apparuisse in carne, sed de caelo descendisse et putative visum fuisse hominibus [1], qui non videbatur, inquit, vere, sed erat umbra; unde et putabatur quibusdam pati, non tamen vere patiebatur. haer. 45: Marcion autem discipulus eius" etc.

Was Eusebius (Chron. Arm. S. 221 Karst: Unter des Hyginus römischem Bistum kamen Valentinus, der Sektenstifter, und Cerdo, Vorsteher der Marcionitensekte, nach Rom"; Chron. Hieron. S. 202 Helm: „Sub Hygino Romanae urbis episcopo Valentinus haeresiarches et Cerdo, magister Marcionis, Romam venerunt"), Theodoret (haer. fab. I, 24: Μαρκίων καὶ Κέρδων, ὁ τούτου διδάσκαλος . . . ὁ Κέρδων ἐγένετο ἐπὶ Ἀντωνίνου τοῦ πρώτου), Cyprian (ep. 74, 2: „Marcionis magister Cerdon sub Hygino episcopo, qui in urbe nonus fuit, Romam venit, quem Marcion secutus"), Firmilian (Cypr., ep. 75, 5: „Marcion, Cerdonis discipulus, invenitur sero post apostolos"),

1 sed de caelo . . . . . et: ne de celo . . . sed A, nec de caelo . . . . sed B Marx.

Pseudotertullian[1] und Syncellus[2] bringen, ist aus Irenäus geflossen [3].

Justin, Clemens und Origenes berichten nichts über Cerdo; aber auch Tertullian hat augenscheinlich nichts von ihm gewußt; denn das Wenige, was er bringt, muß aus seiner Lektüre des Irenäus abgeleitet werden, da es ganz farblos ist und dadurch verrät, daß es aus einer sekundären Quelle stammt. Dieses Nicht-Wissen Tert.s ist von Wichtigkeit, da er sich doch so viel mit M. beschäftigt hat. Auch in dem „Brief" M.s kann nichts über ihn gestanden haben, und vor allem — die Kirche Marcions hat augenscheinlich vollständig über

---

1 Carmen adv. Marc. I, 41: „Haec vobis per Marcionem, Cerdone magistro | Terribilis refuga adtribuit fera munera mortis"; III, 282 ff: „Sextus Alexander Sixto commendat ovile | Post expleta sui qui lustri tempora tradit | Telesforo; excellens hic erat martyrque fidelis | Post illum socius legis certusque magister, | Cum vestri sceleris socius, praecursor et auctor | Advenit Romam Cerdo, nova vulnera gestans, | Detectus, quoniam voces et verba veneni | Spargebat furtim: quapropter ab agmine pulsus | Sacrilegum genus hoc genuit spirante dracone. | Constabat pietate vigens ecclesia Romae | Composita a Petro, cuius succesor et ipse | Iamque loco nono cathedram suscepit Hyginus". Die Verbindung Cerdos mit Telesforus wird aus Tert., de praescr. 30 geflossen sein (s. o.).

2 P. 662, 13: Κατὰ τοὺς χρόνους Ὑγίνου καὶ Πίου ἐπισκόπων ἕως Ἀνικήτου Οὐαλεντιανὸς καὶ Κέρδων, ἀρχηγοὶ τῆς Μαρκίωνος αἱρέσεως, ἐπὶ Ῥώμης ἐγνωρίζοντο.

3 Die späteren Häreseologen verdienen keine Erwähnung; doch sei als Probe verzeichnet, daß der „Prädestinatus" haer. 21 ff Marcion, Apelles, Cerdo ordnet, dem M. zwei Prinzipien beilegt (gut und böse), aber bemerkt, daß Epiph. ihm drei Prinzipien beilege, doch schreibe Eusebius (s. bei Rhodon) diese nicht dem M. selbst zu, sondern einem gewissen Synerus. (Dies nach Augustin, haer. 22.) Über Cerdo wird dann nach Irenäus und Hippolyt berichtet (doch ist das auch dem Augustin entnommen) und dazu mitgeteilt: „Contra hunc suscepit sanctus Apollonius episcopus Corinthiorum eumque omni cum synodo orientali damnavit." Das ist Fabelei. Merkwürdig ist, daß noch der 4. Kanon der 2. Synode von Braga (i. J. 563) des Cerdo vor Marcion, Manichäus und Priszillian gedenkt. Ein Jahrhundert vorher hat Leo I (ep. 15, 4) den Doketismus der Priszillianer auf Cerdo und Marcion zurückgeführt. Auf Eusebius' Chronik geht die Nachricht des armenischen Chronisten Samuel zurück, Valentin und Cerdo seien vier Jahre vor dem Tode Hadrians nach Rom gekommen.

ihn geschwiegen. Niemand hat jemals, soviel wir wissen, von M. selbst[1] oder von seinen Anhängern ein Wort über Cerdo gehört; Marcion und nur er, gilt ihnen als der gefeierte Stifter der wahren christlichen Kirche, und nicht einmal als Vorläufer haben sie Cerdo gelten lassen. Diese Erkenntnis muß dem entgegengesetzt werden, was Irenäus und Hippolyt, die einzigen Zeugen, die wir für Cerdo besitzen, über das Verhältnis M.s zu Cerdo berichten. Für die Schätzung kommt nur jener in Betracht; denn dieser hat jenen gelesen, und es ist anzunehmen, daß er seine Schätzung Cerdos von ihm übernommen hat.

Das πρῶτον ψεῦδος, das sich Irenäus hat zu Schulden kommen lassen, liegt darin, daß er M.s Kirche als „Schule" (διδασκαλεῖον) behandelt, die Cerdo gestiftet und M. (als sein Diadoche im Lehramt) verstärkt habe. Er überträgt damit in ganz unstatthafter Weise auf M.s Schöpfung die Schulorganisation. Sobald man aber festhält, daß diese Schöpfung eine große, das Reich umspannende Kirche war — und niemand kann das bezweifeln —, so wird die Behauptung des Irenäus, M. sei der Diadoche Cerdos, einfach hinfällig. Es kann sich nur darum handeln, ob und welche sekundäre Einflüsse M.s Lehre von Cerdo erhalten hat, bezw. was Cerdo gelehrt hat.

Gewiß schöpfte Irenäus aus einer guten römischen Quelle — man darf annehmen, daß es sozusagen eine offizielle war —; denn das beweisen die genauen Angaben über die Zeit der Ankunft Cerdos in Rom[2], über sein wechselndes Verhältnis zur römischen Gemeinde, über Verhandlungen, die mit ihm geführt worden sind, und über sein schließliches Ausscheiden. Cerdo muß unzweifelhaft ein Häretiker gewesen sein, der bedeutend genug war, um die römische Gemeinde ein paar Jahre lang zu beunruhigen. Aber stand in dieser Quelle wirklich, daß Cerdo zwei Götter unterschieden hat, den erkennbaren und gerechten Gott des A.T.s und den unerkennbaren und guten Gott, den Vater Jesu Christi? Dies und nicht mehr

1 Auch in den „Antithesen" kann nichts über Cerdo gestanden haben; sonst hätte es Tert. hervorgeholt.

2 Daß er ἀπὸ τῶν περὶ τὸν Σίμωνα τὰς ἀφορμὰς ἔλαβε, ist eine unerhebliche Angabe des Irenäus.

sagt Irenäus von der Lehre Cerdos; aber es genügt, um M. nahezu die Originalität zu nehmen. Nach Tertulliam (I, 19) war das „proprium et principale opus Marcionis" die Trennung von Gesetz und Evangelium und damit die Trennung des Gottes des Moses und der Propheten von dem Vater Jesu Christi, des Gerechten von dem Guten. Wenn schon Cerdo so gelehrt hat, was bleibt für M. übrig? Notwendig entsteht hier der Verdacht, daß Irenäus die Hauptlehre M.s einfach auf Cerdo übertragen hat, weil er in seiner Quelle gelesen, daß Cerdo als Lehrer Marcion beeinflußt hat; denn eine Beziehung zwischen beiden Häretikern muß allerdings dort gestanden haben [1].

An sich ist es schon nicht wahrscheinlich, daß in einer chronikartigen Quelle — denn als solche muß man sich die Vorlage des Irenäus denken — ein so präziser Bericht über Cerdos Lehre gestanden hat, wie der oben angeführte Satz ihn enthält. Entweder hat dort nichts gestanden oder mehr; um dies zu entscheiden, ist Hippolyts Zeugnis heranzuziehen.

Hippolyt hat den Irenäus gelesen, das ist sicher [2]. Aber ebenso sicher ist, daß er neben ihm noch eine Quelle benützt hat, wie die bei Irenäus fehlende Angabe beweist, Cerdo sei aus Syrien nach Rom gekommen. Festzustellen, was in dieser Quelle gestanden hat, ist nicht ganz einfach, weil die drei Zeugen des Syntagmas, auf dessen Zeugnis es allein ankommt, stark auseinandergehen, Filastrius auch den Epiphanius eingesehen hat und dieser sowohl vom Syntagma Hippolyts als auch von Irenäus abhängig ist und dazu in seiner Weise durch Ausspinnungen usw. fabuliert [3]. Ganz deutlich ist ferner, daß Pseudotertullian auf eigene Hand den Cerdo noch dreister für Marcion substituiert,

---

1 Eventuell hat schon die Quelle selbst das Verhältnis übertrieben.

2 In seiner unwürdigen Buchmacherei hat er sogar in der „Refutatio" wider eigenes besseres Wissen (s. das Syntagma) einfach den Irenäus abgeschrieben.

3 Zu den Fabeleien gehört, daß Cerdo der Diadoche der Archontiker und Herakleons sei, zugleich aber sich an Simon Magus und Satornil angelehnt habe, ferner daß er nur kurze Zeit in Rom gewirkt hatte, als er dem M. die Nachfolgeschaft übergab (aus den chronologischen Angaben für beide herausgesponnen), weiter der Satz (41, 3) καὶ πολλά μοι ἔστι περὶ μαρτυριῶν λέγειν κτλ., sodann die Erzählung, M. habe sich infolge seiner Ablehnung seitens der römischen Presbyter zu Cerdo geflüchtet wenn er schreibt: „Solum evangelium Lucae, nec tamen totum recipit. apostoli Pauli neque omnes neque totas epistulas sumit. Acta Apostolorum et Apocalypsin quasi falsa reicit". Unter solchen Umständen muß man hier bei Bestimmung dessen, was im Syntagma Hippolyts gestanden hat, besonders vorsichtig sein. Die genaue Prüfung ergibt, daß Cerdo nach der Hippolyt vorliegenden Quelle allerdings zwei Götter gelehrt hat, aber einen guten und einen bösen (Filast.: „unum deum bonum et unum malum", Pseudotert.: „unum bonum et alterum saevum", Epiph.: ἕνα ἀγαθὸν καὶ ἕνα τὸν δημιουργὸν πονηρὸν ὄντα); der Gute hat (nach Filastr.) das Gute geschaffen, der Böse das Böse (nach Epiph. und Pseudotert. ist dieser der Weltschöpfer). Das ist der bekannte gnostische Gegensatz und nicht der Marcions, den Irenäus also zu Unrecht hier eingeführt hat. Daß Cerdo das A.T. verworfen hat, ist ebenfalls gemeingnostisch und eine einfache Konsequenz der Zweigötter-Lehre. Ferner hat er nach der Quelle streng doketisch gelehrt (wie Satornil) und daher Jesus nicht geboren werden, sondern ihn als himmlische Erscheinung in einem Scheinleib auftreten und als bloßes Phantasma leiden lassen. Da M. in bezug auf den Erlöser ebenso lehrte, wird vielleicht hier die Abhängigkeit M.s von Cerdo zu suchen sein [1].

Was aber den Gegensatz des bekannten und unbekannten Gottes betrifft, den Irenäus für Cerdo feststellt, so mag diese Angabe richtig sein; aber sie deckt sich nicht mit den beiden Gottheiten M.s. Das Charakteristische nämlich für M.s neuen Gott ist nicht, daß er der Unbekannte, sondern daß er der Fremde ist. Diese Lehre findet sich aber bei keinem Gnostiker und zerstört die gnostische Grundlehre, daß der unbekannte Gott dem menschlichen Geiste nicht fremd ist, dieser vielmehr zu ihm gehört und lediglich von der Verdunkelung

---

(42, 1), und habe den zwei Prinzipien Cerdos ein drittes hinzugefügt. Auch eine besondere Sekte der Cerdonianer, an sich nicht unwahrscheinlich, ist bei Epiphanius nur eine Folgerung.

1 Im Texte (Kap. VI § 2) habe ich vermutungsweise eine Abhängigkeit M.s von Cerdo bei der Lehre von der Materie und vom Fleisch geäußert, aber hinzugefügt, daß sich diese Marcionitischen Lehren auch ohne Rekurs auf Cerdo erklären lassen.

befreit werden muß, in der ihm sein Gott unbekannt geworden ist [1].

Cerdo war also ein syrischer Vulgärgnostiker wie Satornil. Man wird der römischen Quelle Glauben schenken dürfen, daß er auf M. in Rom einen erheblichen Einfluß ausgeübt hat, und man wird untersuchen müssen, an welchen Stellen der Lehre M.s dieser Einfluß etwa nachweisbar ist [2]. Allein das braucht man dem Irenäus nicht zu glauben, daß die bewegende Seele der Auffassung M.s vom Christentum, der Gegensatz von Gerechtigkeit und Güte, schon Cerdos Lehre bestimmt hat und daß M. einfach sein Diadoche gewesen ist. Die kirchlichen Polemiker hatten ein begreifliches Interesse, Marcion und seine große Kirche auf den (syrischen) Gnostizismus zurückzuführen, und damit hat ja schon Justin begonnen, indem er M. als Dritten neben Simon Magus und Menander gestellt hat [3].

Marcion kann von verschiedenen Seiten Einflüsse erfahren haben — doch fordert seine Lehre weniger als die irgendeines anderen Häretikers dazu auf, nach besonderen Quellen zu spüren —; aber als sein Lehrer kommt nur Paulus in Betracht. Von ihm ist er ausgegangen, in ihn hat er sich versenkt, nach ihm hat er das Evangelium ausgewählt, dem er folgte, und er hat ihm den Schlüssel zum Verständnis Christi und seiner Predigt geboten. Wenn die alte Verkündigung und die große Kirche in Johannes dem Täufer den Vorläufer Christi gesehen

---

1 Anders urteilt über das Verhältnis von Marcion und Cerdo Hilgenfeld, Ketzergeschichte S. 316 ff, s. auch S. 25 f.

2 Eine nachweisbar falsche Unterscheidung bietet Epiph., wenn er behauptet, M. habe den zwei Prinzipien Cerdos (dem unsichtbaren guten Gott und dem sichtbaren schlechten Weltschöpfer) als drittes Prinzip und zwar als mittleres(!) den Teufel hinzugefügt. Hiernach wäre der Teufel bei M. besser als der Weltschöpfer. — Sophronius in der Epist. Synodica stellt neben Valentin als Zeitgenossen „Cerdo und Sacerdo". Cotelerius (Monum. eccl. Graec. p. 627) vermutet scharfsinnig, er habe Κέρδων ἀκέρδων geschrieben; aber schrieb er nicht Κέρδων καὶ Μαρκίων?

3 Lediglich als Kuriosum sei erwähnt, daß man auf der Basis Capitolina (CIL VI, 1 p. 179 ff) ann. 136 p. Chr. (p. 181 Col. 3 Z. 1 f) liest: „Regio XIV Vico Larum Ruralium D Junius DL Cerdo", u. l. c. Z. 31 f: „Vico Pacrai . . .] . . . . . L Ligarius LC [Ma]rcion".

hat, ohne den sie sich die Erscheinung Christi gar nicht zu denken vermochte, so strich Marcion diesen Vorläufer, aber er gab Christus einen Nachfolger von ungleich größerer Bedeutung. Die Christenheit vor Irenäus ist dem Heidenapostel nicht gerecht geworden; seine Schätzung bei Marcion kann man auch als Reaktion dagegen auffassen. Daß aber schon Cerdo ein Paulusschüler wie Marcion war, davon hören wir nichts Sicheres.

Beilage III: Das Apostolikon Marcions[1].

(Einschließlich der Marcionitischen Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen und der von Marcioniten gefälschten Briefe an die Laodicener und Alexandriner).

A. Einleitung: Die Zeugen und die Methode der Wiederherstellung.

Mit Recht durfte Zahn (Gesch. d. NTlichen Kanons II, S. 449) sagen, daß ein einigermaßen eindringender Versuch, den Text des Marcionitischen Apostolikons herzustellen, vor seiner Arbeit (a. a. O. S. 495—529) noch nicht gemacht worden sei. Als Vorgänger konnte überhaupt nur Hilgenfeld[2] in Betracht

---

1 Die Untersuchung über das Apostolikon M.s mußte der über das Evangelium vorangestellt werden, weil die kritischen Fragen, um deren Erledigung es sich handelt, zweckmäßiger zuerst bei jenem erörtert werden. Übrigens ist es wahrscheinlich, daß M. selbst zuerst die paulinischen Briefe „gereinigt" hat, dann das Evangelium, wenn auch beide zusammen von ihm veröffentlicht worden sind; denn die Annahme von Interpolationen mußte sich bei den Briefen mit zwingender Notwendigkeit einstellen, sobald erkannt war, das Paulus den Gott des Gesetzes von dem des Evangeliums scharf unterscheide. Zahlreiche Stellen widersprechen dem strikt; wollte M. nicht zum Sophisten und Allegoristen werden, so mußte er sie ausscheiden, und zugleich war ein festes Prinzip der Ausscheidung gegeben. Beim Evangelium lagen die Dinge schwieriger. Sind alle Evangelien nur verfälscht also zum Teil doch echt? oder sind alle Evangelien ganz unecht? Die mittlere Lösung, die M. fand, bot sich keineswegs von selbst (drei Evv. ganz zu verwerfen, eines zu reinigen) und konnte nur das Ergebnis wiederholter Erwägungen sein. Von den Briefen her war aber nun auch ein festes Prinzip der Ausscheidung gegeben.

2 Hilgenfeld, Das Apostolikon Marcions (Ztschr. f. d. hist. Theol., 25. Bd., 1855, S. 426—484). Semler hat die Untersuchungen andeutend und auf einen Irrweg führend begonnen. Sofort trat die Frage nach dem Evangelium Marcions so stark in den Vordergrund, daß in den Arbeiten von Löffler (1794), Schelling (1795), Arneth (1809), kommen, der wenigstens gewisse Grundlinien der Wiederherstellung richtig gezogen hat; aber da er die allgemeine Textgeschichte der paulinischen Briefe nicht berücksichtigte und außerdem noch in manchen Vorurteilen befangen blieb — wenn er auch das Verdienst hat, die Baursche Tendenzkritik an diesem Punkte widerlegt zu haben [1] —, so blieb seine Leistung noch sehr unvollkommen. Die van Manensche Untersuchung und Feststellung des Marcionitischen Textes des Galaterbriefes aber bezeichnete einen Rückschritt, der um so schlimmer war, als hier die Tendenzkritik, gepaart mit einer lückenhaften Gelehrsamkeit, zurückkehrte [2].

Zahn hat nicht nur die Forschung durch Ermittelung der richtigen Prinzipien für die Wiederherstellung auf einen festen Boden gestellt, sondern auch die Arbeit selbst mit bekannter Sorgfalt und Umsicht geleistet, so daß jede folgende Untersuchung an vielen Punkten nur eine Revision und Weiterführung seiner Ergebnisse sein kann [3]. Daß aber eine solche noch notwendig ist, werden die nachstehenden Blätter beweisen. Dazu kommt, daß es Zahn durch die unzweckmäßige Form, in der er seine Ergebnisse vorgelegt, dem Leser außerordentlich erschwert hat, den Marcionitischen Text wirklich kennen zu lernen: zwar die Abweichungen von dem Urtext, jedoch auch diese nicht immer vollständig, hat Zahn ausgedruckt, sonst aber nur Ver-Neander (1818), Hahn 1823.24), Ritschl (1846), Baur, Volckmar (1850.52) u. a. das Apostolikon nur eine ganz ungenügende Berücksichtigung erfuhr (am meisten noch, aber in der Verkehrtheit am konsequentesten, bei Ritschl, der jedoch später seine Aufstellungen zurückgenommen hat). Lachmann hätte daher in seiner Ausgabe des NT. die Marcionitischen Lesarten, auch wenn er es gewollt hätte, nicht berücksichtigen können; denn sie waren, von einigen Hauptstellen abgesehen, damals unbekannt.

---

1 Hilgenfeld hat eingesehen, daß M.s Text nicht der ursprüngliche ist, sondern den kanonischen zur Grundlage hat, wenn er auch noch einige Einschränkungen macht.

2 S. van Manen in der Theol. Tijdschr. 1887 S. 382 ff., 451 ff.

3 In den Prolegg. zu seiner Ausgabe des NT.s hat sich v. Soden ohne neue Untersuchungen auf den Boden der Zahnschen Ergebnisse gestellt und sie textkritisch fruchtbar zu machen versucht (I, 2, 1906, S. 1924 ff., I, 3, 1910, S. 2028 ff). Aber was Marcionitische Lesarten sind, darüber hat er keine Klarheit gebracht.

weisungen (mit Versziffern und verschiedenen Klammern) auf den üblichen Text gegeben. Daher muß sich der Leser das, was uns vom Text M.s erhalten ist, mühsam erst selbst im Wortlaut nach einer kritischen Bibelausgabe zusammenstellen. Wer sich diese Mühe nicht macht, erhält überhaupt kein Bild von dem Marcionitischen Apostolikon.

Die Notwendigkeit einer Revision und Weiterführung der Zahnschen grundlegenden Arbeit ergibt sich nicht nur aus der Entdeckung der Marcionitischen Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen, die de Bruyne[1] und Corssen[2], unabhängig voneinander, gemacht haben, sowie aus den textkritischen Arbeiten des letzteren, v. Sodens und Lietzmanns[3], den abendländischen Bibeltext betreffend, sondern auch aus der Einsicht, daß Zahn bei der kritischen Einschätzung der zwei ältesten Hauptzeugen für den Marcionitischen Text das Richtige, bezw. den wahren Sachverhalt an zwei Hauptpunkten nicht erkannt hat. Dazu kommt, daß er trotz allen Fleißes doch noch eine Nachlese in bezug auf das Material übriggelassen hat.

Die drei Hauptzeugen für den Text des Marcionitischen Apostolikons sind Tertullian, Adamantius und Epiphanius. Ein vierter Hauptzeuge wäre Origenes, wenn wir seine Werke sämtlich im Original besäßen; denn er hat nachweisbar ein Exemplar des Marcionitischen Apostolikons in Händen gehabt und dasselbe nicht nur bei der Exegese der Paulusbriefe fleißig benutzt, sondern auch sonst nachgeschlagen. Aber heute müssen wir uns seine Mitteilungen aus den Plagiaten des Hieronymus, nämlich seinen Kommentaren zu einigen Paulusbriefen, und den spärlichen Resten der im Original erhaltenen Origenes-Werke zusammensuchen. Die Ausbeute ist nicht ganz gering und inhaltlich besonders wichtig; sie läßt uns erkennen, was wir verloren haben[4]. Andere Zeugen, wie Ephraem und Chrysostomus, kommen nur durch wenige Beiträge in Betracht.

---

1 In der Revue Bénédictine, 1907 Januar.

2 In der Zeitschr. f. d. NTliche Wissensch. Bd. 10, 1909, S. 1 ff. S. 97 ff.

3 Erklärung des Römerbriefs, 2. Aufl. 1919, S. 14 ff u. sonst. Auch Riggenbach und Zahn selbst (in seinen später erschienenen Kommentaren zu Paulusbriefen) haben die textkritischen Probleme gefördert.

4 Auch hier gebührt Zahn das Verdienst, als erster das reiche Origenistische Material für M. aus Hieronymus nachgewiesen und benutzt

1. Tertullian.

Das vielleicht erst geraume Zeit nach d. J. 208/9 und jedenfalls nach De carne, De anima und De resurr. von Tertullian verfaßte 5. Buch gegen Marcion [1] gehört zu seinen reifsten und besten Leistungen. Zwar strahlt und funkelt es in dem Werke nicht mehr so wie in den früheren, aber die christliche und schriftstellerische Energie ist die alte geblieben. Eine anerkennenswerte Sachlichkeit ohne Digressionen und Umschweife zeichnet die Polemik und die Darlegungen aus [2].

Einziger Zweck Tert.s war es, in diesem Buche den Häretiker aus seinem eigenen Apostolikon zu widerlegen, d. h. aus dem, was er stehen gelassen hatte. Man hat daher in bezug auf die zahlreichen Abschnitte, die Tert. übergeht, in der Regel keine Möglichkeit festzustellen, ob sie bei M. gestanden haben oder nicht. Da nun Tert. im Laufe der Polemik, um sich nicht zu wiederholen, immer häufiger Abschnitte übergeht — auch wenn sie ihm guten Stoff boten [3] —, so kennen wir den Text der von Tert. zuerst behandelten Briefe in M.s Fassung besser als den der später geprüften [4]. Die Reihenfolge aber, nach welcher Tert. seine Prüfung angestellt hat, ist die der Marcionitischen Sammlung, nämlich Gal., I und II Kor., Rom., I und II Thess., Laod., Kol., Phil., Philem. Daß M. die Paulusbriefe zu haben (s. Kanonsgeschichte II S. 426 ff.,). Vgl. meine Abhandlungen „Der kirchengeschichtliche Ertrag der exegetischen Arbeiten des Origenes“ [Texte u. Unters. Bd. 42 H. 3 (1918) u. 4 (1919)]. In dem letzteren vgl. besonders den Anhang: „Origenistisches Gut von kirchengeschichtlicher Bedeutung in den Kommentaren des Hieronymus zu Philem., Gal., Ephes. u. Titus“.

---

1 S. meine Geschichte der altchristl. Literatur II, 2 S. 283 f. 296.

2 Die Überlieferung der gewiß nicht oft abgeschriebenen 5 Bücher gegen M. läßt manches zu wünschen übrig, ist aber doch nicht so schlecht, wie es nach der neuesten Ausgabe scheint; denn Kroymann hat m. E. sehr viele Konjekturen gemacht, die bei näherer Prüfung unnötig sind. Speziell die Bibelzitate sind, wie die Seitenreferenten erweisen, recht gut erhalten; ihre relative stilistische Einfachheit schützte sie vor Mißverständnissen und absichtlichen Korrekturen.

3 Er bemerkt das wiederholt selbst.

4 Doch bildet Ephes. eine Ausnahme. Tert. ist auf ihn ausführlicher eingegangen. Dieser Brief stand der ältesten Kirche besonders hoch.

„etiam de numero" verstümmelt habe, bemerkt Tert. ausdrücklich (V, 1 fin.), d. h. es fehlten, wie V. 21 konstatiert wird, die Pastoralbriefe. Ebenso bemerkt er die „Verfälschung" auch in bezug auf die Titel, indem er den titulus ad Laodicenos als eine Marcionitische „Interpolation" hinstellt (V, 17 init. und schon V, 11).

Hat er in diesen Fällen auf die Eingriffe M.s aufmerksam gemacht, so fehlen auch sonst Bemerkungen über solche nicht, obgleich sie streng genommen außerhalb des Planes lagen. Sie sind uns im höchsten Maße willkommen; denn ohne sie wäre unsere Kenntnis des Marcionitischen Textes eine noch viel beschränktere. Erstlich bezeichnet Tert. gelegentlich einzelne Worte, die M. ausgestoßen oder eingefügt hat, nämlich V, 3 in Gal. 2, 5 οὐδέ (hinzugefügt), V, 10 in I Kor. 15, 47 κύριος für Ἀδάμ, V, 15 in I Thess. 2, 15 ἰδίους zu προφήτας (hinzugefügt), V, 16 in II Thess. 1, 8 ἐν πυρὶ φλογός (gestrichen), V, 17 in Eph. 2, 15 αὐτοῦ nach σαρκί (gestrichen), V, 17 in Eph. 2, 20 καὶ προφητῶν neben ἀποστόλων (gestrichen), V, 18 in Eph. 3, 9 ἐν vor τῷ θεῷ (gestrichen), V, 18 in Eph. 6, 2 die Worte ἥτις ἐστὶν ἐντολὴ πρώτη ἐν ἐπαγγελίᾳ (gestrichen). Sodann macht er an 5 Stellen umfassendere Bemerkungen: zu Gal. 3, 17 ff. teilt er mit (V, 3. 4), daß M. das gestrichen habe, was sich in dem Briefe auf Abraham bezieht mit Ausnahme einer Stelle (4, 22), die er stehen gelassen habe, wie ja auch einem Dieb etwas entfalle („Haeretica industria erasit mentionem Abrahae" ... „erubescat spongia Marcionis! nisi quod ex abundanti retracto quae abstulit" ... „ut furibus solet aliquid excidere de praeda in indicium, ita credo et Marcionem novissimam Abrahae mentionem dereliquisse"); beim Römerbrief (c. 1) bemerkt er (V, 13): „quantas foveas in ista vel maxima epistola Marcion fecerit auferendo quae voluit, de nostri instrumenti integritate parebit", (V, 14) geht er von c. 8 sofort zu c. 10 über mit den Worten: „salio et hic amplissimum abruptum intercisae scripturae", und teilt gleich darauf (l. c.) mit, M. habe alles das ausgelassen, was den Apostel zu dem Ausrufe Röm. 11, 33 veranlaßt habe („haec si Marcion de industria erasit, quid apostolus eius exclamat? und: „si tanta de scripturis ademisti"). Zu Kol. 1, 15 endlich (V, 19) konstatiert Tert., daß M. 1, 15 b. 16 entfernt habe, weil es ihm mißfallen mußte. Diese bestimmten Angaben über Auslassungen und Änderungen sind von größtem Belang, weil sich ohne weiteres von ihnen ablesen läßt, aus welchen Motiven M. den Text geändert hat.

Daß Tert.s Wiedergabe des Marcionitischen Textes zuverlässig ist, weil er Sorgfalt übte und weil er fast ausschließlich nur diesen Text vor sich hatte — daß er hin und her in den katholischen Text blickte, ist möglich, aber nicht zu erweisen; denn was er aus ihm anführt, kann er sehr wohl seinem Gedächtnis verdanken [1] —, zeigt fast jede Seite; auch lassen sich die Fälle, in denen er wörtlich zitiert und in denen er über die Textfassung nur referiert, fast überall scheiden. Den besten Beweis aber seiner Zuverlässigkeit bilden die Stellen, an denen er uns den eigenartigen Text M.s bietet, ohne selbst zu bemerken oder zu sagen, daß hier eine eigenartige Fassung vorliegt. Diese Stellen wetteifern an Zahl mit denjenigen, deren Fassung durch die Seitenreferenten, Adamantius und Epiphanius, bestätigt werden.

Da sich aus dem, was Tert. und die anderen Zeugen berührt und besprochen haben, die Motive M.s bei seiner Textkonstruktion und sein Verfahren ermitteln lassen, so scheint die Anwendung auf die Abschnitte der paulinischen Briefe, die von den Zeugen unberührt gelassen worden sind, einfach gegeben zu sein. Allein diese Folgerung wäre nur dann statthaft, wenn M. bei seiner einschneidenden Kritik durchaus konsequent verfahren wäre. Allein das ist keineswegs der Fall. Schon daß er an einer Stelle im Galaterbrief „Abraham" hat stehen lassen, ist ein Warnungszeichen; solche aber gibt es noch mehrere. Weder in bezug auf die ATlichen Zitate, noch in bezug auf Begriffe wie δικαιοσύνη, νόμος usw. kann man aus der Behandlung einer Stelle bei ihm auf die Behandlung anderer schließen. Es ergibt sich vielmehr, daß das Verhältnis des Paulus zum

---

1 Nicht lange vor Abfassung des V. Buches gegen Marcion hatte er sich für die Herstellung seines Werkes De resurrectione carnis sehr eingehend mit den Paulusbriefen beschäftigt.

A.T. und seinem Gott, wie M. es faßte, ein recht kompliziertes gewesen sein muß, welches sich keineswegs mit der eindeutigen Vorstellung deckte, welche die Gegner dem M. zugeschrieben haben. Dazu: augenscheinlich wollte M. möglichst wenig streichen, also den überlieferten Text möglichst halten: es gibt Stellen genug, bei denen man es schwer begreift, wie M. sie bei seiner Lehre unkorrigiert anzuerkennen vermochte. Dazu kommt noch ein anderes: da wir keinen Grund zur Annahme haben, er habe sich bei seiner Textkritik für unfehlbar gehalten, und da er sich bei seinem Reinigungswerke auf eine „Offenbarung" nicht beruft, so mußte er sich selbst sagen, daß es ihm, nach dem angeblichen Untergang aller echten Exemplare der Paulusbriefe, nur annähernd gelingen könne, die Interpolationen und Textverfälschungen „der Pseudoapostel und jüdischen Evangelisten" — denn auf sie führte er die Verunreinigung der Texte zurück (V, 19) — durchweg richtig und vollständig wieder zu beseitigen. Er konnte daher seinen Text nur als einen annähernd richtigen ausgeben, und daß er wirklich nicht mehr behauptet hat, lehrt die Tatsache, daß seine Schüler diesen Text nicht als kanonischen empfangen und betrachtet haben. Sie haben vielmehr ihrerseits die Textkritik, teils reaktionär, teils progressiv fortgesetzt. Das zeigt uns noch heute die Geschichte des Marcionitischen Bibeltextes in der Kirche Marcions [1], und das bezeugen Tert., Celsus und Origenes [2] ausdrücklich. Es ist also vorzu-

---

1 S. den Apparat zum Texte des Marcionitischen Apostolikons und auch die später folgenden Ausführungen.

2 Tert. IV, 5: „Cotidie reformant evangelium, prout a nobis cotidie revincuntur". Orig., c. Cels. II, 27: Μετὰ ταῦτά ,τινας τῶν πιστευόντων', φησίν (scil. Celsus), ,ὡς ἐκ μέθης ἥκοντας εἰς τὸ ἐφεστάναι αὐτοῖς μεταχαράττειν ἐκ τῆς πρώτης γραφῆς τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τριχῇ καὶ τετραχῇ καὶ πολλαχῇ καὶ μεταπλάττειν, ἵν' ἔχοιεν πρὸς τοὺς ἐλέγχους ἀρνεῖσθαι'. μεταχαράξαντας δὲ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ἄλλους οὐκ οἶδα ἢ τοὺς ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος καὶ τοὺς ἀπὸ Οὐαλεντίνου, οἶμαι δὲ καὶ τοὺς ἀπὸ Λουκόνου (eines Schülers M.s). Auch Adamantius bestätigt die Veränderungen (s. Dial. II, 18, zitiert nach Rufin): „Infelix Marcion, cum adulterasset scripturas, apostoli codicem non est ausus in omnibus vel falsare vel etiam delere; sed isti (Marcionitae) etiam nunc quae eis visa fuerint auferunt, i. e. ea quae assertionibus behalten, daß M. Stellen übersehen, die Behandlung anderer aufgeschoben und Widersprüche nicht aufgehoben hat, ferner daß wir an einigen Stellen überhaupt nicht mehr den ursprünglichen Text M.s, sondern den seiner Schüler vor uns haben. Das nötigt uns zu großer Vorsicht in bezug auf Analogie-Schlüsse betreffend die Streichungen und Korrekturen M.s, wenn sie uns nicht ausdrücklich bezeugt sind.

Mit diesen Vorbemerkungen könnten wir die Ausführungen über Tert. als Zeugen des Apostolikons M.s schließen, erhöbe sich nicht noch eine Frage, die freilich nach dem bisherigen Stande der Forschung als eine ganz überflüssige erscheint. „Es ergibt sich mit völliger Sicherheit", bemerkt Zahn (Gesch. des NTlichen Kanons I, S. 603 f, S. 51), „daß Tert. alles, was er im IV. und V. Buch an evangelischem oder apostolischem Text und Stoff zum Gegenstand seiner Kritik macht, sofern er nicht ausdrücklich das Gegenteil versichert, aus der griechischen Bibel M.s entweder wörtlich übersetzt oder frei dem Inhalt nach ausgezogen hat" ... „Es ist m. W. noch nicht behauptet worden, daß M.s N.T. jemals in lateinischer Übersetzung vorhanden gewesen sei, und es läßt sich jedenfalls nicht bestreiten, daß es dem Tert. im griechischen Original vorlag". Dies ist in der Tat die herrschende, ja die allein geltende und niemals in Zweifel gezogene Meinung. Aber sie ist, seit jene Worte geschrieben, durch die Entdeckung der lateinischen Marcionitischen Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen (s. o.) sehr stark erschüttert worden, ferner aber auch durch die steigende Erkenntnis der Einwirkung des Marcionitischen Bibeltextes auf den katholischen des Abendlands [1]. Durchschlagend sind indes diese beiden Momente noch nicht; denn es könnten jene Prologe ohne den Bibeltext, zu dem sie gehören, von Katholiken ins Lateinische übersetzt und rezipiert worden sein — freilich eine unwahrscheinliche Annahme —, und der griechische Bibeltext M.s könnte auf den lateinischen katholischen Bibeltext lediglich durch das Medium griechischsuis videntur esse contraria, et ea sola derelinquunt quae adversa sibi non intellexerunt".

---

1 Zahn lehnte einen solchen Einfluß noch ganz ab; aber vgl. die Untersuchungen von Corssen, v. Soden, Lietzmann und White.

abendländischer Handschriften eingewirkt haben. Entschieden aber wäre die Frage, sobald nachgewiesen wird, daß das Apostolikon M.s dem Tert. bereits in lateinischer Form vorgelegen hat, und nicht nur diese Frage wäre entschieden, sondern es wäre auch eine für die Geschichte der lateinischen Bibel höchst wertvolle Problemstellung gewonnen; denn wenn die Marcionitische Kirche schon um das Jahr 200 ein lateinisches Apostolikon besessen hat, so erhebt sich die Frage, ob nicht etwa die Marcionitische lateinische Übersetzung der Paulusbriefe älter ist als die katholische [1].

Im folgenden erbringe ich den Beweis, daß das Marcionitische Apostolikon dem Tert. in lateinischer Gestalt

---

1 Daß es bereits zu Tert.s Zeit eine (oder mehrere?) lateinische Bibelübersetzung gegeben hat, ist heute die Meinung der großen Mehrzahl der Forscher (Corssen, Lietzmann, Monceaux, v. Soden), vgl. meine Nachweisungen in der „Altchristl. Lit.-Gesch." Bd. II, 2 S. 296 ff. Dagegen hält Zahn mit kleinen Einschränkungen noch immer daran fest, daß es um d. J. 200, ja auch noch in den ein bis zwei Jahrzehnten nach 200 eine lateinische Übersetzung nicht gegeben hat, s. Kanongesch. I S. 51 ff; Forschungen Bd. IX, 1916, S. 23 f. 179 ff; „Die Apostelgeschichte" (Kommentar), 1919, I S. 88: „Tert. hat noch keine lateinische Bibel in Händen gehabt". Im stärksten Gegensatz dazu überrascht Lietzmann (Der Römerbrief, 1919, S. 14 f) durch folgende Erwägung: „Das Problem der Übernahme der Marcionitischen lateinischen Prologe zu den Paulusbriefen in die katholischen lateinischen Bibeln findet seine Lösung vielleicht am einfachsten durch die Annahme, daß in der Mitte oder in der 2. Hälfte des 2. Jahrhunderts, als die amtliche römische Kirche noch griechisch sprach, Marcionitische Prediger für ihre Lehre auch in der lateinisch sprechenden Bevölkerung Roms Jünger zu werben suchten und zu diesem ihrem Propagandazweck zuerst den ihnen besonders am Herzen liegenden Paulustext ins Lateinische übersetzten. Diese Übersetzung hat dann die katholische Kirche übernommen und ihrem Text angeglichen, aber doch nicht überall die Spuren des Ursprungs verwischen können". Auf die Frage, ob M.s Apostolikon dem Tert. lateinisch vorgelegen hat, ist aber Lietzmann nicht eingegangen, Auf Grund ihrer eingehenden Studien sind Wordsworth-White (Novum Test. Latine II, 1 p. 41) zu dem Ergebnis gelangt: „Marcionis ‚Apostolicon' Latine etiam circumlatum fuit et communi usu (scil. in ecclesiis catholicis occidentalibus) tritum." Aber auch sie haben das Problem nicht aufgeworfen, in welcher Sprache Tert. das Apostolikon M.s gelesen hat.

vorgelegen[1] und daß er es in dieser Gestalt untersucht und bekämpft hat[2].

1. Die Zitate aus dem Apostolikon M.s in adv. Marc. V heben sich lexikalisch, syntaktisch und stilistisch scharf von der eigenen Sprache Tert.s ab. Daher sind sie nicht von ihm frei nach dem Griechischen geformt, sondern übernommen. Zunächst ist darauf aufmerksam zu machen, daß, während Tert. selbst „quod" selten, „quia" fast niemals für den Acc. c. Inf. gebraucht, beide Worte in diesen Bibelzitaten in dieser vulgären Anwendung sehr häufig sind; dazu die folgende Beobachtung: De pudic. 16 gibt er selbst I Kor. 3, 16 also wieder: „Non scitis vos templum dei esse?" aber adv. Marc. V, 6 zitiert er: „Nescitis quod templum dei sitis?"

Gal. 4, 24 gibt Tert. (V, 4) als Marcionitischen Text: „Cum autem evenit impleri tempus"; das ist eine ungelenke, weil an der falschen Stelle wörtliche, Übersetzung von ὅτε δὲ ἦλθε τὸ πλήρωμα χρόνου. Daß Tert. selbst so übersetzt hat, ist sehr unwahrscheinlich und in der Tat — ein paar Kapitel später zitiert er diesen Vers von sich aus (V, 8) und schreibt: „At ubi tempus expletum est." Also war ihm jene Fassung überliefert.

Gal. 6, 2 wird aus M.s Apostolikon zitiert (V, 4): „Onera vestra invicem sustinete" („onus sustinere bei Plautus); aber zwei Zeilen darnach schreibt Tert. selbst: „Invicem onera vestra portate".

Hätte der virtuose Stilist Tert. von sich aus geschrieben I Kor. 3, 19 (V, 6): „Deprehendens sapientes in nequitia illorum" für ὁ δρασσόμενος τ. σοφοὺς ἐν τ. πανουργίᾳ αὐτῶν? Hätte er von sich aus (V, 7) I Kor. 5, 7 übersetzt: „Ut sitis nova consparsio, sicut estis azymi?" Ist es seine Hilflosigkeit, I. Kor. 9, 9 (V, 7) für μὴ τῶν βοῶν μέλει τῷ θεῷ zu schreiben: „numquid de bobus

1 Schon vor Lietzmanns und Wordsworth-Whites Vermutungen, das Apostolikon M.s habe auch lateinisch existiert, hatte ich mich überzeugt, daß der M.-Text des Apostolikons Tert. in lateinischer Sprache vorgelegen hat.

2 Die Hypothese wird von keinem Punkte aus nahegelegt, daß er das Werk M.s außerdem auch in griechischer Gestalt eingesehen und benutzt hat.

pertinet ad dominum"? oder seine sprachliche Gefühllosigkeit II Kor. 3, 15 (V, 11) durch „ad hodiernum usque velamen id ipsum in corde eorum und II Kor. 3, 18 (l. c.) durch „eadem imagine transfigurari" wiederzugeben?

II Kor. 5, 17 (V, 12) lautet das Apostolikon: „Si qua ergo conditio nova in Christo"; aber de ieiun. 14 schreibt Tert. selbst: „Quodsi nova conditio in Christo."

II Thess. 2, 11 (V. 16) nach dem Apostolikon: „Propter hoc erit eis (in) instinctum fallaciae" (für διὰ τοῦτο ἔσται αὐτοῖς [εἰς] ἐνέργειαν πλάνης). Allein bei der Erklärung vermeidet Tert. instinctus und schreibt „ad impingendos eos in errorem" bzw. „fallaciae immissio".

Ephes. 1, 12 (V, 17) liest man im Bibeltext „praesperavimus in Christum"; dieses Wort kommt m. W. sonst nicht vor und ist die sklavische Übersetzung von προηλπικότες (s. z. d. St. auch unten S. 54*).

Ephes. 1, 20 (V, 17) heißt es im Apostolikon: inoperatus est in Christum valentiam suam" (ἐνήργησεν ἐν Χρ. τὴν ἰσχὺν αὐτοῦ); Tert. selbst aber vermeidet das Wort „valentia" und das wörtliche und gräzisierende inoperari (s. zu diesem seltenen Wort Rönsch, Itala u. Vulgata S. 194).

Ephes. 2, 10 (V, 17) bietet das Apostolikon „Ipsius sumus factura" (= ποίημα); aber Tert. selbst braucht stets „opus", und vorher Ephes. 2, 2 (V, 17) liest man „Illos delictis mortuos, in quibus ingressi erant". Wer kann dem Tert. ein solches Latein zutrauen (für νεκροὺς ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις, ἐν αἷς περιεπατήσατε)?

Ephes. 5, 18 (V, 18) bot das Apostolikon: „Inebriari vino dedecore"; hier ist ein Adjectivum „dedecoris" anzunehmen, das Tert. sonst nicht braucht.

Ephes. 6, 17 (III, 14): „galeam salutaris" (τὴν περικεφαλαίαν τοῦ σωτηρίου); also „salutare" als substantiviertes Adjektivum!

Kol. 1, 24 (V, 19): „Adimplere reliqua pressurarum" (τὰ ὑστερήματα τῶν θλίψεων) und kurz vorher 1, 21: „Nos quondam alienatos et inimicos sensu in malis operibus redigit in gratiam". Übersetzt Tert. so stümperhaft?

Phil. 1, 18 (V. 20) gibt das Apostolikon also wieder: „Nihil mea, sive causatione sive veritate Christus annuntietur" (τί γάρ, εἴτε προφάσει εἴτε ἀληθείᾳ Χριστὸς καταγγέλλεται) aber schon in der nächsten Zeile schreibt Tert. selbst verständlicher: „sive ex causatione sive ex veritate."

Phil. 2, 6 (V, 20): „Non rapinam existimavit pariari deo"; aber adv. Prax. 6 schreibt Tert. selbst: „esse se aequalem deo"; denn „pariari" ist vulgär und gräzisierend, wenn sich auch „pariare" ein paarmal bei Tert. findet (vgl. Rönsch, a. a. O. S. 168).

Diese Proben werden genügen, um zu beweisen, daß der Bibeltext, dem Tert. in Buch V gefolgt ist, keine Übersetzung Tert.s ist; vielmehr trägt er alle die bekannten Kennzeichen einer sklavischen und bis zum Unverständlichen wörtlichen, vulgären und gräzisierenden, lateinischen Bibelversion. Also lag das Marcionitische Apostolikon dem Tert. in lateinischer Übersetzung vor [1].

2. Aber es gibt noch eine Reihe von besonderen Beobachtungen, die diese Tatsache direkt und unwidersprechlich beweisen:

Gal. 3, 26 muß nach Tert. V, 3, wie alle Kritiker annehmen, der Marcionitische Text gelautet haben: „Omnes enim filii estis fidei" (Grundtext: πάντες γὰρ υἱοὶ θεοῦ ἐστε διὰ τῆς πίστεως). Eben diesen Text kommentiert auch Tert. Allein es ist ganz ausgeschlossen, daß Marcion den Grundtext hier willkürlich geändert hat [2], denn daß wir Söhne des guten Gottes

---

1 Die Annahme wäre noch möglich, daß Tert. das ganze N. T. in einer lateinischen Übersetzung im Gedächtnis hatte und diese an die Stelle des griechischen Textes, den er vor sich hatte, einsetzte, dabei aber die Marcionitischen Lesarten ex tempore lateinisch einschob. Allein erstlich gibt er auch diese Lesarten nicht in seiner Sprache, zweitens ist die ganze Annahme völlig unglaublich, da er ja den M. Text unmittelbar nach der Wiedergabe häufig stilistisch von sich aus korrigiert.

2 Phil. 3, 9 (V, 20) hat M. die Worte δικαιοσύνην τὴν διὰ πίστεως Χριστοῦ, τὴν ἐκ θεοῦ umgewandelt in „iustitiam quae per Christum ex deo", d. h. er hat πίστις weggelassen, weil ihm Christus wichtiger war als durch den Glauben geworden sind, ist eine seiner Hauptlehren; warum hätte er dafür „Söhne des Glaubens" einsetzen sollen? Dagegen läßt sich die LA als Schreibfehler (Dittographie) im Lateinischen aufs einfachste erklären: „filii fidei" statt „filii dei"; dann ging natürlich „per fidem" verloren. Also lag der Text dem Tert. in lateinischer Übersetzung vor; dieser Schluß ist unvermeidlich [1].

Ferner, mitten im langen Zitat Gal. 4, 22—24 liest man (V, 4): „‚Haec sunt enim duo testamenta' — sive ‚duae ostensiones', sicut invenimus interpretatum — ‚unum a monte Sina'" etc. Tertullian fand also (eine andere Auffassung ist nicht möglich) in dem Marcionitischen Codex, dem er folgte, „ostensiones", erinnerte sich aber, daß der ihm selbst geläufige Text „testamenta" (διαθῆκαι) bot und führte das zunächst ein, um es dann gewissenhaft durch das Wort zu ersetzen, welches im Codex stand. Daß er „ostensiones" für eine Umschreibung von „testamenta', (διαθῆκαι) hielt (und dem M. nicht eine Textfälschung vorwarf [2]) war freilich eine großmütige und unhaltbare Annahme. Marcion hat den Text geändert, weil er hier nicht von zwei Testamenten geredet wissen wollte, als bestände zwischen den Veranstaltungen des Weltschöpfers und des guten Gottes eine formelle Verwandtschaft, (auch in Luk. 22, 20 hat M. das Wort „neu" bei „Testament" gestrichen, weil er nicht zwei Testamente kannte), sondern nur von zwei „Nachweisen". Das griechische Wort, welches er einsetzte, war wohl ἐνδείξεις oder ἐπιδείξεις. In lateinischen Bibelhandschriften steht „ostensio" Röm. 3, der Glaube. Er hätte also Gal. 3, 26 das Umgekehrte getan, wenn die Lesart von ihm herrührte!

1 Er lag also dem Tert. bereits mit einem schweren Schreibfehler behaftet vor; dieser findet sich auch bei Hilarius. Da Hilarius den Text schwerlich aus Tertullian geschöpft hat, so folgt, daß der Fehler schon in einem uralten lateinischen Manuskript gemacht sein muß.

2 Wie V. 10 zu I Kor. 15, 45: „‚Factus primus homo Adam in animam vivam, novissimus Adam in spiritum vivificantem', licet stultissimus haereticus noluerit ita esse; ‚dominum' enim posuit novissimum pro novissimo ‚Adam'". Auch hier hat, ganz wie oben, Tert. zuerst den Marcionitischen Text mit der katholischen Lesart („Adam") eingeführt und dann die Marcionitische LA nachgebracht.

25. 26; II Kor. 8, 24; Phil. 1, 28 für ἔνδειξις, I Kor. 2, 4 für ἀπόδειξις (Luk. 1, 80 für ἀνάδειξις), und Tert. selbst schreibt adv. Marc. V, 11: „Accidentia antecedit ipsius rei ostensio". Wie aber auch das Wort griechisch gelautet haben mag — dem Tert. lag in dem Marcionitischen Apostolikon hier „ostensio" vor; es war also lateinisch[1].

Weiter: V, 8 zitiert Tert. Eph. 4, 8: „Captivam duxit captivitatem, ‚data dedit filiis hominum', i. e. donativa, quae charismata dicimus". Wäre ihm nicht „data" überliefert und übersetzte er selbständig, so brauchte er das Wort nicht als „donativa" zu interpretieren, sondern hätte sofort „donativa" geschrieben[2], also war ihm „data" gegeben.

---

1 Für Zahn ist diese Stelle sehr unbequem (Gesch. d. NTlichen Kanons I S. 52). Die willkürliche Einsetzung von „sponsiones" für „ostensiones" ändert natürlich nichts. — Übrigens hat Tert. in demselben Zitat kurz vorher die Verse Gal. 4, 22—24 schon einmal unterbrochen, indem er schreibt: „‚Quae sunt allegorica' i. e. aliud portendentia; ‚haec sunt enim duo testamenta'" etc. Auch hier ist es die nächste Annahme, um nicht mehr zu sagen, daß er „allegorica" in seinem Texte fand und es seinen lateinischen Lesern deutlich machte. Hätte er den Text selbst übersetzt, so hätte er „allegorica" ohne weiteres lateinisch wiedergegeben. — Nichts wider die Vorlage als eine lateinische vermag man aus dem Zitat Ephes. 1, 9 f. (V, 17) zu schließen. Tert. schreibt: „‚Secundum boni existimationem, quam proposuerit in sacramento voluntatis suae, in dispensationem adimpletionis temporum' — ut ita dixerim, sicut verbum illud in Graeco sonat — ‚recapitulare', i. e. ad initium redigere vel ab initio recensere, ‚omnia in Christum, quae in caelis et quae in terris'". Nur auf den ersten Blick entsteht der Schein, als übersetzte hier Tertullian selbst aus dem Griechischen; aber er stutzt nur vor dem neuen und ganz unverständlichen Wort „recapitulare" — denn es ist früher überhaupt nicht nachzuweisen —, entschuldigt es als einen Gräzismus, indem er sich dabei des ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι des Originaltextes erinnert, und erklärt die Bedeutung des Worts. Hätte er „recapitulare" nicht in seinem Texte gefunden, so hätte er es überhaupt nicht zu erwähnen gebraucht, sondern konnte gleich „ad initium redigere" oder ähnlich schreiben.

2 So bietet er in der Tat in Wiedergabe von Röm. 6, 3 (de resurr. 47): „Stipendia enim delinquentiae mors, dona-

Kol. 1, 17 (καὶ αὐτός ἐστι πρὸ πάντων) gibt Tert. V, 19 also wieder: „Posuit apostolus: ‚Et ipse est ante omnes‘. quomodo enim ante omnes, si non ante omnia?“ Wenn Tert. hier auf „ante omnia“ hinauskommen wollte, konnte er nach dem griechischen Text ohne weiteres so übersetzen; da er das aber nicht getan hat, so ist evident, daß ihm der Text „ante omnes“ und nicht πρὸ πάντων vorgelegen hat.

Ferner Ephes. 1, 12 las Tert. nach dem Marcionitischen Codex (V, 17) also: „Ut simus in laudem gloriae nos, qui praesperavimus in Christum“, und bemerkt von sich aus dazu: „Qui ‚praesperasse‘ potuerant i. e. ante sperasse in deum quam venisset, nisi Judaei?“ Hier ist es doch wohl evident, daß er das gebildete Ohren beleidigende Wort „praesperare“ in dem Codex gelesen hat und es durch „sperare antequam“ wiedergibt.

I Kor. 6, 20 gibt Tert. (V, 7) referierend also wieder: „Jam nunc quomodo honorabimus, quomodo tollemus deum in corpore periturо?“ Das „tollemus“ ist eine uralte lateinische Variante (= ἄρατε = ἄρα γε, s. unten im Apparat z. d. St.), bzw. die uralte lateinische, später vereinzelt in den Orient gekommene Lesart (dagegen der echte Text einfach: δοξάσατε τὸν θεόν). Wie kommt Tert. dazu, sie hier einzuführen, wenn ihm der Text griechisch vorlag?

Man weiß aus Adamantius, daß der Marcionitische Text Gal. 6, 17 ganz singulär gelautet hat: τῶν δ' ἄλλων εἰκῇ κόπους μοι μηδεὶς παρεχέσθω (> den gewöhnlichen Text: τοῦ λοιποῦ κόπους κτλ.) ἐγὼ γὰρ τὰ στίγματα κτλ. Tert. schreibt: „Persecutores vocat Christi; cum vero adicit stigmata Christi etc.“ Jenes „τῶν ἄλλων“ kann nur aus der lateinischen Übersetzung von „τοῦ λοιποῦ = „De ceteris“ entstanden sein, die also den griechischen Text beeinflußt hat. Tert. muß entweder den lateinischen Text „de ceteris“ für seine falsche Paraphrase, die hier Feinde Christi findet, vor sich gehabt haben oder den bereits nach dem Lateinischen korri-

---

tivum autem dei vita aeterna“; cf. de corona 1: „Donativum Christi in carcere exspectat!“

gierten griechischen Text. Das erstere ist viel wahrscheinlicher. Der Marciontext stimmt, wie sich unten zeigen wird, an sehr vielen Stellen mit der in den Codd. DG. vorliegenden Rezension überein; aber nicht nur mit ihr, sondern auch wörtlich genau mit ihrer lateinischen Übersetzung dg und mit der Itala-Überlieferung überhaupt. Handelte es sich um wenige Stellen, so könnte Tert. zufällig auf dieselbe Übersetzung gekommen sein; aber bei der großen Anzahl der Stellen ist diese Annahme unmöglich; daher ist es unbegreiflich, daß Zahn trotz dieses Tatbestandes sich in seiner Hypothese nicht hat erschüttern lassen, dem Tert. habe der Marciontext griechisch vorgelegen. Wäre das der Fall, so müßte man an vielen Stellen den Tert. im voraus ahnen lassen, wie der spätere lateinische Übersetzer den Text wiedergeben werde! Somit ist erwiesen, daß Tert. das Marcionitische Apostolikon lateinisch vor sich hatte[1]. Über die Konsequenzen dieser Erkenntnis s. die nach dem Abdruck des Textes folgende Untersuchung. Da die lateinische Übersetzung sklavisch wörtlich ist, so macht es kaum irgendwo Schwierigkeit, den griechischen Text, der hinter der Übersetzung liegt, zu ermitteln.

Aber auch das sei zum Schluß hier betont, daß Tert., seine Textangaben betreffend, sorgfältig und daher zuverlässig gearbeitet hat. Das gilt nicht nur von den wörtlichen Zitaten, sondern auch von den Referaten über die Textfassungen M.s. Wo wir ihn durch Seitenreferenten zu kontrollieren vermögen, besteht er in der Regel die Prüfung, ja oft genug bis ins kleinste, so daß der anfängliche Skeptizismus bei genauem Studium verschwinden und sich in dankbare Anerkennung

---

1 Zahn (a. a. O. I S. 51) will aus V, 10: „Ubi est, mors, victoria vel contentio tua?“ (I Kor. 15, 55) schließen, Tert. gebe hier Alternativ-Übersetzungen für τὸ νῖκος, also habe ihm der Text griechisch vorgelegen; allein die bessere Überlieferung lautet: „Ubi est, mors, victoria, ubi contentio tua?“, und mit Recht hat Kroymann „victoria ubi“ (besser „ubi contentio“) als Glosse entfernt. Übrigens hätte Tert. schwerlich eine Alternativ-Übersetzung bloß durch „vel“ eingeführt, sondern sich deutlicher ausgedrückt. De resurr. 47. 51. 54 bietet Tert. in diesem Zitat „contentio tua“, und eben aus diesen Stellen sind diese Worte als Alternativlesart in V, 10 eingerückt worden.

verwandeln muß. Natürlich bleiben trotzdem bei den Referaten Stellen genug übrig, wo man keine Sicherheit (namentlich in bezug auf Wortstellungen usw.) gewinnen kann, wie der Text M.s genau gelautet hat.

2. Die Dialoge des Adamantius.

Zahn hat in bezug auf die Verwertung der fünf Dialoge des „Adamantius" für den Apostolikontext Marcions folgende Grundsätze aufgestellt [1].

1. Die Dialoge, gleich nach Beginn des 4. Jahrhunderts verfaßt, sind in der von Caspari entdeckten lateinischen Übersetzung Rufins viel besser erhalten als in dem griechischen Original [2], da dieses eine durchgreifende Umarbeitung des ursprünglichen Textes aus den Jahren 330—337 wiedergibt.

2. Sie haben ältere Streitschriften benutzt; denn nicht nur ist die Schrift des Methodius über den freien Willen seitenweise wörtlich abgeschrieben, sondern eine Vergleichung mit Irenäus, Tertullian und Origenes zeigt auch, daß ihnen mindestens noch ein älteres antimarcionitisches Werk zugrunde liegt, dessen Verfasser die Schriften Marcions kannte [3].

3. Sehr wahrscheinlich ist, wenn es sich auch nicht beweisen läßt, daß „Adamantius" daneben auch unmittelbar aus den Schriften Marcions und der Marcioniten, insbesondere aus dem Evangelium und dem Apostolikon, geschöpft hat [4].

4. Der Dialog I mit dem echten Schüler M.s, Megethius, enthält, abgesehen von einem Zitat (Kol. 4, 10 f. 14), das aus

---

1 Sie sind von mir abstrahiert aus seiner „Geschichte des NTlichen Kanons" II S. 419 ff. sowie aus der älteren Abhandlung „Die Dialoge des Adamantius mit den Gnostikern" (Ztschr. f. Kirchengesch., Bd. IX (1887) S. 193 ff.).

2 Alle griechischen Handschriften gehen auf einen Codex, den Venetus, zurück, den wir auch besitzen. In van de Sande-Bakhuyzens Ausgabe (1901) ist diese sichere Erkenntnis leider nicht zu ihrem Recht gekommen.

3 Das Werk muß vortertullianisch sein, da es die Berührungen des Adamantius mit Tertullian (den jener nicht gelesen haben kann) erklären soll. Zahn denkt an das antimarcionitische Werk des Theophilus von Antiochia.

4 „Die hierauf bezüglichen Angaben bedürfen noch der Erörterung", fügt Zahn S. 420 hinzu.

dem marcionitischen Kodex der Paulusbriefe vorgelesen wird, kein Zitat aus M.s Apostolikon; denn Megethius erklärt, er werde seine Lehre aus den heiligen Schriften der Katholiken beweisen, und verfährt darnach bis zum Schluß des Dialogs. Somit haben die zahlreichen NTlichen Zitate dieses Buches, mögen sie von „Adamantius" oder von Megethius vorgebracht sein, keinen Anspruch darauf, aus M.s Bibel zu stammen. Jedoch schränkt Zahn selbst diese Behauptung durch eine „Wahrscheinlichkeit" und eine „Möglichkeit" ein: wahrscheinlich sei, daß „Adamantius" dem Marcioniten nicht gerade solche Stellen in den Mund gelegt haben wird, von welchen er wußte, daß sie bei M. fehlten oder wesentlich anders lauteten, und möglich sei, daß Adamantius unter dem Einfluß älterer marcionitischer Schriften, in denen die Lehre M.s auf dem Grunde seiner Bibel bestritten war, unabsichtlich einige Marcionitische Lesarten habe einfließen lassen[1].

5. Der Dialog II mit dem Marcionschüler Markus stellt sich von vornherein auf den Boden der Bibel M.s und behauptet diesen Boden auch bis zum Schluß, so daß hier alle Zitate, mögen sie von Adamantius oder von Markus vorgebracht werden, marcionitische sind. Adamantius besaß also entweder selbst eine genaue Kenntnis der Bibel M.s oder hat eine ältere antimarcionitische Schrift stark ausgebeutet, in der reichliche Mitteilungen aus jener Bibel enthalten waren. Nur die Einschränkung ist zu machen, daß bei kürzeren Zitaten, die nicht aus der Bibel M.s verlesen werden, sich Erinnerungen an den katholischen Text eingeschlichen haben können.

6. Der Dialog III mit dem Bardesaniten Marinus scheidet ganz aus.

7. Die Dialoge IV und V (gegen die Valentinianer und Bardesaniten) kommen teilweise auch für M.s Bibel in Betracht, nämlich dort, wo Adamantius auf die noch immer anwesenden Marcioniten Rücksicht nimmt, ja hier ist der marcionitische Ursprung einer langen Reihe von Zitaten im fünften Dialog besonders

---

1 Doch macht Zahn bei seiner Wiederherstellung des Marcionitischen Apostolikon, soviel ich sehe, von diesen Möglichkeiten keinen Gebrauch; er bucht zwar häufig die in den Zitaten des ersten Dialogs sich findenden Varianten, aber nur um hinzuzufügen, daß sie nicht in Betracht gezogen werden dürften.

sicher verbürgt, da sie in der Reihenfolge gegeben werden, in der die Paulusbriefe in der Bibel M.s gestanden haben (Gal., I Kor., II Kor., Röm.).

(Ad. 1). Wie so häufig, ist die Bedeutung des neu entdeckten Zeugen zunächst überschätzt worden; auch Zahn ist dem unterlegen. Im Gegensatz zu ihm hat van de Sande-Bakhuyzen in seiner Ausgabe (p. XLII—XLIX) erwiesen, daß Rufins Übersetzung der Dialoge zwar treuer ist als seine Origenes-Übersetzungen, daß er sich aber auch hier große Freiheiten genommen hat. Das gilt sowohl für die Bibelzitate als auch für die Reden. Es ist also Rufin gegen das griechische Original keineswegs immer im Rechte, zumal da es auch eine schwere Übertreibung ist, von einer förmlichen „Überarbeitung" zu sprechen, in welcher uns der griechische Text vorliegen soll. Dieser Text hat zwar an ein paar Stellen schon frühe Zusätze erfahren, aber ist sonst intakt. Man ist daher genötigt, auch bei den Bibelzitaten von Fall zu Fall zu entscheiden, ob der ursprüngliche Text vom Griechen oder von Rufin erhalten ist.

(Ad. 2 u. 3). Der literarische Charakter und sachliche Wert des Werkes kann schärfer bestimmt werden, als Zahn es getan hat. Zunächst ist festzustellen, daß die Dialoge durchweg fingiert sind. Das gibt auch Zahn zu; aber er zieht nicht fest die Konsequenzen. Hier wird nicht wirklich bald die katholische Bibel, bald die Marcionitische herbeigebracht und aufgeschlagen — so scheint es nach Zahn —, hier ist nichts aus Marcions Bibel verlesen worden, hier findet keine wirkliche Rede und Gegenrede statt usw.[1] Wenn dies alles also Einkleidung ist, so sind die dramatischen Bemerkungen und Situationen sämtlich für die Feststellung der Herkunft und des Wertes der tatsächlichen Angaben vollkommen gleichgültig, und es läßt sich lediglich aus inneren Gründen entscheiden, ob etwas authentisch-marcionitisch ist oder nicht, einerlei ob es von den Häretikern oder von Adamantius vorgetragen wird. Man muß demnach, um den sachlichen Wert des Werks festzustellen, die ganze Kunstform aufheben und es einfach als eine große Ab-

1 Auch die Rolle, welche der Schiedsrichter Eutropius spielt, zeigt die Fiktion; er ist von vornherein parteiisch und in Wahrheit kein Richter, sondern Eideshelfer des katholischen Disputanten.

handlung betrachten. Sofort überzeugt man sich dann, daß wir es mit einem abgeleiteten Werk (einer Kompilation) geringer Ordnung zu tun haben, das freilich für uns von größter Bedeutung ist, da es uns die benutzten verlorenen Vorlagen ersetzt. Schon daß der Verfasser sich hinter den Namen des Origenes versteckt hat — denn nur er kann unter „Adamantius" gemeint sein —, macht es wahrscheinlich, daß er selbst nichts zu sagen hatte, sondern älteres Gut reproduzierte. Das stillschweigende große Plagiat an Methodius, der vielleicht noch am Leben war, jedenfalls aber erst wenige Jahre vorher sein Werk über den freien Willen geschrieben hatte, zeigt eine unter den damaligen Verhältnissen des literarischen Betriebs ungewöhnliche Dreistigkeit. Die zahlreichen Berührungen mit theologischen Ausführungen des Irenäus, Tertullian und Origenes bestätigen, daß der Verfasser von entlehntem Gut lebte. Die Mitteilung vieler Antithesen Marcions, ohne daß doch jemals das Werk der Antithesen selbst genannt wird, macht es gewiß, daß er dieses Werk aus eigener Wissenschaft überhaupt nicht gekannt, ja, wie es scheint, von seiner Existenz gar nichts gewußt hat. Daß endlich der Reihe nach die Marcioniten. Bardesaniten und Valentinianer — und nur diese — bekämpft werden, führt zu der Annahme, daß der Verf. die Häretiker, die seine Provinz beunruhigten, treffen wollte, aber für keine dieser Gruppen besondere eigene Kenntnisse aus ihren eigenen Werken hinzubrachte. In bezug auf die Bardesaniten und Valentinianer liegt das auf der Hand, sollte das bei den Marcioniten anders sein? Zahn hält es zwar für sehr wahrscheinlich, daß der Verf. auch unmittelbar aus den Schriften M.s und der Marcioniten, insbesondere aus dem Evangelium und dem Apostolikon, geschöpft hat; allein er selbst fügt hinzu, daß es sich nicht beweisen lasse. In der Tat läßt sich auch nicht eine Spur eines Beweises beibringen; dagegen wirft seine Unkenntnis des Werks der Antithesen ein schlimmes Licht auf seine Kenntnis der Marcionitischen Werke überhaupt. Wenn er dennoch gutes Material in Fülle beigebracht hat, so war das für einen Polemiker, der um das Jahr 300 schrieb, nicht schwierig. Lagen doch damals mindestens ein Dutzend Werke gegen Marcion in griechischer Sprache vor (von Justin, Dionysius von Korinth, Philippus von Gorthyna, Melito, Miltiades, Modestus, Theophilus von Antiochien, Irenäus, Rhodon, Prokulus, Hippolyt, Bardesanes), dazu die Polemik des Origenes, die viel eingehender und reichhaltiger war als die uns erhaltenen Reste. Welches dieser Werke oder vielmehr welche er benutzt hat, läßt sich leider heute nicht mehr ermitteln. Was für das Werk des Theophilus spricht, ist beachtenswert, aber nicht ausreichend. Bardesanes hat gegen Marcion Dialoge syrisch geschrieben und seine Schüler haben sie ins Griechische übersetzt (Euseb., h. e. IV, 30, 1); vielleicht sind eben diese Dialoge von „Adamantius" im ersten oder im zweiten Dialog benutzt und haben ihn zu dieser Kunstform angeregt. Daß er selbst im dritten Dialog einen Bardesaniten bekämpft, wäre kein Gegengrund [1].

Unter diesen Umständen, d. h. da dem Verf. eigene Kenntnis der Marcionitischen Bibel nicht zugesprochen werden kann, muß jedes einzelne Bibelzitat, einerlei in welchem Dialog es steht und ob es von „Adamantius" oder von einem Häretiker vorgebracht wird, für sich und im Rahmen seines Kontexts daraufhin geprüft werden, ob es aus der Marcionitischen Bibel geflossen ist oder nicht, und wir werden uns darauf gefaßt machen müssen, ihrem Ursprunge nach sehr verschiedenen Zitaten zu begegnen, wie das bei einer Kompilation dieser Art nicht anders erwartet werden kann.

(Ad. 4—7). Nach dem Ausgeführten lassen sich die Grundsätze nicht halten, die Z a h n hier aufgestellt hat. Es sind daher nur wenige Worte nötig. Was den Dialog I betrifft, so kann auch er sehr wohl mehr Marcionitisches Bibelgut als das einzige Zitat enthalten (Kol. 4, 10 f. 14), welches Z a h n als Marcionitisch gelten läßt; denn wir hätten für die Z a h n sche Behauptung, in diesem Dialog werde auf Grund einer Abmachung durchweg auf dem Boden der katholischen Bibel disputiert, nur dann eine Ge-

---

1 Daß dem Dial. I (Polemik gegen einen Marcioniten, der die Dreiprinzipienlehre vertritt) und dem Dial. II (Polemik gegen einen Marcionitischen Vertreter der Zweiprinzipienlehre) verschiedene Vorlagen zugrunde liegen, ist gewiß. Es bestehen charakteristische Unterschiede. Megethius ist freundlicher; er spricht vom Gegner (I, 1) als vom „Bruder Adamantius"; er zitiert Marcionitische Antithesen (freilich ohne anzugeben, woher sie stammen), während der zweite Gegner solche nicht kennt, usw. Im ersten Dialog findet man reichhaltigeres, aber im zweiten zuverlässigeres Material. Widersprüche fehlen nicht, so z. B. in bezug auf die Abfassung des Evangeliums, vgl. I, 8 mit II, 13.

währ, wenn es sich um eine wirkliche Disputation hier handelte und nicht um eine fiktive. Da es aber eine fiktive ist, wissen wir nicht, mit welchem Grad von Sorgfalt der Verfasser die Zitate, die ihm seine Quellen boten, verteilt hat. Übrigens — um zunächst hier nur e i n Beispiel zu nennen — wenn Megethius (Dial. I. 13) die Marcionitische Antithese wiedergibt: Ὁ προφήτης τοῦ θεοῦ τῆς γενέσεως, ἵνα πολεμῶν πλείονας ἀνέλῃ, ἔστησε τὸν ἥλιον τοῦ μὴ δῦσαι μέχρι συντελέσῃ ἀναιρῶν τοὺς πολεμοῦντας πρὸς τὸν λαόν· ὁ δὲ κύριος, ἀγαθὸς ὤν, λέγει· Ὁ ἥλιος μὴ ἐπιδυέτω ἐπὶ τῷ παροργισμῷ ὑμῶν — so ist doch offenbar, daß Ephes. 4, 26 hier aus der Marcionitischen Bibel stammt. Umgekehrt steht es nicht so, daß alle Zitate in dem Dialog II aus der Bibel M.s herrühren müssen. Zwar nach der Abmachung zwischen den Disputierenden müßte es der Fall sein — darin hat Z a h n recht —; aber hat der Verf. seine Quelle bei seiner Umgießung durchweg rein erhalten? Nein, es gibt sichere Beispiele, daß er an einigen Stellen nicht den Text Ms. wiedergibt. Ferner, der Dialog III bietet überhaupt nur drei Zitate aus den Paulusbriefen und richtet sich gegen Bardesanes: aber auch hier wäre es möglich, daß der Verf. bei der kompilatorischen Art seiner Arbeit Marcionitisches eingetragen hat und angesichts des Zitats Röm. 6, 19 scheint mir das nicht unwahrscheinlich. Dieses Zitat ist (III, 7) in seiner zweiten Hälfte so gefaßt: οὕτω παραστήσατε τὰ μέλη τῷ θεῷ δοῦλα τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ (Rufin: „i t a n u n c e x h i b e t e m e m b r a v e s t r a d e o s e r v i r e i n i u s t i t i a“). Der ursprüngliche Text lautet: οὕτως νῦν παραστήσατε τὰ μέλη ὑμῶν δοῦλα τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ. Ich sehe von „n u n c“ „v e s t r a“ und „s e r v i r e“ (so auch FG d e f g vulg Orig Ambrosiaster) ab: Die wertvolle, sonst nirgend bezeugte Variante liegt in dem eingeschobenen „θεῷ“. Wer das einschob, der wollte nicht lesen, die Gläubigen sollen ihre Glieder der Gerechtigkeit zu Dienst stellen (obgleich der Parallelismus zu ἀνομία das verlangte); er änderte daher so, daß Gott selbst der Dienstherr wird, und ließ es sich dann gefallen, daß die Gläubigen (bei Rufin steht das Richtige) i n Gerechtigkeit Gott dienen. Das ist Marcionitisch; denn M. mußte befürchten, daß δουλεύειν τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ als δουλεύειν τῷ δικαίῳ θεῷ verstanden werde; ein δουλεύειν ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ aber konnte er sich gefallen lassen; denn δικαιοσύνη war auch ihm, richtig verstanden, erträglich. — Von den Dialogen IV und V gilt dasselbe wie von Dialog I; recht aber hat hier Zahn, daß die in Dialog V c. 22—27 nach der Marcionitischen Reihenfolge der Paulusbriefe gegebenen Pauluszitate eine geschlossene Gruppe bilden und daher aus der Marcionitischen Bibel stammen müssen.

Aus dem hier Ausgeführten ergibt sich, daß durchgehende, feste Grundsätze für die Ermittelung der Marcionitischen Pauluszitate in den Dialogen nicht aufgestellt werden können, daß man vielmehr fast überall (mit Ausnahme von V, 22—27) nach inneren Gründen zu entscheiden hat. Um aber zu beweisen, daß auch die von Zahn als Marcion-Zitate grundsätzlich verworfene Paulus-Zitate des Dialogs I und in gewissen Teilen des Dialogs V in Betracht zu ziehen sind und einen Ertrag für M. bieten, sollen hier ein paar Belege gegeben werden:

Gal. 1, 8 hat Zahn in seiner Textherstellung nach Tert. mit Recht geboten: ἄλλως εὐαγγελίζηται (Tert. dreimal: „aliter evangelizaverit"). Im katholischen Text fehlt ἄλλως, aber bei Adamant., Dial. I, 6 liest man in Rufins Übersetzung (Text gemischt aus v. 8. 9) ebenfalls: „aliter evangelizaverit" (der Grieche bietet hier, wie manchmal, einen entstellten Text). Wer kann zweifeln, daß dies sonst ganz unbezeugte ἄλλως bei Adamant. aus M.s Text geflossen ist? Findet sich, worauf Hans v. Soden aufmerksam gemacht hat, ἄλλως auch bei Cyprian (zweimal), so liegt entweder Einfluß des Textes M.'s oder eine vormarcionitische LA vor.

I Kor. 15, 1—4 wird in Dial. V, 6 wörtlich zitiert; aber es fehlt an beiden Stellen κατὰ τὰς γραφάς und dazu ὃ καὶ παρέλαβον. Sowohl diese als auch jene Weglassung ist sicher Marcionitisch: denn weder konnte er Tod und Auferstehung von den „Schriften" geweissagt sein lassen, noch zugeben, daß er das Evangelium ebenso empfangen hätte, wie es die Korinther von ihm empfangen haben. Einige Verse später (v. 20) lautet der unverfälschte Text: Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται ἐκ νεκρῶν, aber im Dial. V, 6: Χριστὸς κηρύσσεται ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀναστάναι. Wir wissen aber (s. zu Gal. 1, 1), daß M. es nicht liebte, von der Auferweckung Christi zu sprechen, sondern dafür „Auferstehung" oder „Selbsterweckung" einfügte. Also liegt auch hier ein Marcionitischer Text vor.

I Thess. 4, 15—17 wird von Tert. (V, 15) und im Dialog

(I, 25) teilweise wörtlich zitiert. Die beiden Zeugen stimmen darin überein, daß sie nicht πρῶτον bezeugen, sondern die altlateinische LA πρῶτοι und daß sie aus v. 15 die Worte εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν αὐτοῦ in v. 17 herübernehmen (sonst unbezeugt): ἡμεῖς . . . οἱ περιλειπόμενοι εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν Χριστοῦ (αὐτοῦ) ἅμα σὺν αὐτοῖς ἁρπαγησόμεθα. Kann dieses Zusammentreffen zufällig sein?

Tert. (adv. Marc. IV, 16) schiebt bei Wiedergabe des Marcionitischen Textes Luk. 6, 29 (Referat) zweimal ein „amplius" ein („alteram amplius maxillam offerri" und „sed et amplius et pallium concedendi"); in Adam., Dial. I, 18 lautet der Text: πρόσθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὸν χιτῶνα. Dieses πρόσθες ist weder von Luk. noch von Matth. geboten; aber, wie man sieht, bezeugt es Tertull. Also bietet hier Adamantius den Marcionitischen Text. Ferner Luk. 6, 38 ist nach Tert. (IV, 17) die Marcionitische LA τῷ αὐτῷ μέτρῳ ᾧ (sonst nur noch durch den Itala-Cod. g^2 bezeugt); aber diese LA bietet auch Adamant., Dial. I, 15 (nach Rufin, dem hier, wie so oft, gefolgt werden muß). Weiter, in den beiden Referaten Tert.s (II, 27 und IV, 17) über M.s Hauptspruch vom schlechten und guten Baum braucht er „proferre" bezw. „producere", was weder dem Matth.- noch dem Luk.text genau entspricht; aber Dial. I, 28 steht in dem Spruch προενεγκεῖν (προενέγκαι), also derselbe Text, und auch darauf sei hingewiesen, daß im Dial. der schlechte Baum dem guten vorausgeht, weil er nach M. das Gesetz bedeutet, das dem Evangelium vorangeht. Endlich noch ein Beispiel: Luk. 24, 25 lautete M.s Text in tendenziöser Umgestaltung nach Tert. und Epiph.: ἐλάλησα (ἐλάλησεν) πρὸς ὑμᾶς > ἐλάλησαν οἱ προφῆται, aber wie bei jenen lautet er auch Dial. V, 12.

Diese Proben werden genügen, um zu erweisen, daß die festen Grundsätze Zahns in bezug auf die Verwertung der Dialoge nicht zutreffend sind [1], so gewiß es ist, daß in den Dialogen zahlreiche Zitate stehen, die nicht aus der Bibel M.s stammen. Adamantius schöpfte eben aus verschiedenen antimarcionitischen Quellen.

---

1 Übrigens hat sie auch Holl in seiner Epiphanius-Ausgabe nicht anerkannt; sonst durfte er S. 121 nicht Adamant., Dial. I, 22 zitieren.

3. Epiphanius.

Epiphanius' Beitrag zu unserer Kenntnis des Apostolikon M.s ist nicht umfangreich: geraume Zeit, bevor er das Kapitel (42) seines Panarions gegen M. ausgearbeitet, hatte er einmal (wo? in Cypern? in Palästina?) jenes Apostolikon samt dem zugehörigen Evangelium in die Hände bekommen und aus diesem 78, aus jenem 40 Stellen ausgeschrieben, um den Ketzer aus seinen Werken selbst zu widerlegen [1], was vor ihm schon Irenäus geplant und Tert. ausgeführt hatte. Bei diesen Auszügen hatte er sich aber auf 6 Briefe von den zehn beschränkt (keine Auszüge aus I II Thess., Phil., Philem.) und auch aus Kol. nur ein Zitat verzeichnet. Die Absicht der Widerlegung hatte er damals nicht ausgeführt. Jetzt kehrte er zu diesen Zetteln zurück, verleibte sie seinem Werke ein und setzte, sie noch einmal wörtlich wiederholend, zu jedem Zitat eine mehr oder weniger ausführliche Widerlegung. Eine neue Einsicht in M.s Bibel hat er dabei nicht genommen — entweder hatte er sie nicht mehr zur Hand oder er hielt eine nochmalige Einsicht für unnötig. Die Folge davon waren zahlreiche Mißverständnisse in bezug auf seine alte Aufzeichnung. Was hier zu entwirren war, hat Zahn (a. a. O. II, S. 409—419) so vollständig geleistet, daß einfach auf seine Untersuchung verwiesen werden kann [2]. Das schlimmste Mißverständnis war, daß er selbst nicht mehr wußte, weshalb er jene 4 Briefe ausgelassen, und nun mit unglaublicher Leichtfertigkeit behauptete, es sei deshalb geschehen, weil sie M. hoffnungslos verfälscht habe! Ein zweites grobes Mißverständnis ergab sich aus der Tatsache, daß bei M. der Epheserbrief „Laodiceerbrief" heißt und daß Epiphanius

---

1 Haer. 42, 10 S. 106: Παραθήσομαι δὲ καὶ ἣν ἐποιησάμην κατ' αὐτοῦ πραγματείαν πρὶν τοῦ ταύτην μου τὴν σύνταξιν ἐσπουδακέναι διὰ τῆς ὑμῶν τῶν ἀδελφῶν προτροπῆς ποιήσασθαι. ἀπὸ ἐτῶν ἱκανῶν, ἀνερευνῶν τὴν τούτου τοῦ Μαρκίωνος ἐπινενοημένην ψευδηγορίαν, καὶ ληρώδη διδασκαλίαν, αὐτὰς δὴ τὰς τοῦ προειρημένου βίβλους ἃς περικέκοπται (so Jülicher, Ms. κέκτηται) μετὰ χεῖρας λαβών, τό τε παρ' αὐτῷ λεγόμενον ‚Εὐαγγέλιον' καὶ ⟨τὸ⟩ 'Αποστολικὸν καλούμενον παρ' αὐτῷ ἐξανθισάμενος καὶ ἀναλεξάμενος καθ' εἱρμὸν ἀπὸ τῶν προειρημένων δύο βιβλίων τὰ ἐλέγξαι αὐτόν δυνάμενα κτλ.

2 Einige zutreffende Korrekturen bei Holl in seiner Epiph.-Ausgabe.

dies bei der früheren Aufzeichnung bemerkt haben mußte; aber jetzt kam er infolge der Unvollkommenheit seiner Aufzeichnung zu der Ansicht, M. habe sowohl den Epheser- als auch einen Laodiceerbrief in seiner Bibel gehabt, gab nun den größeren Teil der Zitate unter jenem Titel, eines aber unter diesem, träumte dann, M. habe nur „Teile" eines Laodiceerbriefs aufgenommen — daß es wirklich einen apokryphen Laodiceerbrief gab, hatte er von irgendwoher gehört —, ja kam schließlich dem Unsinn nahe, M.s Bibel habe überhaupt nur aus Exzerpten zum Beweise seiner Irrlehre bestanden[1]. Eine dritte Konfusion richtete er in bezug auf die Reihenfolge der Paulusbriefe bei M. an; es mag ihr gegenüber aber die Konstatierung genügen, daß er sie in jenem Exemplar, das ihm einst zur Verfügung stand, in derselben Zahl (10) und in derselben Reihenfolge gelesen, in der sie M. geordnet hatte; nur Phil. stellt Epiphanius stets nach Philem. Das muß ihm der Codex geboten haben; spätere Marcioniten werden Philem. unmittelbar nach Kol. gestellt haben, wohin er gehört.

Da Epiph. in seinen Widerlegungen der 40 Zitate nichts Wertvolles für den Text hinzufügen konnte, so haben wir es lediglich mit ihnen zu tun. Daß die beiden Abschriften nicht vollkommen stimmen, war bei Epiphanius von vornherein zu erwarten, auch wenn die Abschreiber tadellos die Texte überliefert hätten. Doch sind die Differenzen gering und in Holls Ausgabe erledigt.

Die Zitate zerfallen in zwei Klassen, in eine wenig umfangreiche, in welcher Epiphanius Textfälschungen M.s angibt, und in die andere, in denen er Stellen ausgezogen hat, um M. durch sie zu widerlegen. Selbstverständlich ist jene Klasse die zuverlässigere; in dieser kam es dem Epiph. nicht auf absolute Genauigkeit an, und er bricht auch an einigen Stellen mit καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς die Anführung ab.

So schmal somit das Material ist, welches Epiphanius zu unserer Kenntnis des Apostolikons M.s beigebracht hat, so wertvoll ist es doch sowohl dort, wo es den von Tert. oder Adamantius mitgeteilten Text bestätigt, als wo es eine sonst nicht bezeugte

1 Möglicherweise liegt hier eine Konfusion mit Nachrichten über die „Antithesen" vor, die Epiph. selbst nicht in Händen gehabt hat.

Bibelstelle in der Fassung M.s bringt. Daß der Text, seitdem Tert. ihn las, einige Veränderungen erlitten hat, war a priori zu erwarten — nicht nur aus Schuld der Abschreiber, sondern wir wissen ja, daß die Marcioniten an dem Texte absichtlich geändert, bezw. das Werk ihres Meisters fortgesetzt haben. Daher mag schon der Marcionitische Bibeltext, wie Tertullian ihn las, Korrekturen besessen haben, die nicht von dem Meister selbst, sondern von den Schülern stammen. Wenn daher Epiphanius an einigen Stellen den kanonischen Text bietet gegenüber dem Text, wie ihn Tertullian bietet, so ist eine doppelte Annahme möglich: Entweder sind Schüler Marcions wieder zum kanonischen Text zurückgekehrt, oder Tert. bietet bereits Schüler-Korrekturen, während Epiphanius an diesen Stellen noch den Text gelesen hat, wie ihn M. stehen gelassen hatte.

An nicht wenigen Stellen stimmen je zwei von den Zeugen bei der Wiedergabe des Marcionitischen Textes aufs beste zusammen, und dann haben wir vollkommene Sicherheit (Stellen, die alle drei bezeugen, sind sehr selten)[1]. Differenzen führen nicht immer auf die Hypothese, daß der Marciontext im Laufe der Zeit und lokal verändert worden ist, sondern auch auf die Annahme der Unzuverlässigkeit der Zeugen; aber auf Tert.s Zuverlässigkeit läßt sich in der Regel bauen.

Die Anlage der nachfolgenden Wiederherstellung des Apostolikons bedarf kaum einer Erläuterung. Der Text Tertullians ist nach der Ausgabe von Kroymann (1906) gegeben, wo ich ihr zu folgen vermochte, der des Adamantius nach van de Sande-Bakhuyzen (1901; die Kapitel sind die der Rufinschen Übersetzung), der des Epiphanius nach Holl, den ich nach den Aushängebogen benutzen durfte. Nach Tert. müßte man eigentlich zunächst das lateinische Apostolikon M.s wiederherstellen; aber das hätte zu großen Wiederholungen geführt und hätte doch nichts von Belang ausgetragen. Was uns nur im lateinischen Apostolikon erhalten ist, ist aus dem Apparat leicht ersichtlich. Beim Galaterbrief habe ich versucht, einen einiger-

---

1 S. die Zusammenstellung unten (E. Untersuchungen).

maßen zusammenhängenden Text zu geben; bei den übrigen Briefen war das nicht möglich.

Anhang.

Daß der unbekannte antimarcionitische (armenisch erhaltene) syrische Schriftsteller (s. Beilage VI) den Apostolos M.s gekannt hat, ist gewiß; aber Schäfers (Eine altsyrische, antimarkionitische Erklärung von Parabeln des Herrn usw., 1917) geht zu weit, wenn er annimmt, daß er seine Pauluszitate, um die Marcioniten mit ihren Waffen zu bekämpfen, aus ihrem Apostolos genommen hat. Das läßt sich nicht beweisen. Nur das ist gewiß, daß er Römer 6, 5 und I Kor. 3, 6 dort gefunden hat (a. a. O.); aber auch in diesem Fall hat man keine Sicherheit, daß er den Text M.s genau zitiert; denn er kann sich auch von der Existenz des Stichworts dieser Verse, auf welches es ihm allein ankam, bei M. überzeugt und dann seinen eigenen Text zitiert haben. Speziell für Ephes. 5, 25 ff. will Schäfers beweisen, daß der Unbekannte hier den Text M.s biete (S. 213 f.); allein dieser Beweis ist völlig mißglückt. Gerade hier ist — unter Vergleichung dessen, was wir sicher über diesen Text wissen oder vermuten können — offenbar, daß der gebotene Text der eigene des Verfassers, d. h. der nicht ganz korrekt wiedergegebene kanonische ist. Er lautet: „Ein jeder Mensch soll sein Weib wie sich selbst lieben, wie auch Christus seine Kirche geliebt hat; denn Glieder sind wir seines Leibes; so auch ihr: ein jeglicher aus euch muß sein Weib wie sich selbst lieben, wie auch Christus seine Kirche geliebt hat. Deswegen wird ein Mensch seinen Vater und seine Mutter verlassen und seinem Weibe folgen, und es werden die beiden ein Leib sein. Das Geheimnis ist groß; aber ich sage es hinsichtlich Christi und der Kirche."

B. ΑΠΟΣΤΟΛΙΚΟΝ.

Προς Γαλατας.

I, 1 Παῦλος ἀπόστολος, οὐκ ἀπ' ἀνθρώπων οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπου, ἀλλὰ διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ τοῦ ἐγείραντος αὐτὸν ἐκ νεκρῶν. Der Gruß

Der Titel Ἀποστολικον nach Epiphanius und Adamantius (beide an mehreren Stellen), bei Hieronymus zu Gal. 1, 1 „Apostolicum." Epiph. p. 155: Ἡ πρὸς Γαλάτας ἐπιστολὴ παρὰ Μαρκίωνι πρώτη κεῖται, so auch Tert.

I, 1 „Ipse se apostolum est professus ‚non ab hominibus nec per hominem, sed per Jesum Christum' " (Tert. V, 1); „ ‚non ab hominibus neque per hominem' " (l. c.). Die Weglassung der Worte καὶ θεοῦ πατρός nach Ἰ. Χρ. bemerkt Origenes (bei Hieronymus im Comment. z. Gal.): „Sciendum quoque in Marcionis Apostolico non esse scriptum ‚Et per deum

(v. 2—5) fehlte nicht; denn χάρις καὶ εἰρήνη (v. 3) sind bezeugt; ob er unverändert war, ist ungewiß.

6 Θαυμάζω ὅτι οὕτως ταχέως μετατίθεσθε ἀπὸ τοῦ καλέσαντος ὑμᾶς ἐν χάριτι εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον, 7 ὃ ἄλλο (ἕτερον?) πάντως οὐκ ἔστιν κατὰ patrem' volentis exponere, Christum non a deo patre, sed per semetipsum suscitatum". Bestätigt wird dieser Text durch den von Marcioniten gefälschten Laodiceerbrief v. 1: „Paulus apostolus non ab hominibus neque per hominem, sed per Jesum Christum, fratribus". Auch hier fehlt Gott. Für M.s Gottes- und Christuslehre charakteristisch.

---

3 Zu I Kor. 1, 3 bemerkt Tert. (V, 5), daß gratia et pax in I Kor. u. Gal. bei M. stehe.

6 „ ‚Miror vos tam cito transferri ab eo, qui vos vocavit in gratiam, ad aliud evangelium' " (Tert. V, 2). De praescr. 27 schreibt Tert.: „ ‚Miror quod sic tam cito transferimini ab eo qui vos (al. suos) vocavit in gratia, ad aliud evangelium' " („tam" nur noch g, „sic tam" Itala u. Vulg.). — Nur nach Rufin, nicht aber nach dem griechischen Text zitiert Megethius (Adamant., Dial. I, 6): „Miror quod sic tam cito transferimini in aliud evangelium". Rufin hat dies hinzugesetzt, weil das sich anschließende Zitat Gal. 1, 7 formell abrupt eintritt. Χριστοῦ nach χάριτι fehlt auch bei Cypr., Lucifer, Victorin, Gg u. Fgr * und bei Tert. selbst.

7 Tert. (V, 2) zitiert nur den Anfang und indirekt: „Nam et adiciens ‚quod aliud evangelium omnino non esset', creatoris confirmat id, quod esse defendit", und gleich darauf noch einmal, nachdem er ATliche Stellen für die Verheißung eines Evangeliums angeführt hat: „Est autem evangelium etiam dei novi, quod vis tunc ab apostolo defensum, iam ergo duo sunt evangelia apud duos deos, et mentitus erit apostolus dicens, ‚quod aliud omnino non est', cum sit et aliud, cum sic suum evangelium defendere potuisset, ut potius demonstraret, non ut unum determinaret". Hiernach muß Tertullian „omnino" gelesen haben (Hans von Soden: er kann es selbst eingefügt haben); an welcher Stelle ἄλλο (ἕτερον?) stand, ist nicht auszumachen. Megethius (Dial. I, 6) zitiert: οὐκ ἔστιν ἄλλο κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου, εἰ μή τινές εἰσιν οἱ ταράσσοντες ὑμᾶς καὶ θέλοντες μεταστρέψαι εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ. (Rufin bietet das eingeschobene κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου nicht — im griechischen Text wird es einige Zeilen später noch einmal erwähnt; Rufin schreibt hier: „Quod evangelizavimus vobis"; aber nach dem Kontext hatte er κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου vor sich, wie auch Caspari annimmt — und setzt auch im folgenden den gewöhnlichen Text ein: „volunt pervertere evangelium Christi"). Dieser Text ist hart, aber zu originell, um als spätere Korruption beiseite geschoben zu werden, obgleich πάντως entfernt ist; doch braucht es nicht im Griechischen gestanden zu haben, sondern nur im Lateinischen. Κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου setzte M. hier ein, um das paulinische Evangelium als die authentische Gestalt τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου (ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ?), εἰ μή τινές εἰσιν οἱ ταράσσοντες ὑμᾶς καὶ θέλοντες μεταστρέψαι εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ, 8 ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐὰν ἡμεῖς ἢ ἄγγελος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ ἄλλως εὐαγγελίσηται παρ' ὃ εὐηγγελισάμεθα, ἀνάθεμα ἔστω. 9 . . . εἴ τις ὑμᾶς εὐαγγελίζεται . . . ἀνάθεμα ἔστω.

10 (Suche ich Menschen zu gefallen?) Unbezeugt.

11—17 (die Schilderung, wie Paulus durch seine Bekehrung das Evangelium empfangen habe) ist bei Tert. (V, 2) durch den des Evangeliums Christi hervorzuheben, und μεταστρέψαι bezog er auf die Verführten, vielleicht weil ihm ταράσσοντες noch zu schwach war. Dann aber schwebte τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ in der Luft und mußte zu εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγ. τ. Χριστοῦ umgebildet werden. Daß εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον bei Megethius in v. 7 aus v. 6 herübergenommen ist, ist möglich, aber nicht wahrscheinlich. Tert.s Schweigen kann man nicht gegen κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου geltend machen, da er den Vers nur bis ὃ πάντως οὐκ ἔστιν zitiert. Übrigens stecken die vier Worte wahrscheinlich in dem Satze „Cum sic suum evangelium defendere potuisset, ut potius demonstraret, non ut unum determinaret". — Auch z. Z. des Chrysostomus (T. X. p. 667) beriefen sich die Marcioniten für ihr Evangelium auf diese Stelle als Grundstelle. Orig. schreibt (Comm. in Joh. V S. 104 Preuschen) — und bringt damit die Vorlage zu Adam., Dial. I, 6 —: Ῥητὸν ἀποστολικὸν μὴ νενοημένον ὑπὸ τῶν Μαρκίωνος καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ἀθετούντων τὰ εὐαγγέλια· τῷ γὰρ τὸν ἀπόστολον λέγειν· ‚κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου ἐν Χρ. Ἰησοῦ' καὶ μὴ φάσκειν ‚εὐαγγέλια' ἐκεῖνοι ἐφιστάντες φασίν, οὐκ ἂν πλειόνων ὄντων εὐαγγελίων τὸν ἀπόστολον ἑνικῶς ‚τὸ εὐαγγέλιον' εἰρηκέναι. — Κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου auch in dem Marcionitischen Verse Röm. 16, 25.

---

8.9 Adamant. (Dial. I, 6): ἀλλὰ κἂν ἡμεῖς ἢ ἄγγελος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ εὐαγγελίσηται ὑμῖν παρ' ὃ εὐηγγελισάμεθα vobis („anathema sit" + Rufin), vorher Megeth.: εἴ τις ὑμᾶς εὐαγγελίσεται παρ' ὃ εὐηγγελισάμεθα ὑμῖν, ἀνάθεμα ἔστω (Rufin: „Si vobis quis aliter evangelizaverit, anathema sit") — also eine Mischung aus v. 8 u. 9. Tert. V, 2: „Sed etsi nos aut angelus de caelo aliter evangelizaverit", und schon kurz vorher: „Licet angelus de caelo aliter evangelizaverit, anathema sit". Damit ist erwiesen, daß v. 8 u. 9 bei M. standen und er in v. 8 ἄλλως bot; denn auch Rufin bietet es. Sicher ist auch παρ' ὃ εὐηγγελισάμεθα, unsicher das folgende ὑμῖν (es fehlt auch Tert., de carne 6), da nur der Dialog es bietet. Vom 9. Vers ist nur erhalten, was oben steht. Das ὑμῖν nach εὐαγγελίσηται wird trotz des Dialoges gefehlt haben (so auch ℵ * G g, Tert. an 2 Stellen, Cypr., Lucifer).

15 Dial. IV, 15: ὅτε δὲ εὐδόκησεν ὁ θεός (ὁ θεός mit der Hälfte der Zeugen), ὁ ἀφορίσας με ἐκ κοιλίας μητρός μου. Aber man hat keine Gewähr dafür, daß dies Zitat aus M.s Bibel stammt.

16 Nach Hieron., Comm. in Gal., haben „plerique" und auch Poreinzigen Satz gedeckt: „Exinde decurrens ordinem conversionis suae de persecutore in apostolum“. Zu ändern brauchte hier M. nichts.

18—24 (Der erste Verkehr mit den Aposteln, die Übersiedelung nach Syrien und Cilicien, die Haltung der Kirchen in Judäa gegenüber Paulus) werden von Tert. ganz übergangen. Wenn dieser Abschnitt nicht ganz fehlte (was wahrscheinlich), muß ihn M. korrigiert haben. Sicher fehlte der erste Besuch in Jerusalem (s. 2, 1).

II, 1. 2 (Der Aufbruch zum Apostelkonzil): Hier standen die Worte Ἔπειτα διὰ ιδ' ἐτῶν ἀνέβην εἰς Ἱερουσόλυμα und μήπως εἰς κενὸν ἔδραμον ἢ τρέχω, aber sonst war der Text deshalb verändert, weil aus dem übergangenen Abschnitt des 1. Kapitels (aus v. 18 u. 19) der Zweck der Reise nachgebracht werden sollte.

3 ἀλλ' οὐδὲ Τίτος ὁ σὺν ἐμοί, Ἕλλην ὤν, ἠναγκάσθη περιτμηθῆναι· 4 διὰ τοὺς παρεισάκτους ψευδαδελφούς, οἵτινες παρεισῆλθον κατασκοπῆσαι phyrius die Worte (οὐ προσανεθέμην) σαρκὶ καὶ αἵματι auf die Urapostel bezogen. Gewiß darf man bei „plerique“ an die Marcioniten denken.

---

II, 1: Tert. (V, 3): „Denique ad patrocinium Petri ceterorumque apostolorum ascendisse Hierosolyma post annos XIV scribit, ut conferret cum illis de evangelii sui regula, ne in vacuum tot annis cucurrisset aut curreret“. Die Worte „ad patrocinium Petri cet. app.“ stammen natürlich von Tert.; wie M. geschrieben hat, läßt sich nicht mehr sagen. Daß Tert. ἀνεθέμην durch „ut conferret“ wiedergiebt, ist vielleicht nicht zufällig. Die Wortstellung „cucurrisset aut curreret“ ist wahrscheinlich gegen alle übrigen Zeugen des Textes festzuhalten, da sie Tert. eine Seite später wiederholt (er befolgt sie übrigens selbst adv. Marc. I, 20); doch kann sie auch nur der lat. Version angehören. Auch der Ausdruck „de evangelii sui regula“ kann marcionitisch sein. Barnabas fehlt wohl nicht zufällig, s. zu 2, 9.

3 Tert. (V, 3): „Cum vero nec Titum dicit circumcisum“ und gleich darauf: „Sed nec Titus, qui mecum erat, cum esset Graecus, coactus est circumcidi“.

4 f. Tert. (V, 3): „Propter falsos“, inquit „superinducticios fratres, qui subintraverant ad speculandam libertatem nostram, quam habemus in Christo, ut nos subigerent servituti, nec ad horam cessimus subiectioni“. Ein δέ nach διά liest Tert. auch an der 2. Stelle nicht, wo er den Anfang des Verses („propter superinducticios falsos fratres“) anführt (gegen dieses δέ haben sich auch Hieron. u. die Antiochener ausgesprochen). Das merkτὴν ἐλευθερίαν ἡμῶν ἣν ἔχομεν ἐν Χριστῷ, ἵνα ἡμᾶς καταδουλώσουσιν, 5 οὐδὲ πρὸς ὥραν εἴξαμεν τῇ ὑποταγῇ, ἵνα ἡ ἀλήθεια τοῦ εὐαγγελίου διαμείνῃ πρὸς ὑμᾶς.

6—9a (die Einleitung zur Apostelkonvention mit der Unterscheidung des εὐαγγέλιον τῆς ἀκροβυστίας und τῆς περιτομῆς und dem Satz γνόντες τὴν χάριν τὴν δοθεῖσάν μοι) sind ganz unbezeugt und müssen, wenn sie nicht ganz umgestaltet waren, gefehlt haben.

9b—10 Πέτρος καὶ Ἰάκωβος καὶ Ἰωάννης . . . δεξιὰς ἔδωκαν ἐμοί, ἵνα ἐγὼ εἰς τὰ ἔθνη, αὐτοὶ δὲ εἰς τὴν περιτομήν. μόνον τῶν πτωχῶν ἵνα μνημονεύωμεν.

---

würdige Wort „superinducticius“ findet sich adv. Marc. I, 20 nicht; es gehört vielleicht der marcionitischen Übersetzung an und ist von hier de monog. 14 übernommen. Die Annahme einer großen Lücke nach „servituti“ (Kroymann) und ihre Ausfüllung durch: „ad horam cessimus subiectioni, non, ut mavult Marcion“ ist überflüssig. Das von allen Zeugen sonst gebotene Ἰησοῦ nach Χριστῷ fehlt hier. — οὐδέ mit der großen Mehrzahl der Zeugen (Tert. wirft dem M. hier Fälschung vor: „apparebit vitiatio scripturae“); es fehlt in D* d, bei Iren., Victorin, Ambrosiaster und Pelagius; οἷς vor οὐδέ kennt M. nicht. Zahn macht darauf aufmerksam, daß M. v. 3 und 5 οὔτε für οὐδέ (s. Victorin) geschrieben haben kann. Die Worte ἵνα ἡ ἀλήθ. κτλ. werden zwar von Tert. nicht bezeugt, stehen aber auch für M. fest; denn nach den marcionitischen Prologen wissen wir, daß ihm ἡ ἀλήθεια τοῦ εὐαγγελίου der Zentralbegriff war (s. auch 2, 14); vielleicht hat er διαμένῃ geschrieben wie G.

9 b „Dexteras ei darent antecessores . . ex c(ons ensu eorum in nationes praedicandi munus subiret“. Bene igitur, quod et dexteras Paulo dederunt Petrus et Jacobus et Johannes et de officii distributione pepigerunt, ut Paulus in nationes, illi in circumcisionem, tantum ut meminissent egenorum“. In dieser Reihenfolge der Namen mit D G d g Hieron., Ambrosiaster, Victorin. Οἱ δοκοῦντες στύλοι εἶναι nach den Namen ist nicht bezeugt, wird aber nicht gefehlt haben. Da Tert. zweimal κοινωνίας fortläßt, fehlte es, und das ist auch an sich wahrscheinlich. Der Text, wie er lautet, ohne Barnabas, mit dem wiederholten „Ich“ (Originaltext ἡμεῖς, nämlich Paulus und Barnabas) und dem Pl. „meminissent“, kann nur so verstanden werden, daß Barnabas (wie auch 2, 1) fehlte und daß die Pflicht der Armenfürsorge ebenso den Uraposteln gelten sollte wie dem Paulus. Damit war von M. der Schein völlig beseitigt, daß dem Paulus eine einseitige Auflage gemacht worden sei. Die Worte ὃ καὶ ἐσπούδασα κτλ. sind nicht bezeugt, werden aber nicht gefehlt haben.

11—21 (Der Streit mit Petrus in Antiochien und die sich anschließende Darlegung): M. ließ sie bestehen und wohl wesentlich unverändert; bezeugt ist v. 11 Πέτρος und κατὰ πρόσωπον αὐτῷ ἀντέστην, v. 12 φοβούμενος τοὺς ἐκ περιτομῆς, v. 14 οὐκ ὀρθοποδοῦσιν (ὀρθοποδοῖ?) πρὸς τὴν ἀλήθειαν τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, v. 16 οὐ δικαιοῦται ἄνθρωπος ἐξ ἔργων νόμου ἐὰν μὴ (ἀλλὰ?) διὰ πίστεως, v. 18 εἰ γὰρ ἃ κατέλυσα ταῦτα πάλιν οἰκοδομῶ, v. 20 ὃ δὲ νῦν ζῶ ἐν σαρκί, ἐν πίστει ζῶ τῇ τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ ἀγοράσαντός με.

III, 1—5 (Die schmerzliche Frage an die Galater, wer sie bezaubert habe, und die Frage, ob sie den Geist aus Gesetzeswerken oder aus dem Glauben empfangen hätten) sind unbezeugt, aber werden nicht gefehlt haben.

6—9 (Abrahams Glaube und Segen) fehlten.

10—12 Μάθετε ὅτι ὁ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται· ὅσοι γὰρ ὑπὸ νόμον, ὑπὸ κατάραν εἰσίν, ὁ δὲ ποιήσας αὐτὰ ζήσεται ἐν αὐτοῖς.

11—21 Tert. (V, 3): „Reprehendit Petrum non recto pede incedentem ad evangelii veritatem". „Timens eos qui erant ex circumcisione". „Et aliis in faciem restitisset". „Negans ex operibus legis iustificari hominem, sed ex fide". „Merito non reaedificabat quae destruxit". Vgl. dazu Acta Archelai 45. — V. 20 aus Dial. V, 22 wörtlich (Rufin bietet die sonst unbezeugte LA „qui redemit me", der Grieche hat das gewöhnliche ἀγαπήσαντός με).

III, 1 Aus Hieron. (d. h. Origenes) z. d. St.: „Interrogemus ergo hoc loco Marcionem, qui prophetas repudiat, quomodo interpretur id quod sequitur" (nämlich προεγράφη), läßt sich nicht mit Sicherheit schließen, daß Hieron. wußte, die Stelle stehe bei M.

6 ff. Orig. bei Hieron. z. d. St.: „Ab hoc loco usque ad eum, ubi scribitur: ‚Qui ex fide sunt, benedicentur cum fideli Abraham‘ (v. 9), Marcion de suo apostolo erasit." Auch Tert. übergeht diese Verse, hat aber ein Stichwort des Originaltextes aus v. 9 im Gedächtnis, wenn er schreibt: „Proinde si in lege maledictio est, in fide vero benedictio" (aus v. 14 b stammt das schwerlich).

10—12 So Epiphan. p. 120. 156. Die Verse 10 b, 11 a und 12 a haben also nach ihm gefehlt; die Beziehung auf das AT (γέγραπται) ist entfernt; auch die Umstellung ist glaublich. Aus Tert.s freier Darlegung (V, 3): „ut iam ex fidei libertate iustificaretur homo, non ex legis servitute, ‚Quia iustus ex fide vivit‘ (vivet?). quod si prophetes Abacuc pronuntiavit, habes et apostolum prophetas confirmantem, sicut et Christus", kann man nur mit geringer Wahrscheinlichkeit schließen, daß 11 a (wenn auch in Umformung) doch nicht gefehlt hat; dagegen ist deutlich, daß die Worte „quod si prophetes" etc. Tert.s Eigentum sind. — Μάθετε ist von M. frei eingeschoben. — Ὑπὸ νόμον ist sonst unbezeugt (> ἐξ ἔργων νόμου εἰσίν, aber gleich darauf ὑπὸ κατάραν), ebenso ὁ δὲ (> ἀλλὰ ὁ).

13 Χριστὸς ἡμᾶς ἐξηγόρασεν ἐκ τῆς κατάρας τοῦ νόμου, γενόμενος ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν κατάρα, ὅτι γέγραπται· Ἐπικατάρατος πᾶς ὁ κρεμάμενος ἐπὶ ξύλου· 14 ἐλάβομεν οὖν τὴν εὐλογίαν τοῦ πνεύματος διὰ τῆς πίστεως.

15—25 (Die große Ausführung über das Testament, Abraham und das Gesetz) fehlten.

26 πάντες γὰρ υἱοὶ θεοῦ ἐστὲ διὰ τῆς πίστεως (fehlerhaft im lat. Text M.s: „‚omnes enim filii estis fidei‘ “).

27—29 (Der Getaufte hat Christus angezogen, alle sind eins in Christus usw.) sind nicht bezeugt, werden aber schwerlich gefehlt haben; freilich die Worte: ἄρα τοῦ Ἀβραὰμ σπέρμα ἐστέ, mußten fehlen.

---

13 Tert. (V, 3): „Neque enim quia creator pronuntiavit: ‚Maledictus omnis ligno suspensus‘, ideo videbitur alterius dei esse Christus“. Megeth. (Dial. I, 27): Παῦλος λέγει ,"Οτι Χριστὸς ἡμᾶς ἐξηγόρασε‘. Epiph. p. 120, 156: ,Ἐπικατάρατος πᾶς ὁ κρεμάμενος ἐπὶ ξύλου‘, s. auch haer. 42, 8 die Ausführung über ἐξαγοράζειν und ἀγοράζειν, die wahrscheinlich auf Origenes zurückgeht. Auf diesen geht auch Hieron. z. d. St. zurück: „Subrepit in hoc loco Marcion de potestate creatoris, quem sanguinarium, crudelem infamat (M hatte aus der ihm besonders wichtigen Stelle eine Antithese gemacht) et iudicem, asserens nos redemptos esse per Christum, qui alterius boni dei filius sit“; es folgt eine Darlegung des Unterschieds von „emere“ und „redimere“, wie bei Megethius und Epiphanius. Die direkt nicht bezeugten Worte von ἐκ τ. κατάρας bis κατάρα können nicht gefehlt haben.

14 Die erste Hälfte (ἵνα εἰς ἔθνη ἡ εὐλογία τοῦ Ἀβραὰμ γένηται ἐν Χρ. Ἰ.) übergeht Tert., und sowohl ihr Inhalt als die Neuformulierung von 14 b bestätigen, daß sie gefehlt hat. Tert. (V, 3): „‚Accepimus (oder accipimus) igitur benedictionem spiritalem per fidem‘, inquit“. — Εὐλογίαν mit D*G d g Ambrosiaster, Vigilant. > ἐπαγγελίαν.

15—25 Tert. geht von 3, 14 sofort zu 3, 26 über (V, 3): „Sed et cum adicit: ‚Omnes enim filii estis fidei‘, ostenditur quid supra haeretica industria eraserit, mentionem scilicet Abrahae“ etc., und bemerkt dann (V, 4): „Erubescat spongia Marcionis! nisi quod ex abundanti retracto quae abstulit“ (er hatte selbst die vv. 3, 15. 16 aus dem unverfälschten Galaterbrief angeführt, wie er auch V, 13 aus dem unverfälschten c. 3, 22 zitiert).

26 Tert. (V, 3): „Sed cum adicit: ‚Omnes enim filii estis fidei‘“; diesen Text kommentiert Tert.; aber er kann nicht richtig sein, erklärt sich auch leicht aus Dittographie, die den Wegfall der Worte per fidem zur Folge hatte. Warum soll M. den Grundtext geändert haben? (s. oben S. 51*). Übrigens hat das Zitat bei Hilarius (Hom. in Psalm 91 p. 345 der Wiener Ausgabe) denselben Fehler; er ist also älter als die Marcionitische Übersetzung, oder stammt er bei Hilarius aus dieser?

IV, 1. 2 („Solange der Erbe ein Kind ist usw.") sind unbezeugt, aber sie haben sicherlich nicht gefehlt und gaben auch zu Korrekturen keinen Anlaß.

3 Ἔτι κατὰ ἄνθρωπον λέγω· ὅτε ἦμεν νήπιοι, ὑπὸ τὰ στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου ἤμεθα δεδουλωμένοι, 4 ὅτε δὲ ἦλθεν τὸ πλήρωμα τοῦ χρόνου, ἐξαπέστειλεν ὁ θεὸς τὸν υἱὸν αὐτοῦ, 5 ἵνα τοὺς ὑπὸ νόμον ἐξαγοράσῃ (καὶ) ἵνα τὴν υἱοθεσίαν ἀπολάβωμεν (al. εἰς υἱοθεσίαν ληφθῶμεν).

6 ὅτε δέ ἐστε υἱοί, ἐξαπέστειλεν ὁ θεὸς τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ υἱοῦ αὐτοῦ εἰς τὰς καρδίας ἡμῶν, κρᾶζον· Ἀββᾶ ὁ πατήρ.

IV 1. 2 können nicht gefehlt haben, weil die Marcionitische Fassung von v. 3 sie fordert.

3 Tert. (V, 4): „„Adhuc', inquit, ‚secundum hominem dico: dum essemus parvuli, sub elementis mundi eramus positi ad deserviendum eis'". Tert. beanstandet das aus c. 3, 15 stammende κατὰ ἄνθρωπον hier als unpassend; es ist an dieser Stelle sonst unbezeugt (> οὕτως καὶ ἡμεῖς). Das dem M. eigentümliche „adhuc" fordert eine Ausführung wie die in v. 1 f. Zahn glaubt den lateinischen Text streng festhalten zu müssen und schreibt: ἤμεθα τεθειμένοι εἰς τὸ δουλεῦσαι αὐτοῖς; aber es liegt doch wohl nur eine Paraphrase des Übersetzers vor, der δεδουλωμένοι nicht kurz zu übersetzen vermochte.

4 Tert. (V, 4): „„Cum autem evenit impleri tempus misit deus filium suum"". Zahn gibt das durch ὅτε δὲ ἐγένετο πληροῦσθαι τὸν χρόνον wieder, aber es liegt nur eine genaue Übersetzung vor, die jedoch τὸ πλήρωμα nicht durch ein Subst. wiederzugeben vermochte; Tert. selbst schreibt kurz darauf: „At ubi tempus expletum est". — Getilgt sind die Worte γενόμενον ἐκ γυναικός, γενόμενον ὑπὸ νόμον. Hieron. verwechselt M. und Valentin, wenn er, Origenes ausschreibend, z. d. St. bemerkt: „Diligenter adtendite, quod (apostolus) non dixerit: ‚Factum per mulierem', quod Marcion et ceterae haereses volunt, qui putativam Christi carnem simulant, sed ‚ex muliere', ut non per illam, sed ex illa natus esse credatur". — Zahn schreibt zweifelnd ἀπέστειλεν.

5 Tert. (V, 4): „„Ut eos qui sub lege erant, redimeret et ut adoptionem filiorum acciperemus' ". Markus (Dial. II, 19) zweimal: εἰς υἱοθεσίαν ἐλήφθημεν (Rufin schreibt an der ersten Stelle „in adoptione vocati sumus", an der zweiten „in adoptione nos susciperet"). Es ist möglich, daß Tert., der kurz vorher (3, 15. 16) aus dem unverfälschten Briefe zitiert hat, noch dessen Wortlaut hier im Kopfe hatte, und daß M. so geschrieben hat, wie die Stelle im Dialog lautet.

6 Tert. (V, 4) augenscheinlich am Anfang frei wiedergebend: „Itaque ut certum esset (Mss. „est et"), nos filios dei esse, misit spiritum suum in corda nostra clamantem: Abba, pater". Es ist daher gewagt, vom Original-

7 (So daß du nicht mehr Sklave, sondern Sohn und Erbe bist) unbezeugt, aber wird nicht gefehlt haben.

8 f Εἰ οὖν (γνόντες θεόν, μᾶλλον δὲ γνωσθέντες ὑπὸ θεοῦ?) τοῖς ἐν τῇ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς δουλεύετε, πῶς ἐπιστρέφετε πάλιν ἐπὶ τὰ ἀσθενῆ καὶ πτωχὰ στοιχεῖα, οἷς πάλιν ἄνωθεν δουλεύειν θέλετε; (der Anfang unsicher, das Ende nicht ausdrücklich bezeugt).

10 ἡμέρας παρατηρεῖσθε καὶ μῆνας καὶ καιροὺς καὶ ἐνιαυτούς;

11—20 (Die persönliche Aussprache des Apostels gegenüber den Galatern) unbezeugt, hat schwerlich gefehlt; erhalten ist vielleicht 19 τέκνα μου, οὓς ὠδίνω πάλιν.

21—26 Die einleitenden Worte: Λέγετέ μοι, οἱ ὑπὸ νόμον θέλοντες εἶναι, τὸν νόμον οὐκ ἀκούετε; 22 γέγραπται γὰρ ὅτι, können text abzugehen und mit Z a h n (der übrigens selbst zweifelt) zu schreiben: ὅτι οὖν (καὶ ἡμεῖς?) ἐσμεν υἱοὶ θ οῦ, ἀπέστειλεν τὸ πνεῦμα αὐτοῦ κτλ.

---

8. 9 Tert. (V, 4) frei: „Post has itaque divitias non erat revertendum ad infirma et mendica elementa . . . non ergo per mundialium elementorum derogationem a deo eorum avertere cupiebat, etsi dicendo supra: ‚Si ergo his qui in natura sunt dei servitis‘, physicae, i. e. naturalis, superstitionis elementa pro deo habentis suggillat errorem, nec sic tamen elementorum deum taxans‘. Es scheint, daß Tert. hier auch eine Marcionitische Auslegung gekannt hat; denn wie auch der nicht mehr sicher wiederherzustellende Text zu gestalten ist — ohne Erklärung sagt er das nicht, was M. ihn sagen läßt. Am wichtigsten ist der von M. eingesetzte Begriff „qui in natura sunt dei“ (> τοῖς φύσει μὴ οὖσιν θεοῖς, bezw. μὴ φύσει οὖσιν bezw. μὴ οὖσι). Schwierigkeit macht die Unterbringung des Bedingungssatzes; nicht wahrscheinlich ist, daß M. einen ihm so willkommenen Satz wie 9 a (νῦν δὲ γνόντες θεόν, μᾶλλον δὲ γνωσθέντες ὑπὸ θεοῦ) unterdrückt hat (gegen Z a h n).

10 Tert. (V, 4): „„Dies observatis et menses et tempora et annos“‘.

19 Mitten in den Darlegungen über I Kor. zitiert Tert. diesen Vers beiläufig (V, 8: „„Filii mei quos parturio rursus‘ “; alle Mss. πάλιν ὠδίνω), aber ob aus M.s N. T.?

21 f. Tert. (V, 4): „Sed ut furibus solet aliquid excidere de praeda in indicium, ita credo et Marcionem novissimam Abrahae mentionem dereliquisse [also haben alle vorhergehenden gefehlt, s. o.], nullam magis auferendam [nulla-auferenda K r o y m., unnötig], etsi ex parte convertit. si enim Abraham duos liberos habuit, unum ex ancilla et alium ex libera, sed qui ex ancilla carnaliter natus est, qui vero ex libera per repromissionem — quae sunt allegorica (i. e. aliud portendentia); haec sunt enim duo testamenta (sive ‚duae ostensiones‘, sicut invenimus interpretatum), unum a monte Sina in synagogam Iudaeorum secundum legem generans in servitutem, alium super omnem principatum generans vim dominationem et gestanden oder gefehlt haben (vor einem „γέγραπται“ scheute sich M. unter Umständen nicht). Ἀβραὰμ δύο υἱοὺς ἔσχεν, ἕνα ἐκ τῆς παιδίσκης καὶ ἕνα ἐκ τῆς ἐλευθέρας, 23 ἀλλ' ὁ μὲν ἐκ τῆς παιδίσκης κατὰ σάρκα γεγέννηται, ὁ δὲ ἐκ τῆς ἐλευθέρας διὰ τῆς ἐπαγγελίας. 24. ἅτινά ἐστιν ἀλληγορούμενα· αὗται γάρ εἰσιν αἱ δύο ἐπιδείξεις (ἐνδείξεις?), μία μὲν ἀπὸ ὄρους Σινᾶ εἰς τὴν συναγωγὴν τῶν Ἰουδαίων κατὰ τὸν νόμον γεννῶσα εἰς δουλείαν, 26 ἄλλη δὲ ὑπεράνω πάσης ἀρχῆς γεννῶσα καὶ δυνάμεως καὶ ἐξουσίας καὶ παντὸς ὀνόματος ὀνομαζομένου — οὐ μόνον ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐν τῷ μέλλοντι — εἰς ἣν (ἀν-?) ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁγίαν ἐκκλησίαν, ἥτις ἐστὶν μήτηρ ἡμῶν.

27—30 (Das Jesajaszitat über die Unfruchtbare, Isaak und Ismael) sind unbezeugt und müssen gefehlt haben.

---

omne nomen quod nominatur, non tantum in hoc aevo sed et in futuro, quae est mater nostra, in quam (Codd. quem) repromisimus sanctam ecclesiam‘ (K r o y m. stellt die Worte „quae est mater nostra“ hierher, was zu billigen ist) — ideoque adiecit (31): ‚Propter quod, fratres, non sumus ancillae filii, sed liberae‘, utique manifestavit et Christianismi generositatem in filio Abrahae ex libera nato allegoriae habere sacramentum, sicut et Iudaismi servitutem legalem in filio ancillae“ etc. Epiph. p. 120. 156 zu 4, 23: ‚Ὁ δὲ ἐξ ἐπαγγελίας διὰ τῆς ἐλευθέρας‘. Orig. bei Hieron. zu 4, 24: „Marcion (et Manichaeus) hunc locum, in quo dixit apostolus ‚Quae sunt allegorica‘ et cetera quae secuntur, de codice suo tollere noluerunt, putantes adversus nos relinqui, quod scilicet lex aliter sit intelligenda, quam scripta sit.“ Der Text bei Tert. ist schwerlich fehlerfrei überliefert; sicher ist, daß in M.s lateinischer Bibel „ostensio“ gestanden hat (Z a h n korrigiert es in „sponsio“). „Ostensio“ kann keine Übersetzung von διαθήκη sein, sondern führt auf ἐπίδειξις (ἔνδειξις) oder ein ähnliches Wort (s. oben S. 52*) zurück. Eine solche Neugestaltung des Textes mit Verpflanzung einer Stelle aus einem Brief in den anderen (Ephes. 1, 21) hat sich sonst M. niemals erlaubt; daher man den Verdacht nicht los werden kann, daß der oben nach Tert. gegebene Text doch nicht dem M. selbst zuzuweisen ist. Man hat die Worte „in quam repromisimus sanctam ecclesiam“ streichen wollen; aber sie sind durch „in synagogam Iudaeorum“ geschützt; streicht man, so muß man den ganzen Text M. absprechen, vermag aber keine Rechenschaft zu geben, wie er bei Tert. entstanden ist. Vielleicht gehört er nur dem lateinischen Marcionitischen Bibeltexte an — man kann den Marcioniten größere Willkürlichkeiten zutrauen als dem Meister —; aber diese Annahme verändert das Problem nicht wesentlich. Z a h n stellt ohne durchschlagenden Grund das zweite γεννῶσα erst vor εἰς ἣν und faßt v. 26 so: ἥτις ἐστὶν μήτηρ ἡμῶν γεννῶσα εἰς ἣν ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁγίαν ἐκκλησίαν. Die Stelle Ephes. 1, 21 ist auch Dial. V, 13 zitiert mit κυριότητος und καὶ δυνάμεως und παντός und ohne Bezeichnung des Briefs.

31. Διό (oder ἄρα), ἀδελφοί, οὐκ ἐσμὲν παιδίσκης τέκνα, ἀλλὰ τῆς ἐλευθέρας·

V, 1 a ᾗ ἐλευθερίᾳ (οὖν) Χριστὸς ἡμᾶς ἠλευθέρωσεν,

1 b στήκετε καὶ μὴ πάλιν ζυγῷ δουλίας ἐνέχεσθε.

2 (Wenn ihr euch beschneidet, ist Christus euch von keinem Nutzen) unbezeugt, wird aber schwerlich gefehlt haben.

3 Μαρτύρομαι δὲ πάλιν ὅτι ἄνθρωπος περιτετμημένος ὀφειλέτης ἐστὶν ὅλον τὸν νόμον πληρῶσαι.

4. 5 (Ihr seid von Christus entfernt, vom Glauben abgefallen; wir erwarten im Geist die Hoffnung der Gerechtigkeit) unbezeugt, aber schwerlich getilgt.

6 Ἐν γὰρ Χριστῷ οὔτε περιτομή τι ἰσχύει οὔτε ἀκροβυστία, ἀλλὰ πίστις δι' ἀγάπης ἐνεργουμένη.

7—26 (Ermahnungen). Aus diesem Abschnitt, in dem vielleicht nichts getilgt war, sind erhalten: 9 μικρὰ ζύμη ὅλον τὸ φύραμα δολοῖ, 10 ὁ δὲ ταράσσων ὑμᾶς τὸ κρῖμα βαστάσει, ὅστις ἂν ᾖ.

---

31 Bezeugt durch Tert. (s. o.). Hat M. hier διό gelesen (singulär > ἄρα)?

V, 1a Tert. (V, 4): „Qua libertate Christus nos manumisit"; qua mit G d g vulg. und zahlreichen lat. Vätern > τῇ..

1b.2 Tert. (V, 4): „Merito non decebat manumissos rursus iugo servitutis i. e. legis adstringi". Freies Zitat; der Text wird unverändert gewesen sein.

3 So Epiph. p. 120. 156 (hier περιτεμνόμενος) > μαρτ. δὲ πάλιν παντὶ ἀνθρ. περιτεμνομένῳ ὅτι ὀφειλ. (vielleicht las M. auch so). — πληρῶσαι mit wenigen Zeugen > ποιῆσαι.

6 Tert. (V, 4): „Cur etiam praeputiationem negat quicquam valere in Christo sicut et circumcisionem?" . . . — „Illius fidei, quam dicendo per dilectionem perfici sic quoque creatoris ostendit." — Χριστῷ mit B Clem. Alex. > Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ.

9 Epiph. p. 120. 157; δολοῖ mit D* g vulg. und den meisten Lateinern > ζυμοῖ.

10 Tert. (V, 4): „Qui autem turbat vos iudicium feret", (allein > βαστάσει τὸ κρῖμα). Markus (Dial. II, 5): Ὁ ταράσσων ὑμᾶς βαστάσει τὸ κρῖμα (Rufin fügt hinzu: „quicunque est ille"); Dial. II, 18, wo der Spruch noch einmal zitiert wird, bietet auch der Grieche ὅστις ἂν ᾖ. Die, welche hier eine böse Anspielung auf Petrus fanden (s. Hieron. z. d. St.: „Occulte, inquiunt, Petrum lacerat, cui supra in faciem restitisse se scribit" etc.), können Marcioniten oder Porphyrius sein; wahrscheinlich waren es beide. Stammt aber die Bemerkung des Hieronymus aus Origenes, so sind jene allein gemeint.

12 ὄφελον καὶ ἀποκόψονται οἱ ἀναστατοῦντες ὑμᾶς. 14 ὁ γὰρ πᾶς νόμος ἐν ὑμῖν πεπλήρωται· ἀγαπήσεις τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν. 19 φανερὰ δέ ἐστι τὰ ἔργα τῆς σαρκός, ἅτινά ἐστι πορνεία, ἀκαθαρσία, ἀσέλγεια, 20 εἰδωλολατρεία, φαρμακεία, ἔχθραι, ἔρεις, ζῆλοι, θυμοί, ἐριθεῖαι, διχοστασίαι, αἱρέσεις, 21 φθόνοι, μέθαι, κῶμοι ⟨καὶ τὰ ὅμοια τούτοις⟩, ἃ προλέγω ὑμῖν, καθὼς καὶ προεῖπον, ὅτι οἱ τὰ τοιαῦτα πράσσοντες βασιλείαν θεοῦ οὐ κληρονομήσουσιν. 24 οἱ δὲ τοῦ Χριστοῦ τὴν σάρκα ἐσταύρωσαν σὺν τοῖς παθήμασι καὶ ταῖς ἐπιθυμίαις.

Aus c. VI ist bezeugt: 2 Ἀλλήλων τὰ βάρη (oder Τὰ βάρη ἀλλ.). βαστάζετε, καὶ οὕτως ἀναπληρώσετε τὸν νόμον τοῦ Χριστοῦ. 6 Κοινωνείτω δὲ ὁ κατηχούμενος τὸν λόγον τῷ κατηχοῦντι ἐν πᾶσιν ἀγαθοῖς. 7 Πλανᾶσθε. θεὸς οὐ μυκτερίζεται· ἃ γὰρ ἐὰν σπείρῃ ἄνθρωπος ταῦτα

---

12 Orig. bei Hieron. z. d. St.: „Qua ratione Marcion et Valentinus hoc in apostolo boni dei valent excusare?“

14 Tert. (V, 4): „‚Tota enim‘, inquit, ‚lex in vobis adimpleta est: diliges proximum tuum tamquam te.‘“ Epiph. p. 120. 157: Ὁ γὰρ πᾶς νόμος ⟨ἐν⟩ ὑμῖν πεπλήρωται· ἀγαπήσεις τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν. — ἐν ὑμῖν mit D* G d g und den Lateinern sonst, die aber sämtlich nach diesen Worten das allgemein bezeugte ἐν ἑνὶ λόγῳ auch bieten. Ist in einem alten marcionitischen Exemplar ἐν ἑνὶ λόγῳ nach ἐν ὑμῖν zufällig ausgefallen und der Irrtum zu Tert. und Epiph. gekommen? Oder schrieb M. ἐν ὑμῖν (und strich ἐν ἑνὶ λόγῳ) und dachte als Gegensatz: „Nicht bei den Juden?“ Das ist viel wahrscheinlicher. — ἀγαπήσεις mit den obigen lateinischen Zeugen > ἐν τῷ· ἀγαπήσεις (tendenziöse Korrektur).

19—21 Epiph. p. 120. 157 (im 2. Zitat φαρμακεῖαι und φόνοι für φθόνοι. — κ. τ. ὅμοια τούτοις fehlt wohl nur zufällig bei Epiph.

24 Epiph. p. 121. 158. — Χριστοῦ mit DGKLd g vulg > Χρ. Ἰησοῦ.

VI, 2 Tert. (V, 4): „‚Onera vestra invicem sustinete, et sic adimplebitis legem Christi.‘“ Gleich darauf: „‚Invicem onera vestra portate‘“.

6 Orig. bei Hieron. z. d. St.: „Marcion hunc locum ita interpretatus est, ut putaret fideles et catechumenos simul orare debere et magistrum communicare in oratione discipulis, illo vel maxime elatus, quod sequetur: ‚In omnibus bonis‘“.

7 Tert. (V, 4): „‚Erratis: deus non deridetur; quod enim severit homo, hoc et metet.‘“ Adam. (Dial. II, 5): ἃ γὰρ ἂν σπείρῃ ἄνθρωπος, ταῦτα καὶ θερίσει (aber Rufin: „quodcunque seminaverit homo, hoc et metet“). Das Fehlen von μή vor πλανᾶσθε ist sonst unbezeugt; der Plural ἃ—ταῦτα mit DG d g vulg. Hieron. > ὃ — τοῦτο. Die LAA Tert.s können der lat. Übersetzung angehören.

καὶ θερίσει. 8 z. T. erhalten, s. u. 9 Τὸ δὲ καλὸν ποιοῦντες μὴ ἐνκακῶμεν, καιρῷ δὲ ἰδίῳ θερίσομεν. 10 ὡς ἔχομεν καιρόν, ἐργαζώμεθα τὸ ἀγαθόν. 13a Οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ περιτεμνόμενοι αὐτοὶ νόμον φυλάσσουσιν. 14b Ἐμοὶ κόσμος ἐσταύρωται κἀγὼ κόσμῳ. 17 Τῶν δ' ἄλλων εἰκῇ κόπους μοι μηδεὶς παρεχέσθω· ἐγὼ γὰρ τὰ στίγματα τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐν τῷ σώματί μου βαστάζω.

In diesem Briefe waren also von M. getilgt: die Abschnitte 1, 18—24 und 2, 6—9a wahrscheinlich, die Abschnitte 3, 6—9 und Teile von 10—12. 14 a. 15—25; 4, 27—30 sicher. Einzigartig ist die große, mit Zusätzen versehene Umgestaltung von 4, 21—26.

Προς Κορινθιους Α.

Aus c. I ist bezeugt 1—3 χάρις καὶ εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς ἡμῶν καὶ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ (ferner vielleicht 11—13. Vers 11 ἤκουσταί

---

8 Tert. (V, 4): „Si retributionem praedicat, ab eodem erit et corruptionis messis et vitae."

9 Tert. (V, 4): „‚Bonum autem facientes non fatigemur, tempore autem suo metemus.'" — autem ohne Zeugen > γάρ.

10 Tert. (V, 4): „‚Dum habemus tempus, operemur bonum'" > καιρὸν ἔχομεν κτλ.

13 a So Epiph. p. 121. 159.

14 b Tert. (V, 4): „‚Mihi mundus crucifixus est et ego mundo.'"

17 So Dial. V, 22 (aber Ἰησοῦ für Χριστοῦ. Rufin nach dem gewöhnlichen Text: „De cetero nemo mihi molestus sit; ego enim stigmata domini nostri Iesu Christi in corpore meo porto"). Tert. (V, 4): „Persecutores vocat Christi; cum vero adicit stigmata Christi in corpore suo gestare se" etc. Tert. hat wie der Dialog. τῶν δ' ἄλλων gelesen und diese ἄλλοι als die Feinde Christi verstanden. („Von den anderen, nämlich den Verfolgern Christi, mache mir niemand Mühe"). Zahn und Kroymann haben das nicht durchschaut; dieser tilgt „Persecutores vocat Christi", jener glaubt, Tert. müsse ein nicht mehr zu ermittelnder Text in v. 17 vorgelegen haben. — Τῶν δ' ἄλλων ohne andere Zeugen > τοῦ λοιποῦ: jene Lesart kann nur aus einer lat. Übersetzung von τοῦ λοιποῦ = „de ceteris" entstanden sein; also las Adamantius einen griechischen Marcion-text, der durch die lateinische Übersetzung bereits beeinflußt war; s. oben S. 54*. — εἰκῇ ohne andere Zeugen; der Sinn dieses von Paulus gern gebrauchten vieldeutigen Wortes ist hier nicht klar. — παρεχέσθω ohne andere Zeugen > παρεχέτω. — Χριστοῦ mit P cop arm aeth Theodotus bei Clemens, Ignat. (recens. long.), Gregor Nyss. > Ἰησοῦ bezw. τοῦ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ etc.

I, 3 So Tert. (V, 5) und Ἰησοῦ mit A > Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ.

μοι [ἐδηλώθη γάρ μοι περὶ ὑμῶν?] ὑπὸ τῶν Χλόης ὅτι ἔριδες εἰσὶν ἐν ὑμῖν, 12 ὃς μὲν γὰρ λέγει· ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου, ἐγὼ δὲ Ἀπολλώ, ἐγὼ δὲ Κηφᾶ. 13 μεμέρισται ὁ Χριστός;) 18 ὁ λόγος γὰρ ὁ τοῦ σταυροῦ (oder ὁ σταυρὸς τοῦ Χριστοῦ) τοῖς μὲν ἀπολλυμένοις μωρία ἐστίν, τοῖς δὲ σωζομένοις δύναμις καὶ σοφία θεοῦ ἐστίν, 19 γέγραπται γάρ ,Ἀπολῶ τὴν σοφίαν τῶν σοφῶν, καὶ τὴν σύνεσιν τῶν συνετῶν ἀθετήσω'· 20 b οὐχὶ ἐμώρανεν ὁ θεὸς τὴν σοφίαν τοῦ κόσμου; 21 ἐπειδὴ ἐν τῇ σοφίᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ οὐκ ἔγνω ὁ κόσμος διὰ τῆς σοφίας τὸν κύριον, εὐδόκησεν ὁ θεὸς διὰ τῆς μωρίας τοῦ κηρύγματος σῶσαι τοὺς πιστεύοντας· 22 ἐπειδὴ Ἰουδαῖοι σημεῖα αἰτοῦσιν καὶ Ἕλληνες σοφίαν ζητοῦσιν. 23 Stücke: κηρύσ-

11—13 Dial. I, 8 (Adam. hält sie dem Megethius entgegen, der sie anerkennt; aber sicher dürfen sie nicht für M. in Anspruch genommen werden). — ἤκουσταί μοι singulär > ἐδηλώθη γάρ μοι περὶ ὑμῶν (Rufin „Perlatum est enim mihi de vobis", wie der gewöhnliche Text) — εἰσὶν ἐν ὑμῖν (so auch Rufin) mit vulg. syr. utr. cop. Augustin > ἐν ὑμῖν εἰσιν — ὃς μὲν γὰρ ὑμῶν λέγει (Rufin: et alius dicit) > λέγω δὲ τοῦτο, ὅτι ἕκαστος ὑμῶν λέγει — es fehlen die Worte ἐγὼ δὲ Χριστοῦ (so auch Rufin) wie I Clem. 47. Adam. bietet noch die Fortsetzung: μὴ Παῦλος ἐσταυρώθη ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἢ εἰς τὸ ὄνομα Παύλου ἐβαπτίσθητε; aber da sie Rufin nicht hat und sie hier überflüssig sind, sind sie wohl Zusatz. Die ganze Stelle wird auch von Ephraem (Opp. syr. II p. 493) dem M. vorgerückt; aber auch dies bietet keine Sicherheit.

18 f Tert. (V, 5): „Ait crucem Christi stultitiam esse perituris, virtutem autem et sapientiam dei salutem consecuturis, et ut ostenderet, unde hoc eveniret, adicit: ‚Scriptum est enim: Perdam sapientiam sapientium et prudentiam prudentium irritam faciam'" „Virtutem et sapientiam" wird gleich darauf noch einmal wiederholt; also las Tert. hier δύναμις καὶ σοφία (s. v. 24) > δύναμις (alle Zeugen sonst). — σωζομένοις mit G d g und vielen Lateinern > σωζομένοις ἡμῖν — 19 auch bei Epiph., p. 121. 159 wörtlich so.

20 b Tert. (V, 5): „‚Nonne infatuavit deus sapientiam mundi?'"

21 Tert. (V, 5): „‚Quoniam in dei sapientia non intellexit mundus per sapientiam dominum (falsch K r o y m ə n n „deum"), boni duxit deus per stultitiam praedicationis salvos facere credentes'". Das γάρ nach ἐπειδή (quoniam) wird M. mit G nicht gelesen haben. — κύριον allein > θεόν (so auch Tert. selbst adv. Marc. II, 2).

22 Tert. (V, 5): „‚Quoniam Iudaei signa desiderant et Graeci sapientiam quaerunt'". — Ἰουδαῖοι mit G g und vielen Lateinern > καὶ Ἰουδαῖοι.

23 Tert. (V, 5): „‚Stulta crucis praedicatio'", „scandalum Iudaeis praedicat (apostolus) Christum.'" σομεν Χριστόν, σταυρός, μωρία, σκάνδαλον Ἰουδαίοις und gewiß 24 25 (ὅτι) τὸ μωρὸν τοῦ θεοῦ σοφώτερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων (ἐστίν) (καὶ) τὸ ἀσθενὲς τοῦ θεοῦ ἰσχυρότερον τῶν ἀνθρώπων. 27 (ἀλλὰ) τὰ μωρὰ τοῦ κόσμου ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεός, ἵνα καταισχύνῃ τὰ σοφά, καὶ τὰ ἀσθενῆ τοῦ κόσμου ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεός, ἵνα καταισχύνῃ τὰ ἰσχυρά, 28 καὶ τὰ ἀγενῆ καὶ τὰ ἐλάχιστα καὶ τὰ ἐξουθενημένα (ἐξελέξατο ὁ θεός), τὰ μὴ ὄντα, ἵνα τὰ ὄντα καταργήσῃ, 29 ὅπως μὴ καυχήσηται πᾶσα σάρξ, 31 ἵνα καθὼς γέγραπται· Ὁ καυχώμενος ἐν κυρίῳ (θεῷ?) καυχάσθω.

Aus c. II ist bezeugt 6 a σοφίαν λαλοῦμεν ἐν τοῖς τελείοις und 6b τῶν ἀρχόντων τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου τῶν καταργουμένων. 7 (λαλοῦμεν) θεοῦ σοφίαν ἐν μυστηρίῳ τὴν ἀποκεκρυμμένην, ἣν προώρισεν ὁ θεὸς πρὸ τῶν

---

24 Wohl nur irrtümlich klammert Z a h n v. 24 als von M. gestrichen ein; er ist zwar unbezeugt, kann aber als Ergänzung zu v. 23 nicht gefehlt haben. Dial. IV, 15 wird 24 b zitiert, aber es ist ungewiß, ob aus M.s Bibel.

25 Tert. (V, 5): „‚Stultum dei sapientius hominibus, infirmum dei fortius hominibus.‘“ Adv. Marc. II, 2 zitiert Tert. selbst: „‚et invalidum dei validius hominibus.‘“

27 f. Tert. (V, 5): „‚Stulta mundi elegit deus, ut confundat sapientia (Mss. ‚sapientiam‘ und ebenso an der 2. Stelle, wo die Worte zitiert werden), infirma mundi elegit deus, ut confundat fortia, inhonesta et minima et contemptibilia, quae non sunt, ut confundat quae sunt.‘“ Vgl. im folgenden „‚modicum et ignobile et contemptibile‘“ „stultitiae et infirmitati et inhonestati et pusillitati et contemptui“ und de carne 4: „Sed circumspice, Marcion, si tamen non delesti: ‚Stulta mundi elegit deus, ut confundat sapientia‘“. 28 τὰ ἀγενῆ καὶ τὰ ἐλάχιστα καὶ τὰ ἐξουθενημένα allein > τὰ ἀγενῆ τοῦ κόσμου καὶ τὰ ἐξουθενημένα. Die Einschiebung τὰ ἐλάχιστα erklärt sich gut aus I Kor. 15, 9, wo sich Paulus τὸν ἐλάχιστον ἀπόστολον nennt. Die Ausstoßung τοῦ κόσμου in v. 28 kommt vielleicht auf Rechnung Tert.s, ebenso das fehlende καὶ τὰ vor μή.

29. 31 Tert. (V, 5): „‚Ne glorietur omnis caro, ut, quemadmodum scriptum est: Qui gloriatur, in deo glorietur‘“. Epiph. p. 121. 159 wörtlich wie oben v. 31. — Dial. I, 22 finden sich 29—31 (ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ mit C* vulg., Orig. und wenigen anderen Zeugen > ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ. Rufin bietet nobis sapientia mit L Orig. und vielen Vätern > σοφία ἡμῖν); aber es ist nicht gewiß, daß die Worte aus M.s Bibel stammen.

II, 6 a Tert. (V, 6): „‚Dei sapientiam loquatur inter perfectos.‘“ 6 b Wörtlich Epiphan. p. 121. 160.

7 f. Tert. (V, 6): „Hanc dicit sapientiam in occulto fuisse, quae latuerit etiam sub figuris, allegoriis et aenigmatibus“ ... „sacramenta dei eius, qui nihil agit, latere“ ... „sapientia dei proposita in proposito dei ante saecula“ ... „ante saecula proposuit gloriam nostram.“ (Hat M. εἰς αἰώνων εἰς δόξαν ἡμῶν, 8 ἣν οὐδεὶς τῶν ἀρχόντων τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου ἔγνωκεν· εἰ γὰρ ἔγνωσαν, οὐκ ἂν τὸν κύριον τῆς δόξης ἐσταύρωσαν. 16 τίς γὰρ ἔγνω νοῦν κυρίου καὶ τίς αὐτοῦ σύμβουλος ἐγένετο; (oder: für die letzten 5 Worte: ὃς συμβιβάσει αὐτόν).

Aus c. III ist nicht sicher bezeugt 2 ff: v. 2 γάλα γὰρ ὑμᾶς ἐπότισα, οὐ βρῶμα, οὔπω γὰρ ἠδύνασθε ἀλλ' οὐδὲ ἔτι νῦν δύνασθε, 3 ἔτι γὰρ σαρκικοί ἐστε· ὅπου γὰρ ἐν ὑμῖν ἔρεις καὶ διχοστασίαι, οὐχὶ σαρκικοί ἐστε; 4 ὅταν γὰρ λέγῃ τις· ἐγὼ μέν εἰμι Παύλου, ἕτερος δέ· ἐγὼ Ἀπολλώ, οὐχὶ ἄνθρωποί ἐστε; dagegen stand v. 6 höchst wahrscheinlich bei M., s. u.

10 ὡς σοφὸς ἀρχιτέκτων θεμέλιον ἔθηκα. 11 θεμέλιον ἄλλον οὐδεὶς . . . ὅς ἐστιν Χριστός. 12—15 waren Anspielungen, s. u.

---

getilgt?) . . . „sed quia subicit de gloria nostra, quod eam nemo ex principibus huius aevi scierit, ceterum si scissent, nunquam dominum gloriae crucifixissent“. (Schrieb M. οὐδέποτε für οὐκ?).

16 Tert. (V, 6): „Quid illi cum sententiis prophetarum ubique? ‚Quis enim cognovit sensum domini, et quis illi consiliarius fuit.‘ Esaiae est. quid illi etiam cum exemplis dei nostri?“ Aber Paulus schreibt: ὃς συμβιβάσει αὐτόν (Jes. 40, 13: καὶ τίς αὐτοῦ σύμβουλος ἐγένετο, ὃς συμβιβᾷ αὐτόν). Entweder hat M. den Jesaiastext hier eingesetzt statt der paulinischen Fassung oder Tertullian. — Νοῦς κυρίου im falschen Laod.-Brief v. 14.

III, 2—4 so Dial. V. 22, nicht sicher für M. (I, 9: γάλα ὑμᾶς ἐπότισα, οὐ βρῶμα, οὔπω γὰρ ἠδύνασθε, ἀλλ' οὐδ' ἔτι νῦν δύνασθε, ἔτι γὰρ σαρκικοί ἐστε, Rufin οὔτε f. οὔπω mit L Orig.)—2 γάρ ([prim.] fehlt bei Ruf.) singulär — ἠδύνασθε, mit DL Iren., Orig. > ἐδύνασθε — im Dial. V, 22 durch Homöotel. ausgefallen ἀλλ' οὐδὲ κτλ. — 3 Ruf.: contentiones et dissensiones (Gr. ἔρις καὶ διχοστασία fehlerhaft): das Fehlen von ζῆλος ist singulär; καὶ διχοστασίαι mit DGLdg Iren. (gr. et lat.) Novatian (dissensiones) — καὶ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον περιπατεῖτε fehlt. 4 Rufin bietet diesen Vers nicht, aber er ist durch Homöotel. ausgefallen; denn er wird im folgenden vorausgesetzt — οὐχὶ mit DGLP > οὐκ — ἄνθρωποι mit der großen Mehrzahl der Zeugen, auch den lat. Codd.; freilich steht in der Handschrift σαρκικοί, aber in der Erklärung ist ἄνθρωποι vorausgesetzt.

6 Der armenisch erhaltene antimarcionitische Syrer zitiert diesen Vers als in M.s Apostolos stehend, aber in bezug auf den Wortlaut des Textes („Ich habe gepflanzt, Apollo begoß, aber Gott ließ wachsen“) hat man keine Sicherheit, wenn auch eine Korrektur M.s hier unwahrscheinlich ist. Sicher hat M. das ἐφύτευσα geboten wie Röm. 6, 5 das σύμφυτοι.

10 Tert. (V, 6): „Architectum se prudentem adfirmat.“

11 Tert. (V, 6): „Positurus unicum fundamentum, quod est Christus“ — Χριστός mit C* und einigen Vätern > Ἰ. Χρ.

12—15 Tert. (V, 6): „Super quod (scil. fundamentum = Christum)

16 Οὐκ οἴδατε, ὅτι ναὸς θεοῦ ἐστὲ καὶ ἐν ὑμῖν οἰκεῖ τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ θεοῦ, 17 ὅτι εἰ τὸν ναὸν τοῦ θεοῦ τις φθερεῖ, φθαρήσεται·

18 Anspielung, s. u.

19 ἡ γὰρ σοφία τοῦ κόσμου τούτου μωρία ἐστὶν παρὰ τῷ θεῷ. γέγραπται γάρ. Ὁ δρασσόμενος τοὺς σοφοὺς ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτῶν. 20 καὶ πάλιν· Κύριος γινώσκει τοὺς διαλογισμοὺς τῶν ἀνθρώπων (σοφῶν?), ὅτι εἰσὶν μάταιοι.

21 ὥστε μηδεὶς καυχάσθω ἐν ἀνθρώπῳ· πάντα γὰρ ὑμῶν ἐστιν, 22 εἴτε Παῦλος, εἴτε Ἀπολλώς, εἴτε Κηφᾶς, εἴτε κόσμος, εἴτε ζωὴ εἴτε θάνατος, εἴτε ἐνεστῶτα εἴτε μέλλοντα, πάντα ὑμῶν· 23 ὑμεῖς δὲ Χριστοῦ, Χριστὸς δὲ θεοῦ.

Aus c. IV ist bezeugt 5 καὶ τὰ κρυπτὰ τοῦ σκότους φωτίσει . . .

---

prout quisque superstruxerit, dignam scilicet vel indignam doctrinam, si opus eius per ignem probabitur, si merces illi per ignem rependetur, creatoris est, quia per ignem iudicatur nostra superaedificatio."

16 Tert. (V, 6): „‚Nescitis quod templum dei sitis et in vobis inhabitet spiritus dei?'" — ἐν ὑμῖν οἰκεῖ mit BP > οἰκεῖ ἐν ὑμῖν (die Nachstellung von τ. πν. τ. θεοῦ nur bei M.).

17 Tert. (V, 6): „‚Quod si templum dei quis vitiaverit, vitiabitur'". — ὅτι εἰ τὸν ναὸν τοῦ θεοῦ τις Marcion allein > εἴ τις τ. ναὸν τ. θ. — φθαρήσεται Marcion allein > φθερεῖ τοῦτον ὁ θεός.

18 Tert. (V, 6): „Stulti estote, ut sitis sapientes" (im Grundtext der Sing.).

19. 20 Tert. V, 6: „‚Sapientia enim huius mundi stultitia est penes deum; scriptum est enim: Deprehendens sapientes in nequitia illorum, et rursus: Dominus scit cogitationes sapientium, quod sint supervacuae'" (Die Stellung von „est" ist sonst unbezeugt > penes deum est). Epiphan. p. 121. 161 bringt v. 19 b und 20 wie oben, aber ἀνθρώπων (LXX) mit einigen Zeugen > σοφῶν.

21—23 Dial. II, 19 wie oben, doch heißt es 21 ἐν ἀνθρώποις und εἴτε Ἀπολλώς ist ausgefallen (schon im Exemplar des Adamant., da es auch bei der Wiederholung fehlt); aber daß M. ihn absichtlich getilgt, ist nicht anzunehmen (gegen Zahn), und Tert. V, 7 heißt es: „‚Omnia vestra sunt, sive Paulus, sive Apollo, sive Cephas, sive mundus, sive vita sive mors, sive praesentia sive futura'"; vorher schon: „‚ergo nemo glorietur in homine'" (ἐν ἀνθρώπῳ mit Gg Augustin, Ambrosiaster > ἐν ἀνθρώποις).

IV, 5 Tert. (V, 7): „‚Et occulta tenebrarum ipse inluminabit', utique per Christum"; wahrscheinlich hat M. nur καὶ (nicht ὃς καὶ) gelesen mit D*Gdg Augustin. Tert. (V, 7): „ab illo erit et laus unicuique, a quo et contrarium laudis, ut a iudice." ὁ ἔπαινος γενήσεται ἑκάστῳ ἀπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ. 9 b θέατρον ἐγενήθημεν τῷ κόσμῳ καὶ ἀγγέλοις καὶ ἀνθρώποις. 15 b Anspielungen; aber ἐν εὐαγγελίῳ ἐγὼ ὑμᾶς ἐγέννησα.

Aus c. V. ist bezeugt 1 Anspielung, 3 ἐγὼ μὲν γὰρ ὡς ἀπὼν τῷ σώματι, παρὼν δὲ τῷ πνεύματι, ἤδη κέκρικα ὡς παρὼν τὸν οὕτω τοῦτο κατεργασάμενον, 4 ἐν τῷ ὀνόματι τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, συναχθέντων ὑμῶν καὶ τοῦ ἐμοῦ πνεύματος σὺν τῇ δυνάμει τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ, 5 παραδοῦναι τὸν τοιοῦτον τῷ Σατανᾷ εἰς ὄλεθρον τῆς σαρκός, ἵνα τὸ πνεῦμα σωθῇ ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τοῦ κυρίου. 7 Ἐκκαθάρατε τὴν παλαιὰν ζύμην, ἵνα ἦτε νέον φύραμα, καθώς ἐστε ἄζυμοι· καὶ γὰρ τὸ πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη Χριστός. 11 (mit Sündern μηδὲ συνεσθίειν). 13 Anspielung auf ἐξάρατε τὸν πονηρὸν ἐξ ὑμῶν.

Aus c. VI ist bezeugt 3 ἀγγέλους κρινοῦμεν, 11 ἀλλὰ ταῦτα τινὲς ἦτε, ἀλλ' ἀπελούσασθε, ἀλλ' ἡγιάσθητε. 13 σῶμα οὐ τῇ πορνείᾳ, ἀλλὰ τῷ

---

9 b Tert. (V, 7): „‚Spectaculum facti sumus mundo et angelis et hominibus.‘“

15 Tert. (V, 7): „Ad filios scribens, quos in evangelio generaverat“, (V, 8): „‚In evangelio‘, inquit, ‚ego vos generavi‘“, Ἐν τῷ εὐαγγ. (> διὰ τοῦ εὐαγγ.), sonst unbezeugt. Hat M. ἐν Χρ. Ἰ. ausgelassen?

V, 1 Tert. (V, 7): „Illum, qui ‚mulierem patris sui habuit‘.“

3—5 wörtlich bis v. 5 ὄλεθρον nach Dial. II, 5 (v. 5 ohne τῆς σαρκός; Rufin v. 3 bietet nicht γάρ, v. 4 b Iesu Christi, v. 5 interitum carnis), vgl. Dial. II, 8 (παρέδωκα) τὸν τοιοῦτον εἰς ὄλ. τ. σαρκός, ἵνα τὸ πνεῦμα σωθῇ, II, 21 (παρέδωκα) τ. τοιοῦτον τῷ Σατανᾷ εἰς ὄλεθρον. Tert. (V, 7): „Eum damnat dedendum Satanae“, „Viderit et quomodo dixerit ‚In interitum carnis, ut spiritus salvus sit in die domini‘.“ 3 ὡς primum mit DGLdg und einigen Lateinern und Griechen — 4 ἡμῶν mit BDGLPdgvulg — Χριστοῦ mit D^cGLPgvulg. und der Mehrzahl > fehlt — Ἰησοῦ ohne Χριστοῦ mit ℵABD*dvulg. > D^cGLg — 5 τοῦ κυρίου ohne Ἰησοῦ mit BOrig. und zahlreichen Vätern.

7 Tert. (V, 7): „‚Expurgate vetus fermentum, ut sitis nova consparsio, sicut estis azymi . . . et pascha nostrum immolatus est Christus‘.“ Epiph. p. 121. 161: Καὶ γὰρ τὸ πάσχα ἡμῶν ἐτύθη Χριστός. Dial. II, 18 ebenso (aber nur Rufin bietet „et enim“).

11 Tert. (IV, 9) setzt voraus, daß dies auch bei M. steht.

13 Tert. (V, 7): „‚Auferri‘ iubens ‚malum de medio‘.“

VI, 11 Dial. V, 22 wörtlich, ἀλλὰ singulär > καὶ (so auch Rufin). Sicher ist es übrigens nicht, daß Adam. hier aus M.s Bibel geschöpft hat. — Adv. Marc. II, 9 setzt Tert. voraus, daß v. 3 auch in M.s Bibel steht.

13 ff. Tert. (V, 7): „Avertens autem nos a fornicatione manifestat carnis resurrectionem (Tert. geht also von 5, 1—7 sofort zu 6, 13 über); ‚cor- κυρίῳ, καὶ ὁ κύριος τῷ σώματι, ὡς ὁ ναὸς τῷ θεῷ καὶ ὁ θεὸς τῷ ναῷ. 14 Anspielung: . . . ὃς τὸν κύριον ἤγειρε, καὶ ὑμᾶς ἐξεγερεῖ. 15 οὐκ οἴδατε ὅτι τὰ σώματα ὑμῶν μέλη Χριστοῦ ἐστιν; ἄρας οὖν τὰ μέλη τοῦ Χριστοῦ ποιήσω πόρνης μέλη; μή γένοιτο. 16 οὐκ οἴδατε γὰρ ὅτι κολλώμενος τῇ πόρνῃ ἓν σῶμά ἐστιν; ἔσονται γάρ, φησίν, οἱ δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν. 20 ἠγοράσθητε γὰρ τιμῆς· δοξάσατε (+ im Lateinischen „tollite" = ἄρατε entstellt aus ἄραγε) τὸν θεὸν ἐν τῷ (θνητῷ?) σώματι ὑμῶν.

Aus c. VII nur kurze Anspielungen (v. 1. 2. 3. 7. 10. 11. 29: ὅτι ὁ καιρὸς συνεσταλμένος ἐστίν. 39: μόνον ἐν κυρίῳ; Marcion hat dies Kapitel vielleicht verkürzt).

---

pus', inquit, ‚non fornicationi, sed domino, et dominus corpori, ut templum deo et deus templo'. templum ergo dei peribit [et deus templo add. Mss.]? atquin vides: ‚qui dominum [quem dominus Mss.] suscitavit et nos suscitabit', in corpore quoque suscitabit, quia ‚corpus domino et dominus corpori'; et bene quod aggerat: ‚Nescitis corpora vestra membra esse Christi' " (auf v. 15 b wird auch adv. Marc. IV, 34 angespielt). Der Zusatz „ut templum" etc. muß hier gestanden haben, da ihn Tert. als Text kommentiert. — 15 Dial. II, 22 wörtlich. — 16 Dial. II, 23 und Epiph. p. 121. 161 wörtlich (ἢ fehlt am Anfang bei beiden Zeugen mit DKL und griech. Vätern; Rufin in der Übersetzung bietet es; γάρ nur Dial., Rufin bietet es nicht).

20 Tert. (V, 7): „„Empti enim sumus magno'"; ein Stichwort M.s; s. Orig., Hom. 7, 1 in Num. u. Esnik (Schmid S. 178: „Jesus sandte Paulus zu predigen, daß wir um den Preis erkauft seien, und jeder, welcher glaubt an Jesus, wurde verkauft von dem Gerechten dem Guten"); gleich darauf: „Iam nunc quomodo honorabimus, quomodo tollemus deum in corpore perituro?" Die hieraus folgende LA „tollite" („portate" neben „honorate" [„glorificate"]) ist lateinisch; so g vulg Tert., de resurr. 10. 16, Cypr., Lucifer, Ambrosiaster etc.; doch hat sie durch Übertragung aus dem Abendland auch Chrysost.; sie ist aus ἄραγε entstanden. Die griech. Überlieferung bietet δοξάσατε δή (οὖν); aber Methodius ἄραγε δοξάσατε (Bonwetsch S. 325). Hat M. wirklich hier θνητῷ neben σώματι geboten (s. Röm. 6, 12) oder hat Tert. in seinem Referat beide Stellen vermischt? θνητῷ ist sonst hier ganz unbezeugt.

VII, 1 ff. Tert. (V, 7): „Sequitur de nuptiis congredi . . . apostolus, etsi bonum continentiae praefert tamen coniugium et contrahi permittit ⟨ et ⟩ usui esse, et magis retineri quam disiungi suadet . . . atquin et apostolus, cum praecipit mulierem a viro non discedere aut, si discesserit, manere innuptam aut reconciliari viro, et repudium permisit, quod non in totum prohibuit, et matrimonium confirmavit, quod primo vetuit disiungi et, si forte disiunctum, voluit reformari. sed et continentiae quas ait causas? ‚quia tempus in collecto est' . . . praescribens ‚tantum in domino' esse nubendum, ne quis fidelis eth-

Aus c. VIII nur kurze Anspielungen 1 περὶ τῶν εἰδωλοθύτων. 4 οἴδαμεν ὅτι εἴδωλον οὐδέν ἐστιν. 5 καὶ γὰρ εἴπερ εἰσὶν (οἱ?) λεγόμενοι θεοὶ εἴτε ἐν οὐρανοῖς, εἴτε ἐπὶ γῆς, 6 ἀλλ' ἡμῖν εἷς θεὸς ὁ πατήρ, ἐξ οὗ τὰ πάντα. 13 οὐ μὴ φάγω κρέα εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, ἵνα μὴ τὸν ἀδελφόν μου σκανδαλίσω (ᾧ ὁ ἀδελφός μου σκανδαλισθῇ?).

C. IX Anspielung auf 7 a b: τίς στρατεύεται... τίς φυτεύει ἄμπελον; 7 c—10 τίς ποιμαίνει ποίμνην καὶ ἐκ τοῦ γάλακτος αὐτῆς οὐκ ἐσθίει; 8 μὴ κατ' ἄνθρωπον ταῦτα λαλῶ, ἢ οὐχὶ καὶ ὁ νόμος Μωσέως ταῦτα λέγει; 9 ἐν γὰρ τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται· Οὐ φιμώσεις βοῦν ἀλοῶντα. μὴ τῶν βοῶν μέλει τῷ θεῷ; (τῷ κυρίῳ?). 10 ἢ δι' ἡμᾶς πάντως nicum matrimonium contrahat." — v. 29 „quia" (ὅτι) mit DG ital. vulg. Adv. Marc. I, 29 ist v. 29 zitiert. Hätte M. dieses Kapitel in vollem Umfang geboten, so hätte ihm Tert. vieles vorrücken können. Allein andererseits war auch dem Tert. dieses Kapitel nicht geheuer. Orig. bemerkt (Catene z. d. St.), daß sich die Marcioniten auf v. 7 berufen (s. Cramer).

---

VIII, 1 ff Tert. (V, 7): „ ‚Sed et si sunt qui dicuntur dei, sive in caelis sive in terris' ... de idolis enim coepit, de idolothytis disputaturus: ‚Scimus quod idolum nihil sit' ... ‚Nobis tamen unus' esset ‚deus pater, ex quo omnia' ". 1 Zahn meint, v. 1—3 hätten gänzlich gefehlt; aber v. 1 ist berührt. — 4 ἐστιν mit Gg. Iren. Ambrosiaster etc. — 5 οὐρανοῖς allein > οὐρανῷ. Die berechtigte Frage Zahns, ob nicht v. 6 b verändert war, erledigt sich, wenn man mit Kroymann liest: „ ‚deus pater, ex quo omnia': ⟨ex quo omnia⟩ nobis, nisi cuius omnia?" Es ergibt sich dann, daß Tert. einen eigenen Gedanken vorbringt. Auch adv. Marc. III, 15 ist v. 5 zitiert (οὐρανῷ). Esnik (Schmid S. 197): „Sie sagen, daß der Apostel sagt: ‚Ich werde nicht Fleisch essen in Ewigkeit, wodurch mein Bruder geärgert würde'." Ein anderer Text als der obige ist nicht anzunehmen.

IX, 4—14 Tert. (V, 7): „Ex labore suo unumquemque docens vivere oportere satis, exempla praemiserat militum pastorum rusticorum; sed divina illa (illis?) auctoritas deerat; legem igitur opponit creatoris ingratis, quam destruebat — sui enim dei nullam talem habebat — ‚bovi', inquit, ‚terenti os non obligabis', et adiecit: ‚num quid de bobus pertinet ad dominum'? etiam [de] bobus propter homines benignum? ‚Propter nos enim scriptum est', inquit. ergo et legem allegoricam secundum nos probavit et ‚de evangelio viventibus' patrocinantem." ... sed noluit uti legis potestate, quia maluit gratis laborare. hoc ad gloriam suam retulit, quam negavit quemquam evacuaturum, non ad legis destructionem, qua alium probavit usurum" (vgl. III, 5).

7 c—10 Dial. I, 22 wörtlich (αὐτῆς fehlt v. 7; aber bei Rufin mit D und einigen > Vätern τῆς ποίμνης). 8 οὐχί mit KLP etc. > οὐ; so auch bei Epiph. p. 121. 162; er wirft dem M. vor, er habe Μωσέως v. 8 eingeschoben; hier wird es bei M. wirklich gestanden und in v. 9 gefehlt haben λέγει; δι' ἡμᾶς γὰρ ἐγράφη ὅτι ὀφείλει ἐπ' ἐλπίδι ὁ ἀροτριῶν ἀροτριᾶν. 14 ἐκ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ζῆν. 15 a ἐγὼ . . . ἐχρησάμην. 15 b τὸ καύχημά μου οὐδεὶς κενώσει oder der überlieferte Text.

X, 1 Οὐ θέλω γὰρ ὑμᾶς ἀγνοεῖν, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν πάντες ὑπὸ τὴν νεφέλην ἦσαν, καὶ πάντες διὰ τῆς θαλάσσης διῆλθον, 2 καὶ πάντες εἰς τὸν Μωσῆν ἐβαπτίσθησαν ἐν τῇ νεφέλῃ καὶ ἐν τῇ θαλάσσῃ, 3 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ βρῶμα πνευματικὸν ἔφαγον, 4 καὶ πάντες τὸ αὐτὸ πόμα πνευματικὸν ἔπιον· ἔπινον γὰρ ἐκ πνευματικῆς ἀκολουθούσης πέτρας· ἡ δὲ πέτρα ἦν ὁ Χριστός. 5 ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐν τοῖς πλείοσιν αὐτῶν εὐδόκησεν . . . 6 ταῦτα δὲ τύποι ἡμῖν ἐγενήθησαν, πρὸς τὸ μὴ εἶναι ἡμᾶς ἐπιθυμητὰς κακῶν, καθὼς ἐκεῖνοι ἐπεθύμησαν. 7 μηδὲ εἰδωλολάτραι γίνεσθε, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν, ὡς γέγραπται· ἐκάθισεν ὁ λαὸς φαγεῖν καὶ πιεῖν καὶ ἀνέστησαν παίζειν . . . 9 μηδὲ ἐκπειράζωμεν τὸν Χριστόν . . . . 11 ταῦτ' ἀτύπως

(im Dial. steht es wie im kathol. Text). Epiph. p. 122. 163 bringt auch μὴ τῶν βόων μέλει τῷ θεῷ. Tert.s „dominum" in v. 9 ist vielleicht richtig. 14 Dial. I, 6 (nur bei Rufin und daher im Dial. vielleicht Zusatz: „Ita et dominus disposuit his qui evangelium annuntiant, ut de evangelio vivant"; doch s. oben bei Tert.).

X, 1—9.11 Epiph. p. 122. 163 f. (Nach v. 9 bemerkt er selbst, daß er das Zwischenliegende übergehe, nach v. 11 schreibt er καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς). 1—4 Dial. II, 18 (aber ohne die ersten 6 Worte; in II, 20 πέτρα ὁ Χριστὸς ἦν). 1.4 Tert. (V, 7): „In petram offendit caecus Marcion, de qua bibebant in solitudine patres nostri, si enim petra illa Christus fuit . . ." Tert. (V, 7): „(Paulus) et reliquum exitum populi decursurus praemittit: ‚Haec autem exempla nobis sunt facta'." . . . „de illo me terret sibi" . . . „iam si deliquere eadem, quae et populus" (zu den Versen 4—9). V, 11 Tert. (V, 7): „Denique et in clausula praefationi respondet: ‚Haec autem quemadmodum evenerunt illis scripta sunt ad nos commonendos, in quos fines aevorum decucurrerunt'." Tert. schon V, 5: „‚Petra autem fuit Christus'."

1 πάντες prim. fehlt bei Epiph. — 2 fehlt bei Epiph. — 3 πνευμ. ἔφαγον βρῶμα Epiph. (mit A); die Stellung der Worte im Dial. mit ℵcDG ital. vulg. Iren. (> πνευμ. βρῶμα ἔφαγον) — 4 πνευμ. ἔπιον πόμα Epiph. (mit der Mehrzahl); die Stellung im Dial. mit DGKL ital. vulg. — ἡ δὲ πέτρα mit ACDbKL > ἡ πέτρα δέ. — 5 Das von Epiph. nicht gebotene ὁ θεός kann M. getilgt haben, was wohl verständlich wäre. — 6 ἡμῖν mit Tert. singulär, Epiph. ἡμῶν — 6 πρὸς singulär > εἰς — 7 ὡς mit CDKP > ὥσπερ — 9 Χριστὸν: Epiph.: ὁ δὲ Μαρκίων ἀντὶ τοῦ ‚κύριον', ‚Χριστὸν' ἐποίησεν mit (Χριστόν DGKL ital., Iren., Ambrosiaster und vielen Lateinern) — 11 Dial. II, 18 ταῦτ' ἀτύπως συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις (so richtig van de Sande; Rufin „sine typo"). Diesen Text setzt Markus dem katholischen, den Adam. zitiert hatte und der μὲν τύπος für ἀτύπως enthielt, entgegen; Epiph. bietet τυπικῶς, Tert. „quemadmodum" (καθώς, (Alternative Lesart: καθώς, und δὲ fehlt) συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις, ἐγράφη δὲ πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν, εἰς οὓς τὰ τέλη τῶν αἰώνων κατήντησεν.

16 τὸ [δὲ] ποτήριον τῆς εὐλογίας . . . , τὸν [τε] ἄρτον ὃν κλῶμεν . . . . τοῦ αἵματος καὶ τοῦ σώματος τοῦ κυρίου εἶναι κοινωνίαν. 19 τί οὖν φημί; ὅτι ἱερόθυτόν τί ἐστιν ἢ εἰδωλόθυτόν τί ἐστιν; 20 ἀλλ' ὅτι ἃ θύουσιν, δαιμονίοις καὶ οὐ θεῷ. 25 Anspielung.

Aus c. XI bezeugt sind 3 ἀνδρὸς ἡ κεφαλὴ ὁ Χριστός ἐστιν. 5 Anspielung: γυνὴ προφητεύουσα . . . οὐκ ἀκατακαλύπτῳ κεφαλῇ. 7 ἀνὴρ μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ὀφείλει κατακαλύπτεσθαι τὴν κεφαλὴν εἰκὼν καὶ δόξα θεοῦ ὑπάρχων. 8—10 Anspielungen: γυνὴ ἐξ ἀνδρός, γυνὴ διὰ eine alte Marcionitische Alternativlesart, oder verdorben aus ἀτύπως?). Übrigens lautet die Rede des Markus im Dialog: Οὐχ οὕτως γέγραπται („in codice nostro" fügt Rufin, wohl richtig, hinzu)· οὐ λέγει γὰρ ‚ταῦτα τύπος συνέβαινεν ἐκείνοις', ἀλλ' οὕτως λέγει ‚ταῦτ' ἀτύπως συνέβαινεν' κτλ.; der katholische Text bietet τυπικῶς (so auch dg vulg. Iren.) oder τύποι (DGL) — πρὸς νουθεσίαν ἡμῶν: ἡμῖν Epiph. verkürzend; das Zitat von v. 11 in Dial. V, 5 bringt den katholischen Text — 11 c ist durch Tert. allein bezeugt.

---

16 Dial. II, 20 (Rufin verkürzend: „in qua sacramenta confecit Christus et signacula corporis sui sanguinisque designat"); der Dialog gibt nur ein Referat; M. hat den Text höchstwahrscheinlich unverändert wiedergegeben (κυρίου mit DG dg vulg. Augustin, Ambrosiaster > Χριστοῦ die Mehrzahl und Rufin); Zahns Zurückweisung dieses Zitats ist ungerechtfertigt, da der griechische Text gegen Rufin im Rechte ist, wie die bekannte Zeugenreihe beweist.

19 f. Epiph. p. 122. 165 f.; er fügt hinzu: προσέθετο δὲ ὁ Μαρκίων ‚τὸ ἱερόθυτον'. Diese tendenziöse Hinzufügung ist sonst unbezeugt. — Die Worte ἢ ὅτι εἴδωλόν τί ἐστιν; ließ M. weg.

25 Tert. (V, 7): „Magnum argumentum dei alterius permissio omnium opsoniorum adversus legem!" Bei Esnik findet sich S. 197 v. 25 und auch v. 27; man hat aber keine Gewähr, daß sie aus M.s Bibl. stammen.

XI, 3 Tert. (V, 8): „‚Caput viri Christus est'."

5 Tert. (V, 8): „Ceterum prophetandi ius et illas habere iam ostendit (Tert. geht nachträglich auf die Stelle ein), cum mulieri etiam prophetanti velamen imponit."

7 Tert. (V, 8): „‚Vir enim non debet caput velari, cum sit dei imago' " (auf die verschiedene Wortstellung ist nichts zu geben). Dial. V, 23 (fehlt bei Rufin) ganz wie oben; also hat Tert. καὶ δόξα ausgelassen. Epiph. p. 122. 167 (v. 14 einmischend): Ἀνὴρ οὐκ ὀφείλει κομᾶν, δόξα καὶ εἰκὼν θεοῦ ὑπάρχων.

8—10 Tert. (V, 8): „Sed et quare ‚mulier potestatem super caput habere τὸν ἄνδρα. ὀφείλει ἡ γυνὴ ἐξουσίαν ἔχειν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς διὰ τοὺς ἀγγέλους. 19 Anspielung αἱρέσεις ..... δόκιμοι. 20—34 (speziell 27. 29 κρῖμα) e i n e Anspielung auf das Abendmahl als Leib und Blut Christi.

Aus c. XII sind bezeugt 1 περὶ τῶν πνευματικῶν. 8—10 Wörtliche Anspielungen: ᾧ ... δίδοται διὰ τοῦ πνεύματος λόγος σοφίας, ἄλλῳ λόγος γνώσεως ... ἑτέρῳ πίστις ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ πνεύματι, ἄλλῳ χάρισμα ἰαμάτων, ἄλλῳ δυνάμεων, ἄλλῳ προφητεία, ἄλλῳ διάκρισις πνευμάτων, ἑτέρῳ γένη γλωσσῶν, ἄλλῳ ἑρμηνεία γλωσσῶν. 12 ff Anspielung (Körper und Glieder). 24 b ἀλλὰ ὁ θεὸς συνεκέρασεν τὸ σῶμα, τῷ ὑστερουμένῳ περισσοτέραν δοὺς τιμήν. 28 Anspielung: ἔθετο ὁ κύριος ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ ... ἀποστόλους ... προφήτας. 31 Anspielung zusammen mit c. XIII χαρίσματα ... καθ' ὑπερβολὴν ἀγάπη.

Aus c. XIV sind bezeugt 2 ff in Anspielung und 2 πνεύματι debebit'? si quia ‚ex viro' et ‚propter virum facta est' secundum institutionem creatoris ... adicit etiam ‚propter angelos'."

---

19 Tert. (V. 8); „Saepe iam ostendimus haereses apud apostolum inter mala ut malum poni, et eos probabiles intellegendos, qui haereses ut malum fugiant."

20—34 Tert. (V, 8): „Perinde panis et calicis sacramento ... probavimus corporis et sanguinis dominici veritatem adversus phantasma Marcionis, sed et omnem iudicii mentionem creatori competere."

XII, 1 Tert. (V, 8): „Nunc, ‚de spiritalibus' dico."

8—10 Tert. (V, 8): „ ‚Alii', inquit, ‚datur per spiritum sermo sapientiae ... alii sermo scientiae ... alii fides in eodem spiritu ... alii donum curationum, alii virtutum ... alii prophetia, alii distinctio spirituum, alii genera linguarum, alii interpretatio linguarum'." v. 9 donum (χάρισμα) mit dg vulg. lat. Vätern > χάρισμα (so Tert. selbst). Was bei Tert. hier fehlt oder anders gestellt ist, kann nicht sicher für M. gelten.

12 ff. Tert. (V, 8): „Ipsum quod corporis nostri per multa et diversa membra unitatem charismatum variorum compagini adaequavit."

24 b Dial. II, 19 wörtlich (ἀλλά nur bei Rufin); die ersten 6 Worte wörtlich ebenso bei Epiph. p. 122. 168.

28 Tert. (V, 17): „Haereticus (als er ‚et prophetarum' in Ephes. 2,20 strich) oblitus ‚dominum posuisse in ecclesia' sicut ‚apostolos' ita et ‚prophetas'." — dominus allein > ὁ θεός. Sicher wäre dies bisher übersehene Zitat nicht, da Tert. es nachbringt, wenn nicht diese Variante den Ursprung verbürgte.

31 u. c. XIII Tert. (V. 8): „De dilectione omnibus charismatibus praeponenda."

XIV, 2 ff. Tert. (V, 8): „ ‚Charisma linguarum' confirmat'," (V, 15): „et sacramenta edisserat." λαλεῖ μυστήρια. 19 b ἀλλὰ ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ θέλω πέντε λόγους τῷ νοί μου λαλῆσαι διὰ τὸν νόμον. 21 ἐν τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται ὅτι ἐν ἑτερογλώσσοις καὶ ἐν χείλεσιν ἑτέροις λαλήσω πρὸς τὸν λαὸν τοῦτον. 25 Anspielung: τὰ κρυπτὰ τῆς καρδίας φανερὰ γίνεται. 26 Anspielung: ψαλμός, ἀποκάλυψις, γλῶσσα, ἑρμηνεία. 32 f. καὶ πνεύματα προφητῶν προφήταις ὑποτάσσεται· οὐ γὰρ ἀκαταστασίας ἐστὶν ἀλλ' εἰρήνης. 34 αἱ γυναῖκες

---

19 b So Epiph. p. 122. 168 mit der Einführung, M. habe „πεπλανημένως" διὰ τὸν νόμον hinter λαλῆσαι gesetzt. Es handelt sich hier nicht um eine tendenziöse Korrektur, sondern ein uralter Fehler, den Paulin v. Nola und Ambrosiaster ähnlich bezeugen („in lege" bez. „per legem"), war dadurch entstanden, daß τῷ νοί μου zu τῷ νόμῳ, dann aus Ratlosigkeit zu ἐν τῷ νόμῳ, zu διὰ τοῦ νόμου und zu διὰ τὸν νόμον wurde. In der Bibel der Marcioniten, die Epiph. las, war der Zusatz in den Text neben τῷ νοί gekommen oder umgekehrt. Was sie sich dabei gedacht haben, ist dunkel: διὰ τὸν νόμον kann doch nicht heißen: „um das Gesetz zu bekämpfen". Wahrscheinlich ist διὰ c. Acc. hier = διὰ c. Genet., wie so oft in der späteren Zeit. Mit Recht bietet übrigens Holl l. c.: πεπλανημένως ὁ Μαρκίων ⟨μετὰ τό⟩ „ἀλλὰ ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ", κτλ. Die Entfernung von τῷ νοί μου aus M.s Text ist nicht statthaft (= Zahn); denn Epiph. schreibt nach den Worten „τῷ νοί μου λαλῆσαι" die Worte προσέθετο „διὰ τὸν νόμον".

21 Wörtlich so Epiph. p. 122. 170. Tert. (V, 8): „Si quod in lege commemorat in aliis linguis et in aliis labiis locuturum creatorem. — ἑτέροις mit DGKLPital. vulg. > ἑτέρων — πρὸς τ. λαὸν τοῦτον singulär > τ. λαῷ τούτῳ.

25 Tert. (V, 8): „qui et futura praenuntiarint et ‚cordis occulta traduxerint'", vgl. V, 15: „formam spiritalis et propheticae gratiae . . . ut et futura praenuntiet et ‚occulta cordis revelet'."

26 Tert. (V, 8): „Edat aliquem psalmum, aliquam visionem, aliquam orationem duntaxat spiritalem, in ecstasi id est amentia, si qua linguae interpretatio accessit."

32 f. Es ist nicht unwahrscheinlich, daß dieses Zitat bei Tert. (IV, 4) dem Marcionitischen Apostolikon angehört: „Et spiritus prophetarum prophetis erunt subditi (das sonst nicht bezeugte Futur erklärt sich aus dem Zusammenhang); non enim eversionis sunt (mit Ambrosiaster fehlt hier die sonst einstimmig bezeugte falsche LA ὁ θεός), sed pacis."

34 Wörtlich so Dial. II, 18 und Epiph. p. 123 (ἐνταῖς ἐκκλησίαις). 170. Tert. (V, 8): „Aeque praescribens silentium mulieribus in ecclesia, ne quid discendi duntaxat gratia loquantur . . . ex lege accipit subiciendae feminae auctoritatem." — ἐκκλησίᾳ mit futol und den ägyp'ischen Versionen > ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις. — Bei ἐπιτέτραπται und ἐπιτρέπεται (Rufin, Epiph. p. 170) sind die Zeugen geteilt — ὑποτάσσεσθαι Dial. mit DKdg vulg. Lateiner > ὑποτασσέσθωσαν Epiph. ℵAB etc.

ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ σιγάτωσαν· οὐ γὰρ ἐπιτέτραπται αὐταῖς λαλεῖν· ἀλλ' ὑποτάσσεσθαι, καθὼς καὶ ὁ νόμος λέγει. 35 Anspielung: μαθεῖν θέλουσιν, verändert, aber nicht mehr herzustellen.

XV, 1 Γνωρίζω δὲ ὑμῖν, ἀδελφοί, τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, ὃ εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν, ὃ καὶ παρελάβετε, ἐν ᾧ καὶ ἑστήκατε, 2 δι' οὗ καὶ σώζεσθε, τίνι λόγῳ εὐηγγελισάμην ὑμῖν, εἰ κατέχετε, ἐκτὸς εἰ μὴ εἰκῇ ἐπιστεύσατε· 3 παρέδωκα γὰρ ὑμῖν ἐν πρώτοις, ὅτι Χριστὸς ἀπέθανεν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν, 4 καὶ ὅτι ἐτάφη καὶ ὅτι ἐγήγερται τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ. 5—8 müssen mindestens z. T. von M. geboten worden sein. 9 (ὁ ἐλάχιστος τῶν ἀποστόλων?) 11 ... οὕτως κηρύσσομεν καὶ οὕτως ἐπιστεύσατε.... 12 Anspielung: πῶς λέγουσίν τινες ὅτι ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν οὐκ ἔστιν; 14 εἰ δὲ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται ἐκ νεκρῶν, κενὸν καὶ τὸ κήρυγμα ἡμῶν, κενὴ καὶ ἡ πίστις ὑμῶν. 17 ... εἰ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται μάταιον (καὶ

---

35 s. Tert. zu v. 34. Die Einschachtelung von 35 a zwischen 34 b und 34 c macht eine Textänderung um so wahrscheinlicher, als das schroffe αἰσχρόν in 35 c M.s Meinung schwerlich entsprach.

XV, 1—4 Dial. V, 6. Zahn übergeht dies Zitat; aber schon die Ausmerzung von κατὰ τὰς γραφάς (aber an erster Stelle bietet es Rufin) zeigt, daß hier M.s Text vorliegt; dazu kommt die Tilgung von ὃ καὶ παρέλαβον v. 3, die ebenso entscheidend ist. Die Worte fehlen auch bei Iren., Tertull., Hilar., Ambros., Ambrosiaster usw. (wohl Einfluß des M.s Textes). — 1 δέ: Dial. γάρ (aber Rufin δέ) — 4 τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ mit GKLP g vulg. Iren. und dem Epiph.-Zitat > τ. ἡμ. τ. τρίτῃ — die ersten 9 Worte v. 1 auch bei Epiph. p. 123. 171. — Auf v. 3. 4 wird auch Dial. V, 11 angespielt und bei Epiph., l. c. lauten sie: ὅτι Χριστὸς ἀπέθανε καὶ ἐτάφη καὶ ἐγήγερται τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ (also auch ohne κατὰ τὰς γραφάς). Adv. Marc. III, 8 zitiert Tert. die Verse 3. 4 ebenfalls ohne κατὰ τὰς γραφάς, also nach M.s Text. Esnik S. 203 bietet die Worte; ferner spielt er auf die Erscheinungen des Auferstandenen an; aber ob aus M.s Text? S. zu v. 11.

9 Die Einschiebung von ἐλάχιστα in I Kor. 1, 28 stammt wahrscheinlich aus diesem Vers.

11 Epiph. p. 123. 171. Tert. adv. Marc. IV, 4: „‚Sive ego‘, inquit, ‚sive illi, sic praedicamus‘“. Hieraus folgt, daß die vv. 5—8 nicht oder mindestens nicht ganz gefehlt haben können.

12 Tert. (V, 9): „Mortuorum resurrectionem quomodo quidam tunc negarint.“ Auf v. 13 f spielt Tert. adv. Marc. III, 8 an.

14 Dial. V, 6. Zahn übergeht es — ἄρα nach κενόν fehlt mit d Iren. — ἡμῶν Rufin (fehlt im Griech.) — ὑμῶν Ruf. mit den Lateinern und vielen anderen Codd. > ἡμῶν Dial. (Griech.).

17 Epiph. p. 123. 171. In der Refutat. Epiph. (16. 17); Εἰ νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται, οὐδὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται, καὶ εἰ Χριστὸς οὐκ ἐγήγερται, μάταιον τὸ κήρυγμα ἡμῶν (fraglich ob aus M.).

τὰ ἑξῆς). — 20 Εἰ δὲ Χριστὸς κηρύσσεται ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀναστάναι, ἀπαρχὴ τῶν κεκοιμημένων, 21 ἐπειδὴ γὰρ δι' ἀνθρώπου θάνατος, καὶ δι' ἀνθρώπου ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν. 22 ὥσπερ γὰρ διὰ τοῦ Ἀδὰμ πάντες ἀποθνήσκουσιν, οὕτω καὶ ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ πάντες ζωοποιηθήσονται, 23 ἀπαρχὴ Χριστός, ἔπειτα οἱ τοῦ Χριστοῦ. 24 ... ὅταν καταργήσῃ πᾶσαν ἀρχὴν καὶ ἐξουσίαν· 25 δεῖ γὰρ αὐτὸν βασιλεύειν ἄχρι οὗ θῇ τοὺς ἐχθροὺς αὐτοῦ ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας αὐτοῦ (oder ἄχρις οὗ πάντες οἱ ἐχθροὶ αὐτοῦ ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας αὐτοῦ θῶνται).

29 Τί ποιήσουσιν οἱ βαπτιζόμενοι ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν; εἰ (ὅλως?) νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται; τί καὶ βαπτίζονται ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν, 30 τί καὶ ἡμεῖς

20—23 Dial. V, 6 f, vgl. Dial. V, 11, wo v. 22. 23 ebenso zitiert (nur hier aber die 4 letzten Worte und Dial. V, 7; γάρ in v. 22 fehlt) — 20 κηρύσσεται ἐκ νεκρῶν ⟨ἀναστάναι⟩ (das letzte Wort nur bei Rufin) > ἐγήγερται ganz originell — 20 εἰ δέ (so auch Rufin) mit d > νυνὶ δέ — 22 διὰ τοῦ Rufin originell (und nur Dial. V, 6, nicht V, 11) > ἐν τῷ Dial. im Griech. und allen Zeugen — 23 Rufin Dial. V, 6 „et initium". Die Worte ἕκαστος ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ τάγματι fehlen V, 6 und V, 11; M. hat sie wohl getilgt. Tert. (V, 9) zu 21: „Quia per hominem mors et per hominem resurrectio (fehlt τῶν νεκρῶν), zu 22 (V, 9): „Quodsi sic in Christo vivificamur omnes, sicut mortificamur in Adam" (wohl etwas frei).

24. 25 Tert. (V, 9): „‚Oportet enim regnare eum, donec ponat inimicos eius sub pedes eius.'" Tert. liest πάντας nicht (singulär) — ἐχθροὺς αὐτοῦ mit AG g Orig., zahlreichen Vätern > ἐχθρούς. Esnik (Schmid S. 190): „Ferner das andere Wort des Apostels, welches richtig gesprochen ist, untergraben sie: „Wenn er alle Herrschaften und Mächte zerstört haben wird, muß er herrschen, bis daß alle seine Feinde unter seine Füße gestellt sind". Diese direkte Verbindung von v. 24 b und 25 a durch Ausstoßung des γάρ in 25 a wird durch Tert. nicht bezeugt, ebensowenig das Passiv statt θῇ. Spätere Marcioniten haben (s. Esniks Mitteilung) den Text verändert (oder ist das die ursprüngliche Marcionitische Lesart?), θῶνται für θῇ gesetzt, um Jesus keine kriegerischen Handlungen beizulegen, und zum Subjekt von v. 24 den Weltschöpfer gemacht, während in v. 25 Jesus Subjekt ist. Die Textveränderung stimmt frappierend überein mit der zu Luk. 12, 46 von M. selbst gemachten, wo er statt (καὶ τὸ μέρος αὐτοῦ μετὰ τῶν ἀπίστων) θήσει geschrieben hat τεθήσεται. — πᾶσαν ἀρχὴν καὶ ἐξουσίαν mit Gregor Nyss. Didym. > π. α. κ. πᾶσαν ἐξουσίαν — das sonst durchweg bezeugte καὶ δύναμιν nach ἐξουσίαν fehlt hier.

29 Tert. (V, 10): „‚Quid', ait, ‚facient qui pro mortuis baptizantur, si (ὅλως übersehen?) mortui non resurgunt'." Esnik (Schmid S. 202): „Wenn die Toten nicht auferstehen, was sollen diejenigen tun, welche anstatt der Toten getauft worden sind?"

29—44 Dial. V, 23 fortlaufend (29 καί nur Rufin — 31 ἀποθνήσκον- κινδυνεύομεν πᾶσαν ὥραν, 31 καθ' ἡμέραν ἀποθνήσκοντες; νὴ τὴν ὑμετέραν καύχησιν, ἀδελφοί, ἣν ἔχω ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ, τῷ κυρίῳ ἡμῶν. 32 εἰ κατ' ἄνθρωπον ἐθηριομάχησα ἐν Ἐφέσῳ, τί μοι τὸ ὄφελος; εἰ νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται, φάγωμεν καὶ πίωμεν, αὔριον γὰρ ἀποθνήσκομεν. 33 μὴ πλανᾶσθε· φθείρουσιν ἤθη χρηστὰ ὁμιλίαι κακαί. 34 ἐκνήψατε δικαίως, καὶ μὴ ἁμαρτάνετε. ἀγνωσίαν γὰρ θεοῦ τινες ἔχουσι· πρὸς ἐντροπὴν ὑμῖν λαλῶ. 35 ἀλλ' ἐρεῖ τις· πῶς ἐγείρονται οἱ νεκροί; ποίῳ δὲ σώματι ἔρχονται; 36 ἄφρον, σὺ ὃ σπείρεις οὐ ζωοποιεῖται, ἐὰν μὴ πρῶτον ἀποθανῇ, 37 καὶ ὃ σπείρεις οὐ τὸ σῶμα τὸ γεννησόμενον σπείρεις, ἀλλὰ γυμνὸν κόκκον, εἰ τύχοι, σίτου ἤ τινος τῶν λοιπῶν, 38 ὁ δὲ θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ σῶμα (spätere Marcionitische Korrektur πνεῦμα für σῶμα) καθὼς ἠθέλησεν· ἕκαστον δὲ τῶν σπερμάτων τὸ ἴδιον σῶμα ἀπολαμβάνει. 39 οὐ πᾶσα σὰρξ ἡ αὐτὴ σάρξ· ἄλλη μὲν σὰρξ ἀνθρώπου, ἄλλη δὲ σὰρξ κτηνῶν, ἑτέρα δὲ ἰχθύων. 40 καὶ σώματα ἐπουράνια καὶ σώματα ἐπίγεια· ἀλλ' ἑτέρα μὲν ἡ τῶν ἐπουρανίων δόξα, ἑτέρα δὲ ἡ τῶν ἐπιγείων, 41 ἄλλη δόξα ἡλίου, καὶ ἄλλη δόξα σελήνης, ἄλλη δόξα ἀστέρων· ἀστὴρ γὰρ ἀστέρος διαφέρει ἐν δόξῃ. 42 οὕτω καὶ ἡ ἀνάστασις (τῶν νεκρῶν). σπείρεται τες singulär > ἀποθνήσκω [auch Rufin] — 34 iusti Rufin — 36 ἄφρον mit KL Orig. > ἄφρων — πρῶτον ἀποθανῇ mit G d e f g vulg. Iren. und den meisten lat. Vätern > ἀποθ. πρῶτ. — 38 vult Rufin — 38 b singulär > καὶ ἑκάστῳ τ. σπερμ. ἴδ. σῶμα [so auch Rufin] — 39 ἄλλη mit D > ἀλλὰ ἄλλη [so auch Rufin] — ἀνθρώπου mit D d Tert. Ambroisaster > ἀνθρώπων [so auch Rufin] — κτηνῶν: Rufin πτηνῶν — 41 σελήνης mit am harl Tertull., Orig., Augustin > σελήνης καὶ mit d usw. [auch Rufin]; 42 b—44 nur bei Rufin) — 36 auch Dial. V, 24 [σὺ γάρ und ohne ἄφρον] — 37 auch Dial. V, 24 [etwas frei] — 38 auch Dial. V, 24 [38 b ἑκάστῳ δὲ τ. σπερμ. τὸ ἴδιον σῶμα δίδωσιν; bei Rufin fehlt δίδωσιν. In einer Interpolation wird sodann die spätere Marcionitische Lesart vermerkt: οὐ λέγει· ‚ὁ θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ σῶμα καθὼς ἠθέλησεν', ἀλλ' ‚ὁ θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ πνεῦμα καθὼς ἠθέλησεν', s. Zahn, Ztschr. f. KGesch. Bd. 9, S. 198 ff.] — 40 a auch Dial. V, 2. Vers 41. 42 a auch Dial. V, 2 [σελήνης ohne folgendes καί wie oben] — 42 b auch Dial. V, 25 — 44 a auch Dial. V, 25.

35 Tert. (V, 10): „Sed dicent quidam: Quomodo mortui resurgent? quo autem corpore venient?" frei.

37 ff. Tert. (V, 10): „Denique si proponit exempla grani tritici vel alicuius eiusmodi, quibus det corpus deus prout volet, si unicuique seminum proprium ait corpus esse, ut aliam quidem carnem hominum aliam vero pecudum et volucrum (also las Tert. beides, s. oben; aber nicht „Fische"), et corpora caelestia atque terrena, et aliam gloriam solis et lunae aliam et stellarum aliam."

42 ff. Tert. (V, 10): „‚Sic et resurrectio'" .... „sicut et granum cor- ἐν φθορᾷ, ἐγείρεται ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ· 43 σπείρεται ἐν ἀτιμίᾳ, ἐγείρεται ἐν δόξῃ· σπείρεται ἐν ἀσθενείᾳ, ἐγείρεται ἐν δυνάμει. 44 σπείρεται (σῶμα?) ψυχικόν, ἐγείρεται (σῶμα?) πνευματικόν.

45 Ἐγένετο ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος, Ἀδάμ, εἰς ψυχὴν ζῶσαν, ὁ ἔσχατος, κύριος, εἰς πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν. 46 ... οὐ πρῶτον ὃ πνευματικόν 47 .... ὁ πρῶτος ἄνθρωπος ἐκ γῆς χοϊκός, ὁ δεύτερος, κύριος, ἐξ οὐρανοῦ. 48 οἷος ὁ χοϊκός, τοιοῦτοι καὶ οἱ χοϊκοί, καὶ οἷος ὁ ἐπουράνιος, τοιοῦτοι καὶ οἱ ἐπουράνιοι· 49 (καὶ) καθὼς ἐφορέσαμεν τὴν εἰκόνα τοῦ χοϊκοῦ, φορέσωμεν καὶ τὴν εἰκόνα τοῦ ἐπουρανίου.

---

pus seritur, corpus resurgit. seminationem denique vocavit dissolutionem corporis in terram, quia ‚seritur in corruptela ⟨ in dedecoratione, in infirmitate, resurgit autem in incorruptelam ; in honestatem, in virtutem‘ . . . 44 ‚si seritur anima, resurgit spiritale‘ “. — Da v. 21 und 42 bei Tert. τῶν νεκρῶν fehlt, sind diese Worte, die der Dialog bietet, unsicher. Aus dem „si“ läßt sich nichts schließen, da 44 a und 44 b vermengt sind. Statt „anima“ ist wohl, „anima⟨le⟩“ zu lesen. Ob Tert. „corpus“ bei M. gefunden hat, ist zweifelhaft. — V. 43. 44 bei Esnik S. 203 (ob aus M. ?).

45. 47 Dial. II, 19. — Vers 45. 46. 47 Tert. (V, 10): „‚Factus primus homo, Adam, in animam vivam, novissimus, Adam, in spiritum vivificantem‘ “, vorher: „‚non primum quod spiritale‘ “. „‚Primus‘ “ inquit ‚homo de humo terrenus, secundus, dominus, de caelo‘ “. Zu v. 45 bemerkt Tert.: „Licet stultissimus haereticus noluerit ita esse (ἔσχατος Ἀδάμ); ‚dominum‘ enim posuit novissimum pro novissimo ‚Adam‘ “. — 46 ὃ singulär > τό (unsicher) — 47 κύριος (so Dial. und Tert.) mit sehr vielen Zeugen, aber fast alle ἄνθρωπος ὁ κύριος > ἄνθρωπος, dazu Tert.: „Quare secundus, si non homo, quod et primus? aut numquid et primus dominus, si et secundus? sed sufficit: si in evangelio filium hominis adhibet Christum et hominem et in homine Adam eum negare non poterit“. Dial. II, 19: Ὁ ἀπόστολος ἔφη· ‚Ὁ δεύτερος ἐξ οὐρανοῦ — καθ᾽ ὑμᾶς κύριος‘, ferner σκόπει δὲ καὶ τοῦτο τὸ ἀσεβὲς τόλμημα, πῶς παρεχάραξαν τὴν γραφήν. τὴν γὰρ κατὰ σάρκα γέννησιν τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἀνελεῖν βουλόμενοι, ἐνήλλαξαν τό· ‚Ὁ δεύτερος ἄνθρωπος, καὶ ἐποίησαν. ‚Ὁ δεύτερος, κύριος‘, οὐκ ἰδόντες κτλ. Da für ὁ κύριος ℵ* AD*c*KLP Orig. Basil. und antiochenische Väter (> ℵ* BCDG d g vulg. und zahlreiche Väter) eintreten, so kann an dieser Stelle nicht sicher behauptet werden (anders V, 45), κύριος sei eine LA Marcions.

48 Tert. (V, 10): „‚Qualis qui de terra, tales et terreni, et qualis qui de caelo, tales et qui de caelo.‘ “

49 Tert. (V, 10): „‚Sicut portavimus‘, inquit, ‚imaginem terreni, portemus et imaginem caelestis‘, . . . ‚portemus‘ enim, inquit, non ‚portabimus‘, praeceptive, non promissive“. Aber vielleicht portemus = portabimus.

50 τοῦτο γάρ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ οὐ κληρονομήσουσι, οὔτε ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν. 51 ἰδοὺ μυστήριον ὑμῖν λέγω· πάντες μὲν ἀναστησόμεθα, οὐ πάντες δὲ ἀλλαγησόμεθα. 52 ἐν ἀτόμῳ, ἐν ῥιπῇ ὀφθαλμοῦ, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ σάλπιγγι· σαλπίσει γάρ, καὶ οἱ νεκροὶ ἐγερθήσονται ἄφθαρτοι, καὶ ἡμεῖς ἀλλαγησόμεθα. 53 δεῖ γὰρ τὸ φθαρτ'ν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι

---

50 Tert. (V, 10): „‚Hoc enim dico, fratres, quia caro et sanguis regnum dei non possidebunt‘“ (bald darauf „‚non consequentur‘“) (andere Zitate bei Tert. kommen hier nicht in Betracht). Dial. II, 26 (nur bei Rufin erhalten): „‚non possidebunt‘“; Dial. II, 22 Rufin ebenso, aber im Griechischen: σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ κληρονομῆσαι οὐ δύνανται, οὔτε ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν — κληρονομήσουσι mit G g Iren. Orig. > κληρονομῆσαι οὐ δύναται — vorher γάρ mit DG d g Iren. > δέ — οὔτε selbständig > οὐδέ. Esnik (bei Schmid S. 201): „Die Marcioniten sagen: Der Apostel hat gesagt: ‚Der Leib und das Blut erben nicht das Reich Gottes und die Verweslichkeit nicht die Unverweslichkeit.‘“ Die LA „der Leib“ (für „Fleisch“) mögen spätere Marcioniten geschaffen haben, um die Stelle für ihre Zwecke noch brauchbarer zu machen.

51 f Dial. V, 26 (nur bei Rufin erhalten): „‚Ecce mysterium vobis dico: Omnes quidem ⟨re⟩surgemus, non omnes autem immutabimur.‘“ Es ist die spezifisch lateinische Lesart (D* d vulg. usw.). Dial. V, 23 wie oben, aber οὐ κοιμηθησόμεθα für ἀναστησόμεθα (dagegen Rufin wie vorher). Tert. (V, 10): „‚Resurgent mortui incorrupti, et nos mutabimur (genau so noch einmal V, 12; v. 51 fehlt bei Tert.) in atomo, in oculi momentaneo motu.‘“ Tert. stellt also in seinem Referat 52 b vor 52 a und läßt ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ σάλπιγγι und σαλπίσει γάρ aus. Dial. V, 23 fährt fort (v. 52) wie oben.

53 Dial. II, 23 wörtlich (in Dial. II, 24 wiederholt, aber 53 a und 53 b umgestellt; außerdem δέ [singulär] für γάρ) und Tert. (V, 10): „‚oportet enim corruptivum hoc induere incorruptelam et mortale hoc immortalitatem‘“ (wiederholt in V, 12 „‚necesse est corruptivum istud . . . et mortale istud‘“ usw.). Auch aus Hieron., c. Joh. Hieros. folgt, daß v. 50 und 53 bei M. nicht gefehlt haben (auch bei Esnik S. 201 stehen v. 50. 52. 53; ob aus M. ?). 54 Epiph. p. 123. 171 wie oben; von τότε an auch Dial. II, 18 (und dazu auch v. 55 a, bei Rufin durch Homöotel. ausgefallen). Tert. (V, 10) zu v. 54. 55: „‚Tunc fiet verbum quod scriptum est: Ubi est, mors, victoria [ubi contentio] tua? ubi est, mors, aculeus tuus.‘“ Die eingeklammerten Worte sind schwerlich eine Alternativlesart, die Tert. bietet (Zahn, Gesch. d. Ntlichen Kanons I, S. 51), sondern eine spätere Glosse (griechisch νεῖκος). In Dial. V, 27 ist unsere Stelle mit II Kor. 5, 4 verkuppelt: ὅταν δὲ καταποθῇ τὸ θνητὸν ὑπὸ τῆς ἀθανασίας.

ἀθανασίαν. 54 (Anfang nicht bezeugt), ὅταν δὲ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσηται ἀθανασίαν, τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος· κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νῖκος. 55 ποῦ σου, θάνατε, τὸ νῖκος; ποῦ σου, θάνατε, τὸ κέντρον; 57 Anspielung: τῷ θεῷ χάρις τῷ διδόντι ἡμῖν τὸ νῖκος. 58 ... ἑδραῖοι γίνεσθε.

Von c. XVI ist nichts erhalten.

Eine größere Streichung M.s ist in diesem Brief nicht nachweisbar; doch ist c. VII vielleicht gekürzt worden.

Προς Κορινθιους $\overline{B}$.

Aus c. I ist bezeugt 3 Εὐλογητὸς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ ... πατὴρ τῶν οἰκτιρμῶν, 20 ὅσαι γὰρ ἐπαγγελίαι θεοῦ, ἐν αὐτῷ τὸ ναί· διὸ καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ τὸ ἀμὴν τῷ θεῷ.

Aus c. II 14 τῷ δὲ θεῷ χάρις, τῷ πάντοτε θριαμβεύοντι ἡμᾶς ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ καὶ τὴν ὀσμὴν τῆς γνώσεως αὐτοῦ φανεροῦντι δι' ἡμῶν ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ, 15 ὅτι Χριστοῦ εὐωδία ἐσμὲν ἐν τοῖς σωζομένοις καὶ ἐν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις, 16 τοῖς μὲν ὀσμὴ ἐκ θανάτου εἰς θάνατον, τοῖς δὲ ὀσμὴ ζωῆς εἰς ζωήν. 17 (οὐ γάρ ἐσμεν) ὡς οἱ λοιποὶ (καπηλεύοντες τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ) ... ὡς ἐκ θεοῦ κατέναντι θεοῦ ἐν Χριστῷ λαλοῦμεν.

Aus c. III 3 φανερούμενοι ὅτι ἐστὶ ἐπιστολὴ Χριστοῦ διακονηθεῖσα ὑφ' ἡμῶν, ἐγγεγραμμένη οὐ μέλανι, ἀλλὰ πνεύματι θεοῦ ζῶντος, 57 Tert. (V, 10): „Nec alii deo gratias dicit, quod nobis victoriam, utique de morte, referre praestiterit".

---

58 S. den falschen Laod.-Brief v. 14.

I, 3 Tert. (V, 11): „Benedictus deus domini nostri Iesu Christi" "(καὶ πατήρ fehlt nach θεός).... „,misericordiarum pater" " (mehrmals).

20 Epiph. p. 123. 173 (hier πᾶσαι γὰρ αἱ), Dial. II, 18 ὅσαι γὰρ bis ναί.

II, 14—16 Dial. II, 20. In v. 15 fehlt τῷ θεῷ absichtlich nach ἐσμέν — 16 τοῖς singulär > οἷς (beide Male) — ζωῆς Rufin mit DGKL ital. vulg., Iren., Augustin, Ambrosiaster > ἐκ ζωῆς Dial. im Griech.

17 Didymus spielt darauf an als auf eine Beweisstelle der Marcioniten (von Zahn entdeckt); s. Mai, Nova Patr. Bibl. IV, 2, 122: Οὐ προσεκτέον τοῖς ἀπὸ τῶν ἑτεροδόξων λέγουσιν, ὅτι οἱ ἀπόστολοι ἐν Χριστῷ διδάσκοντες κατέναντι τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ ἑτέρου παρὰ τὸν πατέρα τοῦ σωτῆρος, τουτέστιν ἐνάντια αὐτῷ, φθέγγονται. Also las M. οἱ λοιποί mit vielen Zeugen > ℵBACK al plu d e f vulg οἱ πολλοί und verstand unter den λοιποί die Urapostel.

III, 3 Dial. V, 27 (am Anfang φανερώτερον, aber das war durch die Art der Einführung gefordert; ἀλλά Rufin, ἀλλ' ἐν der griechische Text).

οὐκ ἐν πλαξὶ λιθίναις, ἀλλ' ἐν πλαξὶ καρδίας σαρκίναις. 6 καινῆς διαθήκης ... οὐ γράμματος ἀλλὰ πνεύματος· τὸ γὰρ γράμμα ἀποκτέννει, τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ζωοποιεῖ. 7 f. s. zu v. 13. 11 εἰ γὰρ τὸ καταργούμενον διὰ δόξης, πολὺ μᾶλλον τὸ μένον ἐν δόξῃ καὶ μὴ καταργούμενον. 13 Anspielungen (dabei auch solche auf 7 ff): Μωσῆς ἐτίθει κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τὸ πρόσωπον ἑαυτοῦ πρὸς τὸ μὴ ἀτενίσαι τοὺς υἱοὺς τοῦ Ισραήλ ... τοῦ καταργουμένου.

14 Ἀλλ' ἐπωρώθη τὰ νοήματα τοῦ κόσμου (τοῦ αἰῶνος?)· ἄχρι γὰρ τῆς σήμερον ἡμέρας τὸ αὐτὸ κάλυμμα ἐπὶ ... 15 κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τὴν καρδίαν αὐτῶν κεῖται. 16 ἡνίκα δ' ἂν ἐπιστρέψῃ πρὸς τὸν θεόν, περιαιρεῖται τὸ κάλυμμα. 18 ἡμεῖς ἤδη ἀνακεκαλυμμένῳ προσώπῳ τὸν Χριστὸν

Tert. (V, 11): „qui literam tabulis lapideis inciderat, idem et de spiritu edixerat".

6 Tert. (V, 11): „Sic et ‚testamentum novum' non alterius erit ... si non ‚literae' at eius ‚spiritus' ... si ‚litera occidit, spiritus vero vivificat.' "

11 Dial. II, 27 (Rufin beide Male ‚in gloria'; πολύ singulär; καὶ μὴ καταργούμενον singulär [fehlt bei Rufin]). C. 3,6 —11 ist auch in den Acta Archelai 45 zitiert, in einem Abschnitt, der wahrscheinlich aus den Antithesen M.s stammt.

13 Tert. (V, 11): „Commemorat et de velamine Moysei, quo faciem tegebat incontemplabilem filiis Israel. si ideo, ut claritatem maiorem defenderet novi testamenti, quod manet in gloria, quam veteris, quod evacuari habebat".

14. 15 Tert. (V, 11): „ ‚Sed obtunsi sunt sensus mundi' — non utique creatoris, sed populi, qui in mundo est; de Israele enim dicit —; ‚ad hodiernum usque velamen id ipsum in corde eorum.' " mundi (nach M. ist mundus Bezeichnung des Weltschöpfers) tendenziös > αὐτῶν. In der 2. Hälfte des Zitats wird v. 14 a durch v. 15 c fortgesetzt; man könnte an ein großes Homöotel. in einer Handschrift denken (ἡμέρας τὸ αὐτὸ κάλυμμα ἐπὶ < τῇ ἀναγνώσει τῆς παλαιᾶς διαθήκης μένει, μὴ ἀποκαλυπτόμενον ὅτι ἐν Χριστῷ καταργεῖται· ἀλλ' ἕως σήμερον ἡνίκα ἂν ἀναγινώσκηται Μωϋσῆς κάλυμμα ἐπὶ > τὴν καρδίαν αὐτῶν κεῖται), und das ist wahrscheinlich, da Tert. fortfährt: „figuram tum ostendit fuisse velamen faciei in Moyse velaminis cordis in populo, quia nec nunc apud illos perspiciatur Moyses corde, sicut nec facie tunc". Aber der eigentliche Inhalt von 14 b und 15 a b wird damit kaum gestreift, so daß anzunehmen ist, daß hier zwar ein Homöotel. vorliegt, aber der Text geändert war.

16 Tert. (V, 16): „ „Cum vero converterit ad deum, auferetur velamen' " — „deum" selbständig > τὸν κύριον — ob περιαιρεθήσεται? (alle Zeugen περιαιρεῖται).

18 Tert. (V, 16): „Dicit ergo ‚nos' iam ‚aperta facie contemplantes Christum eadem imagine transfigurari a gloria domini in gloriam, tam- κατοπτριζόμενοι τὴν αὐτὴν εἰκόνα μεταμορφούμεθα ἀπὸ δόξης τοῦ κυρίου εἰς δόξαν, καθάπερ ἀπὸ κυρίου πνευμάτων.

Aus c. IV 4 ἐν οἷς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου ἐτύφλωσεν τὰ νοήματα τῶν ἀπίστων πρὸς τὸ μὴ διαυγάσαι αὐτοῖς τὸν φωτισμόν . . . ὅς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ θεοῦ. 5 οὐ γὰρ ἑαυτοὺς κηρύσσομεν, ἀλλὰ Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν κύριον, ἑαυτοὺς δὲ δούλους ὑμῶν διὰ Ἰησοῦ, 6 ὅτι ὁ θεὸς ὁ εἰπὼν ἐκ σκότους φῶς λάμψαι κατέλαμψεν ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν πρὸς φωτισμὸν τῆς γνώσεως τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ ἐν προσώπῳ Χριστοῦ.

7 ἔχομεν οὖν τὸν θησαυρὸν τοῦτον ἐν ὀστρακίνοις σκεύεσιν, ἵνα ἡ ὑπερβολὴ ᾖ τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ οὐχ ἡμῶν. 8—10 Anspielungen quam a domino spirituum.' " Es fehlt „omnes" nach „nos" — „iam" sonst unbezeugt > δέ — Christum selbständig > τὴν δόξαν τοῦ κυρίου — „a gloria domini" selbständig > ἀπὸ δόξης — spirituum selbständig > πνεύματος — ob mit G ἀποπτριζόμενοι?

---

IV, 4 So Dial. II, 21 (Rufin: „ut non fulgeat illuminatio evangelii") — εἰς singulär > πρός — διαυγάσαι mit A > αὐγάσαι — αὐτοῖς [die MSS fehlerhaft αὐτῶν] mit Dbc KLP vulg. Orig. > fehlt. Tert. (V, 11): „ ‚In quibus deus aevi huius excaecavit mentes infidelium' ", vgl. Iren. III, 7, 1 usw. Die letzten 4 Worte nur bei Tert. (V, 11): „ ‚qui est imago dei' ".

5. 6 a bis λάμψαι Epiph. 123. 174 (διὰ Ἰησοῦ mit ℵ*AC d g vulg. und den Lateinern > διὰ Ἰησοῦν — λάμψει s. u.) 6 Dial. II, 19 und Tert. V, 11 vollständig („ ‚quoniam deus, qui dixit ex tenebris lucem lucescere, reluxit in cordibus nostris ad inluminationem agnitionis suae in persona Christi' ") — λάμψει Epiph. mit vielen Zeugen > λάμψαι Tert., Dial. mit ℵc Dc G CHKLP d g vulg. usw. — ἔλαμψεν Tert. Rufin mit D*G d g > ὃς ἔλαμψεν Dial. griechisch (aber Tert. hat κατέλαμψεν gelesen und wohl auch Rufin [illuminavit neben „fulgere"]) — ἡμῶν Tert., mit fast allen Zeugen > ὑμῶν Dial. mit C — πρὸς fehlt bei Rufin — τῆς δόξης fehlt bei Tert. (Schuld des Abschreibers, wie eine bald darauf folgende Stelle beweist) — αὐτοῦ Tert., Dial. mit C*D*G d g > τοῦ θεοῦ.

7 Dial. II, 27 (Rufin: fehlt οὖν — ᾖ nach δυνάμεως — ἐξ ἡμῶν). Die von Rufin nicht bezeugten Singularitäten (auch οὐχ für μή) müssen anerkannt werden. Anspielungen bei Tert. (V, 11): „thesaurus in fictilibus vasis' " „ ‚gloria dei in fictilibus vasis' " „ ‚eminentia virtutis dei' " „ut ‚eminentia' eius probetur". „Gloria" ist auf Rechnung Tert.s zu setzen.

8—10 Tert. (V, 11): „fictilia vasa', in quibus tanta nos pati dicit, in quibus etiam ‚mortificationem circumferimus dei' . . . sed enim proponit: ‚ut et vita Christi manifestetur in corpore nostro' . . . de qua ergo Christi vita dicit?" Tert. las also > Ἰησοῦ an der 1. Stelle „deus", an der 2. „Christus" („Christus" D* Gdg Orig. an der ersten Stelle, D* Gdg Iren., Orig., Ambros. an der zweiten); der relative Modalismus M.s tritt hier und Stücke: τὴν νέκρωσιν τοῦ θεοῦ περιφέροντες . . . . ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Χριστοῦ φανερωθῇ ἐν τῷ σώματι ἡμῶν. 11 ἡμεῖς γὰρ οἱ ζῶντες εἰς θάνατον παραδιδόμεθα, ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Χριστοῦ φανερωθῇ ἐν τῇ θνητῇ ἡμῶν σαρκί. 13 ἔχοντες δὲ τὸ αὐτὸ πνεῦμα τῆς πίστεως καὶ ἡμεῖς πιστεύομεν, διὸ καὶ λαλοῦμεν. 16—18 Anspielungen und Stücke: καὶ οὐκ ἐγκακώσομεν . . . ὁ ἔξω ἡμῶν ἄνθρωπος διαφθείρεται . . ὁ ἔσω [ἄνθρωπος] ἡμῶν ἀνακαινοῦται ἡμέρᾳ καὶ ἡμέρᾳ . . . τὰ βλεπόμενα, τὰ μὴ βλεπόμενα, πρόσκαιρα, αἰώνια.

Aus c. V 1. 2 ἐὰν ἡ ἐπίγειος ἡμῶν οἰκία καταλυθῇ — οἰκίαν αἰώνιον ἀχειροποίητον ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ — στενάζομεν, τὸ οἰκητήριον τὸ ἐξ οὐρανοῦ ἐπενδύσασθαι ἐπιποθοῦντες, 3 εἴπερ καὶ ἐκδυσάμενοι οὐχ εὑρεθησόμεθα γυμνοί, 4 καὶ γὰρ οἱ ὄντες ἐν τούτῳ τῷ σκήνει τοῦ hervor — φανερωθῇ vorangestellt mit A vulg cop — ἐν τῷ σώματι mit der Mehrzahl > ἐν τοῖς σώμασιν.

---

11 Dial. V, 27 (Rufin: fehlt γάρ — Ἰησοῦ für τοῦ Χριστοῦ — „in carne nostra mortali"). Ἀεὶ fehlt (aber das kommt wegen des Anfangs nicht in Betracht) — διὰ Ἰησοῦν fehlt nach παραδιδόμεθα (mit Absicht?) — τοῦ Χριστοῦ mit C, Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ D* Gdg (D^c tilgt Χριστοῦ), Ἰησοῦ die große Mehrzahl — die sonst bezeugte LA: ἐν τῇ θνητῇ σαρκὶ ἡμῶν. Tert. (V, 11): „Futuram vitam dicit Christi in corpore appariturum." (Also las auch er nicht Ἰησοῦ).

13 Epiph. p. 123. 175. Epiph. bemerkt: ἐξέκοψεν δὲ τό· κατὰ τὸ γεγραμμένον (samt dem Spruch selbst: ἐπίστευσα, διὸ καὶ ἐλάλησα, der nun unmöglich geworden und den auch Epiph. fortläßt).

16—18 Tert. (V, 11): „Et quomodo in sequentibus non ad ‚visibilia' nec ad ‚temporalia', sed ad ‚invisibilia' et ad ‚aeterna' id est non ad praesentia, sed ad futura exhortatur." „‚exteriorem' quidem ‚hominem nostrum corrumpi' dicens" . . . „de quibus praemisit adiciens: ‚et non deficiemus'; nam et ‚interiorem hominem nostrum renovari de die in diem' dicens" — 16 καὶ οὐκ ἐγκακώσομεν singulär — ἄνθρωπος nach ἔσω mit arm. (aber Tert. mußte das Wort hinzufügen).

V, 1—3 Tert. (V, 12): „‚⟨Loco⟩ terreni domicilii nostri' non sic ait ‚habere nos domum aeternam, non manu factam in caelo', quia quae manu facta sit, creatoris, intereat in totum, ‚dissoluta' post mortem . . . subicit ‚ingemere nos, de isto tabernaculo corporis terreni, quod de caelo est, superinduere cupientes: si quidem et despoliati non inveniemur nudi.'" — 1 sonst ἀχειροποίητον, αἰώνιον — sonst ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς — 3 ἐκδυσάμενοι mit D* Gdg und Lateinern > ἐνδυσάμενοι — sonst γυμ. εὑρ.

4 Tert. (V, 12): „‚etenim qui sumus in isto tabernaculo corporis ingemimus, quod gravemur nolentes exui, sed superindui, uti devoretur mortale hoc a vita'" — τούτῳ mit D Gdg vulg Ambrosiaster, Orig. usw. > fehlt — τοῦ σώματος ohne Zeugen — θέλοντες ohne Zeugen und unsicher; σώματος στενάζομεν βαρούμενοι, οὐ θέλοντες ἐκδύσασθαι ἀλλ' ἐπενδύσασθαι, ἵνα καταποθῇ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ὑπὸ τῆς ζωῆς. Anspielungen auf 5. 6. 8: θεός, (ὁ δοὺς) ἡμῖν τὸν ἀραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος — ἐνδημοῦντες ἐν τῷ σώματι ἐκδημοῦμεν ἀπὸ τοῦ κυρίου — εὐδοκοῦμεν ἐκδημῆσαι ἐκ τοῦ σώματος καὶ ἐνδημῆσαι πρὸς τὸν κύριον. 10 τοὺς γὰρ πάντας ἡμᾶς φανερωθῆναι δεῖ ἔμπροσθεν τοῦ βήματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, ἵνα κομίσηται ἕκαστος ἃ διὰ σώματος ἔπραξεν, εἴτε ἀγαθὸν εἴτε φαῦλον. 17 ὥστε εἴ τις κτίσις καινὴ ἐν Χριστῷ, τὰ ἀρχαῖα παρῆλθεν· ἰδοὺ καινὰ γέγονε τὰ πάντα.

[Aus c. VI 14. 15 ganz unsichere Anspielung: οὐδεμία κοινωνία φωτὶ πρὸς σκότος, οὐδὲ Χριστῷ πρὸς Βελίαρ]; adv. Marc. III, 8 hält Tert. die Stelle dem M. entgegen.

Aus c. VII 1 Anspielung: καθαρίσωμεν ἑαυτοὺς ἀπὸ μολυσμοῦ σαρκὸς καὶ αἵματος. Tert. verbindet c. XI, 2: παρθένον ἁγνὴν der Grundtext kann auch, wie alle Zeugen bieten, ἐφ' ᾧ οὐ θέλομεν gelautet haben — τοῦτο mit Gg Ambrosiaster > fehlt. — In Dial. V, 27 ist 4c verkuppelt mit I Kor. 15, 54.

---

5. 6. 8. Tert. (V, 12): „‚Arrabonem nos‘ ‚spiritus‘ dicit a ‚deo‘ habere . . . ‚et abesse a domino, quamdiu in carne sumus, ac propterea debere boni ducere abesse potius a corpore et esse cum domino.‘ “

10 Tert. (V, 12): „Atque adeo omnes ait nos oportere manifestari ante tribunal Christi, ut recipiat unusquisque quae per corpus admisit sive bonum sive malum“, so auch Esnik S. 201 (aber „erhalte mit seinem Leibe, was er vorher getan hat“ — sicher unrichtig). Dial. I, 16: ἕκαστος παρὰ Χριστοῦ κομίζεται εἴτε ἀγαθὸν εἴτε κακόν (Rufin: „Unusquisque a domino accipiet quae egit, sive bona sive mala“). Vielleicht haben die späteren Marcioniten das „Tribunal“ Christi als unpassend empfunden — Τὰ διὰ τοῦ σώματος fehlt auch in L — ἃ mit D* G und den lat. Codd., wenn sie auch ἃ διὰ als ἴδια gelesen haben > τά — ἔπραξεν mit D* G > πρὸς ἃ ἔπραξεν.

17 Tert. (V, 12): „‚Si qua ergo conditio nova in Christo, vetera transierunt, ecce nova facta sunt omnia.‘ “ Im Dial. II, 16: εἴ τις ἐν Χριστῷ („si qua in Christo“ Rufin), καινὴ κτίσις, τὰ ἀρχαῖα παρῆλθεν· ἰδοὺ γέγονε τὰ πάντα καινά. Die lateinische Fassung bei Tert. ist originell — τὰ πάντα mit Dbc KLP und einigen Vätern (und an dieser Stelle) > fehlt (τὰ πάντα vor καινά in Minuskeln und bei mehreren Vätern).

[VI, 14 f. Dial. III, 4: Wort des Bardesaniten Marinus]. Adv. Marc. III, 8: „negatam ab apostolo lucis, i. e. veritatis, et fallaciae, i. e. tenebrarum, communionem“.

VII, 1 Tert. (V, 12): „si etiam iubet, ut ‚mundemus nos ab inquinamento carnis et sanguinis‘ substantiam † capere regnum dei“. Der Text hat augenscheinlich eine Lücke; Zahns Ausfüllung durch I Kor. 15, 50 als Teil παραστῆσαι τῷ Χριστῷ eng mit dem vorigen Zitat; aber alles Übergangene hat gewiß nicht gefehlt; denn aus c. X ist erhalten 18 οὐχ ὁ ἑαυτὸν συνιστῶν δόκιμός ἐστιν.

Aus c. XI ist bezeugt (außer v. 2, s. u.) 13 ψευδαπόστολοι, ἐργάται δόλιοι, μετασχηματιζόμενοι. 14 ὁ Σατανᾶς μετασχηματίζεται εἰς ἄγγελον φωτός.

Aus c. XII sind bezeugt Teile von 2. 4. 7—9 παράδεισον ... ἄνθρωπον ἁρπαγέντα ἕως τρίτου οὐρανοῦ .... καὶ ἤκουσεν ἄρρητα des Textes Marcions hier ist nicht überzeugend, auch die Kroymanns nicht, s. zu c. 11, 2 — αἵματος selbständig und tendenziös > πνεύματος.

---

XI, 2 Tert. (V, 12) — unmittelbar an den vorigen Satz angeschlossen —: „si et ‚virginem sanctam‘ destinat ecclesiam ‚adsignare Christo‘, utique ut sponsam sponso“ etc. Da VII, 1 und XI, 2 als Parallelsätze geordnet sind und auch sachlich eine Verbindung besteht, so haben Zahn und a. geschlossen, M. habe alles zwischen VII, 1 und XI, 2 Liegende gestrichen. Allein diese Annahme hat die größten Bedenken gegen sich; denn (1) überliefert Adamant. c. X, 18 (s. Dial. II, 2 [Rufin: „... ille probatus est“ > ἐστιν δόκιμος Dial. Graec.] — δόκιμός ἐστιν D d r vulg ℵ*. Das Fehlen von ἐκεῖνος ist sonst unbezeugt), und wenn ein Zweifel am Marcionitischen Ursprung dieses Zitats möglich ist, so ist (2) zu beachten, daß im Texte Tert.s sich gerade hier eine Lücke findet (s. o.), von der wir nicht wissen, wie groß sie war; es kann ein ganzes Blatt ausgefallen sein. (3) ist die Streichung von 4 ganzen Kapiteln bei M. nicht glaublich (bei Röm. 3, 31 bis 4, 25; 9, 1—33; 10, 5—11, 32; 15. 16 liegt es anders, s. dort), zumal in diesen Kapiteln vieles steht, was ihm besonders zusagen mußte. (4) Tert. hat die zweite größere Hälfte des II Kor. auch sonst sehr kurz behandelt; s. zu c. VI. XI. XII. XIII. (5) Eine Lücke von 73 Versen hätte Tert. als solche sicher angemerkt. Zu beachten ist auch, daß Ephraem (36. Lied gegen die Ketzer c. 7) gegen M. höchstwahrscheinlich II Kor. 8, 9 (ἐπτώχευσε) anführt.

XI, 13 Tert. (V, 12): „Si et, ‚pseudapostolos‘ dicit ‚operarios dolosos, transfiguratores sui.‘“ Auch von Prophyrius (Nr. 26 meiner Ausgabe) auf die Urapostel bezogen. 14 Tert. (V, 12): „Si ‚Satanas transfiguratur in angelum lucis.‘“

XII. 2 Tert. (V, 12): „De ‚paradiso‘ suus stilus est ... ‚hominem tollere ad caelum‘ creatoris exemplum est in Helia ... creatoris ‚angelum satanae colophizando apostolo suo adplicuisse et ter ab eo obsecratum non concessisse‘ ... ‚ut virtus in infirmitate comprobaretur‘“. Adv. Marc. I, 14. 29 spielt Tert. auf v. 9 an. Esnik (Schmid S. 180): „Aber Paulus, sagen sie, wurde in den dritten Himmel entrückt, und er hörte (diese) unaussprechlichen Worte, (welche wir predigen). Aber siehe, Paulus sagt: „Was die Menschen nicht aussprechen dürfen“; s. auch S. 185, wo ῥήματα, ἃ οὐκ ἐξὸν ἀνθρώπῳ λαλῆσαι ... ἄγγελος Σατανᾶ, ἵνα με κολαφίζῃ ... τρὶς τὸν κύριον παρεκάλεσα ... δύναμις ἐν ἀσθενείᾳ τελεῖται.

Aus c. XIII sind bezeugt 1 τρίτον τοῦτο ἔρχομαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς. ἐπὶ στόματος δύο ἢ τριῶν μαρτύρων σταθήσεται πᾶν ῥῆμα. 2 οὗ φείσομαι τοῖς ἡμαρτηκόσιν, 3 ἢ δοκιμὴν ζητεῖτε τοῦ ἐν ἐμοὶ λαλοῦντος Χριστοῦ, 4 καὶ γὰρ εἰ καὶ ἐσταυρώθη ἐξ ἀσθενείας, ἀλλὰ ζῇ ἐκ δυνάμεως θεοῦ. 10 παρὼν μὴ ἀποτόμως χρήσωμαι κατὰ τὴν ἐξουσίαν ἣν ὁ κύριος ἔδωκεν.

In diesem Brief ist keine größere Auslassung bezeugt. Die großen Lücken, die Tert. in seiner kritischen Behandlung läßt, dürfen nicht als Ausmerzungen M.s in Anspruch genommen werden.

Προς Ῥωμαιους.

Aus c. I u. II: I, 13 τοῦ γενομένου ἐκ σπέρματος Δαβὶδ κατὰ σάρκα fehlte. I, 16 οὐ γὰρ ἐπαισχύνομαι τὸ εὐαγγέλιον· δύναμις γὰρ θεοῦ ἐστιν εἰς σωτηρίαν παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι, Ἰουδαίῳ καὶ Ἕλληνι, 17 δικαιο- sich noch die Worte finden: „Er wurde ins Paradies entrückt", S. 186: „Und ich hörte unaussprechliche Worte, welche niemand aussprechen darf."

---

XIII, 1 Dial. II, 18 (Rufin: „Ecce hoc tertio ... in ore enim duorum et" ...) — „ecce" mit ℵc A vielen Minusk. vulg. Damas. Augustin — γάρ Rufin ohne Zeugen — ἢ mit ℵ vulg — obige Stellung von μαρτύρων nur minusc. a^{scr}. Tert. (V, 12): „‚In tribus testibus' praefiniens ‚staturum omne verbum' ".

XIII, 2 Tert. (V, 12): „Quid et ‚non parsurum se peccatoribus' comminatur". Daß Tert. ‚peccatoribus' schreibt (> προημαρτηκόσιν) ist vielleicht nicht zu urgieren.

3 Dial. V, 6. ἢ vulg. Orig. und anderen Vätern > ἐπεί.

4 Dial. V, 12 (Rufin ohne das 2. καί) — εἰ mit ℵc ADbc L vulg usw. > fehlt — καί secundum mit Orig., Hippol. und wenigen Vätern > fehlt.

10 Tert. (V, 12): „immo et ipsam ‚durius agendi in praesentia potestatem a domino datam' sibi adfirmat".

I Daß M. die Erwähnung Davids aus Röm. 1, 3 gestrichen hat, sagt Orig., Comm. X § 24 in Joh. — V. 16. 17 Tert. (V, 13): „‚non enim me pudet evangelii; virtus enim dei est in salutem omni credenti, Judaeo et Graeco, quia iustitia dei in eo revelatur ex fide in fidem' ". — Ἰουδαίῳ mit BGg > Ἰουδ. τε πρῶτον. Da Tert. 18 a unmittelbar an 17 a anschließt und wörtlich zitiert, muß καθὼς γέγραπται· ὁ δὲ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται gefehlt haben.

σύνη γὰρ θεοῦ ἐν αὐτῷ ἀποκαλύπτεται ἐκ πίστεως εἰς πίστιν. 18 ἀποκαλύπτεται γὰρ ὀργὴ ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ ἐπὶ τὴν ἀσέβειαν καὶ ἀδικίαν ἀνθρώπων τῶν τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἐν ἀδικίᾳ κατεχόντων, I, 19—II, 1 waren sehr wahrscheinlich getilgt. II, 2 οἴδαμεν δὲ ὅτι τὸ κρίμα τοῦ θεοῦ κατὰ ἀλήθειάν ἐστιν. 12 ὅσοι ἀνόμως ἥμαρτον, ἀνόμως καὶ ἀπολοῦνται, καὶ ὅσοι ἐν νόμῳ ἥμαρτον, διὰ νόμου κριθήσονται, 13 οὐ γὰρ οἱ ἀκροαταὶ τοῦ νόμου δίκαιοι παρὰ τῷ θεῷ, ἀλλ' οἱ ποιηταὶ τοῦ νόμου δικαιωθήσονται. 14 Anspielung: τὰ μὴ νόμον ἔχοντα φύσει τὰ τοῦ νόμου ποιοῦσιν. 16 κρινεῖ ὁ θεὸς τὰ κρυπτὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου Χριστοῦ. 20 b ἔχοντα τὴν μόρφωσιν τῆς γνώσεως καὶ τῆς

---

18 „quoniam [et] ‚iram' dicit ‚revelari de caelo super impietatem et iniustitiam hominum, qui veritatem ⟨in⟩ iniustitia detineant' ". ὀργή mit minusc. 47 > ὀργὴ θεοῦ — ἐπὶ τὴν ἀσέβειαν unbezeugt > ἐπὶ πᾶσαν ἀσέβειαν. — Da Tert. fortfährt (c. II, 2): „etiam adiciens: „ ‚Scimus autem iudicium dei secundum veritatem esse' ", und gleich darauf bemerkt: „quantas autem foveas in ista vel maxime epistola Marcion fecerit auferendo quae voluit, de nostri instrumenti integritate parebit; mihi sufficit, quae proinde eradenda non vidit quasi neglegentias et caecitates eius accipere", so war bei ihm II, 2 unmittelbar mit I, 18 verbunden. Allerdings beschwert sich Orig. darüber, daß die Marcioniten „ne extremo quidem digito" die Schwierigkeiten berührt haben, die für ihre Lehre doppelt stark in Röm. 1, 24 ff. liegen, da sie doch eben um solcher Stellen willen (der strafende Gott) das AT verworfen haben (Comm. I, 8 in Rom., T. VI p. 55 f.). Allein man kann daraus nicht auch nur mit einiger Wahrscheinlichkeit schließen, daß M. die Stelle konserviert hat. Orig. mag das vorausgesetzt oder spätere Marcioniten mögen sie wieder rezipiert haben. Ἐπὶ τοὺς τὰ τοιαῦτα πράσσοντας (II, 2 b) braucht nicht gefehlt zu haben (gegen Zahn), da es sich gut zu I, 18 fügt.

II, 12. 13 Epiph. p. 118. 175.—13 τοῦ νόμου mit KLP, bez. Dc KL > νόμου.

14 Tert. (V, 13): S. zu v. 16.

16 Tert. (V, 13): „ ‚iudicabit deus occulta hominum', tam eorum qui in lege deliquerunt, quam eorum qui sine lege, quia ‚et hi legem ignorant et natura faciunt quae sunt legis' . . . iudicabit autem quomodo? ‚Secundum evangelium', inquit, ‚per Christum' ". Dial. II, 5: κρινεῖ ὁ θεὸς τὰ κρυπτὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ. Zu κ. τ. εὐαγγ. μου s. auch Dial. I, 6. Das an beiden Stellen vom Dial. gebotene μου muß Tert. übersehen haben; denn M. kann es nicht getilgt haben; dagegen wird Χριστοῦ (ohne Ἰησοῦ) richtig sein (so M. allein). Auch bei Orig. (Comm. in Joh. V S. 104; die Stelle ist oben zu Gal. 1, 7 abgedruckt) steht μου (und ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ).

20 b Epiph. p. 118. 176.

ἀληθείας ἐν τῷ νόμῳ. 21 ff Anspielung: ὁ κηρύσσων μὴ κλέπτειν κλέπτεις. 24 Anspielung: δι' ὑμᾶς τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ θεοῦ βλασφημεῖται. 25 περιτομὴ μὲν γὰρ ὠφελεῖ, ἐὰν νόμον πράσσῃς· ἐὰν δὲ παραβάτης νόμου ᾖς, ἡ περιτομή σου ἀκροβυστία γέγονεν. 26—29 Anspielungen: ἡ ἀκροβυστία... ὁ ἐν τῷ φανερῷ Ἰουδαῖος ... ὁ ἐν τῷ κρυπτῷ Ἰουδαῖος ... περιτομὴ καρδίας ἐν πνεύματι, οὐ γράμματι.

Aus c. III u. IV nur Anspielungen auf III, 12 (im gefälschten Laod.-Brief v. 5): ποιῶν χρηστότητα, III, 19: πᾶν στόμα φραγῇ καὶ ὑπόδικος γένηται πᾶς ὁ κόσμος und III, 20: διὰ νόμου ἐπίγνωσις ἁμαρτίας, ferner III, 21, welches sofort mit V, 1 verbunden war; es fehlten also III, 31—IV, 25; der Text lautete: Τότε νόμος, νυνὶ δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ διὰ πίστεως τοῦ Χριστοῦ· V, 1 δικαιωθέντες οὖν ἐκ πίστεως Χριστοῦ, οὐκ ἐκ νόμου, εἰρήνην ἔχωμεν πρὸς τὸν θεόν.

---

21 ff. Tert. (V, 13): „Vehitur in transgressores legis, docentes ‚non furari et furantes.‘ “

24 Tert. (V, 13): „ut ingesserit propheticam increpationem: ‚Propter vos nomen dei blasphematur‘ “.

25 Epiph. p. 118. 176 wörtlich; die ersten 7 Worte ebenso Dial. II, 20. Orig., Comm. in Rom. z. d. St.: „Marcion sane cui per allegoriam nihil placet intelligi, quomodo exponat quod dicit apostolus circumcisionem prodesse, omnino non inveniet.“

26—29 Tert. (V, 13): „Praefert et ‚circumcisionem cordis‘ praeputiationi ... ‚circumcisio cordis‘, non carnis, ‚spiritu non littera‘ ... eius erit spiritus circumcidens cor, cuius et littera metens carnem, eius et ‚Iudaeus, qui in occulto‘, cuius et ‚Iudaeus in aperto.‘ “

III, 19 Tert. (V, 13): „Lex totum mundum deduxerat in reatum et omne os obstruxerat.“ Es ist nicht statthaft (gegen Zahn), diese Anspielung auszuschließen. Für III, 20 darf man sich auf Orig., Comm. III, 6 in Rom., T. VI p. 195 berufen, der gegen M. bemerkt, es stünde Röm. 3, 20 nicht: „ex lege agnitio peccati“, sondern „per legem“.

III, 21. 22 u. V, 1 der wahre Sachverhalt bei Tert. (V, 13) ist bisher noch nicht durchschaut worden. Er schreibt: „‚Tunc lex, nunc iustitia dei per fidem Christi‘ “. Daß auch „tunc lex“ zum Text gehört, zeigt Tert., da er fortfährt: „Quae est ista dictinctio? servivit deus tuus dispositioni creatoris ‚dans ei tempus et legi eius? an eius ‚tunc‘ cuius et ‚nunc‘? eius ‚lex‘, cuius et ‚fides Christi‘? distinctio dispositionum est, non deorum; ‚monet iustificatos ex fide Christi, non ex lege‘ (man sieht, wie eng der Zusammenhang ist und aus III, 21 (χωρὶς νόμου) ist οὐκ ἐκ νόμου in V, 1 aufgenommen und Χριστοῦ zu πίστεως gefügt) ‚pacem ad deum habere.‘ “ — III, 21 τότε νόμος ist Einschub M.s, ebenso gehört die Verschmelzung von III, 21 u. 22 ihm an — πίστεως Χριστοῦ mit B > πιστ. Ἰ. Χρ. — V, 1

Aus c. V ist weiter bezeugt 6 ἔτι γὰρ Χριστὸς ὄντων ἡμῶν ἀσθενῶν ἔτι κατὰ καιρὸν ὑπὲρ ἀσεβῶν ἀπέθανεν. 8. συνίστησιν δὲ τὴν ἑαυτὴν ἀγάπην ὁ θεὸς εἰς ἡμᾶς ὅτι ⟨ἔτι⟩ ἁμαρτωλῶν ὄντων ἡμῶν Χριστὸς ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἀπέθανε, 9 πολλῷ μᾶλλον, δικαιωθέντες ἐν τῷ αἵματι αὐτοῦ, σωθησόμεθα ἀπὸ τῆς ὀργῆς δι' αὐτοῦ. 20 νόμος δὲ παρεισῆλθεν, ἵνα πλεονάσῃ τὸ παράπτωμα .... ὑπερεπερίσσευσεν ἡ χάρις, 21 ἵνα ὥσπερ ἐβασίλευσεν ἡ ἁμαρτία εἰς τὸν θάνατον, οὕτως καὶ ἡ χάρις βασιλεύσῃ ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ εἰς ζωὴν διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ.

Aus c. VI ist bezeugt: 1 f. μὴ γένοιτο, 3 ἢ ἀγνοεῖτε ὅτι ὅσοι ἐβαπτίσθητε εἰς Χριστόν, εἰς τὸν θάνατον αὐτοῦ ἐβαπτίσθητε. 4. 5. s. unten. 9 ὁ δὲ Χριστὸς ἀναστὰς οὐκέτι ἀποθνήσκει· θάνατος αὐτοῦ οὐκέτι κυριεύει· 10 ὁ γὰρ ἀπέθανε, τῇ ἁμαρτίᾳ ἀπέθανεν ἐφάπαξ, ὃ δὲ ζῇ, ζῇ τῷ θεῷ. 14 a ἁμαρτία ἐν ἡμῖν οὐκέτι κυριεύσει. 19 ὥσπερ γὰρ παρε-

(πίστεως) τοῦ Χριστοῦ selbständig — ἔχωμεν mit der Mehrzahl und den Lateinern > ἔχομεν, also bot schon M. jene sinnlose Lesart.

V, 6 Epiph. p. 118. 177 wörtlich.

8. 9 Dial. V, 12 (Rufin: „deus caritatem", „ab ira per ipsum") — ὁ θεὸς εἰς ἡμᾶς mit DGL d g Orig. Augustin > εἰς ἡμᾶς ὁ θεός — 9 πολλῷ mit D*d g Iren., Orig., Ambrosiaster > πολλῷ οὖν — δι' αὐτοῦ fehlt im Dial. im Griechischen; die Stellung nach ἀπὸ τῆς ὀργῆς ist sonst nicht bezeugt.

20 Tert. (V, 13): „‚Lex autem', inquit, ‚subintroivit, ut abundaret delictum' quare? ‚ut superabundaret', inquit, ‚gratia'. Daraufhin wage ich nicht, mit Zahn als sicher anzunehmen, M. habe ἵνα ὑπερπερισσεύσῃ ἡ χάρις geschrieben. Die Worte οὗ δὲ ἐπλεόνασεν ἡ ἁμαρτία überging Tert., also mußte er die Konstruktion verändern. Daß diese Stelle bei M. stand, bezeugt auch Orig. (Comm. V, 6 in Rom., T. VI p. 368 f.). Er schreibt: „Si quidem, antequam lex per Mosen daretur, nemo peccasset, volentes accusare legem ex his apostoli verbis Marcion et caeteri haeretici occasionem capere viderentur tamquam haec fuerit causa datae legis, ut peccatum, quod ante legem non fuerat, abundaret."

21 Tert. (V, 13): „‚Ut quemadmodum regnaverat peccatum in mortem, ita et gratia regnaret in iustitia in vitam per Iesum Christum'." — εἰς τ. θάνατον (> das allg. bezeugte ἐν τῷ θανάτῳ) ist nicht sicher — ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ sonst unbezeugt > διὰ δικαιοσύνης (auch nicht sicher) — αἰώνιον, welches hier nach ζωήν fehlt, ist sonst durchweg bezeugt.

VI, 1 f. Das „absit" (Tert. I, 27) kann nur aus dieser Stelle stammen; also haben v. 1 u. 2 im Text gestanden.

3. 9. 10. 14 a. 19. 20. Alle diese Zitate stammen aus den Dialogen (V, 12; V, 11 [v. 9]; V, 12 [v. 9. 10]; I, 27 [v. 14 a]; III, 7; I, 27). Sie sind an sich nicht sicher marcionitisch; aber einige Lesarten legen diesen Ursprung nahe. — 3 ἐβαπτίσθητε singulär; da aber Rufin mit allen Zeugen στήσατε τὰ μέλη ὑμῶν δουλεύειν τῇ ἀδικίᾳ καὶ τῇ ἀκαρθασίᾳ εἰς ἀνομίαν, οὕτω νῦν παραστήσατε τὰ μέλη τῷ θεῷ δουλεύειν ἐν τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ. 20 ὅτε δὲ ἦτε δοῦλοι τῆς ἁμαρτίας, ἐλεύθεροι ἦτε τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ.

Aus c. VII ist bezeugt 4 ἐθανατώθητε τῷ νόμῳ διὰ τοῦ σώματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ . . . . τῷ ἐκ νεκρῶν ἐγερθέντι. 5 ὅτε γὰρ ἦμεν ἐν τῇ σαρκί, τὰ παθήματα τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν τὰ διὰ τοῦ νόμου ἐνηργεῖτο ἐν ἡμῖν. 7 τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν; ὅτι νόμος ἁμαρτία; μὴ γένοιτο· ἀλλ' ἐγὼ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν οὐ γιγνώσκω εἰ μὴ διὰ νόμον. 8 Anspielung (kombiniert mit 11): ἁμαρτία ἀφορμὴν λαβοῦσα διὰ τῆς ἐντολῆς ἐξεπάτησεν.

ἐβαπτίσθημεν liest, so ist jene LA nicht sicher — Χριστόν mit B Minuskeln Orig. > Χρ. Ἰησοῦν — 9 zweimal zitiert, beidemal ὁ δὲ Χριστὸς ἀναστάς (so auch Rufin: „surgens a mortuis" bez. „resurrexit a mortuis") > εἰδότες ὅτι Χριστ'ς ἐγερθεὶς ἐκ νεκρῶν, selbständig; jene LA ist marcionitisch, s. z. Gal. 1, 1 — 14 a (nur Rufin) ἐν ἡμῖν ohne Zeugen > ὑμῶν — οὐκέτι mit ℵ*KOrig. > οὐ — 19 (γάρ durch Rufin bezeugt — „servire" beide Male Rufin > δοῦλα des griech. Texts — „ita nunc" Rufin >οὕτω des griech. Texts — ὑμῶν secundum fehlt im griech. Text — „in iustitia" Rufin > τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ griechischer Text): δουλεύειν mit Gdg vulg Orig., Ambrosiaster > δοῦλα — τῇ ἀδικίᾳ καὶ τῇ ἀκαθαρσίᾳ sonst unbezeugt > τῇ ἀκαρθ. κ. τ. ἀνομία — τῷ θεῷ δουλεύειν ἐν τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ sonst unbezeugt > δοῦλα τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ. Jene LA ist marcionitisch; nicht „der Gerechtigkeit" soll man sich in den Dienst stellen, sondern Gott — 20 δέ (fehlt im Griech.), sonst unbezeugt > γάρ — ἦτε δοῦλοι mit L > δοῦλοι ἦτε. — Der armenisch erhaltene antimarcionitische Syrer (s. über ihn in Beilage VI) zitiert v. 5 als in M.s Apostolos stehend, aber in bezug auf den Wortlaut des Textes („Denn wenn wir Zusammengepflanzte für den Tod unsres Herrn geworden sind, so gleicherweise auch für seine Auferstehung"), hat man, außer für σύμφυτοι, keine Sicherheit. Aus Hieron., c. Joh. Hierosol. 36 folgt, daß v. 4 bei M. erhalten war.

VII, 4 Tert. (V, 13): „‚Mortuos nos' inquit ‚legi ⟨per corpus ‚Christi'⟩; ergo corpus Christi est . . . eius nominat corpus, quem subicit ex mortuis resurrexisse" (Kroymanns Einschiebung ist notwendig).

5 Dial. V, 22. Da das Zitat mit einem Zitat aus Röm. 8, 9 verbunden ist, bietet hier der Dial. die 2. Person für die 1.; ich habe das korrigiert. Rufin richtig διὰ τοῦ νόμου, der griech. Text fehlerhaft διὰ τῆς σαρκός — ἐν ἡμῖν sonst unbezeugt > ἐν τοῖς μέλεσιν ἡμῶν.

7 Tert. (V, 13): „‚Quid ergo dicemus, quia lex peccatum? absit . . . sed ego delictum non scio nisi per legem'." — ἀλλ' ἐγώ sonst unbezeugt > ἀλλά — ὅτι mit einigen Minuskeln > fehlt — γιγνώσκω sonst unbezeugt > ἔγνω.

8 (11) Tert. (V, 13): „Non ergo lex seduxit, sed peccatum per praecepti occasionem".

12 ὥστε ὁ μὲν νόμος ἅγιος καὶ ἡ ἐντολὴ ἁγία καὶ δικαία καὶ ἀγαθή. 13 ἡ ἁμαρτία, ἵνα φανῇ ἁμαρτία, διὰ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ μοι κατεργαζομένη θάνατον. 14 a ὁ νόμος πνευματικός. 18 bezeugt. 23 Anspielung: (ἕτερον) νόμον ἐν τοῖς μέλεσίν μου ἀντιστρατευόμενον τῷ νόμῳ τοῦ νοός μου. 24 ταλαίπωρος ἐγὼ ἄνθρωπος· τίς με ῥύσεται ἐκ τοῦ σώματος τοῦ θανάτου τούτου; 25 b ἄρα γὰρ αὐτὸς ἐγὼ τῷ μὲν νοῖ δουλεύω τῷ νόμῳ τοῦ θεοῦ, τῇ δὲ σαρκὶ νόμῳ ἁμαρτίας.

Aus c. VIII ist bezeugt 1 οὐδὲν ἄρα νῦν κατάκριμα τοῖς ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ. 2 ὁ γὰρ νόμος τοῦ πνεύματος τῆς ζωῆς ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ ἠλευθέρωσεν ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ τοῦ νόμου τῆς ἁμαρτίας καὶ τοῦ θανάτου. 3 Anspielung: (τὸν ἑαυτοῦ υἱὸν) πέμψας ἐν ὁμοιώματι σαρκὸς ἁμαρτίας. 4 ἵνα τὸ δικαίωμα τοῦ νόμου πληρωθῇ ἐν ἡμῖν ⟨τοῖς⟩ μὴ κατὰ σάρκα περιπατοῦσιν, ἀλλὰ κατὰ πνεῦμα· 5 οἱ γὰρ κατὰ σάρκα περιπατοῦντες τὰ τῆς σαρκὸς φρονοῦσιν, οἱ δὲ κατὰ πνεῦμα τὰ τοῦ πνεύματος· 6 τὸ γὰρ φρόνημα τῆς σαρκὸς ⟨θάνατος⟩, τὸ δὲ φρόνημα τοῦ πνεύματος ζωὴ καὶ 12 Epiph. p. 118. 177. Dial. II, 20 wörtlich. Tert. (V, 13): „Lex sancta et praeceptum eius iustum et bonum“ (die Abkürzungen von ἅγιος und αὐτός sind vom Übersetzer wahrscheinlich verwechselt).

---

13 Dial. II, 20 wörtlich.

14 Tert. (V, 13): „ ‚spiritalem‘ confirmat ‚legem‘ “ — 18 Daß die Marcioniten diesen Spruch, daß im Fleische nichts Gutes wohnt, für ihre Lehre verwendet haben, sagt Clemens, Strom. III, 11, 76.

23 Tert. (V, 14): „ ‚legem peccati habitantem in membris suis et adversantem legi sensus‘.“

24 Dial. V, 21 wörtlich. Die Bezeichnung M.'s für seine Glaubensgenossen ‚συνταλαίπωροι‘ stammt wohl aus dieser Stelle.

25 b Dial. V, 27 wörtlich; ἄρα γάρ fehlt bei Rufin; sonst unbezeugt > ἄρα οὖν — τῷ μὲν νοῖ mit der Mehrzahl > τῷ νοῖ ℵ*G d f e g Orig. Ambrosiaster — τοῦ θεοῦ sonst unbezeugt > θεοῦ..

VIII, 1. 2 Dial. V, 27 — ἡμᾶς mit cop aeth ar^{e} > με (σε).

3 Tert. (V, 14): „Hunc si pater misit ‚in similitudinem carnis peccati‘ “ (gleich darauf noch einmal). „pater“ sonst unbezeugt > ὁ θεός, aber Tert. referiert hier nur; ich wage daher nicht ὁ πατήρ aufzunehmen.

4 a Epiph. p. 118. 177. 4—6 Dial. V, 22 — 5 περιπατοῦντες sonst unbezeugt > ὄντες — 6 Der Text bietet nach σαρκός die Worte ἔχθρα εἰς θεόν für θάνατος sie stammen aus dem nächsten Vers; wohl nur durch ein Versehen sind sie vorweggenommen. Esnik zitiert v. 5 u. 9 (ob aus M.'s Text?).

9 Dial. V, 22 (zweimal; das zweite Mal νῦν für ὑμεῖς, sonst unbezeugt, aber beizubehalten, vgl. τότε in 3, 21). Tert. (V, 14): „. . . . nolit esse nos in carne, cum simus in carne.“ εἰρήνη. 9 νῦν δὲ οὐκ ἐστὲ ἐν σαρκί, ἀλλ' ἐν πνεύματι. 10 τὸ μὲν σῶμα νεκρὸν διὰ ἁμαρτίαν, τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ζωὴ διὰ δικαιοσύνην. 11 ὁ ἐγείρας Χριστὸν ἐκ νεκρῶν, ζωοποιήσει καὶ τὰ θνητὰ σώματα ὑμῶν. 19—22 gestrichen. (36 ἑνεκά σου θανατούμεθα ὅλην τὴν ἡμέραν). Große Lücke, sehr wahrscheinlich das ganze IX. Kapitel umfassend.

Aus c. X ist bezeugt (nach einer Anspielung auf 1 'Ισραήλ) 2 μαρτυρῶ αὐτοῖς ὅτι ζῆλον θεοῦ ἔχουσιν, ἀλλ' οὐ κατ' ἐπίγνωσιν, 3 θεὸν γὰρ ἀγνοοῦντες καὶ τὴν ἰδίαν δικαιοσύνην στῆσαι ζητοῦντες, οὐχ ὑπετάγησαν τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ θεοῦ. 4 τέλος γὰρ νόμου Χριστὸς εἰς δικαιοσύνην παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι. In bezug auf diesen Spruch hat M. den Apostel XI, 33 ausrufen lassen; es fehlte also alles Dazwischenliegende.

---

10 Tert. (V, 14): „,corpus quidem mortuum propter delictum, spiritus autem vita propter iustitiam'."

11 Tert. (V, 14): „,qui suscitavit Christum a mortuis, vivificabit et mortalia corpora vestra'." — ἐκ νεκρῶν nach Χριστόν mit ℵcBDGK vulg. Orig. Iren. > ἐκ νεκρῶν nach ἐγείρας — (τὸν) Χριστὸν mit ℵcDcGLP-Valentin und Vätern > Χριστὸν 'Ιησοῦν.

19—22 gestrichen; denn Orig. schreibt Hom. I, 7 in Ezech., T. XIV, p. 20 f.: „Nam ,exspectatio creaturae revelationem filiorum dei exspectat'. et licet nolint ii, qui scripturas apostolicas interpolaverunt, iustiusmodi sermones inesse libris eorum, quibus possit creator Christus approbari, exspectat tamen omnis creatura" etc.

36 Dial. I, 21. Es ist nicht sicher, daß diese Worte aus M.s Bibel geschöpft sind.

Kein Zitat aus c. 9 bei Tert., Epiph., Adamant.; Tert. (V, 14) aber schreibt hier: „Salio et hic amplissimum abruptum intercisae scripturae, sed adprehendo (X, 1—4) ,testimonium perhibentem' apostolum Israeli, ,quod zelum dei habeant', sui utique, ,non tamen per scientiam'; ,deum' enim ,inquit, ,ignorantes et suam iustitiam sistere quaerentes non subiecerunt se iustitiae dei; finis etenim legis Christus in iustitiam omni credenti'." — Nicht nur die Wortstellung ist X, 3 abweichend von der überlieferten, sondern auch singulär ist θεόν (so auch im folgenden „inscitia erga deum, ignorantia erga deum") > τὴν τοῦ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην — 4 auch Epiph. p. 118. 178. Das „Israeli" Tert.s zeigt, daß M. v. 1 ὑπὲρ τοῦ 'Ισραήλ mit KL und antioch. Vätern > ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν gelesen hat.

Keine Zitate aus X, 5—XI, 32 bei Adamant. u. Epiph. Der Spruch XI, 33 paßte im Sinne M.s trefflich zu X, 4, was Tert. freilich nicht einzusehen vermag und sich wundert. Den ausgelassenen Abschnitt hat M. aus dogmatischen Gründen tilgen müssen.

XI, 33 Tert. (V, 14): „Atquin exclamat: ,O profundum divitiarum et sapientiae dei, et investigabiles (nicht zu korrigieren!) viae eius'! unde ista (Mss. ,irae') eruptio? ex recordatione scilicet scripturarum, quas retro revol-

Aus c. XI: 33 ὦ βάθος πλούτου καὶ σοφίας θεοῦ, καὶ ἀνεξιχνίαστοι αἱ ὁδοὶ αὐτοῦ, 34 τίς γὰρ ἔγνω νοῦν κυρίου; ἢ τίς σύμβουλος αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο; τίς προέδωκεν αὐτῷ, καὶ ἀνταποδοθήσεται αὐτῷ;

Aus c. XII 9 ἀποστυγοῦντες τὸ πονηρὸν καὶ κολλώμενοι τῷ ἀγαθῷ, 10 τῇ φιλαδελφίᾳ εἰς ἀλλήλους φιλόστοργοι, 12 τῇ ἐλπίδι χαίροντες, τῇ θλίψει ὑπομένοντες, 14 εὐλογεῖτε καὶ μὴ καταρᾶσθε, 16 μὴ τὰ ὑψηλὰ φρονοῦντες, ἀλλὰ τοῖς ταπεινοῖς συναπαγόμενοι, μὴ γίνεσθε παρ' ἑαυτοῖς φρόνιμοι, 17 κακὸν ἀντὶ κακοῦ μηδενὶ ἀποδιδόντες, 19 μὴ ἑαυτοὺς ἐκδικοῦντες· ἐμοὶ γὰρ ἐκδίκησις κἀγὼ ἀνταποδώσω, λέγει κύριος, 18 εἰρηνεύοντες μετὰ πάντων (ἀνθρώπων).

Aus c. XIII ist bezeugt 8 b ὁ γὰρ ἀγαπῶν τὸν πλησίον νόμον πεπλήρωκε. 9 τὸ γὰρ οὐ φονεύσεις, οὐ μοιχεύσεις, οὐ κλέψεις καὶ εἴ τις verat, ex contemplatione sacramentorum, quae supra disseruerat in fidem Christi ex lege venientem. haec si Marcion de industria erasit, quid apostolus eius exclamat, nullas intuens divitias dei, tam pauperi et egeni'." Gleich darauf noch einmal: „ ‚O profundum divitiarum et sapientiae dei'." Dann: XI, 34 f.: „ ‚quis enim cognovit sensum domini aut quis consiliarius ⟨eius⟩ fuit? quis porrexit ei et retribuetur illi'." Hierauf: „qui tanta de scripturis ademisti, quid ista (XI, 34. 35) servasti, quasi non et haec creatoris'?" (weil aus Jesajas) — 33 die Worte καὶ γνώσεως und ὡς ἀνεξερεύνητα τὰ κρίματα αὐτοῦ sind absichtlich getilgt — 35 ἢ τίς ist die sonst bezeugte Lesart. Adv. Marc. II, 2 zitiert Tert. Röm. 11, 33 f. nach dem katholischen Text.

---

XII, 9. 10. 12 14. 16. 17. 18. 19 Tert. (V, 14): „ ‚Odio', inquit, ‚habentes malum et bono adhaerentes' " 10 „ ‚amore fraternitatis invicem adfectuosi' " 12 „ ‚spe gaudentes', pressuram sustinentes, " 14 „ ‚benedicte et nolite maledicere' " (dies auch in einer Antithese M.s bei Orig., hom. XV, 3 in Num. 23, 8, T. X p. 174) 16 „ ‚non altum sapientes, sed humilibus adsectantes; ne sitis apud vos sapientes' " 17 „ ‚malum pro malo nemini retribueritis' " 19 „ ‚nec vosmet ipsos ulciscentes; mihi enim vindictam et ego vindicabo, dicit dominus' " 18 „ ‚pacem cum omnibus (ob auch hominibus?) habetote'." M. hat also v. 18 und 19 umgestellt, was logisch ist und sicher γέγραπται (v. 19), wahrscheinlich ἀλλὰ δότε τόπον τῇ ὀργῇ ausgelassen (tendenziös). Über die anderen Auslassungen läßt sich nicht urteilen. Die etwas verschiedene Wortstellung und ein paar Kleinigkeiten mögen auf Rechnung Tert.s kommen, der die Abschrift des Textes mehrmals unterbricht. — 19 κἀγώ mit Cypr., Ambrosiaster (Tert. selbst adv. Marc. IV, 16) > ἐγώ.

XIII, 8 b Epiph. p. 118. 178.

XIII, 9, 10 Dial. II, 17 (Rufin läßt ἐν aus). Die Wortstellung οὐ φον., οὐ μοιχ. ist sonst unbezeugt und nach dem Dekalog gemacht; οὐκ ἐπιθυμήσεις fehlt mit Clem. Alex. und Orig. — ἐν τούτῳ τ. λόγῳ mit ALP d ἑτέρα ἐντολή, ἐν τούτῳ τῷ λόγῳ ἀνακεφαλαιοῦται, ἐν τῷ Ἀγαπήσεις τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν· 10 ἡ ἀγάπη τῷ πλησίον κακὸν οὐκ ἐργάζεται. πλήρωμα οὖν νόμου ἡ ἀγάπη.

Aus XIV eine Anspielung zu 10 τῷ βήματι τοῦ Χριστοῦ, 21 καλὸν τὸ μὴ φαγεῖν κρέα μηδὲ πιεῖν οἶνον μηδὲ ἐν ᾧ ὁ ἀδελφός σου προσκόπτει. 23 πᾶν δὲ ὃ οὐκ ἐκ πίστεως ἁμαρτία ἐστίν. Damit hat der Brief nach Marcion geschlossen; es folgte der Gruß: Ἡ χάρις μετὰ πάντων ἁγίων.

---

vulg Clem. Alex. > ἐν τ. λόγῳ τούτῳ. Tert. (V, 14): „Merito itaque totam creatoris disciplinam principali praecepto eius conclusit: ‚Diliges proximum tamquam te. hoc legis supplementum‘.“

XIV, 2 durch Esnik S. 198 bezeugt (aber ob aus M.s Text?). Vers 10 Tert. (V, 14): „Bene autem quod in clausula tribunal Christi comminatur“ (Christi mit ℵcCLPPolykarp usw. > τοῦ θεοῦ mit der großen Mehrzahl und DG d g). Also hat nach Tert. nur noch weniges in dem Briefe gestanden. Dies bezeugt aber auch Origenes ausdrücklich (Comm. in Rom. nach Anführung von 16, 25 ff.): „Caput hoc Marcion, a quo scripturae evangelicae atque apostolicae interpolatae sunt, de hac epistula penitus abstulit, et non solum hoc, sed et ab eo loco, ubi scriptum et: ‚Omne autem quod non ex fide, peccatum est‘, usque ad finem cuncta dissecuit. in aliis vero exemplaribus, i. e. in his, quae non sunt a Marcione temerata, hoc ipsum caput (Röm. 16, 25—27) diverse positum invenimus“ usw. Also schloß der Brief mit 14, 23. Der Versuch Zahns, die Worte des Origenes anders zu deuten (er will u. a. „dissecuit“ als „zerschneiden“ verstehen, als könne es nicht gut lateinisch „abschneiden“ bedeuten), sind gescheitert. Der Schluß ist auch keine Geschmacklosigkeit („die man Marcion nicht zutrauen kann“; so Zahn, Gesch. d. NTlichen Kanons II S. 521), wenn eine kurze Grußformel folgte. Eine solche wird m. E. durch die Worte des Orig. nicht ausgeschlossen, und wirklich hat de Bruyne („La finale Marcionite de la lettre aux Rom. retrouvée“, Rev. Bénéd. 1911 p. 133 ff., vgl. l. c. 1921 Oktob.) wahrscheinlich gemacht, daß aus einer fragmentarisch erhaltenen Handschrift von Monza sich der Marcionitische Schluß des Briefs noch ermitteln läßt: „Gratia cum omnibus sanctis“ (in der Handschrift ist „bus“ erhalten). Da dieser Gruß an alle Christen geht, so kann man mit Recht mit de Bruyne fragen, ob die Unterdrückung der Adresse „Rom“ in 1, 7. 15 in einigen Mss. nicht letztlich auf M. (oder schon auf eine Rezension vor M.?) zurückgeht. Zur Textgeschichte von Röm. 15.16 s. Corssen (Ztschr. f. NTliche Wissensch. X S. 1 ff. 97 ff.); er hat u. a. wahrscheinlich gemacht, daß auch in dem altlateinischen Texte, wie er durch DG repräsentiert ist, diese Capp. ursprünglich gefehlt haben. C. 16, 25—27 hat M. nicht gelesen (auch Iren., Tert., Cypr. bezeugen sie nicht). Näheres s. unten. Die Verse sind unecht, aber sehr alt und Marcionitisch.

Aus diesem Briefe hatte M. nachweisbar 1, 17 b; 1, 19—2, 1; 3, 31—4, 25; 9, 1—33 (sehr wahrscheinlich); 10, 5—11, 32; 15 u. 16 gestrichen bez. nicht geboten, also rund sechs Kapitel.

Προς Θεσσαλονικεις Α.

Aus c. II ist bezeugt: 14. ὅτι καὶ ὑμεῖς ταὐτὰ ἐπάθετε ὑπὸ τῶν ἰδίων συμφυλετῶν, καθὰ καὶ αὐτοὶ ὑπὸ τῶν Ἰουδαίων, 15 a τῶν καὶ τὸν κύριον ἀποκτεινάντων (Ἰησοῦν) καὶ τοὺς ἰδίους προφήτας.

Aus c. IV ist bezeugt 3 τοῦτο . . . θέλημα τοῦ θεοῦ, ὁ ἁγιασμὸς ὑμῶν, ἀπέχεσθαι ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ τῆς πορνείας, 4 εἰδέναι ἕνα ἕκαστον τὸ ἑαυτοῦ σκεῦος κτᾶσθαι ἐν τιμῇ, 5 Anspielung: μὴ ἐν ἐπιθυμίᾳ καθά-

Ich habe das in den Sitzungsber. der Preuß. Akademie 1919 S. 572 ff. dargetan, s. auch Lietzmann, Römerbrief 2. Aufl. S. 124 f. Näheres s. unten. Zahn (a. a. O. S. 428 ff.) nimmt an, daß sich auch noch später Marcioniten auf diese Verse berufen haben, und begründet das mit der Ausführung des Origenes (nach Hieron.) zu Eph. 3, 5, die sich gegen Häretiker richtet, welche diese Stelle für sich verwerteten; allein daß diese Häretiker Marcioniten waren, ist mindestens nicht sicher. — C. 14, 21 bezeugt Esnik (Schmid S. 197): „Aber sie sagen, daß der Apostel sagt: ‚Besser ist es, nicht Fleisch zu essen und nicht Wein zu trinken und nicht etwas (zu tun), woran mein Bruder Ärgernis nimmt'." Ein anderer Text als der überlieferte ist nicht anzunehmen; doch ist es unsicher, ob hier M.s Text vorliegt.

Epiph. p. 178: Τῆς πρὸς Θεσσαλονικεῖς ⟨α'⟩, πέμπτης ἐπιστολῆς — οὕτω γὰρ κεῖται ἐν τῷ Μαρκίωνι — ὀγδόης δὲ οὔσης παρὰ τῷ ἀποστόλῳ, τὰ πάντα τοῦ Μαρκίωνος διαστραμμένως ἀπ' αὐτῆς ἔχοντος οὐδὲν ἐξ αὐτῆς παρεθέμεθα, und Τῆς πρὸς Θεσσαλονικεῖς δευτέρας, ἕκτης [δὲ] κειμένης παρὰ τῷ Μαρκίωνι, ἑνάτης δὲ οὔσης παρὰ τῷ ἀποστόλῳ, ὁμοίως διαστραφείσης ὑπ' αὐτοῦ Μαρκίωνος, πάλιν οὐδὲν ἐξεθέμεθα. Epiphanius hatte sich, als er vor Jahren die Auszüge aus den Paulusbriefen machte, nichts aus diesen Briefen angemerkt und deutete dies, den Tatbestand vergessend, nun so, als seien die Briefe hoffnungslos verfälscht und verkehrt.

II, 14. 15 Dial. V, 12 (aber Rufin bietet den Text nur bis ἀποκτεινάντων; auch hat nur er καὶ ὑμεῖς). Tert. (V, 15): „‚Occiderant Iudaei prophetas suos'; sodann „qui et dominum interfecerunt', dicendo ‚et prophetas suos', licet ‚suos' adiectio sit haeretici." Nach Tert. lautete der Text καὶ τοὺς ἰδίους προφήτας (mit D^{bc}KL und einigen Vätern) > τ. προφ. — 15 τὸν κύριον mit Minuskeln, Orig., Chrysost. > τ. κυρ. Ἰησοῦν. Sicher ist es nicht, daß Dial. V, 12 sein Zitat aus M.s Bibel genommen hat.

IV, 3—5 Tert. (V, 15): „Quam autem ‚sanctitatem nostram voluntatem dei' dicat, ex contrariis quae prohibet, agnoscere est: ‚abstinere' enim, in- περ τὰ ἔθνη. 15 Anspielung: οἱ παραλειπόμενοι εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν τοῦ κυρίου (oder τοῦ Χριστοῦ). 16 b οἱ νεκροὶ ἐν Χριστῷ ἀναστήσονται πρῶτοι. 17 Stücke: οἱ περιλειπόμενοι εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν αὐτοῦ ἅμα σὺν αὐτοῖς ἁρπαγησόμεθα ἐν νεφέλαις εἰς ἀπάντησιν τοῦ κυρίου εἰς ἀέρα. Wahrscheinlich sind die Verse 16. 17 noch umfassender bezeugt; s. darüber unten.

Aus c. V ist bezeugt 19 τὸ πνεῦμα μὴ σβέννυτε, 20 προφητείας quit, ‚a stupro, scire unumquemque vas suum in honore tractare .... non in libidine, qua gentes‘ — 4 ἕνα ἕκαστον mit B^3D^bChrysost. > ἕκαστον — Durchweg ist sonst ἐν ἁγιασμῷ καὶ τιμῇ bezeugt (Tert. läßt aber auch wenige Zeilen später ἐν ἁγιασμῷ aus: „quae vas nostrum in honore matrimonii tractet“). Das Wort ἁγιασμός war ihm wohl in diesem Falle zu kostbar.

---

IV, 15—17 Tert. (V, 15): „Ait eos ‚qui remaneant in adventum Christi cum eis, qui mortui in Christo primi resurgent‘ (cf. V, 20: „‚in adventu domini ... qui primi resurgent‘ “), ‚quod in nubibus auferentur in aërem obviam domino‘ “ (V, 20: „‚cum illis‘, dicit, ‚simul rapiemur in nubibus obviam domino‘ “) — „in adventum Christi“ (bez. „domini“) ist aus v. 15 herübergenommen — πρῶτοι mit D*G itala vulg. > πρῶτον — aus dem dramatischen Vers 16 a bringt Tert. nichts. Dagegen bietet Dial. I, 25 die Verse 16. 17 vollständig: ἐν κελεύσματι θεοῦ, ἐν φωνῇ ἀρχαγγέλου, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ σάλπιγγι καταβήσεται κύριος ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ, καὶ οἱ νεκροὶ ἐγερθήσονται πρῶτοι, 17 ἔπειτα καὶ ἡμεῖς οἱ περιλειπόμενοι εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν αὐτοῦ ἅμα σὺν αὐτοῖς ἁρπαγησόμεθα ἐν νεφέλαις εἰς ἀπάντησιν αὐτοῦ (Rufin: „In iussu dei, in voce archangeli, in novissima tuba descendet de coelis, et mortui resurgunt (resurgent) primi, 17 deinde nos qui vivimus, qui reliqui sumus in adventu eius, simul cum ipsis rapiemur in nubibus obviam Christo in aëra“). Im griech. Text ist κύριος zugesetzt und οἱ ζῶντες aus Versehen ausgefallen; οὐρανῶν ist > das sonst durchweg bezeugte οὐρανοῦ beizubehalten, ebenso das sonst unbezeugte καὶ vor ἡμεῖς und am Schluß Χριστοῦ > αὐτοῦ. Es ist nicht absolut sicher, daß dieses Zitat aus M.s Bibel stammt; aber da es mit dem Text Tert.s sowohl πρῶτοι als auch die Herübernahme von εἰς τὴν παρουσίαν aus v. 15 in v. 17 gemeinsam hat, so ist der Marcionitische Ursprung sehr wahrscheinlich. Dazu kommen eigentümliche Lesarten: θεοῦ ist von σάλπιγγι zu κελεύσματι gezogen (das scheint nicht unabsichtlich zu sein), ἐσχάτῃ ist hinzugesetzt, ἐν Χριστῷ nach οἱ νεκροί fehlt (auch das wird nicht unabsichtlich sein; M. dachte an die allgemeine Auferstehung), ferner ἐγερθήσονται mit wenigen Vätern > ἀναστήσονται, sodann καὶ ἡμεῖς, und endlich τοῦ Χριστοῦ (τῷ Χριστῷ) am Schluß mit D G d g vulg. Orig. > τ. κυρίου (τ. κυρίῳ).

V, 19. 20 Tert. (V, 15): „Quem ‚spiritum‘ prohibet ‚extingui‘, et quas ‚prophetias‘ vetat ‚nihil haberi?‘ “.

μὴ ἐξουθενεῖτε. 23 τὸ πνεῦμα ὑμῶν καὶ ἡ ψυχὴ καὶ τὸ σῶμα ἀμέμπτως ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ τοῦ κυρίου καὶ σωτῆρος ἡμῶν Χριστοῦ τηρηθείη. 26 ἀσπάσασθε πάντας τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς ἐν φιλήματι ἁγίῳ.

In diesem Brief sind größere Streichungen nicht nachweisbar.

Προς Θεσσαλονικεις Β.

Aus c. I ist bezeugt aus 6—9 εἴπερ δίκαιον παρὰ κυρίῳ ἀποδοῦναι τοῖς θλίβουσιν ὑμᾶς θλῖψιν, 7 καὶ ὑμῖν τοῖς θλιβομένοις ἄνεσιν (μεθ' ἡμῶν) ἐν τῇ ἀποκαλύψει τοῦ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ μετ' ἀγγέλων δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ, 8 ἐρχομένου εἰς ἐκδίκησιν τοῖς μὴ εἰδόσιν θεὸν καὶ τοῖς μὴ ὑπακούουσιν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ, 9 οἵτινες δίκην τίσουσιν ὀλέθριον αἰώνιον ἀπὸ προσώπου τοῦ κυρίου καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς δόξης τῆς ἰσχύος αὐτοῦ.

---

23 Tert. (V, 15): „Quomodo apostolus omnes in nobis substantias certis nominibus distinxit, et omnes in uno voto constituit salutis, optans, ut ‚spiritus noster et corpus et anima sine querela in adventu domini et salutificatoris nostri Christi conserventur?‘“ — ὁλόκληρον tendenziös getilgt — καὶ σωτῆρος ist sonst unbezeugter Zusatz. — Χριστοῦ allein > Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ.

26 So der gefälschte Laod.-Brief 17; aber der Vers ist dort nicht sicher ursprünglich.

I, 6—9 Tert. (V, 16): „Dominum et hic retributorem utriusque meriti dicimus circumferri ab apostolo, . . . ‚apud quem iustum sit adflictatoribus nostris rependi adflictationem et nobis, qui adflictemur, requietem in revelatione domini Iesu venientis a caelo cum angelis virtutis suae et in flamma ignis‘. sed flammam et ignem delendo haereticus extinxit. lucet tamen vanitas liturae, cum enim ‚ad ultionem‘ venturam scribat apostolus ‚dominum exigendam de eis, qui deum ignorent et qui non obaudiant evangelio‘, ‚quos‘ ait ‚poenam luituros exitialem aeternam a facie domini et a gloria valentiae eius‘“ (die letzten 8 Worte gleich darauf noch einmal). Zu 6. 7: Dial. II, 5: εἴπερ, φησί, δίκαιον παρὰ κυρίου ἀποδοῦναι τοῖς θλίβουσιν ὑμᾶς θλῖψιν, καὶ ὑμῖν τοῖς θλιβομένοις ἄνεσιν (Ruf: „‚apud deum‘“ und so ist zu lesen). In der Wiederholung II, 6 derselbe Satz, aber παρὰ θεῷ δίκαιον ἀνταποδοῦναι. Obwohl die erste Fassung dem Adamant., die zweite dem Marcioniten in den Mund gelegt ist, entfernt sich jene durch παρὰ κυρίου und ἀποδοῦναι vom üblichen Text. Dem Redaktor scheint hier ein Versehen passiert zu sein; auch Tert. hat κύριος, nicht θεός, gelesen. Die Lesart ist sonst unbezeugt, ebenso ἀποδοῦναι — 7 μεθ' ἡμῶν fehlt bei allen drei Zeugen, aber konnte nicht wohl von ihnen aufgenommen werden. — 8 ἐρχομένου εἰς sonst unbezeugt > διδόντος. Die Auslassung der Feuerflamme und die Ersetzung des διδόντος durch ἐρχομένου sind tendenziös. — εὐαγγελίῳ: ob τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ wirklich gefehlt hat? — 9 ὀλέθριον mit A, ein paar Minuskeln und wenigen Vätern, wahrscheinlich auch die Iren. und andere lat. Zeugen > ὄλεθρον.

Aus c. II ist bezeugt 3 ἐὰν μὴ . . . . ἀποκαλυφθῇ ὁ ἄνθρωπος τῆς ἀνομίας, ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας, 4 ὁ ὑπεραιρόμενος ἐπὶ πάντα λεγόμενον θεὸν καὶ πᾶν σέβασμα, ὥστε αὐτὸν εἰς τὸν ναὸν τοῦ θεοῦ καθίσαι (θεὸν ἑαυτὸν ἐπαγγελλόμενον?). 9 (οὗ ἐστὶν ἡ παρουσία κατ' ἐνέργειαν) τοῦ Σατανᾶ. . . . ἐν πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ σημείοις καὶ τέρασιν ψεύδους. 10 ἀνθ' ὧν τὴν ἀγάπην τῆς ἀληθείας οὐκ ἐδέξαντο εἰς τὸ σώζεσθαι αὐτούς, 11 καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ἔσται αὐτοῖς εἰς ἐνέργειαν πλάνης, 12 ἵνα κριθῶσιν ἅπαντες οἱ μὴ πιστεύσαντες τῇ ἀληθείᾳ, ἀλλὰ εὐδοκήσαντες τῇ ἀδικίᾳ.

Aus c. III ist bezeugt 10 (τοῦτο) παραγγέλλομεν (ὑμῖν ὅτι εἴ τις οὐ θέλει), ‚ἐργάζεσθαι' (μηδὲ) ‚ἐσθιέτω.' — Auch in diesem Brief sind größere Streichungen nicht nachweisbar.

Προς Λαοδικεας.

Aus c. I ist bezeugt aus 6 ἐχαρίτωσεν ἡμᾶς ἐν τῷ ἠγαπημένῳ υἱῷ αὐτοῦ, 7 ἐν ᾧ ἔχομεν τὴν ἀπολύτρωσιν διὰ τοῦ αἵματος αὐτοῦ. 9

II, 3. 4 Tert. (V, 16): „Quis autem est ‚homo delicti, filius perditionis', quem ‚revelari' prius oportet ante domini adventum, ‚extollens se super omne quod deus dicitur et omnem religionem, consessurus in templo dei et deum se iactaturus ?' " — 4 καὶ πᾶν unsicher (sonst unbezeugt) — Die letzten Worte sind schwerlich eine Übersetzung von ἀποδεικνύντα ἑαυτὸν ὅτι ἐστὶν θεός, die ja auch mißverstanden werden konnten; vielleicht θεὸν ἑαυτὸν ἐπαγγελλόμενον. Ob ὁ ἀντικείμενος durch Zufall ausgefallen ist ?

9 Tert. (V, 16): „quaero cur veniat ‚in omni virtute et signis et ostentis mendacii' ". Daß der Satan nicht von M. ausgemerzt war, folgt aus den Worten: „quale est, ut illi ‚Satanas' sit necessarius", wenige Zeilen später.

10—12 Tert. (V, 16): „ ‚Propterea', inquit, ‚quod dilectionem veritatis non susceperint, ut salvi essent, et propter hoc erit eis ⟨in⟩ instinctum fallaciae, ut iudicentur omnes, qui non crediderunt veritati, sed consenserunt iniquitati'." 11 M. wollte nicht schreiben πέμπει αὐτοῖς ὁ θεὸς ἐνέργειαν πλάνης εἰς τὸ πιστεῦσαι αὐτοὺς τῷ ψεύδει und veränderte den Text deshalb („in instinctum" mit Recht Kroymann ; doch wäre instinctum vulgär = instinctus auch möglich).

III, 10 Tert. (V, 16): „ ‚Iubere operari eum qui velit manducare.' " Die positive Fassung gehört wohl Tert. an.

Laod. Tert. (V, 17): „Ecclesiae quidem veritate epistolam istam ad Ephesios habemus emissam, non ad Laodicenos; sed Marcion et titulum aliquando interpolare gestit, quasi et in isto diligentissimus explorator. nihil autem de titulis interest, cum ad omnes apostolus scripserit, dum ad quosdam." V, 11: „Praetereo hic de alia epistola, quam nos ad Ephesios praescriptam habemus, haeretici vero ad Laodicenos." Epiphanius c. 9 p. 105 (in der Aufzählung der Briefe: ἑβδόμη πρὸς Ἐφεσίους . . . ἔχει δὲ καὶ τῆς κατὰ τὴν εὐδοκίαν, ἣν προέθετο ἐν τῷ μυστηρίῳ τοῦ θελήματος αὐτοῦ 10 εἰς οἰκονομίαν τοῦ πληρώματος τῶν καιρῶν, ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι τὰ πάντα εἰς τὸν Χριστόν, τὰ ἐπὶ τοῖς οὐρανοῖς καὶ τὰ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, 12 εἰς τὸ εἶναι ἡμᾶς εἰς ἔπαινον δόξης, τοὺς προηλπικότας εἰς τὸν Χριστόν, 13 ἐν ᾧ καὶ ὑμεῖς, ἀκούσαντες τὸν λόγον τῆς ἀληθείας, τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, ἐν ᾧ πιστεύσαντες ἐσφραγίσθητε τῷ πνεύματι τῆς ἐπαγγελίας τῷ ἁγίῳ.

πρὸς Λαοδικέας λεγομένης μέρη(!). p. 182: προσέθετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ Ἀποστολικῷ καλουμένῳ καὶ τῆς καλουμένης πρὸς Λαοδικέας. Es folgt aber Ephes. 4, 4 als Vers aus dem Laodicenerbrief; daß er wie dort lautet, bemerkt Epiph. selbst. Dazu p. 183: ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐπ' ἄλλης περισσῆς πρὸς ἐπὶ τούτοις ⟨ἐλέγχεται τῆς⟩ ἐκτὸς τοῦ εὐαγγελίου καὶ τοῦ ἀποστόλου· οὐ γὰρ ἔδοξε τῷ ἐλεεινοτάτῳ Μαρκίωνι ἀπὸ τῆς πρὸς Ἐφεσίους ταύτην τὴν μαρτυρίαν λέγειν, ἀλλὰ τῆς πρὸς Λαοδικέας, τῆς μὴ οὔσης ἐν τῷ Ἀποστόλῳ. Im Dial. II, 18. 19 wird der Brief an die Epheser unter diesem Namen zitiert. In einem Cod. Casin. (Bibl. Casinensis I, 2 S. 290) liest man: „Sciendum sane, quia haec epistola, quam nos ad Ephesios scriptam habemus, haeretici et maxime Marcionistae ad Laudicenses attitulant".

I, 6. 7 Dial. V, 12 — υἱῷ αὐτοῦ mit D*G d g vulg, lat. Väter > fehlt; Orig.: ἠγαπημένος ἁπλῶς λέγεται ὁ σωτήρ, Hieron.: „Nec putandum, quod in Latinis codicibus habetur scriptum esse ‚in dilecto filio suo', sed simpliciter ‚in dilecto'". Ob das Zitat aus M.s Bibel, ist nicht ganz sicher.

9. 10 Tert. (V, 17): „Cui ergo competet ‚secundum boni existimationem, quam proposuerit in sacramento voluntatis suae, in dispensationem adimpletionis temporum' — ut ita dixerim, sicut verbum illud in Graeco sonat — ‚recapitulare' (id est ad initium redigere vel ab initio recensere) ‚omnia in Christum, quae in caelis et quae in terris'." (Im folgenden „omnia ad initium recensentur in Christo", dann „ad recensenda omnia in Christo,", dann „recenseri in Christum alium,", dann „recenseantur in eum, a quo denique destruuntur"; in V, 19: ... „ipsum, in quo omnia recensentur ad initium revocata") — 9 Die Einfügung der Worte ἐν τῷ μυστηρίῳ τοῦ θελήματος αὐτοῦ aus 9 a in 9 b für ἐν αὐτῷ kann auf Rechnung Tert.s kommen — εὐδοκίαν mit DG d g Victorin Hilar. > εὐδοκίαν αὐτοῦ — εἰς τὸν Χριστόν sonst unbezeugt > ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ (bedeutungslos).

12 Tert. (V, 17): „Cum dicit: ‚ut simus in laudem gloriae nos, qui praesperavimus in Christum'" — δόξης mit DG d g floriac. > δόξης αὐτοῦ — εἰς τὸν Χριστόν > ἐν τ. Χριστῷ (bedeutungslos).

13 Tert. (V, 17): „‚In quo et vos, cum audissetis sermonem veritatis, evangelium, in quo credidistis et signati estis spiritu promissionis eius sancto'" — „evangelium" allein > allgemein τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τῆς σωτηρίας ὑμῶν — ἐν ᾧ secundum mit DG d g am Iren. Victorin > ἐν ᾧ καί.

17—22 a (aber ohne 21, s. Galat. 4, 24) Anspielungen: ὁ πατὴρ τῆς δόξης . . . πνεῦμα σοφίας, 18 πεφωτισμένους τοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς τῆς καρδίας. 19 ὁ πλοῦτος τῆς κληρονομίας ἐν τοῖς ἁγίοις, 20 f. ἐνήργηκεν ἐν Χριστῷ ἰσχὺν αὐτοῦ, ἐγείρας αὐτὸν ἐκ νεκρῶν καὶ καθίσας αὐτὸν ἐν δεξιᾷ αὐτοῦ . . . 22 καὶ πάντα ὑπέταξεν.

Aus c. II ist bezeugt 1 ὑμᾶς ὄντας τοῖς παραπτώμασι νεκρούς, 2 ἐν οἷς περιεπατήσατε κατὰ τὸν αἰῶνα τοῦ κόσμου τούτου, κατὰ τὸν ἄρχοντα τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ ἀέρος, τοῦ ἐνεργοῦντος ἐν τοῖς υἱοῖς τῆς ἀπιστίας, 3 ἐν οἷς καὶ ἡμεῖς πάντες ἀνεστράφημεν, καὶ ἤμεθα φύσει τέκνα ὀργῆς ὡς καὶ οἱ λοιποί. 10 αὐτοῦ γάρ ἐσμεν ποίημα, κτισθέντες ἐν Χριστῷ. 11 μνημονεύοντες ὑμεῖς ποτε τὰ ἔθνη (Tert., ἐν σαρκὶ), οἱ λεγόμενοι ἀκροβυστία ὑπὸ τῆς λεγομένης περιτομῆς ἐν σαρκὶ χειροποιήτου, 12 ὅτι ἦτε (Tert., Dial. ἐν) τῷ καιρῷ ἐκείνῳ χωρὶς Χριστοῦ, 17—20. 22: . . . „‚pater gloriae‘“ . . . „ab illo ‚spiritus sapientiae‘ optatur“ . . . . „ille, dabit illuminatos cordis oculis‘“ . . . „‚apud illum sunt et ‚divitiae haereditatis in sanctis‘“ . . . „ille ‚inoperatus est in Christum valentiam suam suscitando eum a mortuis et collocando eum ad dexteram suam et subiciendo omnia‘“. Möglich ist, daß M. etwas gekürzt hat, aber nicht zu beweisen. Fehlte τῆς δόξης nach ὁ πλοῦτος, fehlte ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις nach ἐν δεξιᾷ αὐτοῦ? Über Ephes. 1, 21 s. oben zu Gal. 4, 24. Das Übergehen des Verses hier, nachdem er in den Galaterbrief aufgenommen, macht es wahrscheinlich, daß er nicht zweimal bei M. gestanden hat.

---

II, 1—3 Tert. (V, 17): „Dicit illos ‚delictis mortuos, [non] in quibus ingressi erant secundum aevum mundi huius, secundum principem potestatis aëris, qui operatur in filiis incredulitatis . . . in quibus et nos omnes conversati sumus . . . et iracundiae filii fuimus,‘ inquit, sed ‚natura‘“ (gleich darauf noch einmal: „‚fuimus natura filii iracundiae . . . sicut et ceteri‘“). Wahrscheinlich unverändert, da Tert. stückweise den Text einflicht. Es braucht weder καὶ ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις ὑμῶν (v. 1), noch ποτε (v. 2) noch ἐν ταῖς ἐπιθυμίαις bis διανοιῶν (v. 3) gefehlt zu haben, vielleicht aber τοῦ πνεύματος und νῦν (v. 2) und ποτε (v. 3). Mit ἀπιστίας steht der Text allein > ἀπειθείας (eine der häufigsten Verwechselungen). Das erste ποτε fehlt in L.

10 Tert. (V, 17): „‚Ipsius‘, inquit, ‚sumus factura, conditi in Christo‘“ — Χριστῷ mit tol und anderen, Victorin > Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ. Derselbe Satz noch einmal: „‚Ipsius enim factura sumus conditi in Christo.‘“

11—15 Epiph. p. 119. 178 f.; die Verse 11—14 a wie oben in einem Zug. Im Dial. II, 18 die Verse 11—13 auch in einem Zug (11 ὅτι ποτὲ ὑμεῖς, Rufin: ‚quia vos aliquando‘, 12 ἐν τῷ, 13 fehlt ἐν Χρ. Ἰ. und statt αὐτοῦ steht τοῦ Χριστοῦ). Bei Tert. (V, 17) die vv. 11—15 mehrfach unter-ἀπηλλοτριωμένοι τῆς πολιτείας τοῦ Ἰσραὴλ καὶ ξένοι τῶν διαθηκῶν (Tert. καὶ ἐπαγγ. αὐτῶν, καὶ auch Rufin), τῆς ἐπαγγελίας ἐλπίδα μὴ ἔχοντες καὶ ἄθεοι ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ· 13 νυνὶ δὲ ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ (Tert. bietet Ἰησ. nicht, auch in folgenden nicht ποτε) ὑμεῖς οἱ ποτὲ ὄντες μακρὰν ἐγενήθητε ἐγγὺς ἐν τῷ αἵματι αὐτοῦ. 14 αὐτὸς γάρ ἐστιν ἡ εἰρήνη, ἡμῶν, ὁ ποιήσας τὰ ἀμφότερα ἑν καὶ τὸ μεσότοιχον τῆς ἔχθρας ἐν σαρκὶ λύσας, 15 τὸν νόμον τῶν ἐντολῶν δόγμασιν καταργήσας, ἵνα τοὺς δύο κτίσῃ ἐν ἑαυτῷ εἰς ἕνα καινὸν ἄνθρωπον, ποιῶν εἰρήνην, 16 καὶ ἀποκαταλλάξῃ τοὺς ἀμφοτέρους τῷ θεῷ ἐν ἑνὶ σώματι, ἀποκτείνας τὴν ἔχθραν ἐν αὐτῷ διὰ τοῦ σταυροῦ, 17 καὶ ἐλθὼν εὐηγγελίσατο εἰρήνην (ὑμῖν brochen: „Memores vos, aliquando nationes in carne, qui appellamini praeputiatio ab ea quae dicitur circumcisio in carne manu facta, 12 quod essetis illo in tempore sine Christo, alienati a conversatione Israelis et peregrini testamentorum, et promissionis eorum spem non habentes et sine deo in mundo. 13 at nunc‘, inquit, ‚in Christo vos, qui eratis longe, facti estis prope in sanguine eius. 14 itaque ipse est‘, inquit, ‚pax nostra, qui fecit duo unum soluto medio pariete inimicitiae in carne, 15 legem praeceptorum sententiis vacuam fecit, ut duos conderet in semetipso in unum novum hominem, faciens pacem‘ “. Ausdrücklich sagt Tert., daß M. „sua“ v. 14 nach „carne“ gestrichen hat („Marcion abstulit ‚sua‘ “; ‚carne‘ gehört nun zu inimicitiae), er hat aber auch „in“ vor „sententiis“ getilgt (15) und damit den δόγματα einen instrumentalen Sinn gegeben; die δόγματα sind nun die christlichen Glaubenslehren. Schon V, 11 hatte Tert. Ephes. 2, 12 zitiert: „Ait enim meminisse nationes, quod illo in tempore, cum essent sine Christo, alieni ab Israele, sine conversatione et testamentis et spe promissionis, etiam sine deo dixit esse“. — 11 μνημον. mit G d > διὸ μνημον. — das Fehlen von ὅτι vor ὑμεῖς ist sonst unbezeugt (belanglos) — ὑμεῖς ποτε mit ℵ c D b GKLP g Orig. > ποτε ὑμεῖς — das Fehlen von ἐν σαρκί (Epiph., Dial.) ist wohl eine spätere Marcionitische Korrektur — 13 ἐν Χριστῷ mit L Iren., Orig., Victorin > ἐν Χρ. Ἰησοῦ (das völlige Fehlen, wie im Dial., ist sonst unbezeugt) — das Fehlen von ποτε sonst unbezeugt — αὐτοῦ sonst unbezeugt > τοῦ Χριστοῦ — 14 f. τῆς ἔχθρας sonst unbezeugt (> τοῦ φραγμοῦ); de gewöhnliche Text: τοῦ φραγμοῦ λύσας τὴν ἔχθραν ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ αὐτοῦ τὸν νόμον τῶν ἐντολῶν ἐν δόγμασιν καταργήσας — 15 ἐν ἑαυτῷ mit ℵcDGKL d g Lateinern > ἐν αὐτῷ.

---

16 Tert. (V, 17): „‚ut reconciliet ambos duo in uno corpore‘, inquit, ‚cum interfecisset inimicitiam in eo per crucem‘ “. — Die Stellung τ. θεῷ ἐν ἑνὶ σώματι ist sonst unbezeugt, ebenso die Nachstellung von διὰ τ. σταυροῦ (sonst nach τ. θεῷ). — Von dem Mischzitat (Ephes. 2, 12. 16; Kol. 1, 21) Dial. V, 3 sehe ich ab.

17—20 Tert. (V, 17): „Hoc itaque ‚adnuntiante pacem eis qui prope et eis qui longe, 18 accessum consecuti simul ad patrem 19 iam non sumus fehlt bei Tert. u. Dial. V, 28) τοῖς μακρὰν καὶ τοῖς ἐγγύς, 18 ὅτι δι' αὐτοῦ ἔχομεν τὴν προσαγωγὴν οἱ ἀμφότεροι ἐν ἑνὶ πνεύματι πρὸς τὸν πάτερα, 19 . . . οὐκέτι ἐστὲ ξένοι καὶ πάροικοι, ἀλλὰ συμπολῖται τῶν ἁγίων, ἀλλ' οἰκεῖοι τοῦ θεοῦ, 20 ἐποικοδομηθέντες ἐπὶ τῷ θεμελίῳ τῶν ἀποστόλων, ὄντος ἀκρωγωνιαίου Χριστοῦ.

Aus c. III ist bezeugt 8 ἐμοὶ τῷ ἐλαχιστοτέρῳ (ἐλαχίστῳ?) πάντων ἁγίων (hat vielleicht bei Tert. gefehlt) ἐδόθη ἡ χάρις αὕτη ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσιν εὐαγγελίσασθαι τὸν ἀνεξιχνίαστον πλοῦτον τοῦ Χριστοῦ, 9 καὶ φωτίσαι πάντας τίς ἡ οἰκονομία τοῦ μυστηρίου τοῦ ἀποκεκρυμμένου ἀπὸ τῶν αἰώνων τῷ θεῷ τῷ τὰ πάντα κτίσαντι, 10 ἵνα γνωρισθῇ ταῖς ἀρχαῖς καὶ ταῖς ἐξουσίαις ἐν ἐπουρανίοις διὰ τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἡ πολυποίκιλος σοφία τοῦ θεοῦ.

Aus c. IV ist bezeugt 5 εἷς κύριος, μία πίστις, ἓν βάπτισμα, εἷς Χριστός, 6 εἷς θεὸς καὶ (?) πατὴρ πάντων, ὁ ἐπὶ πάντων καὶ διὰ πάντων peregrini et advenae, sed concives sanctorum, sed domestici dei,... 20 superaedificati super fundamentum apostolorum' — abstulit haereticus ‚et prophetarum' . . . timuit, ne et super veterum prophetarum fundamentum aedificatio nostra constaret in Christo . . . . . Unde accepit ‚summum angularem' dicere Christum nisi de psalmi significatione". Vers 17. 18 wörtlich wie oben in Dial. II, 19 (hier und bei Tert. ist εἰρήνην nicht wiederholt mit KL und Vätern); auch Dial. V, 28, wo 17 noch einmal zitiert wird, fehlt es, und ebenso fehlt, wie bei Tert., ὑμῖν (dies Fehlen ist sonst unbezeugt) — 19 ἀλλά mit DcKLP usw. > ἀλλ' ἐστε — ἀλλ' sonst unbezeugt > καί — 20 Χριστοῦ mit ℵ*37 > Ἰησ. Χριστοῦ.

---

III, 8. 9 Dial. II, 20 wie oben, jedoch (9), wie der katholische Text, mit ἐν vor θεῷ (im Grundtext und bei Rufin); es ist sehr unsicher, ob diese Stelle im Dialog aus M.s Text geflossen ist. Tert. (V, 18: „De manibus haeretici praecidentis (praecidendis Mss.) non miror, si syllabas subtrahit, cum paginas totas plerumque subducit. ‚Datam', inquit, ‚sibi apostolus gratiam novissimo omnium inluminandi omnes, quae dispensatio sacramenti occulti ab aevis in deo, qui omnia condidit', rapuit haereticus ‚in' praepositionem et ita legi facit: ‚occulti ab aevis deo, qui omnia condidit' ". — 8 ἐν mit DGKL ital. vulg. und vielen Vätern > fehlt — τὸν πλοῦτον mit ℵcDKLP > τὸ πλοῦτος — 9 πάντας mit ℵcBDG ital. vulg. > fehlt — Das wichtige ἐν fehlt auch in ℵ*. Zu diesem Verse vgl. die Marcionitischen Verse Röm. 16, 25 f.: ἀποκάλυψις μυστηρίου χρόνοις αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου.

10 Tert. (V, 18): „infert enim apostolus: ‚ut nota fiat principatibus et potestatibus in supercaelestibus per ecclesiam multifaria sapientia dei' ". — γνωρισθῇ mit G d* g vulg. Orig., Victorin, Ambrosiaster > γνωρ. νῦν.

IV, 5 f. Epiph. p. 120. 182 (angeblich aus dem „Laodicenerbrief") wörtlich (aber ohne ἡμῖν); in der ersten Anführung steht nicht εἷς Χριστός, καὶ ἐν πᾶσιν ἡμῖν· 8 ἠχμαλώτευσεν αἰχμαλωσίαν. (10 ὁ καταβὰς αὐτός ἐστι καὶ ὁ ἀναβάς). 25 ἀποθέμενοι τὸ ψεῦδος λαλεῖτε ἀλήθειαν πρὸς τὸν πλησίον ἕκαστος, 26 ὀργίζεσθε καὶ μὴ ἁμαρτάνετε· ὁ ἥλιος μὴ ἐπιδυέτω ἐπὶ τῷ παροργισμῷ ὑμῶν.

Aus c. V ist bezeugt 2 (Anspielung). 11 a μὴ συγκοινωνεῖτε τοῖς ἔργοις τοῦ σκότους, 14 διὸ λέγει· ἔγειρε ὁ καθεύδων καὶ ἀνάστα ἐκ νεκρῶν ⟨καὶ⟩ ἐπιφαύσει σοι ὁ Χριστός. 18 μεθύσκεσθαι οἴνῳ αἰσχρόν. 19 ψαλμοῖς καὶ ὕμνοις ... τῷ θεῷ 22 αἱ γυναῖκες τοῖς ἀνδράσιν ὑποτάσσεσθε, 23 ὅτι ἀνὴρ κεφαλή ἐστιν τῆς γυναικὸς ὡς καὶ Χριστὸς κεφαλή ἐστιν τῆς ἐκκλησίας. 28 b τὴν ἑαυτοῦ σάρκα ἀγαπᾷ ὁ τὴν ἑαυτοῦ γυναῖκα ἀγαπῶν, das ich aber nicht tilgen möchte (sonst unbezeugt). Vers 6 auch Dial. II, 19 (zweimal zitiert, das erste Mal im Griech. unvollständig) wie oben, aber ἐν πᾶσιν ἡμῖν mit DGKL d g vulg., Firmil. usw. usw. > ἐν πᾶσιν, mit oder ohne ὑμῖν, und vorher fehlt καί vor πατήρ mit einigen Minuskeln, Iren. und wenigen Zeugen (Rufin bringt es einmal).

---

8 Tert. (V, 18): „‚Captivam‘, inquit, ‚duxit captivitatem‘ “.

10 Dial. V, 7 unsicher, ob nach Marcion.

25 f. Tert. (V, 18): „‚Deponentes mendacium loquimini veritatem ad proximum quisque‘ et ‚Irascimini et nolite delinquere‘ (⟨ut⟩ ipsis verbis, quibus psalmus, exponeret sensus eius); sol non occidat super iracundiam vestram‘ “. (ut hat K r o y m. mit Recht vor ipsis gesetzt statt sol ut) — πρὸς τόν mit ℵ* > μετὰ τοῦ — 26 b findet sich auch Dial. I, 13 zweimal, das erste Mal in einer Antithese M.s — τῷ mit ℵcDGKLP > fehlt.

Cap. V, 11 schließt Tert. im Zitat unmittelbar an IV, 26 an, so daß man glauben muß, alles Dazwischenliegende fehlt; allein V, 2 ist durch Ephraem bezeugt (Lied 36, 3 gegen die Ketzer): „Es steht für sie (die Marcioniten) und für uns über den Sohn Gottes geschrieben, daß er ein Opfer und Wohlgeruch für Gott geworden ist“. „Nolite communicare operibus tenebrarum“, schreibt Tert.; τοῖς ἀκάρποις braucht nicht gefehlt zu haben.

14 Epiph. p. 119. 179.

18 Tert. (V, 18): „sic et ‚inebriari vino dedecore‘ “, also wohl αἰσχρόν.

19 Tert. (V, 18): „et ‚psalmis et hymnis‘ deo canere docere“ — τῷ θεῷ sonst unbezeugt > τῷ κυρίῳ.

22—23 Tert. (V, 18): „Ceterum, mulieres viris subiectas esse debere‘, unde confirmat? ‚Quia vir‘, inquit, ‚caput est mulieris, sicut et Christus caput est ecclesiae‘ “ — ἰδίοις (vor ἀνδράσιν) hat wahrscheinlich gefehlt, ebenso voraussichtlich ὡς τῷ κυρίῳ und αὐτὸς σωτὴρ τοῦ σώματος — 23 κεφαλή ἐστιν mit B Minusk. vulg. Orig. > ἐστιν κεφ. — ἐστιν alterum, sonst unbezeugt.

28 b—32 Tert. (V, 18): „Dicit ‚carnem suam diligit qui uxorem suam diligit, sicut et Christus ecclesiam‘ .... 29 b ‚nemo‘ ‚inquit, ‚carnem suam

καθὼς καὶ ὁ Χριστὸς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν· 29 b οὐδεὶς τὴν ἑαυτοῦ σάρκα μισεῖ, ἀλλὰ ἐκτρέφει καὶ θάλπει αὐτήν, καθὼς ⟨καὶ⟩ ὁ Χριστὸς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, 31 ἀντὶ ταύτης καταλείψει ἄνθρωπος τὸν πατέρα καὶ τὴν μητέρα καὶ ἔσονται οἱ δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν. 32 τὸ μυστήριον τοῦτο μέγα ἐστίν, ἐγὼ δὲ λέγω εἰς Χριστὸν καὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν.

Aus c. VI ist bezeugt 1: Anspielung auf τὰ τέκνα, ὑπακούετε τοῖς γονεῦσιν ὑμῶν. 2 τίμα τὸν πατέρα καὶ μητέρα. 4 b ἐκτρέφετε τὰ τέκνα ἐν παιδείᾳ καὶ νουθεσίᾳ κυρίου. 11 ἐνδύσασθε τὴν πανοπλίαν

---

odio habet, sed et nutrit et fovet eam, sicut Christus ecclesiam‘ . . . 31 ‚propter hanc relinquet homo patrem et matrem, et erunt duo in carne una‘. 32 ‚sacramentum hoc magnum est‘ . . . . ‚ego autem dico‘, inquit, ‚in Christum et ecclesiam‘ “. Epiph. p. 119. 180 f. (v. 31): ἀντὶ τούτου καταλείψει ἄνθρωπος τὸν πατέρα αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν μητέρα καὶ ἔσονται οἱ δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν (Epiph. bemerkt, daß τῇ γυναικί gefehlt habe, d. h. die Worte καὶ κολληθήσεται τ. γυν.; denn κ. κολληθ. allein ist sinnlos) — 28 b Ist von M. im Interesse seiner Lehre umgestaltet; diese Änderung mit den Lesarten bei Ambrosiaster d D usw. in Verbindung zu setzen (Z a h n), scheint mir nicht geboten; man darf auch die Worte καθὼς καὶ ὁ Χριστὸς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, die aus v. 29 geschöpft und dort trotzdem festgehalten sind, nicht streichen. Sinn: „D e r liebt sein Fleisch, der sein Weib so liebt, wie (auch) Christus die Kirche“ (d. h. ungeschlechtlich) — 29 μισεῖ sonst unbezeugt > ἐμίσησεν (γάρ ποτε, das vorangeht, fehlte wohl) — 31 ἀντὶ ταύτης sonst unbezeugt und tendenziöse Korrektur > ἀντὶ τούτου, damit es auf ἐκκλησίαν bezogen werde (also fehlte der von Tert. ausgelassene v. 30 wirklich; οἱ δύο: blickt auf Christus und die Kirche); Epiph. hat ἀντὶ τούτου — Epiph. αὐτοῦ > Tert. — καὶ προσκολληθήσεται τῇ γυναικί ist fortgelassen (so nach Tert. und Epiph.); nach dem Zeugnis von Orig. (und Hieron.) fehlte es auch in katholischen Mss., ja Origenes scheint keine Mss. mit diesem Satze zu kennen. (Die Ausstoßung ist aber doch wohl marcionitisch-tendenziös) — 32 τὴν ἐκκλησίαν mit BK Minusk. Iren. Orig. > εἰς τ. ἐκκλ. Zu v. 31 bemerkt Hieron. (d. h. Origenes): „Interrogemus Marcionem, qua consequentia locum istum, qui de veteri usurpatus est instrumento, in Christum et in ecclesiam interpretari queat, cum iuxta illum scriptura vetus omnino non pertineat ad Christum.“ — Von dem armenisch erhaltenen antimarcionitischen Syrer läßt sich für den Marcionitischen Text von Eph. 5, 25 nichts lernen.

VI, 1. Tert. (V, 18): „‚Obaudiant et parentibus filii‘; nam — etsi Marcion abstulit: ‚Hoc enim est primum, in promissione praeceptum‘ — lex loquitur: 2 ‚Honora patrem et matrem‘, et ‚Parentes, enutrite filios in disciplina et correptione domini‘ “ — 2 ohne σου nach πατέρα (sonst unbezeugt); tendenziös — 3 von M. höchstwahrscheinlich ausgestoßen samt 2 b — 4 b ὑμῶν ist ebenso tendenziös weggelassen wie v. 2 σου.

11 f. Tert. (V, 18): „Sed adversus munditenentes luctatio si nobis . . .

τοῦ θεοῦ, ἐν ᾗ στῶμεν πρὸς τὴν μεθοδίαν τοῦ διαβόλου. 12 πρὸς τὰς ἐξουσίας .... τοὺς κοσμοκράτορας τοῦ σκότου τούτου ... τὰ πνευματικὰ τῆς πονηρίας ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις. 14—17 Anspielungen: 14 περιζωσάμενοι τὴν ὀσφὺν ὑμῶν ἐν ἀληθείᾳ καὶ τὸν θώρακα τῆς δικαιοσύνης, 15 καὶ ὑποδησάμενοι ἐν ἑτοιμασίᾳ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου τῆς εἰρήνης, 16 ἀναλαβόντες τὸν θυρεὸν τῆς πίστεως, ἐν ᾧ δυνήσεσθε πάντα τὰ βέλη τοῦ πονηροῦ τὰ πεπυρωμένα σβέσαι, 17 καὶ τὴν περικεφαλαίαν τοῦ σωτηρίου καὶ τὴν μάχαιραν τοῦ πνεύματος, ὅ ἐστιν ῥῆμα θεοῦ. 19 f. Anspielungen: ἵνα μοι δοθῇ, ἐν ἀνοίξει τοῦ στόματος, ἐν παρρησίᾳ γνωρίσαι τὸ μυστήριον, 20 ἐν ἁλύσει, ἵνα ἐν αὐτῷ παρρησιάσωμαι. — — Größere Ausmerzungen sind nicht nachweisbar außer (sehr wahrscheinlich) 1, 21 und 6, 2 b. 3 und die starke Umgestaltung in 5, 28—32 mit Auslassung von v. 30.

Προς Κολοσσαεις.

Aus c. I ist bezeugt 5 τὴν ἐλπίδα τὴν ἀποκειμένην. ... ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, ἣν ἠκούσατε ἐν τῷ λόγῳ τῆς ἀληθείας τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, 6 a τοῦ porro cum supra quidem induere nos iubeat armaturam, in qua stemus ad machinationem diaboli, iam ostendit diaboli esse, quae diabolo subiungit, potestates et munditenentes tenebrarum istarum" ..... „‚spiritalia nequitiae in caelis‘". Dial. I, 19 stellt Eph. 6, 11 und 16 zusammen (unsicher, ob aus M.s Bibel): ἐνδύσασθε τὴν πανοπλίαν τοῦ θεοῦ πρὸς τὸ δύνασθαι τὰ βέλη τοῦ πονηροῦ τὰ πεπυρωμένα σβέσαι — 11 b eigentümliche Fassung > πρὸς τὸ δύνασθαι ὑμᾶς στῆναι — μεθοδίαν mit d > μεθοδίας. Tert. (III, 14): „armantem nos adversus hostes ‚spiritales nequitiae‘" (v. 12).

---

14—17 Tert. (III, 14): ... „Paulum, ‚praecingentem lumbos nostros veritate et lorica iustitiae 15 et calciantem nos praeparatione evangelii pacis, non belli, 16 adsumere iubentem scutum fidei, in quo possimus omnia diaboli ignita tela extinguere, 17 et galeam salutaris et gladium spiritus‘, ‚quod est‘, inquit, ‚dei sermo‘". Hat M. wirklich v. 15 οὐ τοῦ πολέμου hinzugefügt? Sehr unwahrscheinlich!

19 f. Tert. (V, 18): „In catenis iam constitutus ob libertatem praedicationis constantiam manifestandi sacramenti in apertione oris, quam sibi expostulare a deo mandabat, ecclesiae utique praestabat." Ob τοῦ εὐαγγελίου nach μυστήριον gefehlt hat?

Koloss. I, 5 Tert. (V, 19): „Apostolus dicens ‚de spe reposita in caelis quam audistis in sermone veritatis evangelii, 6 quod pervenit ad vos sicut et in totum mundum‘". — Hat M. wirklich ἠκούσατε (sonst unbezeugt) > προηκούσατε gelesen?

παρόντος εἰς ὑμᾶς καθὼς καὶ ἐν παντὶ τῷ κόσμῳ. 15—17 durch Streichungen also gestaltet: ὅς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ ἀοράτου, καὶ αὐτός ἐστιν πρὸ πάντων. 19 ἐν ἑαυτῷ εὐδόκησεν πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα κατοικῆσαι. 20 καὶ . . . ἀποκαταλλάξαι τὰ πάντα εἰς ἑαυτόν, εἰρηνοποιήσας διὰ τοῦ αἵματος τοῦ σταυροῦ αὐτοῦ . . . 21 καὶ ὑμᾶς ποτὲ ὄντας ἀπηλλοτριωμένους καὶ ἐχθροὺς τῇ διανοίᾳ ἐν τοῖς ἔργοις τοῖς πονηροῖς . . . ἀποκατήλλαξεν 22 ἐν τῷ σώματι αὐτοῦ. 24 . . . ἀνταναπληρῶ τὰ ὑστερήματα τῶν θλίψεων τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ ὑπὲρ τοῦ σώματος αὐτοῦ, ὅ ἐστιν ἡ ἐκκλησία.

Aus c. II ist bezeugt 4 (Anspielung auf παραλογίζηται ἐν πιθανολογίᾳ) 8 . . . διὰ τῆς φιλοσοφίας ὡς κενῆς ἀπάτης κατὰ τὴν παράδοσιν

15—19 Tert. (V, 19): „‚Invisibilis dei imaginem‘ ait ‚Christum‘ . . . Si non est Christus ‚primogenitus conditionis‘ . . 16 si non ‚in illo condita sunt universa in caelis et in terris, visibilia et invisibilia, sive throni sive dominationes sive principatus sive potestates‘, si non ‚cuncta per illum et in illo sunt condita‘ — haec enim Marcioni displicere oportebant —, non utique tam nude posuisset apostolus: 17 ‚Et ipse est ante omnes‘. quomodo enim ‚ante omnes‘, si non ante omnia? . . . 19 quomodo item ‚boni duxit omnem plenitudinem in semetipso habitare‘? primo enim quae est ista plenitudo, nisi ex illis quae Marcion detraxit?“ Tert. fährt fort: „Aut si haec pseudapostoli nostri et Iudaici evangelizatores de suo intulerint, edat plenitudinem dei sui Marcion“. Es fehlten also 15 b. 16 und sehr wahrscheinlich auch 17 b. Auch in Tert. V, 20 ist v. 15 bezeugt: „Bene, quod et alibi ‚Christum imaginem dei invisibilis‘ appellat.“ — 19 ἐν ἑαυτῷ sonst unbezeugt > αὐτῷ (tendenziös).

20 ff. Tert. (V, 19): „‚Cui denique reconciliat omnia in semetipsum pacem faciens per crucis suae sanguinem‘? . . . 21 ita ‚et nos quondam alienatos et inimicos sensu in malis operibus creatori redigit in gratiam‘“. Die kleinen Auslassungen besagen nichts; aber ob auch 20 b stehen geblieben ist? — εἰς ἑαυτόν sonst unbezeugt > αὐτόν (s. z. v. 19) — „Sicubi (v. 22. 24) autem et ecclesiam corpus Christi dicit esse — ut hic ait ‚adimplere se reliqua pressurarum Christi in carne pro corpore eius, quod est ecclesia‘ — non propterea et in totum mentionem corporis transferens a substantia carnis. nam et supra ‚reconcilari nos‘ ait ‚in corpore eius per mortem‘, utique in eo corpore, in quo mori potuit, per carnem mortuus et non per ecclesiam, plane propter ecclesiam corpus commutando pro corpore, carnale pro spiritali.“ M. hat also v. 22 a τῆς σαρκός nicht gelesen; daher kann das Zitat Dial. V, 3 (hier sind Teile von 22 f. mit Eph. 2, 12. 16 verbunden) nicht von ihm sein trotz des ungewöhnlichen ἀντικατήλλαξεν (νῦν δὲ ἀντικατήλλαξεν ἐν τῷ σώματι τῆς σαρκὸς αὐτοῦ) — das Fehlen von μου v. 24 ist bedeutungslos.

II, 4. 8 Tert. (V, 19): „Monet ‚cavendum a subtililoquentia et philo- τῶν ἀνθρώπων, κατὰ τὰ στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου. 13 Anspielung: συνεζωοποίησεν ὑμᾶς σὺν αὐτῷ χαρισάμενος τὰ παραπτώματα. 16 μὴ οὖν τις ὑμᾶς κρινέτω ἐν βρώσει ἢ ἐν πόσει ἢ ἐν μέρει ἑορτῆς ἢ νεομηνίας καὶ σαββάτων (σαββάτου), 17 ὅ ἐστι σκιὰ τῶν μελλόντων. 18—22 Anspielungen: θέλων ἐν ταπεινοφροσύνῃ, θρησκείᾳ τῶν ἀγγέλων ἃ ἑόρακεν ἐμβατεύων, οὐ κρατῶν τὴν κεφαλήν, μὴ ἅψῃ μηδὲ γεύσῃ, κατὰ τὰ ἐντάλματα καὶ διδασκαλίας τῶν ἀνθρώπων.

Daß große Teile von c. III oder das ganze Kapitel erhalten waren, folgt aus der allgemeinen Bemerkung Tert.'s: „Cetera praeceptorum, ut eadem, satis sit iam alibi docuisse, quam a creatore manarint... creator iam tunc docebat exponere veterem hominem et novum induere". . . 9 τὸν παλαιὸν ἄνθρωπον sophia ut inani seductione, quae sit secundum elementa mundi. .... et secundum traditionem hominum'". ὡς sonst unbezeugt > καί (tendenziös; die Verse waren vielleicht auch sonst verändert). Auch im folgenden fällt κενὴ ἀπάτη als Kategorie weg („homines subtililoqui et philosophi" — „subtililoquentiae vires et philosophiae regulae"). Κατὰ τ. στοιχ. τ. κ. stand vielleicht vor κατὰ τ παρ ίδοσιν τ. ἀ.

---

13 Tert. (V, 19): „. . . si nos deus cum Christo vivificat donans delicta."

16 f. Epiph. p. 119. 181 wörtlich bis μελλόντων. Tert. (V, 19): „ ‚Nemo vos iudicet in cibo et potu et in parte diei festi et neomeniae et sabbati, quae est umbra futurorum, corpus autem Christi.' " Das „et . . . et . . . et" ist sonst unbezeugt — sabbati mit D*.

18—22 Tert. (V, 19): „Si autem aliquos taxat, qui ex visionibus angelicis dicebant cibis abstinendum — ‚ne attigeris, ne gustaveris' — ‚volentes in humilitate sensus incedere, non tenentes caput', non ideo legem et Moysen pulsat, quasi de angelica superstitione constituerit interdictionem quorundam edulium . . . Denique hanc disciplinam — ‚secundum praecepta' inquit, ‚et doctrinam hominum' deputavit in eos, qui caput non tenerent." θρησκεία (v. 18) fehlte nicht; es liegt in „superstitione". — 18 M. las ἑόρακεν ohne μή mit D*ℵAB d Orig., August., Ambrosiaster.

III, 3. 4 Dial. V, 28 (Rufin fehlt): κέκρυπται γὰρ ἡ ζωὴ ὑμῶν σὺν τῷ Χριστῷ ἐν τῷ θεῷ· ὅταν δὲ ὁ Χριστὸς φανερωθῇ, ἡ ζωὴ ἡμῶν, σὺν τῷ Χριστῷ ἐν τῷ θεῷ φανερωθησόμεθα ἐν δόξῃ. Dieser Text zeigt vom katholischen manche Abweichungen (κέκρυπται vorangestellt, in 4 ist die 2. Person in die 1. umgesetzt (mit BDbcKL Orig. lat. Vätern), δέ ist sonst unbezeugt, und singulär ist der Schluß (nach ἡμῶν) > τότε καὶ ὑμεῖς σὺν αὐτῷ φανερωθήσεσθε); aber dennoch bleibt es unsicher, ob er aus M.s Bibel stammt. — 9 Carmen adv. Marc. V, 90: „veterem (hominem), quem dicitis hostem". Die Worte können auch zu Ephes. 4, 22 oder Röm. 6, 6 gehören.

Aus c. IV sind 10—14 bezeugt; angeführt sind v. 10 und 11. 14; durch καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς sind v. 12. 13 gedeckt. Man braucht es nicht zu bezweifeln, daß M. auch v. 16 las. 10 Ἀσπάζεται ὑμᾶς Ἀρίσταρχος, ὁ συναιχμάλωτός μου, καὶ Μάρκος, ὁ ἀνέψιος Βαρνάβα — περὶ οὗ ἐλάβετε ἐντολάς, ἵνα ⟨ἐὰν⟩ ἔλθῃ πρὸς ὑμᾶς, δέξησθε [Dial. δέξασθε οὖν] αὐτόν — 11 καὶ Ἰησοῦς ὁ λεγόμενος Ἰοῦστος, οἱ ὄντες ἐκ περιτομῆς. οὗτοι μόνοι μού εἰσι συνεργοὶ εἰς τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ, οἵτινες ἐγενήθησάν μοι παρηγορία, καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς. 14 Ἀσπάζεται ὑμᾶς Λουκᾶς καὶ Δημᾶς. 16 s. u.

Als größere Ausmerzung ist nur 1, 15 b. 16. 17 b zu verzeichnen.

Προς Φιλιππησιους.

Aus c. I sind im LAOD. bezeugt 2 χάρις ὑμῖν καὶ εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς (ohne ἡμῶν > alle Zeugen) καὶ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, 3 εὐχαριστῶ Χριστῷ (> alle Zeugen, die τῷ θεῷ μου bieten) ἐν πάσῃ δεήσει μου, 12 οἱ ἐξ ἐμοῦ εἰς προκοπὴν τῆς ἀληθείας τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ⟨ἐληλύθασιν πρὸς ὑμᾶς⟩ (Vielleicht erst von den Schülern tendenziös und verschlagen gefälscht), 13 τοὺς δεσμοὺς φανεροὺς ἐν Χριστῷ, 18 (ἐν τούτῳ) χαίρω, 19 τοῦτό μοι (ἀποβήσεται) εἰς σωτηρίαν

IV, 10. 11. 14 Dial. I, 5 (Rufin: 10 „ut si venerit . . . suscipiatis"; liest οὖν nicht; 11 „isti enim", „adiutores mei") — 10 ἵνα mit Ambrosiaster („ut si venerit ad vos excipiatis illum") > fehlt. 11 μού εἰσιν mit DG d g vulg. Ambrosiaster (aber alle nach συνεργοί) > fehlt. 14 Das Fehlen der Worte nach Λουκᾶς: ‚ὁ ἰατρὸς ὁ ἀγαπητός' ist schwerlich zufällig.

16 Durch den gefälschten Laod.-Brief v. 20 bezeugt: „Et facite legi Colosensibus, et Colosensium vobis."

Phil.: Epiphan. p. 182: ὡσαύτως (wie bei Philem.) οὐδὲ ἀπ' αὐτῆς διὰ τὸ διαστρόφως παρ' αὐτῷ κεῖσθαι οὐδὲν ἐξελεξάμεθα. Über die Nichtigkeit der Begründung dieser Bemerkung und den Ursprung des Irrtums s. oben zu I Thess. init. — In dem von Marcioniten (saec II) gefälschten, uns lateinisch erhaltenen (s. u.) Laod.-Brief sind uns zahlreiche Stellen aus dem Philipperbrief M.s überliefert (im Folgenden durch LAOD. bezeichnet).

I, Für die Verse 14—18 Tert. (V, 20): „Cum praedicationis enumerat varietatem, ‚quod alii ex fiducia vinculorum eius audentius sermonem enuntiarent, 15 alii per invidiam et contentionem, quidam vero et per sermonis existimationem, 17 plerique ex dilectione, 16 nonnulli ex aemulatione, iam aliqui et ex simultate Christum praedicarent'" . . . 18 ‚nihil mea', inquit ‚sive causatione sive veritate Christus adnuntietur'". Wenige Zeilen später:

διὰ τῶν ὑμῶν δεήσεων καὶ ἐπιχορηγίας πνεύματος, 20 εἴτε διὰ ζωῆς εἴτε διὰ θανάτου, 21 ἔστιν γάρ μοι τὸ ζῆν ἐν Χριστῷ καὶ τὸ ἀποθανεῖν χαρά (willkürliche Änderung). — In Referaten sind 14—18 bezeugt, aber 15. 17 sind verändert: 14 πεποιθότας τοῖς δεσμοῖς μου περισσοτέρως τολμᾶν τὸν λόγον λαλεῖν, 15 τινὲς διὰ φθόνον καὶ ἔριν, τινὲς δὲ διὰ λόγου δόξαν, 17 οἱ μὲν ἐξ ἀγάπης, 16 οἱ δὲ ἐξ ἐριθείας, ἤδη καί τινες ἐξ ἀγῶνος τὸν Χριστὸν καταγγέλλουσιν. 18 οὐδέν μοι διαφέρει·εἴτε προφάσει εἴτε ἀληθείᾳ Χριστὸς καταγγέλλεται. 23 τὴν ἐπιθυμίαν ἔχων εἰς τὸ ἐξιέναι ἐκ τοῦ σώματος (τὸ ἀναλῦσαι?) καὶ σὺν τῷ κυρίῳ (Χριστῷ?) εἶναι.

Aus c. II ist in LAOD. 2 τὴν αὐτὴν ἀγάπην ἔχοντες . . . ἵνα τὸ αὐτὸ φρονῆτε, 12 ὥστε, ἀγαπητοί μου, καθὼς ἠκούσατε τὴν παρουσίαν μου, οὕτω κρατεῖτε καὶ πράσσετε ἐν φόβῳ θεοῦ (tendenziöse grobe Fälschung), 13 ἔστιν γὰρ ὁ θεὸς ὁ ἐνεργῶν ἐν ὑμῖν, 14 ποιεῖτε χωρὶς διαλογισμοῦ ὅ τι ἂν ποιῆτε. Sonst ist in diesem Kapitel bezeugt 6 ἐν μορφῇ θεοῦ ὑπάρχων οὐχ ἁρπαγμὸν ἡγήσατο τὸ εἶναι ἴσα θεῷ, 7 ἀλλ'

„fides praedicantium quorundam vera, id est simplex, quorundam nimis docta" — 14 τὸν λόγον mit D^cK al. plur. Chrysost. Theodoret > τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ — 15 „sermonis existimationem" (s. „nimis docta fides") sonst unbezeugt > εὐδοκίαν. Marcion setzte τὴν τοῦ λόγου δόξαν ein und wollte damit die eitle christliche Schulweisheit treffen, wie er Kol. 2, 8 durch seine Korrektur die heidnische Philosophie an den Pranger stellte — 17 ἤδη καί τινες ἐξ ἀγῶνος: frei von M. eingesetzt; wenn er es für nötig hielt, ἐξ ἐριθείας (d. h. das Motiv der Zänkerei) zu ergänzen, und er dies durch „simultas" = „Wettstreit" tat, so kann er nur die Absicht gehabt haben, entweder den Apostel im voraus den Parteikampf der Katholiken gegen s e i n e Kirche tadeln zu lassen oder — und das ist wahrscheinlicher — die kirchlichen Parteikämpfe überhaupt — 18 οὐδέν μοι διαφέρει (selbständig, aber s. Gal. 2, 6) > τί γάρ· πλὴν ὅτι παντὶ τρόπῳ, der Grund dieser Änderung ist dunkel — 23 Esnik (S c h m i d S. 201): „Sie sagen, der Apostel hat gesagt: Ich verlange herauszugehen aus dem Leibe und mit dem Herrn zu sein." Die Überlieferung sonst bietet Χριστῷ, und schwerlich hat das M. verändert; auch wird er wohl ἀναλῦσαι gelesen haben.

II, 6. 7 Tert. (V, 20): „Plane de substantia Christi putant et hic Marcionitae suffragari sibi apostolum . . ., cum dicit, quod ‚in effigie dei constitutus non rapinam existimavit pariari deo, 7 sed exhausit semetipsum accepta effigie servi' (non veritate) et ‚in similitudine hominis' (non in homine) ‚et figura inventus homo' (non substantia, id est non carne)" — 7 sonst ἑαυτὸν ἐκένωσεν — ἀνθρώπου mit Orig., Cypr., Hilar., Victorin > ἀνθρώπων — M. hat γενόμενος nicht gelesen und auch nicht ὡς; so entstand der ἐκένωσεν ἑαυτὸν μορφὴν δούλου λαβών, ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπου καὶ σχήματι εὑρεθεὶς ἄνθρωπος. 8 Anspielung: auf den Gehorsam gegenüber dem Tod und dem Kreuzestod.

Aus c. III ist bezeugt in LAOD v. 1 τὸ λοιπόν, ἀγαπητοί, χαίρετε ἐν Χριστῷ. Die Verse 4. 5. 7—9 in Anspielungen und Stücken: 4 πεποίθησιν ἐν σαρκί, 5 Ἑβραῖος ἐξ Ἑβραίων, φυλῆς Βενιαμείν, Φαρισαῖος, 7 ἅτινα ἦν μοι κέρδη, ταῦτα νῦν ἥγημαι ζημίαν, 8 διὰ τὸ ὑπερέχον τῆς γνώσεως Χριστοῦ ἡγοῦμαι σκύβαλα, 9 ἔχων δικαιοσύνην μὴ ἐμὴν ἤδη τὴν ἐκ νόμου, ἀλλὰ τὴν δι' αὐτοῦ ἐκ θεοῦ. 20 ἡμῶν τὸ πολίτευμα ἐν οὐρανοῖς 21 . . . μετασχηματίσει τὸ σῶμα τῆς ταπεινώσεως ἡμῶν σύνμορφον τῷ σώματι τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ.

Aus c. IV ist nur in LAOD. einiges erhalten: 6 πάντα τὰ Sinn, den er wünschte: „als Mensch wurde er (nur) erfunden, weil Gestalt und Habitus die eines Menschen waren". Daß diese Stelle eine Grundstelle der Christologie M.s war, bezeugen auch Chrysostomus hom. 7 in Phil.) und Esnik (S. 176. 177).

8 Tert. (V, 20): „‚morti subditum', adiecit, ‚et mortem crucis'". Die Annahme eines anderen Textes gegenüber γενόμενος ὑπήκοος μέχρι θανάτου, θανάτου δὲ σταυροῦ ist schwerlich gerechtfertigt.

III, 4. 5. 7—9: 7 „Quae autem retro lucri duxerat? quae et supra (4) numerat: ‚gloriam carnis 5 in nota circumcisionis, generis Hebraei ex Hebraeo censum, titulum tribus Beniamin', ‚Pharisaeae' candidae dignitatem. 7 ‚haec nunc detrimento sibi deputat: non deum sed stuporem Iudaeorum. 8 haec et si stercora existimat, prae comparatione agnitionis Christi, 9 habens iustitiam non suam iam, quae ex lege, sed quae per ipsum, scilicet per Christum, ex deo. ergo, inquis, hac distinctione lex non ex deo erit Christi. subtiliter satis. accipe itaque subtilius: cum enim dicit: ‚non quae ex lege, sed quae per ipsum' non dixisset ‚per ipsum' de alio quam cuius fuit lex". 7 νῦν sonst unbezeugt — 8 Χριστοῦ sonst unbezeugt > Χρ. Ἰ. oder Ἰ. Χρ. Nach Celsus (Orig. VI, 53) haben sich die Marcioniten selbst „σκύβαλα" genannt — 9 δικαιοσύνην ἐμήν mit ℵc > ἐμ. δικ.— ἤδη sonst unbezeugt (ähnlich ist v. 7 νῦν), auch heißt es sonst μὴ ἔχων ἐμὴν δικαιοσύνην. — τὴν δι' αὐτοῦ ἐκ θεοῦ sonst unbezeugt > τὴν διὰ πίστεως Χριστοῦ, τὴν ἐκ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην Vielleicht bot M. τὴν δι' αὐτοῦ, τὴν ἐκ θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην, aber auch dann bleibt die bedeutende Änderung bestehen αὐτοῦ, > πίστεως Χριστοῦ. Man begreift sie, weil gleich darauf ἐπὶ τῇ πίστει folgt. Dadurch, daß M. so schrieb, gewann er das Doppelte: er vermied die mindestens scheinbare Tautologie und brachte den Gegensatz zur Gerechtigkeit aus dem Gesetz kräftiger und objektiver zum Ausdruck.

20. 21 Tert. (V, 20): „‚Noster', inquit, ‚municipatus in caelis' . . . quodsi ergo Christus adveniens de caelis ‚transfigurabit corpus humilitatis nostrae conformale corpori gloriae suae', resurget ergo corpus hoc nostrum".

αἰτήματα ὑμῶν γνωριζέσθω πρὸς τὸν θεόν, 8 ὅσα ὁλόκληρα καὶ ἀληθῆ καὶ σεμνὰ καὶ δίκαια καὶ προσφιλῆ, πράσσετε, καὶ ἃ ἠκούσατε καὶ παρελάβετε, ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ κρατεῖτε, καὶ ἔσται ὑμῖν ἡ εἰρήνη, 22 ἀσπάζονται ὑμᾶς οἱ ἅγιοι, 23 ἡ χάρις (Gruß). Es ist bei allen Stellen aus dem Philipperbrief, die der Fälscher entlehnt und verfälscht hat, unsicher, ob die Fälschung schon im Text des Philipperbriefes, sei es von Marcion, sei es von den Marcioniten vorgenommen war, oder ob sie erst von diesen für ihren gefälschten Brief unternommen worden ist.

Keine größere Ausmerzung ist nachweisbar.

Προς Φιλημονα.

Dieser Brief ist von M. nicht geschädigt worden; denn Tert. bemerkt (V, 21): „Soli huic epistolae brevitas sua profuit, ut falsarias manus Marcionis evaderet. miror tamen, cum ad unum hominem litteras factas receperit, quod ad Timotheum duas et unam ad Titum de ecclesiastico statu compositas recusaverit. adfectavit, opinor, etiam numerum epistolarum interpolare." Hiernach (in diesem Falle ausnahmsweise nicht nach Origenes) Hieron. in der Praef. z. Comm. in Philem.: „Et quoniam Marcionis fecimus mentionem, Pauli esse epistolam ad Philemonem saltem Marcione auctore doceantur, qui cum ceteras epistolas eiusdem vel non susceperit vel quaedam in his mutaverit atque corroserit (s. Tert., adv. Marc. I, 1), in hanc solam manus non est ausus mittere, quia sua illam brevitas defendebat". Also ist die Bemerkung des Epiphanius (p. 182): ἀπὸ ταύτης τῆς πρὸς Φιλήμονα οὐδὲν παρεθέμεθα διὰ τὸ ὁλοσχερῶς αὐτὴν ἐνδιαστρόφως παρ' αὐτῷ κεῖσθαι, in ihrer Begründung nichtig und beruht auf demselben Irrtum wie die Bemerkungen zu I u. II Thess. und Phil. (s. o.).

C. Die Marcionitischen Prologe.

Die Texte lauten [1]:

Galatae sunt Graeci. hi verbum veritatis primum ab apostolo acceperunt; sed post discessum eius temptati sunt a

1 Vgl. de Bruyne, Rev. Bénéd., 1907 Jan. p. 1—16. p. 257 ff.; Corssen, Ztschr. f. d. NTliche Wissensch., 10. Bd., 1909, S. 36 ff. und S. 97 ff. Wordsworth - White, Novum Testamentum, Latine, falsis apostolis, ut in legem et circumcisionem verterentur. hos apostolus revocat ad fidem veritatis scribens eis ab Epheso.

Corinthi sunt Achaei. et hi similiter ab apostolo audierunt verbum veritatis et subversi multifarie a falsis apostolis, quidam a philosophiae verbosa eloquentia, alii a secta legis Judaicae inducti. hos revocat apostolus ad veram (et) evangelicam sapientiam scribens eis ab Epheso [per Timotheum, zahlreiche Mss.; aber wohl nicht ursprünglich].

Post actam paenitentiam consolatorias scribit eis a Troade et conlaudans eos hortatur ad meliora.

Romani sunt in partibus Italiae. hi praeventi sunt a falsis apostolis et sub nomine domini nostri Jesu Christi in legem et prophetas erant inducti. hos revocat apostolus ad veram evangelicam fidem scribens eis a Corintho („ab Athenis" ist gewiß unrichtig [s. Thess.], obgleich durch mehrere Zeugen neben Korinth bezeugt)[1].

Thessalonicenses sunt Machedones, qui accepto verbo veritatis perstiterunt in fide etiam in persecutione civium suorum; praeterea nec receperunt ea quae a falsis apostolis dicebantur. hos conlaudat apostolus scribens eis ab Athenis.

Ad Thessalonicenses secundam scribit et notum facit eis de temporibus novissimis et de adversarii detectione. scribit ab Athenis.

II, 1, 1913, p. 41 f. u. II, 2, 1922, p. 153; v. Harnack, Theol. Lit. Ztg., 1907, Nr. 5; Rendel Harris, Expository Times, 1907, N. 9. v. Harnack, Die Entstehung des N. T.s, 1914, S. 106. Preuschen, Analecta[2] II S. 85 ff. S. auch Burkitt, Gospel Hist. and its transmission, Edit. 2 u. 3 p. 353. Souter, Text and Canon of the N. T. p. 205 ff. Ders., Charakter and History of Pelagius Comment. on the epp. of St. Paul (Proceed. of the British Acad. Vol. VII, 1916, p. 24). Der kritische Apparat bei Bruyne und Corssen, die z. T. verschiedene Handschriften benutzt haben. Der Apparat zum Römer- u. I Kor.-Brief bei Wordsworth. Die Varianten sind fast durchweg unerheblich.

1 Modification dieses Prologs in den Codd. HΘ: „Romani sunt in partes Italiae. hi fidem habentes et scientiam fidei ignorantes physicas rationes consonare praedicationi apostoli vel prophetarum discunt. scribit eis ab Athenis", und im Cod. Mus. Brit. Harl. 2804: „Romani, qui in urbe Roma in Christum crediderant, ita a falsis apostolis depravati erant, ut sub nomine domini nostri Jesu Christi in legem et circumcisionem inducerentur; hos revocat ad veram et evangelicam fidem scribens eis ab Athenis".

(Laudiceni sunt Asiani. hi praeventi erant a pseudoapostolis ... ad hos non accessit ipse apostolus ... hos per epistulam recorrigit) ....[1].

Colossenses et hi sicut Laudicenses sunt Asiani, et ipsi praeventi erant a pseudapostolis nec ad hos accessit ipse apostolus, sed et hos per epistulam recorrigit — audierant enim verbum ab Archippo qui et ministerium in eos accepit —, ergo apostolus iam ligatus scribit eis ab Epheso.

Philippenses sunt Machedones. hi accepto verbo veritatis perstiterunt in fide nec receperunt falsos apostolos. hos apostolus conlaudat scribens eis a Roma de carcere per Epaphroditum.

Philemoni familiares litteras facit pro Onesimo servo eius. scribit autem ei a Roma de carcere.

Timotheum instruit et docet de ordinatione episcopatus diaconii et omnis ecclesiasticae disciplinae.

Item Timotheo scribit de exhortatione martyrii et omnis regulae veritatis et quid futurum sit temporibus novissimis et de sua passione.

Titum commonefacit et instruit de constitutione presbyterii et de spiritali conversatione et haereticis vitandis qui in scripturis Judaicis credunt (tendenziöse Korrektur im Cod. Reginen.: „Judaicis fabulis").

Diese Prologe sind einfach die Prologe der europäischen lateinischen Bibel; denn sie stehen in 14 von den 20 alten Vulgata-Haupthandschriften; die älteste von diesen ist der Fuldensis.

---

1 Dieser Prolog ist aus dem folgenden von Bruyne rekonstruiert worden; so etwa muß er gelautet haben. Jetzt aber findet sich in den Handschriften an seiner Stelle folgender Prolog: „Ephesii sunt Asiani. hi accepto verbo veritatis perstiterunt in fide. hos conlaudat apostolus, scribens eis ab urbe Roma de carcere per Tychicum diaconum". Dieser Prolog, der inhaltlich und sprachlich den anderen gleichartig ist, wird auch schon aus den Marcionitischen Bibeln stammen, nachdem dort die Unsicherheit und Konfusion betreffend Ephes. und Laod. eingebrochen war. In der Handschrift des falschen Laodicenerbriefs von Einsiedeln steht er, leicht modifiziert, als Prolog zu diesem Brief („Laudicenses sunt Asiani" etc.). S. Wordsworth p. 42 und Corssen S. 100.

Sie sind auch Pelagius bekannt gewesen[1], der der älteste Zeuge für sie ist. Sie sind aus dem Griechischen übersetzt (s. unter Thess.: ,,nec receperunt ea quae a falsis apostolis dicebantur" = τὰ ὑπὸ τ. ψευδαποστόλων λεγόμενα, und unter Tim.: ,,omnis regulae veritatis = παντὸς τοῦ κανόνος τῆς ἀληθείας), aber griechisch nicht mehr vorhanden. Daß sie Marcionitisch sind, liegt auf der Hand und ist nach den Nachweisungen von Bruyne und Corssen allgemein anerkannt. Es genügt die Einheitlichkeit festzustellen und sodann die Beobachtung, daß ,,lex et circumcisio" (Gal.) = ,,lex et prophetae" (Röm.) = ,,secta legis Judaicae" (Kor.) = ,,scripturae Judaicae" (Tit.) sind. Die Prologe verwerfen hiernach das Christentum, welches das A. T. aufrecht erhält, als ein falsches, nennen die große Kirche eine jüdische Sekte und bezeichnen das A. T. als Judenbuch. Mit den judaistischen Gegnern des Paulus — so nennen sie ihn niemals, sondern bezeichnen ihn einfach als ,,den Apostel" — identifizieren die Prologe alle Missionare vor und neben Paulus und bezeichnen ihre Mission als falsch[2]. Wo sie stattgefunden hat, da muß ,,der Apostel" ,,revocare" bzw. ,,recorrigere" (Röm., Laod., Kol.). Wo sie nachträglich eingetreten ist, muß er ebenfalls ,,revocare" (Gal., Kor.). Besonders charakteristisch aber ist, daß die Briefe lediglich daraufhin sachlich untersucht werden, wie die Gemeinden sich zum ,,verbum veritatis", bzw. zur ,,fides veritatis", ,,vera evangelica sapientia", ,,vera evangelica fides" und ,,fides" verhalten haben. Unter diesen Ausdrücken (das Stichwort ,,veritas" bzw. ,,verus" ist echt Marcionitisch und stammt aus dem für M. wichtigsten Brief; Gal. 2, 5. 14: ἡ ἀλήθεια τοῦ εὐαγγελίου) ist stets das paulinische, vom A. T. freie Christentum zu verstehen. Den Briefen an die Thess. und Phil. ist dieser Gesichtspunkt einfach aufgezwungen. Im Prolog zu Kol. bedeutet ,,verbum" ohne den Zusatz ,,veritatis" wahrscheinlich das falsche Evangelium.

Aus den inneren Beziehungen eines Teils der zehn ersten Prologe zueinander hat Bruyne scharfsinnig die ursprüngliche Reihenfolge der Briefe in der Sammlung bestimmt, und es ergab sich — die Marcionitische. Das ist ein weiterer Beweis für

---

1 In dem Prolog zu den Paulusbriefen des Pelagius sind sie benutzt.

2 Also sind auch die Urapostel inbegriffen, die Marcion selbst von den judaistischen Missionaren relativ unterschieden hat.

ihren Ursprung. Müssen aber nicht in der ersten Sammlung, für die sie niedergeschrieben worden sind, die zehn Prologe unmittelbar nacheinander gestanden haben, da Prolog II den ersten, Prolog III den zweiten („scribit e i s"), Prolog VIII den siebenten einfach fortsetzt? Haben sie aber nebeneinander gestanden, so werden sie aus einem größeren Werk stammen; muß man da nicht an Marcions „Antithesen" denken? Diese waren, wie Tertullian uns mitteilt, eine „Beigabe" zu seiner neuen Bibel. White schreibt in der Ausgabe (p. 41): „Argumenta unam seriem efficiunt et inter se evidenter cohaerent, ita ut ab auctore quodam Marcionita, et forsan ab ipso Marcione, confecta videantur". Allein so verlockend die Hypothese ist, M. selbst sei der Verfasser, so ist sie doch nicht wahrscheinlich; denn hätte Tert. diese Prologe in der Marcionitischen Sammlung, die ihm vorlag, gefunden — sei es in den Antithesen, sei es getrennt als Einleitungen zu den Briefen —, so hätte er gewiß nicht darauf verzichtet, ihre schlimme Tendenz ans Licht zu ziehen und zu widerlegen. Sie werden daher auf Rechnung eines etwas späteren Marcioniten zu setzen sein [1]; aber ihre große Verbreitung in der katholischen Kirche des Abendlandes erfordert die Annahme, daß sie spätestens um Ende des 2. Jahrhunderts entstanden sind. Sie sind nicht für Gelehrte geschrieben, sondern für geringe Leute; selbst „Romani sunt in partibus Italiae" glaubte der Verf. sagen zu müssen [2]. Aus der Polemik gegen den Katholizismus heraus sind sie entsprungen und sollen der Auslegung der Paulusbriefe die Marcionitische Richtung geben. Geradezu rätselhaft ist es, daß die Katholiken diese Tendenz nicht durchschaut und arglos die Prologe rezipiert haben. Nur die Bettelarmut des Abendlandes an Texten und an Hilfsmitteln zum Verständnis der h. Schriften in der ältesten Zeit und seine Unwissenheit konnten

---

1 Gewiß ist das freilich nicht: wie M. in den Antithesen das Ev. und die paulinischen Briefe lediglich unter dem Gesichtspunkt kommentiert hat, um die Hauptpunkte seiner Lehre apologetisch-polemisch zu begründen, so sind auch die Prologe lediglich unter diesem Gesichtspunkt geschrieben. Diese Konkordanz ist so auffallend, daß es doch trotz des Schweigens Tert.s nicht ausgeschlossen ist, daß M. der Verf. auch der Prologe ist.

2 Das spricht gegen Rom als Ort der Abfassung, s. von Soden in der Ztschr. f. KGesch. Bd. 60, 1922, S. 196 f.

es dazu verführen, nach jeder schriftlichen Aufzeichnung zu greifen und sie kritiklos aufzunehmen.

Das hohe Alter der Prologe macht ihre Angaben über die Orte, von denen sie geschrieben sind, wichtig. Wir hören, daß Galat. in Ephesus und Koloss. ebenfalls dort geschrieben ist (dann auch Laod.), und müssen diesen Angaben ein bedeutendes Gewicht beilegen; s. Deißmann, Licht von Osten[4] S. 201. Die Angabe, Philemon sei in Rom geschrieben, erklärt sich wohl aus der falschen Stellung nach Philipp.

Noch ist ein Wort über die drei Prologe zu den Pastoralbriefen zu sagen. Allzu rasch bin ich früher der nächstliegenden Ansicht gefolgt, sie könnten nicht Marcionitisch sein, da ja M. die Pastoralbriefe verworfen hat. Allein Corssen hat mich eines Besseren belehrt. Nicht nur sind diese Prologe formell und inhaltlich den anderen gleichartig [1], sondern entscheidend ist, daß im Prolog zu Titus aus dem Ausdruck c. 1, 14 (μὴ προσέχοντες) Ἰουδαϊκοῖς μύθοις hier „(de haereticis vitandis qui) in scripturis Judaicis credunt" geworden ist. Das ist offenbar ein böses Marcionitisches Quid pro quo: an die Stelle jüdischer Mythen tritt das A. T. selbst. Dann aber ist der Schluß unvermeidlich, daß ein Teil der späteren Marcioniten die Pastoralbriefe anerkannt (s. Chrysost. zu II Tim. 1, 18 T. XI, hom. 3, 1; er kennt solche Marcioniten) und — vermutlich mit einschneidenden Korrekturen — in seine Bibel aufgenommen hat [2].

De Bruyne (Rev. Bénéd. 1921 Oct. p. 13 f.) bestreitet den Marcionitischen Ursprung der Pastoralbriefe-Prologe; aber seine Argumente beweisen nur, daß sie nicht von M. selbst stammen.

Welch eine eigentümliche Peripetie! Die Marcionitischen Prologe dringen mitsamt den Marcionitischen Paulusbriefen, zu

---

1 Nur der kleine Unterschied besteht, daß in diesen Briefen „apostolus" fehlt; aber er fehlt auch im Prolog zum Philemonbrief.

2 Darüber läßt sich nichts Sicheres sagen, ob erst die 10 ersten Prologe entstanden sind und später die drei folgenden, oder ob alle 13 Prologe erst damals entworfen wurden, als ein Teil der Marcioniten bereits die Pastoralbriefe rezipiert hatte. In bezug auf den Prolog. zu I Tim. ist an die Parallele im Murat.-Fragment zu erinnern, wo es von den Pastoralbriefen heißt: „in ordinatione ecclesiasticae disciplinae sanctificati sunt". Hier muß ein Zusammenhang bestehen!

denen sie gehören, in das Gebiet des Todfeindes, der katholischen Kirche ein, und werden dort angenommen [1], aber schon vorher haben umgekehrt Marcioniten — wenn auch nur eine Minderzahl — aus der katholischen Bibel die Pastoralbriefe in ihre Sammlung der Paulusbriefe rezipiert. Für die Entscheidung der Frage aber, ob die Marcionitische Übersetzung der Paulusbriefe der katholischen in Rom vorangegangen und ihre Mutter ist, sind diese Prologe ohne Bedeutung, zumal da es zweifelhaft ist, ob sie von Marcion selbst stammen, und da sie sich nur in Vulguta-Mss. finden [2]. Sie können in einem beliebigen Moment in die kirchliche Überlieferung eingetreten sein; doch empfiehlt sich die Annahme nicht, daß dies im großen Umfang schon zur Zeit des noch brennenden Kampfes mit der Marcionitischen Kirche im Abendland geschehen ist; denn daß man damals schon in weiten Kreisen so stumpfsinnig gewesen ist und aus dem Lager des Feindes dieses Gut übernommen hat, ist kaum glaublich. Erst nachdem der Kampf im Abendland beendigt war, weil es nur noch wenige Marcioniten dort gab, und als das Bedürfnis nach Bibelhandschriften und nach Einführungen in die Bibel gewaltig groß wurde, also seit etwa dem Ende des 4. Jahrhunderts, wird man lateinische Übersetzungen der Paulusbriefe aufgegriffen haben, wo man sie fand. Man wird daher annehmen dürfen, daß die abendländische Kirche diesen Prologen erst seit dem Ende des 4. Jahrhunderts arglos den Eingang gestattet hat. Dafür spricht auch, daß es Itala-Handschriften mit diesen Prologen nicht gibt, Hieronymus sie nicht

---

1 White bei Wordsworth p. 41: „Marcionis ‚Apostolicon' Latine etiam circumlatum fuit et communi usu [scil. in ecclesiis catholicis occidentalibus] tritum. exemplo etiam antiquissimo probatur, quod alias abunde testatum est, ecclesiam nonnihil etiam in Novi Testamenti corpore confirmando haereticis debere. Monarchianorum prologi in Evangelia, Donatistarum capitulationes in Actus, Pelagii praefationes in Epistulas, Priscilliani in easdem canones ab omnibus doctis nunc agnoscuntur; quibus hodie adiungitur Marcion". Zu diesen Beiträgen kommen noch die Textänderungen, die in zahlreiche katholische Bibeln aus häretischen eingedrungen sind.

2 Selbst das ist nicht sicher auszumachen, ob die Ausgliederung der einzelnen Stücke aus der Einheit, die sie bilden, und ihre Zuordnung zu den einzelnen Briefen schon von den Marcioniten vorgenommen worden ist oder erst von einem katholischen Christen. Doch ist ersteres wohl das Wahrscheinlichere.

erwähnt und Pelagius ihr erster Zeuge ist. Indessen, ausgeschlossen ist es nicht, daß sie in diese und jene katholische Bibelhandschrift schon bedeutend früher eingedrungen sind (s. u.).

Die Prologe sind die stärksten Zeugnisse der wuchtigen Einseitigkeit des Marcionitischen Christentums und erinnern durch diese an Luther und seine Entschlossenheit, überall in der Bibel das Rechtfertigungsdogma zu finden.

D. Der Laodicener- und der Alexandrinerbrief.

Im vorigen Jahre, als ich den altbekannten gefälschten Laodicenerbrief in die Hand nahm, entdeckte ich, daß dieser Brief eine Marcionitische Fälschung sei und daher identisch mit jenem Laodicenerbrief, der im Muratorischen Fragment als Marcionitische Fälschung abgewiesen wird [1]. Die Abhandlung, in der ich den Nachweis hierfür erbracht habe (Sitzungsber. der Preuß. Akademie, 1. Nov. 1923), rücke ich hier mit geringen Änderungen ein. Über den Marcionitischen Alexandrinerbrief wissen wir noch immer schlechterdings nichts; denn das, was Zahn beigebracht hat [2], hat leider keine Aufklärung herbeigeführt und uns kein Fragment geboten. Hat es sich vielleicht um eine Fälschung zum Zweck der Propaganda in Ägypten gehandelt? Vorzustellen haben wir uns den Brief wahrscheinlich nach dem Muster des gefälschten Laod.-Briefes, d. h. als einen Cento aus echten Paulusbriefen; denn schwerlich werden es sich Marcioniten zugetraut haben, einen ganzen Paulusbrief aus eigenen Mitteln herzustellen.

In zahllosen Vulgatahandschriften des Neuen Testaments und auch in sog. Itala-Handschriften [3], ferner in böhmischen, 1 Murat. Fragm. Z. 63 ff.: „Fertur etiam ad Laudicenses, alia ad Alexandrinos, Pauli nomine finctae ad haeresem Marcionis, et alia plura quae in catholicam ecclesiam recipi non potest; fel enim cum melle misceri non congruit".

---

2 Einl. i. d. N. T. Bd. 2³ S. 113. 121, Gesch. des Kanons I S. 277 ff., II S. 82 ff. 238. 586 ff.

3 „At all ages from the VI. to the XV. century we have examples of its occurrence among the Pauline Epistles and most frequently without any marks which imply doubt respecting its canonicity. These instances are more common in proportion to the number of extant Mss. in the earlier epoch than in the later. In one of the three or four extant authorities for englischen und deutschen Bibelhandschriften und -drucken des Mittelalters [1]. findet sich ein Brief des Paulus an die Laodicener (in wechselnder Stellung, in der Regel bei Koloss.[2]). Ein griechisches oder orientalisches Exemplar ist bisher nicht nachgewiesen — ein arabisches, welches bekanntgeworden, ist jung und aus dem Lateinischen geflossen —, aber die alte griechische Kirche kannte den Brief auch, wie die ablehnenden Äußerungen antiochenischer und späterer Väter beweisen. Im Abendland haben erst die Renaissance, die Reformation und das Tridentinum diesem zähesten Eindringling in die Bibel ein Ende gemacht. Die ältesten Zeugen des Briefs sind der Cod. Fuldensis saec. VI und das sog. Speculum Augustini; aber gekannt (und verworfen) hat ihn schon Hieronymus, als paulinischen Brief gelesen und verteidigt Priscillian [3], und seine Aufnahme in Itala-Bibeln macht es gewiß, daß er spätestens dem 4. Jahrhundert angehören muß; er kann jedoch bedeutend älter sein.

Alles, was man vor achtzig Jahren über den Brief und seine Geschichte ermitteln konnte, hat Anger in einer ausgezeichneten Monographie zusammengefaßt („Über den Laodicenerbrief", the Old Latin Version of the Pauline Epistles it has a place. In one of the two most ancient copies of Jerome's revised Vulgate it is found. Among the first class Mss. of this later Version its insertion is almost as common as its omission. This phenomenon moreover is not confined to any one country. Italy, Spain, France, Ireland, England, Germany, Switzerland — all the great nations of Latin Christendom — contribute examples of early Mss. in which this epistle has a place" (Lightfoot).

---

1 Sowohl in tschechischen Bibelhandschriften als auch in gedruckten Bibeln findet sich der Brief in verschiedenen Rezensionen. Die deutsche Übersetzung stammt spätestens aus dem 14. Jahrhundert und ist in mehr als 14 deutschen Bibeldrucken (vor Luthers Bibel) aufgenommen. In englischen Bibeln stand der Brief vor Wycliffs und Purveys Zeit; sie merzten ihn aus, aber der Brief erhielt sich doch, und zwar in zwei voneinander unabhängigen Übersetzungen und in vor der Mitte des 15. Jahrh. geschriebenen Manuskripten. Auch in einer Albingensischen Bibel (13. Jahrh.) ist der Brief enthalten.

2 Anlaß zur Fälschung gab die Stelle Koloss. 4, 16: „Wenn dieser mein Brief bei euch gelesen ist, so sorgt dafür, daß er auch in der Gemeinde der Laodicener gelesen werde und daß auch ihr (meinen) aus Laodicea kommenden Brief lest."

3 Auch Gregor der Große hat ihn als echten Brief anerkannt.

1843). Zahlreiche fördernde Bemühungen sind dann noch erfolgt [1]. Der Text, wie ihn Lightfoot auf Grund zahlreicher Mss. rezensiert hat, wird durch Vergleichung neuer Handschriften schwerlich wesentliche Veränderungen erfahren. Alle bisher eingesehenen Handschriften gehen auf ein im 5. Verse verderbtes Exemplar zurück.

Über die Unechtheit der Kompilation, die mit Galat. 1, 1 beginnt und scheinbar nichts anderes ist als ein etwas bereichertes Exzerpt aus dem Philipperbrief (bemerkenswert, daß der Plagiator diesen Brief gewählt hat und nicht Koloss.), ist kein Wort zu verlieren. Der heutige Stand der positiven Erkenntnis aber ist folgender: (1) Alle Gelehrten sind darüber einig, daß der Brief „ganz farblos" ist und daß die Absicht des Verfassers daher nur die gewesen sein kann, den verlorenen Brief des Apostels Paulus (Koloss. 4, 16) mit den einfachsten Mitteln und ohne eine besondere Tendenz durch eine pure Fälschung herzustellen. (2) Einige von ihnen halten den Brief entschieden für ein lateinisches Original (so z. B. Westcott), andere für eine Übersetzung aus dem Griechischen (so z. B. Lightfoot und Zahn). (3) Da sich in dem Muratorischen Fragment (um d. J. 200) die Angabe findet: „Fertur etiam ad Laudecenses ... Pauli nomine fincta ad heresem Marcionis (s. o.), so identifizieren einige Gelehrte (z. B. Zahn) unsern Brief mit dem hier abgelehnten, obgleich sie nichts Marcionitisches in dem Schreiben zu finden gestanden — sie meinen, der Verf. habe den Brief unbesehen und leichtfertig für Marcionitisch-häretisch erklärt, weil sich im Kanon Marcions ein Laodicenerbrief befand [2] —, andere dagegen lehnen die Identifizierung ab (z. B. Lightfoot und ich selbst früher), weil das Schreiben nichts

---

1 Die gründlichste Untersuchung hat Lightfoot, Epp. to the Coloss. et Philem., 1875, p. 340 ff., geliefert; s. ferner Westcott, Hist. of the Canon [6], 1881; Zahn, Gesch. des NTlichen Kanons II, 1890, S. 566 ff.; v. Harnack, Gesch. der altchristl. Literat. I (1893) S. 33 ff., II, 1 (1897) S. 702, und „Kleine Texte", hrsg. v. Lietzmann, 1912; Berger, Hist. de la Vulgate, 1893; Jülicher, Einl. in d. N. T., 1906, vv. II., usw.

2 Der aber mit dem Epheserbrief identisch war (Marcion hatte diesen Brief mit der Adresse „ad Laodicenos" in seiner Bibel, s. o.).

Marcionitisches enthielte und weil die Stelle Koloss. 4, 16 öfters zu Fälschungen habe Anlaß geben können [1].

Den Text des Briefs habe ich wesentlich nach der Rezension Lightfoots gedruckt [2] eine griechische Rückübersetzung, die sich fast von selbst ergibt, da der Verf. des Briefs ganz und gar auf den Paulinischen Philipperbrief fußt, habe ich beigefügt.

AD LAODICENSES

1 Paulus apostolus non ab hominibus neque per hominem, sed per Iesum Christum, fratribus qui sunt Laodiciae: 2 gratia vobis et pax a deo patre et domino Iesu Christo.

3 Gratias ago Christo per omnem orationem meam, quod permanentes estis in eo et perseverantes in operibus eius, promissum expectantes in diem iudicii, 4 neque destituant vos quo-rundam vaniloquia insinuantium, ut vos avertant a veritate evangelii quod a me praedicatur. 5 et nunc faciet deus ut qui sunt ex me ad profectum veritatis evangelii ⟨venerint ad vos⟩ . . . ⟨deo⟩ [de]servientes et facientes benignitatem operum quae . . . . salutis, vitae aeternae.

6 Et nunc palam sunt vincula mea quae patior in Christo, quibus laetor et gaudeo. 7 et hoc mihi est ad salutem perpetuam, quod ipsum factum ⟨est⟩ orationibus vestris et administrante spiritu sancto sive per vitam sive per mortem. 8 est enim mihi vere vita in Christo et mori gaudium. 9 et id ipsum in vobis faciet misericordia sua, ut eandem dilectionem habeatis et sitis unia-nimes.

10 Ergo, dilectissimi, ut audistis praesentiam mei, ita retinete et facite in timore dei, et erit vobis vita in aeternum — 11 est enim deus qui operatur in vos —, 12 et facite sine retractu quaecunque facitis.

13 Et quod ⟨reliquum⟩ est, dilectissimi, gaudete in Christo et praecavete sordidos in lucro. 14 omnes sint petitiones vestrae palam apud deum, et estote firmi in sensu Christi. 15 et quae

---

1 Auch das wurde geltend gemacht, daß ein so geringes Produkt wie diese Kompilation schwerlich aus dem 2. Jahrhundert stammen könne.

2 Angehängt sind ein Prolog zum Brief aus einer mittelalterlichen englischen Übersetzung und eine sich in mehreren Mss. findende Capitulatio.

integra et vera et pudica et iusta et amabilia, facite. [16] et quae audistis et accepistis, in corde retinete, et erit vobis pax.

[[17] Salutate omnes fratres in osculo sancto]. [18] salutant vos sancti. [19] gratia domini Iesu cum spiritu vestro.

[20] Et facite legi Colosensibus et Colosensium vobis.

Vers 4 destituat ... vaniloquentia: Speculum > die besseren Mss. 5 Die volle Ergänzung der beiden Lücken ist unsicher (Lightfoot nimmt nur die erste an), natürlich ist „venerunt" oder „venerint" nach „evangelii" ausgefallen, s. Phil. 1, 12: εἰς προκοπὴν τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ἐληλύθασιν, vor „[de]servientes" hat m. E. „deo" gestanden; aber es ist vielleicht noch mehr ausgefallen. — operamque Zahn. 8 vere vita Cod. Fuld. u. a. Mss., andere vivere vita oder vera vita; Lightfoot vita. 9 id ipsum Konjektur einiger Mss. und Lightfoots, in ipsum Fuld. usw. — misericordiam suam Mss., berichtigt von Lightfoot. 10 praesentiam mei s. d. Capitulatio; praesentia mei (praesentiam, praesentiam ei, in praesentia mei, praesentiam mihi bzw. eius oder dei oder domini) Mss.; praesentia mei Lightfoot. 13 reliquum Lightfoot, zur Not entbehrlich. 17 der Vers fehlt im Fuld. u. a. Mss. und stammt nicht aus Phil., Lightfoot und Zahn streichen ihn; doch konnte er leicht vor v. 18 ausfallen. Non liquet.

Prolog in einer englischen Übersetzung, älter als saec. XV med. (s. Lightfoot, l. c. p. 363f.) [1].

Laodicensis ben also Colocenses [sic,] as tweye townes and oo peple in [illegible] aners. these ben of Asie, and among hem hadden be false apostlis and disceyede manye. therefore the postle bringith hem to mynde of his conversacion and trewe preching of the gospel, and excith hem to be stidfast in the trewe witt and love of Crist, and to be of oo wil. [But this pistil is not in comyn Latyn bookis, and therfor it was but late translatid into English tunge].

Capitulatio (nur in einem Teil der Handschriften, s. Lightfoot, l. c. p. 349. 350).

Incipiunt capitula epistole [2] ad Laodicenses: I Paulus apostolus pro Laodicensibus domino gratias refert et hortatur eos ne [3]

1 Über die uralte Vorlage dieses Prologs s. später.

2 Al.: in epistolam. — 3 ut.

a seductoribus decipiantur. II De manifestis vinculis [1] apostoli in quibus laetatur et gaudet. III Monet Laodicenses apostolus ut sicut sui audierunt praesentiam [2] ita retineant et sine retractu faciant. IV Hortatur apostolus Laodicenses ut fide sint firmi et quae integra et vera et deo placita sunt faciant. et salutatio fratrum [3].

Προς Λαοδικεας.

[1] Παῦλος ἀπόστολος οὐκ ἀπ' ἀνθρώπων οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπου, ἀλλὰ διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν Λαοδικείᾳ· [2] χάρις ὑμῖν καὶ εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς καὶ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ.

[3] Εὐχαριστῶ Χριστῷ ἐν πάσῃ δεήσει μου, ὅτι διαμένοντές ἐστε ἐν αὐτῷ καὶ προσκαρτεροῦντες τοῖς ἔργοις αὐτοῦ, τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν ἀπεκδεχόμενοι εἰς ἡμέραν κρίσεως, [4] Μηδὲ παραλογίσηται ὑμᾶς ἡ τινῶν ματαιολογία ἐπαγγελλομένων, ἵνα ὑμᾶς ἀποστρέψωσιν ἀπὸ τῆς ἀληθείας τοῦ εὐαγγελίου τοῦ εὐαγγελισθέντος ὑπ' ἐμοῦ. [5] καὶ νῦν ποιήσει ὁ θεὸς ἵνα οἱ (ὄντες) ἐξ ἐμοῦ εἰς προκοπὴν τῆς ἀληθείας τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ⟨ἐληλύθασιν πρὸς ὑμᾶς⟩ .... ⟨τῷ θεῷ⟩ λατρεύοντες καὶ ποιοῦντες χρηστότητα ἔργων ... τῆς σωτηρίας, τῆς ζωῆς αἰωνίου.

[6] Καὶ νῦν φανεροί εἰσιν οἱ δεσμοί μου, οὓς ὑπομένω ἐν Χριστῷ, οἷς χαίρω καὶ ἀγαλλιῶμαι. [7] καὶ τοῦτό μοί ἐστιν εἰς σωτηρίαν ἄϊδιον, ὅτι τοῦτο ἀπέβη διὰ τῶν δεήσεων ὑμῶν καὶ ἐπιχορηγίας πνεύματος ἁγίου εἴτε διὰ ζωῆς εἴτε διὰ θανάτου. [8] ἔστιν γάρ μοι ἀληθῶς τὸ ζῆν ἐν Χριστῷ καὶ τὸ ἀποθανεῖν χαρά. [9] καὶ τὸ αὐτὸ ἐν ὑμῖν ποιήσει τῷ ἐλέει αὐτοῦ, ἵνα τὴν αὐτὴν ἀγάπην ἔχητε καὶ ἦτε σύνψυχοι.

[10] Ὥστε, ἀγαπητοί, καθὼς ἠκούσατε τὴν παρουσίαν μου, οὕτω κρατεῖτε καὶ πράσσετε ἐν φόβῳ θεοῦ, καὶ ἔσται ὑμῖν ζωὴ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα — [11] ἔστιν γὰρ ὁ θεὸς ὁ ἐνεργῶν ἐν ὑμῖν —, [12] καὶ ποιεῖτε χωρὶς διαλογισμοῦ ὅ τι ἂν ποιῆτε.

[13] Καὶ τὸ λοιπόν, ἀγαπητοί, χαίρετε ἐν Χριστῷ καὶ παραιτεῖσθε τοὺς αἰσχροκερδεῖς. [14] πάντα τὰ αἰτήματα ὑμῶν γνωριζέσθω πρὸς τὸν θεόν, καὶ γίνεσθε ἑδραῖοι ἐν τῷ νοῖ τοῦ Χριστοῦ. [15] ὅσα δὲ ὁλόκληρα καὶ ἀληθῆ καὶ σεμνὰ καὶ δίκαια καὶ προσφιλῆ, πράσσετε, [16] καὶ ἃ ἠκούσατε καὶ παρελάβετε, ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ κρατεῖτε, καὶ ἔσται ὑμῖν ἡ εἰρήνη.

[[17] Ἀσπάσασθε πάντας τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς ἐν φιλήματι ἁγίῳ]. [18] ἀσπάζονται ὑμᾶς οἱ ἅγιοι. [19] ἡ χάρις τοῦ κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ μετὰ τοῦ

---

1 manifesta vinculat. — 2 praesentia. — 3 + in osculo sancto.

πνεύματος ὑμῶν. [20] καὶ ποιήσατε ἵνα τοῖς Κολασσαεῦσιν ἀναγνωσθῇ καὶ ἡ Κολασσαέων ὑμῖν.

1 Gal. 1, 1. 2 Phil. 1, 2. 3 Phil. 1, 3 (2, 30; 1, 10; 2, 16; Rom. 2, 7; Gal. 5, 5). 4 (Kol. 2, 4); (I Tim. 1, 6); (II Tim. 4, 4); (Gal. 2, 5. 14; Gal. 1, 11). 5 Phil. 1, 12 (Rom. 3, 12 ποιῶν χρηστότητα). 6 Phil. 1, 13. 18; (2, 17). 7 Phil. 1, 19. 20. 8 Phil. 1, 21. 9 Phil. 2, 2 (Tit. 3, 5). 10 Phil. 2, 12. 11 Phil. 2, 13. 12 Phil. 2, 14. 13 Phil. 3, 1 (I Tim. 3, 8; Tit. 1, 7). 14 Phil. 4, 6 (I Kor. 15, 58; 2, 16). 15 Phil. 4, 8 f. 16 Phil. 4, 9. 17 (I Thess. 5, 26). 18 Phil. 4, 22. 19 Phil. 4, 23. Gal. 6, 18. 20 Kol. 4, 16.

Mit vollem Recht bezeichnet man diesen Brief, abstrakt betrachtet, als inhaltslos und schwach, seinen Verfasser als dreisten Stümper, der es wagen durfte, ein solches Machwerk für einen Brief des Apostels auszugeben. Freilich, sein Wagnis ist ihm bei einem großen Leserkreise gelungen und hat sich weit über ein Jahrtausend hinaus die Anerkennung erhalten; aber das ändert nichts an der Einsicht, daß der Verf. mit den geringsten Mitteln gearbeitet hat. Ist doch das Schreiben, nach dem wörtlich aus Galat. 1, 1 entnommenen Anfang, einfach ein Auszug aus dem Philipperbrief, dem es auch in der Aufeinanderfolge der Verse durchweg folgt, dabei aber alles Konkrete im Brief ganz beiseite läßt. Das, was übrig bleibt, ist auch zum Teil paulinischen Briefen entnommen [1]; zieht man auch dieses noch ab, so bleibt ein Zehntel als Eigentum des Verfassers übrig, und auch dieses Zehntel scheint charakterlos und farblos zu sein. Was sollte also dieser Cento? Hatte der Verfasser wirklich nur die Absicht, auf eine möglichst billige Weise die Lücke in der Überlieferung der Paulusbriefe zu stopfen, die durch Koloss. 4, 16 bezeichnet schien? So urteilten alle Kritiker bisher und mußten so urteilen; denn die abstrakte Betrachtung konnte zu keinem anderen Ergebnisse gelangen, und eine Tendenz bzw. eine konkrete Situation, die diese Kompilation erklärte, schien unauffindbar.

Aber mit einem Schlage ändert sich die ganze Beurteilung des Schriftstücks, und es wird verständlich, sobald man erkannt hat, daß es Marcionitischen Ursprungs ist, was ja auch das Muratorische Fragment mit dürren Worten von einem falschen Laod.-Brief sagt. Daß ich das nicht schon früher bemerkt habe, liegt lediglich daran, daß ich leider den Inhalt des auch von mir für ein wertloses Machwerk gehaltenen Briefes nicht im Kopfe hatte und ihn nicht zur Hand nahm.

1 Augenscheinlich glaubte der Verfasser, naive Leser voraussetzend, seine Fälschung könne nicht aufgedeckt werden, wenn er sie fast durchweg aus den echten Paulusbriefen bestreite.

Der Beweis für den Marcionitischen Ursprung kann unwiderleglich geführt werden:

(1) Der „Apostolos" Marcions beginnt mit dem Galaterbrief als der Grundlage seiner Lehre und deshalb mit den Worten: „Paulus apostolus non ab hominibus neque per hominem, sed per Iesum Christum". Auch unser Brief beginnt mit diesen monumentalen, im Sinne Marcions antikatholischen Worten [1].

(2) Der Philipperbrief beginnt nach dem Gruß mit den Worten: „Gratias ago deo meo" [2]; unser Verfasser schreibt dafür „Christo". Der „Modalismus" Marcions ist bekannt. Seine Theologie ist immer zugleich Christologie, und in Christus sollten seine Anhänger leben; vgl. dazu in unserem Brief v. 3, permanentes estis in Christo et perseverantes in operibus Christi" [3] und die verstärkenden Abwandlungen des Originaltextes in v. 6 („nunc palam sunt vincula mea quae patior in Christo"), v. 8 („est enim mihi vere vita in Christo"), v. 13 („gaudete in Christo") [4], und v. 14 („estote firmi in sensu Christi").

(3) Der allein etwas Eigentümliches enthaltende Abschnitt v. 4 und 5 warnt vor Verführung durch die nichtige Predigt falscher Lehrer und stellt ihr zweimal die „veritas evangelii" entgegen, und zwar „quod a me praedicatur". „Veritas evangelii" ist aber ein terminus technicus bei Marcion und tritt auch in den Marcionitischen Prologen dominierend hervor, und durch den Zusatz „quod a me praedicatur" werden die anderen Evangelisten bzw. Apostel für falsch erklärt. Ganz im Sinne der Korrekturen des Meisters ist dann nach den Worten: τὰ κατ' ἐμὲ εἰς

---

1 Nur dieser Vers ist aus Galat. übernommen (dort und hier ohne „et deum patrem"!); doch findet sich noch eine Reminiszenz an Gal. 6, 18 im 19. Vers.

2 Nur die Variante τῷ κυρίῳ ἡμῶν findet sich, dagegen steht in keiner Handschrift Χριστῷ.

3 Die „opera Christi" sind höchstwahrscheinlich als asketische gemeint.

4 Alle Mss. bieten Phil. 3, 1 ἐν κυρίῳ.

προκοπὴν τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ἐλήλυθεν (Phil. 1, 12) der Satz gebildet: καὶ νῦν ποιήσει ὁ θεὸς ἵνα οἱ (ὄντες) ἐξ ἐμοῦ εἰς προκοπὴν τῆς ἀληθείας τοῦ εὐαγγελίου ⟨ἐληλύθασιν πρὸς ὑμᾶς⟩, und damit ist ausgesprochen, daß Paulus in die gefährdete Gemeinde (die er nicht selbst kennt) seine Leute geschickt hat und von ihrem Wirken Erfolg erwartet gegenüber den Irrlehrern [1].

(4) Wieder ganz in der raffinierten Weise des Meisters ist v. 10 nach Phil. 2, 12 (καθὼς πάντοτε ὑπηκούσατε, μὴ ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ μου μόνον ἀλλὰ νῦν πολλῷ μᾶλλον ἐν τῇ ἀπουσίᾳ μου) vom Fälscher der Satz gebildet: καθὼς ἠκούσατε τὴν παρουσίαν μου, οὕτω κρατεῖτε κτλ., d. h. ein Doppeltes ist damit erreicht, erstlich ein Zeugnis dafür, daß Paulus der Gemeinde von Angesicht unbekannt ist, zweitens der hohe Ausdruck „Parusie" für das Auftreten des Paulus (die ἀπουσία hat der Fälscher wohlweislich unterschlagen). Kann man geschickter in einer Vorlage aus einer Chamade eine Fanfare machen, freilich unter gründlicher Veränderung des Wortlauts [2]?

---

1 Der virtuose Einfall „τὰ κατ' ἐμέ" durch οἱ (ὄντες) ἐξ ἐμοῦ zu ersetzen, somit das ἐληλύθασιν wörtlich zu verstehen und nun eine Aussage über die vom Apostel nach Laodicea abgesandten Schüler und ihre Tätigkeit dort zu gewinnen, ist des Scharfsinns Marcions würdig. Vielleicht ist er es wirklich selbst, der Phil. 1, 12 schon ähnlich korrigiert hat, und der Schüler hat die Fassung des Meisters weiter verändert; leider ist uns die Textfassung Marcions für diesen Vers nicht überliefert. Die Konjektur „venerint" („venerunt") ist in Wahrheit keine Konjektur, da es ja in der Vorlage (Phil. 1, 12) steht. Ob im griechischen Original der Indikativ gestanden haben kann, überlasse ich den Sprachgelehrten.

2 Auch die Textveränderung („Wie ihr von meiner Erscheinung und Auftreten [παρουσία] gehört habt, so haltet fest") ist den genial-raffinierten Textveränderungen Marcions so ähnlich, daß man auch hier die Möglichkeit offen lassen muß, er selbst schon habe Phil. 2, 12 umzugestalten begonnen. Seine Textfassung auch dieser Stelle ist uns nicht überliefert. — In diesem Falle übrigens, wie in dem vorangehenden, hängt alles davon ab, daß man den Text an beiden Stellen richtig herstellt. Merkwürdigerweise ist m. W. keiner meiner Vorgänger auf die gebotenen Konjekturen „venerunt" und „praesentiam" (c. 1, 12; 2, 12) gekommen, die eigentlich gar keine Konjekturen sind; denn praesentiam mei ist graphisch von praesentia mei kaum zu unterscheiden, die Ersetzung von ὑπακούειν durch ἀκούειν sowie die Weglassung von ἀπουσία fordern παρουσίαν als Objekt (nicht παρουσίᾳ oder ἐν παρουσίᾳ), und das alte Argumentum zum Laodicenerbrief sagt ausdrücklich, daß der Apostel persön-

(5) Marcion sprach dem A. T. und den katholischen Christen, die er bekämpfte, die Verheißung, ja die Kenntnis des ewigen Lebens ab und bildete diesen Begriff zu einem Stichwort seiner Verkündigung und Kirche; in unserem Brief tritt „das ewige Leben" in v. 5 und 10 unerwartet hervor (vgl. auch v. 7 den Zusatz „perpetua" zu „salus").

Diese Beobachtungen entscheiden [1]: unser Brief ist eine Marcionitische Fälschung [2], und da sie dem Verfasser des Muratorischen Fragments bekannt ist, eine Fälschung schon des 2. Jahrhunderts — nicht von Marcion selbst, denn dieser bot den Epheserbrief als Laodicenerbrief, sondern von einem Schüler aus der Gruppe von Marcioniten, die, der katholischen Über-lich nicht zu diesen Adressaten gekommen ist, sie also nur von seiner Parusie gehört haben (noch deutlicher die Capitulatio). Ἀκούειν τὴν παρουσίαν ist übrigens so gut griechisch, wie „audire praesentiam" gut lateinisch ist. — Weil die Ausleger an diesen beiden Stellen den richtigen Text nicht erkannt haben — sie allein geben dem Briefe Farbe —, mußten sie in dem Schriftstück eine farb- und inhaltslose Stilübung sehen.

---

1 In ihnen ist so gut wie alles erschöpft, was der Brief Besonderes neben dem Philipperbrief enthält. Nur v. 13 die Warnung vor αἰσχροκερδεῖς (hängt damit etwa auch die Tilgung von κέρδος Phil. 1, 21 in v. 8 zusammen?) bleibt dunkel. Warfen die Marcioniten ihren katholischen Gegnern samt und sonders αἰσχροκερδία vor? Unmöglich ist's nicht; mit diesem Vorwurf beehrten sich die christlichen Parteien oft gegenseitig (s. die gegen die Montanistischen Führer geschleuderten Vorwürfe), und speziell der römische Bischof Zephyrin wird von Hippolyt (Refut. IX, 7) als ἀνὴρ αἰσχροκερδής bezeichnet. Besteht hier ein geschichtlicher Zusammenhang? — Für den Bibeltext Marcions gewinnt man aus dem Brief neue Stücke. Der Brief ist der älteste Zeuge für den Text des Philipperbriefs (neben Marcion selbst); er bestätigt aber durchweg seine Zuverlässigkeit.

2 Der „Gerichtstag" v. 3 darf nicht als Gegenargument geltend gemacht werden; Marcion hat das Gericht Röm. 2, 2 16; II Thess. 1, 9; I Kor. 5, 5; II Kor. 5, 10 stehen gelassen. Auf die ἔργα v. 3 und 5 als unpaulinisch und unmarcionitisch wird sich niemand mehr berufen wollen — ein alter orthodoxer Lutheraner freilich machte sich einst die Unechtheit des Schreibens an diesen ἔργα klar! Als charakteristisch-marcionitisch darf übrigens auch die Hervorhebung Gottes als des das Gute Wirkenden angesehen werden, vgl. v. 5. 9. 11. Lehrreich ist hier besonders v. 9 im Vergleich mit seiner Vorlage Phil. 2, 2; hier heißt es: πληρώσατε τὴν χαράν μου, ἵνα τὸ αὐτὸ φρονῆτε, dort dagegen „faciet deus ut sitis unianimes".

lieferung folgend, ihren Laodicenerbrief nun auch als Epheserbrief betitelten und infolge davon die Adresse „Ad Laodicenos" frei hatten. Man hatte bisher keine Zeugnisse, daß die Umbildung schon im 2. Jahrhundert bei einem Teile der Marcioniten stattgefunden hat. Wir dürfen jetzt mit Bestimmtheit sagen: Die Fälschung stammt aus den Jahren 160—190 [1]. Daß sie sich Marcion selbst erlaubt hat, ist nach den Prinzipien, nach denen er seine Bibel angelegt hat, ausgeschlossen; aber der Schüler, der diese Fälschung auf dem Gewissen hat, hat sich innerhalb derselben nach der Methode gerichtet, nach welcher der Meister „Interpolationen" ausgeschieden und dicta probantia für seine Lehre aus indifferenten Stellen durch kleine einschneidende Textveränderungen zu gestalten verstanden hat.

Betrachten wir nun den Brief als ganzen: Jener Marcionit, der ihn gefälscht hat, hat augenscheinlich die Absicht gehabt, einen Paulusbrief auf Grund von Koloss. 4, 16 zu erfinden, der heimlich Marcionitische Lehren zum Ausdruck bringen und auch bei den katholischen Christen Anerkennung finden sollte. Deshalb verwendete er fast durchweg paulinische Sätze, die er dem Philipperbrief der Reihe nach entnahm — diesen Brief wählte er wahrscheinlich deshalb aus, weil man aus ihm am leichtesten als Grundlage der Fälschung eine indifferente, also Vertrauen erweckende Kompilation zusammenstellen konnte. Die spezifisch dogmatischen Sätze Marcions getraute er sich nicht in seiner Fälschung zum Ausdruck zu bringen [2]: er fürchtete wohl, sich zu verraten. Daher begnügte er sich damit, an drei Stellen die eigentümliche Auffassung Marcions in bezug auf den Apostel Paulus einzuschmuggeln, in der Hoffnung, damit bereits etwas Wesentliches für die Marcionitische Propaganda geleistet zu haben: (1) Vers 1: Paulus ist ganz selbständiger Apostel, der nichts mit den Uraposteln zu tun hat. (2) Vers 3—5: Es gibt Irrlehrer in der Kirche zu Laodicea, d. h. sie hat ein falsches Evangelium erhalten. Irrlehrer sind die, welche nicht der „veritas evangelii", die nur Paulus verkündigt hat, folgen. Paulus hat die nach Laodicea

1 Einige Jahre vor dem Muratorischen Fragment und schwerlich vor dem Tode Marcions.

2 Doch s. was oben über „Christus", die Wirksamkeit Gottes und „das ewige Leben" bemerkt ist.

gekommenen Irrlehrer durch seine Schüler („qui sunt ex me") bekämpft und hofft auf Erfolg ihrer Predigt. (3) Vers 10: Nachdem die Laodicener nun von der „Parusie" des Apostels gehört haben, sollen sie sich an die Lehre halten, die Er vertritt; dann ist ihnen das ewige Leben gewiß [1].

Der Brief hat wirklich den vom Verfasser gewünschten Erfolg gehabt [2], wenn auch nicht überall. Der Verfasser des Muratorischen Fragments, der sehr bald nach der Produktion der Fälschung geschrieben hat, hat sie durchschaut („ficta ad haeresem Marcionis"); aber er hat es doch für nötig geachtet, den Brief ausdrücklich abzuweisen. Aus seinen Worten geht deutlich hervor, daß er bereits in katholische Bibeln Eingang gewonnen hatte oder doch Eingang zu gewinnen drohte. Die Abweisung jenes einsichtigen Mannes hat aber leider nur einen partikularen Erfolg gehabt: der Brief drang doch in die lateinischen Bibeln ein und behauptete sich.

Ist er ursprünglich lateinisch abgefaßt oder griechisch? Lightfoot hat zahlreiche sprachliche Beobachtungen geltend gemacht, um ein griechisches Original zu beweisen, aber sie sind

1 Gemessen an dem Zweck, den der Verf. sich gesetzt hatte, und in Hinsicht auf den Erfolg, der ihm zuteil wurde, darf man das Schriftstück doch nicht als ungeschicktes Machwerk bezeichnen. Der Verf. kannte seine Leute, wußte, was er dem christlichen Publikum bieten durfte, und hat vorsichtig und umsichtig operiert. Was die moralische Seite betrifft, so darf man den Meister selbst nicht mit diesem Schüler belasten. Marcion war davon überzeugt, daß die Paulusbriefe von katholischen, d. h. in seinem Sinn judenchristlichen Interpolationen wimmeln, und hat es demgemäß unternommen, diese auszumerzen und den richtigen Text, so gut er es vermochte, wiederherzustellen; ganz selten nur hat er eine positive Konjektur gemacht, und Unfehlbarkeit für seine Kritik hat er nicht in Anspruch genommen. Dieser Schüler aber hat gefälscht, gefälscht wahrscheinlich im Einverständnis mit einer ganzen Gruppe seiner Glaubensgenossen! Eine Entschuldigung für dieses Verfahren kann ich von keiner Seite her finden. Nur insofern kann man vielleicht doch Marcion selbst hier „unschuldig-schuldig" nennen, als die „tägliche Gewohnheit", am Bibeltext zu ändern (s. das Zeugnis Tertullians), die sich durch sein Verfahren in seiner Kirche eingestellt hatte und einstellen mußte, allmählich zu einer schlimmen Leichtfertigkeit wurde, die zuletzt in Fälschungen überging.

2 Das ist ein Zeichen höchster Kritiklosigkeit bei den Lesern angesichts der Tatsache, daß das Schreiben fast ganz und gar ein Plagiat (nach Philipp.) ist.

m. E. alle nicht durchschlagend und können es nicht sein, weil ja fast der ganze Brief Philipperbrief-Verse wiedergibt, die schon lateinisch übersetzt waren [1], und weil vulgäres, gräzisierendes Latein(,,praesentia mei" und ähnliches) nicht für eine Übersetzung entscheidet. Durchschlagend scheinen mir allein die Erwägungen zu sein, daß der Fälscher es in so früher Zeit nicht wagen konnte, einen lateinischen Brief vorzulegen ohne das dazugehörige (angebliche) Original, und daß die Verhandlungen über den Brief bei einigen griechischen Vätern eine griechische Fassung fordern. Der Brief wird wohl gleichzeitig griechisch und lateinisch produziert worden sein; die lateinische Fassung wird schon vom Muratorischen Fragment vorausgesetzt — das ich gegen die Meinung der meisten Kritiker für ursprünglich lateinisch und sich auf eine lateinische Bibel beziehend halte — und von den oben mitgeteilten und besprochenen lateinischen ,,Argumenta" zu den paulinischen Briefen.

Von dem Verhältnis unseres Briefs zu diesen lateinischen Argumenta ist noch zu handeln.

Diese Prologe wurden von einem Marcioniten verfaßt, der den bei Marcion als Laodicenerbrief bezeichneten Epheserbrief mit der Großkirche und im Unterschied vom Meister als Epheserbrief betrachtete und bezeichnete (denn das Argumentum ist marcionitisch: ,,Ephesii sunt Asiani . hi accepto verbo veritatis perstiterunt in fide [das ist das Marcionitische Kennzeichen] . hos conlaudat apostolus, scribens eis ab urbe Roma de carcere per Tychicum diaconum"). Er kannte aber bereits den falschen Laodicenerbrief und hatte ihn im Kanon; denn aus dem Argumentum für den Kolosserbrief läßt sich das in den Vulgata-Mss. nicht findende Argumentum zum Laodicenerbrief rekonstruieren. Jenes lautet: ,,Colossenses et hi sicut Laudicenses sunt Asiani, et ipsi praeventi erant a pseudoapostolis, nec ad hos accessit ipse apostolus, sed et hos per epistulam recorrigit — audierant enim verbum ab Archippo qui et ministerium in eos accepit —, ergo apostolus iam ligatus scribit eis ab Epheso". Der Brief, auf den sich dieses Argumentum zurückbezieht und der unmittelbar vorhergegangen sein muß, kann nicht der Epheserbrief sein, auf den die betreffenden Worte nicht passen, sondern eben nur unser gefälschter Laodicenerbrief, auf den die Charakteristik in der Tat paßt. Das Argumentum muß daher in den Grundzügen so gelautet haben, wie es oben S. 129* gefaßt ist: „Laudiceni sunt Asiani, hi praeventi erant a falsis apostolis .... ad hos non accessit ipse apostolus .... hos per epistolam recorrigit". Der oben mitgeteilte Prolog zum Laod. aus einer mittelenglischen Handschrift bestätigt das; denn hier heißt es: „these ben of Asie, and among hem hadden be false apostlis". Dieser Ausdruck kommt im Brief selbst nicht vor (dort steht „vaniloquia quorundam insinuantium, ut vos avertant" usw.). Von sich aus hätte der englische Verfasser bzw. Übersetzer des Prologs gar nicht auf „falsi apostoli" kommen können, wenn er nicht das zu den anderen Argumenten gehörige Laod.-Argumentum gekannt hätte, in welchem, wie im Argumentum zu Koloss., die „pseudoapostoli" bzw. „falsi apostoli" gestanden haben [1].

1 Der Hinweis Lightfoots darauf, daß das Latein des Briefs sich nicht überall mit den bekannten lateinischen Fassungen des Briefs deckt, ist auch nicht durchschlagend, da wir den lateinisch übersetzten Philipperbrief der Marcioniten nur ganz unvollkommen kennen.

Also gehören der falsche Laodicenerbrief und die Marcionitischen Argumenta zusammen. Aber man kann noch mehr sagen: Eben das, was die Argumenta mit monumentaler Einseitigkeit als sachlichen Inhalt bei allen Briefen allein hervorheben (Paulus allein der wahre Apostel, die veritas evangelii, die Urgeschichte jeder Gemeinde in Hinsicht auf die Irrlehrer, d. h. die Urapostel, und Paulus), das hat auch der Fälscher zum alleinigen Inhalt seiner Fälschung gemacht; alles übrige ist bei ihm Beiwerk. Damit treten aber diese Argumenta und der Laodicenerbrief in ein so enges Verhältnis, daß die Annahme sich aufdrängt: sie gehören auch zeitlich zusammen und sind aus derselben Schmiede (also nicht von M. selbst). Läßt sich für diese Annahme auch keine absolute Sicherheit gewinnen, so ist doch so viel gewiß, daß diese mit den Argumenten ausgestattete Marcionitische Sammlung der Paulus-

1 Man darf mit Wahrscheinlichkeit darauf rechnen, daß das alte Argumentum zu Laod. noch in einer Vulgata-Handschrift auftauchen wird.

briefe und der gefälschte Laodicenerbrief zusammen den katholischen Kirchen insinuiert worden sind, und da es für diesen Brief nach dem Zeugnis des Muratorischen Fragments feststeht, daß dies noch im 2. Jahrhundert geschehen ist, so wird auch die ganze Sammlung der Paulusbriefe damals bereits in einige Gemeinden der katholischen Kirche eingeschleppt worden sein — der Verfasser des Fragments wird doch nicht den Laodicenerbrief als isolierten vor sich gehabt (dann wäre er nicht so besorgt gewesen und hätte schwerlich ein Wort über ihn verloren), sondern ihn bereits in einer Sammlung gelesen haben; welche Sammlung aber könnte das anders sein als eben diejenige, die wir aus den Argumenten kennen? [1]

Die Entdeckung de Bruynes und Corssens hat uns gelehrt, daß die gewöhnlichen Argumenta der Paulusbriefe der Vulgata Marcionitisch sind — hier hatte das Marcionitische Propaganda-Unternehmen einen fast vollständigen Erfolg. Jetzt lernen wir, daß der Laodicenerbrief der Vulgata eine Marcionitische Fälschung ist, die zum Glück nur einen halben Erfolg in der Kirche erzielt hat, aber doch einen halben!

Weder Tertullian, noch Cyprian, noch Augustin (wohl aber Gregor der Große), noch die abendländischen Synoden, auf denen der Bibelkanon in der Zeit um 400 festgestellt worden ist, haben den Laodicenerbrief anerkannt; er wurde mit verächtlichem Schweigen von ihnen behandelt und von allen namhaften lateinischen Vätern vor Gregor. Der Verfasser des Muratorischen Fragments hat die damals erst jüngst ans Licht getretene Fälschung sofort als solche erkannt und als Marcionitisch bezeichnet, Hieronymus, den Mund voll nehmend, hat sogar von dem Brief gesagt: „ab omnibus exploditur" — dennoch hat er sich in weitesten

---

1 Die „Argumenta" und der Laod.-Brief haben denselben ältesten Zeugen, den Cod. Fuldensis. — Die Blutsverwandtschaft zwischen den „Argumenta" und dem gefälschten Brief folgt außer aus den angegebenen Hauptstichworten auch aus der Parallele zwischen dem Argum. zu I Kor. und Laod., dort „philosophiae verbosa eloquentia", hier (v. 4) „quorundam vaniloquia insinuantium", dort „subvertere", hier (l. c.) „avertere". Ob die Rezeption der Pastoralbriefe seitens eines Teils der Marcioniten mit der Fälschung des Laod.-Briefs zusammenfällt oder später anzusetzen ist, ist nicht sicher zu ermitteln.

Kreisen im Abendland durchgesetzt. Das erklärt sich nur, wenn er gleich anfangs in einige Gemeinden der lateinischen katholischen Kirche gekommen ist, d. h. wenn sie damals schon die bisher noch wenig verbreitete Sammlung von Paulusbriefen zuerst von den Marcioniten erhielten (waren diese etwa sogar so verschlagen, daß sie auch unverfälschte Paulusbriefe mit ihren Argumenta und dem falschen Laodicenerbrief versahen?). Ein fait accompli war geschaffen, das sich hier und dort stärker erwies als alle kritischen Gegenversuche. Im Mittelalter war man vollends kritiklos, und selbst ein so bedeutender und verständiger Gelehrter wie Johannes von Salisb. nahm an der Fälschung keinen Anstoß, der erst Erasmus den Todesstoß versetzt hat [1].

Im Laod.-Brief begrüßen wir das einzige vollständige Schriftwerk, das uns aus der Marcionitischen Kirche ältester Zeit erhalten ist. Wir können es nur schmerzlich bedauern, daß das Schicksal uns nichts Besseres aus ihr beschert hat als diese unverschämte Kompilation. Auch hier hat der unglückliche Stifter dieser Reformkirche Unglück gehabt. Seine Bibelkritik ist nicht nach diesem Brief zu beurteilen, vielmehr aufs schwerste durch sie verfälscht.

E. Untersuchungen.

Das Urteil der Kirchenväter hat sich bewährt: Epiphanius hat recht, wenn er haer. 42, 9 sagt: Ὁ Μαρκίων ἔχει καὶ ἐπιστολὰς παρ' αὐτῷ τοῦ ἁγίου ἀποστόλου δέκα, αἷς μόναις κέχρηται, οὐ πᾶσι δὲ τοῖς ἐν αὐταῖς γεγραμμένοις, ἀλλὰ τινὰ αὐτῶν περιτέμνων, τινὰ δὲ ἀλλοιώσας κεφάλαια [2].

1 Er bemerkt (zu Koloss. 4, 16): „Nihil habet Pauli praeter voculas aliquot ex caeteris eius epistolis mendicatas... Non est cuiusvis hominis Paulinum pectus effingere. Tonat, fulgurat, meras flammas loquitur Paulus. At haec, praeterquam quod brevissima est, quam friget, quam iacet!... Quanquam, quid attinet argumentari? Legat qui volet epistolam... Nullum argumentum efficacius persuaserit eam non esse Pauli quam ipsa epistola."

2 Bereits der älteste Berichterstatter, Irenäus (I, 27, 2), hat das Apostolikon M.s richtig charakterisiert: „Apostoli Pauli epistolas abscidit, auferens quae manifeste dicta sunt ab apostolo et de eo deo qui mundum fecit, quoniam hic pater domini nostri Iesu Christi, et quaecumque ex propheticis memorans apostolus docuit praenuntiantibus adventum domini". Vgl. III, 12, 12: „Epistolas Pauli decurtaverunt".

Der kritische Apparat ergibt folgendes:

(1) Marcion hat an viel zahlreicheren Stellen, als Tert. es angibt [1], in den überlieferten Text der Paulusbriefe eingegriffen.

(2) Die Eingriffe bestehen in großen Streichungen und in kleinen, aber oft sehr einschneidenden, ja sogar den Sinn des Textes an einigen Stellen in sein Gegenteil verkehrenden Korrekturen und Streichungen — größtenteils nachweisbar im Interesse seiner eigentümlichen Lehre. Große Streichungen lassen sich auf Grund des uns überlieferten lückenhaften Materials in I und II Kor., den beiden Thess., Phil. und Philem. nicht nachweisen, auch in Eph. nur das Fehlen von 1, 21; 6, 2 b. 3 und starke Verkürzungen in 5, 22 ff.; in Kol. nur das Fehlen von 1, 15 b. 16. 17 b. Dagegen fehlten in Gal. die Verse 1, 18—24 (wahrscheinlich); 2, 6—9 a (wahrscheinlich); 3, 6—9. 10 b. 11 a. 12 a. 14 a. 15—25; 4, 27—30; in Röm. 1, 17 b; 1, 19—2, 1; 3, 31—4, 25; 8, 19—22; 9, 1—33 (wahrscheinlich ganz); 10, 5—11, 32; 15; 16. Da Tert. aber in seinen Auseinandersetzungen im Lauf seiner Gegenschrift (eine Ausnahme bildet seine Polemik bei Eph.) immer sprunghafter wird (weil er sich vor Wiederholungen scheute), so kann auch in den zuletzt behandelten Briefen viel mehr bei M. gefehlt haben, als wir nachzuweisen vermögen.

Die kleineren tendenziösen Streichungen, Korrekturen und Umgestaltungen finden sich Gal. 1, 1. 7; 2, (1). 9. 10; 4, 4. 8. 21—26 (!); 5. 14; 6, 17. I Kor. 1, 18; 3, 17; 10, 11. 19; (6, 13); 15, 3. 20. 38. 45. II Kor. 1, 3; 2, 15; 3, 14; 4. 10. 11. 13; (5, 10); 7, 1. Röm. 1,16. 18; 6, 9. 19; 7, 5; 10, 3; 11, 33; 12, 19. I Thess. 2, 15; 4, 4. 16; 5, 23. II Thess. 1, 8; 2, 11. Ephes. 2, 2. (11). 14. 15. 20; 3, 9; 5, 22. 28. 31; 6, 2. 3. 4. Kol. 1, 19. 22; 2, 8; 4, 14; Phil. 1, 15. 17; 2, 7; 3, 9. Alle diese tendenziösen Auslassungen und Korrekturen lasse ich hier beiseite, da sie in der Darstellung behandelt sind.

(3) Das griechische Apostolikon M.s (Orig., Adamant., Epiph. usw.) stimmt mit seinem lateinischen (Tert.) im ganzen trefflich

---

1 S. (nach Kroymanns Ausgabe) V, 1 p. 571 — V, 3 p. 575 — V, 3 p. 578 — V, 4 p. 579 — V, 4 p. 581 — V, 10 p. 607 — V, 11 p. 614 — V, 13 p. 619 — V, 14 p. 624 — V, 14 p. 625 (bis) — V, 15 p. 627 — V, 16 p. 630 — V, 17 p. 632 — V, 17 p. 636 — V, 17 p. 637 — V, 18 p. 638 — V, 18 p. 641 — V, 19 p. 643 — V, 19 p. 644 — V, 21 p. 649.

zusammen [1]; die nicht zahlreichen nachweisbaren Ausnahmen erklären sich teils aus den notwendigen Differenzen zwischen einem Original und seiner Übersetzung [2], teils aus den Veränderungen, die der M. Text in der Kirche M.s erlitten hat [3].

(4) Neben der Erkenntnis der schweren tendenziösen Eingriffe M.s in den Text ist die wichtigste Einsicht in bezug auf Natur und Art des Textes die, daß der griechische und lateinische Text M.s je ein Zwillingsbruder des bilinguen Textes D, G ist und daher ein Blutsverwandter der Itala und Vulgata (gegenüber dem afrikanischen Text), sowie der Texte, wie sie bei Tert. (in seinen übrigen Schriften) [4], Irenäus lat., Novatian, Ambrosiaster [5], Lucifer, Origenes lat., Augustin usw. vorliegen. Die Verwandtschaft mit D, G — und zwar gerade dort, wo diese zusammenstimmen [6] — ist dabei im höchsten Grade frappant;

---

1 Doppelt, bez. dreifach bezeugte Korrekturen sind Gal. 1, 1; 1, 7; 1, 8; 3, 6 ff.; 4, 21 f.; 5, 14 (bis); 6, 17; I Kor. 15, 3. 4; I Thess. 4, 15—17; II Thess. 1, 6; Ephes. 2, 11; 2, 17; 5, 31. Auch die Stellen gehören hierher, bei denen M.s Text von zwei oder mehreren Zeugen als gleichlautend mit dem kanonischen bezeugt wird; ferner auch die, wo ein Zeuge eine Lücke angibt und sich die Stelle auch bei den anderen Zeugen nicht findet.

2 Zahn konnte an einigen Stellen die Auskunft gebrauchen, Tert. habe hier willkürlich übersetzt: diese Auskunft durften wir nicht anwenden; allein es macht keinen großen Unterschied, ob die Willkür bei Tert. liegt oder bei dem älteren Übersetzer, wenn eine solche überhaupt anzunehmen ist.

3 In bezug auf diese Veränderungen s. (außer den „Argumenta", der Hinzufügung von Laod. und der Rezeption der Pastoralbriefe) zu I Kor. 15, 24. 25; I Kor. 15, 38; I Kor. 15, 50(?); II Kor. 5, 10(?); Röm. 1, 24 ff.(?); Röm. 16, 25—27(!); Ephes. 3, 9. Vielleicht ist Gal. 4, 26 keine Korrektur M.s, sondern seiner Schüler.

4 Das Verhältnis, welches hier besteht, genau darzulegen, ist nicht meine Aufgabe; nur soviel sei gesagt, daß der kanonische lateinische Bibeltext der Paulusbriefe, der Tert. vorlag — denn die Annahme, daß er nur einen kanonischen griechischen Text besaß, ist hier ebenso undurchführbar, wie gegenüber den ihm vorliegenden M.-Text — aufs engste mit dem lateinischen M.-Text verwandt gewesen ist, aber doch auch (abgesehen von den Verfälschungen M.s) nicht unbedeutende Verschiedenheiten aufwies.

5 Die Verwandtschaft mit Iren. lat. u. Ambrosiaster ist besonders groß.

6 Der Marciontext steht G noch etwas näher als D und auch d, g etwas näher als D,G.

im ganzen handelt es sich um etwa 98 Stellen[1]. Somit sind der griechische und der lateinische M. Text die ältesten Zeugen für den 𝔚Text der Paulusbriefe, die wir besitzen, also die ehrwürdigsten Urkunden für diesen. Daß diese Texte auch eine nicht unbedeutende Verwandtschaft mit syr^{cu} einerseits und mit dem ältesten ägyptischen Text andrerseits aufweisen [2], kann nach dem, was wir sonst über den Einfluß des 𝔚Textes auf diese in ältester Zeit wissen, nicht auffallen. Auch auf den antiochenischen Text hat der Text, wie ihn M. vertritt, Einfluß geübt, aber einen geringeren.

(5) M. hat hiernach sein Apostolikon wahrscheinlich nicht im Pontus oder Asien rezensiert, sondern erst im Abendland. Der Text, der ihm vorlag, war also der Text der römischen Gemeinde kurz vor der Mitte des 2. Jahrhunderts [3].

(6) Eine sehr große Reihe von Eigentümlichkeiten der beiden M.Texte gegenüber den modernen Textrezensionen ist demgemäß nicht Marcionitisch, wie man früher irrtümlich annahm, sondern der 𝔚Text.

Auf dieser gewonnenen Grundlage aber erheben sich nunmehr zwei Fragen: (a) hat M. über die tendenziöse Umgestaltung der Paulusbriefe hinaus auch sonst den Text korrigiert und sich undogmatische Eingriffe erlaubt und — wenn diese Frage zu bejahen ist — aus welchen Motiven? (b) Welches Ver-

---

1 S. im Apparat zu Gal. 1, 6(bis) 8; 2, 9; 3, 14; 5, 1. 9. 14(bis). 24; 6, 7. — I Kor. 1, 11. 18. 21. 22; 3, 2. 3. 4. 21; 4, 5; 5, 3. 4(bis); 6, 16. 20; 7, 29; 8, 4; 9, 7; 10, 3. 5(bis). 7. 9. 16; 12, 9; 14, 19. 21. 34; 15, 4. 14. 20. 39(bis). 50(bis). 51. — II Kor. 2, 16; 4, 4. 5. 6(ter). 10; 5, 3. 4(bis); 5, 10(bis); 17; 10, 18; 13, 3. 4. — Röm. 5, 8. 9; 6, 19; 8, 11(bis); 13, 9; 15; 16. — I Thess. 2, 15; 4, 3. 16. 17. — Ephes. 1, 6. 9. 12. 13; 2, 10. 11(bis). 13. 15. 19; 3, 8(bis). 9. 10; 4, 6. 25; 5, 31; 6, 11. — Kol. 2, 16. 18; 3, 4; 4, 10, 11. — Phil. 1, 14. Einige merkwürdige Bezeugungskombinationen bei starkem Hervortreten des Sinaiticus s. zu Gal. 1, 8; 5, 6. — I Kor 3, 16; 5, 4. 5; 10, 3(bis). 5; 15, 36. — II Kor. 4, 4. 5. 6. 10; 10, 18; 13, 1(bis). 4. — Röm. 6, 14; 8, 11. — Ephes. 2, 11. 15. 19; 3, 8. 9(bis); 4, 25. — Kol. 2, 18. — Phil. 3, 9.

2 Ich habe die Verwandtschaft mit letzterem (sah. boh. ℵ*) nicht regelmäßig angegeben.

3 Der 𝔚text ist dem Abendland nicht eigentümlich, aber doch am stärksten vom Abendland bezeugt. Immerhin muß die Möglichkeit offen gelassen werden, daß M. seinen Text doch schon im Orient bearbeitet hat.

hältnis besteht zwischen dem lateinischen Marciontext und dem lateinischen 𝔚Text? Hat jener diesen beeinflußt oder ist er sogar seine Grundlage? Diesen beiden Fragen ist aber noch eine weitere Frage voranzustellen, nämlich ob unter den Stellen, an welchen M. ein Zeuge für den 𝔚Text ist, sich bereits solche befinden, die spezifisch-marcionitisch sind, weil sie seine eigentümlichen häretischen Tendenzen ausprägen.

1. Der Charakter der ca. 100 Stellen, an welchen der Marciontext gegen die anderen Hauptrezensionen mit dem 𝔚Text übereinstimmt.

Alle diese Stellen sind mit sehr geringen Ausnahmen inhaltlich ganz unbedeutend, stellen eine wesentlich gleichgültige stilistische Uniform dar und sind in bezug auf die eigentümlichen dogmatischen Tendenzen M.s neutral mit Ausnahme von 10 Stellen; aber auch bei der Hälfte von diesen ist die Tendenz zweifelhaft. (1) Gal. 1, 6 fehlt bei M. und F^{gr}* Gg Tert. Cypr. Lucif. Victorin Χριστοῦ nach χάριτι, und das könnte eine dogmatische Korrektur M.s sein, der bei seinem relativen Modalismus nicht gelten lassen wollte, daß uns Gott ἐν χάριτι Χριστοῦ berufen habe; aber anderswo hat er ähnliches stehen gelassen. Man darf daher keineswegs mit Sicherheit behaupten, hier läge eine spezifisch Marcionitische LA vor. (2) Das berühmte οὐδέ in Gal. 2, 5 kann eine Fälschung M.s sein; allein bekanntlich wird es (> D*d Iren. Tert. Victorin. Ambrosiaster) von einer so überwältigenden Mehrheit von Zeugen (auch Gg) geboten und ist auch sachlich so viel wahrscheinlicher, daß es als die ursprüngliche LA zu gelten hat. (3) Εὐλογίαν mit D*Gdg Ambrosiaster, Vigilant. in Gal. 3, 14 > ἐπαγγελίαν kann man als dogmatische Korrektur in Anspruch nehmen; allein näher liegt es, einen Irrtum anzunehmen, da εὐλογία unmittelbar vorhergeht. (4) Die Einfügung von ἐν ὑμῖν in Gal. 5, 14 zu ὁ νόμος πεπλήρωται (so auch D*Gdg go Ambrosiaster etc.) ist wohl tendenziös. (5) Die Ausmerzung von πρῶτον neben Ἰουδαίῳ in Röm. 1, 16 mit BGg ist marcionitisch. (6) Daß auch in DG, wie bei M. Röm. 15 und 16 gefehlt haben, kann nicht als tendenziöser Eingriff gelten, da dieses Motiv schlechterdings nicht ausreicht, um die Streichung dieser beiden Kapitel zu erklären. (7) Die LA τοὺς ἰδίους προφήτας ἀποκτεινάντων in I Thess. 2, 15 mit D^{bc} syr go KL und Vätern > τοὺς προφήτας ist wahrscheinlich marcionitisch und (8) ebenso Ephes. 4, 6 das ἡμῖν in dem Satze: πατὴρ πάντων, ὁ ἐπὶ πάντων καὶ διὰ πάντων καὶ ἐν πᾶσιν ἡμῖν (mit DGKLdg vulg. Firmil. etc. etc.); denn M. konnte es nicht stehen lassen, daß der gute Gott den ganzen Kosmos durchwaltet. (9) Das Fehlen von καὶ προσκολληθήσεται τῇ γυναικί in Ephes. 5, 31 in den Mss. des Orig. und Hieron. und andere Veränderungen hier sind Einfluß M.s [1]. (10) Das Fehlen von ὃ καὶ παρέλαβον in I Kor. 15, 3 ist tendenziös.

Es sind also nur die 6 Stellen in Gal. 5,14; Röm. 1, 16; I Kor. 15,3; I Thess. 2,15 und Ephes. 4, 6; 5, 31 mit hoher Wahrscheinlichkeit als Marcionitische tendenziöse Korrekturen in Anspruch zu nehmen [2]. Daher: Die Übereinstimmungen des Mtextes mit dem 𝔚text sind mit wenigen

1 Bemerkenswert ist, daß die sinnlose, im Abendland stark verbreitete, im Morgenland wenig bekannte Variante I Kor. 6, 20 ἄρατε = „tollite", entstanden aus ἄρα γε, sich schon im lateinischen Text der Marcioniten, den Tert. bietet, findet. — Nicht hierher gezogen habe ich die berüchtigte Streichung des ἐν in Ephes. 3, 9, obgleich sie sich auch in ℵ* (sonst nirgends) findet; denn ich glaube nicht, daß hier Einfluß des Marcionitischen Textes — die Gedankenlosigkeit des katholischen Schreibers wäre zu groß — sondern lediglich ein Schreibversehen anzunehmen ist. Möglich ist, daß das Fehlen von τοῦ θεοῦ nach ὀργή (Röm. 1, 18) in der Minusk. 47 (sonst nirgends) auf Einwirkung des Mtextes beruht; aber auch hier kann ein Zufall obwalten.

2 Dazu kommen einige andere Stellen in einigen Handschriften, die den Verdacht erregen, Marcionitisch zu sein; aber der 𝔚text fehlt hier, und so ist eine sichere Entscheidung unmöglich. Ich denke an ἐν Ῥώμῃ in Röm. 1 und ein paar verwandte Fälle. — Überblickt man den Mtext, so fällt auf, daß er an 19 Stellen den Jesus-Namen nicht liest, wo derselbe höchstwahrscheinlich im Rechte ist (Gal. 2, 4; 5. 6, 24; 6, 17; I Kor. 3, 11; 5, 5; II Kor. 4, 10(bis). 11; Röm. 2, 16; 3, 21; 6, 3; 8, 11; I Thess. 2, 15; 5, 23; Ephes. 2, 10. 13. 20; Phil. 3, 8); man könnte daher dem M. eine gewisse Abneigung gegen diesen Namen vorwerfen. Allein unter den 19 Stellen sind nur wenige, an denen M. mit der Streichung allein steht; sie findet sich auch sonst bei andern abendländischen Zeugen (einmal auch bei B allein; s. Röm. 3, 21). Daher ist es, wenn man hier überhaupt eine Tendenz annehmen will, wahrscheinlicher, diese schon dem 𝔚text selbst zuzuschreiben; denn das liegt hier näher als die Annahme einer Einwirkung des Mtextes auf den 𝔚text. Übrigens fehlt umgekehrt bei M. Χριστός neben Ἰησοῦς I Kor. 1, 3 (mit A). Man läßt wohl besser diese Beobachtung als undurchsichtig ganz beiseite.

Ausnahmen als stilistische usw. Eigentümlichkeiten des 𝔚textes zu betrachten, an denen der Mtext teilnimmt. Nachträglicher Einfluß dieses Textes auf jenen und auf die Überlieferung überhaupt fehlte nicht ganz, war aber, soweit das hier vorliegende Material Schlüsse zuläßt, gering (s. weiteres darüber unten) [1].

2. Der Charakter der bei Marcion allein sich findenden Varianten, abgesehen von den dogmatisch-tendenziösen Eingriffen.

Die große Menge der dem M. eigentümlichen LLAA ist durch seine dogmatische Tendenz hervorgerufen. Aber abgesehen von

---

1 Eine schöne textkritische Frucht der Untersuchung des 𝔚textes im Zusammenhang mit dem Marciontext ist die Wiederherstellung der richtigen LA in I Kor. 14, 33 f. Die Ausleger befanden sich hier in größter Schwierigkeit, obschon sie es sich nicht recht eingestanden; denn der überlieferte Text gibt (1) nur dann in v. 33 a eine Begründung zu den Worten: Πνεύματα προφητῶν προφήταις ὑποτάσσεται, wenn man ein kaum entbehrliches Mittelglied ergänzt, und er duldet 33 b so wenig neben 33 a, daß man entweder zu dem verzweifelten Mittel griff, die Worte wider alle Wahrscheinlichkeit zu v. 34 zu ziehen oder sie durch διδάσκω oder διατάσσομαι zu ergänzen (so zahlreiche, aber nicht ausschlaggebende Zeugen). Aber alles wird mit einem Schlage klar, wenn man mit Marcion-Tert. (IV, 4) und Ambrosiaster ὁ θεός in v. 33 nicht liest. Dann lauten die Worte: Πνεύματα προφητῶν προφήταις ὑποτάσσεται· οὐ γάρ ἐστιν ἀκαταστασίας ἀλλὰ εἰρήνης, ὡς ἐν πάσαις ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τῶν ἁγίων Wie oft findet sich in der späteren Literatur von Jakobus und Hermas an πνεύματα (πνεῦμα, δαιμόνιον) ἀκαταστασίας oder ἀκατάστατα und umgekehrt εἰρήνης und εἰρηνικά! Sie sind hier gemeint. Paulus sagt: „Die Geister der Propheten sind den Propheten untertan, weil sie, wie in allen Gemeinden und so auch in Korinth, nicht Geister der Aufsässigkeit sind, sondern Geister des Friedens". Jede Schwierigkeit ist gehoben, denn Gedanke und Ausdruck sind nun glatt; aber nur Marcion (Tert.) und Ambrosiaster haben die richtige LA. bewahrt! Das sehr alte Eindringen von ὁ θεός aber erklärt sich aufs einfachste aus dem Zusammenwirken von ἐστιν und der geläufigen Wendung: ὁ θεὸς τῆς εἰρήνης, an die man sich erinnerte oder die von selbst in die Feder eines der frühesten Kopisten floß. Näheres s. in meiner Abh. in den Sitzungsber. der ihnen finden sich etwa 100 Stellen [1], an welchen M. singuläre LLAA bietet, die dogmatisch fast oder total indifferent sind. Bei ihrer Beurteilung hat man sich zu erinnern, daß Tert.s Angaben neben wörtlich genauen Zitaten in zwar guten, aber nicht immer bis ins einzelste korrekten Referaten bestehen, daß Epiphanius bei der Wiedergabe von Marciontexten, die er anführt, um aus ihnen zu erweisen, daß sie die katholische Lehre bezeugen, nicht immer sorgfältig gewesen ist [2], und daß Adamantius seine Zitate aus zweiter Hand hat. Dazu kommt noch die Möglichkeit, daß M. an der einen oder anderen Stelle allein den Originaltext bewahrt haben kann, der bei allen übrigen Zeugen verloren gegangen ist. Ist er doch für den Text der Paulusbriefe unser ältester Zeuge. Wir werden daher annehmen müssen, daß von den c. 100 singulären und doch nicht dogmatisch-tendenziösen Varianten M.s wahrscheinlich eine beträchtliche Zahl ausschiede, wenn wir M.s Originaltext noch besäßen, und daß umgekehrt vielleicht einige Marcionitische Varianten den Originaltext enthalten (gegen die anderen abendländischen Zeugen).

Versucht man nun diese Stellen nach Kategorien zu ordnen, so ergibt sich, daß weitaus die größere Hälfte der Varianten in solchen bestehen, die sich ihrer Art nach von den Varianten nicht unterscheiden, welche die Überlieferung überhaupt bietet. Es handelt sich (1) um Wortstellungen im Satz, (2) um Tempusverschiedenheiten (3) um Vertauschung von Sing. und Plural (οὐρανός > οὐρανοί usw.), (4) um Vertauschung von Synonymen oder Auslassung eines Gliedes in einer Reihe von Synonymen (κύριος > θεός usw.), (5) von Präpositionen (πρός > εἰς, διά Preuß. Akad. d. Wiss. 1919 S. 527 ff.: „Über I Kor 14, 32 ff. und Röm. 16, 25 ff. nach der ältesten Überlieferung und der Marcionitischen Bibel".

1 Gal. 1, 7(bis). 8; 2, 2. 20; in 3, 10—12. 34; 4, 3. 8 f. 24 f.; 6, 7. 6. 17. — I Kor. 1, 11. 18. 28; 2, 16; 3, 2. 3. 16. 17. 19; 4, 15; 6, 11. 13; 8, 5. 8 f.; 10, 5. 6; 12, 28; 15, 20. 22. 25. 29. 31. 38. 50. — II Kor. 2, 16; 3, 16; 18 (quinquies); 4, 4. 7(ter). 11. 16; 5, 1(bis). 4(bis). 17; 10, 18. — Röm. 1, 18; 3, 21; 5, 1. 9. 21(bis); 6, 19. 20; 7, 7(bis). 25(bis); 8, 5. 9; 11, 5; 13, 19. — I Thess. 4, 15. 16; 5, 23. — II Thess. 1, 6 (bis); 2, 4. — Ephes. 1, 9. 13; 2, 2. 11. 13 (ter). 16. 17. 19; 5, 19. 23. 29; 6, 11. — Kol. 1, 5. 24; 2, 16 f. — Phil. 1, 18; 2, 7; 3, 7. 9.

2 Weil es ihm hier sozusagen nur auf das Stichwort ankam; sorgfältiger ist er, wenn er Marcionitische Textkorrekturen verzeichnet (s. o.).

> ἐν usw.), (6) von Partikeln (ἀλλά > καί, οὖν > δέ, οὔτε > οὐδέ usw.), resp. um Einschiebung oder Auslassung von solchen, (7) um Einschiebung oder Auslassung von Pronomina (αὐτοῦ usw.) und um ähnliche Dinge. Nach Ausscheidung dieser nahezu gleichgültigen Fälle soll eine kurze Übersicht zeigen, was hier noch übrig bleibt:

Im Galaterbrief 1, 7 a Verstärkung des Gedankens durch ein eingeschobenes πάντως und 1, 8 durch ein eingeschobenes ἄλλως; vermutlich ist auch ὑμᾶς θέλοντες μεταστρέψαι εἰς ἕτερον εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ für θέλοντες μεταστρέψαι τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ als Verstärkung zu beurteilen. 2. 2 logische Verbesserung des Gedankens: ἔδραμον ἢ τρέχω > τρέχω ἢ ἔδραμον. 2, 20 Verstärkung des Gedankens durch die Aussage „der Gottessohn, der mich erkauft hat" statt „der Gottessohn, der mich geliebt hat". 3,10 ὑπὸ νόμον für ἐξ ἔργων νόμου ist eine Verdeutlichung. 4, 3 Undurchsichtige Voranstellung der aus 3, 15 stammenden Worte: ⟨ἔτι⟩ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον λέγω, vor die Worte: ὅτε ἦμεν νήπιοι, ὑπὸ τὰ στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου ἦμεν δεδουλωμένοι, das sonst nicht bezeugte ἔτι ist stilistische Hinzufügung. 4, 24 f. Undurchsichtige Einschiebung von Ephes. 1, 21 an dieser Stelle. 6, 17 Logische Präzisierung des Gedankens durch Einschiebung von εἰκῇ in den Satz: κόπους μοι μηδεὶς παρεχέτω. Zu 4, 24 f. noch ein Wort: Diese Stelle ist deshalb so merkwürdig, weil sich hier neben einem einschneidenden tendenziösen Eingriff noch zwei Maßnahmen finden, die sonst bei M. beispiellos sind, nämlich außer dem eben berührten Einschub aus dem Epheserbrief noch der andere freigestaltete Einschub: εἰς ἣν ἐπηγγειλάμεθα ἁγίαν ἐκκλησίαν. Der Versuch, M. selbst von diesen Einschüben zu entlasten, ist möglich; aber nicht ausgeschlossen bleibt, daß M. als Textkritiker sich an einer Stelle etwas erlaubt hat, was er sich sonst nie gestattet hat. Nur wenn er diese Stelle für einen besonderen Zweck brauchen wollte, läßt sich diese Ausgestaltung verstehen. War sie, die so scharf den Gegensatz der beiden „Ostensiones" hervorhebt (die Veranstaltung der Knechtschaft, die vom Sinai zur Synagoge geführt hat, und die überirdische Veranstaltung, die zur heiligen Kirche, unsrer Mutter, geführt hat), vielleicht dazu bestimmt, bei der Aufnahme in die Marcionitische Kirche als heilige Formel zu dienen?

Im I Korintherbrief 1, 11 ἤκουσται > ἐδηλώθη undurchsichtig; doch ist mir fraglich, ob hier überhaupt eine Variante anzunehmen ist. 1, 18 Logische Verbesserung des Gegensatzes μωρία > δύναμις durch die Fassung μωρία > δύναμις καὶ σοφία. 1, 28 Verstärkung des Gedankens durch Einschiebung von τὰ ἐλάχιστα zwischen τὰ ἀγενῆ und τὰ ἐξουθενημένα (wohl in Rücksicht auf I Kor. 15, 9). 3, 3 Tilgung der Worte καὶ κατὰ ἄνθρωπον περιπατεῖτε (undurchsichtig). In 3, 20 (s. auch 2, 16) scheint M. den korrekten LXXText eingesetzt zu haben, oder es ist vielmehr eine Eigentümlichkeit des ℳTextes hier zu konstatieren (s. Lietzmann, Römerbrief [2] S. 15). 6, 13 Zusatz ὡς ὁ ναὸς τῷ θεῷ καὶ ὁ θεὸς τῷ ναῷ, der für M. so unwahrscheinlich ist, daß man vermuten muß, er habe hier einen ursprünglichen Satz konserviert, der sehr frühe verloren gegangen ist. 15, 20 M. schreibt Χριστὸς κηρύσσεται ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀναστάναι > Χρ. ἐγήγερται. Daß er statt „Erweckt werden" bei Christus „Auferstehen" setzt, ist auch sonst zu belegen und tendenziös (s. u.); warum er aber nicht einfach Χρ. ἀνέστη geschrieben hat, ist dunkel. 15, 25 u. 29 lasse ich beiseite, da mir nicht ganz sicher ist, daß er wirklich πάντας dort und ὅλως hier ausgelassen hat; hat er sie ausgelassen — sie sind nicht notwendig —, so hat er die hier vorliegenden Verstärkungen des Gedankens für überflüssig erachtet, während er anderseits unterstreicht (s. o.).

Im II. Korintherbrief 3, 18. An diesem Verse muß M. besonders viel gelegen haben. Ich stelle die beiden Fassungen nebeneinander:

Originaltext:	Marcion:
Ἡμεῖς δὲ πάντες ἀνακεκαλυμμένῳ προσώπῳ τὴν δόξαν κυρίου κατοπτριζόμενοι τὴν αὐτὴν εἰκόνα μεταμορφούμεθα ἀπὸ δόξης εἰς δόξαν, καθάπερ ἀπὸ κυρίου πνεύματος.	Ἡμεῖς ἤδη ἀνακεκαλυμμένῳ προσώπῳ τὸν Χριστὸν κατοπτριζόμενοι τὴν αὐτὴν εἰκόνα μεταμορφούμεθα ἀπὸ δόξης τοῦ κυρίου εἰς δόξαν, καθάπερ ἀπὸ κυρίου πνευμάτων.

Die Veränderungen dürfen als logische Verbesserungen bezeichnet werden; so läßt sich die Auslassung von πάντες, das eingeschobene ἤδη (s. z. Röm, 3, 21; 8, 9), die Vertauschung der Herrlichkeit Christi mit Christus, die Präzisierung der δόξα durch τοῦ κυρίου, um die genaue Korrespondenz mit dem Schluß herzustellen und die Vertauschung von πνεύματος mit πνευμάτων verstehen. — Der pedantische Zusatz τοῦ σώματος 5,4 zu ἐν τῷ σκήνει dient zur Verdeutlichung des Sinns.

Im Römerbrief 1, 18 ist wiederum πᾶσαν ausgelassen (s. zu I Kor. 15, 25; II Kor. 3, 18); es konnte als pleonastisch, wie I Kor. 15, 25, wegfallen. Bei der Verbindung von 3, 21 mit 5, 1 hat M. das Einst und Jetzt scharf hervorgehoben: τότε νόμος, νυνὶ δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ und zu διὰ πίστεως zur Sicherstellung des Begriffs τοῦ Χριστοῦ hinzugefügt. 5, 21 ist αἰώνιον weggelassen; der Gegensatz von Tod und Leben wird so straffer. In 8, 9 ist νῦν im Interesse der Präzision hinzugesetzt (s. o.).

Im I Thessalonicherbrief 4, 16 ist ἐσχάτη zu σάλπιγξ hinzugefügt aus Pedanterie. 5, 23 ist die Hinzufügung von καὶ σωτῆρος zu τοῦ κυρίου bemerkenswert; M. legte also in einer feierlichen Formel darauf Gewicht, daß dieser Begriff nicht fehlte.

Im Epheserbrief 1, 13: hat nach εὐαγγέλιον bei M. τῆς σωτηρίας ὑμῶν wirklich gefehlt? man begreift nicht, warum er es ausgelassen haben sollte; wollte er etwa verkürzen? 2, 14 f. τὸ μεσότειχον τοῦ φραγμοῦ λύσας, τὴν ἔχθραν ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ αὐτοῦ hat M. verändert zu τ. μεσ. τῆς ἔχθρας ἐν σαρκὶ λύσας. Hier liegt sicher eine Verkürzung vor. 6, 11 wenn M. wirklich ἐν ᾗ στῶμεν > πρὸς τὸ δύνασθαι ἡμᾶς στῆναι geschrieben hat, so ist der Grund der Änderung undurchsichtig.

Im Philipperbrief 1, 18 ist οὐδέν μοι διαφέρει, wenn M. so geschrieben hat, eine bloße stilistische Korrektur. In 3, 7 ist νῦν, in 3, 9 ἤδη hinzugefügt, s. ähnliches oben.

Man sieht, daß sich aus diesen nicht zahlreichen Varianten generelle Motive schwerlich gewinnen lassen. Hat M. auch — im besten Fall — an ein paar Stellen unterstrichen, an ein paar Stellen logische Verbesserungen angebracht, an anderen die Gedanken verstärkende Zeitpartikeln hinzugefügt usw., so sind doch diese Stellen, gemessen an dem Umfang der Texte, so wenig zahlreich, daß man von bestimmten Absichten, die ihn in erheblichem Grade bestimmt haben, nicht sprechen darf. Die Untersuchung endet also hier negativ, d. h. es läßt sich über die Tatsachen hinaus, daß M.s Text im Griechischen und im Lateinischen der ℳÜberlieferung angehört, und daß er aus dogmatischen Tendenzen an den Texten korrigiert hat, nichts Bestimmtes über seine Absichten sonst ermitteln. Wahrscheinlich hat er überhaupt solche nicht gehabt, mag er auch hie und da einmal, da er überhaupt korrigierte, eine „Verbesserung" angebracht haben — Diorthosen, wie sie sich auch sonst Textkritiker damals gestattet haben. Doch kann ein großer Teil von ihnen schon dem 𝔚Texte angehört haben, den er zugrunde legte, wenn wir das auch nicht mehr nachzuweisen vermögen[1]. Daß er irgendwo an den angeführten Stellen den Urtext bewahrt hat, ist, soviel ich sehe, nicht wahrscheinlich zu machen; es sei denn etwa in I Kor. 6, 13. — Fremde Stoffe hat er nirgendwo eingemischt.

3. Welches Verhältnis besteht zwischen dem lateinischen Marcion-Text und dem lateinischen 𝔚Text? Hat jener diesen beeinflußt? Ist er sogar seine Grundlage?

Es sind oben (S. 154*) sechs Stellen nachgewiesen worden (dazu Röm. 16, 25—27), an denen Lesarten M.s — daß sie solche sind, zeigt ihre Tendenz — in der Überlieferung des 𝔚Textes zu finden sind[2]. Da der griechische und lateinische M.Text selbst zur 𝔚Überlieferung gehört, so erhebt sich die Frage, ob nicht der lateinische M Text die erste Übersetzung der Paulusbriefe ins Lateinische ist, auf welcher die katholische Übersetzung (𝔐lat.) fußt. A priori ist das sehr wohl möglich; denn das Bedürfnis einer lateinischen Übersetzung der Paulusbriefe muß bei des Griechischen unkundigen Marcioniten stärker gewesen

---

1 Zahn schreibt (a. a. O. I S. 649): „. . . Harmlose Verbesserungen (an mehreren Stellen) zeugen von dem Streben nach strafferem, bald nach unmißverständlicherem Ausdruck. Vor allem aber ist unverkennbar das Streben nach Verkürzung der großen Briefsammlung . . . Er liebte nicht die Wiederholung. Er hatte auch kein Interesse an den äußerlichen Geschichten und persönlichen Verhältnissen, auf welche Paulus in seinen Briefen einzugehen veranlaßt war." Für solche Verallgemeinerungen bietet der uns erhaltene Marcion-Text keine genügende Unterlage. Zahn nimmt u. a. an, daß M. den Namen des Apollo aus den Briefen gestrichen habe: „Was ging die Gemeinden des 2. Jahrhunderts Apollo an?" Allein es ist mehr als unsicher, daß Apollo's Name überall in I Kor. gestrichen war. Wohl aber scheint M. den Barnabas Galat. 2, 1. 9 entfernt zu haben, damit er nicht als wahrhaftiger Apostel neben Paulus erscheine.

2 Über sie hinaus auch in anderen Stellen, wo man aber nur mutmaßen kann, daß hier der M-Text vorliegt.

sein als in der lateinischen Großkirche. Daher meinte Lietzmann[1], das Problem, das hier vorliegt „finde seine Lösung vielleicht am einfachsten durch die Annahme, daß in der Mitte oder zweiten Hälfte des 2. Jahrhunderts, als die amtliche römische Kirche noch griechisch sprach, Marcionitische Prediger für ihre Lehre auch in der lateinisch sprechenden Bevölkerung Roms Jünger zu werben suchten und zu diesem ihren Propagandazweck zuerst den ihnen besonders am Herzen liegenden Paulustext ins Lateinische übersetzten; diese Übersetzung hat dann die katholische Kirche übernommen und ihrem Texte angeglichen, aber doch nicht überall die Spuren des Ursprungs verwischen können".

Diese Hypothese wird, so scheint es, durch die Tatsache gestützt, daß die Marcionitischen Prologe (Argumente) in die katholischen Mss. gekommen sind, und daß es katholische Handschriften mit Röm. 16, 25—27 und anderen Marcionitischen Lesarten gibt. Aus dem Vorhandensein der Prologe läßt sich indes keineswegs ein zwingendes oder auch nur wahrscheinliches Argument für die Priorität des lateinischen MTextes vor dem katholischen 𝔚Text gewinnen; wie steht es mit dem Gewicht der Marcionitischen Lesarten?

Da 𝔚graec. die Voraussetzung von Marciongraec. ist, so dürfen die dogmatisch indifferenten LLAA, die sie gemeinsam haben, hier nicht in Betracht kommen. Dann bleiben also nur Gal. 5, 14; Röm. 1, 16; I Kor. 15, 3; I Thess. 2, 15; Ephes, 4, 6; 5, 31; Röm. 16, 25—27. Auf weiteres Marcionitisches Gut hat Lietzmann (a. a. O.) aufmerksam gemacht; er verweist auf Röm. 5, 6; 14, 10; I Kor. 5, 8 sowie auf Ephes. 1, 1; Röm. 1, 7. 15 und Röm. 15. 16.

Bei I Kor. 5, 8 handelt es sich nach Lietzmann selbst (S. 33) nur um eine Möglichkeit: Röm. 1, 20 hat das Abendland πονηρία zu πορνεία umgestaltet. Dadurch sieht sich L. erinnert daß I Kor. 5, 8 der Kod. G dieselbe Umwandlung bietet; da nun Tert. (adv. Marc. V, 7)von I Kor. 5, 5 sofort zu 6, 13 übergeht mit den Worten: „Avertens autem nos a fornicatione manifestat carnis resurrectionem", so ließe sich vermuten, daß M. in I Kor. 5, 8 — der Vers ist uns für M. nicht überliefert — πορνείας für πονηρίας gelesen hat und dies also eine Marcionitische Lesart sei. Allein

1 Römerbrief [2], S. 14 f.

selbst wenn diese Kombination Vertrauen verdiente — Tert.s Satz ist doch bereits dadurch gedeckt, daß der ganze Abschnitt I Kor. 5, 1—7 von der Hurerei handelt —, so wäre es sehr vorschnell, die Lesart als Marcionitische zu bezeichnen. Sie hat vielmehr als eine Lesart des ℳTextes zu gelten, da sie dogmatisch indifferent ist. Wohin kämen wir, wenn wir alle Sonderlesarten des WTextes dem M. als Urheber zuwiesen!

Nicht verständlich ist mir, inwiefern ἔτι γάρ Röm. 5, 6 eine Marcionitische Lesart sein soll, da Lietzmann selbst sie als die ursprüngliche verteidigt (S. 56).

Röm. 14, 10 hält L. den Richterstuhl Gottes für die ursprüngliche Lesart, „Christi" für Korrektur. Allein er selbst macht darauf aufmerksam, daß Χριστοῦ sich schon bei Polykarp (ep. 6, 2) findet; also hat die Lesart mit Marcion nichts zu tun (der DGText hat sie nicht).

Diese drei Stellen müssen somit für unsern Zweck als unbrauchbar zurückgewiesen werden; die Fragen aber, die sich an Ephes. 1, 1; Röm. 1, 7. 15 und Röm. 15. 16 (dazu 16, 25—27 besonders) anschließen, hängen aufs engste zusammen. Es steht nach der Angabe Tert.s fest, daß M. den Epheserbrief als Laodicenerbrief in seinem Kanon hatte (s. o. zu Laod. 1 S. 114*). Wenn Tert. das so ausdrückt: „Marcion et titulum aliquando interpolare gestit, quasi et in isto diligentissimus explorator", so muß man sowohl quasi als auch den Hohn hier völlig verkennen, wenn man aus dieser Bemerkung schließen will (so Zahn), Tert. bezeuge hier dem M., er habe auf Grund einer kritischen Untersuchung — die also Tert. bei ihm gelesen hat — diese Änderung vorgenommen [1]. Der Satz ist vielmehr sachlich völlig belanglos — der „so sorgfältige Forscher" hat die Zahl der Briefe angetastet, die Briefe selbst verfälscht und an einer Stelle nicht einmal die Titel verschont! [1] — und wenn er fehlte, wüßten wir nicht weniger. Aber deshalb darf auch das Wort „titulus" nicht gepreßt und nicht behauptet werden, Tert. werfe dem M. nur vor, daß er die Überschrift geändert hat, während er ihm eine Korrektur in c. 1, 1 nicht zur Last lege, eine solche also hier ausschlösse. Er macht vielmehr nur zur Überschrift seine Bemerkung und geht dann sofort zu 1, 9 f. über. Da wir aber hier keine weiteren Zeugnisse besitzen, so bleibt es völlig im Dunklen, ob M. in 1, 1 τοῖς ἁγίοις τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν Λαοδικείᾳ καὶ πιστοῖς oder schon τ. ἁγ. τ. οὖσιν κ. πιστοῖς (sei es mit, sei es ohne, ἐν Ἐφέσῳ) gefunden hat. Hat er ersteres gefunden, so war in der Briefsammlung, die er durchkorrigierte, noch der ursprüngliche Text vorhanden; denn es ist mir nicht zweifelhaft, daß ἐν Λαοδικείᾳ die ursprüngliche Lesart ist [2]. In diesem Falle ist es ihm leider nicht geglückt, die richtige Adresse wieder zur Anerkennung in der Christenheit zu bringen. Hat er aber schon den korrigierten Text in 1, 1 vorgefunden, so ist mit zwei Möglichkeiten zu rechnen: entweder stand bereits in der Aufschrift „An die Epheser", dann hat er das als Irrtum korrigiert, oder es stand überhaupt keine Ortsbezeichnung im c. 1, 1, dann hat er Laodicea eingesetzt, weil er eine alte (richtige) Überlieferung besaß, oder den beraubt vorgefundenen Text von 1, 1 unverändert gelassen. Da sich aber nirgendwo bei ihm historisch-kritische Erwägungen nachweisen lassen [3], so ist die erste Möglichkeit m. E. recht unwahrscheinlich.

---

1 Welches Schwergewicht Zahn an Tert.s ironischen Ausdruck hängt, zeigt u. a. S. 625 (Bd. I) seines Werks: „Wenn Tert. sagt, M. habe sich auch in diesem Punkte als einen sehr sorgfältigen Forscher beweisen wollen [aber das sagt Tert. gar nicht], so müssen wir schließen, daß er für seine auf Herstellung einer Bibel gerichtete Tätigkeit überhaupt diesen Anspruch erhoben hat. An diesem einen Beispiel aber, das in hellem Tageslicht liegt [nein, das aus dem Nichts geschaffen ist], erkennen wir auch, daß der Gegenstand der Kritik und der Forschung M.s und die Grundlage seines Aufbaus die vor ihm in der Kirche vorhandene Bibel war".

M. hat aller Wahrscheinlichkeit nach wiedergegeben, was er vorfand: in der Aufschrift Πρὸς Λαοδικέας und in 1, 1 entweder ἐν Λαοδικείᾳ oder den schon dieser Worte beraubten Text. Die Hypothese aber, daß er selbst die Beraubung vorgenommen, schwebt völlig in der Luft. Mag sich die Ausmerzung in c. 1, 1 daraus erklären, daß die Laodicener-Gemeinde sich zeitweilig durch innere Verwahrlosung so gut wie aufgelöst hatte (s. Offenb. Joh. 3),

---

1 Es mag sein, daß Tert. an Kol. 4, 16 gedacht hat, als er M. bei seiner angeblichen Umadressierung des Epheserbriefs den „diligentissimus explorator" nannte; aber auch das ist nicht sicher, da Tert. es nicht sagt.

2 S. meine Abhandlung in den Sitzungsberichten der Preuß. Akademie „Die Adresse des Epheserbriefs des Paulus" 1910, S. 696 ff.

3 Weiteres darüber s. später.

und man deshalb keinen Paulusbrief an sie zu lesen wünschte, oder mag sie aus der Absicht entsprungen sein, den Brief zu einem katholischen zu machen — in beiden Fällen liegt nicht der geringste Grund vor, M. dafür verantwortlich zu machen. Dazu: es ist doch sehr unwahrscheinlich, weil beispiellos, daß eine Text-Korrektur Marcions eine solche Verbreitung erlangt hat wie die Fassung: τοῖς ἁγίοις τοῖς οὖσιν καὶ πιστοῖς in der alten Kirche.

Aber hat nicht auch Röm. 1, 7. 15 „ἐν Ῥώμῃ" in Marcionitischen Bibeln gefehlt, steht diese Ausmerzung nicht mit der von „ἐν Ἐφέσῳ" in einem innern Zusammenhang, und ist nicht er für diese Auslassung verantwortlich? Nun, zunächst sind uns die Texte dieser Verse bei M. überhaupt nicht überliefert. Das Fehlen von ἐν Ῥώμῃ in ihnen (bezw. ihre Ersetzung durch andere Worte) ist für 1, 7 bezeugt durch Orig. G (d Cod. Fuld. der Vulgata, Ambrosiaster, diese nur indirekt), für 1, 15 allein durch G. Nun ist gewiß die Überlieferung des 𝔚Textes in G dem Marcion-Text am nächsten verwandt, und es hat daher eine gewisse Wahrscheinlichkeit, daß auch bei M. ἐν Ῥώμῃ gefehlt hat. Allein in dem Verhältnis der beiden Texte (s. o. S. 154* f.) gilt die Regel, daß gemeinsame Lesarten solange als solche zu betrachten sind, bei denen M. dem anderen Text gefolgt ist, bis nicht das Umgekehrte erwiesen ist. Da dies hier nicht erwiesen werden kann, so ist zu urteilen, daß, wenn ἐν Ῥώμῃ bei M. gefehlt hat, er einfach, wie in vielen Dutzenden von Fällen, der G Rezension des 𝔚Textes gefolgt ist, welche die Worte nicht bot.

Es erübrigt das wichtigste Problem, das Fehlen von Röm. 15. 16 bei Marcion. Aus dogmatisch-tendenziösen Motiven kann M. diese Kapitel nicht gestrichen haben [1]; warum fehlten sie also bei ihm? Alles, was bis vor kurzem über dies Problem geäußert worden ist, war ganz unbefriedigend; erst Corssen hat hier Licht gebracht, indem er gezeigt hat, daß die Kapitel in der DG Überlieferung des 𝔚Textes gefehlt haben; sie sind also gar nicht vor M.s Augen gekommen; mithin hat nicht er sie gestrichen oder etwa durch Zufall ein verstümmeltes

1 Einige Anstöße, die c. 15 bot, hätte Marcion leicht beseitigen können.

Exemplar in die Hand bekommen [1]. Aber könnte er es nicht doch gewesen sein, und die DGÜberlieferung wäre erst durch ihn zur Streichung veranlaßt worden? Dann müßte man bei M. ein spezifisches Motiv nachweisen können; ein solches aber läßt sich nicht ermitteln; denn er hatte bei seinen Streichungen nur ein dogmatisch-tendenziöses Interesse [2]. Aber wird das Problem nicht einfach zurückgeschoben, wenn man es der Rezension DG aufbürdet? Nein; denn hier ist es auf einen Boden versetzt, auf dem eine Lösung leichter ist, ja auf dem man sich sogar bei einem Non liquet zu beruhigen vermag. In bezug auf M. hat unsere Untersuchung gezeigt, daß (von einigen Diorthosen abgesehen, die auch nicht sicher sein Eigentum sind) seine Textkorrekturen auf dem dogmatisch-tendenziösen Motiv beruhen und daß man bei ihm daher Nebenabsichten nicht annehmen darf; dagegen läßt der breite Boden der großen Kirche für die Annahme der verschiedensten Möglichkeiten Raum. Er fällt nicht in den Rahmen unserer Aufgabe, die wahrscheinlichste herauszusuchen. Er mögen Röm. 1, 8. 15; Ephes. 1, 1 und das Fehlen von Röm. 15. 16 ein gemeinsames Problem bilden, und aus dem Gemeinsamen mag das Motiv zu den hier erfolgten Streichungen abstrahiert werden [3]; aber das gehört nicht in die Marcion-Forschung, sondern in die allgemeine Geschichte des Bibeltextes in der Kirche.

Ein Wort ist noch nötig über die Verse Röm. 16, 25—27, die ein ganz selbständiges Stück bilden und deren Textgeschichte ich als bekannt voraussetzen darf. M. hat sie nicht geboten und nicht gekannt; aber sie sind offenbar streng Marcionitisch und nur durch 2 (3) Zusätze mühsam und unzureichend katholisiert. Ich setze die Zusätze in Klammern:

Τῷ δὲ δυναμένῳ ὑμᾶς στηρίξαι κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου [καὶ τὸ κήρυγμα Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ oder καὶ κυρίου Ἰ. Χρ.], κατὰ ἀποκάλυψιν μυστηρίου χρόνοις αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου, φανερωθέντος δὲ νῦν [διά τε γραφῶν προφητικῶν] κατ' ἐπιταγὴν τοῦ αἰωνίου θεοῦ εἰς ὑπακοὴν πίστεως εἰς

1 S. Lietzmann, Römerbrief 2. Aufl. S. 125.

2 Selbst an den zahlreichen Grüßen kann er sich nicht gestoßen haben, da er Kol. 4, 10 ff. beibehalten hat.

3 Ich selbst bekenne, keine befriedigende Lösung zu wissen. Das Motiv, die Briefe durch Streichungen des Lokalen und Partikularen zu „katholisieren" genügt nicht.

πάντα τὰ ἔθνη [γνωρισθέντος], μόνῳ σοφῷ θεῷ διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, ᾧ ἡ δόξα κτλ.

Die „prophetischen Schriften" können schlechterdings nur das A. T. bezeichnen (gegen die Ausleger, die hier in verständlicher Verlegenheit an christliche Prophetenschriften denken), aber ebenso gewiß ist, daß die alttestamentlichen Propheten neben νῦν unmöglich stehen können; denn dieses νῦν zeigt unwidersprechlich die christliche Epoche an. Dazu kommt, daß γνωρισθέντος neben φανερωθέντος eine Überladung ist. Ferner ist καὶ τὸ κήρυγμα Ἰ. Χρ. nach κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου nahezu unerträglich [1]. Endlich sowohl das absolute κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου als auch die Vorstellung, daß erst jetzt das bisher unbekannte Heil offenbart worden ist, sind Marcionitisch. Also haben wir hier den Fall, daß spätere Marcioniten dem Römerbrief einen Schluß gegeben haben und daß dieser Schluß in die kirchliche Überlieferung gekommen ist, jedoch mit Korrekturen, da er sonst unerträglich war. S. meine Abhandlung in d. Sitzungsber. der Preuß. Akad. d. Wiss. 1919 S. 527 ff., in denen der Marcionitische Charakter dieser Verse und die Annahme katholischer Interpolationen genau begründet sind.

Einige Marcionitische Lesarten sind wirklich in die Überlieferung des katholischen Textes gelangt, aber es sind nur wenige nachweisbar. Die überwältigende Mehrzahl der LLAA, die als Marcionitisch in Anspruch genommen werden können, sind vielmehr LLAA des 𝔐textes, zu welchem der Marciontext Graec. und Lat. selbst gehören [2]. Auf die Hypothese aber, in der Marcionitischen Kirche seien die Paulusbriefe zuerst ins Lateinische

---

1 Auf die Varianten berufe ich mich nicht, da sie m. E. den überlieferten Text voraussetzen.

2 Hiernach erledigt sich die Bemerkung Zahns (a. a. O. I S. 638): „Angesichts der unversöhnlichen Feindschaft der Kirche gegen M. ist es ganz undenkbar, daß der unermüdlich als ketzerische Fälschung verurteilte Text M.s auf die Gestaltung des kirchlichen Textes einen positiven Einfluß geübt hat." Richtig aber ist seine Erkenntnis in bezug auf die große Mehrzahl der Fälle, „daß alle Textgestaltungen, welche dem Unkundigen als Eigentümlichkeiten der Bibel M.s erscheinen, welche aber zugleich durch katholische Handschriften, Übersetzungen und Schriftsteller bezeugt . . . sind, von M. nicht geschaffen, sondern . . . herübergenommen worden sind" (nämlich aus dem 𝔐Text). Man muß nur hin-übersetzt worden und die katholische Kirche habe diese Übersetzung rezipiert und nach dem ursprünglichen griechischen Text zurückkorrigiert, wird man durch keine Beobachtung geführt. Sie unterliegt auch dem Bedenken, daß eine solche Rekorrektur ein sehr schwieriges und mühsames Unternehmen gewesen wäre [1]. Doch bleibt die Hypothese als eine bloße Möglichkeit bestehen, und vielleicht untersucht jemand in Zukunft die Frage, ob etwa die lateinische Übersetzung der von M. ausgeschiedenen Abschnitte der Paulusbriefe und die Übersetzung der Pastoralbriefe ins Lateinische beachtenswerte Unterschiede von der Übersetzung der Teile aufweist, die M. und der Kirche gemeinsam sind. Diese Teile repräsentieren den Text, wie er — wahrscheinlich in Rom — kurz vor der Mitte des 2. Jahrhunderts gelesen wurde; es ist ihnen daher größere Beachtung zu schenken — das gilt namentlich vom Römerbrief —, als dies bisher geschieht.

Die Frage liegt nahe (s. Zahn, a. a. O. I. S. 648), ob M. etwa mehrere Handschriften für seine neue „gereinigte" Ausgabe hinzugezogen hat. Man muß a priori, so scheint es, annehmen, daß er das getan hat; denn er muß doch wohl nach „unverfälschten" Handschriften gesucht haben. Aber da er solche nicht fand und nicht finden konnte, ist es sehr wohl möglich, daß er sich mit einer Handschrift begnügt hat. Jedenfalls läßt sich der Gebrauch mehrerer Handschriften nicht nachweisen, und jede Spur fehlt, daß er neben dem Texte auch noch einen andern hinzugezogen hat. Auch legt weder sein weltlicher Beruf noch sein reformatorischer Zweck die Annahme nahe, daß er als technischer Philolog gearbeitet hat, wenn auch einzelne Textänderungen in der schlagenden Kürze, in der sie seine dogmatische Tendenz zum Ausdruck bringen, virtuos sind. Seine tendenziösen Korrekturen sind oben (in dem Hauptteil) so eingehend behandelt worden, daß sich eine Untersuchung hier erübrigt.

---

zufügen, daß dies auch sehr wahrscheinlich für eine Gruppe von Fällen gilt, in denen sich zufällig in den uns erhaltenen Zeugen des Textes die Variante nicht findet, die man bei M. liest.

1 Aber wie ausgezeichnet wäre es geglückt, wenn der lateinische Text der Paulusbriefe, also auch die Vulgata, ein korrigierter Marcion-Text wäre.

4. Die Reihenfolge der Paulusbriefe bei Marcion.

Die Reihenfolge Gal., Kor., Röm., Thess., Ephes., Kol., Phil., Philem.[1] ist einzigartig[2]. Wie ist sie zu erklären? In der Tübinger Schule glaubte man einst, an ihr einen äußeren Beweis für die Unechtheit der Briefe Thess. bis Philem. zu besitzen; denn in dieser Reihenfolge stünden zuerst die 4 echten Briefe (in chronologischer Reihenfolge), dann (wiederum in chronologischer Reihenfolge) die unechten. Daran wird heute niemand mehr denken. Zahn hält die Reihenfolge ebenfalls für chronologisch, aber als ganze, indem er in bezug auf Thess. annimmt, M. habe sich entweder eine falsche Meinung über den Ursprung dieser Briefe gebildet oder er habe Thess. ihrer geringeren Bedeutung wegen an den Schluß der ersten Abteilung (woher diese Scheidung?) gestellt, „wodurch er dann den Vorteil hatte, daß gleich an der Spitze seines Apostolikons der für ihn vor allen anderen wichtige Galaterbrief stand". Wie man aber hier auch erklären möge, gewiß sei, daß die Ordnung der Briefe aufs neue beweise, „daß M. in Dingen, welche für ihn dogmatisch indifferent waren, historischen Erwägungen folgte" (Bd. I S. 623; II S. 346 f.). Allein der Riß, der in diese Betrachtung durch die falsche Stellung von Thess. kommt, bleibt bestehen, und von chronologischen Studien M.s in bezug auf die Briefe wissen wir nichts. Mir scheint sich die Reihenfolge anders zu erklären: Den Galaterbrief hat M. aus sachlichen Gründen vorangestellt; er war ihm die Magna Charta seines Christentums und erfüllte ihm das Bedürfnis, das die große Kirche durch die Rezeption der Apostelgeschichte befriedigte. Aus Tert. IV, 3 und V, 2 erkennen wir noch aufs deutlichste, daß für M. alle anderen Paulusbriefe im Schatten des Gal. gestanden haben. Die übrigen Briefe aber ordnete M., wie es scheint, einfach nach

---

1 Nach Epiph. (also für die cyprisch-palästinensischen Marcioniten): Philem., Phil. Jener Brief sollte wohl zu dem mit ihm geschichtlich zusammengehörigen Kol. gestellt werden. Zahn (Kanonsgesch. I S. 623) denkt an die Möglichkeit, daß dies die ursprüngliche Reihenfolge sei (gegen Tert.s Angabe), obgleich sie später bezeugt ist, weil er die ganze Reihenfolge für eine chronologische hält.

2 S. über die Reihenfolge der paulinischen Briefe die große Untersuchung von Zahn, a. a. O. II, S. 344 ff.; dazu I, S. 456. 623. 836.

der Größe. Ich setze die Stichen des Euthalius hinzu und in Klammern die Buchstabenzahl der Briefe [1], Gal., I u. II Kor. 1460 (54 536), Röm. 920 (35 266), I u. II Thess. 299 (11 479), Ephes. 312 (11 932), Kol. 208 (7745), Phil. 208 (7975). Philem. 37 (1567). Hier fällt nur auf, daß I und II Thess. vor Ephes. stehen; allein es waren zwei Briefe, und der Raum, den sie mitsamt Titel und Schlußstrich beanspruchten, war daher größer als der für Ephes. nötige. So wird man annehmen dürfen, daß die Länge der Briefe das Prinzip ihrer Anordnung bei M. gewesen ist [2]. Eine „historische" Betrachtung kommt also nicht in Frage.

5. Hatte das Marcionitische Apostolikon schon eine Capitulatio? [3]

Corssen hat in seiner anregenden Abhandlung „Zur Überlieferungsgeschichte des Römerbriefs" (Ztschr. f. d. NTliche Wissensch. 10. Bd. S. 21 ff. 25 ff.) zuerst auf Spuren ältester Capitulatio der Texte in der abendländischen Kirche (bei Tert.) hingewiesen. Mit Recht legt er Gewicht auf Tert. V, 7, wo der Abschnitt I Kor. 10, 6—11 als ein Kapitel für sich erscheint („denique et in clausula praefationi apostolus respondet"). Geht man nun von dieser Stelle aus vorwärts, so stößt man in V, 8, wo Tert. zu I Kor. 12, 1 ff. übergeht, auf die zusammenfassende Bezeichnung „Nunc de spiritalibus", ohne weiteren Zusatz; Tert. fährt in einem neuen Satz fort: „Dico haec quoque in Christo a creatore promissa". Zwei Seiten weiter, noch in demselben Kapitel, heißt es dann beim Übergang zu c. 13: „De dilectione quoque omnibus charismatibus praeponenda apostolus instruxit"; Tert. läßt dann das ganze 13. Kap. beiseite, bringt also nur diese Überschrift. Aber auch wenn man von c. 10, 6 ff. rückwärts geht, stößt man V, 7 beim Übergang zu I Kor. 7, 1 ff. auf die Bemerkung: „Sequitur de nuptiis (congredi, quas Marcion ... prohibet"). Andere Spuren habe ich nicht gefunden. Schon für Tert. reichen sie nicht

---

1 S. die Tabelle bei Zahn, a. a. O. I, S. 76. Die Buchstabenzahl hat natürlich nicht die Bedeutung wie die antike Stichenberechnung.

2 Kol. und Phil. konnte man nach der Stichenzahl beliebig ordnen.

3 S. dazu de Bruyne, Rev. Bénéd. 1911 p. 9 f. des Separatabzugs (sonst S. 141 f.).

aus, um seinem Bibeltext eine Capitulatio zuzusprechen, wenn sie nicht durch andere Beobachtungen ergänzt werden (was jedoch der Fall ist); um Marcion aber eine solche beizulegen, bzw. dem von ihm bearbeiteten ℜText, dazu sind sie ungenügend. Doch erhalten sie vielleicht eine schwache Beweiskraft, wenn man auf das Marcionitische Evangelium blickt; denn hier stößt man bei Tert. und Epiph., wo sie zur Perikope vom reichen Mann und armen Lazarus übergehen, auf folgende Beobachtung: Tert. schreibt (IV, 34): „Subsequens argumentum divitis apud inferos dolentis et pauperis in sinu Abrahae requiescentis", und Epiph., Schol. 44: Περὶ τοῦ πλουσίου καὶ Λαζάρου τοῦ πτωχοῦ, ὅτι ἀπηνέχθη ὑπὸ τῶν ἀγγέλων εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ Ἀβραάμ. Soll man hier annehmen, daß beide sich auf eine „Überschrift" beziehen, die im Evangelium M.s stand? Vgl. auch Tert. IV, 19 zu Luk. 8, 4 ff.: „De parabolis".

6. Marcion und die Pastoralbriefe.

In bezug auf M.s Verhältnis zu diesen Briefen wissen wir nur, daß M. sie nicht in seiner Paulinischen Briefsammlung hatte (s. Tert. V, 1. 21; Epiph.; vgl. Pseudotert. sub. „Cerdo"), daß aber eine Gruppe späterer Marcioniten sie aufgenommen hat (s. den Prolog zu Tit., oben S. 129* ff.)[1]. Daraus läßt sich mit großer Wahrscheinlichkeit schließen, daß kein ausdrückliches Verbot M.s, diese Briefe zu rezipieren, in seiner Kirche bekannt war, d. h. daß er sich in den „Antithesen" oder sonstwo nicht über sie geäußert hat. Das wird auch durch Tert. bestätigt, der es sich gewiß nicht hätte entgehen lassen, wenn er bei M. ein (verwerfendes) Urteil über die Briefe gefunden hätte[2]. Hieraus läßt

1 Auch die Marcioniten, mit denen es Chrysostomus zu tun gehabt hat, haben sich die Pastoralbriefe (aber gewiß mit Korrekturen) gefallen lassen; s. Chrysost. zu II Tim. 1, 18: „Die Marcioniten folgern aus den Worten: δῴη ὁ κύριος παρὰ κυρίου, daß es zwei Herren gebe".

2 Er bemerkt aber zu ihnen beim Philemonbrief lediglich dies (V, 21): „Soli huic epistolae brevitas sua profuit, ut falsarias manus Marcionis evaderet [das ist natürlich eine höchst subjektive und unrichtige Erklärung Tert.s ohne jeden Wert]. miror tamen, cum ad unum hominem litteras factas receperit, quod ad Timotheum duas et unam ad Titum de ecclesiastico statu compositas recusaverit. adfectavit, opinor, etiam sich weiter folgern, daß die Briefe überhaupt nicht in M.s Gesichtskreis getreten sind [1]; denn er hätte schwerlich über sie in den Antithesen schweigen können, wenn er sie in mehreren oder auch nur in einer Sammlung der Paulusbriefe gefunden hätte. Da indessen dieser Schluß schon nicht mehr ganz sicher ist, mag man ihn ablehnen und sich lediglich mit der Einsicht begnügen, daß die Pastoralbriefe bei M. gefehlt haben.

Ganz anders urteilt Zahn [2]. Er behauptet, Tert. habe von sich aus gar nicht auf den Gedanken kommen können, die Briefe seien von M. wegen ihres privaten Charakters ausgeschlossen worden; demnach müsse M. selbst den Grundsatz ausgesprochen „und den Ausschluß der Briefe unter anderem damit gerechtfertigt haben, daß nur, was Paulus den Gemeinden geschrieben habe, der Gemeinde zur Erbauung zu dienen geeignet sei". Tert.s Bemerkung „wäre eine ebenso unerklärliche Albernheit, wenn er den bei M. vorausgesetzten Grundsatz aus der Luft gegriffen hätte, wie sie schlagend ist, wenn M. wirklich gegen die Aufnahme der Briefe unter anderem ihren Charakter als Privatschreiben geltend gemacht hätte". Was aber den Philemonbrief betrifft, „so konnte M. antworten, er sei allerdings ein Gemeindebrief, da er laut v. 2 zugleich an die im Hause Philemons sich versammelnde Gemeinde gerichtet sei" . . . [3] „Für bewiesen halte ich [lediglich auf Grund des Vorstehenden], daß M. die Pastoralbriefe nicht nur gekannt, sondern auch ihren Ausschluß von seiner Bibel zu rechtfertigen für nötig gehalten hat; daß sie also in der kirchlichen Bibel seiner Zeit enthalten waren. Weiter numerum epistolarum interpolare" [das ist natürlich ebenso eine Unterschiebung].

---

1 Damit ist nicht gesagt, daß sie noch nicht vorhanden waren, wie Corssen, a. a. O. S. 100, mit Recht bemerkt.

2 Bd. I, S. 634 ff.

3 Doch besteht Zahn nicht auf dieser Begründung der Rezeption des Briefs durch M. Er gibt S. 637 noch eine andere: „Der Philemonbrief behandelte eine Frage von hoher sittlicher Bedeutung für die alte Kirche, die Frage der Stellung der christlichen Gesellschaft zur Sklaverei oder vielmehr der Sklaven in der christlichen Gesellschaft(?). M. bewährte seinen praktischen Sinn(?), indem er ihn aufnahm". Aber bleibt nicht trotz dieser fragwürdigen Begründung bestehen, daß wer den Philemonbrief aus solch einem Grunde, trotzdem er ein Privatschreiben war, aufnahm, die Pastoralbriefe erst recht aufnehmen mußte?

ergibt sich aber auch, daß M. nicht die paulinische Herkunft der Pastoralbriefe beanstandet hat. Hätte er sie für unecht gehalten, so hätte er auch diese seine Überzeugung und nicht den feineren und viel anfechtbareren Grund für ihre Ausschließung geltend gemacht, welchen wir beiläufig durch Tert. erfahren."

Dies alles hat Zahn aus dem einen Satze herausgelesen: „Miror tamen, cum ad unum hominem litteras factas receperit, quod ad Timotheum duas et unam ad Titum de ecclesiastico statu compositas recusaverit". Das ist noch viel mehr, als was er bei dem Titel des Laodicenerbriefs aus den beiden Worten „diligentissimus explorator" gefolgert hat. Ich darf es dem Leser überlassen, ob er sich durch die Beweisführung überzeugt sieht, und bemerke meinerseits nur, daß das, was Tert. gesagt hat, schlechthin das Nächstliegende war, was man hier bemerken konnte. Die Privatschreiben des Paulus im Kanon waren zu Tert.s Zeit und auch später noch ein Problem, und wer da hörte, daß irgendwo die Pastoralbriefe verworfen werden, der mußte sofort auf den Gedanken kommen, das sei geschehen, weil sie nicht an Gemeinden gerichtet seien.

7. Marcion und die Apostelgeschichte und die Apokalypse Johannis. Hat Marcion schon das katholische Apostolikon, bestehend aus Akt., I Petr., I und II Joh., Judas, 13 Paul., Apok. vorgefunden?

In dem Bericht Pseudotertullians über „Cerdo" — der Bericht (c. 6) gehört zu „Marcion" — heißt es: „Apostoli Pauli neque omnes neque totas epistolas sumit, Acta Apostolorum et Apocalypsin quasi falsa reicit". Diese Worte in einem sonst kurzen Referat können schwerlich anders verstanden werden, als daß sich bei M. Äußerungen über diese beiden Bücher, bzw. ein ausdrückliches Verwerfungsurteil, gefunden haben; denn warum nennt er nicht auch Judas, I Petr., I Joh.? Sie brauchte M. nicht mehr ausdrücklich zu verwerfen, nachdem er die Urapostel in Bausch und Bogen als falsche Apostel bezeichnet hatte; aber über das „Offenbarungsbuch", wenn es in seine Hände gekommen war, mußte er sich äußern, denn es machte den Anspruch, maßgebende christliche Prophetie zu sein, und die Apostelgeschichte warf seine ganze dogmatisch-historische Konstruktion um, wenn er sie nicht ausdrücklich ablehnte, falls er Kenntnis von ihr genommen. Daß beides geschehen ist, bezeugt eben Hippolyt, die Quelle Pseudotert.s [1].

Von hier aus gewinnen aber auch einige Stellen bei Tert. eine größere Bedeutung, die es an sich noch zweifelhaft erscheinen lassen, ob Tert. die Verwerfung der beiden Bücher bei M. nur folgert oder auf Grund von Äußerungen M.s konstatiert. Von M.s Verhältnis zu Judas, I Petr., I Joh. spricht er niemals — eben weil er direkte Äußerungen über diese Briefe nicht fand —, aber in bezug auf die Apok. schreibt er III, 14: „Nam et apostolus Ioannes in Apocalypsi ensem describit ... Quodsi Ioannem agnitum non vis, habes communem magistrum Paulum". III, 24 setzt sich Tert. mit M. über die Verheißung Christi und das 1000 jährige Reich auseinander; in diesem Zusammenhang bringt er einen Ausspruch M.s: „Vester Christus pristinum statum Iudaeis pollicetur ex restitutione terrae". IV, 5 heißt es: „Habemus et Ioannis alumnas ecclesias; nam etsi Apocalypsin eius Marcion respuat", etc. Ähnlich in bezug auf die Apostelgeschichte, s. de praescr. 22: „Probantibus Actis Apostolorum descensum spiritus sancti. quam scripturam qui non recipiunt, nec spiritus sancti esse possunt". Adv. Marc. V, 2: „Quodsi et ex hoc congruunt Paulo Apostolorum Acta, cur ea respuatis iam apparet". Auf Grund des positiven Zeugnisses Hippolyts darf man diese Stellen wohl anführen: M. hat die Apok. und die Akta als falsche, d. h. als Bücher des Judengotts verworfen.

Folgt aber daraus, daß ihm schon das katholische Apostolikon von 18 (19) Schriften vorgelegen hat? Durchaus nicht; vielmehr ist es im höchsten Grade unwahrscheinlich, daß ihm eine solche Sammlung oder überhaupt irgend eine Sammlung dieser Art mit autoritativem Ansehen vorlag. Die Antithesen haben sich, wie in der Darstellung gezeigt worden, eingehend über Christus, die Urapostel und Paulus ausgesprochen. Hätte sich nun M. bei der Polemik gegen die katholische Überlieferung bereits einer kanonischen Schriftensammlung gegenüber gesehen (einem Apostolikon), so hätte er ganz anders polemisieren müssen, nämlich nicht nur — wie er immer tut — gegen das AT, sondern auch gegen das NT der Kirche. Von einem NT der Kirche ist aber niemals die Rede: das ist entscheidend[1]. Auch konnte er nicht so einfach und ohne Begründung drei von den 13 Briefen des Paulus streichen, wenn ihm eine Sammlung von 13 Briefen vorlag. Ferner, wir wissen, daß die älteste kirchliche Reihenfolge der Paulusbriefe sehr anders aussah als die Marcionitische, die ganz singulär geblieben ist. Warum schuf er überhaupt diese Reihenfolge, wenn es eine ältere der 13 Briefe bereits gab, statt sich mit der Voranstellung des Galaterbriefs zu begnügen? Und so lassen sich noch viele Fragen stellen, die alle zu dem Ergebnis führen, daß dem M. kein katholisches Apostolikon vorlag, daß vielmehr sein Apostolikon das früheste ist: Die Paulusbriefe liefen vermutlich noch für sich (vielleicht auch noch in kleineren Gruppen), Apok. und Akt. als einzelne in den Gemeinden um, als er sein Apostolikon schuf. Mit ihm hat er als erster in der Christenheit den Begriff eines festbegrenzten Apostolikons verwirklicht.

---

1 Ich habe früher diese Stelle übersehen, bzw. ihre Bedeutung nicht richtig geschätzt.

8. Das Marcionitische Ersatzbuch für die Apostelgeschichte. Marcionitische Psalmen.

Der Polemiker gegen die mesopotamischen Marcioniten um das J. 400, Maruta, Bischof von Maipherkat (s. Beil. VI), bestätigt im Umriß die Marcionitische Bibel nach Umfang und Art, fügt aber noch hinzu: „Das Buch der Πράξεις haben sie vollständig

1 Es steht also bei M. in bezug auf das NT wie bei Justin (Dial. c. Tryph.), nur war M. in einer vorteilhaften Lage, Justin in einer sehr unbequemen. Auch Justin kennt zwei „Bünde“, aber nicht zwei Bundesurkunden, vielmehr besitzt nur der ältere Bund eine schriftliche Bundesurkunde. Wie viel leichter hätte es Justin gehabt, wenn er den Juden gegenüber auf eine schriftliche Urkunde des zweiten Bundes hätte verweisen können! Statt dessen muß er sich mit der mühsamen Feststellung begnügen, daß die alte schriftliche Bundesurkunde, richtig verstanden, auch die Urkunde des neuen Bundes ist. Umgekehrt war es für M. sehr willkommen, daß er noch kein kirchliches NT sich gegenüber sah und daher das AT als „die“ schriftliche Urkunde der Kirche ansehen konnte. Daß er das getan hat, ist offenbar; denn die kirchlichen Evangelien und Briefe behandelt er nie als eine Einheit; also betrachtete er sie als einzelne Stücke.

aus der Mitte geräumt und statt seiner ein anderes Buch (der Πράξεις?) eingeschoben, das sie Sākā = „Summa" (der Araber bietet: „Liber propositi finis") nennen, so daß es sei gemäß ihren Meinungen und Lehren." Auch nach diesen Worten liegt die Annahme nahe, daß die Ausstoßung der Apostelgesch. ausdrücklich begründet war; das Buch aber, welches sie an ihrer Stelle hatten, können doch wohl nur die „Antithesen" sein; denn diese haben auch nach Tert. eine Auseinandersetzung mit den Uraposteln enthalten, ja wahrscheinlich in ihrer Einleitung. Darüber hinaus aber sind die Antithesen wirklich ein „Ersatz" für die Apostelgeschichte; denn mit dieser begründete die Kirche die Konkordanz zwischen dem Alten und dem Neuen Bund und zwischen den Uraposteln und Paulus; mit den Antithesen aber begründete M. die Diskordanz zwischen diesen Größen. Nicht durchsichtig — auch ist die Überlieferung zwiespältig — ist der Titel, mit welchem die Antithesen hier erscheinen; man hat sich an den Syrer zu halten, und es ist wohl kein wirklicher Buchtitel gemeint, sondern das Buch soll seinem Inhalt und seiner Bedeutung nach als „Summa" bezeichnet werden. Das paßt auf die Antithesen sehr gut. Das kanonische (bzw. semikanonische) Ansehen des Buches in der Marcionitischen Kirche läßt sich auch sonst nachweisen. Daß es aber hier ausdrücklich bezeugt ist, ist von Wichtigkeit.

Maruta bezeugt aber auch noch Marcionitische Hymnen bzw. Psalmen: „Hymnen (Psalmen), die sie bei den Gebeten rezitieren, haben sie sich andere als die Davids erdichtet". Diese Mitteilung trifft mit einer dunklen Stelle am Schluß des Muratorischen Fragments zusammen, wo es heißt: „Arsinoi autem seu Valentini vel Mitiadis (? ich halte noch immer „Tatiani" für die wahrscheinlichste LA) nihil in totum recipimus, qui etiam novum psalmorum librum Marcioni conscripserunt". Nach dieser Stelle wußte dieser Autor ebenso wie Maruta, daß die Marcioniten nicht-davidische Psalmen — Maruta sagt ausdrücklich: in ihren Gottesdiensten; aber das brauchte nicht erst gesagt zu werden — singen. Diese Tatsache steht also für die Zeit um d. J. 400 und d. J. 200 fest; aber nach Maruta sind diese Psalmen Marcionitischen Ursprungs, nach dem Fragment stammen sie von Valentin und anderen Gnostikern. Da Marcion um 200 als der schlimmste Ketzer galt, so sollten Valentin und die anderen durch die Ver-bindung mit M. diskreditiert werden. Augenscheinlich war eine Gefahr vorhanden (die M. gegenüber nicht bestand), daß in den katholischen Kirchen Werke von jenen gelesen wurden, und um diese Gefahr zu beschwören, macht der Verf. des Fragments darauf aufmerksam, daß sie dem Erzketzer nahestehen. Daß sie ein neues Psalmbuch für „Marcion", d. h. „ad haeresem Marcionis" geschrieben haben, ist freilich auf alle Fälle eine starke Übertreibung; vielleicht aber ist irgend ein wirklicher Kern in der Mitteilung enthalten. Uns muß die Tatsache, daß es in den Kirchen Marcions nicht-davidische Psalmen gegeben hat, genügen.

Beilage IV: Das Evangelium Marcions.

A. Einleitung.

Wie für das Apostolikon M.s sind auch für das Evangelium Tertullian, Epiphanius und Adamantius die Hauptquellen. Die Ausbeute, welche die Angaben anderer Zeugen gewähren (von Hippolyt und Origenes an bis zum Armenier Esnik) [1], ist nicht groß.

Die Grundsätze, nach denen Tertullian und Epiphanius sich mit dem Evangelium M.s befaßt haben, sind dieselben wie bei dem Apostolikon: sie wollen zeigen, daß auch nach dem Evangelium M.s, trotz aller Verfälschung, Christus der Sohn des Weltschöpfers und dieser der wahre Gott ist. Hieraus folgt, daß die Stellen, welche sie in M.s Evangelium übergehen, sehr wohl in diesem Evangelium gestanden haben können, sei es unverfälscht, sei es verfälscht; denn wenn sie auch beide in einigen besonders gravierenden Fällen oder beiläufig angeben, diese oder jene Stelle habe M. ausgelassen oder verfälscht, so ist das nach dem Plane, den sie verfolgen, nur eine Zugabe. Bei Tert. sind übrigens solche Bemerkungen bei der Behandlung des Ev.s M.s viel seltener als bei der des Apostolikons; ohne es zu wollen, bringt er uns aber in seinen Zitaten und Referaten an vielen Stellen Kunde vom Text M.s. Das, was in der Einleitung zum Apostolikon über die Zeugen ausgeführt worden ist, gilt auch hier; doch sind noch einige besondere Bemerkungen notwendig. Rekonstruiert worden ist das Evangelium M.s im letzten Jahrhundert öfters; aber die Rekonstruktionen nach Hahn (Das Ev. M.s in seiner ursprünglichen Gestalt, 1823), der sich das grundlegende Verdienst um das Werk erworben hat, waren durch die Tendenzkritik ungünstig bestimmt, wenn auch Volkmar in anerkennenswerter Weise sich von ihr befreite (1850.52). Da er aber viel Subjektives einmischte und auch die Quellen nicht vollständig übersah, so hat erst Zahn in seiner Kanonsgeschichte (1892) der Aufgabe wesentlich genügt. Daß aber auch diese Herstellung in materieller und formeller Hinsicht noch nicht abschließend ist, wird der nachstehende neue Versuch hoffentlich erweisen.

1 Noch im Fihrist (Flügel, Mani S. 85) liest man: „M. verfaßte ein Buch, das er Evangelium nannte, und seine Schüler eine Anzahl andere, die Gott allein zu finden weiß“.

1. Tertullian.

Stofflich wissen wir über das Ev. M.s durch Tert. (IV. Buch, 3. Bearbeitung) viel mehr als über das Apostolik. [1], weil er die meisten Perikopen dort berührt, während er hier ganze Kapitel überspringt; aber was die Textgestalt im einzelnen betrifft, so läßt sich diese in der Regel bei den Briefen viel sicherer ermitteln als beim Ev. [2]. Tert. beschränkt sich bei diesem sehr viel häufiger auf kurze Referate und gegen Ende des Werks verzichtet er fast ganz auf wörtliche Mitteilungen. Doch hat er sich auch bei den Referaten in anerkennenswerter Gewissenhaftigkeit an M.s Text gehalten, wie das Zeugnis der Nebenreferenten an nicht wenigen Stellen beweist. So bleibt er auch für das Ev. wie für das Apostol. unsere Hauptquelle. Die Energie, mit der er seinem Gegner nachgeht, und der Fleiß sind bewunderungswürdig und geben dem Werk, das auch noch um einen Grad frischer geschrieben ist als das V. Buch, einen Ehrenplatz in der altkirchlichen Literatur. —

In welcher Sprache lag das Ev. M.s Tertullian vor? Nachdem bei dem Apostol. erwiesen worden ist, daß er es lateinisch gelesen hat, ist es an sich höchst wahrscheinlich, daß auch hier seine Vorlage lateinisch war; denn hatten die Marcioniten in

---

1 Ausgearbeitet wurde das IV. Buch (3. Edit.) wahrscheinlich in einem Zuge mit Buch I—III um das J. 207/8; s. meine Chronologie II S. 281 ff.

2 Es kommt hinzu, daß die Überlieferung der Evangelien überhaupt viel mannigfaltiger und unsicherer ist als die der Briefe, vor allem weil von der ältesten Zeit an der Text des einen Evangeliums auf den des anderen eingewirkt hat (besonders der des Matth. auf die übrigen Synoptiker).

Rom und Karthago bereits die paulinischen Briefe in lateinischer Übersetzung, so werden sie das Ev. erst recht in dieser Sprache gelesen haben. Die Beweisführung ist aber hier etwas schwieriger, da, wie bemerkt, Tert. größtenteils nur Referate gibt, bei denen die Sprachenfrage nur selten aufgeworfen werden kann, zumal die lateinische Übersetzung, wie alle alten Übersetzungen, sich aufs engste an das Original angeschlossen haben wird. Dennoch läßt sich auch hier der Beweis erbringen; denn (1) der Apparat wird zeigen, daß Tert. nicht nur durchweg oder fast durchweg mit dem 𝔚Text geht, wie er durch D Itala Vulgata bezeugt ist, sondern an einer beträchtlichen Anzahl von Stellen auch mit dem lateinischen 𝔚Text ohne D. In allen diesen Fällen müßte Tert. zufällig bei seiner eigenen Übersetzung — denn er soll ja nach dem Urteil aller bisherigen Kritiker aus dem Stegreif selbst übersetzt haben — mit Itala-Codd. bzw. Vulg. zusammengetroffen sein.

(2) Daß das Latein des Bibeltextes auch hier nicht sein eigenes Latein ist, sondern ein fremdes, läßt sich trotz des Referat-Charakters seiner Mitteilungen an einigen Stellen noch zeigen. Man liest hier dasselbe Latein wie im Apostol., z. B.: „Videte manus meas et pedes, quia ipse ego sum" (IV, 43), oder „„Quoniam'[1], inquit, recipistis advocationem vestram'" (Luk. 6, 24 = ὅτι ἀπέχετε τὴν παράκλησιν ὑμῶν, IV, 15), oder IV, 18 „Ecce ego mitto angelum .... qui praeparet viam tuam" (c. 7, 27; praeparet = praeparabit; es gibt hier nur die LA κατασκευάσει; ganz sicher ist aber praeparet nicht überliefert) oder IV, 19 „Ab eo, qui non habet, etiam quod habere se putat auferetur ei" (Luk. 8, 18) oder IV, 21 „Qui mei confusus fuerit" (Luk. 9, 26) oder IV, 26 „adpropinquavit in vos regnum dei" (Luk. 11, 20) oder IV, 33 „Si in mamona iniusto fideles non extitistis" (Luk. 16, 11) und dergl.

(3) Schlagender aber sind die Stellen, an welchen er den ihm überlieferten Bibeltext zuerst bringt, dann aber ihn in seiner

---

1 „Quoniam" ist hier wie beim Bibeltext des Apostol. verräterisch. M. bietet nach Tert. Luk. 6, 20 zweimal: „Beati pauperes [‚mendici' setzt Tert. ein], quoniam illorum est Dei regnum"; aber wenn Tert. den Spruch von sich aus zitiert, schreibt er „quod" oder „enim" (s. de fuga 12; de pat. 11).

Sprache wiedergibt. Luk. 6, 24 hatte er (s. o.) durch „recipistis advocationem vestram" (IV, 15) wiedergegeben; aber das war ihm denn doch des Guten in wörtlicher Wiedergabe zuviel, und so leitete er es mit den Worten ein: „divites solatio iuvantur". In IV, 11 zu Luk. 5, 36 will er zeigen, daß Jesu' Art, „similitudines" zu geben, samt dem Wort selbst ATlich sei; infolgedessen zitiert er den Spruch Ps. 77, 2: „aperiam in parabolam os meum", und fügt hinzu: „id est similitudinem". Also bot ihm sein Text den Spruch Luk. 5, 36 nicht: „ἔλεγε δὲ καὶ παραβολήν, sondern „dicebat autem et similitudinem"; sonst hätte er selbst das Wort „parabola" beibehalten, das er ja so oft braucht, und sich, den Beweis ersparen können. In IV, 21 gibt er den Text (Luk. 9, 24): „qui voluerit animam salvam facere", aber er selbst ersetzt das dann durch „servare". Besonders schlagend ist IV, 23 die Wiedergabe von Luk. 9, 41; hier bietet er: „O genitura incredula, quousque ero apud vos?" Dieses stümpernd wörtliche und in der gebildeten Sprache hier unstatthafte „genitura" (= γενέα) ersetzt er aber sofort, indem er zehn Zeilen darauf gut lateinisch schreibt und auch sonst verbessert: „O natio incredula, quamdiu ero vobiscum". Man beachte endlich auch, daß sein Text ihm überall „beati" (= μακάριοι) bot, daß ihm aber dieses durch die Kirche geadelte profane Wort noch nicht ganz genehm war; er ersetzt es durch „felices", wenn er selbst spricht (s. IV, 25 zu Luk. 10, 23 und IV, 26 zu Luk. 11, 28).

Nun glaubt man aber, an einer Stelle nachweisen zu können, daß der Text dem Tert. griechisch vorgelegen habe. Zu Luk. 6,20 schreibt Tert. (IV, 14): „ ‚Beati mendici' — sic enim exigit interpretatio vocabuli quod in Graeco est — ‚quoniam illorum est dei regnum.' " Genau betrachtet aber ist es auch an dieser Stelle viel wahrscheinlicher, daß er einen lateinischen Text vor sich hatte, der ihm nicht „mendicus", sondern, wie alle lateinischen Zeugen, „pauper" bot. Da er aber um der ATlichen Weissagung willen (Ps. 81, 3 f.; 71, 4; 71, 12 ff.; Ps. 9, 18 ff.; 112, 5 ff.; I Kön. 2, 8; Jes. 3, 14 f.; 10, 1 f.; alle diese Stellen zitiert er und in allen steht „mendicus") auf „mendicus" herauskommen wollte, so führte er von sich aus dieses Wort hier ein als das nach dem ihm geläufigen griechischen Original zutreffende Wort. Übersetzte er dagegen selber frei, so brauchte er keine Umstände zu machen, sondern konnte einfach ohne Begründung schreiben: „Beati mendici[1]."

Somit darf man sich auf diese Stelle nicht berufen, und es muß daher anerkannt werden, daß dem Tert. wie das Marcionitische Apostol., so auch das Evang. bereits in lateinischer Sprache vorgelegen hat.

Tert.s Widerlegung M.s in diesem Buch ist gewiß ein Originalwerk; allein durch Vergleichung einiger Stellen mit solchen bei Irenäus, Origenes, Ephraem und Epiphanius ergibt sich, daß Tert. schon eine Streitschrift gegen M. gekannt haben muß, die bereits Gegenausführungen zu den Marcionitischen Auslegungen des Ev.s enthalten hat. Leider aber ist die Zahl dieser Stellen so gering und das Zusammentreffen auf so kurze Sätzchen beschränkt, daß sich Schlüsse in bezug auf diese ältere Streitschrift nicht ziehen lassen.

2. Adamantius.

Nach dem oben S. 56* ff. über diesen Zeugen Ausgeführten bedarf es hier keiner weiteren Untersuchung. Daß sein Zeugnis in der Regel von geringerem Belang ist als das des Tert. und Epiphanius, gilt auch hier, da er nicht aus M. selbst, sondern aus Gegenschriften geschöpft hat; auch bleibt es an mehreren Stellen unsicher, ob sie überhaupt aus M.s Evang. stammen. Dazu kommt, daß Zitate aus einem Synoptiker stets unsicherer sind als die aus den Briefen. Daß der Grundtext und die lateinische Übersetzung Rufins öfters erheblich auseinandergehen, erhöht noch die Schwierigkeiten der Verwertung. Die Zitate aus dem 2. Dialog sind, wie bei dem Apostol., die zuverlässigsten. An einigen Stellen muß man zu der Entscheidung kommen, daß der Marcionitische Text selbst Veränderungen erlitten hat.

1 Wie sich Tert.s eigene Zitate des Lukas-Ev. und der Paulusbriefe zu denen aus der lateinischen Marcionitischen Bibel verhalten, ist hier nicht zu untersuchen. Wenn sich meine auf unvollständiger Durchsicht beruhende Vermutung bestätigen sollte, daß Tert.s Zitate in den letzten Schriften den Marcionitischen näher stehen als die in den früheren, daß aber diese wie jene nicht dem textus Africanus, sondern dem Italus angehören, wäre eine wichtige Einsicht für die Geschichte des lateinischen Bibeltextes gewonnen.

3. Epiphanius.

Das Zeugnis des Epiphanius (s. o. S. 64* ff.) ist für das Evang. noch wichtiger als für das Apostol., denn er hat 78 (77) Stellen ausgezogen (dort nur 40). Von diesen 78 Stellen enthalten 35 Angaben über Änderungen M.s am Text, sei es durch Auslassungen, sei es durch Korrekturen. Da Tert. beim Evang. sehr viel seltener als beim Apostol. Auslassungen vermerkt hat, so sind diese Angaben des Epiph. von unschätzbarem Wert; ohne sie wäre unsere Kenntnis des Marcionitischen Verfahrens sehr viel dürftiger. Die übrigen Auszüge — sie sind meistens umfangreicher als die vorigen — hatte sich Epiph. gemacht, um die Lehren M.s aus ihrer Grundlage zu widerlegen; aber auch sie sind für die Feststellung des Textes nicht unwichtig. Flüchtigkeiten und Mißverständnisse fehlen nicht, weil Epiph. das Material schon geraume Zeit vor der Abfassung des Panarion gesammelt hatte und es selbst bei der nachträglichen Verwertung nicht überall mehr verstand. Was hier zu berichtigen war, ist durch Zahn und Holl geschehen. Auch das kommt vor, daß er M. Fälschungen vorwirft, wo dieser doch nur einen auch sonst bezeugten Text geboten hat. Über die Auszüge aus der Marcionitischen Bibel hinaus bietet Epiph. auch in dem großen Kapitel gegen M. sonst noch einiges Material für die Feststellung des Marcionitischen Ev. Textes; es ist aus älteren Streitschriften geflossen. Näheres läßt sich leider nicht sagen.

4.

Sicher ist, daß Irenäus die Bibel Marcions gekannt hat (Iren. I, 27), und dasselbe gilt von Origenes (wohl auch von Hippolyt) und von Isidor von Pelusium (s. ep. I, 371). Dagegen ist es mindestens zweifelhaft, ob Adamantius selbst das Evangelium M.s in Händen gehabt hat oder nur seine Vorgänger, die er ausschreibt; Hieronymus kannte es nicht. Wie lange es sich nach Theodorets Zeit noch erhalten hat, der in seiner Diözese eine sehr große Anzahl von Exemplaren vernichtete, wissen wir nicht. Im Reiche führten die kaiserlichen Gebote, die Codices der Häretiker seien zu verbrennen (s. Arcad. et Honor. ann. 398; Theodos. Codex XVI, 5, 14), allmählich den Untergang herbei. Doch wird sich das Evangelium so lange erhalten haben, wie die Sekte selbst.

5.

Daß das Evangelium auch ins Syrische übersetzt war, folgt aus der Verbreitung der Marcionitischen Kirche im Osten. Eingesehen haben es Ephraem und oberflächlich der Verf. der syrischen (armenisch-erhaltenen) antimarcionitischen Erklärung von Parabeln des Herrn. Er weiß, daß es mit der Zeit des Pilatus begonnen hat, ferner daß Stellen aus Johannes in ihm nicht gestanden haben, und daß sich Luk. 5, 34 in dem Ev. fand. Aber dem Text dieses Spruchs gibt er, wie die katholischen Syrer ihn lasen (μὴ δύνασθε τοὺς υἱοὺς . . . ποιῆσαι) und nicht wie M. ihn las (μὴ δύνανται οἱ υἱοί). Hier wie sonst sind Schäfers' Behauptungen (S. 208 ff.) nicht stichhaltig, dieser syrische Polemiker habe seine Zitate z. T. nach M.s Bibel gegeben [1]. Ich habe die evangelischen Zitate, die in der Schrift vorkommen, durchgesehen und bin nirgends auf Textfassungen gestoßen, die Marcionitisch sind oder sein könnten. Zitiert er doch auch (S. 38f). das Gleichnis von den schlimmen Weingärtnern (Luk. 20, 9 ff.), das M. sicher gestrichen hatte. Interessant ist, daß er das bekannte Apokryphon [2]: Ὁ ἐγγύς μου ἐγγὺς τοῦ πυρός [3], ὁ δὲ μακρὰν ἀπ' ἐμοῦ, μακρὰν ἀπὸ τῆς ζωῆς (so, und nicht wie sonst: τῆς βασιλείας), zitiert (S. 79); aber hier behauptet auch Schäfers nicht, daß es aus M.s Ev. stammt.

Aus Ephraem läßt sich nur eine geringe Ausbeute für den Text gewinnen.

Wie beim Apostolikon, so hat man auch beim Evangelium keine Gewähr, daß alle Korrekturen von Marcion selbst stammen; selbst die Fassung, wie sie bei Tert. vorliegt, kann schon Korrekturen der Schüler enthalten.

B. ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΟΝ.

III, 1 a Ἐν τῷ ιε' ἔτει Τιβερίου Καίσαρος ἐπὶ τῶν χρόνων Πιλάτου
IV, 31 κατῆλθεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς (Χριστὸς[Ἰησοῦς]?) (ἀπὸ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ?)

---

1 Schäfers hält Luk. 5, 34 μὴ δύνασθε τοὺς υἱοὺς . . . ποιῆσαι νηστεύειν für den Marcionitischen Text; denn Tert. zitiere nicht genau; allein der 𝔚Text, mit dem M. so häufig zusammengeht (bzw. zu dem M.s Text gehört) liest μὴ δύνανται οἱ υἱοὶ νηστεύειν.

2 S. Texte u. Unters. Bd. 42 H. 3 S. 20, H. 4 S. 41.

3 Daß auch hier πυρός steht, entscheidet nicht (gegen Schäfers) gegen die Konjektur πατρός, die sich aufdrängt.

εἰς Καφαρναούμ, (πόλιν τῆς Γαλιλαίας [Ἰουδαίας]?) καὶ ἦν διδάσκων (αὐτοὺς?) ἐν τῇ συναγωγῇ· IV, 32 ἐξεπλήσσοντο δὲ πάντες ἐπὶ τῇ διδαχῇ αὐτοῦ, ὅτι ἐν ἐξουσίᾳ ἦν ὁ λόγος αὐτοῦ. 33—35 Die Geschichte von der Heilung des Dämonischen; aber erhalten sind nur die

---

Titel: Er lautete wahrscheinlich so einfach. Das ergibt sich daraus, daß (1) Tert. (IV, 2) ausdrücklich sagt, M. habe seinem Evangelium keinen Autornamen gegeben, auch nicht den des Paulus, (2) der Marcionit Megethius auf die Frage nach dem Verfasser des Evangeliums antwortete „Christus", aber in die Enge getrieben, nun Paulus für den Verfasser ausgibt (Adamant., Dial. I, 8; so auch das Carmen adv. Marc. II, 29), (3) der Marcionit Markus Christus als Verfasser nennt (l. c. II, 13 f.), (4) Epiphanius (haer. 42, 10; Holl Bd. II, S. 106) bemerkt, er habe die beiden Bücher M.s in der Hand gehabt, τό τε παρ' αὐτῷ λεγόμενον ‚Εὐαγγέλιον' καὶ ⟨τὸ⟩ ‚Ἀποστολικὸν' καλούμενον, (4) der Fihrist (s. Flügel, Mani S. 160) erzählt: „M. verfaßte ein Buch, welches er ‚Evangelium' nannte." Darnach ist es nur möglich, nicht wahrscheinlich, daß „τοῦ Χριστοῦ" neben Εὐαγγέλιον gestanden hat. Vielleicht trat es in einigen Exemplaren später hinzu. — R. Harris meint gewiß mit Unrecht, daß das Jubelwort über das Evangelium hierher gehört und nicht zu den Antithesen.

Daß die ganze Geburtsgeschichte Jesu (inkl. der Beschneidung IV, 7 usw.) von M. gestrichen war, sagt Tert. wiederholt; daß das Vorwort und alle Abschnitte in Luk. 1, 2 gefehlt haben, aber auch die Genealogien und die Taufe Jesu, bemerkt Epiphanius (42, 11, S. 107, vgl. zu dem Fehlen der Genealogien auch Isidor v. Pelusium, ep. I 371); daß die Versuchungsgeschichte fehlte, folgt aus Tert. adv. Marc. V, 6 und aus Epiph. haer. 42, 11, S. 147 f. [Ganz allgemein sagt das Carmen adv. Marc., das Evangelium M.s sei „sine principio" (II, 26)]. An dieser Stelle gibt Epiph. den Anfang des Evangeliums M.s urkundlich: ‚Ἐν τῷ ιε' ἔτει Τιβερίου Καίσαρος', leider bricht er mit καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς ab. Den Anfang bezeugen mit Fortführungen, in denen aber nur referiert wird, Irenäus (I, 27, 2: „Iesum autem ab eo patre, qui est super mundi fabricatorem deum, venientem in Iudaeam temporibus Pontii Pilati praesidis, qui fuit procurator Tiberii Caesaris"; daß der Kaisername bei M. stand, geht deutlicher aus Iren. IV, 6, 1 hervor), Tertullian (I, 19: „Anno XV. Tiberii Christus Iesus de caelo manare dignatus est, spiritus salutaris Marcionis", vgl. I, 15: „Quale est, ut dominus anno XV. Tiberii Caesaris revelatus sit?" IV, 7: „Anno XV. principatus Tiberii proponit eum (vorher „Christum") descendisse in civitatem Galilaeae Capharnaum, utique de caelo creatoris, in quod de suo ante descenderat [darauf noch einmal „Galilaea" und mehrmals „de caelo"] ..... de caelo statim in synagogam" ... dann als Zitat: „venit in synagogam"), Hippol. (Philos. VII, 31: χωρὶς γεννήσεως ἔτει ιε' τῆς ἡγεμονίας Τιβερίου Καίσαρος κατεληλυθότα αὐτὸν ἄνωθεν ... διδάσκειν ἐν ταῖς συναγωγαῖς — das hat Hipp. nicht von Iren., sondern aus einer Worte: τί ἡμῖν καὶ σοί, Ἰησοῦ; ἦλθες ἀπολέσαι ἡμᾶς. οἶδα τίς εἶ, ὁ ἅγιος τοῦ θεοῦ ... ἐπετίμησεν αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησοῦς. Über die Verse 36. 37 (Der Eindruck dieser Heilung) und 38. 39 (Heilung der Schwiegermutter des Petrus) ist nichts bekannt. Hierauf folgte IV, 16—30: Das Auftreten in Nazareth (ἐλθὼν δὲ εἰς Ναζαρέθ, anderen Quelle), Origenes (Comm. in Tit., T. V p. 283 ff. . . . . „non de virgine natum, sed XXX annorum virum eum apparuisse in Iudaea"), Adamantius (Dial. II, 3: ἔτει ιε' Τιβερίου Καίσαρος ἐπὶ τῶν χρόνων Πιλάτου κατῆλθεν. II, 19: ἐπὶ Τιβερίου κατελθὼν ἐφάνη ἐν Καφαρναούμ), Ephraem (Evang., Concord. Expos. p. 130: „Nec coeperat docere extra synagogam, sed in synagoga") und ein Anonymus (Syr. M.s Brit. Mus. Add. 17 215, vgl. Academy 21. Okt. 1893): „Marcion said, that our Lord was not born of woman, but stole the place of the creator and cam down and appeared first between Ierusalem and Iericho, like a son of man in form and in image and in likeness, yet without our body"). Woher die Kunde stammt, Jesus sei zuerst zwischen Jerusalem und Jericho erschienen, habe ich nicht ermitteln können. Nach den gegebenen Texten ist ἐπὶ τῶν χρόνων Πιλάτου wahrscheinlich und auch ἀπὸ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, da Tert. diese Worte paraphrasiert; das „utique" bezieht sich wohl nicht auf „de caelo", sondern auf „creatoris". Zu beachten ist, daß M. die Datierungen nach den jüdischen Größen getilgt hat. Da Adamantius nur Kapernaum nennt, Tert. Galiläa hinzufügt, Irenäus und Orig. Judäa bringen und der Anonymus letztere LA stützt, so scheint gefolgert werden zu müssen, daß M. nur Kapernaum bot; allein möglich ist, daß Adamantius den Text bei Kapernaum abbrach, und dann hat „Judäa" mehr Wahrscheinlichkeit als Galiläa. Es kann auch in der Erklärung (Antithesen) gestanden haben. Ἐν τοῖς σάββασιν (Luk. 4, 31) ist für M. unbezeugt. Daß Christus aus seinem Himmel durch den des Weltschöpfers auf die Erde gekommen ist, bemerkt Tert. nach M. öfters (s. z. B. IV, 22: „quia et ipse per caelum creatoris viam ruperat"). Da dies nur in einer Auslegung M.s gestanden haben kann, so muß es auch offen bleiben, ob ἀπὸ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ im Eingang des Ev.s gestanden hat. Doch hat M. in Luk. 21, 27 auch ἀπὸ τῶν οὐρανῶν eingesetzt. Endlich, im Ev. hatte M. sicher nur κατῆλθεν (dies Wort auch durch Esnik bezeugt: „Da stieg Jesus zum zweiten Mal herab"); aber in einer beigegebenen Erklärung, bezw. in den Antithesen, muß auch ἐφάνη gestanden haben; denn es ist durch Irenäus, Tert., Orig. und Adamantius bezeugt. — Daß Pilatus im Eingang des Evangeliums genannt war, bezeugt auch der unbekannte Syrer.

---

Cap. IV, 32 Tert. IV, 7: „Stupebant autem omnes ad doctrinam eius, quoniam in potestate erat sermo eius." δὲ πάντες sonst zweimal bezeugt > καί (doch ist δέ nicht sicher) — IV, 13 wiederholt Tert. den Spruch, aber nach Matth. (Mark.): „Obstupescebant in doctrina eius; erat enim docens tamquam virtutem habens".

ὅπου ἦν κατὰ τὸ εἰωθός, ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῶν σαββάτων εἰς τὴν συναγωγήν, spätere Marcioniten setzten dafür „Bethsaida"); aber es war verkürzt und enthielt wahrscheinlich nur die Mitteilung, daß Jesus dort durch eine Predigt die Juden erzürnt habe, sowie den Parabelspruch (v. 23): ἰατρέ, θεράπευσον σεαυτόν, hierauf folgte der Versuch, Jesum vom Berg herabzustürzen (ἐξέβαλον αὐτόν . . . ἤγαγον αὐτὸν ἕως τῆς ὀφρύος τοῦ ὄρους) und die Worte (v. 30): διὰ μέσον αὐτῶν ἐπορεύετο. Daran schloß sich v. 40—43 (Der Bericht über die Cap. IV, 34 Tert. IV, 7: „Quid nobis et tibi est, Iesu? venisti perdere nos; scio qui sis, sanctus dei . . . increpuit illum Iesus." ἔα fehlt mit D a b c e f ff² l q cop. — Ναζαρηνέ tendenziös gestrichen — οἶδα mit adv. Prax. 26 > οἶδά σε.

---

Cap. IV, 16—30: Tertullian IV, 7. 8. und Ephraem, Evang. Concord. Exp. p. 129, bezeugen diese Perikope für M., zugleich aber auch ihre Verkürzung. Aus Tert. folgt die merkwürdige Umstellung; aus Cod. D läßt sich IV, 16 die Fassung M.s mit einiger Wahrscheinlichkeit feststellen; denn in D ist hier ein Teil des Textes M.s erhalten, der durch Auslassung von τεθραμμένος und αὐτῷ in v. 16 einen ganz anderen Sinn erhält: Ἐλθὼν δὲ εἰς Ναζαρὲθ, ὅπου ἦν κατὰ τὸ εἰωθὸς ⟨εἰςῆλθεν⟩ (αὐτῷ fehlt auch in e a c d, und e läßt auch κατὰ τὸ εἰωθός aus und liest wie D ἐλθὼν δέ für καὶ ἦλθεν) ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῶν σαββάτων εἰς τὴς συναγωγήν. Ein Kabinettsstück der Textkritik M.s, s. R. Harris, Study of Cod. Bezae, in d. Texts a. Studies II, 1 p. 232; Plummer, Comm. on the Luke, 1896, p. 119. Nach M. durfte ja Jesus nicht in Nazareth erzogen sein und durfte auch nicht nach seiner Gewohnheit die Synagoge besuchen; Ephraem (nicht ganz klar überliefert): „Ex cultu eorum probatur, quod de deo eorum ad eos locutus est, secus enim extra synagogas eum praedicare oportuit. ingressus est in Bethsaida [Korrektur späterer Marcioniten, die jede Verbindung Jesu mit Nazareth abschneiden wollten] ad Iudaeos et nihil aliud in medium protulit, quod ad ipsum dixerunt, nisi hoc unum ‚Medice, cura te ipsum'. Et assumpserunt eum et foras duxerunt ad praecipitium montis. non est veresimile, quod hoc verbum Christi ad iram eos excitavit. at si de creatore ad eos locutus esset, et ideo ei hoc responsum dedissent et eduxissent eum, ut eum detruderent, cur alio in loco evangelista talia non indicat?" Tert. IV, 8: „Et tamen apud Nazareth quoque nihil novi notatur praedicasse, dum alio merito unius proverbii [Kroymann tilgt diese beiden Worte] eiectus refertur" . . . „manus ei iniectas" . . . „detentus et captus et ad praecipitium usque protractus" . . . „per medios evasit". Hiernach hat M. den Inhalt der Predigt nicht angegeben, sondern seinerseits aus dem üblen Erfolg geschlossen, daß sie sich gegen den Judengott gerichtet haben müsse. Daß der v. 27 hier fehlte und damit auch vieles andere, folgt aus der Fassung v. c. 17, 17 f. (s. dort). Die Perikope bezeugt für M. auch Hieron., Contra Johannem Hierosol. 34.

große Heilandstätigkeit und daß das Volk ihm selbst in die Wüste nachkam); erhalten ist ein Referat über v. 40. 41., dabei ἐξήρχετο δαιμόνια κράζοντα· Σὺ εἶ ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ. ἐπιτιμῶν οὐκ εἴα αὐτὰ λαλεῖν. Aus v. 42 ἐπορεύθη εἰς ἔρημον .. κατεῖχον αὐτόν, aus v. 43 Δεῖ με καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις (ἑτέραις?) πόλεσιν εὐαγγελίσασθαι τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ.

C. V. M. bot alle Erzählungen dieses Kapitels; aber im einzelnen ist nur weniges bekannt. v. 3 Σίμων. 9 Zittern des Kap. IV, 40—44: Tert. IV, 8: „Mox tetigit alios, quibus manus imponens beneficia medicinarum conferebat... a daemoniis liberare... spiritus nequam excedebant vociferantes: ‚Tu es filius dei‘ ... sed proinde increpabantur et iubebantur tacere... In solitudinem procedit... detentus a turbis ‚Oportet me‘, inquit, ‚et aliis civitatibus adnuntiare regnum dei‘ “. 41 σύ mit zahlreichen Lateinern > ὅτι σύ — Zahn nimmt das Fehlen von 41 fin. (ὅτι ᾔδεισαν τὸν Χριστὸν αὐτὸν εἶναι) als selbstverständlich an; ich sehe keinen Grund hierfür — 43 ἄλλαις (?) mit D d e (εἰς τὰς ἄλλας πόλεις) > ἑτέραις — δεῖ με mit BD, vielen Codd. Lat., vulg. > με δεῖ. Die Eröffnung des Satzes durch δεῖ με ist sonst unbezeugt; aber die Lateiner haben es wenigstens vor εὐαγγελίσασθαι, während die Stellung sonst: ὅτι καὶ τ. ἑτερ. πολ. εὐαγγ. με δεῖ τ. βασ. τ. θεοῦ.

---

Cap. V: Tert. IV, 9: v. 1—10: „Piscatura... in apostolos sumeret Simonem et filios Zebedaei ... (10) dicens Petro trepidanti de copiosa indagine piscium: ‚Ne time, abhinc enim homines eris capiens.‘ 11 denique ‚relictis‘ nauclis secuti sunt eum‘ ... 12—14 „leprosi purgatio“ ... 13 „tetigit leprosum“ 14 „vetuit divulgare ... ‚vade, ostende te sacerdoti et offer munus quod praecepit Moses, ut sit vobis in testimonium‘ “. Tert. (IV, 10) v. 17—26: „curatur et paralyticus, et quidem in coetu, spectante populo“. 21 „‚quis dimittet (bald darauf: „non posse hominem delicta dimittere“) peccata nisi solus deus?‘ “ 24 „filius hominis“ ... „peccata dimittere eius est“ (bald darauf „habere eum potestatem dimittendi delicta“; ausdrücklich bemerkt Tert., daß hier zum erstenmal im Ev. Jesus „Menschensohn“ heißt) ... „‚exurge et tolle grabbatum tuum‘ “. Tert. (IV, 11) v. 27—32: „Publicanum adlectum a domino“ ... 29. 30 „ethnicos et publicanos quos adlegebat“ ... 31 „medicum sanis non esse necessarium, sed male habentibus“. 33—35 „Unde autem et Iohannes venit in medium? subito Christus, subito Iohannes“ (also war bisher von ihm im Ev. nicht die Rede) ... „discipulos Christi manducantes et bibentes ... discipuli Johannis adsidue ieiunantes et orantes“. 34 „humiliter reddens rationem, quod non possent ieiunare filii sponsi, quamdiu cum eis esset sponsus, postea vero ieiunaturos promittens, cum ablatus ab eis sponsus esset, nec discipulos defendit, sed potius excusavit“ ... 36—38 „errasti in illa etiam domini pronuntiatione, qua videtur nova et vetera discernere. inflatus es utribus veteribus et excerebratus es novo vino, gewaltigen Fischzugs wegen. 10 υἱοὺς Ζεβεδαίου . . . μὴ φοβοῦ, ἀπὸ τοῦ νῦν γὰρ ἀνθρώπους ἔσῃ ζωγρῶν. 11 ἀφέντες ἠκολούθησαν αὐτῷ. 12 ἀνὴρ λεπρός. 13 ἥψατο. 14 ἄπελθε δεῖξον σεαυτὸν τῷ ἱερεῖ καὶ atque ita veteri, i. e. priori evangelio, pannum haereticae novitatis adsuisti" . . . „vinum novum is non committit in veteres utres, qui nec veteres utres habuerit, et novum additamentum nemo inicit veteri vestimento, nisi cui non defuerit et vetus vestimentum" . . . nachträglich: „in hoc dirigebat similitudinem". Im folgenden führt er aus, „similitudo" sei gleich „parabola", d. h. das Wort, welches in Ps. 77, 2 stehe; also hatte Tert. den Text lateinisch vor sich (s. o. S. 180*).

---

Epiphan.: Schol. 1: ,Ἀπελθὼν δεῖξον σεαυτὸν τῷ ἱερεῖ καὶ προσένεγκε περὶ τοῦ καθαρισμοῦ σου, καθὼς προσέταξε Μωϋσῆς· ἵνα ᾖ μαρτύριον τοῦτο ὑμῖν· — ἀνθ' οὗ εἶπεν ὁ σωτήρ· ,εἰς μαρτύριον αὐτοῖς·, (Luk. 5, 14). Schol. 2: ,Ἵνα δὲ εἰδῆτε ὅτι ἐξουσίαν ἔχει ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἀφιέναι ἁμαρτίας ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς· (Luk. 5, 24). S. 95 (c. 2): ,Οὐ βάλλουσιν οἶνον νέον εἰς ἀσκοὺς παλαιοὺς οὐδὲ ἐπίβλημα ῥάκους ἀγνάφου ἐπὶ ἱματίῳ παλαιῷ· εἰ δὲ μή γε, καὶ τὸ πλήρωμα αἴρει καὶ τῷ παλαιῷ οὐ συμφωνήσει. μεῖζον γὰρ σχίσμα γενήσεται' (nach Hippolyts Syntagma, vgl. Filastr. haer. 45: „Nemo pannum rudem mittit in vestimentum vetus neque vinum novum in utres veteres, alioquin rumpuntur utres et effunditur vinum").

Adamant II, 16: Λέγει γὰρ πάλιν ὁ σωτήρ· ,Βάλλουσιν οἶνον νέον εἰς ἀσκοὺς νέους καὶ ἀμφότεροι συντηροῦνται'. τὸ καινὸν οὐκ ἔστι πλήρωμα τοῦ παλαιοῦ· πάλιν γὰρ λέγει ὁ σωτήρ· ,Οὐδεὶς ἐπιβάλλει ἐπίβλημα ῥάκους ἀγνάφου ἱματίῳ παλαιῷ· (Rufin: „Dicit enim salvator quia ‚Si mittatur vinum novum in utres novos, utraque conservabuntur'. et iterum: „Nemo assuit assumentum panni rudis ad vestimentum vetus' ". Gleich darauf noch einmal: ,Οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἐπιβάλλει ἀπὸ ῥάκους ἀγνάφου ἐπὶ ἱματίῳ παλαιῷ· (Rufin: „Nemo assuit pannum rudem ad vestimentum vetus").

10 γάρ mit D e > fehlt.

12 λεπρός mit D d (leprosus) > πλήρης λέπρας. Zahn (Neue kirchl. Zeitschr. 1910 S. 512 f.) hat entdeckt, daß in einer lateinischen Predigt eines Arianers in einem Palimpsest von Bobbio (Mailand, Ambros. C. 73 inf., s. Mai, Script. Vet. Nova Coll. III, 2 p. 204 f.) auf M.s Auslegung dieser Perikope angespielt wird: „Erubescat Marcio, qui de hoc loco fantasmatis et putativi corporis adsumit defensionem: ‚Quia fantasmatis habuit corpus, ideo inquinari non potuit'. sed felix qui nos mundat, ipse non inquinatur". S. zu dieser Perikope auch das Fragment aus dem 6. Buch der Hypotyposen des Clemens (Stählin III H. S. 199), wo in v. 14 weder ὑμῖν noch αὐτοῖς steht.

14 ἄπελθε mit D a ital. vulg. > ἀπελθὼν (δεῖξον).

14 τὸ δῶρον mit Matth. Cod. X b c arm > fehlt (Epiph. wirft dem M. in der Refutatio Streichung vor; aber nach Tert. hatte er es; es ist wohl ein nachträgliches Versehen des Epiph. anzunehmen) — περὶ τοῦ καθα- προσένεγκε τὸ δῶρον (περὶ τοῦ καθαρισμοῦ σου?) ὃ προσέταξεν Μωϋσῆς, ἵνα ᾖ ὑμῖν ⟨τοῦτο⟩ εἰς μαρτύριον. 17 „coetus". 18 παραλελυμένος. 21 . . δύναται ἀφεῖναι ἁμαρτίας εἰ μὴ μόνος ὁ θεός. 24 ἵνα δὲ εἰδῆτε ὅτι ἐξουσίαν ἔχει ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἀφιέναι ἁμαρτίας ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς . . . ἔγειρε καὶ ἆρον τὸν κράββατόν σου. 27 τελώνης. 29. 30 μετὰ τῶν τελωνῶν. 31 οὐ χρείαν ἔχουσιν οἱ ὑγιαίνοντες ἰατροῦ ἀλλὰ οἱ κακῶς ἔχοντες. 33 οἱ μαθηταὶ Ἰωάννου πυκνὰ νηστεύουσιν καὶ δεήσεις ποιοῦνται. (Christi Jünger) ἐσθίουσιν καὶ πίνουσιν. 34 μὴ δύνανται νηστεύειν οἱ υἱοὶ τοῦ νυμφῶνος, ἐφ' ὅσον μετ' αὐτῶν ἐστιν ὁ νύμφιος. 35 ὅταν ἀπαρθῇ ἀπ' αὐτῶν ὁ νύμφιος . . . νηστεύσουσιν. 36 παραβολήν. Der nun folgende Spruch von den Schläuchen und dem Gewand (in dieser sonst nicht bezeugten Reihenfolge) ist im Wortlaut genau nicht mehr festzustellen; sicher aber ist, daß M. νέους ρισμοῦ σου fehlte vielleicht in Tert.s Exemplar, aber in dem des Epiphanius stand es — ἵνα ᾖ εἰς mit D a b c e f ff² g¹·² l q Ambros. > εἰς — ὑμῖν die vorigen ohne f g¹·² > αὐτοῖς. Da eben diese Zeugen τοῦτο („istud") (Stellung wechselnd) hinzufügen, ist es wahrscheinlich, daß dies Wort bei Tert. ausgefallen ist, da es ja auch Epiph. für M. bietet. Dagegen las Epiph. bei M. εἰς nicht.

24 ἆρον mit ℵD a b c f ff² g¹ l q vulg. > ἆρας — τὸν κράβαττον mit D c cop. τὸ κλινίδιον. Nach den Acta Archel. 44, deren Antithesen wahrscheinlich Marcionitische sind, hat sich das an einem Sabbat abgespielt.

30 „Ethnici et publicani" Tert. > τελῶναι καὶ ἁμαρτωλοί, aber das ist freies Referat.

33 Ist es nicht eine spätere Marcionitische LA, daß in D e statt ἐσθίουσιν καὶ πί ουσιν steht: οὐδὲν τούτων ποιοῦσιν? Auf 33—35 bei M. spielt auch Ephraem an; s. Lied 47, 2 f. gegen die Ketzer.

34 μὴ δύνανται mit ℵ*D a b c e ff² g¹ aeth. Matth. Mark. > μὴ δύνασθε (M. las ποιῆσαι nicht, mit denselben Zeugen) — ἐφ' ὅσον mit D e und Matth. > ἐν ᾧ. Als von M. gelesen wird dieser Spruch auch beglaubigt von einem unbekannten syrischen Schriftsteller (S c h ä f e r s , Eine altsyrische, antimarcionitische Erklärung von Parabeln des Herrn usw., 1917, S. 59 f.).

36—38 Vgl. noch Tert. III, 15: „Quomodo docet novam plagulam non adsui veteri vestimento, nec vinum novum veteribus utribus credi?" — 38 βάλλουσιν mit ℵ*D a b c e f ff² g¹ l q > βλητέον. Die Fassung des Doppelspruchs ist durch Matth. beeinflußt. Z a h n restituiert: Οὐ βάλλουσιν οἶνον νέον εἰς ἀσκοὺς παλαιούς, (ἀλλὰ) βάλλουσιν οἶνον νέον εἰς ἀσκοὺς νέους, καὶ ἀμφότεροι συντηροῦνται· (καὶ) οὐδεὶς ἐπιβάλλει ἐπίβλημα ῥάκους ἀγνάφου ἐπὶ ἱματίῳ παλαιῷ· εἰ δὲ μήγε καὶ τὸ πλήρωμα αἴρει καὶ τῷ παλαιῷ οὐ συμφωνήσει· μεῖζον γὰρ σχίσμα γενήσεται. Auch Ephraem, Sermo 44, bezeugt den Spruch für M.

statt καινούς gelesen hat, wahrscheinlich, daß der Satz καὶ οἱ ἀσκοὶ ἀπολοῦνται fehlte und daß er in v. 38 βάλλουσιν las. 39 fehlte.

C. VI: 1—5 M. bot die Geschichte vom Ährenausraufen. Genau feststellen läßt sich nur 1 ἐν σαββάτῳ . . ἐπείνασαν οἱ μαθηταί, ἔτιλλον τοὺς στάχυας ψώχοντες ταῖς χερσὶν (εἰργάσαντο βρῶσιν?). 2 Φαρισαῖοι. 3 ὁ Χριστός. . . οὐδὲ τοῦτο ἀνέγνωτε τί ἐποίησε Δαυίδ; . . . καὶ οἱ μετ' αὐτοῦ ὄντες. 4 εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τὸν οἶκον τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ τοὺς ἄρτους τῆς προθέσεως ἔλαβεν καὶ ἔφαγεν καὶ ἔδωκεν (καὶ εἰργάσατο βρῶσιν?). 6—11 Der Mann mit der verdorrten Hand. 6 χεὶρ ξηρά. 7 παρετηροῦντο . . . Φαρισαῖοι (das Folgende wesentlich identisch). 9 (ἐπερωτῶ) εἰ ἔξεστιν τοῖς σάββασιν (τῷ σαββάτῳ?) ἀγαθοποιῆσαι ἢ μή; ψυχὴν σῶσαι ἢ ἀπολέσαι; 5 (καὶ ἔλεγεν αὐτοῖς ὅτι) κύριός ἐστιν ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καὶ τοῦ σαββάτου. 12 Er geht zum

---

39 Wird für M. nicht bezeugt; der Vers muß gefehlt haben, wie er auch in D a b c e ff2* l und, wie es scheint, auch bei Euseb. gefehlt hat. Er ist echt und von Marcion gestrichen, und dies ist in die abendländische Überlieferung eingedrungen.

C. VI: Tert. IV, 12 bezeugt, daß v. 1 ff. erhalten war: „Esurierant discipuli sabbato spicas decerptas manibus effrixerant, cibum operati ferias ruperunt. excusat illos Christus et reus est sabbati laesi; accusant Pharisaei . . . quasi de exemplo David, introgressi sabbatis templum et operati cibum audenter fractis panibus propositionis . . . David comitesque eius cum discipulis suis aequat in culpa et in venia". Zweimal „operati cibum". Daher scheint dieser Ausdruck (s. Joh. 6, 27) bei M. gestanden zu haben. Lukas selbst dachte an eine sakramentale Handlung, und dies hat M. richtig verstanden und verstärkt. Das „Hungern" steht nur Matth. 12, 1—3. Χριστός mit Codd. Afric. > Ἰησοῦς—Epiph., Schol. 21: οὐδὲ τοῦτο ἀνέγνωτε, τί ἐποίησε Δαυίδ; . . . εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τὸν οἶκον τοῦ θεοῦ— τί sonst zweimal bezeugt > ὅ — 4 ὡς vor εἰσῆλθεν scheint mit BD gefehlt zu haben — „sabbatis" bei Tert. ist ein leicht verständliches Versehen — 5 Epiph. Schol. 3: κύριός ἐστιν ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καὶ τοῦ σαββάτου. Dieser Vers steht in D erst nach v. 10; dort erst hatte ihn auch M.; denn Tert. zitiert ihn nach v. 9: „dominus sabbati dictus" — ὁ υἱὸς τ. ἀνθρ. vorangestellt mit ADLR etc. ital. vulg. > ℵB.

6 f. Tert. IV, 12: „Manum aridam curans . . . Observant Pharisaei, si medicinas sabbatis ageret, ut accusarent eum".

9 L. c.: „Interrogat, licetne sabbatis benefacere an non? animam liberare an perdere?" — μή allein > κακοποιῆσαι (ob Tert. nicht willkürlich verkürzt hat?).

12 Tert. (IV, 13): „Ascendit in montem et illic pernoctat in oratione et utique auditur a patre". Die sonst allein überlieferte LA ist τοῦ θεοῦ (Tert. mag hier nur referieren).

Gebet ins Gebirge: εἰς τὸ ὄρος προσεύξασθαι ... διανυκτερεύων ἐν τῇ προσευχῇ τοῦ πατρός (τοῦ θεοῦ?).

13—19 Apostelwahl und Zudrang des Volkes. 13 ἐκλεξάμενος δώδεκα . . ἀποστόλους. 14 Σίμωνα ... ὠνόμασεν Πέτρον. 16 Ἰούδαν Ἰσκαριώτην, ὃς ἐγένετο προδότης. 17 κατέβη ἐν αὐτοῖς ... πλῆθος (πολὺ) ἀπὸ τῆς (παραλίου?) Τύρου καὶ ἄλλων τε χωρῶν (πόλεων?) καὶ τῆς περαίας ἐληλυθότων. 19 καὶ πᾶς ὁ ὄχλος ἐζήτει ἅπτεσθαι αὐτοῦ.

20—23 Die Seligpreisungen. 20 μακάριοι οἱ πτωχοί, ὅτι αὐτῶν ἐστιν ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ. 21 μακάριοι οἱ πεινῶντες, ὅτι χορτασθή-

---

13 L. c.: „Cur autem duodecim apostolos elegit?" — 14 L. c.: „Mutat et Petro nomen de Simone" — 16 so Epiphan., Schol. 4 wörtlich — 17 Epiphan., Schol. 4: ἀντὶ δὲ τοῦ ‚κατέβη μετ' αὐτῶν' ἔχει ‚κατέβη ἐν αὐτοῖς' (sonst unbezeugt > μετ' αὐτῶν; auf die altlateinisch bezeugte LA κατέβη ist vielleicht kein Gewicht zu legen) — „Conveniunt a Tyro et ex aliis regionibus multitudo, etiam transmarina". Der am stärksten bezeugte Text lautet: πλῆθος πολὺ τοῦ λαοῦ ἀπὸ πάσης τῆς Ἰουδαίας καὶ Ἱερουσαλὴμ καὶ τῆς παραλίου Τύρου καὶ Σιδῶνος οἳ ἦλθον ἀκοῦσαι κτλ. (so auch vulg.); aber ℵ* bietet τοῦ λαοῦ nicht und fügt zu Ἱεροσ· hinzu καὶ περαίας. D bietet statt der Worte καὶ Ἱερουσ. bis ἦλθον vielmehr καὶ ἄλλων πόλεων ἐληλυθότων, die Codd. a b c ff.[2] l q fügen wie ℵ* „trans fretum" hinzu; arm.: „et ex alia regione". M.s Text lautete daher wahrscheinlich wie oben. — 19 Epiph., Schol. 5 wörtlich. Daraus, daß Epiphanius sofort 20 a folgen läßt, folgt nicht, daß 19 b gefehlt hat.

20 Tert. IV, 14: „Venio nunc ad ordinarias sententias eius, per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit, ad edictum, ut ita dixerim, Christi: ‚Beati mendici' — sic enim exigit interpretatio vocabuli quod in Graeco est — ‚quoniam illorum est dei regnum' ". Hieraus folgt, daß Tert. einen Bibeltext, der „mendici" bot, nicht kannte („pauperes" hieß es allgemein), daß er aber (s. seine Ausführung im folgenden) auf das präzise „mendici" Gewicht legte (um der Weissagung willen) und es daher hier einführte. Bei der zweiten, sonst identischen Zitierung des Spruchs sagt Tert. nicht „dei", sondern „caelorum" — αὐτῶν mit Matth. (Luk.: ὅτι ὑμετέρα ἐστὶν ἡ βασ. τ ϑ.).

21. L. c.: „Beati esurientes, quoniam saturabuntur" (zweimal; das zweitemal „qui esuriunt"); beeinflußt durch Matth. (Luk.: μακ. οἱ πειν. νῦν, ὅτι χορτασθήσεσθε) — πειν. mit c l > πειν. νῦν — χορτασθήσονται mit ℵ*X b e ff[2] g[1] l q arm Ambros. > χορτασθήσεσθε — Tert., l. c. . . „beati plorantes, quia ridebunt" (an der zweiten Stelle: „qui plorant" und „quoniam"); auch hier fehlt νῦν (fast ohne sonstige Zeugen) und γελάσουσιν mit e g[1] arm Orig. Euseb. > γελάσετε.

σονται. μακάριοι οἱ κλαίοντες, ὅτι γελάσουσιν. 22 μακάριοι ἔσεσθε, ὅταν ὑμᾶς μισήσουσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι καὶ ὀνειδίσουσιν καὶ ἐκβαλοῦσιν τὸ ὄνομα ὑμῶν ὡς πονηρὸν ἕνεκα τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, 23[b] κατὰ ταῦτα (ταὐτὰ?) ἐποίουν τοῖς προφήταις οἱ πατέρες αὐτῶν (ὑμῶν).

24—26 Die Wehes. 24 οὐαὶ τοῖς πλουσίοις, ὅτι ἀπέχετε τὴν παράκλησιν ὑμῶν. 25 οὐαὶ οἱ ἐμπεπλησμένοι, ὅτι πεινάσετε, οὐαὶ οἱ γελῶντες νῦν, ὅτι πενθήσετε. 26 οὐαὶ ὅταν ὑμᾶς καλῶς εἴπωσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι· κατὰ ταῦτα ἐποίουν καὶ τοῖς ψευδοπροφήταις οἱ πατέρες αὐτῶν.

27—38 Die neuen Gebote. 27 Ἀλλὰ ὑμῖν λέγω, τοῖς ἀκούουσιν·

---

22 l. c.: „Beati eritis, cum vos odio habebunt homines et exprobrabunt et eicient nomen vestrum velut nequam propter filium hominis“ — ἔσεσθε sonst unbezeugt > ἔστε — Stellung von ὑμᾶς sonst unbezeugt — ἀφορίσουσιν ὑμᾶς fehlt (unbezeugt) — das Futur. mit DXP Δ > den Conjunct. — ὀνειδ. vor ἐκβαλ. mit der Mehrzahl und e f g vulg. > D a b c ff[2] l q Cypr. — Über ein eigenartiges Zitat des Clemens Alex., Strom. IV, 6, 41, das früher hierher gezogen wurde, s. die am Schluß stehende Untersuchung zum Ev. des M. (letzter Absatz).

23 Da Tert. hier genau dem Texte folgt, aber 23 a ausläßt, fehlte es, und das folgt auch aus der Tendenz Marcions (χάρητε ἐν ἐκείνῃ τ. ἡμέρᾳ κ. σκιρτήσατε· ἰδοὺ γὰρ ὁ μισθὸς ὑμῶν πολὺς ἐν τ. οὐρανῷ) — Tert. IV, 15: „‚secundum haec‘, inquit, ‚faciebant prophetis patres eorum‘“. Wörtlich bei Epiph., Schol. 6 (ταὐτά), aber ὑμῶν für αὐτῶν. — Ob γάρ mit D a ff[2] l Ambros. gefehlt hat?

24—26 Tert. IV, 15: „Demutat in maledictionem . . . ‚vae‘ enim dicit . . . Quomodo non eiusdem sit divites reprobare, qui supra mendicos probarit? . . . sed accidentia vitia divitiis illa in evangelio quoque ‚Vae divitibus‘ adscribunt, ‚quoniam‘, inquit, ‚recepistis advocationem vestram‘“. Ob πλήν und ὑμῖν gefehlt haben, bleibt ungewiß; die Stelle wird zweimal zitiert — 25 l. c.: „Ingerit ‚vae‘ etiam ‚saturatis, quia esurient, etiam ridentibus nunc, quia lugebunt‘“. Das erste „nunc“ vor „saturatis“ fehlte mit sehr vielen Zeugen (ital. vulg.). Tert. gibt hier nur ein Referat; doch fehlt auch in X καὶ κλαύσετε. — 26 Tert. IV, 15: „Vae, cum vobis benedixerint homines secundum haec faciebant et pseudoprophetis patres illorum“. Οὐαί mit der Mehrzahl und vulg. > οὐαὶ ὑμῖν D Δ und nicht wenige Zeugen — ὑμᾶς vorangestellt mit B e q tol., nach καλῶς die meisten (auch D und ital.), nach εἴπωσιν ℵAHL — οἱ mit DF[w] L usw. > πάντες οἱ die Mehrzahl, ital., vulg. — ταῦτα mit vielen Zeugen und der größeren Zahl der Ital. Codd. > τὰ αὐτά BD a c e usw. — ἐποίουν mit D ital. vulg. > γὰρ ἐποίουν — καί mit b Iren. > fehlt — ψευδοπροφήταις mit der größten Mehrheit > προφήταις ℵ[1] (bzw. ℵ[ca]) 243 f g[1] l vulg.

27. 28 Tert. IV, 16: „‚Sed vobis dico‘, inquit, ‚qui auditis: diligite inimicos vestros et benedicite eos, qui vos oderunt, et orate pro eis, qui vos

ἀγαπᾶτε τοὺς ἐχθροὺς ὑμῶν καὶ εὐλογεῖτε τοὺς μισοῦντας ὑμᾶς, 28 καὶ προσεύχεσθε περὶ τῶν ἐπηρεαζόντων ὑμᾶς. 29 ἐάν τίς σε ῥαπίσῃ εἰς τὴν σιαγόνα, παράθες (πρόσθες?) αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην, καὶ ἐάν τίς σου ἄρῃ τὸν χιτῶνα, πρόσθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὸ ἱμάτιον. 30 παντὶ (τῷ?) αἰτοῦντί σε δίδου (30 b ist unbezeugt). 31 καὶ καθὼς ὑμῖν γίνεσθαι θέλετε calumniantur.' " Das Zitat in dieser Verkürzung gleich darauf noch einmal (als Referat); also war wirklich Glied zwei und drei (so Lukas) in eines zusammengezogen. Daß Tert. in der Auslegung auch von „maledicunt" spricht, beruht auf Erinnerung an den katholischen Text (so auch IV, 27) — 27 καί mit Justin — 28 καί mit Justin ff² — Megethius (bei Adam., Dial. I, 12) innerhalb einer Marcionitischen Antithese: ἀγαπᾶτε τοὺς ἐχθροὺς ὑμῶν καὶ εὔχεσθε ὑπὲρ τῶν διωκόντων ὑμᾶς (nach Matth.).

---

29 a Tert., l. c.: „alteram amplius maxillam offerri iubens et super tunicam pallio quoque cedi" ... „mandans alterius quoque maxillae oblationem" ... „maxillam praebendi et non modo non retinendi tunicam, sed et amplius et pallium concedendi". Megeth., l. c. I, 15 innerhalb einer Marcionitischen Antithese (vorangeht: ὀφθαλμὸν ἀντὶ ὀφθαλμοῦ καὶ ὀδόντα ἀντὶ ὀδόντος): ἐάν τίς σε ῥαπίσῃ εἰς τὴν σιαγόνα, παράθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην. Eben diese Antithese gibt auch Tert. wieder; er schreibt: „„Novam plane patientiam docet Christus, etiam vicem iniuriae cohibens permissam a creatore, oculum exigente pro oculo et dentem pro dente, contra ipse alteram amplius'" usw. (s. o.). Dann aber ist die Annahme unvermeidlich, daß M. einen aus Luk. und Matth. gemischten Text befolgt hat (Luk.: τῷ τύπτοντί σε εἰς τὸν σιαγόνα, Matth.: ὅστις σε ῥαπίζει εἰς τὴν δεξιὰν σιαγόνα, Luk.: πάρεχε καὶ τὴν ἄλλην, Matth.: στρέψον αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην) — ἐάν τις sonst unbezeugt > ὅστις — εἰς τήν mit ℵ* D Clem. Orig. ital. vulg. > ἐπὶ τήν — ῥαπίσῃ sonst unbezeugt > ῥαπίζει — παράθες sonst unbezeugt > πάρεχε, aber wahrscheinlich ist, wie 29 b, πρόσθες zu lesen; denn Tert. schreibt: „amplius offeri" (s. u.) — αὐτῷ mit D, vielen Ital.-Codd., Ambros. > fehlt.

29 b Megeth., l. c. I, 18 innerhalb einer Marcionitischen Antithese: ἐάν τίς σου ἄρῃ τὸ ἱμάτιον, πρόσθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὸν χιτῶνα (aber Rufin: „Si tibi quis aufert tunicam, da ei et pallium"); also auch hier ein aus Luk. und Matth. gemischter, freigestalteter Text; wie bei Tert. (oben) ist übrigens die Stellung von χιτῶνα und ἱμάτιον vertauscht (daher ist der Rufintext vorzuziehen); so Matth. und für Luk. nur durch Clemens bezeugt. Der Eingang (Matth.: καὶ τῷ θέλοντί σοι κριθῆναι, Luk.: καὶ ἀπὸ τοῦ αἴροντός σου) hat nur an Clemens einen Zeugen (καὶ ἐὰν ἄρῃ σού τις τὸν χιτῶνα) — πρόσθες sonst unbezeugt.

30 Tert. IV, 16: „„Omni petenti te dato'" — 31 l. c.: „et sicut vobis fieri vultis ab hominibus, ita et vos facite illis. Singulär (nach der „goldenen Regel"), Luk.: καὶ καθὼς θέλετε ἵνα ποιῶσιν ὑμῖν ἄνθρωποι, καὶ παρὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων, οὕτω καὶ ὑμεῖς ποιεῖτε αὐτοῖς. (32. 33 unbezeugt). 34 καὶ ἐὰν δανίσητε παρ' ὧν ἐλπίζετε ἀπολαβεῖν, ποία χάρις ἐστὶν ὑμῖν (34 b unbezeugt). 35 Nur die Worte καὶ ἔσεσθε υἱοὶ θεοῦ, ὅτι αὐτὸς χρηστός ἐστιν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἀχαρίστους καὶ πονηρούς. 36 γίνεσθε οἰκτίρμονες, καθὼς ὁ πατὴρ ὑμῶν ᾤκτειρεν ὑμᾶς (οἰκτίρμων ἐστίν?). 37 μὴ κρίνετε, ἵνα μὴ κριθῆτε· μὴ καταδικάζετε, ἵνα μὴ καταδικασθῆτε· ἀπολύετε καὶ ἀπολυθήσεσθε. 38 δίδοτε καὶ δοθήσεται ὑμῖν· μέτρον καλόν, πεπιεσμένον καὶ ὑπερεκχυννόμενον δώσουσιν εἰς τὸν κόλπον ὑμῶν. τῷ αὐτῷ μέτρῳ ᾧ μετρεῖτε ἀντιμετρηθήσεται ὑμῖν.

39 Blinde Blindenleiter: Anspielung. 40 Der Schüler nicht über dem Meister: οὐκ ἔστιν μαθητὴς ὑπὲρ τοῦ διδασκάλου (sonst nichts). 41. 42 Balken und Splitter: Anspielung. 43. Der schlechte ὑμεῖς ποιεῖτε αὐτοῖς ὁμοίως (in D e Iren. Clem. fehlt letzteres). 32. 33 Eine Anspielung ist vielleicht in IV, 16 („denique hac inconvenientia voluntatis et facti agunt ethnici nondum a deo instructi“ [ethnici = ἁμαρτωλοί]) zu sehen. — 34 Tert. IV, 17: „‚Et si feneraveritis a quibus speratis vos recepturos, quae gratia est vobis?‘“ — ἀπολαβεῖν mit D und der Mehrzahl > λαβεῖν ℵ BL usw. — ὑμῖν nach χάρις mit D, der Mehrzahl der Itala Codd., vulg. — 35 l. c.: „‚et eritis filii dei‘“ (allein > ὑψίστου), „‚quia ipse‘, inquit, ‚suavis est adversus ingratos et malos‘“ — 36 l. c. „‚Estote‘, inquit, ‚misericordes, sicut pater vester misertus est vestri‘“ (gleich darauf: „‚quia et ipse misericors sit‘“). Hier ist die Entscheidung schwierig; die erste Fassung ist sonst unbezeugt; die zweite ist die Lukanische — 37. 38 l. c.: „‚Nolite iudicare, ne iudicemini; nolite condemnare, ne condemnemini; dimittite et dimittemini; date et dabitur vobis. mensuram bonam, pressam et fluentem dabunt in sinum vestrum; eadem qua mensi eritis mensura remetietur vobis‘“ — 37 ohne καί am Anfang mit D ital. vulg. und ohne καί vor μὴ καταδικ. mit denselben und noch zahlreicheren Zeugen — ἵνα beide Male mit DG*Λ* a c e f Cypr. Ambros., bzw. mit D a c e ff² Cypr. (aus Matth.) > καὶ οὐ — 38 σεσαλευμένον fehlt mit wenigen Zeugen — πεπιεσμένον καί mit zahlreichen Zeugen, der Minderzahl der Itala Codd. und vulg. > πεπιεσ. — Adam., Dial. II, 5: ᾧ μέτρῳ μετρεῖτε μετρηθήσεται ὑμῖν (aber Rufin: „Qua mensura mensi fueritis, eadem remetietur vobis“; Dial. I, 15: ᾧ μετρ. μέτρῳ, ἀντιμετρηθήσεται ὑμῖν, Rufin: „Qua mensura metieritis, eadem remetietur vobis“) — τῷ αὐτῷ mit g²; γάρ fehlt hier mit a b l q arm.

---

39 Tert. IV, 17: „Caecus caecum ducit in foveam“ — 40 l. c.: „‚Non est discipulus super magistrum‘“ — 41. 42 l. c.: „eximat et de oculo suo trabem haereticus; tunc in oculo Christiani si quam putat stipulam revincat.“ 43, 44 l. c.: „proinde ut arbor bona non proferat malum fructum . . . nec mala bonum“. II, 27: „et quia et Marcion defendit arborem bonam malos quoque fructus non licere producere“. Hippol. (s. Filastr. h. 45:

und der gute Baum (in dieser Reihenfolge und nicht ποιεῖν, sondern προενεγκεῖν und προενέγκαι im Text, der Tert. und Adamantius vorlag; der, welcher Hippolyt vorlag, lautete wie der kanonische Lukastext: οὔκ ἐστιν δένδρον καλὸν ποιοῦν καρπὸν σαπρόν, οὐδὲ δένδρον σαπρὸν ποιοῦν καρπὸν καλόν). 44 (Disteln und Feigen): nicht bezeugt. 45 Der gute und schlechte Schatz: Anspielung. 46 τί με (unsicher) καλεῖτε (καλεῖς?) κύριε, κύριε, καὶ οὐ ποιεῖτε (ποιεῖς?) ἃ λέγω; 47—49 (Das Haus auf dem Fels und das Haus ohne Fundament): unbezeugt.

C. VII 1—10 Der Knecht des Hauptmanns: Anspielung, dann 9 λέγω ὑμῖν, τοιαύτην (τοσαύτην) πίστιν οὐδέποτε (οὐδὲ) ἐν τῷ „Non est arbor bona quae facit malum fructum, neque arbor mala quae facit bonum fructum". Pseudotert. 17: „Omnis arbor bona bonos fructus facit, mala autem malos"). Orig., de princip. II, 5, 4: „Iterum ad scripturae nos revocant (Marcionitae) verba, proferentes illam suam famosissimam quaestionem; aiunt namque: Scriptum est quia ‚non potest arbor bona malos fructus facere neque arbor mala bonos fructus facere; ex fructu enim arbor cognoscitur'". Vgl. Comm. Ser. 117 in Matth.., T V p. 23; Comm. III, 6 in Rom., T. VI p. 195: „Non, ut haeretici deum legis accusant, mala radix est lex et mala arbor, per quam peccati venit agnitio, quia non dixit, ex lege agnitio peccati, sed per legem" (Nach Matth. 7, 18 u. 12, 33). Adam., Dial. I, 28: Οὐ δύναται δένδρον σαπρὸν καρποὺς καλοὺς ἐνεγκεῖν, οὐδὲ δένδρον καλὸν καρποὺς κακοὺς ἐνέγκαι (gleich darauf wiederholt, aber προενεγκεῖν und σαπροὺς προενέγκαι); die sonst nur einmal bezeugte Umstellung ist für M. verständlich, weil ihm (s. Orig.) der schlechte Baum das Gesetz, resp. der Weltschöpfer ist; das sonst nicht bezeugte προφέρειν (προσφέρειν im Matth. Text schwach bezeugt) wird durch Tert. bestätigt. Als sicher darf angenommen werden, daß M. oder seine Vorlage sich auch hier vom Matth. Text hat beeinflussen lassen — οὐδέ (so bei Hippolyt) mit ACD und den meisten Itala-Codd., vulg > οὐδὲ πάλιν.

45 Tert. IV, 17: „nec Marcion aliquid boni de thesauro Cerdonis malo protulit." Dial. I, 28 gehört nicht hierher, da der Spruch hier nach Matth. zitiert ist (nur προφέρει stammt aus Luk.).

46 Tert. IV, 17: „Quid ⟨me⟩ vocatis (Mss. vocas) ‚Domine, domine', et non facitis quae dico." Daß Tert. „me" gelesen hat, zeigt die folgende Ausführung; daß „vocatis" zu lesen ist, folgt mit einer gewissen Wahrscheinlichkeit aus „facitis".

Cap. VII, 9 Tert. IV, 18: „Proinde ⟨in⟩ extollenda fide centurionis incredibile, si is professus est talem se fidem nec in Israele invenisse, ad quem non pertinebat fides Israelis." Epiph., Schol. 7 wie oben (aber τοιαύτην in der Refutatio, was jedoch unerheblich, da durch den Zusammenhang gefordert; es trifft also zufällig mit „talem" bei Tert. zusammen,

'Ισραὴλ εὗρον. 11—17 Der Jüngling von Nain: Anspielung, 16 ἐδόξαζον τὸν θεόν . . . μέγας προφήτης προῆλθεν ἐν ἡμῖν καὶ ἐπεσκέψατο ὁ θεὸς τὸν λαὸν αὐτοῦ. 18—28 Der Täufer und Jesus: Anspie-welches dieser wirklich bei M. gelesen hat; denn er wiederholt es noch dreimal; es ist sonst unbezeugt. Tert. hat aber auch mit D οὐδέποτε gelesen; denn bei einer Wiederholung schreibt er: „talem fidem nec in Israele umquam fuisse." Die Nachstellung von οὐδ. ἐν τ. 'Ισραὴλ (Tert. u. Epiph.) findet sich auch in D e, die es sogar nach εὗρον stellen, wo es auch Tert. gefunden haben kann. Der Text bei Epiph. ist also bereits dem kanonischen wieder angenähert. — In der Wiederholung gibt Epiph. ein δέ nach λέγω nicht wieder, und es kann auch nur durch ein Versehen bei der ersten Einführung entstanden sein.

---

11 ff. Tert. l. c.: „Resuscitavit et mortuum filium viduae" — 16 „Magnus prophetes prodiit in nobis et respexit deus populum suum" — prodiit sonst unbezeugt > ἠγέρθη, M. wollte einem Mißverständnis vorbeugen und zugleich, wie auch sonst, das Passiv bei Jesus vermeiden. Daß das ὅτι nach καί bei Tert. fehlt, ist unerheblich. Auf 16 a findet sich bei ihm noch eine leichte Anspielung „in tanto documento mortui resuscitati creatorem adhuc orantes" (= ἐδόξαζον τὸν θεόν).

18—28 Tert. IV. 18 (v. 19): „ ‚Tu es qui venis, an alium exspectamus?' " In Dial. I, 26 ist v. 19 nach Matth. zitiert. Tert. IV, 18 gibt als eine Bemerkung M.s: „ ‚Scandalizatur Iohannes auditis virtutibus Christi ut alterius' "; indessen kann (?) Tert. diesen auf Matth. 11, 3 fußenden Satz frei formuliert haben. 22 Esnik (Schmid S. 176): „Heile ihre Aussätzigen, belebe ihre Toten, mache sehen ihre Blinden und verrichte große Heilungen unter ihnen umsonst." Epiph., Schol. 8 zu Luk. 7, 23: Παρηλλαγμένον τό· ‚Μακάριος ὃς οὐ μὴ σκανδαλισθῇ ἐν ἐμοί. εἶχε γὰρ ὡς πρὸς 'Ιωάννην (Richtig Holl: „Epiph. meint nur, daß M. das Wort verkehrt gedeutet habe [gegen Zahn]; in der Refutatio hat er seine eigene Bemerkung nicht mehr verstanden") — μακάριος ohne ἐστιν sonst unbezeugt — οὐ sonst unbezeugt > ἐάν — 24. 26 Tert. IV, 18: „si et testimonium Iohanni perhibet . . . quid existis videre in solitudinem? (die Wortstellung ungewöhnlich) propheten eum confirmans, immo et supra ut angelum," 27 „ingerens etiam scriptum super illo: Ecce ego mitto angelum meum ante faciem tuam, qui praeparet (= „praeparabit") viam tuam". (Ob M. ἔμπροσθέν σου gelesen hat, ist fraglich, da es Tert. nicht bietet und es auch in D a l fehlt). Epiph., Schol. 9 von αὐτός bis σου (primum). Dial. II, 18 den ganzen 27. Vers (aber οὗτος für αὐτός, letzteres ist sonst unbezeugt) — „ego" fehlt bei Epiph. und Adam. (mit ℵ D ital., vulg.) — 28 Tert. IV, 18: „praecursor . . . maior is quidem omnibus natis mulierum, sed non ideo subiectus ei, qui minor fuerit in regno dei quasi alterius sit dei regnum, in quo modicus quis maior erit Iohanne, alterius Iohannes, qui omnibus natis mulierum maior sit. . . . Creatori competit et Iohannem ipsius esse, lungen 19 σὺ εἶ ὁ ἐρχόμενος ἢ ἄλλον προσδοκῶμεν; 22 s. u. 23 μακάριος ὃς οὐ μὴ σκανδαλισθῇ ἐν ἐμοί (im Text selbst von M. auf den Täufer gedeutet, aber wie?). 24 (ἤρξατο λέγειν) περὶ Ἰωάννου· τί ἐξεληλύθατε θεάσασθαι εἰς τὴν ἔρημον; 26 προφήτην, ναὶ καὶ περισσότερον. 27 αὐτός ἐστι περὶ οὗ γέγραπται· ἰδοὺ (ἐγὼ) ἀποστέλλω τὸν ἄγγελόν μου πρὸ προσώπου σου, ὃς κατασκευάσει τὴν ὁδόν σου ἔμπροσθέν σου. 28 μείζων πάντων τῶν γεννητῶν γυναικῶν προφήτης Ἰωάννης ἐστίν· ὁ (δὲ) μικρότερος ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ (ob τοῦ θεοῦ?) μείζων αὐτοῦ ἐστιν. 29—35 (Das Verhalten des Volks und der Pharisäer zum Täufer und zu Jesus; der Unterschied zwischen beiden in der Lebensweise; die spielenden Kinder) scheint gefehlt zu haben; es mußte dem M. anstößig sein, und Tert. hätte es schwerlich übergangen, wenn er es bei M. gefunden hätte. 36—50. Die große Sünderin: Anspielungen 36 b καὶ εἰσελθὼν εἰς τὸν οἶκον τοῦ Φαρισαίου κατεκλίθη. 37 γυνὴ ἁμαρτωλός. 38 στᾶσα ὀπίσω παρὰ τοὺς πόδας ἔβρεξε τοῖς δάκρυσι τοὺς πόδας καὶ ἤλειψεν καὶ κατεφίλει. 44 αὕτη τοῖς δάκρυσιν ἔβρεξεν τοὺς πόδας μου καὶ ἤλειψεν καὶ κατεφίλει. 50 ἡ πίστις σου σέσωκέν σε. Referat bei Tertull., s. u.

C. VIII, 2. 3 γυναῖκες . . . γυνὴ ἐπιτρόπου Ἡρώδου, αἵτινες καὶ διηκόνουν αὐτῷ ἐκ τῶν ὑπαρχόντων αὐτῶν. 4—15 Das Gleichnis vom maiorem natis mulierum, et Christum vel quemque modicum, qui maior Iohanne futurus sit in regno, aeque creatoris, et qui sit maior tanto propheta". Hiernach hat M. nicht nur „omnibus" geboten, sondern auch μείζων πάντων τῶν γεννητῶν γυναικῶν προφήτης Ἰωάννης ἐστίν. So wird es deutlich, daß er nicht größer ist als der, der n i c h t von einem Weibe geboren ist; denn nur zu den Geborenen wird er in Vergleich gesetzt. Dieser Text ist sonst unbezeugt.

---

36—50 Bei Epiph. (Schol. 10 u. 11) v. 36 b. 38, 44 b (ob z. T. verkürzt?), bei Tert. v. 50 b, sonst folgendes Referat: „Diximus de remissa peccatorum. illius autem peccatricis feminae argumentum eo pertinebit, ut cum pedes domini osculis figeret, lacrimis inundaret, crinibus detergeret, unguento perduceret, solidi corporis veritatem . . . tractaverit. Peccatricis paenitentia meruit veniam . . . Ab eo audit: ‚Fides tua te salvam fecit.'"

Cap. VIII, 2, 3 Tert. IV, 19: „Quod divites Christo mulieres adhaerebant, quae et de facultatibus suis ministrabant ei, inter quas et uxor regis procuratoris" — καί mit D und zahlreichen Itala-Codd. > fehlt — αὐτῷ mit ℵ AL a b l g > αὐτοῖς — αὐτῶν mit ℵ* D > αὐταῖς — aus „regis" folgt wohl, daß Tert. „Ἡρώδου" gelesen; auf seine Wortstellung ist hier kein Gewicht zu legen.

4—15 Tert., l. c. 4: „de parabolis" — 8 „qui habet aures audiat"

Sämann 4 παραβολή. 8 ὁ ἔχων ὦτα ἀκουέτω — 16 f. Das Licht, das nicht bedeckt werden soll, Anspielung: λύχνον ... καλύπτει ... κρυπτὸν φανερὸν γενήσεται. 18 βλέπετε πῶς ἀκούετε· ὃς (γὰρ) ἂν ἔχῃ δοθήσεται (αὐτῷ)· ὃς δ' ἂν μὴ ἔχῃ, καὶ ὃ δοκεῖ ἔχειν ἀρθήσεται ἀπ' αὐτοῦ. 19—21 Die Mutter und Brüder Jesu: 19 fehlte. 20 f. (ἀπηγγέλη αὐτῷ ὅτι) ἡ μήτηρ σου καὶ οἱ ἀδελφοί σου (ἑστήκασιν ἔξω ἰδεῖν σε θέλοντες) ... τίς μοι μήτηρ καὶ τίνες μοι ἀδελφοί, εἰ μὴ οἱ τοὺς λόγους μου ἀκούοντες καὶ ποιοῦντες αὐτούς. 22—25 Stillung des Sturms. Anspielungen: 22 διέλθωμεν ... εἰς τὸ πέραν. 23 πλε- das ist die bei Luk. völlig unbezeugte Fassung des Matth.: Lukas: ὁ ἔχων ὦτα ἀκούειν ἀκουέτω.

---

16 Tert., l. c.: „Lucernam negat abscondi solere ... 17 omnia de occulto in apertum repromittit" — 18 „videte quomodo audiatis" — οὖν fehlt mit a b c ff l q syr$^{c:ur}$ (die Textänderung, die Z a h n hier sonst noch annimmt, trifft nicht zu) — „ei qui habet dabitur; ab eo autem, qui non habet, etiam quod habere se putat auferetur ei." Man braucht nicht anzunehmen, daß Tert. anders gelesen hat als oben steht; nur sein „autem" ist sonst unbezeugt.

19—21 Tert., l. c.: „Venimus ad constantissimum argumentum omnium qui domini nativitatem in controversiam deferunt. ‚Ipse', inquiunt, ‚contestatur se non esse natum dicendo: Quae mihi mater et qui mihi fratres', nisi qui audiunt verba mea et faciunt ea." Da Tert. v. 19 übergeht und Epiph., Schol. 12 bemerkt: Οὐκ εἶχεν „ἡ μήτηρ αὐτοῦ καὶ οἱ ἀδελφοὶ αὐτοῦ", ἀλλὰ μόνον „ἡ μήτηρ σου καὶ οἱ ἀδελφοί σου", so fehlte v. 19, fand sich aber v. 20. Die Umgestaltung des 20 f. Verses ergibt sich sicher aus den Wiederholungen Tert.s hier und in de carne 7. Die starke Beeinflussung durch Matth. ist ebenso offenbar wie die Substituierung der Worte Christi für die Worte Gottes (Lukas hat geschrieben: μήτηρ μου καὶ ἀδελφοί μου οὗτοί εἰσιν οἱ τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ ἀκούοντες καὶ ποιοῦντες, er kennt also die schroffe Frage nicht). Auch Hieron. zu Matth. 12, 49 f. bemerkt: Iuxta Marcionem (Iesus) matrem negavit, ut natus de phantasmate putaretur."

22—25 Tert. IV, 20: „Quis autem iste est, qui ventis et mari imperat?" ... „agnorant substantiae auctorem suum, quae famulis quoque eius obaudire consueverant" (25); „praedicatio marinae expeditionis" ... „transfretat" (22) ... „undae freti" (23) ... „ad minas eius eliditur mare" ... „cum ventis, quibus inquietabatur" (24). Epiph., Schol. 13: Πλεόντων αὐτῶν ἀφύπνωσεν . ὁ δὲ ἐγερθεὶς ἐπετίμησε τῷ ἀνέμῳ καὶ τῇ θαλάσσῃ (23. 24) — 24 ἐγερθείς mt AD usw. Matth. > διεγερθείς — θαλάσσῃ mit Matth. und Mark. > τ. κλύδωνι τ. ὕδατος — 25 Tert. „autem", aber das ist unerheblich (ebenso die Wortstellung gleich darauf) — θαλάσσῃ mit Matth. und Mark. (für Luk. unbezeugt).

όντων (δὲ) αὐτῶν ἀφύπνωσεν. 24 ὁ δὲ ἐγερθεὶς ἐπετίμησε τῷ ἀνέμῳ καὶ τῇ θαλάσσῃ .... ἐπαύσαντο. 25 τίς (ἄρα) οὗτός ἐστιν, ὃς τοῖς ἀνέμοις ἐπιτάσσει καὶ τῇ θαλάσσῃ; 26—39 Der Dämonische und die Herde von Säuen, Anspielungen. 27 δαιμόνια. 28 Ἰησοῦ υἱὲ τοῦ θεοῦ (wahrscheinlich fehlte τοῦ ὑψίστου). μή με βασανίσῃς. 30 ... ὁ Ἰησοῦς λέγων· τί σοί ἐστιν ὄνομα; ὁ δὲ εἶπεν· λεγεών .... δαιμόνια πολλά. 31 παρεκάλουν (αὐτὸν ἵνα μὴ ἐπιτάξῃ αὐτοῖς) εἰς τὴν ἄβυσσον (ἀπελθεῖν). Vermutlich standen statt 32—33 oder statt 32—37 (die Säuegeschichte) nur die Worte: „Sie erlangten es". 40 bis 42[1], 49—56 Jairusgeschichte: Keine Spur ist von ihr bezeugt. 42 b—48 Ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ὑπάγειν αὐτούς, συνέπνιγον αὐτὸν οἱ ὄχλοι. καὶ γυνὴ ἁψαμένη αὐτοῦ ἰάθη τοῦ αἵματος· καὶ εἶπεν ὁ κύριος· τίς μου ἥψατο· καὶ πάλιν· ἥψατό μού τις. καὶ γὰρ ἔγνων δύναμιν ἐξελθοῦσαν ἀπ' ἐμοῦ, dazu .... 43 ἐν ῥύσει αἵματος ... 44 ἥψατο ... τοῦ ἱματίου αὐτοῦ ... 45 οἱ μαθηταί .... 48 ἡ πίστις σου σέσωκέν σε.

26—39 Tert. IV, 20: „Invenis in uno homine multitudinem daemonum legionem se professam ... cuius autem dei filium Iesum legio testata est? sine dubio cuius tormenta et abyssum noverant et timebant ... non depeterent ab alio, veniam scil. abyssi creatoris. denique impetraverunt ... ipse quem adcognoverunt daemones, Iesum, iudicis et ultoris dei filium". Adamant., Dial. I, 17: Πῶς πυνθάνεται ὁ Χριστὸς παρὰ τοῦ ἀρχιδαίμονος λέγων· τί σοί ἐστιν ὄνομα; ὁ δέ, φησίν, εἶπε· λεγεών — 28 τοῦ ὑψίστου fehlte wahrscheinlich, weil Tert. sonst nicht so fragen konnte wie oben — 30 ἐστιν ὄνομα mit vielen Zeugen > ὄνομά ἐστιν ℵ BD u. Itala. — Ob nicht Marcion die Säue-Geschichte getilgt hat? Wahrscheinlich, da sie ihm anstößig sein mußte und da Tert. einfach sagt: „denique impetraverunt".

42—46 Epiph., Schol. 14 (von 42 b—46 ἀπ' ἐμοῦ) aber gewiß in Verkürzung. Tert. IV, 20: „Tangitur a femina, quae sanguine fluitabat, et nescivit a qua; ‚quis me', inquit, ‚tetigit'. etiam excusantibus discipulis perseverat in ignorantiae voce: ‚tetigit me aliquis', idque de argumento adfirmat: ‚sensi enim virtutem ex me profectam' " ... „fides tua te salvam fecit"; nachgebracht: „tangitur vestimentum eius" — 42 Epiph.: „Ἐν τῷ ὑπάγειν αὐτούς" καὶ οὐκ εἶπεν „ἐν τῷ ὑπάγειν αὐτόν", ἵνα μὴ ἑτέρως αὐτὸν σχηματίσῃ παρὰ τὴν τῶν ὁδοιπορούντων ἀκολουθίαν. Die Stelle ist nicht ganz deutlich; wahrscheinlich hat M. das hier singuläre αὐτούς geboten und nicht αὐτόν. — 44 τοῦ ἱματίου mit D a ff[2] l > τοῦ κρασπέδου τοῦ ἱματίου — 45 τίς μου ἥψατο mit D a c q Orig. (mit Mark. τίς μου ἥψατο τῶν ἱματίων;) > τίς ὁ ἁψάμενός μου — οἱ μαθηταί mit Mark. (bei Luk. unbezeugt) > ὁ Πέτρος καὶ οἱ σὺν αὐτῷ (auch das „excusare" Tert.s stimmt mehr mit Mark. 5, 31) — 46 καὶ γὰρ ἔγνων (sonst

C. IX, 1—6 Aussendung der 12 Jünger: 1 Συγκαλεσάμενος δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς τοὺς ιβ', ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς δύναμιν καὶ ἐξουσίαν ἐπὶ πάντα τὰ δαιμόνια καὶ νόσους θεραπεύειν, 2 καὶ ἀπέστειλεν αὐτοὺς κηρύσσειν τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ ἰᾶσθαι. 3 Anspielung, s. u. 5 Anspielung: μὴ δέχεσθαι . . . τὸν κονιορτὸν ἀπὸ τῶν ποδῶν ὑποτινάσσειν εἰς μαρτύριον. 6 ἐξερχόμενοι δὲ διήρχοντο κατὰ πόλεις καὶ κώμας εὐαγγελιζόμενοι καὶ θεραπεύοντες πανταχοῦ.

7—17 Herodes über Johannes und Jesus. Speisung der 5000. Anspielungen: 7 Ἡρώδης . . . Ἰωάννης ἠγέρθη ἐκ νεκρῶν, 8 ὑπό τινων Ἠλείας . . . εἷς τις τῶν ἀρχαίων προφητῶν (oder προφήτης τῶν ἀρχαίων). 12 ἐν ἐρήμῳ. 13 φαγεῖν. 14 ἄνδρες πεντακισχίλιοι. 16 (τοὺς πέντε ἄρτους κ. τ. δύο ἰχθύας) . . . ἀναβλέψας εἰς τὸν οὐρανὸν εὐλόγησεν ἐπ' αὐτούς (spätere LA εὐχαριστεῖ). 17 τὸ περισσεῦσαν.

18—26 Der Tag von Cäsarea, die Leidensankündigung, ἐγὼ γὰρ ἔγνων) nur Epiph., das einstimmig für Luk. bezeugte ἐγώ fehlt bei Tert. und Epiph. — ἐξελθοῦσαν mit vielen Zeugen und Mark. > ἐξεληλυθυῖαν mit ℵ BL, die Wortstellung bei Tert. hier und in v. 48 ist ohne Bedeutung.

Cap. IX, 1. 2 Adamant., Dial. II, 12 wörtlich (aber nur Rufin bietet ὁ Ἰησοῦς mit einigen Majuskeln, den Syrern, c und mehreren Vulg.-Codd.); Tert. IV, 21: „Dimittit discipulos ad praedicandum dei regnum." 3 Tert., l. c.: „prohibet eos victui aut vestitui quid in viam ferre". 5 Tert., l. c.: „cum iubet pulverem excutere de pedibus in eos, a quibus excepti non fuissent, et hoc in testimonium mandat fieri" — 6 Dial. II, 12 wie oben — πόλεις καὶ κώμας > mit b c l q syr^{cu} syr^{sch} sah arm (z. T. in Umstellung) τὰς κώμας (DdX nur πόλεις).

7—9 Tert. IV, 21: „. . . illa opinio omnium, quia Christum Iesum alii Iohannem alii Heliam alii unum aliquem ex veteribus prophetis Herodi adseverabant" . . . „(Iohannes) non utique ob hoc suscitatus, ut alium deum post resurrectionem praedicaret", — „omnium" ist auffallend (Luk. τινων) — 8 εἷς τις τ. ἀρχ. προφητῶν sonst unbezeugt (Matth. und Mark. εἷς, Luk. τις [aber εἷς A und viele Majuskeln b c f ff^2 g^1 l q syr^{cu}; alle: προφήτης τ. ἀρχαίων) — 10 ff. Bei Tert., l. c. nur: „Pascit populum in solitudine" und „quinque milia hominum" . . . „pabuli exiguitatem non tantum sufficere, verum enim exuberare"; die bei Tert. folgenden ATlichen Zitate zeigen, daß er v. 17 bei M. gelesen hat. Epiph., Schol. 15 zu v. 16 wie oben (aber in 2. Aufführung εἰς τοὺς οὐρανούς); Dial. II, 20: ὁ κύριος ἀναβλέψας εἰς τὸν οὐρανὸν εὐχαριστεῖ (diese LA nach Matth. 15, 36; Mark. 8, 6) — 16 ἐπ' αὐτούς mit D a ff^2 g$^{1\cdot 2}$ l q syr^{cu} > αὐτούς.

18—21 Tert. IV, 21: „Petrus interroganti domino pro omnibus respondit: ‚Tu es Christus'" (so auch IV, 22) . . . „silentium indicens" . . . „prae-

Seelen-Verlust und -Gewinn: 18 ἐπηρώτησεν ... τίνα με λέγουσιν εἶναι οἱ ἄνθρωποι, τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου; 19 λέγουσιν (αὐτῷ) οἱ μαθηταί· (ὅλλοι) Ἰωάννην τὸν βαπτιστήν, ἄλλοι δὲ Ἠλίαν, ἄλλοι δὲ ὅτι προφήτης τις τῶν ἀρχαίων (ὁ ἀρχαῖος) ἀνέστη. 20 εἶπε δὲ αὐτοῖς (πρὸς αὐτούς)· ὑμεῖς δὲ τίνα με (λέγετε εἶναι); ἀποκριθεὶς (δὲ) Πέτρος εἶπε· τὸν Χριστόν (σὺ εἶ ὁ Χριστός). 21 παρήγγειλεν μηδενὶ λέγειν τοῦτο. 22 (λέγων)· δεῖ τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου πολλὰ παθεῖν καὶ ἀποδοκιμασθῆναι ἀπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων καὶ γραμματέων καὶ ἀρχιερέων καὶ ἀποκτανθῆναι (σταυρωθῆναι: ist wahrscheinlicher) καὶ μετὰ τρεῖς ἡμέρας ἀναστῆναι. 23 (Kreuz auf sich nehmen) unbezeugt. 24 ὃς (γὰρ ἐὰν) θέλῃ τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ σῶσαι, ἀπολέσει αὐτήν, καὶ ὃς ἂν ἀπολέσῃ αὐτὴν ἕνεκεν ἐμοῦ, σώσει αὐτήν. 25 (Was hülfe es dem Menschen usw.) unbezeugt. 26 ὃς (γὰρ) ἂν ἐπαισχυνθῇ με, κἀγὼ ἐπαισχυνθήσομαι αὐτόν. 26 b und 27 (Kommen des Menschensohns in Herrlichkeit; es stehen etliche hier usw.): unbezeugt und wahrscheinlich getilgt.

---

cepit ne cui hoc dicerent". Dial. II, 13 wie oben (18 von τίνα με bis 20 Χριστός); 18 εἶναι nur bei Rufin — οἱ ἄνθρωποι mit ein paar Zeugen u. Matth. > οἱ ὄχλοι Luk. — τὸν υἱὸν τ ἀνθρ. mit Matth. > Luk. fehlt — 19 αὐτῷ nur Rufin — λέγουσιν οἱ μαθηταί sonst nicht bezeugt > οἱ δὲ ἀποκριθέντες εἶπαν — das erste ἄλλοι nur bei Rufin > den Luk.text — ὁ ἀρχαῖος nur Rufin — 20 πρὸς αὐτούς nur Rufin — με λέγετε εἶναι Rufin mit allen Luk.-Zeugen > fehlt im griech. Dialog — ἀποκριθεὶς δὲ Πέτρος mit Matth. und Mark. und zahlreichen Lukas-Zeugen, auch A D a c f g^1 q l vulg. Ambr. > Πέτρος δὲ ἀποκρ. — δέ fehlt bei Rufin, l vulg. sah — τοῦ θεοῦ nach Χρ. fehlt mit a syr^{cu}; ob die urspr. LA des Dialogs τὸν Χριστόν war (mit den Griechen und dem Luk.Text) oder σὺ εἶ ὁ Χριστός (mit Rufin, syr^{cu} und Matth.), ist nicht sicher zu entscheiden; es scheint aber Rufin in dem ganzen Zitat der zuverlässigere Zeuge zu sein, und dann folgt, daß auch hier M. schon einen durch Matth. (Mark.) bestimmten Text vorfand. Im allgemeinen muß man sich aber auch hier erinnern, daß die Zitate im Dial. nicht dieselbe Sicherheit bieten wie die bei Tert. und auch bei Epiphan.

22—26 Tert., l. c.: „Oportet filium hominis multa pati et reprobari a presbyteris et scribis et sacerdotibus et interfici et post tertium diem resurgere" (22). Epiph., Schol. 16: λέγων, δεῖ τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου πολλὰ παθεῖν καὶ ἀποκτανθῆναι καὶ μετὰ τρεῖς ἡμέρας ἐγερθῆναι — 22 λέγων sonst unbezeugt > εἰπὼν ὅτι (aber vielleicht ist darauf nichts zu geben) — γραμμ. κ. ἀρχ. mit syr^{cu} > ἀρχ κ. γραμμ. — μετὰ τρεῖς ἡμ. mit D a b c e ff^2 l q und Mark. > τῇ τρ. ἡμ. — ἀναστῆναι mit Tert. und Mark. ACD usw. > ἐγερθῆναι mit Epiph., Matth. und Luk. Dial. V, 12 bietet den 28—36 Verklärung: 28 Anspielung: „Drei Jünger", (ἀνέβη) εἰς τὸ ὄρος, 29 καὶ ὁ ἱματισμὸς αὐτοῦ ἐξαστράπτων. 30 καὶ ἰδοὺ δύο ἄνδρες συνέστησαν (spätere Marcioniten: συνελάλουν, wie Luk.) αὐτῷ, Ἠλίας καὶ Μωυσῆς ἐν δόξῃ αὐτοῦ. 31 fehlte. 32 συνεστῶτας . . . 33 ἐν τῷ διαχωρίζεσθαι . . . ὁ Πέτρος . . . καλόν ἐστιν ὧδε ἡμᾶς εἶναι καὶ ποιήσωμεν ὧδε σκηνὰς τρεῖς, μίαν σοὶ καὶ Μωσεῖ μίαν καὶ Ἠλίᾳ μίαν, μὴ εἰδὼς ὃ λέγει. 34 ἐγένετο νεφέλη καὶ ἐπεσκίαζεν αὐτούς. 35 φωνὴ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ (ἐκ τῆς νεφέλης wahrscheinlicher). οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ υἱός μου ὁ ἀγαπητός, αὐτοῦ ἀκούετε. 36 nicht bezeugt.

ganzen 22. Vers, wird aber von Zahn abgelehnt; er hat die Reihenfolge ἀρχ., γραμμ., ferner σταυρωθῆναι mit Justin und Irenäus (und ἀναστῆναι). Da der Mark.text nachweisbar hier auf den Marciontext eingewirkt hat, ist σταυρωθῆναι nicht einfach zu verwerfen. — 24 Tert. IV, 21: „‚Qui voluerit', inquit, ‚animam suam salvam facere perdet illam, et qui perdiderit eam propter me salvam faciet eam' ". Nicht geboten sind hier (ohne andere Zeugen) γὰρ ἐάν und οὗτος (σώσει) — καὶ ὅς (sonst unbezeugt) > ὃς δέ — Luk. schreibt ἀπολέσῃ τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ: doch schreibt Tert. einige Zeilen später: „qui animam suam propter deum perdit, servat illam"; indessen kommt das schwerlich in Betracht — 26 Tert., l. c.: „‚Qui confusus', inquit, ‚mei fuerit, et ego confundar eius' ". Dieser Vers ist nicht nur verkürzt, sondern auch verändert, und 26 b und 27 fehlen ganz; die Veränderung macht den Ausfall bei M. wahrscheinlich, der aus sachlichen Gründen noch wahrscheinlicher wird (v. 26 bei Luk.: ὃς γὰρ ἂν ἐπαισχυνθῇ με καὶ τοὺς ἐμοὺς (λόγους), τοῦτον ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἐπαισχυνθήσεται, ὅταν ἔλθῃ ἐν τῇ δόξῃ αὐτοῦ καὶ τοῦ πατρὸς καὶ τῶν ἁγίων ἀγγέλων, sodann wird v. 27 einigen der hier Stehenden das Erleben der Parusie zugesagt — eine Anerkennung der Urapostel bzw. der Judenchristen, die M. nicht bestehen lassen konnte).

28—36 Tert. IV, 22: „In montem secedit" . . . „illum [Christum] cum Moyse et Helia in secessu montis conspici pateris" . . . „tres de discentibus adsumit" . . . „vox solita de caelo" . . . „hic est filius meus dilectus, hunc audite (diese Worte wiederholt) . . . in colloquio [scil. Moyses et Helias] ostenduntur . . . „cum illis loqui, qui eum fuerant locuti" . . . „in consortio claritatis" . . . „claritas Christi . . . sub eodem ambitu nubis" . . . „Petrus suggerit consilium: bonum est hic nos esse et faciamus hic tria tabernacula, unum tibi et Moysi unum et Heliae unum . . . nesciens quid diceret" . . . „nesciens quid diceret Petrus" . . . „ostensis cum illo Moyse et Helia in claritatis praerogativa atque ita dimissis . . . etiam vestitus eius refulsit" . . . „Nam etsi Marcion noluit eum [Moysen] conloquentem domino ostensum, sed stantem, tamen et stans os ad os stabat et faciem ad faciem — ‚cum illo', inquit, non extra illum — in gloria ipsius". Der Widerspruch, in den Tert. den M. mit sich selbst bringt, ist offenbar: „in colloquio" mit Jesus sollen Moses und Elias auch von M. vorgestellt worden sein (nach v. 30); dann

37—43 Der dämonische Knabe; erhalten v. 40 ἐδεήθην τῶν μαθητῶν σου, (καὶ) οὐκ ἠδυνήθησαν ἐκβαλεῖν αὐτό. 41 (ἀποκριθεὶς δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν) πρὸς αὐτούς· ὦ γενεὰ ἄπιστος, ἕως πότε ἔσομαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς; ἕως πότε ἀνέξομαι ὑμῶν; 44 f. Leidensankündigung: ὁ γὰρ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου μέλλει παραδίδοσθαι εἰς χεῖρας ἀνθρώπων. 46—48: Größenstreit der Jünger; das Kind: Anspielung (s. u.).

---

aber heißt es rund: „Marcion noluit Moysen conloquentem domino ostensum". Die Lösung des Widerspruchs kann (anders Z a h n) wahrscheinlich durch die Annahme geschehen, daß, da die zweite Äußerung ganz positiv ist, Tert. bei der ersten, beiläufigen, durch die Erinnerung an seinen eigenen Text ein Versehen begangen hat. M. hat also nicht συνελάλουν, sondern συνέστησαν (wie v. 32) geboten und v. 31, der ihm unannehmbar war, ausgelassen. Bei späteren Marcioniten findet sich συνελάλουν αὐτῷ wieder; denn Epiph., Schol. 17 lautet: Καὶ ἰδοὺ δύο ἄνδρες συνελάλουν αὐτῷ, Ἠλίας καὶ Μωυσῆς ἐν δόξῃ. Doch zeigt das aus v. 31 herübergenommene ἐν δόξῃ (so auch Tert.), daß auch sie den v. 31 nicht lasen. — Epiphan., Schol. 18: Ἐκ τῆς νεφέλης φωνή (ohne λέγουσα, wie b c l). οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ υἱός μου ὁ ἀγαπητός — 30 δύο ἄνδρες wenig bezeugt > ἄνδρες δύο — Ἠλίας καὶ Μωυσῆς sonst unbezeugt > οἵτινες ἦσαν M. κ. Ἠ. (doch fehlt in syr^{cu} οἵτινες) — 31 ἐν δόξῃ sonst unbezeugt > (οἱ) ὀφθέντες ἐν δόξῃ — αὐτοῦ muß M. nach Tert. geschrieben haben > fehlt sonst und bei Epiph. — 33 ὧδε ἡμᾶς sonst fast unbezeugt > ἡμᾶς ὧδε — das zweite ὧδε sonst unbezeugt — τρεῖς σκηνάς mit DFw KL, mehreren Itala-Codd., vulg., syr^{cu} > σκηνὰς τρεῖς — die Nachstellung von μίαν mit ℵ syr^{cu} — 35 Dem „de caelo" Tert.s ist nicht zu trauen, da er hier referiert — ὁ ἀγαπητός > ℵBL (ὁ ἐκλελεγμένος) mit der Mehrzahl; dieses ist lukanisch, jenes von Matthäus.

37—43 zu v. 41: Tert. IV, 23: „Christus . . . exclamat: ‚O genitura incredula, quousque ero apud vos? quousque sustinebo vos?'" Gleich darauf wiederholt nach eigener Übersetzung in besserem Latein: „O natio incredula, quamdiu ero vobiscum, quamdiu vos sustinebo?" Epiph., Schol. 19: Ἐδεήθην τῶν μαθητῶν σου· εἶχε δὲ παρὰ τό· „οὐκ ἠδυνήθησαν ἐκβαλεῖν αὐτό" „καὶ πρὸς αὐτούς· ὦ γενεὰ ἄπιστος, ἕως πότε ἀνέξομαι ὑμῶν"; — 40 bei Luk. heißt es: . . . . ἵνα ἐκβάλωσιν αὐτὸ κ. οὐκ ἠδυνήθησαν (Matth. 17, 16 οὐκ ἠδυν. αὐτὸν θεραπεῦσαι) — 41 πρὸς αὐτούς sonst unbezeugt und tendenziös von M. hinzugesetzt (ob es Tert. gelesen hat?) — καὶ διεστραμμένη nach ἄπιστος fehlt (sonst nur wenige Zeugen bei Luk.) wie bei Mark. 9, 19 — ἕως πότε secundum mit wenigen Zeugen > καί (auch hier s. Mark. 9, 19). Auf das Fehlen der Worte ἕως bis ὑμᾶς bei Epiph. ist nichts zu geben.

44 Epiph., Schol. 20 wie oben.

46—48 Tert. (l c.) bringt hier eine Antithese M.s, die er wörtlich mitteilt: „Ecce Christus diligit parvulos, tales docens esse debere qui semper

49. 50 Jener, der in Jesu Namen Dämonen austrieb: unbezeugt. 50—56 Reise durch Samarien nach Jerusalem; die Jünger wollen eine samaritanische Stadt verbrannt sehen. Anspielung, s. u. (es ist wahrscheinlich, daß die „Zusätze" in v. 54. 55 Marcionitisch sind: ὡς καὶ Ἠλίας ἐποίησεν ... οὐκ οἴδατε οἵου πνεύματός ἐστε ὑμεῖς und ebenso der v. 56: ὁ γὰρ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου οὐκ ἦλθε ψυχὰς ἀνθρώπων ἀπολέσαι ἀλλὰ σῶσαι). 57—60 Nachfolge Jesu. Anspielungen: 57 ἀκολουθήσω σοι ὅπου ἂν ἀπέρχῃ. 58 Er weist ihn zurück. 59 θάψαι τὸν πατέρα μου. 60 ἄφες τοὺς νεκροὺς θάψαι τοὺς νεκροὺς ἑαυτῶν, σὺ δὲ ἄπελθε καὶ διάγγελε τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ. 61 ἀποτάξασθαι τοῖς (εἰς τὸν οἶκόν μου). 62 βλέπων εἰς τὰ ὀπίσω.

---

maiores velint esse, creator autem ursos pueris immisit, ulciscens Heliseum propheten convicia ab eis passum' ". Tert. fährt fort: „Satis impudens Antithesis".

50—56 Tert. IV, 23, neue Antithese M.s: „ „Repraesentat creator ignium plagam Helia postulante in illo pseudopropheta'. agnosco iudicis severitatem, e contrario Christi ⟨lenitatem increpantis⟩ eandem animadversionem destinantes discipulos super illum viculum Samaritanum";vgl. IV, 29: „(Christus) discipulos, ne ignem postularent inhumanissimo viculo, coërcuerat". V. 54 (ὡς καὶ Ἠλίας ἐποίησεν) u. 55 (καὶ εἶπεν· οὐκ οἴδατε [vgl. das οὐκ οἴδασιν 23, 34] οἵου πνεύματός ἐστε ὑμεῖς) finden sich und zwar v. 54 in D a b c f g AC und den meisten Majuskeln (aber nicht ℵ BL vulg.) cop syr (aber nicht syr^{cur}) aeth go Basil. Chrys.; v. 55 in D, zahlreichen Majuskeln, a b c e f g^2 q vulg go cop syr arm aeth u. vielen KKVV. Da die Stücke höchstwahrscheinlich bei M. standen (das erste gewiß) und ausgezeichnet zu seiner Lehre passen, so sind sie von ihm hinzugefügt und nun in die katholischen Mss. gedrungen. Wahrscheinlich gilt dies auch von 56, den mehrere Majuskeln und a b c e f g vulg copt usw. bieten,; leider fehlt uns hier der Marcion-Text; aber angesichts der überwältigenden Zahl von Zeugen gegen den Vers, kann er nicht ursprünglich sein. Wer aber sollte ihn hinzugefügt haben, wenn nicht M?

57—59 Tert. IV, 23: „At enim humanissimus dominus cur recusat eum, qui se tam individuum illi comitem offert? si quia superbe vel ex hypocrisis, dixerat: ‚Sequar te quocumque ieris' " .... „Illi autem causato patris sepulturam cum respondet: ‚Sine mortui sepeliant mortuos suos, tu autem vade et adnuntia regnum dei' " . ... „praedicando regno dei imbuerat" .... „Cum vero et tertium illum prius suis valedicere parantem prohibet retro spectare" etc. — 60 ἄπελθε (καί) mit ital., vulg. > ἀπελθών. Auch von Clemens Alex. (Strom. III, 4, 25) als ein von den Marcioniten angeführter Spruch zitiert. Ob sie ihn als an Philippus gerichtet bezeichnet haben, ist nicht sicher.

C. X, 1—11 Die Aussendung der 70 Jünger. 1 ἀπέδειξεν καὶ ἑτέρους ἑβδομήκοντα (καὶ ἀπέστειλεν); Adamantius las bei M. ἑβδομήκοντα δύο . . . εἰς (πᾶσαν) πόλιν. 4 μήτε ῥάβδον (?), μὴ ὑποδήματα . . . μηδένα κατὰ τὴν ὁδὸν ἀσπάσησθε. 5 εἰς ἣν (δ') ἂν εἰσέλθητε οἰκίαν . . . (λέγετε)· εἰρήνη (τῷ οἴκῳ τούτῳ). 7 ἄξιος ὁ ἐργάτης τοῦ μισθοῦ αὐτοῦ. 8 δέχωνται . . . 9 (λέγετε αὐτοῖς)· ἤγγικεν ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ. 10 . . . μὴ δέχωνται ὑμᾶς . . . 11 τὸν κονιορτὸν . . . ἀπομασσόμεθα ὑμῖν (εἰς ὑμᾶς?)· (εἰς μαρτύριον?) πλὴν (τοῦτο) γινώσκεσθε ὅτι ἤγγικεν ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ, 12—15 Die Wehe's über die Städte; unbezeugt und gewiß getilgt. 16 ὁ ἀθετῶν ὑμᾶς ἐμὲ ἀθετεῖ. 17—20 Rückkehr der Siebzig: 19 (δέδωκα ὑμῖν τὴν ἐξουσίαν τοῦ πατεῖν ἐπάνω ὄφεων καὶ σκορπίων).

21—24 Das große Dankbekenntnis Jesu; die Seligpreisung der Jünger: 21 εὐχαριστῶ (σοι) καὶ ἐξομολογοῦμαι, κύριε τοῦ οὐ-

Cap. X, 1 Tert. IV, 24: „Adlegit et alios LXX apostolos super duodecim" — ἀπέδειξεν mit D a e (beide elegit) c (l b ?) > ἀνέδειξεν — ἑβδομήκοντα > BDMR a c e l g$^{1\cdot 2}$ vulg syr^{cu} arm ἑβδομήκοντα δύο (so auch Dial. I, 5; II, 12: ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ ιβ' εἰσι καὶ οβ').

4 Tert. l. c.: Eine dritte Antithese M.s, Schluß: „ ‚Christus nec virgam discipulis in viam ferre praescripsit' " . . . . 1 „in civitates mittebantur" . . . . . 4 „abundaturam cirumcidens" — „etiam calciamenta portare vetuit illos" — „ ‚neminem', inquit, ‚in via salutaveritis' " — 5 „in quam introissent domum, pacem ei dicere" — 7 „dignus operarius mercede sua" — 9 „‚regnum dei . . . . iubet adnuntiari adpropinquasse" — 10 „etiam adicit, ut eis qui illos non recepissent, dicerent: ‚scitote tamen adpropinquasse reqnum dei' " . . . . 8 . . . „eorum qui adnuntiationem eius recepissent" — 11 „sic et pulverem iubet excuti in illos in testificationem eieratae (so K r o y m.; MSS. „et haeret etiam", bzw. ei; heret etiam) terrae eorum" . . . . „cui rei praemittit testificationem?" — 4 Das Referat (4 init.) hat Tert. nach c. IX, 3 gegeben (bei Luk. steht 10, 4 μὴ πήραν) oder hat M. selbst kontaminiert? — 5 οἰκίαν mit D^2 d Orig. > οἰκίαν πρῶτον — 9 ἤγγικεν mit Γ f^{scr} e > ἤγγικεν ἐφ' ὑμᾶς — 11 εἰς μαρτύριον ist wohl auf Rechnung Tert.s zu setzen als Reminiszenz an c. IX, 5.

12—15 Wenn M. diese Wehe's hätte stehen lassen, konnte sie Tert. im Interesse, den Christus M.s als Rächer und Richter zu erweisen, nicht übergehen — 16 Tert. IV, 24: „Qui vos spernet, me spernet" — 19 L. c.: „Quis nunc dabit potestatem calcandi super colubros et scorpios?"

21 Epiph., Schol. 22: „Εὐχαριστῶ σοι, κύριε τοῦ οὐρανοῦ". οὐκ εἶχεν δέ· „καὶ τῆς γῆς" οὔτε, „πάτερ" εἶχεν· ἐλέγχεται δέ· κάτω γὰρ εἶχεν „ναί, ὁ πατήρ." Tert. IV, 25. „ ‚Gratias', inquit, ‚ago et confiteor, domine caeli, quod ea, quae erant abscondita sapientibus et prudentibus, revelaveris ρανοῦ, ὅτι ἅτινα ἦν κρυπτὰ σοφοῖς καὶ συνετοῖς ἀπεκάλυψας νηπίοις· ναὶ ὁ πατήρ (ὅτι οὕτως ἐγένετο εὐδοκία ἔμπροσθέν σου). 22 πάντα μοι παρεδόθη ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρός, (καὶ) οὐδεὶς γινώσκει (ἔγνω?), τίς ἐστιν ὁ πατήρ, εἰ μὴ ὁ υἱός, καὶ τίς ἐστιν ὁ υἱός, εἰ μὴ ὁ πατὴρ καὶ ᾧ ἐὰν ὁ υἱὸς ἀποκαλύψῃ. 23 ... μακάριοι οἱ ὀφθαλμοὶ οἱ βέλποντες ἃ βλέπετε, 24 λέγω γὰρ ὑμῖν, ὅτι προφῆται οὐκ ἴδαν, ἃ ὑμεῖς βλέπετε.

25 νομικός (τις ἐκπειράζων αὐτόν) ... τί ποιήσας ζωὴν κληρονομήσω; 26. 27 (ὁ δὲ) κύριος ἀποκριθεὶς (εἶπεν)· ἐν τῷ νόμῳ (γέγραπται)· ἀγαπήσεις κύριον τὸν θεόν σου ἐξ ὅλης τῆς καρδίας σου καὶ ἐξ ὅλης τῆς ψυχῆς σου καὶ ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ ἰσχύϊ σου (also fehlten v. 26. 28; aber nach der Marcionitischen Bibel des Epiphanius war der kanonische Text wiederhergestellt: 26 εἶπεν τῷ νομικῷ· ἐν τῷ νόμῳ τί γέγραπται; .... 28 εἶπεν· ὀρθῶς εἶπες· τοῦτο ποίει, καὶ ζήσῃ). Auch die Worte (27): καὶ τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν, haben vielleicht gefehlt.

29—37 Der barmherzige Samariter: unbezeugt. 38—42 Maria und Martha unbezeugt.

---

parvulis' " — εὐχαριστῶ καί sonst unbezeugt und der Deutlichkeit wegen hinzugesetzt (Epiph. verkürzt) — Das Fehlen von σοί sonst unbezeugt; vielleicht zufällig bei Tert. — die Streichungen von „καὶ τῆς γῆς" und „πάτερ" (mit F^w) sind tendenziös — ἅτινα ἦν κρυπτά, tendenziös, nur noch in einem Marcionitisch-katholischen Mischtext, Clem. Hom. XVIII, 15 > ἀπέκρυψας ταῦτα ... καί; in der Auslegung bezeugt Tert. das Passiv — (ναὶ) ὁ πατήρ bezeugt auch Tert. („dominus caeli ... pater Christi"). — 22 L. c.: „Omnia sibi tradita dicit a patre. .. ,nemo scit, qui sit pater nisi filius, et qui sit filius nisi pater [in der Wiederholung: nemo enim scit patrem nisi filius et filium nisi pater] et cuicumque filius revelaverit' ". Megethius im Dial. I, 23 in einer Marcionitischen Antithese bietet auch die Umstellung der Satzglieder (so mit zahlreichen katholischen Zeugen), sonst aber den geläufigen Text, jedoch mit ἔγνω > γινώσκει) — πατρός mit D a c l Justin, Iren. lat > πατρός μου — ἀποκαλύψῃ mit Justin, Marcosier bei Iren., Clem., Orig. > βούληται ἀποκαλύψαι. Der Vers auch bei Esnik (S c h m i d S. 189 f.).

23 Tert. IV, 25: „ ,Beati oculi, qui vident quae videtis, 24 dico enim vobis, quia prophetae non viderunt quae vos videtis' " — 24 προφῆται ohne πολλοί und ohne καὶ βασιλεῖς, jenes sonst nur einmal bezeugt, dieses mit D a e ff² i l Method. — οὐκ ἴδαν unbezeugte tendenziöse Verkürzung > ἠθέλησαν ἰδεῖν καὶ οὐκ ἴδαν. Auch die Nachstellung von ἃ ὑμεῖς βλέπετε ist sonst unbezeugt. Das Fehlen der Könige wohl nach Matth.

25—28 Tert. IV, 25: „In evangelio veritatis legis doctor dominum adgressus: ,Quid faciens', inquit, ,vitam aeternam consequar'?" In haere-

C. XI, 1—4 Vater Unser. 1 (... ἐν τῷ εἶναι αὐτὸν) ἐν τόπῳ τινὶ προσευχόμενον ... (εἶπέν) τις τῶν μαθητῶν (πρὸς αὐτόν)· κύριε, δίδαξον ἡμᾶς προσεύχεσθαι, καθὼς καὶ Ἰωάννης τοὺς μαθητὰς αὐτοῦ ἐδίδαξεν. 2 .... πάτερ, (ἐλθάτω) τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα (σου ἐφ' ἡμᾶς καὶ καθαρισάτω ἡμᾶς)· ἐλθάτω ἡ βασιλεία σου· 3 τὸν ἄρτον σου τὸν ἐπιούσιον δίδου ἡμῖν τὸ καθ' ἡμέραν, 4 (καὶ) ἄφες ἡμῖν τὰς ἁμαρτίας (ἡμῶν) .... (καὶ) μὴ ἄφες ἡμᾶς εἰσενεχθῆναι εἰς πειρασμόν.

---

tico ‚vita' solummodo posita est, sine „aeternae" mentione, ut doctor de ea vita videatur consuluisse, quae in lege promittitur a creatore longaeva, et dominus ideo illi secundum legem responsum dedisse: ‚Diliges dominum deum tuum ex toto corde tuo et ex tota anima tua et totis viribus tuis' ". M. hat also tendenziös „aeterna" ausgelassen und die Worte von der Liebe Jesus selbst in den Mund gelegt. An ein „verkürztes Verfahren" Tert.s ist nicht zu denken (gegen Z a h n), da die Tendenz so offenkundig ist und da Tert. hier den Text genau ins Auge gefaßt hat. (Er bemerkt ja sonst eine Auslassung höchst selten ausdrücklich). Also war es ein schon korrigiertes Marcionitisches Exemplar, auf Grund dessen Epiph., Schol. 23 geschrieben hat: Εἶπεν τῷ νομικῷ· „Ἐν τῷ νόμῳ τί γέγραπται", καὶ ἀποκριθεὶς μετὰ τὴν ἀπόκρισιν τοῦ νομικοῦ εἶπεν· „Ὀρθῶς εἶπες. τοῦτο ποίει καὶ ζήσῃ". Die von Makarius Chrysokeph. aufbewahrte Mitteilung des Orig. zu Luk. 10, 25 ff., die Marcioniten hätten diese Perikope in ihrem Evangelium, beweist nichts gegen ihre Korrektur (gegen Z a h n) — 25 τί (nicht διδάσκαλε, τί) scheint M. mit D gelesen zu haben (legis doctor" mit d e) — 27 ἐξ ὅλης τ. ψυχῆς mit vielen Zeugen > ἐν ὅλ. τ. ψ. — Die Worte ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ διανοίᾳ σου fehlen auch in D Γ a b c ff² i l q, dagegen ist das Fehlen von „καὶ τὸν πλησίον σου ὡς σεαυτόν" sonst unbezeugt. Es mag eine Tendenz dahinter stecken. — 28 εἶπες (bei Epiph.) mit syr^cu > ἀπεκρίθης.

Cap. XI, 1 Tert. IV, 26: „Cum in quodam loco orasset ... adgressus eum ex discipulis quidam: ‚Domine', inquit, ‚doce nos orare sicut et Iohannes discipulos suos docuit' " — et (mit e vulg. > a b c f i l q) — docuit nachgestellt, sonst unbezeugt — 2 l. c.: „ Cui dicam. ‚pater' ... a quo ‚spiritum sanctum' postulem ? ... ‚eius regnum', optabo ‚venire', quem nunquam regem gloriae audivi ? ... 3 quis mihi ‚dabit panem cottidianum' ? ... 4 quis mihi ‚delicta dimittet' ? ... quis „non sinet nos deduci in temptationem' ". Orig. (e Catena Mazariniana): ἐπεὶ δὲ οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος ἔχουσι τὴν λέξιν οὕτως· „Τὸν ἄρτον σου τὸν ἐπιούσιον δίδου ἡμῖν τὸ καθ' ἡμέραν" (3) — 2 πάτερ mit ℵ BL syrs ^in vulg. > πάτερ ἡμῶν — Da es nach Tert. sicher ist, daß bei M. die erste Bitte eine Bitte um d. h. Geist war, wird sie so gelautet haben, wie wir sie durch Minusc. 700 al. 604, Cod. Vatic., olim Barb. IV, 31, Gregor v. Nyssa und aus Anspielungen kennen (s. H a r n a c k, Sitzungsber. der Preuß. Akad. 1904 S. 26 ff.) und wie sie oben

5—8 καὶ εἶπεν· τίς ἐξ ὑμῶν ἕξει φίλον, καὶ πορεύσεται πρὸς αὐτὸν μεσονυκτίου . . . τρεῖς ἄρτους· 7 ἡ θύρα (κέκλεισται καὶ) τὰ παιδία μετ' ἐμοῦ εἰς τὴν κοίτην εἰσίν . . . 8 (εἰ καὶ) οὐ δώσει αὐτῷ ἀναστὰς διὰ τὸ εἶναι φίλον αὐτοῦ, (διά γε τὴν ἀναιδίαν).

9—13 Bezeugt durch die beiden abkürzenden Referate Tert.s und Epiph. (s. u.), 11—13 ἐάν τινα ἐξ ὑμῶν αἰτήσῃ ὁ υἱὸς αὐτοῦ ἄρτον, μὴ λίθον ἐπιδώσει αὐτῷ; ἢ ἐὰν αἰτήσῃ ἰχθύν, μὴ ὄφιν ἐπιδώσει αὐτῷ; 12 ἢ καὶ ᾠόν, μὴ ἐπιδώσει αὐτῷ σκορπίον; 13 εἰ οὖν ὑμεῖς πονηροὶ (ὄντες) οἴδατε δόματα ἀγαθὰ διδόναι τοῖς τέκνοις ὑμῶν, πόσῳ μᾶλλον ὁ πατ ρ (ὁ ἐξ οὐρανοῦ?) δώσει πνεῦμα ἅγιον.

14—26 Dämonenaustreibung. Beelzebulrede: Nur in einem Referate Tert.s bezeugt, s. u. Tendenziöse Änderungen scheinen gegeben ist; ἐλθάτω ἡ βασιλεία σου: wohl schon Einfluß aus dem Text des Matth. (Vormarcionitisch). — 3 σου sonst unbezeugt > ἡμῶν (fehlt in syr^{sin}), tendenziös — 4 ob M. καὶ γὰρ αὐτοὶ ἀφίομεν παντὶ ὀφείλοντι ἡμῖν gelesen hat? Wahrscheinlich. — ἄφες κτλ. singulär und tendenziös > > μὴ εἰσενέγκῃς.

---

5—8 Tert. VI, 26: „Nocturnum panis petitorem . . . . pulsantem . . . ad amicum pulsat, cuius ianuam norat, quem habere panes sciebat, cubantem iam cum infantibus . . . . sero pulsatur . . . . exsurgit et dat, etsi non quasi amico, sed molesto". Epiphan., Schol. 24 gibt v. 5 wie oben, dazu αἰτῶν τρεῖς ἄρτους, verkürzend für καὶ εἴπῃ αὐτῷ· φίλε, χρῆσόν μοι τρεῖς ἄρτους — καὶ εἶπεν mit D c > κ. εἶπεν προς αὐτούς — 7 παιδία mit C*M b c ff^2 g^1 i l m q syr^{cu} > παιδία μου.

9—13 Tert. IV, 26: „A quo petam, ut accipiam, apud quem quaeram, ut inveniam? ad quem pulsabo, ut aperiatur mihi? . . . . . ipse est qui scit, quid filii postulent; nam et panem petentibus emisit . . . . non serpentem pro pisce scorpium pro ovo . . . ita et spiritum sanctum dabit". Epiph., Schol. 24: 9 αἰτεῖτε καὶ δοθήσεται . . . 11 τίνα γὰρ ἐξ ὑμῶν τὸν πατέρα υἱὸς αἰτήσει ἰχθὺν καὶ ἀντὶ ἰχθύος ὄφιν ἐπιδώσει αὐτῷ, 12 ἢ ἀντὶ ᾠοῦ σκορπίον. (Auch im syr^{sin} fehlt Brot und Stein; dort und hier m. E. ein Zufall). 13 εἰ οὖν ὑμεῖς πονηροὶ οἴδατε δόματα ἀγαθά, πόσῳ μᾶλλον ὁ πατήρ· 11—13 Dial. II, 20: bis 13 τέκνοις ὑμῶν wie oben (schließt mit καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς)· der Anfang mit ἐάν und Weglassung des πατέρα wohl willkürlich — 11 αὐτοῦ mit b f ff^2 q syr^{cu} > fehlt — ἢ ἐάν fast singulär > ἢ καὶ oder εἰ καί — αἰτήσῃ ἰχθύν mit D b c syr^{cu} > ἰχθύν — μή mit sah cop > μὴ ἀντὶ ἰχθύος — 12 ἢ καί sonst unbezeugt > ἢ καὶ αἰτήσει (αἰτήσῃ) — 13 ὄντες Dial. mit vielen Zeugen (nach Matth.), fehlt bei Epiph. > ὑπάρχοντες.

14—26 Tert. IV, 26: „Cum surdum daemonium expulisset . . . . 15 in Belzebule dictus eicere daemonia. 19 ‚Si ego', inquit, ‚in Belzebule eicio daemonia, filii vestri in quo eiciunt?'" . . . . 18 „non posse Satanan dividi gefehlt zu haben. Wichtig ist, daß M. aus v. 22 (ἐὰν ἰσχυρότερος αὐτοῦ ἐπελθῶν νικήσῃ αὐτόν) für seinen Christus die Bezeichnung ὁ ἐπερχόμενος als solenne abstrahiert hat (s. IV, 23 u. „quisquis es, ‚o eperchomene‘“, so zweimal). Wörtlich erhalten 19 εἰ ἐγὼ ἐν Βεελζεβοὺλ ἐκβάλλω τὰ δαιμόνια, οἱ υἱοὶ ὑμῶν ἐν τίνι ἐκβάλλουσιν; und 20 εἰ δ' ἐγὼ ἐν δακτύλῳ θεοῦ ἐκβάλλω τὰ δαιμόνια, ἄρα ἔφθασεν εἰς ὑμᾶς ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ. Der Inhalt von 23—26 ist nicht erwähnt.

27 . . . ἐπαράσασά (τις) φωνὴν γυνὴ ἐκ τοῦ ὄχλου . . . μακαρία ἡ κοιλία ἡ βαστάσασά σε καὶ μαστοὶ (οὓς ἐθήλασας) . . . 28 μενοῦν μακάριοι οἱ τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ ἀκούοντες καὶ ποιοῦντες.

29—32 Die Perikope vom Zeichen des Ionas hat M. ganz zusammengestrichen. Die Stelle lautete bei ihm (wohl mit der Einleitung 29[a]): ἡ γενεὰ αὕτη ⟨γενεὰ πονηρά ἐστιν· σημεῖον ζητεῖ, καὶ⟩ σημεῖον οὐ δοθήσεται αὐτῇ. Ionas, die Königin und Salomo (vv. 30—32) fehlten.

33 Tert. referiert über diesen Vers (λύχνον εἰς κρυπτὴν . . . ὑπὸ τὸν μόδιον . . . ἵνα πᾶσι λάμπῃ).

---

adversus semetipsum“ . . . . 20 „ ‚quod si ego in digito dei expello daemonia, ergone adpropinquavit in vos regnum dei‘“ . . . 21 „merito igitur adplicuit ad parabolam fortis illius armati, 22 quem validior alius oppressit, principem daemoniorum, quem Belzebulem et Satanan supra dixerat . . . . quem potuisset videri superasse validior ille deus“ — 19 εἰ mit b cop > εἰ δέ — 20 εἰς sonst unbezeugt > ἐφ'.

27. 28 l. c.: „Exclamat mulier de turba beatum uterum, qui illum portasset, et ubera, quae illum educassent, et dominus: ‚Immo beati qui sermonem dei audiunt et faciunt‘“ (vgl. III, 11) — 28 sonst ἀκούοντες vor τ. λογ. τ. θεοῦ (ohne Belang) — ποιοῦντες fast unbezeugt > φυλάσσοντες. Auch nach Ephraem hat diese Stelle bei M. gestanden und er bringt dazu noch dieselbe Marcionitische Auslegung, welche Tert. IV, 19 zur verwandten und von Marcion selbst kombinierten Stelle Luk. 8, 20 gebracht hat (s. Ephr., Ev. concord. expos. p. 122 f.).

29—32 Epiph., Schol. 25: Περικέκοπται τὸ περὶ Ἰωνᾶ τοῦ προφήτου. εἶχεν γὰρ „ἡ γενεὰ αὕτη, σημεῖον οὐ δοθήσεται αὐτῇ“ (hier muß Epiph. verkürzt haben). „ οὐκ εἶχεν δὲ περὶ Νινευὴ καὶ βασιλίσσης νότου καὶ Σαλομῶνος Tert. IV, 27: „(Iubet omni petenti dare) et ipse signum petentibus non dat“. Es fehlten also die vv. 30—32 ganz. (Bemerkenswert ist, daß v. 30 in Cod. e fehlt, v. 32 in D).

33 Tert. IV, 27: „Lucem suam ab hominibus abscondit et negat lucernam abstrudendam, sed confirmat super candelabrum proponendam, ut omnibus luceat“ — Der Schluß nach Matth. (λάμπει πᾶσιν τοῖς ἐν οἰκίᾳ) > Luk. ἵνα οἱ εἰσπορευόμενοι τὸ φέγγος βλέπωσιν.

34—36 Auge und Licht, unbezeugt.

37—52 Frühstück beim Pharisäer; die Scheltrede auf die Pharisäer. Sicher war hier tendenziös v. 42 (für τὴν κρίσιν) τὴν κλῆσιν gesetzt und die Worte ταῦτα ἔδει ποιῆσαι κἀκεῖνα μὴ παρεῖναι fehlten; ferner fehlten die vv. 49—51 (der Spruch der Weisheit Gottes: Ich werde zu ihnen Propheten senden .... vom Blut Abels bis zum Blut des Zacharias usw.); dagegen war alles übrige (s. u.) wahrscheinlich wesentlich unverändert. Im einzelnen bemerkenswert: 38 (ἤρξατο) ὁ Φαρισαῖος διακρινόμενος ἐν ἑαυτῷ (λέγειν)· διὰ τί κτλ. 41 πάντα καθαρὰ ἔσται ὑμῖν. 44. 45 sind

---

37—52 Tert. l. c.: „ ‚Vae' ingerit Pharisaeis et doctoribus legis" (42. 46. 52) .... „ideo et tunc Pharisaeus, qui illum vocarat ad prandium (37), retractabat penes se, cur non prius tinctus esset quam recubuisset (38) .... Iesus autem interpretatus est ei legem, dicens illos calicis et catini exteriora emundare, interiora autem ipsorum plena esse rapina et iniquitate (39) .... ‚exteriora', inquit, ‚calicis lavatis, interiora autem vestra' non emundastis, adiciens: „nonne qui exteriora fecit et interiora fecit?" (40) .... praeponens misericordiam lavacro hominis; subiungit enim: ‚date quae habetis eleemosynam, et omnia munda erunt vobis' (41) .... sic et holuscula decimantes, vocationem autem et dilectionem dei praetereuntes obiurgat. cuius dei vocationem et dilectionem, nisi cuius et rutam et mentam ex forma legis ex decimis offerebant? (42) .... primatum quoque captantes locorum et honorem salutationum cum incusat, sectam creatoris administrat (43) .... invehitur et in doctores ipsos legis, quod onerarent alios importabilibus oneribus, quae ipsi ne digito quidem adgredi auderent (46) .... cur autem „vae audiunt etiam, quod aedificarent prophetis monimenta interemptis a patribus eorum (47), laude potius digni, qui ex isto opere pietatis testabantur se non consentire factis patrum (48) .... quam vero clavem habebant legis doctores nisi interpretationem legis? ad cuius intellectum neque ipsi adibant, neque alios admittebant (52). Epiph., Schol. 26 (zu v. 42): Ἀντὶ τοῦ „παρέρχεσθε τὴν κρίσιν τοῦ θεοῦ" εἶχεν „παρέρχεσθε τὴν κλῆσιν τοῦ θεοῦ". Schol. 27 (zu v. 47): „Οὐαὶ ὑμῖν ὅτι οἰκοδομεῖτε τὰ μνήματα (in der Wiederholung μνημεῖα) τῶν προφητῶν, καὶ οἱ πατέρες ὑμῶν ἀπέκτειναν αὐτούς". Schol. 28 (zu v. 49—51): Οὐκ εἶχεν „διὰ τοῦτο εἶπεν ἡ σοφία τοῦ θεοῦ· Ἀποστέλλω εἰς αὐτοὺς προφήτας" καὶ περὶ Ζαχαρίου καὶ Ἄβελ καὶ τῶν προφητῶν, ὅτι ἐκζητήσεται ἐκ τῆς γενεᾶς ταύτης. Zu v. 42 oder 52 s. Dial. II, 5: Οὐαὶ ὑμῖν, γραμματεῖς (et Pharisaei fügt Rufin hinzu mit b syr^{c,l} und anderen Zeugen) — 38 Diesen Text mit D d ital. vulg. syr^{cu} > ὁ Φαρισαῖος ἰδὼν ἐθαύμασεν — Las M. πρὸ τοῦ ἀναπεσεῖν für πρὸ τοῦ ἀρίστου? — 40 Fehlte ἄφρονες bei M? Schwerlich — 41 ἔσται ὑμῖν mit D aeth (ὑμῖν nachgestellt mit b f ff^2 i m q vulg. syr^{cu}; ἔσται auch mit a Minusc., Basil) — 42 κλῆσιν selbständig > κρίσιν, den Schluß des Verses unbezeugt. 46 οὐδὲ τῷ δακτύλῳ. 47 οὐαὶ ὑμῖν ,ὅτι οἰκοδομεῖτε τὰ μνήματα τῶν προφητῶν, καὶ οἱ πατέρες ὑμῶν ἀπέκτειναν αὐτούς. 48 (ἄρα) μάρτυρές ἐστε μὴ συνευδοκεῖν. 52 .... τοῖς νομικοῖς .... τὴν κλεῖδα τῆς γνώσεως κτλ.

53. 54 Die Absichten der Pharisäer gegen Jesus; unbezeugt.

C. XII, 1 .... (ἤρξατο λέγειν) πρὸς τοὺς μαθητάς· [πρῶτον?] προσέχετε ἀπὸ τῆς ζύμης τῶν Φαρισαίων, ἥτις ἐστὶν ὑπόκρισις. 2 οὐδὲν δὲ συγκεκαλυμμένον, ὃ οὐκ ἀποκαλυφθήσεται, καὶ οὐδὲν κρυπτόν, ὃ οὐ γνωσθήσεται. 3 Anspielung: ἐν τῷ φωτί ... ὃ πρὸς τὸ οὖς ἐλαλήσατε ... κηρυχθήσεται. 4 λέγω δὲ (ὑμῖν?) τοῖς φίλοις (μου?)· μὴ φοβηθῆτε ἀπὸ τῶν ὑμᾶς μόνον ἀποκτέννειν δυναμένων καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα μηδεμίαν εἰς ὑμᾶς ἐχόντων ἐξουσίαν (aber Epiph. las, soweit bekannt, den gewöhnlichen Text als Marcionitischen). 5 ὑποδείξω δὲ ὑμῖν τίνα φοβη- mußte M. tilgen — 44. 45 sind unbezeugt — 46 οὐδὲ (mit dem alten Syr.) τῷ δακτύλῳ (u. ein Zeuge) > ἑνὶ τ. δακτύλων ὑμῶν, s. Matth. 23, 4 δακτύλῳ — 47 μνήματα sonst unbezeugt > μνημεῖα — 48 μὴ συνευδοκεῖν mit D e a b q Lucifer > καὶ συνευδοκεῖτε — 52 Tert. läßt τῆς γνώσεως nach τὴν κλεῖδα hier fort, aber gleich darauf (IV, 27) bietet er „clavem agnitionis". Auf das „Wehe" im Ev. M.s spielt auch Ephraem an (51. Lied gegen die Ketzer c. 5).

---

Cap. XII, 1 Tert. IV, 28: „ ‚Cavete', inquit discipulis, ‚a fermento Pharisaeorum, quod est hypocrisis' ", πρῶτον scheint bei M. mit b vulg. Lucifer gefehlt zu haben — προσέχετε mit wenigen Minusc., Epiph. > προσέχετε ἑαυτοῖς.

2 l. c.: „Nihil autem opertum, quod non patefiet, et nihil absconditum, quod non disnoscetur" — συγκεκ. > συγκεκ. ἐστίν (so alle) — οὐδέν secundum > fehlt (so alle).

3 l. c.: „Cum subiciat etiam, quae intra se mussitarent vel inter se tractarent, in apertum processura et in ore hominum futura, et ex evangelii promulgatione".

4 Epiph., Schol. 29: Λέγω τοῖς φίλοις μου· μὴ φοβηθῆτε ἀπὸ τῶν ἀποκτεννόντων τὸ σῶμα. Tert., l. c.: „Deinde conversus ad discipulos: ‚dico autem', inquit, ‚vobis amicis: nolite terreri ab eis, qui vos solummodo occidere possunt nec post hoc ullam in vobis habent potestatem' ". Man kann nicht annehmen, daß Tert. den Text eigenmächtig verändert hat (der kanonische lautet: [ἀποκτ.] τὸ σῶμα καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα μὴ ἐχόντων περισσότερόν τι ποιῆσαι), um so weniger, als der von ihm gebotene das Interesse M.s schärfer ausdrückt. — D bietet τὴν δὲ ψυχὴν μὴ δυναμένων ἀποκτεῖναι μηδὲ ἐχόντων. Das Fehlen von ὑμῖν bei Epiph., von μου bei Tertullian kann nicht zufällig sein. Beide Korrekturen zerstören absichtlich den Gedanken, daß Jesus die 12 Jünger als seine Freunde bezeichnet.

θῆτε· φοβήθητε τὸν μετὰ τὸ ἀποκτεῖναι ἔχοντα ἐξουσίαν βαλεῖν εἰς γέενναν. ναὶ λέγω ὑμῖν· τοῦτον φοβήθητε. 6 und 7 hat M. ausgemerzt. 8 λέγω γὰρ ὑμῖν· πᾶς ὃς ὁμολογήσει με ἐνώπιον τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ὁμολογήσω ἐν αὐτῷ ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ, 9 καὶ πᾶς ὃς ἠρνήσατό με ἐνώπιον τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ἀπαρνηθήσεται ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ. 10 (καὶ)

---

5 Epiph., Schol. 29: φοβήθητε δὲ τὸν μετὰ τὸ ἀποκτεῖναι ἔχοντα ἐξουσίαν βαλεῖν εἰς γέενναν. Tert., l. c.: „‚Demonstrabo autem vobis quem timeatis: timete eum, qui postquam occiderit potestatem habet mittendi in gehennam; itaque dico vobis: hunc timete‘“. — βαλεῖν mit D Theodot bei Clemens > ἐμβαλεῖν — εἰς mit DR Justin, Theodot. > εἰς τήν.

6 f. Epiph., Schol. 29: Οὐκ εἶχεν δέ „Οὐχὶ πέντε στρουθία ἀσσαρίων δύο πωλοῦνται καὶ ἓν ἐξ αὐτῶν οὐκ ἔστιν ἐπιλελησμένον ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ“, also fehlte auch v. 7 (die Haare gezählt); Tert. übergeht beide Verse, vgl. zu c. 21, 18.

8 Tert., l. c.: „‚Dico enim vobis: omnis qui confitebitur me coram hominibus, confitebor in illo coram deo‘“. Epiph., Schol. 30: Ἀντὶ τοῦ „Ὁμολογήσει ἐνώπιον τῶν ἀγγέλων τοῦ θεοῦ“ „ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ“ λέγει nach Ausmerzung von v. 6 f. hat M. γάρ (mit Syr ^{in}) für das sonst bezeugte δέ gesetzt — ὁμολογήσει mit AB*D usw. > ὁμολογήσῃ (ersteres hat Matth.) — με mit a b c e f ff² l und einigen vulg. Codd. > ἐν ἐμοί (der Unterschied von μέ und ἐν αὐτῷ ist beabsichtigt) — ἐνώπιον (bis) > ἔμπροσθεν — ὁμολογήσω mit Matth. > ὁ υἱὸς τ. ἀνθρ. ὁμολογήσει (so hat Epiph. bereits wieder gelesen, falls er sich nicht bei der Wiedergabe geirrt hat) — τοῦ θεοῦ mit ℵ* und einer Minuskel > τῶν ἀγγέλων τοῦ θεοῦ. Auch bei Matth. fehlen die Engel.

9 Tert., l. c.: „‚et omnis, qui negavit me coram hominibus, denegabitur coram deo‘“ — καί allein > δέ — πᾶς ὃς ἠρνήσατο allein > ὁ ἀρνησάμενος — τοῦ θεοῦ allein > τῶν ἀγγέλων τοῦ θεοῦ. Dial. II, 5 ist Matth. 10, 33 wiedergegeben.

10 Tert., l. c.: „‚Qui dixerit in filium hominis, remittetur illi, qui autem dixerit in spiritum sanctum, non remittetur ei‘“. Eine Mischung mit Matth. 12, 32, wie sie auch die lateinische Überlieferung hat. — ὃς ohne πᾶς nach Matth. — ὃς ἂν mit D Minuskeln (nach Matth.) > ὅς — εἴπῃ mit ital. vulg. Matth. > ἐρεῖ — ὃς δ'ἂν εἴπῃ mit den meisten Ital. Codd., Matth. > τῷ mit dem Partizip — εἴπῃ secundum mit b (?) c e ff² i q und Matth. > βλασφημήσαντι (Tert. selbst schreibt gleich darauf „spiritus sanctus non blasphemandus“, ferner „non remissuri blasphemiam“, ferner „blasphemiam a creatore Christus avertit“, und „spiritus blasphematur et Christus negatur“; man muß annehmen, daß er sich des kanonischen Textes erinnert); D schreibt einfach εἰς δὲ τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον (ohne βλασφημήσαντι) — τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον mit D ital. vulg. und Matth. > τ. ἅγ. πν. — Die Nachstellung von εἰς τ. πν. τ. ἁγ. mit a e — αὐτῷ mit DGΛ a b c e ff² i l q aeth. und Matth. > fehlt.

ὃς ἂν εἴπῃ εἰς τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, ἀφεθήσεται αὐτῷ, ὃς δ' ἂν εἴπῃ εἰς τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, οὐκ ἀφεθήσεται αὐτῷ.

11 .... προσφέρωσιν ἐπὶ τὰς ἀρχὰς ... (μὴ μεριμνήσητε κτλ. Anspielung): 12 τὸ γὰρ ἅγιον πνεῦμα διδάξει ὑμᾶς ἐν αὐτῇ τῇ ὥρᾳ, τί δεῖ εἰπεῖν ὑμᾶς.

13 Anspielung: τις ... τῷ ἀδελφῷ ... μερίσασθαι μετ' ἐμοῦ τὴν κληρονομίαν. 14 ... εἶπεν ... τίς με κατέστησεν κριτὴν ἐφ' ὑμᾶς.

15—21 Aus der Geschichte vom reichen Landmann ist nur bezeugt 16 πλουσίου εὐφόρησεν ἡ χώρα. 20 εἶπεν αὐτῷ ὁ θεός· ἄφρων, ταύτῃ τῇ νυκτὶ τὴν ψυχήν σου ἀπαιτοῦσιν (ἀπὸ σοῦ)· ἃ δὲ ἡτοίμασας, τίνος ἔσται;

22 (μὴ μεριμνᾶτε τῇ ψυχῇ τί φάγητε, μηδὲ τῷ σώματι τί ἐνδύσησθε). 23 (ἡ ψυχὴ πλεῖόν ἐστιν τῆς τροφῆς καὶ τὸ σῶμα τοῦ ἐνδύματος). 24 ....

---

11. 12 Tert., l. c.: „Perductos ad potestates prohibet ad interrogationem cogitare de responsione; ‚sanctus enim', inquit, ‚spiritus docebit vos ipsa hora, quid eloqui debeatis' " — προσφέρωσιν mit vielen Zeugen (auch a c d) > εἰσφέρωσιν — 2 ὑμᾶς (nicht sicher), sonst unbezeugt.

13. 14 Tert., l. c.: „Christus postulatus a quodam, ut inter illum et fratrem ipsius ⟨de⟩ dividenda hereditate componeret, operam suam, et quidem tam probae causae, denegavit; ‚quis me', inquit, ‚iudicem constituit super vos?' " — κριτήν mit D c syr^{cu} > κριτὴν ἢ μεριστήν.

15 ff. Tert., l. c.: „Parabola divitis blandientis sibi de proventu agrorum suorum, cui deus dicit (20): ‚Stulte, hac nocte animam tuam reposcunt; quae autem parasti cuius erunt?' " τίνος mit D ital. vulg. Clem. Iren. Cypr. > τίνι.

22—31 Tert. IV, 29: „Quis nollet curam nos agere animae de victu et corporis de vestitu (22), nisi qui ista homini ante prospexit ... qui et substantiam ipsius animae accommodavit potiorem esca et materiam ipsius corporis figuravit potiorem tunica (23), cuius et corvi non serunt nec metunt nec in apothecas condunt, et tamen aluntur ab ipso (24), cuius et lilia et foenum non texunt nec neunt et tamen vestiuntur ab ipso (27. 28). cuius et Salomon gloriosissimus nec ullo tamen flosculo cultior (27), ceterum nihil tam abruptum, quam ut alius praestet, alius de praestantia eius securos agere mandet, et quidem derogator ipsius. denique si quasi derogator creatoris non vult de eiusmodi frivolis cogitari (29) de quibus nec corvi nec lilia laborent, ultro scilicet pro sua vilitate subiectis, paulo post parebit. interim cur illos modicae fidei incusat, id est cuius fidei? (28) ... nam et cum subicit· ‚Haec enim nationes mundi quaerunt' ... porro cum et adicit: ‚Scit autem pater opus esse haec vobis (30), prius quaeram, quem patrem intelligi velit Christus ... ‚Quaerite' enim, inquit, ‚regnum dei, et haec vobis adicientur' " (31). Nach Tert. hat man den Eindruck, daß hier nichts gefehlt hat, wenn auch v. 25. 26 nicht κόρακας . . οὔτε σπείρουσιν οὔτε θερίζουσιν . . . ἀποθήκ(η) . . . (καὶ ὁ θεὸς τρέφει αὐτούς fehlte wahrscheinlich trotz Tert.) . . . 25. 26 unbezeugt. 27 τὰ κρίνα . . . οὐχ ὑφαίνει οὔτε νήθει . . . οὐδὲ Σολομῶν (ἐν πάσῃ τῇ δόξῃ αὐτοῦ περιεβάλετο ὡς ἓν τούτων). 28 gestrichen, aber ὀλιγόπιστοι beibehalten. 29 leichte Anspielung auf die Worte: καὶ ὑμεῖς μὴ ζητεῖτε τί φάγητε ἢ τί πίητε καὶ μὴ μετεωρίζεσθε. 30 ταῦτα γὰρ τὰ ἔθνη τοῦ κόσμου ἐπιζητεῖ, οἶδεν δὲ ὁ πατήρ, ὅτι χρῄζετε τούτων. 31 ζητεῖτε δὲ τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ ταῦτα (πάντα?) προστεθήσεται ὑμῖν.

32 In diesem Spruch von „der kleinen Herde" fehlte ὑμῶν neben ὁ πατήρ. 33. 34 Der Aufruf (sich des Vermögens zu entäußern, Almosen zu geben und sich einen Schatz im Himmel zu verschaffen) ist unbezeugt. 35—38 (Die Bereitschaft; das berührt wird; aber Epiph., Schol. 31 bemerkt: (v. 28) Οὐκ ἔχει τό· „Ὁ θεὸς ἀμφιέννυσι τὸν χόρτον", dann kann von diesem Vers nur der Ausruf „ὀλιγόπιστοι" stehen geblieben sein, den Tert. bezeugt. In der Tat konnte M. das übrige ertragen mit Ausnahme des „καὶ ὁ θεὸς τρέφει αὐτούς" (v. 24), welches sich mit den ausgestoßenen Worten v. 28 absolut deckt. Daher muß man annehmen, daß Tert. die Worte „et tamen vestiuntur ab ipso" aus seinem Gedächtnis mechanisch hinzugefügt hat (v. 24). Dies ist umso wahrscheinlicher, als er gleich darauf ein sicher inkorrektes Referat bringt, sofern bei Luk. von den Lilien nicht gesagt wird, daß Gott sie bekleidet, sondern nur vom Gras. Zahns Vermutung, daß v. 24. 27. 28 gefehlt hat, ist nicht haltbar und kann auch nicht durch Berufung auf Tert.s Bemerkung zu c. 9, 3 begründet werden, die m. E. vielmehr beweisen, daß v. 24. 27 nicht gefehlt haben — 24 Tert. ist in seinem gedächtnismäßigen Referat mit den Worten „nec in apothecas condunt" vom Luk.-Text zum Matth.-Text abgeirrt, oder lag auch hier schon, wie so oft, dem M.-Text ein aus Matth. gemischter Text zugrunde? — 27 οὐχ ὑφαίνει οὔτε νήθει mit a („non texunt neque neunt") > οὔτε νήθει οὔτε ὑφαίνει — 30 ταῦτα mit b i l q > ταῦτα πάντα — πατήρ (bis bei Tert.) > ὑμῶν ὁ πατήρ (so auch Epiph., Schol. 32: „Ὑμῶν δὲ ὁ πατὴρ οἶδεν ὅτι χρῄζετε τούτων", selbst hinzufügend „σαρκικῶν δέ"). Zu v. 32 (s. u.) bietet Epiph. die Streichung von ὑμῶν neben πατήρ. — οἶδεν vorangestellt mit D a b c e i l f q aeth Clemens (dagegen bei Epiph, die gewöhnliche Stellung; er ist also hier wieder unzuverlässig) — 31 Epiph., Schol. 33 wie oben, doch πάντα (nach ταῦτα) mit ℵ[a]AD ital. vulg. > Tert. (s. auch Tert. III, 24), ℵ*B syr[cu] etc. nach Matth. — ζητεῖτε δέ mit D a > πλὴν ζητεῖτε.

---

32 Epiph., Schol. 34: Ἀντὶ τοῦ· „Ὁ πατὴρ ὑμῶν" „ὁ πατήρ" εἶχεν (so auch Clemens).

35—38 Tert. IV, 29: „Sumus servi — dominum enim habemus deum — succingere debemus lumbos . . ., item lucernas ardentes habere . . . atque

Gleichnis von den Sklaven, die auf den von der Hochzeit kommenden Herrn warten) Anspielung: 35 ... αἱ ὀσφυες περιεζωσμέναι, οἱ λύχνοι καιόμενοι ... 36 προσδεχομένοις τὸν κύριον, (πότε) ἀναλύσει ἐκ τῶν γάμων ... 37 δοῦλοι ... 38 ἑσπερινῇ φυλακῇ ...

39—48 (Der Hausherr und der Dieb. Der gute und der schlimme Haushaltersklave) Anspielungen: 39 .... εἰ ᾔδει ὁ οἰκοδεσπότης, ποίᾳ ὥρᾳ ὁ κλέπτης (ἔρχεται), οὐκ ἂν ἀφῆκεν διορυχθῆναι τὸν οἶκον αὐτοῦ. 40 ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ... 41 ὁ Πέτρος· πρὸς ἡμᾶς ἢ καὶ πρὸς πάντας τὴν παραβολὴν λέγεις; 42 ... (ἐπὶ θεραπείας) .... 43 ... ὁ δοῦλος ... ἐλθὼν ὁ κύριος ... 44 ἐπὶ πᾶσιν τοῖς ὑπάρχουσιν καταστήσει αὐτόν. 45 nur indirekt bezeugt. 46 ἥξει ὁ κύριος τοῦ δούλου ἐκείνου ἐν ἡμέρᾳ ᾗ οὐ προσδοκᾷ (καὶ) ἐν ὥρᾳ ᾗ οὐ γινώσκει καὶ ἀποχωρίσει αὐτὸν καὶ τὸ μέρος αὐτοῦ μετὰ τῶν ἀπίστων τεθήσεται (διχοτομήσει αὐτὸν καὶ τὸ μέρος αὐτοῦ μετὰ τῶν ἀπίστων θήσει — dieser kanonische Text war im Exemplar des Epiph. wiederherita expectare dominum ... unde redeuntem? si a nuptiis" — 38 Epiph., Schol. 35: Ἀντὶ τοῦ „δευτέρᾳ ἢ τρίτῃ φυλακῇ" εἶχεν „ἑσπερινῇ φυλακῇ" (dieses mit D b c e ff² i l Iren., syr^cu, die aber alle außer b auch jenes bieten).

---

39—48 Tert. IV, 29: „In sequenti quoque parabola satis errat qui furem illum, cuius horam pater si familiae sciret, non sineret suffodiri domum suam, in personam disponit creatoris ... si vero Christum creatoris in nomine filii hominis hoc loco ostendit ... interroganti Petro, in illos an et in omnes parabolam diceret, ... proponit actorum similitudinem: quorum qui bene tractaverit conservos absentia domini reverso eo omnibus bonis praeponetur, qui vero secus egerit, reverso domino qua die non putaverit, hora qua non scierit, illo scilicet filio hominis, Christo creatoris, non fure sed iudice, segregabitur et pars eius cum infidelibus ponetur" ... „Quem alium intellegam caedentem servos paucis aut multis plagis et, prout commisit illis, ita et exigentem ab eis, quam retributorem deum? cui me docet obsequi nisi remuneratori?" — 41 Wortstellung belanglos; ταύτην fehlt nur hier — 46 Epiph., Schol. 36: Von ἥξει bis ἐκείνου und von καὶ διχοτ. bis θήσει. Tert. ergänzt nicht nur das Ausgefallene, sondern lehrt, daß M. διχοτομήσει, das ihm unerträglich sein mußte, durch ἀποχωρίσει oder ein synonymes Wort ersetzt hat (vgl. seine Eschatologie Tert. I, 27: „damnat prohibendo", I, 27: „interrogati Marcionitae: quid fiet peccatori cuique die illo? respondent: Abici illum quasi ab oculis") und daß er ferner das Aktivum θήσ ι in das Passivum verwandelt hat, damit nicht Gott als der direkte Rächer erscheine (vgl. die frappante Parallele in der Korrektur zu I Kor. 15, 25). Epiphan. fand aber bereits einen Text vor, der nach dem kanonischen zurückkorrigiert war — 47. 48 (bis ὀλίγα) wörtlich Dial. II, 21 (fehlt bei Rufin); gestellt). 47 ὁ γὰρ δοῦλος, ὁ γνοὺς καὶ μὴ ποιήσας δαρήσεται πολλά, 48 ὁ δὲ μὴ γνούς, ποιήσας δὲ ἄξια πληγῶν, δαρήσεται ὀλίγα. Anspielung: ᾧ ἐδόθη . . . ζητηθήσεται παρ' αὐτοῦ, καὶ ᾧ . . . 49 πῦρ ἦλθον βαλεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν γῆν (49 b und 50 unbezeugt). 51 δοκεῖτε ὅτι ἦλθον εἰρήνην βαλεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν γῆν; οὐχί, λέγω ὑμῖν, ἀλλὰ διαμερισμόν (ἀποχώρισιν?). 52 unbezeugt. 53 διαμερισθήσεται πατὴρ ἐπὶ υἱῷ καὶ υἱὸς ἐπὶ πατρί, καὶ μήτηρ ἐπὶ θυγατρὶ καὶ θυγάτηρ ἐπὶ μητρί, καὶ πενθερὰ ἐπὶ τὴν νύμφην καὶ νύμφη ἐπὶ τὴν πενθεράν. 53—57 Anspielungen: 56 ὑποκριταί, τὸ πρόσωπον τοῦ οὐρανοῦ καὶ τῆς γῆς δοκι- auf 48 b spielt Tert. an — 47 ὁ γάρ mit einigen Zeugen > ἐκεῖνος δέ — ὁ γνούς > ὁ γνοὺς τὸ θέλημα τοῦ κυρίου αὐτοῦ (wahrscheinlich willkürliche Verkürzung) — μὴ ποιήσας mit D 69 Orig. Basil. Antioch. etc. Iren. Ambros. > μὴ ἑτοιμάσας ἢ ποιήσας — πολλά (auch 48 ὀλίγα) mit Δ Antioch. > πολλάς.

---

49 Tert. IV, 29: „Proclamat Christus tuus: ‚Ignem veni mittere in terram‘ ". Dial. II, 5: „Ignem veni mittere super terram" (im Griechen ist der Matth.text eingesetzt) — 51 Tert. l. c.: „„Putatis venisse me pacem mittere in terram? non, dico vobis, sed separationem‘. ‚machaeram‘ quidem scriptum est, sed Marcion emendat, quasi non et separatio opus sit machaerae". Tert. hat, den Matth.text mit dem Luk.text irrtümlich vertauschend, dem M. zu Unrecht vorgeworfen, daß er μάχαιραν getilgt habe. Hat aber M. διαμερισμόν gelesen? Las er nicht ἀποχώρισιν oder ähnlich? Dial. II, 5: οὐκ ἦλθον βαλεῖν εἰρήνην ἀλλὰ μάχαιραν (s. Matth.). M.s Text war bereits durch Matth. 10, 34 beeinflußt (wenn auch μάχαιραν zu Unrecht vom Dialog ihm zugeschrieben wird); bei Luk. heißt es: εἰρήνην παρεγενόμην δοῦναι ἐν τῇ γῇ (βαλεῖν statt δοῦναι haben auch b l q) — ἀλλά mit D 69 vulg. > ἀλλ' ἤ — διαμερισμόν: keine Variante in der Lukasüberlieferung. Z a h n nimmt an, daß 49 b 50 nicht von Tert. übergangen worden sind, sondern bei M. gefehlt haben: die Art, wie jenes 49 a mit 51 verbinde, lege das nahe („Ipse [Christus] melius interpretabitur ignis istius (49 a) qualitatem adiciens (51): ‚Putatis venisse me pacem‘ etc."). Allein ausreichend ist dieses Argument nicht, und man sieht auch nicht ein, warum M. diese Worte getilgt haben soll: πῦρ . . . καὶ τί θέλω εἰ ἤδη ἀνήφθη. βάπτισμα δὲ ἔχω βαπτισθῆναι, καὶ πῶς συνέχομαι ἕως ὅτου τελεσθῇ.

53 Tert., l. c.: „ „Dividetur‘, inquit, ‚pater in filium et filius in patrem, et mater in filiam et filia in matrem, et nurus in socrum et socrus in nurum‘ ". Das 2. und 4. „et" sind sonst nicht bezeugt — διαμερισθήσεται mit zahlreichen Zeugen > noch zahlreichere und D ital. vulg. διαμερισθήσονται — — 53 bis 57 l. c.: „Et ideo hypocritas pronuntiabat caeli quidem et terrae faciem probantes, tempus vero illud non dinoscentes, quo scilicet adimplens omnia, quae super ipso fuerant praedicata, nec aliter docens debuerat agnosci" . . .

μάζετε, τὸν δὲ καιρὸν τοῦτον οὐκ οἴδατε δοκιμάζειν; 57 καὶ τὸ δίκαιον οὐκ ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν κρίνετε; 58 ... μήποτε κατασύρῃ σε πρὸς τὸν κριτήν, καὶ ὁ κριτὴς παραδώσει σε τῷ πράκτορι (καὶ ὁ πράκτωρ σε βαλεῖ) εἰς φυλακήν, 59 ... (οὐ μὴ ἐξέλθῃς) ἔκεῖθεν ἕως καὶ τὸν ἔσχατον κοδράντην ἀποδῷς.

C. XIII, 1—9 (Die gemordeten Galiläer, Turm von Siloam, Feigenbaum-Gleichnis) getilgt. 10—17 Heilung des gelähmten Weibes am Sabbat. Anspielung: 10 ἐν τοῖς σάββασιν ... 15 ἕκαστος ὑμῶν τοῖς σάββασι (τ. σαββάτῳ?) οὐ λύει τὸν ὄνον αὐτοῦ ἢ τὸν βοῦν ἀπὸ τῆς φάτνης καὶ ἀπαγαγὼν ποτίζει; 16 ταύτην δὲ θυγατέρα Ἀβραὰμ (οὖσαν), ἣν ἔδησεν ὁ Σατανᾶς. 18 ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ. 19 ὁμοία ἐστὶν κόκκῳ σινάπεως, ὃν λαβὼν ἄνθρωπος ἔσπειρεν εἰς κῆπον (ἐν τ. ἑαυτοῦ κήπῳ?). 20 τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ. 21 ὁμοία ἐστὶν ζυμῇ ... 22—24 (Die enge Pforte) nicht bezeugt. 25 ἐὰν ἐγερθῇ ὁ οἰκοδεσπότης

---

57 „merito exprobrat etiam, quod iustum non a semetipsis iudicarent" — 56 τοῦ οὐρανοῦ κ. τ. γῆς mit ℵcD ital. vulg. > τ. γ. κ. τ. οὐρ. — δοκιμάζετε allein > οἴδατε δοκιμάζειν, dagegen gleich darauf οἴδατε δοκιμάζειν (so ist „dinoscentes" zu verstehen) mit ℵB ff² l sah cop > δοκιμάζετε — τοῦτον so wahrscheinlich mit D c e i syr^cu > τοῦτον πῶς — 57 τί δέ fehlte mit D (b) syr^cu; die Wortstellung sonst: ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν οὐ κρίνετε τὸ δίκαιον.

58 Epiph., Schol. 37 (bis πράκτορι). Tert., l. c.; „.... mittit in carcerem (59) nec ducit inde nisi soluto etiam novissimo quadrante" — 58 παραδώσει σε mit D 157 > σε παρ. — 59 κοδράντην (nach Matth.) mit D und ital. > λεπτόν.

Cap. XIII, 1—9 Epiph., Schol. 38: Ἦν παρακεκομμένον ἀπὸ τοῦ „ἦλθόν τινες ἀναγγέλλοντες αὐτῷ περὶ τῶν Γαλιλαίων, ὧν τὸ αἷμα συνέμιξε Πιλᾶτος μετὰ τῶν θυσιῶν αὐτῶν", ἕως ὅπου λέγει περὶ τῶν ἐν τῷ Σιλωὰμ ιη' ἀποθανόντων ἐν τῷ πύργῳ, καὶ τό „ἐὰν μὴ μετανοήσατε" καὶ ⟨τὰ ἑξῆς⟩ ἕως τῆς παραβολῆς τῆς συκῆς, περὶ ἧς εἶπεν ὁ γεωργὸς ὅτι „σκάπτω καὶ βάλλω κόπρια, καὶ ἐὰν μὴ ποιήσῃ, ἔκκοψον". Also fehlten alle diese Verse.

10—17 Tert. IV, 30: „ Quaestionem rursus de curatione sabbatis facta quomodo discussit? ‚Unusquisque vestrum sabbatis non solvit asinum aut bovem suum a praesepi et ducit ad potum?' " (Diese Stellung von Esel und Ochs ist sonst unbezeugt) — 16 Epiph., Schol. 39 wie oben.

19 Tert., l. c.: „ ‚Simile est regnum dei', inquit, ‚grano sinapis quod accepit homo et seminavit in horto suo' " — ἔσπειρεν allein, aber nach Matth. 13, 31 > ἔβαλεν — 20 f. l. c.: „De sequenti plane similitudine vereor, ne forte alterius dei regnum portendat; fermento enim comparavit illud".

25 f. Tert., l. c.: „ ‚Cum surrexerit', inquit, ‚pater familiae et clauserit ostium' ... quibus pulsantibus respondebit: ‚nescio unde sitis', 26 et rursus enumerantibus quod coram illo ederint et biberint et in plateis eorum docuerit, καὶ ἀποκλείσῃ τὴν θύραν . . . κρούειν . . ἀποκριθεὶς (ἐρεῖ)· οὐκ οἶδα πόθεν ἔστε. 26 . . . λέγειν· ἐφάγομεν ἐνώπιόν σου καὶ ἐπίομεν καὶ ἐν ταῖς πλατείαις ἡμᾶς ἐδίδαξας. 27 . . . . ἀπόστητε ἀπ' ἐμοῦ πάντες, ἐργάται ἀνομίας. 28 ἐκεῖ ἔσται ὁ κλαυθμὸς καὶ ὁ βρυγμὸς τῶν ὀδόντων, ὅτε (πάντας?) τοὺς δικαίους (εἰσερχομένους?) ἴδητε ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ, ὑμᾶς δὲ κρατουμένους ἔξω. 29—35 (Die Mahlzeit im Himmelreich; die Botschaft Jesu an Herodes. Der Spruch über Jerusalem, welches die Propheten tötet) getilgt.

C. XIV, 1—11 (Heilung des Wassersüchtigen am Sabbat; Zurechtweisung der Ehrgeizigen) unbezeugt. 12 ff. Wen man einladen soll. Anspielungen: 12 . . . . . ἄριστον ἢ δεῖπνον, μὴ φωνεῖ . . . 14 οὐκ ἔχουσιν ἀνταποδοῦναι . . . ἐν τῇ ἀναστάσει. 15 ff. Parabel vom großen Abendmahl. Anspielungen: 16 ἄνθρωπός τις ἐποίει δεῖπνον καὶ ἐκάλεσεν πολλούς. 17 ἀπέστειλεν (τ. δοῦλον αὐτοῦ) . . . 18 (ἤρξαντο) παραιτεῖσθαι . . ἀγρὸν ἠγόρασα . . . 19 (ζεύγη) βοῶν ἠγόρασα . . . 20 γυναῖκα ἔγημα . . . 21 ἀπήγγειλεν . . .

---

27 adiciet ‚recedite a me omnes, operarii iniquitatis — 28 illic erit fletus et dentium frendor‘ — ubi? foris scilicet, ubi erunt exclusi ostio cluso, ab eo ergo erit poena, a quo fit exclusio in poenam —, cum videbunt iustos introeuntes in regnum dei, se vero detineri foris‘ “. 28 Epiph., Schol. 40: Παρέκοψε πάλιν τό· ,,τότε ὄψεσθε Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Ἰσαὰκ καὶ Ἰακὼβ καὶ πάντας τοὺς προφήτας ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ“. ἀντὶ δὲ τούτου ἐποίησεν· ,,ὅτε πάντας τοὺς δικαίους ἴδητε ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ, ὑμᾶς δὲ ἐκβαλλομένους“ — ἐποίησε δέ· ,,κρατουμένους“ ,,ἔξω“, ,,ἐκεῖ ἔσται ὁ κλαυθμὸς καὶ ὁ βρυγμὸς τῶν ὀδόντων“ — 25 ἐάν mit ital. vulg. > ἀφ' οὗ ἄν — nach οἶδα bezeugen sonst alle Zeugen ὑμᾶς — 27 ἀνομίας mit D II Clem. Iustin (bis) Epiph. Matth. 7, 23 > ἀδικίας — 28 δικαίους Tert. und Epiph. > alle Zeugen — εἰσερχομένους mit a b c f ff² i l q Lucifer und einigen vulg. Codd. > fehlt — κρατουμένους ἔξω Tert. und Epiph. > alle Zeugen.

29—35 fehlen bei Tert., und Epiph. schreibt Schol. 41: ,,Παρέκοψε πάλιν τό· ἥξουσιν ἀπὸ ἀνατολῶν κτλ. und nun werden die einzelnen, von M. hier getilgten Verse genau angegeben.

Cap. XIV, 12 f. Tert. IV, 31: ,,Ad prandium vel ad cenam quales vocari iubet? . . . qui scilicet humanitatis istius vicem retribuere non possint. hanc si Christus captari vetat, in resurrectione eam repromittens. — 15—24 l. c.: ,,Etiam invitatoris parabola . . . ‚Homo quidam fecit cenam et vocavit multos‘ . . . dico primo extraneos et nullius iuris adfines invitari ad cenam non solere, certe facilius solere domesticos et familiares . . . (17) dehinc si is mittit ad convivas, qui cenam paravit . . . 18 excusant se invitati . . . ‚agrum emi‘ et 19 ‚boves mercatus sum‘ et 20 ‚uxorem duxi‘. 21 hoc ut patri familiae renuntiatum est, motus tunc mandat de plateis et vicis civitatis facere sublectionem τότε ἐπαρθεὶς ὁ οἰκοδεσπότης . . . εἰς τὰς πλατείας καὶ ῥύμας τῆς πόλεως . . . 22 . . . ἔτι τόπος ἐστίν . . . 23 . . . εἰς τὰς ὁδοὺς καὶ φραγμούς . . . 24 . . . οὐδεὶς γεύσεται.

25—35 (Vater und Mutter hassen; Kreuztragen, der leichtsinnig unternommene Bau und Krieg; man muß allem absagen; das dumm gewordene Salz) unbezeugt; doch ist es möglich, daß die Antithesen in den Acta Archelai 44 aus M.s Antithesen geflossen sind; dann ist v. 33 bezeugt („allem absagen").

C. XV, 1—10 Die Parabeln vom verlorenen Schaf und Groschen. Wenige Anspielungen, s. u. 10 χαρὰ ἐνώπιον τοῦ θεοῦ. 11—32 (Der verlorene Sohn) getilgt.

C. XVI, 1—14 Der ungerechte Haushalter; Unmöglichkeit des Zweiherrndienstes: 1—7 Anspielungen, s. u. 8 unbezeugt (Das Lob). 9a καὶ ἐγὼ λέγω ὑμῖν, ποιήσατε ὑμῖν φίλους ἐκ τοῦ μαμωνᾶ τῆς ἀδικίας. 9 b. 10 unbezeugt. 11 εἰ ἐν τῷ ἀδίκῳ μαμωνᾷ πιστοὶ οὐκ ἐγένεσθε, τὸ ἀληθινὸν τίς ὑμῖν πιστεύσει; 12 εἰ ἐν τῷ ἀλλοτρίῳ πιστοὶ οὐχ εὑρέθητε, τὸ ἐμὸν τίς δώσει ὑμῖν; 13 οὐδεὶς δύναται δυσὶ κυρίοις

. . . itaque misit ad alios vocandos ex eadem adhuc civitate. 22. 23 dehinc loco abundante praecepit etiam de viis et sepibus colligi . . . 24 spem, de qua illos gustaturos negat dominus" — 16 δεῖπνον mit X arm > δεῖπνον μέγα — 21 ἐπαρθείς oder κινηθείς oder ähnlich, tendenziös > ὀργισθείς.

Cap. XV, 1—10 Tert. IV, 32: „Ovem et drachmam perditam quis requirit? . . . quis autem perdidit? . . . is invenit, qui quaesivit, is exultavit, qui invenit. . . adeo exultare illius est de paenitentia peccatoris, i. e. de perditi recuperatione, qui se professus est olim malle peccatoris paenitentiam quam mortem". Vers 7, wo es heißt χαρὰ ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ ἔσται, braucht M. nicht geändert zu haben. Daß v. 10 τῶν ἀγγέλων vor τοῦ θεοῦ getilgt war, ist nicht zweifelhaft. Auch für Apelles ist diese Perikope bezeugt (s. Tert., de carne 8).

11—32 Tert. berührt dieses Gleichnis nicht, und Epiph., Schol. 42 sagt: Πάλιν παρέκοψε πᾶσαν τὴν παραβολὴν τῶν δύο υἱῶν, τοῦ εἰληφότος τὸ μέρος τῶν ὑπαρχόντων καὶ ἀσώτως δαπανήσαντος καὶ τοῦ ἄλλου.

Cap. XVI, 1—14 Tert. IV, 33: 13 „Quibus duobus dominis neget posse serviri, quia alterum offendi sit necesse alterum defendi, ipse declarat, deum proponens et mamonam". 9 „admonens nos de saecularibus suffragia nobis prospicere amicitiarum, 1 f secundum servi illius exemplum, qui ab actu summotus dominicos debitores diminutis cautionibus relevat in subsidium sibi, 2 ‚et ego', inquit, ‚dico vobis, facite vobis amicos de mamona iniustitiae' . . . 13 ‚non potestis deo servire et mamonae'. 14 inridebant denique Pharisaei pecuniae cupidi . . . 13 duos dominos nominavit, deum et mamonam . . . 11 ‚⟨si⟩ in mamona iniusto fideles non extitistis, quod verum est quis vobis

δουλεύειν. ἑνὸς γὰρ (καταφρονήσει) καὶ τοῦ ἑτέρου ἀνθέξεται· οὐ δύνασθε θεῷ δουλεύειν καὶ μαμωνᾷ. 14 οἱ Φαρισαῖοι φιλάργυροι . . . ἐξεμυκτήριζον. 15 . . . ὑμεῖς ἐστὲ οἱ δικαιοῦντες ἑαυτοὺς ἐνώπιον τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ὁ δὲ θεὸς γινώσκει τὰς καρδίας ὑμῶν. 15 b (Das, was bei den Menschen hoch ist, ist Gottes ein Greuel) unbezeugt.

16 ὁ νόμος καὶ οἱ προφῆται ἕως Ἰωάννου, ἐξ (ἀφ') οὗ ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ εὐαγγελίζεται, καὶ πᾶς εἰς αὐτὴν βιάζεται. 17 εὐκοπώτερον (δέ ἐστιν) τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ τὴν γῆν παρελθεῖν ἢ τῶν λόγων μου μίαν κεραίαν (πεσεῖν). 18 ὁ ἀπολύων τὴν γυναῖκα αὐτοῦ καὶ γαμῶν ἑτέραν μοιχεύει, καὶ ὁ ἀπολελυμένην ἀπὸ ἀνδρ'ς γαμῶν ὁμοίως μοιχός ἐστιν.

19 ἄνθρωπός τις ἦν πλούσιος καὶ ἐνεδιδύσκετο πορφύραν καὶ βύσσον,

---

credet?' . . . 12 ‚⟨si⟩ in alieno fideles inventi non estis, meum quis dabit vobis' . . . 11 ‚quis vobis credet quod verius est' et ‚quis vobis dabit quod meum est?' " — 9 λέγω ὑμῖν mit DM a c ff² g¹·² > ὑμῖν λέγω — ὑμῖν (doch nicht sicher) mit ital. Iren. Clem. > ἑαυτοῖς — 12 εὑρέθητε mit einigen Zeugen > ἐγένεσθε — τὸ ἐμόν mit e i l und minusc. 157 (tendenziös) > τὸ ὑμέτερον — 13 ἀνθέξεται und καταφρονήσει hier umgestellt; ob M. nicht für καταφρονήσει ein anderes Wort hatte, ob das ἤ am Anfang von 13 b wirklich fehlte und ob das Glied τὸν ἕνα μισήσει καὶ τὸν ἕτερον ἀγαπήσει durch Zufall ausgelassen ist? Wie bei Tert. ist auch Dial. I, 28 οἰκέτης ausgelassen (nach Matth.); M. hatte also auch hier einen durch Matth. beeinflußten Text; doch kommt Dial. I, 28 nicht sicher in Betracht.

15 Tert., l. c.: „Si autem et iustificantes se coram hominibus Pharisaei spem mercedis in homine ponebant, illos eo sensu increpabat, quo et propheta . . .: si et adicit: ‚Scit autem deus corda vestra', illius dei vim commemorabat, ⟨qui⟩ lucernam se pronuntiarat".

16 Epiph., Schol. 43 wie oben, doch ohne den Satz ἐξ οὗ bis εὐαγγελίζεται (die Worte können aber nicht gefehlt haben, da das Scholion ja den Satz enthält: καὶ πᾶς εἰς αὐτὴν βιάζεται). Tert., l. c.: „‚Lex et prophetae usque ad Iohannem, ex quo regnum dei adnuntiatur', quasi non et nos limitem quendam agnoscamus Iohannem". — ἕως mit AD etc. Orig. und Matth. > μέχρι — ἐξ (ἀφ') οὗ fast singulär > ἀπὸ τότε — 17 Tert., l. c.: „‚Transeat caelum et terra citius, quam unus apex verborum domini' ". τῶν λόγων μου > τοῦ νόμου tendenziöse Änderung nach c. 21, 33; das übrige war wohl unverändert; unsicher ist nur πεσεῖν. — 18 Tert. IV, 34 (bis): „‚Qui dimiserit uxorem suam (fehlt an d. 2. St.) et aliam duxerit, adulterium committ⟨it⟩ et qui (a. 2. St. commisit et qui) dimissam a viro (a marito dimissam a. 2. St.) duxerit, aeque adulter est' ". Maßgebend ist die erste Zitation — ὁ singulär > πᾶς ὁ — ὁμοίως μοιχός ἐστιν singulär > μοιχεύει.

19—31 Die ganze Perikope ist wörtlich Dial. II, 10 aufgenommen (wie oben; über Abweichungen s. unten) und einzelnes besprochen. 19 ff.

εὐφραίνομενος καθ' ἡμέραν λαμπρῶς, 20 πτωχὸς δέ τις ὀνόματι Λάζαρος ἐβέβλητο εἰς τὸν πυλῶνα (αὐτοῦ Rufin) ἑλκωμένος. 21 καὶ ἐπιθυμῶν χορτασθῆναι ἀπὸ (τῶν ψιχίων fügt Rufin hinzu) τῶν πιπτόντων ἀπὸ τῆς τραπέζης τοῦ πλουσίου· ἀλλὰ καὶ οἱ κύνες ἐρχόμενοι ἔλειχον τὰ τραύματα αὐτοῦ. 22 ἐγένετο δὲ ἀποθανεῖν τὸν πτωχὸν καὶ ἀπενεχθῆναι αὐτὸν ὑπ' ἀγγέλων εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ Ἀβραάμ. ἀπέθανε δὲ καὶ ὁ πλούσιος καὶ ἐτάφη. 23 ἐν τῷ ᾅδῃ. ἐπάρας οὖν τοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς αὐτοῦ, ὑπάρχων ἐν βασάνοις, ὁρᾷ Ἀβραὰμ ἀπὸ μακρόθεν καὶ Λάζαρον ἐν τῷ κόλπῳ αὐτοῦ, 24 καὶ αὐτὸς φωνήσας εἶπε· πάτερ Ἀβραάμ, ἐλέησόν με καὶ πέμψον Λάζαρον, ἵνα βάψῃ τὸ ἄκρον τοῦ δακτύλου (αὐτοῦ Rufin) ὕδατος καὶ καταψύξῃ τὴν γλῶσσάν μου, ὅτι ὀδυνῶμαι ἐν τῷ φλογὶ ταύτῃ. 52 Ἀβραὰμ δὲ εἶπε· τέκνον, μνήσθητι ὅτι ἀπέλαβες σὺ τὰ ἀγαθὰ ἐν τῇ ζωῇ σοῦ καὶ Λάζαρος ὁμοίως τὰ κακά· νῦν δὲ ὅδε παρακαλεῖται, σὺ δὲ

Tert. IV, 34: „Subsequens argumentum divitis apud inferos dolentis et pauperis in sinu Abrahae requiescentis“ . . . 29 l. c.: „ ‚habent illic Moysen et prophetas, illos audiant‘ “. 23. 24: „tormenti sive refrigerii apud inferos“ . . . 22 „sinum et portum“ 23 ff. . . . „oculos eius, qui ad inferos discernit Abrahae sinum pauperi . . . . nam et ‚magnum‘ ait intercidere regiones istas profundum et transitum utrimque prohibere; sed nec adlevasset dives oculos et quidem de longinquo, nisi in superiora et de altitudinis longinquo per immensam illam distantiam sublimitatis et profunditatis“. 29 „admonens vos haereticos ⟨audire⟩ Moysen et prophetas . . . ‚habent illic Moysen et prophetas, illos audiant‘ “. Epiph., Schol. 44: Περὶ τοῦ πλουσίου καὶ Λαζάρου τοῦ πτωχοῦ, ὅτι ἀπηνέχθη ὑπὸ τῶν ἀγγέλων εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ Ἀβραάμ (v. 22). Schol. 45: „Νῦν δὲ ὧδε (lies ὅδε) παρακαλεῖται“ (v. 25) ὁ αὐτὸς Λάζαρος. Schol. 46: Εἶπεν Ἀβραάμ· „ἔχουσι Μωυσέα καὶ τοὺς προφήτας, ἀκουσάτωσαν αὐτῶν, ἐπεὶ οὐδὲ τοῦ ἐγειρομένου ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀκούσουσιν“ (29. 31) — 10 Vergleicht man die Einführung der Parabel bei Tert. (zu v. 19) mit dem Schol. 44 des Epiph., so wird es wahrscheinlich, daß M.s Evangelium in Kapiteln mit Überschriften eingeteilt war, ebenso wie sein Apostolos (s. die Bemerkung zu I Kor. 13). — 20 εἰς mit P I Clemens, Chrys. > πρός — 21 τῶν ψιχίων (vielleicht Einfluß von Matth. 15, 27): bei Luk. sind die Zeugen geteilt; ℵ^c BL und die meisten Itala-Codd. bieten es nicht, wohl aber neben der Mehrzahl der Zeugen die Vulg. — ἔλειχον mit D 1. 131, zahlreichen Itala Codd. vulg. — ἐπέλειχον — τραύματα allein ἕλκη (Rufin: „ulcera“) — 22 ἀγγέλων allein > τῶν ἀγγ.. — ἐτάφη mit ἐν τῷ ᾅδῃ verbunden, wie ℵ* ital. vulg. — 23 οὖν (Rufin: „autem“) — ἐν τ. κόλπῳ mit D zahlreichen Itala Codd. vulg. > ἐν τοῖς κόλποις — 25 Ἀβραάμ vorangestellt, nur noch bei Afrik. — σύ (fehlt bei Rufin) mit ΧΓΔΛ etc. b syr^c Chrys. > fehlt — ἀγαθά mit E ital vulg Orig. > ἀγαθά σου — die schwankende LA ὅδε oder ὧδε wird für den Dialog durch Rufin (ὅδε) entschieden; ὅδε mit 1 Tatian und wenigen Zeugen > ὧδε; jenes muß ὀδυνᾶσαι. 26 καὶ ἐν (ἐπὶ?) πᾶσι τούτοις μεταξὺ ὑμῶν καὶ ἡμῶν χάσμα μέγα ἐστήρικται, ὅπως οἱ ἐνταῦθα διαβῆναι πρὸς ὑμᾶς μὴ δύνωνται, μηδὲ οἱ ἐκεῖθεν ὧδε διαπερῶσιν. 27 ⟨εἶπεν δέ⟩· ἐρωτῶ οὖν σε, πάτερ, ἵνα πέμψῃς αὐτὸν εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν τοῦ πατρός μου· 28 ἔχω γὰρ ἐκεῖ πέντε ἀδελφούς· ὅπως διαμαρτύρηται αὐτοῖς, μὴ καὶ αὐτοὶ ἔλθωσιν εἰς τοῦτον τὸν τόπον τῆς βασάνου. 29 λέγει αὐτῷ· ἔχουσιν ἐκεῖ Μωσέα καὶ τοὺς προφήτας, αὐτῶν ἀκουσάτωσαν. 30 ὁ δὲ εἶπεν· οὐχί, πάτερ, ἀλλ' ἐάν τις ἐκ νεκρῶν πορευθῇ πρὸς αὐτούς, μετανοήσωσιν. 31 ὁ δὲ εἶπεν· εἰ Μωυσέως καὶ προφητῶν οὐκ ἤκουσαν, οὐδ' ἄν τις ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀπέλθῃ, ἀκούσωσιν αὐτοῦ.

C. XVII, 1 . . . σκάνδαλα . . οὐαὶ ἐκείνῳ δι' οὗ (τὸ σκάνδαλον) ἔρχεται. 2 συνέφερεν αὐτῷ, εἰ οὐκ ἐγεννήθη ἢ εἰ μυλικὸς λίθος περὶ τὸν auch für Epiph. nach seinem erklärenden Zusatz hergestellt werden — 26 ἐν Rufin > ἐπί des griech. Originals; jenes mit ℵ BL vielen Itala Codd. vulg.; dieses mit A D a e m etc. — ὑμῶν κ. ἡμῶν fast allein > ἡμ. κ. ὑμ. — οἱ ἐνταῦθα διαβῆναι > οἱ θέλοντες διαβῆναι ἔνθεν, tendenziöse Korrektur? — ὧδε mit d > πρὸς ἡμᾶς — 27 ⟨εἶπεν δέ⟩, unerläßlich und Rufin bietet „inquit" — οἰκίαν allein > οἶκον — 28 ἐκεῖ allein (auch bei Rufin fehlend) — μή mit D > ἵνα μή — τοῦτον τὸν τόπον mit D a c e ff² g¹ l m und einigen Vulg Codd > τ. τοπ. τουτ. — 29 λέγει mit geringeren Zeugen > λέγει δέ —Sowohl hier bei λέγει (hier mit e) als auch v. 30 bei πάτερ fehlt 'Αβραάμ, was nicht zufällig ist — ἐκεῖ sonst unbezeugt (fehlt im Dialog, der auch die übliche Wortstellung von αὐτῶν hat) — 30 ἐκ (Rufin a mortuis) mit DF ital. vulg. Iren. > ἀπό — μετανοήσωσιν mit MXΓ usw. > μετανοήσουσιν (so auch Rufin) — 31 Epiph. ist hier nicht maßgebend, da er augenscheinlich 29—31 in eins zusammengezogen hat; doch bestätigt er 31 fin. die LA des Dialogs — ὁ δὲ εἶπεν fast allein > εἶπεν δὲ αὐτῷ — ἤκουσαν mit Chrys. > ἀκούουσιν — ἀπέλθῃ mit D a b c ff² i l q Iren. (D u. Iren. außerdem vorher ἀναστῇ καί) > ἀναστῇ — ἀκούσωσιν αὐτοῦ fast allein > πεισθήσονται. — Die zweimalige Hinzufügung von ἐκεῖ (v. 28. 29) kann nur aus einem Streben nach Deutlichkeit und Präzision erklärt werden: οἱ ἐκεῖ sind sonst bekanntlich die Bewohner der Unterwelt, von der Oberwelt her bezeichnet; hier ist es umgekehrt.

---

Cap. XVII, 1 Tert. IV, 35: „Conversus ibidem ad discipulos ‚vae' dicit auctori scandalorum. 2 expedisse ei, si natus non fuisset aut si molino saxo ad collum deligato praecipitatus esset in profundum, quam unum ex illis modicis utique discipulis eius scandalizasset". — 1 Dial. II, 15: Οὐαὶ ἐκείνῳ („Vae sit illi homini" Ruf.) δι' οὗ τὸ σκάνδαλον ἔρχεται (Luk.: τὰ σκάνδαλα . . . οὐαὶ δὲ δι' οὗ ἔρχεται, Matth.: πλὴν οὐαὶ τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ, δι' οὗ τὸ σκάνδαλον ἔρχεται), also dem Matth. näher — 2 Auch hier ist Matth. (26, 24) eingemischt; denn „si natus non fuisset" stammt von dort:

τράχηλον αὐτοῦ περιέκειτο καὶ ἔρριπτο εἰς τὴν θάλασσαν, ἢ ἵνα ἕνα τῶν μικρῶν τούτων σκανδαλίσῃ. 3 (ἐὰν) ἁμάρτῃ ὁ ἀδελφός (σου), ἐπιτίμησον ... 4 .. (ἐὰν) ἑπτάκις ἁμαρτήσῃ εἰς σε, ἀφήσεις ... 5. 6 (Glaube wie ein Senfkorn), unbezeugt. 7—10 (Der unnütze Knecht); es fehlt 10 b und deshalb vielleicht die ganze Perikope; aber möglich ist auch, daß die ganze Perikope vorhanden war und nur ἀχρεῖοι fehlte.

11—19 Die zehn Aussätzigen: Sicher ist, daß M. hier aus Luk. 4, 27 (wo er sie übergangen hatte) die Worte: πολλοὶ λεπροὶ ἦσαν ἐν τῷ Ἰσραὴλ ἐν ἡμέραις Ἐλισσαίου τοῦ προφήτου καὶ οὐκ ἐκαθαρίσθη εἰ μὴ Νεεμὰν ὁ Σύρος eingeschoben hat, und zwar wohl vor πορευθέντες. Umgekehrt war nach Epiph. einiges in der Perikope gestrichen, aber was? Alle Hauptsachen müssen nach Tertullians Bericht vorhanden gewesen sein. 11 (διήρχετο διὰ aber auch a b c ff² i l q bieten es — συνέφερεν mit D (συνφέρει) d („expediebat") e („expedit") > λυσιτελεῖ — περιέκειτο ... ἔρριπτο mit D a e > περίκειται ... ἔρριπται — ἕνα τ. μικρῶν τουτ. mit ℵ^c AD ital. vulg. > τ. μικρ. τουτ. ἕνα — 3 „peccantem fratrem iubet corripi" ... 4 „sed et veniam des fratri in te delinquenti iubet, etiam septies".

---

10 b Epiph., Schol. 47: Παρέκοψε τό· λέγετε ὅτι ἀχρεῖοι δοῦλοί ἐσμεν· ὃ ὠφείλομεν ποιῆσαι π ποιήκαμεν. Ob diese Bemerkung so verstanden werden muß, daß 7—10 ganz fehlten (Z a h n), ist nicht sicher; es ist doch möglich, daß M. nur 10 b gestrichen hat, weil ihn die Härte befremdete; der sinaitische Syrer läßt ἀχρεῖοι fort. Hat Epiph. vielleicht auch nur sagen wollen, daß ἀχρεῖοι gefehlt hat und lautete sein Text ursprünglich: Παρέκοψε τὸ ⟨ἀχρεῖοι ἐν τῷ⟩ λέγετε κτλ.? Die Refutatio steht dieser Hypothese nicht entgegen.

11 ff. Tert. IV, 35: ... „Christum praevenientem sollemnia legis etiam in curatione decem leprosorum, quos tantummodo ire iussos, ut se ostenderent sacerdotibus, in itinere purgavit, sine tactu iam et sine verbo, tacita potestate et sola voluntate ... nunc etsi praefatus est (scil. Christus) multos tunc fuisse leprosos apud Israhelem in diebus Helisei prophetae et neminem eorum purgatum nisi Neman Syrum (Luk. 4, 27) ... praecepti: ‚Ite, ostendite vos sacerdotibus' ... in Samariae regionibus res agebatur, inde erat et unus interim ex leprosis ... ex fide iam iustificandos sine legis ordine remediavit: unde et unum illum solutum ex decem memorem divinae gratiae Samariten miratus non mandat offerre munus ex lege, quia satis iam obtulerat gloriam deo reddens ... : et ideo: ‚Fides tua te salvum fecit,' audiit". Epiph., Schol. 48: Ὅτε συνήντησαν οἱ δέκα λεπροί. ἀπέκοψε δὲ πολλὰ καὶ ἐποίησεν „ἀπέστειλεν αὐτοὺς λέγων δείξατε ἑαυτοὺς τοῖς ἱερεῦσι," καὶ ἄλλα ἀντὶ ἄλλων ἐποίησε, λέγων ὅτι „πολλοὶ λεπροὶ ἦσαν ἐν ἡμέραις Ἐλισσαίου τοῦ προφήτου καὶ οὐκ ἐκαθαρίσθη εἰ μὴ Νεεμὰν ὁ Σύρος (ob hier nach ἦσαν die Worte ἐν τῷ Ἰσραήλ wirklich gefehlt haben, ist μέσον) Σαμαρίας . . . 12 δέκα λεπροί . . . 14 ἀπέστειλεν αὐτοὺς λέγων· πορευθέντες δείξατε ἑαυτοὺς τοῖς ἱερεῦσιν· (καὶ ἐγένετο ἐν τῷ ὑπάγειν ἐκαθαρίσθησαν). 15 εἷς ἐξ αὐτῶν . . . δοξάζων τὸν θεόν . . . 16 (αὐτὸς ἦν) Σαμαρίτης . . . 18 δοῦναι δόξαν τῷ θεῷ. . . 19 (καὶ) θαυμάσας αὐτὸν (εἶπεν αὐτῷ)· . . . ἡ πίστις σου σέσωκέν σε.

20 . Ἐπερωτηθεὶς δὲ ὑπὸ τῶν Φαρισαίων πότε ἔρχεται ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ . . (εἶπεν)· οὐκ ἔρχεται ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ μετὰ παρατηρήσεως, 21 οὐδὲ ἐροῦσιν· ἰδοὺ ὧδε, ἰδοὺ ἐκεῖ· ἰδοὺ γὰρ ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ ἐντὸς ὑμῶν ἐστίν.

22 Ἐλεύσονται ἡμέραι, ὅταν ἐπιθυμήσητε ἰδεῖν μίαν τῶν ἡμερῶν τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου . . . 23. 24 (Das Erscheinen des Menschensohns wie der Blitz) unbezeugt. 25 πρῶτον δεῖ τὸν υἱὸν ἀνθρώπου (αὐτὸν?) πολλὰ παθεῖν καὶ ἀποδοκιμασθῆναι . . . 26—32 Vor dem Erscheinen des Menschensohns wird es sein, wie in den Tagen Noas und Lots: nur Anspielung, s. u. 32 μνημονεύετε τῆς γυναικὸς Λώτ. 33—37 (Seine Seele suchen und verlieren; zwei werden in einem Bette sein, usw.) unbezeugt.

C. XVIII, 1—8 Der böse Richter und das bittende Weib. Anspielungen: 1 πρὸς τὸ δεῖν πάντοτε προσεύχεσθαι αὐτοὺς καὶ μὴ ἐνκακεῖν . . . παραβολήν. 2 . . κριτής τις . . . χήρα . . . 7 ὁ θεὸς . . .

---

zweifelhaft) — 14 ἀπέστειλεν αὐτοὺς λέγων allein > καὶ ἰδὼν εἶπεν αὐτοῖς — δείξατε fast allein > ἐπιδείξατε — 19 θαυμάσας nach Luk. 7, 9.

20. 21 Tert., l. c.: „Sed nec Pharisaei possunt videri de alterius dei regno consuluisse dominum, quando venturum sit . . . ‚Non venit,‘ inquit, ‚regnum dei cum observatione nec dicunt: ecce hic, ecce illic; ecce enim regnum dei intra vos est‘ “. — 21 ἰδοὺ ἐκεῖ mit AD etc. a b c f q etc. (doch alle mit wenigen Ausnahmen ἢ ἰδοὺ ἐκεῖ) > ἢ ἐκεῖ. Tert. wiederholt nachher den Vers mit leichter Veränderung.

22 Epiph., Schol. 49 wie oben — ὅταν mit f s vulg > ὅτε (oder τοῦ ἐπιθυμεῖν) — ἰδεῖν vorangestellt mit a b c f ff^{2}l vulg > ἰδεῖν nach ἀνθρ. — Ob καὶ οὐκ ὄψ σθε gefehlt hat?

25 Tert. IV. 35: „Dicens enim filium hominis ante multa pati et reprobari oportere ante adventum suum“. Ob ἀπὸ τῆς γενεᾶς ταύτης gefehlt hat?

26—32 l. c.: „Sed si de suo loquitur adventu, cur eum diebus Noe (26) et Lot (28) comparat . . . cur admonet meminisse uxoris Loth (32)?“

Cap. XVIII, 1—8 Tert., IV, 36: „Nam et orandi perseverantiam et instantiam mandans parabolam iudicis ponit coacti audire viduam instantia et perseverantia interpellationum eius . . . sed subiunxit (7) facturum deum vindictam electorum suorum“.

ποιήσει τὴν ἐκδίκησιν τῶν ἐκλεκτῶν αὐτοῦ. 9—14 Anspielungen: 10 ἄνθρωποι δύο . . . εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν προσεύξασθαι, ὁ εἷς Φαρισαῖος καὶ ὁ ἕτερος τελώνης . . . 14 δεδικαιωμένος . . ὁ ταπεινῶν. 15—17 Die Kinder und das Reich Gottes: bezeugt ist v. 16 ἄφετε τὰ παιδία ἔρχεσθαι πρός με· τῶν γὰρ τοιούτων ἐστὶν ἡ βασιλεία τῶν οὐρανῶν.

18—23 Der reiche Jüngling, (wörtlich, s. u.) mit einigen in den Marcionit. Codd. selbst schwankenden Abweichungen (18 εἶπέ τις

9—14 l. c.: „Templum creatoris inducit et duos adorantes diversa mente describit, Pharisaeum in superbia, publicanum in humilitate, ideoque alterum reprobatum, alterum iustificatum descendisse".

16 Dial. I, 16 wörtlich in einer Marcionitischen Antithese τῶν οὐρανῶν (nach Matth.) mit *Λa b c syr^{cu} > τοῦ θεοῦ.

18—23 Epiph., Schol. 50: „Εἶπέ τις πρὸς αὐτόν· διδάσκαλε ἀγαθέ, τί ποιήσας ζωὴν αἰώνιον κληρονομήσω; ὁ δέ· μή με λέγε ἀγαθόν· εἷς ἐστιν ἀγαθός, ὁ θεός". προσέθετο ἐκεῖνος „ὁ πατήρ" καὶ ἀντὶ τοῦ „τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδας" λέγει „τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδα. Tert., l. c.: „Sed quis optimus ‚nisi unus', inquit, ‚deus?'" . . . „Denique interrogatus ab illo quodam: ‚Praeceptor optime, quid faciens vitam aeternam possidebo?'" . . . . „Cumque ille principaliora quaeque adfirmasset observasse se ab adolescentia: ‚unum', inquit, ‚tibi deest: omnia quaecunque habes, vende et da pauperibus ‚et habebis thesaurum in caelo, et veni, sequere me'". . . . . „Resciditne Christus priora praecepta non occidendi, non adulterandi, non furandi, non falsum testimonium testandi, diligendi patrem et matrem, an et illa servavit?" . . . „uti gloriosisimus ille observator praeceptorum pecuniam multo cariorem habiturus traduceretur" . . . „manifestando ‚unius' esse et ‚dei' nomen et ‚optimi' et ‚vitam aeternam' et ‚thesaurum in caelo.'" . . . „ ‚praecepta', inquit, ‚scio . . . vende quae habes . . . et da egenis . . . et veni, sequere me'". Dial. II, 17: Προσελθόντος αὐτῷ τινός· Διδάσκαλε ἀγαθέ, τί ποιήσας ζωὴν αἰώνιον κληρονομήσω; εἶπε δὲ („εἰ" ohne δέ Rufin) Ἰησοῦς· τί με λέγεις ἀγαθόν; οὐδεὶς ἀγαθὸς εἰ μὴ εἷς ὁ θεός· ὁ δὲ ἔφη. τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδα (Ruf: „et adiecit dicens: Mandata nosti" ist Korrektur)· μὴ φονεύσῃς, μὴ μοιχεύσῃς, μὴ κλέψῃς, μηδὲ ψευδομαρτυρήσῃς, τίμα τὸν πατέρα σου καὶ τὴν μητέρα σου. καὶ, φησίν („at ille ait")· ταῦτα πάντα ἐφύλαξα ἐκ νεότητος („iuventute mea"). ἀκούσας ταῦτα („respondens vero") ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτῷ· ἕν σοι λείπει· πάντα ὅσα („vade omnia") ἔχεις πώλησον καὶ δὸς πτωχοῖς, καὶ ἕξεις θησαυρὸν ἐν οὐρανῷ. Dial. I, 1: λέγοντος τοῦ Χριστοῦ. „οὐδεὶς ἀγαθὸς εἰ μὴ εἷς, ὁ πατήρ". Hippol., Philos. VII, 31 (aus Antithesen): „Τί με λέγετε ἀγαθόν; εἷς ἐστιν ἀγαθός". Vielleicht gehört auch Clem. Hom. XVIII, 1 hierher, wo wohl Marcion als Simon Magus spricht: μή με λέγε ἀγαθόν· ὁ γὰρ ἀγαθὸς εἷς ἐστιν, ὁ πατὴρ ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς. Orig., de princ. II. 5, 1: „Super est eis (scil. Marcionitis) etiam illud, quod velut proprie sibi datum πρὸς αὐτόν [ohne ἄρχων] . . 19 ὁ δέ· τί [μή] με λέγεις [λέγετε] ἀγαθόν; εἷς ἐστιν ἀγαθός, [ὁ] θεὸς ὁ πατήρ [oder nur ὁ θεός]. 20 τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδας [oder ὁ δὲ ἔφη· τὰς ἐντολὰς οἶδα]· μὴ φονεύσῃς, μὴ μοιχεύσῃς κτλ. . . . 21 καί, φησιν, ταῦτα [oder ὁ δὲ εἶπεν· ταῦτα] πάντα ἐφύλαξα ἐκ νεότητος. 22 ἀκούσας ταῦτα ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν· ἕν σοι λείπει κτλ.).

23—30 (Gespräch über den Reichtum und Verheißung) unbezeugt? s. u.

31—33 (Leidensankündigung) gestrichen. 34 unbezeugt.

35 Ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἐγγίζειν αὐτὸν εἰς Ἰεριχώ, καί („ecce") τις τυφλὸς ἐπαιτῶν ἐκάθητο παρὰ τὴν ὁδόν. 36 ἀκούσας δὲ ὄχλου scutum putant, quod dixit dominus in evangelio: ‚Nemo bonus nisi unus deus pater', dicentes hoc esse proprium vocabulum patris Christi, qui tamen alius sit a creatore omnium deo, cui creatori bonitatis nullam dederit appellationem." — 18 ἄρχων fehlt mit a b e ff² i l q — 19 ὁ δέ DG > εἶπεν δὲ αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησοῦς (aber im Dial. auch so) — μὴ φον., μὴ μοιχ. mit itala vulg. > μὴ μοιχ., μὴ φον. — 22 ἕν fast allein > ἔτι (ὅτι). Die übrigen Abweichungen, die z. T. auch sonst zu belegen sind, übergehe ich, da das, was M. selbst aufgenommen hat, hier unsicher ist; doch ist auch hier Einfluß aus Matth. festzustellen. Singulär ist οἶδα (20), und so wird M. selbst geschrieben haben, um Christus selbst vom Gesetz weiter abzurücken — 23 ist nur durch die Anspielung bei Tert. bezeugt. 23—30 Der Versuch Zahns, zu beweisen, 29. 30 (u. deshalb auch 23—28) habe bei M. nicht gefehlt, ist nicht geglückt; s. u. Wenn aber Dial. V, 18 (τὰ παρ' ἀνθρώποις ἀδύνατα παρὰ τῷ θεῷ δυνατά) aus M.s Ev. geflossen ist, dann haben die Verse 24—30 eine Bezeugung; jenes ist aber unwahrscheinlich.

---

31—33 Epiph., Schol. 52: Παρέκοψε τό· „παραλαβὼν τοὺς ιβ' ἔλεγεν· ἰδού, ἀναβαίνομεν εἰς Ἱεροσόλυμα, καὶ τελεσθήσεται πάντα τὰ γεγραμμένα ἐν τοῖς προφήταις περὶ τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου. παραδοθήσεται γὰρ καὶ ἀποκτανθήσεται καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ ἀναστήσεται". ὅλα ταῦτα παρέκοψε. Daraus folgt nicht notwendig (so Zahn), daß v. 34 konserviert war; denn Epiph. hat sich auch sonst Flüchtigkeiten zuschulden kommen lassen. Stand der Vers aber, so fordert er nicht die Annahme, daß v. 24—30 erhalten war, sondern kann sich zur Not auch auf v. 18—32, bzw. auf „den Schatz im Himmel" beziehen.

35—43 Dial, V, 14 wie oben. Epiph., Schol. 51: „Ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἐγγίζειν αὐτὸν τῇ Ἰεριχὼ τυφλὸς ἔβόα· Ἰησοῦ υἱὲ Δαυίδ, ἐλέησόν με. καὶ ὅτε ἰάθη, φησίν· ἡ πίστις σου σέσωκέν σε (35. 38. 42). Tert. IV, 36: „Cum igitur praetereuntem illum caecus audisset, cur exclamavit: ‚Iesu fili David, miserere mei'; ‚sed antecedentes increpabant caecum, uti taceret' . . . . ‚fides', inquit, ‚tua te salvum fecit'". — 35 εἷς Ἰεριχώ > τῇ Ἰεριχώ des Epiph. (mit 3 Minusk.), dem hier nicht zu trauen ist — καὶ διαπορευομένου ἐπυνθάνετο, τί ἂν εἴη τοῦτο; 37 ἀπηγγέλθη δὲ αὐτῷ, ὅτι Ἰησοῦς παρέρχεται. 38 καὶ ἐβόησε λέγων· Ἰησοῦ, υἱὲ Δαυίδ, ἐλέησόν με 39 οἱ δὲ προάγοντες ἐπετίμων αὐτῷ ἵνα σιωπήσῃ (αὐτὸς δὲ πολλῷ μᾶλλον ἔκραζεν· υἱὲ Δαυὶδ ἐλέησόν με)· 40 σταθεὶς δὲ (+ „Jesus") ἐκέλευσεν αὐτὸν ἀχθῆναι (+ „ad se"). ἐγγίσαντος δὲ αὐτοῦ ἐπηρώτησεν αὐτόν (+ „dicens"). 41 τί σοι θέλεις ποιήσω; ὁ δὲ εἶπε· κύριε, ἵνα ἀναβλέψω. 42 καὶ ἀποκριθεὶς εἶπεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς· ἀνάβλεψον· ἡ πίστις σου σέσωκέ σε. 43 καὶ παραχρῆμα ἀνέβλεψεν ..... καὶ πᾶς ὁ λαὸς αἶνον ἔδωκεν τῷ θεῷ.

C. XIX, 1—10 Zakchäus. Anspielungen und Zitate: 1 Ζακχαῖος — 6 ὑπεδέξατο αὐτόν. 8 τὰ ἡμίσεια ... τῶν ὑπαρχόντων ... δίδωμι, καὶ εἴ τινός τι ἐσυκοφάντησα, τετραπλοῦν ἀποδίδωμι. 9 ... σήμερον σωτηρία τούτῳ τῷ οἴκῳ, getilgt waren die Worte: καθότι καὶ αὐτὸς υἱὸς Ἀβραάμ. 10 ἦλθεν γὰρ ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου σῶσαι τὸ ἀπολωλός.

11—27 Gleichnis von den Pfunden. Kurze Anspielung:

ἰδού allein (nach Matth. 20, 30) > fehlt — ἐπαιτῶν vorangestellt mit De — 37 ὁ Ναζωραῖος fehlt (sonst unbezeugt; tendenziös) — 39 Der Vers ist von Epiph. nicht erwähnt, von Adamant. durch Homöotel. ausgelassen, fehlt auch in zahlreichen Mss.; Tert. bezeugt ihn für M.; οἱ δέ mit De > καὶ δέ — 40 δέ mit A 63 > δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς (so auch Rufin) — ἀχθῆναι mit D a e f ff² i l syr^cu > ἀχθ. πρὸς αὐτόν (so auch Rufin) — Das „dicens" Rufins ist sonst unbezeugt, also zu konservieren — 42 ἀποκρ. εἶπεν mit D a b c ff² i l s Orig. > εἶπεν (aber auch jene bieten αὐτῷ, dagegen Ἰησοῦς nicht) — 43 Tert. IV, 37: „et omnis populus laudes referebant deo" — λαός mit KΠ u. wenigen Zeugen > λαὸς ἰδών — αἶνον ἔδωκεν allein > ἔδωκεν αἶνον.

Cap. XIX, 1—10 Tert. IV, 37: „Consequitur et Zacchei domus salutem" (v. 9) ... „Zaccheus, etsi allophylus, fortasse tamen aliqua notitia scripturarum ex commercio Iudaico adflatus; plus est autem, ⟨si⟩ et ignorans Esaiam praecepta eius impleverat" (v. 8) ... „hoc cum maxime agebat, exceptum domo sua pascens dominum" (v. 6) ... „in omnia misericordiae opera dimidium substantiae offerens, dissolvens violentiorum contractuum obnexus et dimittens conflictatos in laxamentum et omnem conscriptionem iniquam dissipans dicendo: ‚et si cui quid per calumniam eripui, quadruplum reddo‘" (v. 8). „itaque dominus: ‚hodie‘, inquit, ‚salus huic domui‘" (v. 9) ... „ „venit enim filius hominis salvum facere quod periit‘." (v. 10) — 8 sonst ἀποδ. τετραπλοῦν — 9 „itaque dominus" ist freies Zitat (Tert.s) (> εἶπεν δὲ πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ Ἰησοῦς) — Die Tilgung von 9 b folgt daraus, daß Tert. Zakchäus auf Grund des Texts M.s als Heiden ansieht — 10 ζητῆσαι καὶ vor σῶσαι fehlt; ob absichtlich?

11—27 Tert. IV, 37: „Servorum quoque parabola, qui secundum rationem feneratae pecuniae dominicae diiudicantur, iudicem ostendit deum, 13 ... δούλους ... ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς ... μνᾶς ... πραγματεύσασθε ... 22 αὐστηρός, αἴρων ὃ οὐκ ἔθηκα καὶ θερίζων ὃ οὐκ ἔσπειρα .... 26 (ἀπὸ τοῦ μὴ ἔχοντος) καὶ ὃ δοκεῖ ἔχειν ἀρθήσεται. 27 (Abschlachtung der Feinde) ist unbezeugt und muß getilgt worden sein.

28 (Weg nach Jerusalem) unbezeugt, aber schwerlich getilgt.

29—46 (Einzug in Jerusalem und Tempelreinigung) getilgt.

47—48 (Er lehrte im Tempel; die nach seinem Leben trachtenden Schriftgelehrten) unbezeugt.

C. XX, 1—8 Gespräch über die Johannestaufe. Anspielungen: 1 οἱ Φαρισαῖοι ... 4 τὸ βάπτισμα τὸ Ἰωάννου ... 5 ἐξ οὐρανῶν ... διατί οὐκ ἐπιστεύσατε αὐτῷ; 6 (ἐξ ἀνθρώπων) ... (καταλιθάσει ἡμᾶς) ... 8 οὐδὲ ἐγὼ λέγω ὑμῖν ἐν ποίᾳ ἐξουσίᾳ ταῦτα ποιῶ.

9—18 (Die schlimmen Weingärtner) war gestrichen. 19 καὶ ἐζήτησαν ἐπιβαλεῖν ἐπ' αὐτὸν τὰς χεῖρας καὶ ἐφοβήθησαν.

20—26 Gott und der Kaiser. Anspielung: v. 25: ἀπόδοτε τὰ Καίσαρος Καίσαρι καὶ τὰ τοῦ θεοῦ τῷ θεῷ.

---

non tantum onerantem verum et auferentem, quod quis videatur habuisse" (26) ... „austerum, tollentem quod non posuerit et metentem quod non severit'" (21. 22) — 26 ὃ δοκεῖ ἔχειν mit einigen Zeugen, auch syr^{cu} (nach Luk. 8, 18) > ὃ ἔχει. Auf dieses Gleichnis wird auch IV, 39 p. 556 von Tert. angespielt.

29—46 Epiph., Schol. 53: Παρέκοψεν τὸ κεφάλαιον τὸ περὶ τῆς ὄνου καὶ Βηθφαγὴ καὶ τὸ περὶ τῆς πόλεως καὶ τοῦ ἱεροῦ, ὅτι γεγραμμένον ἦν „ὁ οἶκός μου οἶκος προσευχῆς κληθήσεται, καὶ ποιεῖτε αὐτὸν σπήλαιον λῃστῶν".

Cap. XX, 1. 4 Tert. IV, 38: „Sciebat Christus, baptisma Iohannis, unde esset, et cur quasi nesciens interrogabat? sciebat non responsuros sibi Pharisaeos ... puta illos renuntiasse humanum Iohannis baptisma: statim lapidibus elisi fuissent" (v. 6) ... „sed de caelis fuit baptisma Iohannis, et ‚quare', inquit Christus, ‚non credidistis ei?' (v. 5) ... ‚et ego non dico vobis, in qua virtute haec facio'" (v. 8) — 1 Φαρισαῖοι allein > οἱ ἱερεῖς καὶ οἱ γραμματεῖς σὺν τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις — 5 ἐξ οὐρανῶν allein > ἐξ οὐρανοῦ.

9—18 Epiph., Schol. 55: Πάλιν ἀπέκοψε τὰ περὶ τοῦ ἀμπελῶνος τοῦ ἐκδεδομένου γεωργοῖς καὶ τό· „τί οὖν ἔστι τό· λίθον ὃν ἀπεδοκίμασαν οἱ οἰκοδομοῦντες". 19 Epiph., Schol. 54 wie oben; die Auslassungen „οἱ γραμματεῖς καὶ οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς" und „τὸν λαόν· ἔγνωσαν γὰρ ὅτι πρὸς αὐτοὺς εἶπεν τὴν παραβολὴν ταύτην" erklären sich daraus, daß er v. 1 „Φαρισαῖοι" einsetzt (die Wiederholung war unnötig) und die Parabel gestrichen hatte.

20—26 Tert. IV, 38: „‚Reddite quae Caesaris Caesari et quae sunt dei deo'" (25).

27—40 Gespräch mit den Sadduzäern über die Auferstehung. Zitate und Anspielungen: 27 Σαδδουκαῖοι . . . 28 (Μωυσῆς ἔγραψε). 29 ἑπτὰ ἀδελφοί . . . 31 (οἱ ἑπτὰ ἀπέθανον) . . . 33 τίνος αὐτῶν γίνεται γυνὴ ἐν τῇ ἀναστάσει; 34 ἀποκριθείς· οἱ υἱοὶ τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου γαμοῦσιν καὶ γαμίσκονται, 35 οὓς δὲ κατηξίωσεν ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος ἐκείνου τυχεῖν (καὶ?) τῆς ἀναστάσεως τῆς ἐκ νεκρῶν, οὔτε γαμοῦσιν οὔτε γαμίζονται, 36 οὐδὲ γὰρ ἀποθανεῖν ἔτι μέλλουσιν, ἰσάγγελοι γάρ εἰσιν ⟨καὶ υἱοί εἰσιν, vormarcionitischer Defekt⟩ τοῦ θεοῦ, τῆς ἀναστάσεως υἱοὶ (γεγονότες?) 37. 38 getilgt, weil auf die Erzväter verweisend. 39 . . . . (γραμματεῖς) εἶπαν· διδάσκαλε, καλῶς εἶπας.

41—44 (Davids Sohn und Herr) Anspielung: (τί ὑμῖν) δοκεῖ (περὶ τοῦ) Χριστοῦ; (τίνος) υἱός (ἐστιν; λέγουσιν αὐτῷ) Δαυείδ. 44 Δαυὶδ κύριον αὐτὸν καλεῖ.

27—40 Tert. IV, 38: „Sadducaei de resurrectione habentes interrogationem proposuerant domino ex lege materiam mulieris, quae septem fratribus ex ordine defunctis secundum praeceptum legale nupsisset, cuius viri deputanda esset in resurrectione“ . . . „respondit igitur ‚huius quidem aevi filios nubere (34), quos vero dignatus sit deus illius aevi possessione et resurrectione a mortuis neque nubere neque nubi (35), quia nec morituri iam sint, cum similes angelorum sint dei, resurrectionis filii facti‘ “ (36) . . . „ex abundanti nunc et post praescriptionem retractabo adversus argumentationes cohaerentes. nacti enim scripturae textum: ‚quos autem dignatus est deus illius aevi‘ ita in legendo decurrunt, ⟨ut ‚illius aevi‘⟩ ‚deo‘ adiungant, quo alium deum faciant illius aevi, cum sic legi oportet: ‚quos autem dignatus est deus‘, ut facta hac distinctione post ‚deum‘ ad sequentia pertineat ‚illius aevi‘, i. e. quos dignatus sit deus illius aevi possessione et resurrectione“ (35); non enim de deo, sed de statu illius aevi consulebatur, cuius uxor futura esset post resurrectionem in illo aevo“ (33). „sic et de ipsis nuptiis responsum subvertunt, ut ‚filii huius aevi nubunt et nubuntur‘ “ (34) „ ‚magister‘, inquiunt, ‚bene dixisti‘ (39). Epiph., Schol. 56. 57 (irrtümlich zweimal geschrieben) zu v. 37 f: Ἀπέκοψε τό· „ὅτι δὲ ἐγείρονται οἱ νεκροὶ Μωυσῆς ἐμήνυσε ἐπὶ τῆς βάτου, καθὼς λέγει κύριον τὸν θεὸν Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Ἰσαὰκ καὶ Ἰακώβ. θεὸς δέ ἐστι ζώντων καὶ οὐχὶ νεκρῶν“ — 34 ἀποκριθείς (nach Matth.) mit vielen Zeugen — 35 οὓς δὲ κατηξ. ὁ θεός allein und tendenziös > οἱ δὲ καταξιωθέντες — 36 οὐδέ (wahrscheinlich) mit ABD > οὔτε — μέλλουσιν mit D e ff^2 i l q Cypr. > δύνανται — Der Übersetzer des M.-Ev.s hatte durch Homöotel. die Worte „καὶ υἱοί εἰσιν“ ausgelassen, oder vielmehr es fehlte schon in D 157 der Itala (außer f g) Cypr., kam also gar nicht bis zu Marcion. Auf v. 35 f. wird auch IV, 39 p. 556 angespielt: „nec morientur in illo regno nec nubent; sed erunt sicut angeli“ — 39 γραμματεῖς ergibt sich aus dem folgenden Zitat Tert.s.

45—47 (Warnung vor den Pharisäern, die der Witwen Häuser verschlingen) unbezeugt.

C. XXI, 1—4 (Der Witwe Scherflein) unbezeugt — 5 ff. Die große eschatologische Rede. Zitate und Anspielungen: 5—7 ἐπηρώτησαν αὐτὸν οἱ μαθηταί... 8 πολλοὶ ἐλεύσονται ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματί (μου), λέγοντες· ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ Χριστός... 9 πολέμους ... δεῖ ταῦτα γενέσθαι.. 10 βασιλείαν ἐπὶ βασιλείαν καὶ ἔθνος ἐπ' ἔθνος. 11 λοιμοὶ καί λιμοὶ σεισμοί τε, φόβητρά τε καὶ σημεῖα ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ.. 12 πρὸ δὲ τούτων ... διώξουσιν ... 13 (ἀποβήσεται ὑμῖν) εἰς μαρτύριον καὶ σωτηρίαν... 14 μὴ προμελετᾶν ἀπολογηθῆναι... 15 (ἐγὼ δώσω ὑμῖν..) σοφίαν.. 16 Anspielung („proximi") .... 17 μισούμενοι...

41—44 Tert. IV, 38: „Si autem scribae Christum filium David existimabant, ipse autem David dominum eum appellat, quid hoc ad Christum?" — Offenbar unter Einfluß des Matth.; denn „existimabant" (δοκεῖ) findet sich nur dort, und nur dort sagen die Schriftgelehrten, daß Christus der Sohn Davids sei; bei Luk. sagt Iesus: πῶς λέγουσιν τὸν Χριστὸν εἶναι Δαυεὶδ υἱόν;

Cap. XXI, 5—29 Tert. IV, 39: „Ipsum decursum scripturae evangelicae ab interrogatione discipulorum (7) usque ad parobolam fici" (29) — 7 οἱ μαθηταί (nach Matth.) mit D 252 mg 122 > fehlt — 8 l. c.: „multos venturos in nomine ipsius ... prohibet eos recipi ... venient illi dicentes: ‚ego sum Christus‘" — ὁ Χριστός (nach Matth.) mit 157 itala Ambros. > fehlt — hat Tert. μὴ πορευθῆτε ὀπίσω αὐτῶν durch „prohibet eos recipi", wiedergegeben oder las er etwas anderes? — 9 ff. l. c.: „videamus et quae signa temporibus imponat: bella, opinor, et regnum super regnum et gentem super gentem et pestem et fames terraeque motus et formidines et prodigia de caelo" (11). „haec cum adicit etiam ‚oportere fieri‘" etc. (9) ... „ante haec autem persecutiones eis praedicat et passiones eventuras (12) in martyrium utique et in salutem" (13) ... „et hic igitur ipse cogitari vetat, quid responderi oporteat apud tribunalia" (cf. bald darauf: „cohibuit praecogitationem") (14) .... „suggessit et sapientiam ipsam" (15) .... „a proximis quoque persecutiones et nominis ex odio utique blasphemiam" (16. 17) — 10 βασιλ. vor ἔθνος sonst unbezeugt — 11 λοιμ. κ. λιμ mit B ital. vulg. syr^{cu} > λιμ. κ. λοιμ. — 12 „passiones" wird durch Luk. nicht gedeckt; aber Matth. 10, 17: μαστιγώσουσιν ὑμᾶς, Mark. 13, 9 δαρήσεσθε, doch ist die Annahme einer Marcionitischen Korrektur nicht notwendig — 13 καὶ σωτηρίαν sonst unbezeugt, also Zusatz M.s — 14 „apud tribunalia" wird durch Luk. nicht gedeckt; es stammt aus Matth. 10, 17 (Mark. 13, 9); auch hier das zu v. 12 Gesagte — 17 „blasphemiam" das Wort braucht nicht im Text gestanden zu haben.

18 Epiph., Schol. 58: Πάλιν παρέκοψε τό· „θρὶξ ἐκ τῆς κεφαλῆς ὑμῶν οὐ μὴ ἀπόληται." διὰ τὸ ὄνομά μου. 18 getilgt. 19 ἐν δὲ τῇ ὑπομονῇ σώσετε ἑαυτούς .... 20 (ὅταν δὲ ἴδητε) κυκλουμένην ὑπὸ στρατοπέδων Ἱερουσαλήμ ... 21—24 waren gestrichen (alles was sich auf Judäa und Jerusalem bezieht). 25 σημεῖα ἐν ἡλίῳ καὶ σελήνῃ καὶ ἄστροις καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς συνοχὴ ἐθνῶν ἐν ἀπορίᾳ ὡς ἤχους θαλάσσης κυμαινούσης, 26 ... προσδοκίας τῶν ἐπερχομένων τῇ οἰκουμένῃ· αὐταὶ γὰρ αἱ δυνάμεις τῶν οὐρανῶν σαλευθήσονται. 27 καὶ τότε ὄψονται τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἐρχόμενον ἀπὸ τῶν οὐρανῶν μετὰ δυνάμεως πολλῆς. 28 τούτων δὲ γινομένων ἀνακύψατε καὶ ἐπάρατε τὰς κεφαλάς, διότι ἤγγικεν ἡ ἀπολύτρωσις ὑμῶν. 29 ... παραβολήν ... ἴδετε τὴν συκῆν καὶ πάντα τὰ δένδρα, 30 ὅταν προβάλωσιν τὸν καρπὸν (αὐτῶν), γινώσκουσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι, ὅτι

---

19 Tert. IV, 39: „‚Sed per tolerantiam‘, inquit, ‚salvos facietis vosmetipsos‘“ — ὑπομονῇ mit Syr vett. > ὑπομ. ὑμῶν — σώσετε ἑαυτούς allein (ob Matth. 24, 13?) > κτήσεσθε τὰς ψυχὰς ὑμῶν — 20 f. l. c.: „Sed monstrato dehinc tempore excidii, cum coepisset vallari exercitibus Hierusalem, signa iam ultimi finis enarrat: solis et lunae siderumque prodigia et in terris angustias nationum obstupescentium velut a sonitu maris fluctuantis pro expectatione imminentium orbi malorum, quod et ipsae vires caelorum concuti habeant“ (25. 26). — Die Verse 21—24 waren getilgt, s. Epiph., Schol. 59: Πάλιν παρέκοψε ταῦτα· „τότε οἱ ἐν τῇ Ἰουδαίᾳ φευγέτωσαν εἰς τὰ ὄρη“ καὶ ἑξῆς, διὰ τὰ ἐπιφερόμενα ἐν τῷ ῥητῷ· „ἕως πληρωθῇ πάντα τὰ γεγραμμένα“. Da Tert. von v. 20 sofort zu 25 übergeht, ist die Tilgung, dieser vier Verse gewiß. — 25. 26 werden augenscheinlich von Tert. frei wiedergegeben; daher läßt sich nicht beweisen, daß M. hier geändert hat; nur αὐταὶ γὰρ αἱ δυνάμεις (26) > αἱ γὰρ δυνάμεις glaubte ich aufnehmen zu sollen.

27 ff. Tert. IV, 39: „‚Et tunc videbunt filium hominis venientem de coelis cum plurima virtute. 28 cum autem haec fient, erigetis vos et levabitis capita, quoniam adpropinquavit (appropinquabit schwerlich richtig) redemptio vestra‘“ 29 „in tempore scilicet regni, de quo subiecta erit parabola“. 31 „sic et vos“ cum videritis omnia haec fieri, scitote adpropinquasse regnum dei“... 29 ff. „In summa ipsius parabolae considera exemplum: ‚Adspicite ficum et arbores omnes; 30 cum fructum protulerint, intellegunt homines aestatem adpropinquasse. 31 sic et vos, cum videritis haec fieri, scitote in proximo esse regnum dei‘“ — 27 ἀπὸ τῶν οὐρανῶν allein > ἐν νεφέλῃ (tendenziöse Korrektur; mit irdischem Nebel sollte Christus nichts zu tun haben) — μετὰ δυνάμεως πολλῆς allein > μ. δυν. καὶ δόξης πολλῆς, aber D viele Ital.-Codd. vulg. πολλ. nach δυναμ. — 28 τούτων δὲ γενομένων allein > ἀρχομένων δὲ τούτων γίνεσθαι — κεφαλάς mit D > κεφ. ὑμῶν — ἤγγικεν (so wahrscheinlich) mit einigen Minuskeln l m Hipp. (ἤγγισεν) > ἐγγίζει — 30 προβάλωσιν τ. καρπὸν αὐτῶν (S. Jülicher, Gleichnisreden II, 5) mit D einigen Minusk. ital. (doch

τὸ θέρος ἤγγικεν· 31 οὕτως καὶ ὑμεῖς, ὅταν ἴδητε ταῦτα γινόμενα, γινώσκετε ὅτι ἐγγύς ἐστιν ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ.

32 (ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν) ὅτι οὐ μὴ παρέλθῃ ὁ οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ γῆ, εἰ μὴ πάντα γένηται(?). 33 ἡ (δὴ?) γῆ καὶ ὁ οὐρανὸς παρελεύσονται, ὁ δὲ λόγος μου μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. 34 (προσέχετε δὲ ἑαυτοῖς), μήποτε βαρηθῶσιν ὑμῶν αἱ καρδίαι (ἐν) κραιπάλῃ καὶ μέθῃ καὶ βιωτικαῖς μερίμναις, καὶ ἐπιστῇ ἐφ' ὑμᾶς αἰφνίδιος ἡ ἡμέρα ἐκείνη 35 ὡς παγίς. 35[b] und 36 (er kommt über alle; wachet, damit ihr bestehen könnt) unbezeugt.

37 (ἦν δὲ) τὰς ἡμέρας ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ διδάσκων, τὰς δὲ νύκτας ἐξερχόμενος ... εἰς Ἐλαιών. 38 (καὶ πᾶς ὁ λαός) ... ὤρθριζεν ... (ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ) ἀκούειν αὐτοῦ.

C. XXII, 1 .... ἑορτή ... πάσχα. 2 unbezeugt. 3. 4 Wahrscheinlich: ἀπελθὼν δὲ Ἰούδας ὁ καλούμενος Ἰσκαριώτης, ὢν ἐκ τοῦ ἀριθμοῦ τῶν δώδεκα (daß der Satan in Judas gefahren, ist nicht bezeugt) συνελάλησε τοῖς στρατηγοῖς τὸ πῶς αὐτὸν παραδῷ αὐτοῖς. 5 ... ἀργύριον ... 6. 7 unbezeugt. 8 καὶ εἶπεν τῷ Πέτρῳ καὶ τοῖς nicht a) syr[cu] > προβάλωσιν (mit oder ohne ἤδη) — γινώσκουσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι allein > βλέποντες ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν γινώσκετε — ὅτι τὸ θέρος ἤγγικεν allein > ὅτι ἤδη ἐγγὺς τὸ θέρος ἐστίν.

---

[32 Tert. IV, 39: „Adhuc ingerit ‚non transiturum caelum ac terram, nisi omnia peragantur‘. 33 ‚transeat age nunc caelum et terra, dum verbum eius maneat in aevum‘ “; 34 „admoneantur et discipuli, ‚ne quando graventur corda eorum crapula et ebrietate et saecularibus curis, et insistat eis repentinus dies ille 35 velut laqueus‘ “. 37 „per diem in templo docebat, ... ad noctem vero in elaeonem secedebat ...; 38 erant horae quoque auditorio competentes; diluculo conveniendum erat“ — 32 Dieser Vers ist eine Schöpfung M.s > οὐ μὴ παρέλθῃ ἡ γενεὰ αὕτη — γένηται vielleicht stand ein stärkeres Wort („peragantur“) — 33 Der Zusammenhang bei Tert. führte den Konjunktiv und das „dum“ herbei — ἡ γῆ κ. ὁ οὐρ. allein > ὁ οὐρ. κ. ἡ γῆ — ὁ λόγος allein > οἱ λόγοι — μένει εἰς τ. αἰῶνα allein > οὐ μὴ παρελεύσονται (die Verse 32. 33 hat Z a h n zuerst in Ordnung gebracht) — 34 βιωτ. μεριμ. allein > μεριμ. βιωτ.

Cap. XXII, 1, Tert. IV, 40: „Ex tot festis Iudaeorum paschae diem elegit“. 3 „Poterat et ab extraneo quolibet tradi ... 5 poterat et sine praemio tradi“. Aus Tert. V, 6 p. 590 folgt, daß nur im katholischen Luk. stand „satanam in Iudam introisse“ (v. 3); aber v. 4 setzt einen Teil von v. 3 voraus. 4 Epiph., Schol. 60: Συνελάλησε τοῖς στρατηγοῖς [καὶ] τὸ πῶς αὐτὸν παραδῷ αὐτοῖς. — τοῖς ἀρχιερεῦσιν fehlt vor τοῖς στρατηγοῖς (sonst unbezeugt) — αὐτὸν παραδῶ αὐτοῖς mit zahlreichen Zeugen vulg. 8 Epiph., Schol. 61 wie oben. Die Fassung ist selbständig > καὶ ἀπέστειλεν Πέτρον καὶ Ἰωάννην εἰπών· πορευθέντες ἑτοιμάσατε ἡμῖν τὸ λοιποῖς· ἀπελθόντες ἑτοιμάσατε, ἵνα φάγωμεν τὸ πάσχα. 9—13 (Die weitere Ausführung dieses Befehls) unbezeugt. 14 καὶ ἀνέπεσε, καὶ οἱ δώδεκα ἀπόστολοι σὺν αὐτῷ, 15 εἶπεν πρὸς αἰτούς· ἐπιθυμίᾳ ἐπεθύμησα (τοῦτο?) τὸ πάσχα φαγεῖν μεθ' ὑμῶν πρὸ τοῦ με παθεῖν. 16 gestrichen, s. u. — 17. 18 unbezeugt und wahrscheinlich gestrichen — 19[a] λαβὼν ἄρτον ... (εὐλογήσας) ... ἔδωκεν τοῖς μαθηταῖς ... τοῦτό ἐστιν τὸ σῶμά μου, τὸ ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν διδόμενον. 19[b] (τοῦτο ποιεῖτε εἰς ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν) unbezeugt. 20 καὶ τὸ ποτήριον ὡσαύτως.... (τοῦτο τὸ ποτήριον) ἡ (καινή gestrichen!) διαθήκη ἐν τῷ αἵματί μου. 21—30 (Der Verräter. Rangstreit der Jünger; Belehrung und Verheißung für sie im Reiche des Vaters) unbezeugt bis auf 22[b]: οὐαὶ δι' οὗ παραδίδοται ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου.

31—34 Die Petrusperikope, Ankündigung seiner Verleugnung. Anspielung, s. u. (ἀπαρνήσῃ).

35—38 (Ob die Jünger je Mangel gelitten hätten? Die Schwerter) gestrichen.

πάσχα ἵνα φάγωμεν (ἵνα φαγ. τ. πάσχα Minusk 13. 69. 124) — 14. 15 Epiph., Schol. 62 wie oben. Die Worte: (καὶ) ὅτε ἐγένετο ἡ ὥρα (ἀνέπεσεν) scheint M. nicht gelesen zu haben — δώδεκα mit zahlreichen Zeugen, vulg. (nach Matth. 26, 20) > fehlt — 15 Tert., l. c.: „‚Concupiscentia concupii pascha edere vobiscum, antequam patiar‘“ — Esnik S. 195: „Und vor dem Passah sagte er zu seinen Schülern: ‚Mit Verlangen habe ich verlangt dies Passah mit euch zu essen.‘“ — Die Überlieferung sonst hat εἶπεν πρὸς αὐτούς (bzw. αὐτοῖς), aber Matth. 26, 21 εἶπεν — 16 Epiph., Schol. 63: Παρέκοψε τό· „λέγω γὰρ ὑμῖν, οὐ μὴ φάγω αὐτὸ ἀπάρτι, ἕως ἂν πληρωθῇ ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ τοῦ θεοῦ“. Das Fehlen der vv. 17. 18 ist wahrscheinlich, weil sie auch sonst nicht ganz sicher sind, weil v. 18 und 16 gleichartig sind und weil Tert. schreibt (l. c.): „Professus itaque se concupiscentia concupisse edere pascha (15), acceptum panem et distributum discipulis corpus suum illum fecit ‚hoc est corpus meum‘ dicendo“, gleich darauf: „panem debuit tradere pro nobis“ (19) — 19 τοῖς μαθηταῖς (nach Matth. 26, 26 > αὐτοῖς). Aus Dial. II, 20 läßt sich nichts Sicheres schließen; aber εὐλογήσας findet sich hier; es ist nicht unmöglich, daß dies aus Matth. 26, 26 herübergenommen war. — 20 Tert. IV, 40: „Sic et in calicis mentione testamentum constituens sanguine suo“ etc. Zum „Abendmahl“ bei M. s. W. Bauer in Gött. Gel. Anz. 1923 S. 13.

22b Tert. IV, 41: „‚Vae‘, ait, ‚per quem traditur filius hominis‘“ — οὐαὶ mit D e syr[cu] > οὐαὶ τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ ἐκείνῳ — ὁ υἱὸς τ. ἀνθρ. nach Matth. 26, 24 > fehlt.

31—34 l. c.: „Nam et Petrum praesumptorie aliquid elocutum negationi potius destinando zeloten deum tibi ostendit“.

35—37 Epiph., Schol. 64: Παρέκοψε τό· „"Οτε ἀπέστειλα ὑμᾶς,

39. 40 (Gang zum Ölberg) unbezeugt. 41 (καὶ αὐτὸς) ἀπεσπάσθη ἀπ' αὐτῶν ὡσεὶ λίθου βολὴν καὶ θεὶς τὰ γόνατα προσηύχετο. 42—4 (Gethsemane) unbezeugt. 47 . . . . Ἰούδας . . . καὶ ἤγγισε καταφιλῆσαι αὐτὸν καὶ εἶπεν· (χαῖρε ῥαββεί). 48 . . . φιλήματι . . . παραδίδως.

49—51 (Malchus-Geschichte) gestrichen.

52—62 (Rede an die Häscher. Verleugnung des Petrus) unbezeugt; doch s. 31 ff.

63—65 Verkürzt erhalten: οἱ συνέχοντες ἐνέπαιζον δέροντες καὶ τύπτοντες καὶ λέγοντες· προφήτευσον τίς ἐστιν ὁ παίσας σε; (aus 65 ist nichts erhalten). 66 . . . ἀπήγαγον εἰς τὸ συνέδριον . . . εἰ σὺ εἶ Χριστός . . . 67 εἶπεν . . . ἐὰν εἴπω ὑμῖν, μὴ πιστεύσητε. 68 unbezeugt. 69 ἀπὸ τοῦ νῦν ἔσται ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καθήμενος ἐξ δεξιῶν τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ θεοῦ. 70 . . . σὺ οὖν ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ εἶ; (ὁ δὲ ἀπεκρίθη)· ὑμεῖς λέγετε (ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι, gestrichen). 71 unbezeugt.

μή τινος ὑστερήσατε"; καὶ τὰ ἑξῆς, διὰ τό· „καὶ τοῦτο τὸ γεγραμμένον δεῖ τελεσθῆναι, τό· καὶ μετὰ ἀνόμων συνελογίσθη". Dann muß aber auch v. 38 notwendig gefehlt haben.

41 Epiph., Schol. 65 wie oben — 43 f. (Der Engel und die Agonie in Gethsemane) ist bei Lukas echt, von M. begreiflicherweise gestrichen. Sie fehlt auch im alex. Text (Einfluß von M. wahrscheinlich). — 47 Epiph., Schol. 66: „Καὶ ἤγγισε καταφιλῆσαι αὐτὸν Ἰούδας καὶ εἶπεν — ἤγγισε allein > ἤγγ. τῷ Ἰησοῦ — καταφιλῆσαι nach Matth. 26, 49 allein > φιλῆσαι, ferner καὶ εἶπεν allein (Luk. kennt hier keine Rede des Judas), aber mit Matth. 26, 49: εἶπεν· χαῖρε ῥαββεί — 48 Tert. IV, 41: „Debuit etiam osculo tradi".

49 Epiph., Schol. 67: Παρέκοψεν ὃ ἐποίησε Πέτρος, ὅτε ἐπάταξε καὶ ἀφείλετο τὸ οὖς τοῦ δούλου τοῦ ἀρχιερέως.

63—65 Epiph., Schol. 68 wie oben. — καὶ τύπτοντες mit wenigen Zeugen.

66. 67 Tert. IV, 41: „Perductus in consessum, an ipse esset Christus, interrogatur" . . . 67 „‚Si dixero' enim, inquit, ‚vobis, non credetis'" — sonst ὑμῖν εἴπω — 68 fehlt auch in zwei Mss. — 69 Tert., l. c.: „‚Abhinc', inquit „‚erit filius hominis sedens ad dexteram virtutis dei'" — 70 Tert., l. c.: „‚Ergo', inquiunt, ‚tu filius dei es?' . . . sed ‚respondit: vos dicitis', quasi non ego". Tert. bemerkt, daß M. 70a als direkte Frage fasse und Jesus die Antwort verweigern lasse durch: „vos dicitis" („nicht ich sage es", denn Jesus konnte nach M. doch nicht zugestehen, daß er der Gottes Sohn sei, den seine Gegner ihm unterschoben); aus Tert.s Ausführungen folgt deshalb auch mit Wahrscheinlichkeit, daß M. ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι gestrichen hat.

C. XXIII, 1 ... (ἤγαγον) αὐτὸν ἐπὶ τὸν Πειλᾶτον· 2 ἤρξαντο (δὲ) κατηγορεῖν (αὐτοῦ λέγοντες)· τοῦτον εὕρομεν διαστρέφοντα τὸ ἔθνος καὶ καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας (καὶ) κελεύοντα φόρους μὴ δοῦναι καὶ ἀποστρέφοντα τὰς γυναῖκας καὶ τὰ τέκνα καὶ λέγοντα ἑαυτὸν βασιλέα Χριστόν· 3 ὁ Πειλᾶτος ἠρώτησεν ... σὺ εἶ ὁ Χριστός; (ἔφη)· σύ λέγεις. 4. 5 unbezeugt. 6 (Pilatus fragt, ob Jesus Galiläer sei) indirekt bezeugt durch das Folgende. 7—12 Herodes, Christus und Pilatus, Anspielungen: 7 Πειλᾶτος ἀνέπεμψεν αὐτὸν πρὸς Ἡρώδην ... 8 ὁ Ἡρώδης ἰδὼν τὸν Ἰησοῦν ἐχάρη λίαν ... 9 (αὐτὸς δὲ οὐδὲν ἀπεκρίνατο αὐτῷ). 13—17 (Verhandlungen des Pilatus mit den Hohenpriestern usw.) unbezeugt. 18—25 Barrabas und Jesus, Anspielung: Βαραββᾶν ... διὰ φόνον ... ἀπέλυσεν .... Χριστὸν ... (τί κακὸν ἐποίησε;) ... αἰτούμενοι αὐτὸν (σταυρωθῆναι).

26—31 (Simon von Kyrene, die Töchter Jerusalems) unbezeugt. 32. 33 (ἤγοντο) δὲ καὶ δύο κακοῦργοι ... ἐσταύρωσαν (ὃν [Cap. XXIII, 1 Tert. IV, 42: „Perductum illum ad Pilatum 2 onerare coeperunt, quod se regem diceret Christum", Epiph., Schol. 69: Προσέθετο μετὰ τό· „τοῦτον εὕρομεν διαστρέφοντα τὸ ἔθνος" „καὶ καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας, Schol. 70: Προσθήκη μετὰ τό· „κελεύοντα φόρους μὴ δοῦναι" „καὶ ἀποστρέφοντα τὰς γυναῖκας καὶ τὰ τέκνα — 2 ἔθνος mit A und der Hälfte der Majuskeln > ἔθνος ἡμῶν ℵBD ital. vulg. usw. (vielleicht von Epiph. willkürlich ausgelassen — καὶ καταλυ. bis προφήτας mit b c e [aber c e bei XXIII, 5 und in erweiterter Gestalt] ff² i l q usw. („legem nostram"). Acta Pilati A: ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ σάββατα βεβηλοῖ καὶ τὸν πάτριον νόμον ἡμῶν βούλεται καταλῦσαι — κελεύοντα μή allein > κωλύοντα — φόρους fast allein > φόρους Καίσαρι (vielleicht willkürlich von Epiph. ausgelassen)—δοῦναι fast allein > διδόναι — καὶ ἀποστρεφ. bis τέκνα mit c e (zu Vers 5) > alle Zeugen. Es sind also in v. 2 zwei Zusätze M's. zu konstatieren, die im Abendland z. T. Aufnahme gefunden haben. — βασιλέα Χριστόν > Χρ. βασ.

3 Tert., l. c.: „Pilato quoque interroganti: ‚Tu es Christus?' proinde: ‚Tu dicis'" — ὁ Χριστός allein > ὁ βασιλεὺς τῶν Ἰουδαίων.

7—12 Tert., l. c.: „Nam et Herodi velut munus a Pilato missus ... delectatus est denique Herodes viso Iesu nec vocem ullam ab eo audivit".

18—25 Tert., l. c.: „Et Barrabas quidem nocentissimus vita ut bonus donatur, Christus vero iustissimus ut homicida morti expostulatur" — 25 Χριστός allein > Ἰησοῦς.

32 f. Tert., l. c.: „Sed et duo scelesti circumfiguntur illi". Das „circum .." deckt v. 33 (ὃν μὲν ἐκ δεξιῶν, ὃν δὲ ἐξ ἀριστερῶν) — Epiphan., Schol. 71 wie oben — ἐλθόντες allein > ὅτε ἀπῆλθον (ἦλθον nach Matth. 27, 33) — μὲν ἐκ δεξιῶν, ὃν δὲ ἐξ ἀριστερῶν). 33a καὶ ἐλθόντες εἰς τόπον λεγόμενον Κρανίου ἐσταύρωσαν αὐτόν. 34 a (Vater, vergib ihnen usw.) bezeugt. 34 b Verteilung der Kleider, von M. gestrichen (aber Epiph. las es wieder). 35 (Verspottung) Anspielung? 36—42 (Der Galletrank, Rette dich selbst! Die Kreuzinschrift; der fromme Schächer) unbezeugt. 43 (Heute wirst du mit mir im Paradiese sein) gestrichen.

44 ... ὥρα ἕκτη, καὶ σκότος (ἐγένετο) ἐφ' (ὅλην) τὴν γῆν ... 45 καὶ ἐσκοτίσθη ὁ ἥλιος ... ἐσχίσθη [καὶ] τὸ καταπέτασμα τοῦ ναοῦ. 46 καὶ φωνήσας μεγάλῃ φωνῇ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν· πάτερ, εἰς χεῖράς σου παρατίθημι τὸ πνεῦμά μου· τοῦτο δὲ εἰπὼν ἐξέπνευσεν.

47—49 (Der Hauptmann, das Volk, die Bekannten und die Frauen) unbezeugt.

εἰς τόπον λεγόμενον mit Wenigen > εἰς τὸν τόπον τὸν καλούμενον (aber λεγόμενον Matth. 27, 33).

34 a durch Ephraem (Conc. Evang. Expos. p. 256) bezeugt. Das οὐκ οἴδασιν gewinnt hier einen prägnanten Sinn, Der Vers ist höchst wahrscheinlich von M. hinzugesetzt und eingedrungen in ℵ*uc ACD$^{gr\ 2}$ viele Majuskel, c e f ff^2 l vulg. cop^1 syr arm aeth Iren. > ℵ^a [uncis includit] BD* a b d sah cop^2. Daß es, obgleich ursprünglich, getilgt worden, ist ganz undenkbar.

34 Tert., l. c.: „Vestitum plane eius a militibus divisum partim sorti concessum Marcion abstulit, respiciens psalmi prophetiam". Aber Epiphan. (l. c.) hat καὶ διεμερίσαντο τὰ ἱμάτια in seinem Exemplar gelesen.

35—43 scheint vollständig gefehlt zu haben; denn die Psalmstellen, die Tert. zitiert, decken v. 35 nicht sicher, und wenn Epiph., Schol. 72 sagt: Παρέκοψε τό· „σήμερον μετ' ἐμοῦ ἔσῃ ἐν τῷ παραδείσῳ (43), so werden auch 39—42 wahrscheinlich gefehlt haben.

44 Tert. Tert., l. c.: „Ecce autem et elementa concutiuntur" .... „habes et horae sextae significationem", ferner Anspielung auf das Dunkel „super terram" und (45) die Sonnenfinsternis (vgl. auch Epiph., Schol. 71: Καὶ ἐσκοτίσθη ὁ ἥλιος), „scissum est et templi velum" — ἐσκοτίσθη ὁ ἥλιος mit A D usw. itala vulg. usw. > τ. ἡλίου ἐκλιπόντος.

46 Tert. l. c.: „Vociferatur ad patrem, ut et moriens ultima voce prophetas adimpleret. ‚hoc dicto expiravit'. quis? spiritum semetipsum an caro spiritum"? Epiphan., Schol. 73: καὶ φωνήσας φωνῇ μεγάλῃ ἐξέπνευσεν". Das kann eine Verkürzung sein, aber es ist auch sehr wohl möglich, daß spätere Marcioniten das Wort Jesu ausgelassen haben, weil es ihnen unbequem wurde (s. die Polemik Tert.s) — Dial. V, 12 (voran steht sicher ein aus dem Ev. M.s genommenes Wort, s. z. Luk. 24, 25 f.): „καὶ φωνήσας μεγάλῃ φωνῇ(Rufin.: „voce magna") ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπε· Πάτερ, εἰς χεῖράς σου παραθήσομαι (Rufin: „commendo") τὸ πνεῦμά μου, καὶ ἐξέπνευσε.

50—56 (Kreuzabnahme und Grablegung), Anspielungen: 50 καὶ ἰδοὺ ἀνὴρ ὀνόματι Ἰωσήφ ... 51 οὐκ ἦν συγκατατιθέμενος (τῇ βουλῇ καὶ τῇ πράξει αὐτῶν)... 52 τῷ Πειλάτῳ ἠτήσατο τὸ σῶμα... 53 καθελὼν τὸ σῶμα ἐνετύλιξεν σινδόνι καὶ ἔθηκεν ἐν μνήματι λαξευτῷ. 54 unbezeugt. 55 muß nach v. 56 vorhanden gewesen sein. 56 ὑποστρέψασαι ἡτοίμασαν ἀρώματα (καὶ μύρα)· καὶ τὸ σάββατον ἡσύχασαν κατὰ τὸν νόμον.

C. XXIV, 1 (ὄρθρου βαθέως) ἦλθον ἐπὶ τὸ μνῆμα (φέρουσαι) ἃ ἡτοίμασαν ἀρώματα. 2 (Der abgewälzte Stein) unbezeugt. 3 ... οὐχ εὗρον τὸ σῶμα... 4 ἐν τῷ ἀπορεῖσθαι αὐτὰς περὶ τούτου, καὶ ... δύο Dieser Text ist originell; denn μεγάλῃ φωνῇ mit D > φ. μ. und καί mit a syr^{cu} > τοῦτο δὲ εἰπών. So haben also spätere Marcioniten gelesen. — Zu v. 44. 45 s. Esnik (Schmid S. 177): „Der Herr der Geschöpfe aber ergrimmte und zerriß in seinem Zorn sein Gewand (!) und den Vorhang seines Tempels; er verdunkelte seine Sonne und kleidete schwarz seine Welt und setzte sich zur Klage trauernd nieder".

50—56 Tert., l. c.: „Nihil de Pilato postulatum, nihil de patibulo detractum, nihil sidone involutum, nihil sepulcro novo conditum .... sed scilicet Ioseph corpus fuisse noverat, quod tota pietate tractavit, ille Ioseph, qui non consenserat in scelere Iudaeis" ... (Tert. IV, 43): „oportuerat etiam sepultorem domini prophetari ac iam tunc merito benedici, si nec mulierum illarum officium praeterit prophetia, quae ante lucem convenerunt ad sepulcrum (c. 24, 1) cum odorum paratura" (c. 23, 56). Epiph., Schol. 74 (zu v. 50. 53): „Καὶ ἰδοὺ ἀνὴρ ὀνόματι Ἰωσήφ, καθελὼν τὸ σῶμα ἐνετύλιξε σινδόνι καὶ ἔθηκεν ἐν μνήματι λαξευτῷ". Schol. 75 (zu v. 56): „Καὶ ὑποστρέψασαι αἱ γυναῖκες... ἡσύχασαν τὸ σάββατον κατὰ τὸν νόμον". — 53 τὸ σῶμα mit D (add. τ. Ἰησοῦ) > αὐτό, desen Stellung vor oder nach (ἐνετύλιξε) schwankend — ἔθηκεν mit 12 Minusk. und e > ἔθηκεν αὐτόν (αὐτό) — 56 Epiph. hat, wie Tert. lehrt, verkürzt; die Wortstellung kommt nicht in Betracht — κατὰ τὸν νόμον allein > κατὰ τὴν ἐντολήν, wahrscheinlich absichtliche Korrektur, um ein Mißverständnis zu verhüten; in D fehlen die Worte.

Cap. XXIV Zu diesem Cap. s. die Bemerkung des Epiph. (haer. 42,9), daß M. auch τοῦ τέλους (τοῦ εὐαγγελίου) πολλὰ περιέκοψε (vgl. auch 42, 11).

1 Tert. IV, 43: „Ante lucem convenerunt ad sepulcrum cum odorum paratura" (s. o.) .... 3: „corpore autem non invento" .... 4: „sed et duo ibidem angeli apparuerunt". 4 f. Epiph., Schol. 76: „Εἶπαν οἱ ἐν ἐσθῆτι λαμπρᾷ· τί ζητεῖτε τὸν ζῶντα μετὰ τῶν νεκρῶν; 6 ἠγέρθη, μνήσθητε ὅσα ἐλάλησεν ἔτι ὢν μεθ' ὑμῶν, 7 ὅτι δεῖ τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου παθεῖν καὶ παραδοθῆναι. 4: „In recogitatu mulierum volutata inter dolorem praesentis destitutionis, qua percussae sibi videbantur a domino, et spem resurrectionis ipsius, qua restituiri se arbitrabantur" (hat hier Tert. etwas ἄγγελοι (ἄνδρες?) ἐν ἐσθῆτι λαμπρᾷ (ἀστραπτούσῃ?)... 5 τί ζητεῖτε τὸν ζῶντα μετὰ τῶν νεκρῶν; 6 ... ἠγέρθη, μνήσθητε ὅσα ἐλάλησεν ὑμῖν (ἔτι ὤν?) ἐν τῇ Γαλιλαίᾳ (Epiph. anders, s. u.), 7 λέγων ὅτι δεῖ παραδοθῆναι (Epiph. anders, aber unzuverlässig) τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καὶ σταυρωθῆναι καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ ἡμέρᾳ ἀναστῆναι. 9—11 Anspielung: ὑποστρέψασαι ἀπὸ τοῦ μνημείου ἀπήγγειλαν πάντα ταῦτα τοῖς ἕνδεκα.... ἠπίστουν. 12 Die Petrus Perikope fehlt.

13—35 Die Emmauten: 13—20 Anspielung, s. u.; 18 Κλεόπας.. 21 ἡμεῖς δὲ ἐνομίζομεν, ὅτι αὐτός ἐστιν ὁ λυτρωτὴς τοῦ Ἰσραήλ. 21 b—24 unbezeugt (ob getilgt?). 25 ὦ ἀνόητοι καὶ βραδεῖς τῇ καρδίᾳ τοῦ bei M. gelesen, was im kanonischen Lukas nicht steht? Schwerlich!) 6 οὐκ ἔστιν ὧδε fehlt bei Marcion und D a b e, kann von M. absichtlich getilgt sein (Christus ist überall) — 6 f. „Angeli ad mulieres: ‚Rememoramini, quae locutus sit vobis in Galilaea dicens, quod oportet tradi filium hominis et crucifigi et tertia die resurgere“ — 4 „angeli“ gebührt wohl dem Tert. (> ἄνδρες) — λαμπρᾷ (vielleicht willkürlich) > ἀστραπτούσῃ — 6 ὅσα mit D c d syr^{cu} > ὡς — Das bei Tert. fehlende ἔτι ὤν nach ὑμῖν ist vielleicht zufällig von ihm übergangen — 7 παραδοθῆναι mit a > παραδ. εἰς χεῖρας ἀνθρώπων (ἁμαρτωλῶν).

---

9—11 Tert. l. c.: „Revertentes quoque a sepulcro mulieres ..... incredulitas discipulorum perseverabat“, s. auch unten zu v. 25.

12 Diese gut lukanisch stilisierte Perikope ist bei M. nicht nachzuweisen; sie fehlt sonst nur in D a b e l f u, einem Syrer, Euseb^{can}. Also ist sie echt und von M. gestrichen, der Petrus hier nicht wünschte.

13—21 Tert., l. c.: „Nam cum duo ex illis iter agerent et dominus eis adhaesisset, non comparens quod ipse esset, etiam dissimulans de conscientia rei gestae, ‚Nos autem putabamus‘, inquiunt, ‚ipsum esse redemptorem Israhelis‘“ (v. 21); die beiden letzten Worte bald darauf wiederholt — 21 ἐνομίζομεν allein > ἠλπίζομεν — ὁ λυτρωτὴς τ. Ἰσρ. nur wahrscheinlich; vielleicht stand doch das überlieferte ὁ μέλλων λυτροῦσθαι τὸν Ἰσραήλ.

25 ff. Epiph., Schol. 77: Παρέκοψε τὸ εἰρημένον πρὸς Κλεόπαν καὶ τὸν ἄλλον, ὅτε συνήντησεν αὐτοῖς, τό· „ὦ ἀνόητοι καὶ βραδεῖς τοῦ πιστεύειν πᾶσιν, οἷς ἐλάλησαν οἱ προφῆται· οὐχὶ ταῦτα ἔδει παθεῖν“, καὶ ἀντὶ δὲ τοῦ „ἐφ᾽ οἷς ἐλάλησαν οἱ προφῆται“ ἐποίησεν „ἐφ᾽ οἷς ἐλάλησα ὑμῖν.“ ἐλέγχεται δὲ ὅτι· „ὅτε ἔκλασε τὸν ἄρτον, ἠνεῴχθησαν αὐτῶν οἱ ὀφθαλμοὶ καὶ ἐπέγνωσαν αὐτόν“ (30 f.). Tert. IV, 43: „Plane invectus est in illos: ‚O insensati et tardi corde in non credendo omnibus, quae locutus est ad vos‘, quaenam locutus?“ und: „Igitur increpuit illos ut de sola passione scandalizatos et ut dubios de fide resurrectionis adnuntiatae sibi a feminis, per quas non crediderant ipsum fuisse“ usw. Epiph. stimmt nur bei flüchtiger Betrachtung nicht mit Tert. überein; auch nach ihm hat M. nicht mehr verändert als nach Tert.; sein ἐλάλησα ist wahrscheinlich eine jüngere

πιστεύειν ἐπὶ πᾶσιν οἷς ἐλάλησεν πρὸς ὑμᾶς, 26 ὅτι ἔδει ταῦτα παθεῖν τὸν Χριστόν... 27 unbezeugt und sicher gestrichen (Jesus gibt die prophetische Weissagung über ihn selbst wieder). 28. 29 (sie kommen ins Dorf; Jesus soll bleiben) unbezeugt. 30. 31 Anspielung: τὸν ἄρτον.. κλάσας ... ἠνεῴχθησαν αὐτῶν οἱ ὀφθαλμοὶ καὶ ἐπέγνωσαν αὐτόν. 32—36 (Rede der beiden Jünger, Rückkehr nach Jerusalem, Berichterstattung, der Herr dem Petrus erschienen, Jesu Eintritt in den Kreis) unbezeugt. 37 .... ἐδόκουν αὐτὸν φάντασμα εἶναι. 38 (καὶ εἶπεν αὐτοῖς)· τί τεταραγμένοι ἐστέ; καὶ ἵνα τί διαλογισμοὶ ἀναβαίνουσιν εἰς τὴν καρδίαν ὑμῶν; 39 ἴδετε τὰς χεῖράς μου καὶ τοὺς πόδας μου, ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι αὐτός [ψηλαφήσατέ με καὶ ἴδετε war gestrichen], ὅτι πνεῦμα [σάρκας καὶ war gestrichen] ὀστέα οὐκ ἔχει, καθὼς ἐμὲ θεωρεῖτε ἔχοντα. 41 ἔτι δὲ ἀπιστούντων

Marcionitische Lesart neben dem ἐλάλησεν M.s und wird durch Dial. V, 12 gestützt, wo sich der Vers (mit ἐλάλησα) wie oben findet und sich in den Worten fortsetzt: ὅτι ἔδει ταῦτα παθεῖν τὸν Χριστόν — 26 ὅτι mit D > οὐχί — ἔδει ταῦτα allein > τ. ἐ — Rufin übersetzt wohl willkürlich „Nonne ita scriptum est, pati Christum et sic introire in gloriam suam?" Tert. bezeugt v. 26 (weil er aus Versehen v. 25 mit v. 6 vertauscht) indirekt — 30 f. ἠνεῴχθησαν allein > διηνοίχθησαν (Wortstellung irrelevant), ἠνύγησαν D.

37 f. Tert. IV, 43: „Haesitantibus eis, ne phantasma esset, immo phantasma credentibus: ‚Quid turbati estis? et quid cogitationes subeunt in corda vestra? videte manus meas et pedes, quia ipse ego sum, quoniam spiritus ossa non habet, sicut me habentem videtis‘". Cf. de carne Chr. 5: „Aspicite, dicens quod ego sum, quia spiritus ossa non habet sicut me habentem videtis". Tert. wundert sich, daß M. dies beibehalten hat und sieht darin eine besondere Verschlagenheit, um für seine sonstigen Fälschungen Glauben zu erwecken; hier habe er dafür eine falsche Auslegung gegeben — 37 φάντασμα mit D u. Apelles > πνεῦμα (ἐδόκουν πνεῦμα θεωρεῖν), s. Dial. V, 12: ... δοκοῦσιν φαντασίαν εἶναι — 38 Epiph., Schol. 78: „Τί τεταραγμένοι ἐστέ; ἴδετε τὰς χεῖράς μου καὶ τοὺς πόδας μου, ὅτι πνεῦμα ὀστέα οὐκ ἔχει, καθὼς ἐμὲ θεωρεῖτε ἔχοντα" (39). Dial. V, 12: „Τί τεταραγμένοι κτλ., wesentlich wie oben — ἵνα τί allein > διατί — ob M. καρδία im Sing. (mit BD itala) oder Plur. gelesen hat, ist fraglich — 39 Die Streichung von ψηλαφήσατε κτλ. bezeugen die drei Zeugen (με καὶ ἴδετε fehlt auch in D, ital. [außer c]) — σάρκας als fehlend bezeugen Tert. u. Epiph. > Dial. — 40 fehlt mit D a b e ff² l syr^cu; die Worte (καὶ τοῦτο εἰπὼν ἐπέδειξεν αὐτοῖς τὰς χεῖρας καὶ τοὺς πόδας) sind aber m. E. lukanisch, von Joh. 20, 20 nachgeahmt und von M. gestrichen, dem ein Teil der abendländischen Textüberlieferung gefolgt ist. — 41 Tert., l. c.: „Atquin adhuc eis non αὐτῶν . . . τι βρώσιμον . . . 42. 43 ἰχθύος . . ἔφαγεν. 44—46 (Jesus öffnet ihnen die Schrift) unbezeugt; es mußte von Marcion gestrichen werden. 47 . . . . κηρυχθῆναι εἰς πάντα τᾶ ἔθνη. — 48—53 unbezeugt.

C. Untersuchungen zum Evangelium Marcions.

Daß das Evangelium Marcions nichts anderes ist als was das altkirchliche Urteil von ihm behauptet hat, nämlich ein verfälschter Lukas [1], darüber braucht kein Wort mehr verloren zu werden [2]. Häufiger als im Apostolikon ist der eigentümliche Text credentibus propterea cibum desideravit, ut se ostenderet etiam dentes habere". Zahn meint, daß 42. 43 fehlten, da Tert. nicht vom wirklichen Essen spricht. Aber was soll v. 41 für sich allein bedeuten? Dazu: die Marcioniten bei Esnik (Schmid S. 195) sagen: „Christus aß nach seiner Auferstehung Fisch und nicht Fleisch; weswegen auch wir Fisch essen und nicht Fleisch". — 47 Tert., l. c.: „. . . . . siquidem et apostolos mittens ad praedicandum universis nationibus" — ἀρξάμενον ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλήμ hat M. schwerlich stehen gelassen. M.s Evangelium schloß wohl mit den Worten: κηρυχθῆναι . . . ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν εἰς πάντα τὰ ἔθνη. Das Folgende stehen zu lassen war ihm unmöglich, und Streichungen am Schluß bezeugt Epiphanius ausdrücklich (s. v. zum Anfang des Kapitels.)

---

1 Daß Hippolyt, der in dem Syntagma (s. Pseudotert. unter „Cerdo", Filastr., haer. 45) dies ausdrücklich sagt, in der Refut. VII, 30 Marcions Evangelium auf das Markus-Ev. zurückführt, gehört zu den mancherlei Unbegreiflichkeiten, die dieses Werk im Verhältnis zum Syntagma aufweist. Hippolyt muß geschlafen haben, als er dies niederschrieb, oder die Erinnerung an den wahren Tatbestand muß dem alten Manne so verblaßt gewesen sein, daß sich ihm das kurze Ev. des Markus und der „stummelfingerige" Markus — so nennt er ihn, auf eine alte Überlieferung über ihn anspielend — mit dem verkürzten Lukas in einem wirren tertium comparationis vermengte. — Soeben ist ein durch Fleiß ausgezeichnetes, aber ganz unbrauchbares Buch von Raschke über das Markus-Ev. erschienen, welches nicht nur dies Ev. für das Marcion-Ev. erklärt, sondern auch Markus mit Marcion identifiziert und unter anderem unter den 12 Jüngern den Kaiser Hadrian, den Vierfürst Philippus, Theudas usw. findet, auch in dem „fliehenden Jüngling" bei Markus den von Jesus sich entfernenden Christus-Geist sieht.

2 Epiph., haer. 42, 9: Οὗτος ἔχει εὐαγγέλιον μόνον τὸ κατὰ Λουκᾶν, περικεκομμένον ἀπὸ τῆς ἀρχῆς διὰ τὴν τοῦ σωτῆρος σύλληψιν καὶ τὴν ἔνσαρκον αὐτοῦ παρουσίαν. οὐ μόνον δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν ἀπέτεμεν ὁ λυμηνάμενος ἑαυτὸν ⟨μᾶλλον⟩ ἤπερ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῦ τέλους καὶ τῶν μέσων

M.s durch zwei (und mehrere) Zeugen beglaubigt [1]. Ganz wie beim Apostolikon schwankt aber auch bei einer Anzahl von Stellen die Überlieferung — in zahlreichen Fällen gewiß infolge der Ungenauigkeit der Referenten, aber in anderen Fällen ebenso sicher infolge der fortgesetzten Arbeiten der Schüler Marcions am Bibeltext [2]. Nicht immer muß hier der älteste Referent (Tertullian) Recht haben; denn auch sein Exemplar des Marcionitischen Evangeliums wird nicht das intakte Exemplar Marcions selbst gewesen sein. Daher kann auch in einzelnen Fällen Epiphanius die urspüngliche LA Marcions aufbewahrt haben, Tertullian aber die sekundäre wiedergeben.

Die Textrezension, der M. gefolgt ist, und die Frage, wie er diesen Text, abgesehen von seinen tendenziösen Korrekturen [3] gefaßt hat, bedürfen auch hier, wie beim Apostolikon einer besonderen Untersuchung [4].

πολλὰ περιέκοψε τῶν τῆς ἀληθείας λόγων, ἄλλα δὲ παρὰ γεγραμμένα προστέθεικεν [dies bestätigt sich nur in bescheidenstem Umfang], μόνῳ δὲ κέχρηται τούτῳ τῷ χαρακτῆρι, τῷ κατὰ Λουκᾶν εὐαγγελίῳ.

1 S. den Anfang des Marcionitischen Evangeliums, ferner 5, 14; 6, 43; 8, 19; 8, 46; 10, 21 (bis); 10, 22; 12, 8; 12, 28; 12, 32; 13, 28 (bis); 16, 11 ff.; 24, 25 (bis); 24, 37; 24, 39 (bis). Auch die Stellen gehören hierher, wo M.s Text von zwei oder mehreren Zeugen als vorhanden und gleichlautend mit dem kanonischen bezeugt wird; ferner auch solche Stellen, wo Epiphanius oder Tertullian Lücken angibt und sich die Verse auch bei den anderen Zeugen nicht finden; s. z. B. 8, 40—42 a u. 49—56; 11, 29—32; 12, 6. 7; 13, 29—35; 15, 11—32; 18, 31—33; 19, 29—46; 20, 9—18; 20, 37. 38; 21, 18; 21, 21—24; 22, 16; 22, 35—37; 22, 49—51; 24, 40.

2 S. zu c. 4, 16 f.; 5, 14 (bis); 5, 33; 5, 36 ff.; 7, 9; 7, 27; 9, 30; 10, 26. 27; 12, 4; 12, 39—48; 18, 18—23; 23, 46; 24, 25 u. a. Eine einheitliche Richtung oder Tendenz in den späteren Korrekturen läßt sich nicht nachweisen. Dazu ist das Material zu schmal und unsicher. Sicher ist, daß sie auch aus den anderen Evangelien ein paar Stellen aufgenommen haben, so Matth. 5, 17, aber mit Umkehrung des Gedankens.

3 Über diese ist in der Darstellung ausreichend gehandelt worden.

4 Aus den Worten des unbekannten syrischen antimarcionitischen Polemikers: „. . . z. Z. des Pilatus des Pontiers, in jener Zeit, da das Ev. geschrieben wurde", könnte man folgern, M. habe die Abfassung des Evangeliums in die Zeit des Pilatus verlegt. Unmöglich wäre das nicht, aber der Zusammenhang der Stelle legt die Annahme näher, daß sich der Autor mißverständlich ausgedrückt hat und sagen wollte, daß Christus nach M. erst z. Z. des Pilatus aufgetreten sei.

1. Der Charakter des von Marcion benutzten Textes.

Der kritische Apparat ergibt zunächst dieselben Hauptresultate für das Evangelium, die oben S. 150* f sub (1)—(6) für das Apostol. festgestellt worden sind. An das vierte ist hier noch einiges weitere anzuknüpfen.

M.s griechischer und lateinischer Text des Lukas Ev.[1] ist — abgesehen von seinen tendenziösen Eingriffen — ein reiner 𝔚Text[2]. Der Apparat bringt dafür Kapitel für Kapitel so zahlreiche Belege, daß sie hier nicht einzeln aufgeführt zu werden brauchen. Speziell aber dem Text im Cod. D steht M.s Text näher als jedem anderen Text[3]. Marcion hat also sein Evangelium wahrscheinlich erst in Rom rezensiert. Wann die lateinische Übersetzung angefertigt ist und ob vielleicht die Marcionitische Übersetzung die Vorlage der katholischen ist, läßt sich hier so wenig sicher ermitteln, wie beim Apostolikon; aber, die letztere Frage anlangend, ist es hier, wie dort, höchst unwahrscheinlich, daß man nach dem verkürzten und tendenziös entstellten Latinum M.s den echten Text wiederhergestellt hat.

---

1 Die beiden Texte stehen sich außerordentlich nahe (wie beim Apostol.), d. h. die lateinische Übersetzung hat, soviel man zu urteilen vermag, fremde Einflüsse nicht erfahren.

2 Ebendeshalb sind auch, wie beim Apostol., die Übereinstimmungen mit Syr. Curet. u. Sin. und mit den ägyptischen Versionen zahlreich; beachtenswert sind auch die Berührungen mit Sinait. (erste Hand). Daß M.s Text so zu beurteilen ist, hat Pott bereits 1906 bezw. 1920 in seinen Arbeiten „Der Text des NT nach seiner geschichtlichen Entwicklung" und „De text u evv. in saeculo secundo" („Mnemosyne" Juli u. Okt. 1920) nachgewiesen.

3 Dem Archetypus von a b c e aber fast ebenso nah. Die besondere Affinität D und Marcion ist im Ev. noch größer als im Apostol. Außerdem kommen auch hier, wie beim Ev., Irenaeus (Lat.), Ambrosiaster, Ambrosius usw. in Betracht. — In der Zeitschrift f. Kirchengesch. hat Pott eine Abhandlung über den MText veröffentlicht (Bd. 42 H. 2, 1923 S. 202 ff.). Da sein Textmaterial über das Tischendorfsche hinausgeht, hat er nachweisen können, daß 2 bis 3 Dutzend bisher als unbezeugt geltende indifferente Lesarten M.s doch, wenn auch ganz spärlich (und meistens von Zeugen des 𝔚Textes), bezeugt sind.

Indessen bedürfen die Varianten M.s im Zusammenhang mit dieser Frage noch einer Untersuchung [1].

Legt man den Text Tischendorfs zugrunde und läßt man alles beiseite, was an Varianten und Ausmerzungen sicher oder höchst wahrscheinlich dem Marcion gebührt (weil es seine eigentümlichen Tendenzen aufweist,) ferner alles, was sonst unbezeugt ist, so zeigt die Hauptgruppe der Varianten, nämlich die 2—300, welche er mit dem 𝔚Text gemeinsam, hat, einen starken Einfluß des Matth.-Textes bzw. des Markus-Textes.

Da es höchst unwahrscheinlich ist, um nicht mehr zu sagen, daß M. selbst den Lukastext dem von ihm abgelehnten Matthäus konformiert hat, so kann dem Schlusse nicht ausgewichen werden, obgleich, soviel ich sehe, Pott ihn nicht anerkennt, daß M. bereits einen 𝔚Lukastext vorgefunden hat, der mit Matth. (bezw. auch mit Markus) konformiert war[2].

Hierzu kommen aber noch einige Stellen, in denen M. mit Matth. oder Mark. geht, ohne von Zeugen des 𝔚textes oder überhaupt von einem Zeugen begleitet zu sein[3].

---

1 Ich habe mir einige griechische Worte zusammengestellt, die in dem Marcionitischen Bibeltext stehen gelassen sind; von besonderem Interesse scheinen sie mir nicht zu sein: allegorica, angelus, apostolus, arabon, architectus, baptizari, blasphemia, colophizari, diabolus, ecclesia, evangelium, (evangelizari, evangelizator), idolothyta, neomenia, paradisus, philosophia, propheta (prophetari, prophetia), pseudapostoli, scandalum, stigmata, synagoga.

2 In einzelnen Fällen kann man streiten, ob überhaupt eine Konformierung vorliegt (s. Pott, Zeitschr. f. KGesch. S. 208 f.) — in zahlreichen Fällen aber stehen Konformierungen fest. Für die Kanonsgeschichte ist die Beobachtung von großer Bedeutung: der in Rom um die Mitte des 2. Jahrhunderts gültige Text des Lukas war schon mit Matth. (Mark.) konformiert. — Die Konformationen sind gewiß mit vollem Bedacht unternommen.

3 Ich gebe hier keine Zusammenstellungen, wie in der ersten Auflage, weil ich durch Pott belehrt bin, daß der Tischendorfsche Apparat nicht ausreicht, ich aber aus verschiedenen Gründen mit dem Soden'schen Apparat nicht zu arbeiten vermag. Doch ist der Schaden nicht groß; denn, unabhängig von zahlreichen Zweifeln im Einzelnen stehen die Beobachtungstatsachen fest (1) daß an zahlreichen Stellen, an denen M. denselben Text wie 𝔚 hat, synoptischer Einfluß vorliegt, (2) ein solcher auch dort hin und her zu konstatieren ist, wo M.s Text allein steht.

Daß in diesen Fällen, die alle stilistisch-lexikalischer Natur und sachlich ganz neutral sind, Marcion selbst die Konformierung mit den anderen Synoptikern vorgenommen hat, ist deshalb ganz unwahrscheinlich, weil sie sich den oben beurteilten Fällen einfach anschließen, in denen der von ihm benutzte 𝔚Text bereits diese Konformierungen aufweist[1]. Daß M. innerhalb des 𝔚Textes, den er bezeugt, Sonderlesarten hat, ist ja zu erwarten; denn solche weist auch jeder andere der Zeugen (D, d, a, b, c, Ambrosiaster usw.) in großer Zahl auf. Tragen diese Sonderlesarten dieselben Züge wie die Lesarten, welche der Text zusammen mit seinen Familienverwandten aufweist, so gehören sie nicht dem einzelnen Text an, sondern der Familie. Natürlich stellen sie nicht den Typ des 𝔚Textes dar, sondern bereits eine harmonistische Abwandlung. Aber es bleibt mir unverständlich, warum Pott das Unwahrscheinliche für wahrscheinlich hält, daß M. selbst für alle diese Harmonisierung mit Matth. „oft" (S. 212 u. sonst) verantwortlich sei. Nur Gründe zwingendster Art könnten dazu führen, dies anzunehmen; sie fehlen aber gänzlich.

Dogmatisch indifferente, sonst nicht oder kaum bezeugte Lesarten, unbeeinflußt von Matth. und Mark., finden sich in dem Text noch gegen 90[2]. Daß sie M.s geistiges Eigentum sind und er sie ab-

---

1 In einigen Fällen übrigens mag die Konformierung mit den anderen Synoptikern auf Rechnung des Tert. kommen (der selbst hin und her bei seinen Referaten zum Matth.-Text abgleitet, weil er ihn im Gedächtnis hatte), oder auf Rechnung (bei Epiphanius) späterer Einflüsse des Matth.-Textes auf den Marcion-Text. In bezug auf Tert. s. z. B. zu 6, 20; 12, 10. 24. 51 (IV, 14. 28. 29). An der ersten Stelle zitiert er beim zweiten Zitat des Spruchs „caelorum" (nach Matth.) statt „dei"; an der zweiten schiebt er in der Auseinandersetzung „blasphemia" (nach Matth.) ein, obgleich er den Spruch richtig nach Lukas-Marcion, nämlich ohne „blasphemia", zitiert hatte. An der dritten fügt er aus der Erinnerung an den Matth.-Text „et tamen vestiuntur ab ipso" hinzu, und an der vierten glaubt er, M. habe „machaeram" aus dem Texte entfernt und durch ein anderes Wort ersetzt, aber bei Matth., nicht bei Luk., steht „machaeram".

2 Ich gebe diese Zusammenstellung ohne Gewähr dafür, daß nicht einzelne Stellen anders zu beurteilen sind. S. c, 4, 32; 5, 38; 6, 3 (bis). 9[?]. 12. 17(ter). 22(ter). 27 f. 29(quater) 31. 38. 43 (bis); 7, 1. 16. 18f.[?]. 23(bis). 27. 28; 8, 18. 46; 9, 8. 19(bis). 20. 22. 24. 30(quinquies); 10, 21 (bis); 24(ter); 11, 1. 11. 12. 20. 28. 46. 47; 12, sichtlich eingebracht hat, ist nur für eine sehr kleine Gruppe wahrscheinlich. Auch sie gehören größtenteils zu dem Text, wie er ihn bereits vorgefunden hat. Ein nicht geringer Teil von ihnen wird übrigens der unsicheren Überlieferung zuzuschreiben sein, in der wir M.s Text besitzen; also bleibt im besten Fall nur ein sehr kleiner Teil übrig, der M. selbst zuzuweisen ist. Ich greife das 6. und das 16. Kapitel heraus, um eine Anschauung von der Art dieser Varianten zu geben[1]:

6, 3 Χριστός > Ἰησοῦς.

6, 3 τί > ὅ.

6, 9 μή > κακοποιῆσαι (hat Tert. etwa willkürlich verkürzt?).

6, 12 τοῦ πατρός > τοῦ θεοῦ.

6, 17 κατέβη > καταβάς.

6, 17 ἐν αὐτοῖς > μετ' αὐτῶν.

6, 22 ἔσεσθε > ἔστε.

6, 22 Stellung von ὑμᾶς verändert.

6, 22 fehlt ἀφορίσουσιν ὑμᾶς.

6, 27.28 Glied 2 und 3 dieses Spruchs in eins gezogen.

6, 29 ἐάν τις > ὅστις.

6, 29 ῥαπίσῃ > ῥαπίζει.

6, 29 παράθες (πρόσθες?) > πάρεχε.

6, 29 πρόσθες > μὴ κωλύσῃς.

6, 31 καὶ καθὼς ὑμῖν γίνεσθαι θέλετε παρὰ τῶν ἀνθρώπων, οὕτω καὶ ὑμεῖς ποιεῖτε αὐτοῖς > καὶ καθὼς θέλετε ἵνα ποιῶσιν ὑμῖν οἱ ἄνθρωποι, καὶ ὑμεῖς ποιεῖτε ὁμοίως.

6, 38 fehlt σεσαλευμένον.

6, 43 der schlechte Baum vor den guten gestellt (dies war wohl Absicht).

6, 43 προενεγκεῖν (προενέγκαι) > ποιεῖν.

16, 12 εὑρέθητε > ἐγένεσθε.

16, 12 Umstellung von ἀνθέξεται und καταφρονήσει.

16, 16 ἐξ (ἀφ') οὗ > ἀπὸ τότε.

---

2 (bis). 8. 9(ter). 41. 47 (bis); 13, 25; 16, 12. 16. 18 (bis). 21. 25. 26. 27, 28. 29. 31 (bis); 17, 11 f. (4, 27: ist hier eingeschaltet). 14 (bis). 19; 18, 22. 43; 20. 1. 5; 21. 10. 19. 26. 27. 28. 30 (bis). 34; 22, 4. 8. 67; 23, 33; 24, (4). 21 (bis). 26. 31. 38.

1 Auch hier mag die eine oder andere Stelle unsicher sein, weil sie nicht bei M. allein steht.

16, 18 ὁ > πᾶς ὁ.
16, 18 ὁμοίως μοιχός ἐστιν > μοιχεύει.
16, 21 τραύματα > ἕλκη.
16, 25 Ἀβραάμ vorangestellt.
16, 26 ὑμῶν κ. ἡμῶν > ἡμ. κ. ὑμ.
16, 27 οἰκίαν > οἶκον.
16, 28 ἐκεῖ > fehlt.
16, 29 ἐκεῖ > fehlt.
16, 31 ὁ δὲ εἶπεν > εἶπεν δὲ αὐτῷ.
16, 31 ἀκούσωσιν αὐτοῦ > πεισθήσονται.

„Χριστός„ statt „Ἰησοῦς" und die Voranstellung des schlechten Baumes vor den guten mögen ebenso absichtliche Änderungen M.s sein[1] wie „prodiit" für ἠγέρθη (7, 16); aber abgesehen von diesen und ein paar anderen Ausnahmen[2], zeigt die Natur auch dieser hier zusammengestellten, sonst unbelegten Varianten, daß wir es schwerlich mit M. selbst hier zu tun haben, sondern mit seiner Vorlage. Was sollte ihn auch bestimmt haben, diese Art von Diorthosen, die denen des 𝔚textes so ähnlich sehen, vorzunehmen?

Somit bleibt nur die große Anzahl seiner absichtlichen Auslassungen und tendenziösen Korrekturen übrig[3]; denn daß Marcion daneben auch eine stilistische Korrektur des Textes vorgenommen hat, ist nach dem Ausgeführten unwahrscheinlich und ebenso

---

1 Doch s. über Χριστός oben S. 154*.

2 Zahn ist geneigt, M. bei 6, 31 die Apostellehre berücksichtigen zu lassen, allein diese Annahme ist unnötig.

3 Die Stellen, um die es sich handelt (einschließlich solcher, bei denen es zweifelhaft bleibt, ob M. sie gestrichen oder Tert. sie ausgelassen hat), sind mit annähernder Vollständigkeit salvo errore folgende: c. 1, 1—4, 32; 4, 34; 4, 36—39. 44; 5, 39; 6, 17. 23 a. (26). 30 b. 32—34. 47—49; 7, 28. 29—35; 8, 19. 20 f. 28. (32—37). 40—42 a. 49—56; 9, 23. 26 b. 27. 30. 31. 36. 49. 50. 54. 55; 10, 12—15. 21. 25. 26. 28. 29—37. 38—42; 11, 3. 4. 23—26. 29—32. 34—36. 42. 44. 45. 49—51. 53. 54; 12, 6. 7. 8. 9. 24—26. 28. 32. 46. 49—51; 13, 1—9. 22—24. 28. 29—35; 14, 1—11. 21. 25—35; 15, 10. 11—32; 16, 9. 10. 12. 15. 17. 26. 29. 30; 17, 5. 6. 11—19. 23. 24; 18, 20. (24—30); 31—33. 34. 37; 19, 9. (10). 28. 29—46. 47. 48; 20, 9—18. 35. 37. 38. 45—47; 21, 1—4. 13. 18. 21—24. 27. 32. 33; 22. 2. 3. 14. 16. 17. 18. 35—38. 39. 40. 42—46. 49—51. 52—62. 65. 68. 70. 71; 23, 2. 3. 4—5. 13—17. 25. 26—31. 34. 35—42. 43. (46). 54. 56; 24, 2. 21—24. 25. 27. 28. 29. 32—36. 37. 39. 44—46. 47. 48—53.

die Annahme, er habe verkürzen, unterstreichen, verdeutlichen wollen. Das mag an einer oder der anderen Stelle einmal von ihm geschehen sein, ist aber für sein Verfahren nicht charakteristisch [1].

Ein Einfluß seines Textes auf die katholischen Texte hat nur in geringem Maße stattgefunden, sobald man die neutralen Sonderlesarten M.s nicht als seine Lesarten, sondern als solche des 𝔚textes beurteilt; aber einen gewissen Einfluß darf man sicher nicht mit Zahn in Abrede stellen (indem man die LLAA als vormarcionitisch erklärt). Um dies Urteil zu begründen, stelle ich im Folgenden c. 5, 39; 9, 54 ff.; 22, 43 f.; 23, 2 a b; 23, 34; 24,12; 24, 40 zusammen. Hier darf man bei einigen Stellen mit hoher Wahrscheinlichkeit, bei anderen mit Gewißheit urteilen, daß sie, die in einen Teil der Überlieferung übergegangen, marcionitisch sind:

1. K. 5, 39 (Οὐδεὶς πιὼν παλαιὸν θέλει νέον κτλ.) Dieser Vers fehlt bei M., und er fehlt in D a b c ff.^{2*} l Euseb > alle übrigen Zeugen. Er ist also echt und von M. aus sehr verständlichen Gründen gestrichen.

2. K. 24, 12 (Ὁ δὲ Πέτρος ἀναστὰς ἔδραμεν ἐπὶ τὸ μνημεῖον· καὶ παρακύψας βλέπει τὰ ὀθόνια μόνα· καὶ ἀπῆλθεν πρὸς αὐτὸν θαυμάζων τὸ γεγονός). Dieser gut lukanisch stilisierte Satz ist bei M. nicht nachzuweisen; er fehlt sonst nur in D a b e l fu, einem Syrer, Euseb^{can}. Also ist er echt und von M. gestrichen, der den Petrus hier nicht wünschte.

3. K. 24, 40 (καὶ τοῦτο εἰπὼν ἔδειξε αὐτοῖς τὰς χεῖρας καὶ τοὺς πόδας). Bei M. nicht nachzuweisen; er fehlt sonst nur in D a b e ff^2 l syr^{cu}. Also ist er echt und von M. aus dogmatischen Gründen gestrichen.

4. K. 22, 43 f. (der Engel und die Agonie in Gethsemane). Fehlt bei M., aber ist so stark bezeugt, daß die Erzählung außer in der alexandrinischen Überlieferung (ℵ BA usw.) nur sehr selten fehlte und auch so gut wie das ganze Abendland sie bestätigt. Sie ist sicher echt und M. hat sie aus dogmatischen Gründen getilgt. Ob der alexandrinische Text durch ihn beeinflußt worden ist oder die Alexandriner spontan Anstoß genommen haben, läßt sich nicht entscheiden; ersteres ist mir wahrscheinlich.

5. K. 9, 54 (ὡς καὶ Ἠλίας ἐποίησεν) u. 9, 55 (καὶ εἶπεν· οὐκ οἴδατε [vgl. das οὐκ οἴδασιν 23, 34] οἵου πνεύματός ἐστε ὑμεῖς) finden sich und zwar — 54 in D a b c f g AC und den meisten Majuskeln cop syr (aber nicht syr^{cu}) aeth. go Basil. Chrys.; 55 in D, zahlreichen Majuskeln, a b c e f g^{2} q vulg go cop syr arm aeth. und vielen KKVV. Da die Stücke höchstwahrscheinlich bei M. standen und ausgezeichnet zu seiner Lehre passen, sind sie von ihm hinzugefügt und nun in die katholischen Mss. gedrungen. Wahrscheinlich gilt dies auch von dem Satz 9, 56 (ὁ γὰρ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου οὐκ ἦλθε ψυχὰς ἀνθρώπων ἀπολέσαι ἀλλὰ σῶσαι), den mehrere Majuskeln und a b c e f q vulg cop usw. bieten; leider fehlt uns hier der Marcion-Text; aber angesichts der überwältigenden Zahl von Zeugen g e g e n den Vers, kann er nicht ursprünglich sein. Wer aber sollte ihn hinzugefügt haben, wenn nicht M.?

---

1 Man kommt hier also zu demselben Ergebnis wie beim Apostolikon.

6. K. 23, 2 (καὶ καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας und καὶ ἀποστρέφοντα τὰς γυναῖκας καὶ τὰ τέκνα) Zwei Zusätze M.s, von dem es b c e ff^{2} i l q gat mm, bez. (den zweiten) c und e übernommen haben.

7. K. 23, 34 (ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς ἔλεγεν· Πάτερ, ἄφες αὐτοῖς, οὐ γὰρ οἴδασιν [dies gewinnt nun einen prägnanten Sinn: Die Schergen des Weltschöpfers können vom guten Gott nichts wissen] τί ποιοῦσιν. Von M. hinzugesetzt und eingedrungen in ℵ* $^{B.C}$ ACD g^{r2} viele Majuskel, c e f ff^{2} l vulg cop^{1} syr arm aeth Iren. > ℵ^{1} (uncis includit) BD* a b d sah cop^{2}. Daß es, obgleich ursprünglich, getilgt worden, ist ganz undenkbar. Zu diesen Stellen gehört auch 4, 16 (s. S. 186*).

Mit einem Blick erkennt man, daß M.s Text sofort in den 𝔐text gelangt sein muß und sich durch diesen teilweise verbreitet hat. Man beachte, daß der Palat. Vindob. (e) an allen diesen Stellen mit M. geht, der Colbert. (c) und Veronen. (b) fünfmal, D und der Vercell. (a) viermal usw.[1].

---

1 Daß 24, 40 lukanisch ist, folgt besonders aus der Vergleichung mit 5, 39; hält man (mit Recht) diese Stelle für ursprünglich, so darf man 24,40 dem Lukas nicht absprechen; denn sie hat fast dieselbe Überlieferung wie 5, 39. Es ist auch an sich ganz unwahrscheinlich, daß ein Zusatz zu Lukas in a l l e Mss. gekommen ist mit Ausnahme D a b e ff^{2} l syr^{cu}, während die umgekehrte Annahme, daß er in dem Archetypus dieser Zeugen gestrichen war, keine überlieferungsgeschichtliche Schwierigkeit macht. D hat übrigens allein noch eine wichtige Marcionitische LA aufgenommen; er liest nach M. in Luk. 24, 37 nicht πνεῦμα, sondern φάντασμα. Ferner

2. Marcion, das Lukas-Ev. und die drei anderen Evangelien.

Daß Marcion Matth., Mark. und Joh. gekannt hat — vor zwei Menschenaltern noch eine umstrittene Frage — braucht bei dem gegenwärtigen Stande der Kanons- und Textgeschichte nicht erst bewiesen zu werden[1]. Aber auch darin hatte die konservative Kritik recht, daß M. seine Ablehnung dieser Evv. in seinen „Antithesen" ausdrücklich begründet hat[2]. Nicht so einfach ist es aber, sich eine Vorstellung darüber zu bilden, wie er zu dem Ev. gestanden hat, das er sich zur Grundlage seines Ev.s erwählte, zu Lukas. Hätte er es für ein vom Anfang an verfälschtes Ev. gehalten, wie die anderen, so versteht man nicht, warum er gerade dieses Ev. erwählt hat und sich ihm so enge anschloß; er hätte in diesem Fall aus allen vier Evv. herausnehmen können, was ihm probehaltig schien und sein Ev. als eine Art von „Diatessaron" oder „Diatrion" komponieren können. Hielt er es aber für ein ursprünglich richtiges Ev. (wie die Paulusbriefe für ursprünglich richtige Briefe), warum unterdrückte er den Namen des Autors, der ihm doch eine hohe Autorität hätte sein müssen?[3] Aber nicht nur unterdrückt hat er ihn, sondern hat auch höchst wahrscheinlich die freundliche Äußerung des Paulus in Kol. 4, 14 getilgt und die Apostelgeschichte ausdrücklich verworfen (s. o. S. 124*). Aus dem Dilemma, welches hier vorliegt, gibt es nur einen Ausweg: M. muß angenommen ist die tendenziöse Korrektur in 16, 12 (τὸ ἐμόν für τὸ ὑμέτερον) in eil und eine Minuskel gedrungen. Marcionitische Lesarten können mit Recht noch an einigen Stellen von D G bzw. im Wtext vermutet werden, wo uns der Wortlaut des Marcionitischen Textes fehlt; aber ein sicherer Beweis läßt sich nicht führen.

1 Ephraem hat „die Schriften" der Marcioniten, d. h. ihr Neues Testament und die Antithesen gelesen. Aus den letzteren wird es stammen, wenn er sagt, die Marcioniten spotteten über die Hochzeit zu Kana (47. Lied gegen die Ketzer, c. 2).

2 S. dort.

3 Daß er das Ev. namenlos, d. h. ohne den Namen des Lukas, von der Überlieferung empfangen hat, ist ganz unwahrscheinlich: menschliche Autoritäten wollte M., Paulus ausgenommen, den Christus erweckt hat, nicht gelten lassen. Man darf daher nicht etwa folgern, daß unser 3. Ev. ursprünglich ohne den Namen des Lukas überliefert worden sei, weil M. diesen Namen nicht bietet.

haben, das Luk. Ev. sei in seiner ursprünglichen Gestalt ein himmlisches Geschenk Christi an die Kirche, das ihr auf geheimnisvolle Weise zugekommen ist[1]; Lukas aber, der judaistische Verf. der Apostelgesch., habe dieses reine Ev. verfälscht, und er, Marcion, sei erweckt worden, um diese Fälschungen wieder auszumerzen. Niemals und nirgendwo hat M. behauptet, daß er das unverfälschte Ev. in einem Exemplare wieder aufgefunden, sondern stets nur, daß er es wieder hergestellt habe. Hinter dem Ev., wie er es der Kirche bot, steht also keine apostolische Autorität (oder nur eine indirekte, sofern Paulus es als sein Ev. anerkannt hat), sondern Christus, von dem es die Kirche hat, und Marcion. Nur diese Auffassung wird den Zeugnissen des Irenäus, Tertullian und Origenes gerecht, sowie dem einfachen Titel: Εὐαγγέλιον. Dieser Tatbestand erklärt es auch, daß spätere Marcioniten an Christus selbst als Verfasser gedacht haben oder an Paulus (s. o.).

Daß aber M. aus der Zahl der vier Evangelien sich das des Lukas erwählt und in ihm allein das freilich verfälschte Evangelium Christi und Paulus' erblickt hat, obgleich ihm doch Lukas ebenso ein „Judaist" war wie die anderen Evangelisten, ist wohl in der Art dieses Evangeliums begründet (wenn nicht Lukas das erste Evangelium gewesen, das in den Pontus gekommen ist, und er es deshalb bevorzugte). Wir werden annehmen dürfen, daß er die vier Evangelien sehr eingehend geprüft hat, bevor er sich entschied. Der „heidenchristliche" und asketische Charakter des 3. Evangeliums gegenüber dem 1. und 2., nachdem die drei ersten Kapitel des Werks getilgt waren, muß ihm sympathisch gewesen sein; auch den Markus übrigens hätte M. ohne größere Mühe sich für seine Zwecke dienstbar machen können. Vor dem 4. Evangelium mußte er zurückschrecken um des Prologs willen, der ihm höchst anstößig sein mußte, und wenn er

1 Wann und wie, darüber hat sich M. in den „Antithesen" nicht geäußert, und das brachte eine Ungewißheit und Unklarheit, der gegenüber Tert. ratlos war und daher in seiner Polemik selbst unklar werden mußte: war das geschriebene „wahrhaftige" Ev. nach M. von Anfang an da? Lag es also schon vor, als Paulus gegen die Urapostel auf dem Konzil stritt? Diese Fragen sind nach M. gewiß zu bejahen: das Ev., welches Paulus „mein" Ev. nennt, hat er empfangen, als er bekehrt wurde. Wie es zustande gekommen ist, hat M. augenscheinlich nicht bekümmert.

ihn strich, stieß er alsbald auf die Hochzeit zu Kana und auf anderes, was ihm antipathisch war. Daß das Buch im sublimierten Geiste des dem M. widerlichen Spätjudentums wurzelte und voll von Allegorien war, die er ablehnte, machte es ihm unmöglich, ihm zu folgen. Aus Iren. III, 11, 2 („Secundum Marcionem et eos qui similes sunt ei neque mundus per logon factus est neque in sua venit, sed in aliena") kann man nicht sicher schließen, daß M. eine Kritik des Prologs des Joh. Ev. in den Antithesen gegeben hat; aber unwahrscheinlich ist es nicht.

Die Verwerfung der drei Evv. schließt an sich a priori nicht aus, daß M. aus ihnen einen oder den anderen Spruch seinem Ev. einverleibt oder bei der Fassung der Sprüche auf ihr Zeugnis vielleicht einmal Rücksicht genommen hat[1]. Die letztere Annahme muß in der Tat offen bleiben, obgleich, wie wir gesehen haben, mindestens die große Menge der Stellen, an denen der Text M.s gegen Lukas mit Matth. (Mark.) geht, aus Konformierungen zu erklären ist, die schon stattgefunden hatten, bevor M. seine tendenzkritische Arbeit unternahm. Immerhin aber steht der Annahme nichts in Wege, daß unter der erheblichen Zahl von Konformierungen, die nur durch M. und nicht durch andere Zeugen des 𝔐textes bezeugt sind, sich vielleicht einige befinden, die M. selbst eingeführt hat, wenn man sie auch nicht zu bezeichnen vermag.

Darüber hinaus aber hat sich Hahn große Mühe gegeben zu erweisen, das auch ganze Verse aus den anderen Evangelien von M. rezipiert worden sind. Diese Bemühungen haben heute das Gewicht nicht mehr wie früher; denn letztlich sollten sie dem Nachweis dienen, daß M. bereits die vier Evangelien in der Kirche vorgefunden hat. Dies werden nur noch wenige bestreiten; doch bleibt die Frage immerhin wichtig, ob M. wirklich aus den drei anderen Evv. etwas entlehnt hat.

Hier aber hat selbst Zahn, der gerne Matthäus-Verse im Ev. des M. gefunden hätte, anerkannt[2], daß die drei Stellen aus Matth., die allein in Betracht kommen können, nämlich c. 1, 23

---

1 Eine Vergleichung des „echten" Evangeliums mit den falschen mußte ja M. lehren, daß diese nicht durch und durch falsch waren, vielmehr viel Gutes enthielten, weil z. T. fast wörtlich dasselbe auch im „wahrhaftigen" Ev. stand.

2 A. a. O. I S. 666 ff.

kombiniert mit 2, 11 (in Beziehung auf Jes. 7, 14 und 8, 4), ferner 5, 17 und 19, 12 ff. nicht in das Ev. von ihm aufgenommen worden sind, sondern daß er sich in den Antithesen mit ihnen auseinandergesetzt hat[1]. Erst spätere Marcioniten haben die Worte (5, 17), die ihr Meister ausdrücklich als einen dem wahren Ev. fremden Zusatz bezeichnet hatte[2], ins Gegenteil verkehrt und in das Ev. aufgenommen (οὐκ ἦλθον πληρῶσαι τὸν νόμον ἀλλὰ καταλῦσαι). Das bezeugt sowohl der Marcionit Markus bei Adamantius[3] als auch Isidor von Pelusium; der letztere gibt dazu noch an, an welcher Stelle im Ev. (ungefähr) die Eintragung stattgefunden hat[4]. Vorbereitet hat die Einschiebung übrigens M. selbst durch seinen Zusatz in c. 23, 2, wo er die Ankläger Jesu sagen läßt: τοῦτον εὕρομεν . . . καταλύοντα τὸν νόμον καὶ τοὺς προφήτας. Auch sonst haben spätere Marcioniten wahrscheinlich ein paar Zusätze aus Matth. eingefügt. Ziemlich sicher ist das in bezug auf Matth. 20, 20 ff.; denn wenn nach Orig. Marcioniten erklärten, Paulus sitze im Himmel zur Rechten Gottes, M. zur Linken (Hom. XXV in Luk., T. V p. 181 f.), so können sie diese Phantasie schwerlich an einen anderen Text angeschlossen haben.

---

1 Dort sind sie auch von uns behandelt. In I, 24 hält Tert. dem M. Matth. 5, 48 vor („Seid vollkommen wie euer Vater im Himmel"); er hat wohl vergessen, daß das Wort nicht in M.s Ev. steht. In II, 17 sagt er, M. habe den Spruch von dem Gott, der seine Sonne aufgehen läßt über Gute und Böse (Matth. 5, 45) aus dem Ev. gestrichen. Entweder denkt hier Tert. an das vierfache Ev. als an eine Einheit oder er besann sich nicht darauf, daß der Spruch nicht bei Lukas steht. Daß Epiph. (haer. 42, 3) Marcion Mark. 10, 38 in den Mund legt, käme an sich nicht in Betracht, wenn es nicht auch Origenes bezeugte.

2 S. Tert. IV, 7. 9. 12. 36; V, 14.

3 Adamant., Dial. II, 15; hier sagt der Marcionit Markus: Τοῦτο (Matth. 5, 17) οἱ Ἰουδαϊσταὶ ἔγραψαν· οὐχ οὕτως δὲ εἶπεν ὁ Χριστός, λέγει γάρ· ‚Οὐκ ἦλθον πληρῶσαι τὸν νόμον ἀλλὰ καταλῦσαι'. Darauf Adamant.: Ἔστι καὶ τοῦτο τῆς ὑμετέρας τόλμης ὥσπερ τὰ λοιπὰ καὶ τοῦτο ἐναλλάξαι.

4 Isidor Pelus., ep. I, 371: (Im Ev. M.s wirst du die Genealogie Christi getilgt finden „und wenn du noch etwas weiter liest, wirst du noch eine andere Bosheit sehen), ἀμείψαντες γὰρ τὴν τοῦ κυρίου φωνὴν ‚Οὐκ ἦλθον' λέγοντος ‚καταλῦσαι τὸν νόμον ἢ τοὺς προφήτας' ἐποίησαν· ‚Δοκεῖτε ὅτι ἦλθον πληρῶσαι τὸν νόμον ἢ τοὺς προφήτας; ἦλθον καταλῦσαι, ἀλλ' οὐ πληρῶσαι'. Die Fassung hier ist die zuverlässigere gegenüber der des Marcioniten Markus.

Nach Zahn[1] soll Marcion selbst vier Stellen aus dem Joh. Ev. in sein Ev. aufgenommen haben, bzw. sich von ihnen abhängig erweisen; aber der Beweis reicht für keine der Stellen aus. Weil M. in Luc. 11, 13 zu ἄρτον in der 4. Bitte σου gestellt und damit die geistliche Deutung vorgeschrieben habe, soll er von Joh. 6, 33 beeinflußt sein. Diese Kombination darf man auf sich beruhen lassen. In den Dialogen des Adamantius wird II, 16 Joh. 13, 34 („Ein neues Gebot gebe ich euch, daß ihr euch untereinander liebet, wie der Vater euch geliebt hat") und II, 20 Joh. 15, 19 („Wenn ihr aus dieser Welt wäret, so würde die Welt ihr Eigentum lieben") vom Marcioniten Markus (im ersten Fall ausdrücklich als aus seiner Bibel) zitiert mit kleinen Abweichungen, die Marcionitisch anmuten. Es ist daher anzunehmen, daß diese Worte in einer späteren Marcionitischen Bibel gestanden haben; aber der Beweis läßt sich nicht erbringen, daß schon M. selbst sie eingefügt hat. Endlich teilt Chrysostomus mit, daß die Marcioniten in ihrer Auslegung von Phil. 2, 6 f. in der Fußwaschung die Annahme der Knechtsgestalt des Erlösers erkennen[2]. Auch hier hat man keine Gewähr dafür, daß M. selbst die Fußwaschung in sein Ev. aufgenommen hat — so wenig, wie man aus der Phantasie der Marcioniten bei Origenes, M. sitze im Himmel zur Linken Christi, schließen darf, M. selbst habe Matth. 20, 20 ff. in sein Evangelium aufgenommen (s. o.). Nicht unmöglich ist es, daß er die Fußwaschung in den Antithesen behandelt hat.

Marcions Ev. ist mithin ausschließlich ein verfälschtes Lukasev.; M. hat schlechterdings keinen Stoff aus einem anderen Ev. hinzugenommen; mögen auch in den Konformierungen (mit Matth.) einige Stellen auf ihn zurückgehen (?). In diesen Fällen müßte er angenommen haben, daß der Fälscher des echten Ev.s, Lukas, etwas geändert hatte, was zufällig in dem judaistischen Ev. des Matth. der Verfälschung entgangen ist. Doch alles, was hier vielleicht in Betracht kommt, ist ohne Bedeutung.

Diese Reinheit des Ev.s M.s von allen „apokryphen"

---

1 A. a. O. I S. 675 ff.

2 Hom. VII in Phil. (T. XI p. 246): Μορφὴν δούλου, φασίν, ἔλαβεν, ὅτι τὸ λέντιον περιζωσάμενος ἔνιψε τοὺς πόδας τῶν μαθητῶν.

Stoffen ist sehr bemerkenswert [1]. Wie anders steht es bei Justin oder im 2. Clemensbrief! Die exklusive Energie, mit der er den NTlichen Kanon von 1+10 Schriften geschaffen hat, zeigt sich auch in der festen Beschränkung auf e i n e Quelle in bezug auf den evangelischen Stoff. Es spricht aus diesem Verfahren, das mit dem Ausschluß von Prophetien und Apokalypsen jeglicher Art sowie mit der Ablehnung der allegorischen Erklärung zusammengehalten werden muß, die feste Absicht, allen Unsicherheiten zu begegnen und der Verkündigung der neuen Religion eine sichere Grundlage zu geben.

Aber da M. Unfehlbarkeit für seinen Evangelientext nicht in Anspruch nehmen konnte, haben sofort in seiner Kirche die Textänderungen begonnen, d. h. sich fortgesetzt. Das war so notorisch und anstößig, daß selbst der gründliche Kämpfer gegen das Christentum, Celsus, wenige Jahre nach M.s Tod, mißbilligend davon Notiz genommen hat (c. Cels. II, 27) und Tert. ausdrücklich bemerkt, daß diese „Bibelverbesserung" noch immer geübt werde, ja daß selbst die Streitunterredungen oder -schriften mit den Katholiken den Marcioniten Anlaß zu ihnen gaben [2]. Über die tendenziösen Korrekturen M.s s. die Untersuchung oben in dem Hauptteil.

---

1 Daß M. den Spruch Luk. 9, 60 als an Philippus gerichtet bezeichnet hat (Clemens Alex., Strom. III, 4, 25), ist nicht gewiß; es kann auch diese apokryphe Adresse auf einem Irrtum des Clemens beruhen. Der Spruch lautet übrigens bei Clemens anders (ἄφες τοὺς νεκροὺς θάψαι τοὺς ἑαυτῶν νεκρούς, σὺ δὲ ἀκολούθει μοι), als er für M. bezeugt ist. — Einen, unter Verwendung von Matth. 5, 9. 10 frei gestalteten Spruch im Ev. des M. mußte man früher der Stelle Clem., Strom. IV, 6, 41 entnehmen; hier heißt es nach früherer Lesung: „Μακάριοι", φησίν, „οἱ δεδιωγμένοι ἕνεκεν δικαιοσύνης, ὅτι αὐτοὶ υἱοὶ θεοῦ κληθήσονται", ἢ ὥς τινες τῶν μετατιθέντων τὰ εὐαγγέλια· „Μακάριοι" φησίν, „οἱ δεδιωγμένοι ὑπὸ τῆς δικαιοσύνης, ὅτι αὐτοὶ ἔσονται τέλειοι". Nur M. kann die selig gepriesen haben, die v o n der Gerechtigkeit verfolgt werden. Allein nach dem Text von S t ä h l i n ist ὑπό ein Lesefehler; es ist ὑπέρ zu lesen. Dann hat Clemens die Fälschung ausschließlich in dem „ἔσονται τέλειοι" gesehen und an Marcion zu denken, liegt kein sicherer Grund vor, da auch andere die Evangelien verfälscht haben.

2 Tert. IV, 5: „Cotidie (Marcionitae) reformant evangelium, prout a nobis quotidie revincuntur".

Anhang: Marcions Evangelium und Tatians Diatessaron.

Kurze Zeit nach Marcion hat Tatian sein „Diatessaron" hergestellt. Er teilte die asketischen Grundsätze mit M.; er lehrte wie dieser einen Demiurg, wenn er ihn auch freundlicher beurteilte; er sprach Adam die Seligkeit ab, und er verfaßte ein uns leider nicht erhaltenes Werk, dessen Titel „Probleme" an die „Antithesen" M.s erinnert. Die Vermutung liegt daher nahe, daß sein Evangelienwerk eine gewisse Verwandtschaft mit dem Marcionitischen hatte. In der Tat fehlten auch in dem Diatessaron die Genealogien Jesu, und Luk. 2, 34 hat Tatian „viele in Israel", Matth. 1, 20 die Davidssohnschaft getilgt. Allein darüber hinaus lassen sich, soviel ich sehe, innerlich verwandte Züge zwischen den beiden Evangelien nicht finden. Sofern M.s 𝔚text mit den alten Syrern geht und der Text Tatians ihnen, aber auch sonst dem 𝔚text nahesteht, besteht eine Verwandtschaft[1] aber M.s tendenziöse Korrekturen haben auf Tatian keinen Einfluß geübt. Daher darf man auch annehmen, daß er aus anderen Gründen als M. und unbeeinflußt von ihm die oben bezeichneten Korrekturen vorgenommen hat.

---

1 Zur Zeit ist es noch nicht möglich, eine Vergleichung der beiden Texte anzustellen; erst muß der Tatian-Text, quoad fieri potest, hergestellt sein.

Beilage V: Die Antithesen Marcions
(nach Zitaten und Referaten) [1].

(1) Das Werk war wahrscheinlich einem ungenannten Konfessionsgenossen zugeeignet, den M. in der Widmung als συνταλαίπωρος καὶ συμμισούμενος bezeichnet hat (Tert. IV, 9. 36); doch ist es nicht ganz sicher, daß diese Widmung zu den Antithesen gehört [2].

(2) Wahrscheinlich hatte das Werk eine Einleitung (Prolog), in der die Worte standen: „O Wunder über Wunder, Verzückung, Macht und Staunen ist, daß man gar nichts über das Evangelium sagen, noch über dasselbe denken, noch es mit irgend etwas vergleichen kann" (s. Schäfers, Eine altsyrische, antimarcionitische Erklärung von Parabeln des Herrn usw., 1917, S. 3 f.; der Unbekannte berichtet: „Marcion schreibt in seinem Buche, das sie mit Namen „Proevangelium" nennen .... und es ist im Anfang dieser Schrift also geschrieben: „O Wunder" usw.).

(3) Am Anfang der „Antithesen" hat sich M. im Anschluß an Gal. 1. 2. über das Verhältnis von Paulus und den Uraposteln ausgesprochen und die Urapostel charakterisiert sowie „die falschen Brüder". Ferner hat er es gerechtfertigt, daß er die vier Evangelien seiner Gegner verworfen und das eine, welches er allein angenommen, von den „Zusätzen" und dem falschen Titel

---

1 Über den „Brief" M.s bedarf es hier keiner Mitteilung, da alles, was man darüber wissen kann, S. 21* f. sowie in unserem Hauptabschnitt über die Antithesen steht. Daß Tert. mehrere Briefe M.s gekannt hat, ist unwahrscheinlich. Bunsens luftige Hypothese, M. sei der Verfasser des Diognetbriefs, braucht nicht widerlegt zu werden.

2 In bezug auf die Quellen der „Antithesen" s. Tert. III, 8: „Desinat haereticus a Judaeo — aspis, quod aiunt, a vipera — mutuari venenum".

befreit habe. Ebenso muß er sich über seine Sammlung von Paulusbriefen und seine Reinigung derselben ausgesprochen haben, wahrscheinlich auch über die zu verwerfende Apostelgeschichte und Apokalypse. Diese Ausführungen im Eingang müssen ausführlich gewesen sein. Maruta sagt, die Marcioniten hätten die Apostelgeschichte abgetan und statt ihrer ein anderes Buch eingeschoben, das sie „Summa" nennen (De Sancta Synodo Nicaena, 3. Häresie); das sind höchstwahrscheinlich die „Antithesen". In dem folgenden sind die Quellenstellen zusammengestellt, aus denen sich M.s negative und positive Kritik an den Uraposteln, Paulus und den Evangelien ergibt. Schwerlich haben sie alle in der Einleitung gestanden; aber bei der Dürftigkeit des Materials und der Wichtigkeit der Sache ist es zweckmäßig, sie hier zusammenzufassen:

„Marcion semetipsum esse veraciorem, quam sunt qui evangelium tradiderunt apostoli, suasit discipulis suis" (Iren. I, 27, 2).

„Peritiores apostolis volunt esse" (Iren. IV, 5, 5 f.).

„Apostolos admiscuisse ea quae sunt legalia salvatoris verbis (Iren. III, 2,2).

„M. totum reiciens evangelium, immo vero se ipsum abscindens ab evangelio, partem gloriatur se habere evangelii" (Iren. III, 11, 7).

„Secundum Lucam evangelium decurtantes gloriantur se habere evangelium" (Iren. III, 14, 3).

„Apostoli adhuc quae sunt Iudaeorum sentientes annuntiaverunt evangelium" (Iren. III, 12, 12); „non cognoverunt veritatem" (Iren. III, 13, 2).

Vielleicht darf aus Tert., de bapt. 12 geschlossen werden, daß M. den Uraposteln das Heil abgesprochen hat, weil sie nicht getauft seien.

„Solus Paulus veritatem cognovit, cui per revelationem manifestatum est mysterium" (Iren. III, 13, 1).

„Marcionitae aiunt, Marcionem non tam innovasse regulam separatione legis et evangelii, quam retro adulteratam recurasse . . . nam et ipsum Petrum ceterosque, columnas apostolatus, a Paulo reprehensos opponunt, quod non recto pede incederent ad evangelii veritatem" (Gal. 2) . . . . „Quosdam falsos fratres Paulus inrepsisse descripsit", „qui vellent Galatas ad aliud evangelium transferre" . . . . „Paulus novum deum praedicans veteris dei legem cupiebat excludere" .... „ecclesiae apostolici census a primordio corruptae sunt" (Tert. I, 20). „Marcion nactus epistolam Pauli ad Galatas, etiam ipsos apostolos suggillantis ut non recte pede incedentes ad veritatem evangelii, simul et accusantis pseudapostolos quosdam pervertentes evangelium Christi, connititur ad destruendum statum eorum evangeliorum, quae propria et sub apostolorum nomine eduntur vel etiam apostolicorum, ut scil. fidem, quam illis adimit, suo conferat .... Si apostolos praevaricationis [Pflichtvergessenheit] et simulationis suspectos Marcion haberi queritur usque ad evangelii depravationem, Christum iam accusant accusando quos Christus elegit; si vero apostoli quidem integrum evangelium contulerunt, de sola convictus inaequalitate reprehensi, pseudapostoli autem veritatem eorum interpolaverunt et inde sunt nostra digesta, quod erit germanum illud apostolorum instrumentum, quod adulteros passum («non» passum Kroym., unnötig) est, quod Paulum inluminavit et ab eo Lucam? aut si tam funditus deletum est, ut cataclysmo quodam, ita inundatione falsariorum obliteratum, iam ergo nec Marcion habet verum" (Tert. IV, 3). „Principalis adversus Iudaismum epistola, quae Galatas docet" (V, 2). „Proponunt ad ignorantiam aliquam apostolorum, quod Petrus et qui cum eo reprehensi sunt a Paulo; ‚adeo', inquiunt, ‚aliquid eis defuit' .... ‚alia evangelii forma a Paulo superducta citra eam quae praemiserat Petrus et ceteri' .... suspectam faciunt doctrinam superiorem" .... sed etsi in tertium usque caelum ereptus Paulus et in paradisum delatus audiit quaedam illic, non possunt videri fuisse quae illum in aliam doctrinam instructiorem praestarent" (de praescr. 22 ff.).

„‚Cum huic negotio (der Mission) accingerentur apostoli, renuntiaverunt presbyteris et archontis et sacerdotibus Iudaeorum'; ‚an non vel maxime', inquit, ‚ut alterius dei praedicatores?'" (Tert. III, 22). „Quae dehinc passi sunt apostoli? ‚Omnem', inquis, iniquitatem persecutionum, ab hominibus creatoris, ut adversarii eius quem praedicabant' " (l. c.).

Die „falsi apostoli", von denen durchweg in den Prologen zu den Paulusbriefen die Rede ist, sind in der Regel nicht die Urapostel. „Falsi et superinducticii fratres (Gal. 2, 4) interpolatione scripturae, qua Christum creatoris effigerent, perverterunt evangelium" (V, 3). Nach II. Kor. 2, 17 — die Stelle (mit der LA οἱ λοιποί) wird von M. auf die Apostel bezogen — sind diese des καπηλεύειν τὸν λόγον τοῦ θεοῦ schuldig.

Zu Kol. 1, 16: „Haec pseudapostoli et Iudaici evangelizatores de suo intulerunt" (V, 19).

„Ex his commentatoribus, quos habemus, Lucam videtur M. elegisse (Tert. IV, 2); vorher: „M. evangelio suo nullum adscribit auctorem". „Evangelium, quod Lucae refertur apud nos, M. per Antithesîs suas arguit ut interpolatum a protectoribus Iudaismi ad concorporationem legis et prophetarum" (Tert. IV, 4).

„Cur non evangelia Iohannis et Matthaei quoque M. attigit aut emendanda, si adulterata, aut agnoscenda, si integra" (IV, 5)?

„Christus reiecit Iohannis disciplinam ut dei alterius et discipulos defendit, ut merito aliter incedentes, aliam scil. et contrariam initiatos divinitatem" (IV, 11).

„Petrus' großes Bekenntnis (Luk. 9, 21) war falsch (Petrus hielt Jesus für den Sohn des Weltschöpfers); daher gebot ihm Jesus Schweigen; denn „noluit mendacium disseminari" (IV, 21).

Der Jünger, der Jesus bat, ihn beten zu lehren (Luk. 11, 1), hatte begriffen, daß Jesus einen neuen Gott verkündigte (IV, 26).

M. bezog die γενεὰ ἄπιστος (Luk. 9, 41) auf die Jünger (IV, 22) und erkannte in der Absicht des Petrus, drei Hütten zu bauen, dessen irrige Meinung, Jesus gehöre zum Gott des Moses und Elias.

„Sed ne audeas argumentari apostolos ut alterius dei praecones a Iudaeis vexatos" (IV, 39).

„Petrum ceterosque apostolos vultis Iudaismi magis adfines subintelligi" (V, 3). „Petrus legis homo" (IV, 11).

Markus, Dial. II, 12: Die Urapostel ἐκήρυξαν ἀγράφως (also sind das Matth.- und Joh.-Ev. nicht von ihnen); ebendort II, 15: οἱ Ἰουδαϊσταί haben Matth. 5, 17 geschrieben.

Die Marcioniten Markus und Megethius erklären beide, Christus selbst sei der Verf. des von ihnen gebrauchten Evangeliums; dieser korrigiert sich dann und nennt Paulus als Verfasser (Dial. I, 8; II, 13 f.).

„Ecclesiae apostolici census a primordio corruptae sunt" (Tert. I, 20; s. oben).

(4) Schon der Presbyter bei Irenäus (IV, 27, 1; 28, 1; 30, 1. 4; 31, 1) bekämpfte M., weil er den „Typus" im AT ablehnt.

„Marcion allegorias non vult in prophetis habuisse formas" (Tert. V, 18); dasselbe leugnete er in bezug auf das Gesetz (s. Irenäus l. c. V, 7); vgl. ferner II, 21; III, 5. 14; IV, 20: die AT-lichen Prophezeiungen haben sich entweder schon in der jüdischen Geschichte erfüllt oder werden sich in der Zeit des jüdischen Messias, des Antichrists, erfüllen. Auch das Evangelium ist nicht νοητόν sondern ψιλόν; nur sofern es Parabeln enthält und Ausdrücke, die sich von selbst als figurae erklären, sind sie auszudeuten (Megethius im Dial. I, 7; das Brot Luk. 22, 19 ist „figura corporis", Tert. IV, 40).

Μαρκίων φάσκει μὴ δεῖν ἀλληγορεῖν τὴν γραφήν (Orig., Comm. XV, 3 in Matth., T. III p. 333), vgl. Comm. II, 13 in Rom., T. VI p. 136: „Marcion, cui per allegoriam nihil placet intelligi"; Sel. in Psalm., T. XII p. 73: „Haec illi ita sentiunt pro eo, quod allegoriam nolunt in scriptura divina recipere et ideo p u r a e h i s t o r i a e deservientes huiusmodi fabulas et figmenta componunt"; de princip. IV, 9 (dunkel ist die Bemerkung des Orig. bei Hieron im Comm. z. Gal. 4, 24 ff.).

Ephraem, Lied gegen die Ketzer 36, 6 f.: „Im AT verstehen die Marcioniten alle Anthropomorphismen wörtlich".

Man muß annehmen, daß sich M. in den Antithesen prinzipiell und generell an irgend einer Stelle seines Werkes, vielleicht in der Einleitung, über die allegorische und typologische Auslegung ausgesprochen und sie als grundfalsch verworfen hat.

(5) Die vier Hauptstellen für Marcions Lehre: I. Ὁ Χριστὸς φανερῶς λέγει (Luk. 16, 13, dazu Matth. 6, 24) ὅτι· ,Οὐδεὶς δύναται δυσὶ κυρίοις δουλεύειν, . . . λέγει τὸ εὐαγγέλιον (Luk. 6, 43; dazu Matth. 7, 18)· ,Οὐ δύναται δένδρον σαπρὸν καρποὺς καλοὺς ἐνεγκεῖν, οὐδὲ δένδρον καλὸν καρποὺς κακοὺς ἐνέγκαι'· οἱ δύο κύριοι ἐδείχθησαν· ὁρᾷς δύο φύσεις, δύο κυρίους . . . ἀδύνατον φ ύ σ ε ι ς μεταβληθῆναι . . . οὐ περὶ ἀνθρώπων τοῦτο λέγει (Megethius, Dial., I, 28; Markus l. c. II, 20).

Luk. 6, 43 als Beweisstelle M.s für die zwei Götter bei Tert. I, 2 (verbunden mit Jes. 45, 7: „Ego sum qui condo mala" und „mit anderen Argumenten"; s. auch Tert. II, 13 f. 24, verbunden mit Jerem. 18, 11: „Ecce ego emitto in vos mala"), Hipp., Refut. X, 19, Pseudotertullian, Filastrius 45, Origenes (De princip. I, 8, 2; II, 5, 4 [„famosissima quaestio Marcionitarum"]; Comm. Ser. 117 in Matth., T. V p. 23; Comm. III, 6 in Rom., T. VI p. 195: „Non, ut haeretici deum legis accusant, mala radix est lex et mala arbor, per quam peccati venit agnitio, quia non dixit ‚ex lege agnitio peccati', sed ‚per legem' "). Die „lex" aber ist = „deus legis"; s. Tert. V, 13: „Lex i. e. deus legis seduxit". Ausdrücklich bemerkt Tert. (I, 2), daß M. den Spruch nicht auf die Menschen bezogen, sondern im Zusammenhang mit der Beantwortung der Frage „Unde malum", aus ihm zwei Götter gefolgert habe: „in creatorem interpretatur malam arborem malos fructus condentem. . . . alium deum praesumpsit esse debere in partem bonae arboris bonos fructus ⟨condentem⟩, et ita in Christo quasi aliam inveniens dispositionem solius et purae benignitatis, ut diversae a creatore, facile novam et hospitam argumentatus est divinitatem in Christo suo revelatam. . . has naturas quibus disposuerit articulis per ipsas responsiones nostras ostendemus".

II. Λέγει ὁ σωτήρ (Luk. 5, 36, dazu Matth. 9, 17) ‚Βάλλουσιν οἶνον νέον εἰς ἀσκοὺς νέους καὶ ἀμφότεροι συντηροῦνται'· τὸ καινὸν οὐκ ἔστι πλήρωμα τοῦ παλαιοῦ· πάλιν γὰρ λέγει ὁ σωτήρ (Luk 5, 36, dazu Matth. 9, 16)· ‚Οὐδεὶς ἐπιβάλλει ἐπίβλημα ῥάκους ἀγνάφου ἱματίῳ παλαιῷ'· οὐκ ἔστι πλήρωμα νόμου οὐδ' ὁ Χριστὸς οὐδ' ὁ ἀπόστολος (Markus bei Adamant., Dial. II, 16).

Vgl. dazu Tertull. III, 15; Epiphan. h. 42, 2; Filastr. 45; Ephraem, Sermo 44. Der Marcionit bei Adamant., Dial. II, 16 f hat zu diesem Spruch II Kor. 5, 17 („Neue Kreatur") gestellt.

III. Von den Seligpreisungen sagt Tertullian (IV, 14): „Venio nunc ad ordinarias sententias eius, per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit, ad edictum, ut ita dixerim, Christi" (zu Luk. 6, 20 ff.).

IV. Zu dem Spruch Luk. 18, 19 bemerkt Origenes (de princ. II, 5, 1): „Superest Marcionitis etiam illud, quod velut proprie sibi datum scutum putant, quod dixit dominus in evangelio: ‚Nemo bonus nisi unus deus pater', dicentes hoc esse proprium vocabulum patris Christi".

(6) Ὁ νόμος > τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, Ὁ θεὸς τοῦ νόμου > ὁ θεὸς τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, bzw. ὁ πατὴρ Ἰ. Χρ.: Diese Gegensätze sind für M. oft bezeugt. Er hat auch den von Matth. (5, 17) überlieferten Spruch in den Antithesen als Einschiebung der Judaisten bezeichnet, vgl. Tert. IV, 7: „(Christus descendit), non ut legem et prophetas dissolveret, sed ut potius adimpleret. hoc enim M. ut additum erasit"; IV, 9 (nach Anführung des Spruchs): „Quid ergo tibi fuit de evangelio erasisse quod salvum est? . . . . . constat ergo dixisse Christum haec verba. quia et fecit, et te potius vocem domini de evangelio eradicasse quam nostros iniecisse"; IV, 12; V, 14: „Frustra de ista sententia neganda Ponticus laboravit: ‚Non ego veni legem dissolvere, sed adimplere' ". M. hat sich also noch begnügt, den Spruch als Fälschung zu bezeichnen und sein Gegenteil als das Richtige (Tert. IV, 36: „Ab alio deo descendit Iesus ad detectionem creatoris, ad destructionem legis et prophetarum"); aber die späteren Marcioniten haben sich nicht gescheut, wie Adamantius (s. Markus, Dial. II, 15: Τοῦτο οἱ Ἰουδαϊσταὶ ἔγραψαν· οὐχ οὕτως δὲ εἶπεν ὁ Χριστός, λέγει γάρ· Οὐκ ἦλθον πληρῶσαι τὸν νόμον ἀλλὰ καταλῦσαι) und Isidor von Pelusium bezeugen, den Spruch in Umkehrung in das Ev. einzusetzen s. S. 252*).

Iren. I, 27, 2: „. . . Iesum dissolventem prophetas et legem et omnia opera eius dei qui mundum fecit". Durch die Bergpredigt hat nach M. Jesus die Auflösung vollzogen; ihre Sprüche „continent contrietatem et dissolutionem praeteritorum", s. IV, 13, 1.

Tert. I, 19: „Separatio legis et evangelii proprium et principale opus est Marcionis". V, 19: „M. segregat alii deo legem et alii deo Christum" (V, 19); „evangelium" und „Christus" sind vertauschbar.

(7) Ὁ δίκαιος θεός > ὁ ἀγαθός (ὁ κρείσσων, κράτιστος, „optimus" „ultro bonus") θεός: dieser Gegensatz ist an sehr zahlreichen Stellen für M. von den meisten Zeugen bezeugt; Irenäus I, 27, 1 hat ihn auch auf Cerdo übertragen. Orig., De princ. II, 7, 1: „. . . . nam ut concedamus Marcioni . . . . posse differentias deitatis inducere et aliam boni naturam, aliam vero iusti describere". Weil die in der Praefatio des Werks De princ. enthaltene regula fidei durchweg antimarcionitisch lautet, so findet sich hier der Satz c. 4: „Hic deus iustus et bonus, pater domini nostri I. Chr., legem et prophetas et evangelia ipse dedit, qui et apostolorum deus est et V. et N. Testamenti". Derselbe, Philoc. c. 10, 27 f.: δίκαιον μὲν αὐτὸν (den Weltschöpfer) εἶναι θέλουσι καὶ οὐκ ἀγαθόν. Iren. III, 24, 3: „Quemadmodum autem et sapientem dicunt patrem omnium (den obersten guten Gott), si non et iudiciale ei assignent . . . . quibus religiosior Plato ostenditur, qui eundem deum et iustum et bonum confessus est". Auch Tert. beweist durch seine wiederholten Nachweise (daß bonum und iustum zusammengehören) die grundlegende Scheidung beider Elemente bei M. Clem., Strom. II, 8, 39: Οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος τὸν νόμον κακὸν μὲν οὐ φήσουσι, δίκαιον δέ, διαστέλλοντες τὸ ἀγαθὸν τοῦ δικαίου. Tert. I, 24: ,,Deus tantummodo et perfecte bonus", vgl. I, 25: ,,Sola bonitas negatis ceteris adpendicibus sensibus et adfectibus, quos Marcionitae quidem a deo suo abigunt in creatorem". I, 26: ,,solitaria bonitas". I, 25: ,,Deus bonus beatum et incorruptibile est neque sibi neque alii molestias praestat: hanc sententiam ruminans M. removit ab illo severitates et iudiciarias vires". II, 17: ,,Catholica et summa bonitas, semota a iudiciariis sensibus et in suo statu pura." De praescr. 34: ,,Nemo alterum deum ausus est suspicari, donec M. praeter creatorem alium deum solius bonitatis induceret;" de carne 5: ,, ,Deus optimus et simplex et bonus tantum (ἄριστος καὶ ἁπλοῦς καὶ ἀγαθὸς μόνον). Esnik S. 181: ,,Der Gute, wie sie ihn nennen, da er, wie sie sagen, von Natur gut ist". Tert. I, 11. 19. 23: ,, ,Haec est principalis et perfecta bonitas, cum sine ullo debito familiaritatis in extraneos voluntaria et libera effunditur, secundum quam inimicos quoque nostros et per hoc nomine iam extraneos diligere iubeamur' ". I, 14: ,, ,Deus melior adamavit hominem, opus creatoris' ".

Die Unterscheidung des gerechten und des guten Gottes fällt zusammen mit der Unterscheidung des Judengottes und des Vaters Jesu Christi (so alle Zeugen); der Judengott ist als Weltschöpfer ein universaler Gott, aber zugleich doch ein partikularer, weil er sich das Judenvolk erwählt hat und alle Menschen nur durch das Judentum hindurch sein Wohlgefallen erlangen und zu der von ihm verheißenen Ruhe und Seligkeit gelangen können (so alle Zeugen); s. vor allem Tert. IV, 6: Iustum, lex, Iudaismus > bonum, evangelium, Christianismus; IV, 33: ,,Creator proprius deus Iudaicae gentis". Tert. (II, 29) wundert sich darüber, daß M. den Gegensatz der beiden Götter niemals auf den Gegensatz von Licht und Finsternis gebracht hat: ,,Alium deum lucis ostendisse debueras, alium vero tenebrarum, quo facilius alium bonitatis alium severitatis persuasisses" (Fast wörtlich dasselbe IV, 1). Daher kann die Bemerkung des Origenes (wenn er es ist) bei Hieron. im Komm. zu Gal. c. 1, 4: ,,Solent haeretici hinc capere occasionem, ut alium lucis et futuri saeculi, alium tenebrarum et praesentis asserant conditorem", nicht auf Marcion gehen, und Hieron. irrt, wenn er Comm. in Iesaiam l. XII, 45, T. IV p. 534 behauptet, nach M. habe der gute Gott, der Schöpfer des Unsichtbaren, das Licht geschaffen, der gerechte Weltschöpfer aber die Finsternis. Möglich ist nur, daß M. jenem mit der Schöpfung des Unsichtbaren die Erschaffung eines besonderen „Lichts" zugeschrieben hat.

(8) „Alter deus iudex, ferus bellipotens [„irascitur et aemalatur et extollitur et exacerbatur" Tert. II, 16; „acerbissimus creator" III, 4], alter mitis, placidus et tantummodo bonus atque optimus" (Tert. I, 6; V, 11 die Bezeichnung Gottes als „des Vaters der Barmherzigkeit und Gott alles Trostes" ist die spezifische des neuen Gottes und ihr Erkenntnisgrund ist die Erlösung der Menschheit; so oder ähnlich an vielen Stellen und bei zahlreichen Zeugen; s. z. B. V, 4: „Deus Marcionis nec irasci novit nec ulcisci".... „deus optimus et profusae misericordiae"; III, 8: „optimus et diversissimus a mendaciis et fallaciis creatoris"). Iren. III, 24, 2 f.: „Ut increpativum auferrent a patre et iudiciale (τὸ ἐπιτιμητικὸν καὶ τὸ κριτικόν), indignum id deo putantes, et sine iracundia et bonum arbitrantes se adinvenisse deum, alterum quidem iudicare et alterum quidem salvare dixerunt, nescientes utrorumque [auferentes] sensum et iustitiam". Iren. IV, 40, 2: „Alius quidem est, qui regnum donat pater, et alius qui ignem praeparavit deus". Orig., Hom. I, 16 in Jerem. p. 14 f. Klostermann, zu Deut. 32, 39 (Ἐγὼ ἀποκτενῶ): Συνεχῶς προέφερον ἡμῖν λέγοντες· Ὁρᾷς τὸν θεὸν τοῦ νόμου πῶς ἐστιν ἄγριος καὶ ἀπάνθρωπος, vgl. dazu Hom. XII, 4 in Jerem. p. 91. Orig., Comm. XV, 11 in Matth., T. VI p. 349; Hom. XVI in Luk., T. V p. 142 f.: „Cruentus et saevus et crudelis est conditor". Tert. II, 13: „ ‚Deus', ut dicitis, ‚saevit' ".

Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 3: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἐλεήσας ἔπεμψε τὸν υἱὸν ὡς ⟨ἀγαθὸς⟩ ἀγαθὸν καὶ ἐρρύσατο ἡμᾶς.... Συνεπάθησεν ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἀλλοτρίοις ὡς ἁμαρτωλοῖς· οὔτε ὡς ἀγαθῶν οὔτε ὡς κακῶν ἐπεθύμησεν αὐτῶν, ἀλλὰ σπλαγχνισθεὶς ἠλέησεν.

Im Gegensatz zum Weltschöpfer „non minatur mitissimus deus, quia nec iudicat nec irascitur" (Tert. IV, 19). „Marcionis deus melior de tranquillitate" (De praescr. 7). „Tranquillitas et mansuetudo" (IV, 29). „Lenissimi dei regnum" (IV, 30). „Negat M. moveri deum suum" (IV, 31). „Deus iudex timeri vult, apud quem sunt materiae timoris, ira saevitia iudicia vindicta damnatio; deus bonus timendus non est" (Tert. IV, 8 und sonst).

„(Deus melior) iudicat plane malum nolendo et damnat prohibendo, dimittit autem non vindicando et absolvit non puniendo .... atque adeo prae se ferunt Marcionitae, quod deum suum omnino non timeant; ‚malus enim', inquiunt, ‚timebitur, bonus autem diligetur'" (Tert. I, 27). L. c.: „Interrogati (Marcionitae): quid fiet peccatori cuique die illo? respondent: ‚Abici illum quasi ab oculis'." .... „Exitus autem (I, 28) illi abiecto quis? ‚Ab igni', inquiunt, ‚creatoris deprehendetur'."

Auf die Frage, warum er denn nicht sündige und verleugne, wenn sein Gott nicht strafe, antwortet M.: „, ‚Absit', inquit, ‚absit'" (Tert. I, 27). Der Marcionit Megethius bringt (Dial. II, 5) zu II Thess. 1, 6. 7 eine Theorie, die aber nicht echt Marcionitisch ist. Der Marcionit Markus (Dial. II, 1 f.): Ὁ ἀγαθὸς οὐ κατακρίνει τοὺς ἀπειθήσαντας αὐτῷ.

V, 19: „M. principalem suae fidei terminum de Epicuri schola agnoscat, deum inferens hebetem, ne timeri eum dicat.

Der Weltschöpfer ist aemulus, zelotes und impatiens; daher ist die Geduld, zu der Christus ermahnt (Luk. 21, 19), eine neue Tugend (Tert. IV, 38). Der gute Gott hat sie auch dem Weltschöpfer gegenüber bewährt; daher sagt Celsus (bei Orig. VI, 52): Τί περιορᾷ πονηρὸν δημιουργὸν ἀντιπράττοντα ἑαυτῷ; Christus übte auch dem Gesetz des Weltschöpfers gegenüber Güte, Langmut und Geduld; er erlaubte dem Aussätzigen, sich dem Priester zu zeigen (IV, 9); er korrigierte die nicht, die seiner Wundertaten wegen den Weltschöpfer preisen (IV, 18); er ist der Lehrer einer „nova patientia" (IV, 16 zu Luk. 6, 27 ff.).

(9) Ὁ δημιουργός, ὁ θεὸς τῆς γενέσεως, ὁ ἄρχων τ. αἰῶνος τούτου, γνωστός, κατονόμαστος > ὁ θεὸς ἀποκεκρυμμένος, ἄγνωστος, ἀόρατος, ἀκατονόμαστος, καινός, ὁ ξένος, ὁ ἀλλότριος, ὁ ἄλλος, ὁ ἕτερος. Celsus in bezug auf M. (bei Orig. V, 53): Ὁ ἀλλότριος καὶ ξένος θεός. Markus (bei Adamant. II, 12 f.): ὁ ξένος καὶ ἄγνωστος. Epiph., Haer. 42, 4: ὁ ἀόρατος καὶ ἀκατονόμαστος πατήρ. Bei den syrischen Marcioniten war die bevorzugteste Bezeichnung ihres Gottes einfach „der Fremde".

Noch Esnik (Schmid, Esnik S. 144), „Wider die Religion der Perser", bringt die präzise Formel für M.s Gott: „M. schwätzt, daß es den Geschöpfen des Gerechten eine Schuldigkeit ist, den guten Fremden Verehrung zu erweisen, wegen der Güte".

Megethius (bei Adamant., Dial. I, 23): Ὁ δημιουργὸς ἐγνώσθη τῷ Ἀδὰμ καὶ τοῖς κατὰ καιρόν, ὡς ἐν ταῖς γραφαῖς δηλοῦται· ὁ δὲ τοῦ Χριστοῦ πατὴρ ἄγνωστός ἐστιν, ὡς αὐτὸς ὁ Χριστὸς ἀπεφήνατο περὶ αὐτοῦ εἰπών (Luk. 10, 22)· ‚Οὐδεὶς ἔγνω τὸν πατέρα εἰ μὴ ὁ υἱός, οὐδὲ τὸν υἱόν τις γινώσκει εἰ μὴ ὁ πατήρ'. . . . πῶς οὖν ἐν τῷ Ἰεζεκιὴλ λέγει (20,5)· ‚Ἐπεγνώσθην τοῖς πατράσιν ὑμῶν ἐν τῷ ἐρήμῳ'. S. dazu auch l. c. I, 26, wo es heißt, daß nach Luk. 7, 19 ff. aus der Frage des Täufers hervorgehe, daß er Christus nicht gekannt hat; der Täufer war ein Prophet des Weltschöpfers; da es nun unmöglich ist, daß er diesen seinen Gott nicht gekannt hat, so gehört Christus zu einem anderen, dem Täufer unbekannten Gott; vgl. Tert. IV, 18: „Scandalizatur Johannes auditis virtutibus Christi ut alterius (dei)." Orig., Comm. I § 82 in Joh.: Ἑτέρου τυγχάνει θεοῦ ὁ Ἰωάννης ὁ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ ἄνθρωπος καὶ ἀγνοῶν τὴν καινὴν θεότητα. Neben Luk. 7, 19 ff. war auch nach Tert. (IV, 24 f.) Luk. 10, 22 der locus classicus für M.

Tert. I, 9: „Scio quidem, quo sensu novum deum iactitant, agnitione utique". I, 8: „Novus deus . . . . in vetere mundo et in vetere aevo et sub vetere deo ignotus, inauditus, quem . . . quidam I. Christus, et ille in veteribus nominibus novus, revelavit nec alius antehac." So oder ähnlich an vielen Stellen und bei mehreren Zeugen; vgl. z.B. noch V, 16: „deus Marcionis naturaliter ignotus nec usquam nisi in evangelio revelatus, non omnibus scibilis". Iren. IV, 34, 3: der unbekannte Gott ist „inenarrabilis"; Iren. IV, 6, 4: „Incognitum deum audentes annuntiare"; Iren. III, 11, 2: „Christus non in sua venit (nach M.), sed in aliena" (so öfters bei Tert. und mehreren Zeugen); Iren. V, 2, 1: „Vani qui in aliena dicunt deum venisse, velut aliena concupiscentem, uti eum hominem qui ab altero factus esset exhiberet ei deo, qui neque fecisset neque condidisset, sed et qui desolatus esset ab initio a propria hominum fabricatione" (ἀπεστηρήθη ἀπ' ἀρχῆς τῆς ἰδίας τοῦ ἀνθρώπου δημιουργίας).

Bekannt ist der eine Gott vor allem, weil er eine sichtbare Schöpfung hat, unbekannt der andere, weil er eine solche nicht hat. Jener ist der Schöpfer des Himmels (samt den virtutes et potestates caeli, Tert. III, 23), der Erde und der Menschen; er ist der in seiner Schöpfung erkennbare κοσμοκράτωρ (Iren. I, 27, 2 u. a. Zeugen). Aber diese Schöpfung ist dem anderen Gott ganz fremd und er ihr; auch den menschlichen Geist und die Seele hat er nicht geschaffen (Tert. öfters, vgl. Clemens, Strom. III, 3, 13: M. teilt die Lehre Platos von der Göttlichkeit der Seele nicht, ebensowenig die von der Seelenwanderung, was Epiphanius irrtümlich behauptet, haer. 42, 4 fin.). In bezug auf diese Welt ist der andere Gott „otiosus nec operationis nec praedicationis ullius, ita nec temporis alicuius", bis plötzlich sein Christus erschien (Tert. V, 4). Chrysost., Hom. 42(41), 2 in Joh.: M. behauptet: Ἡ κτίσις ἀλλοτρία τῆς σοφίας τοῦ θεοῦ ἐστιν. Daher sind auch die Menschen dem guten Gott gegenüber „extranei" (Tert. I, 3).

Wohl aber hat er das Unsichtbare geschaffen (Tert. I, 16: „Marcionitae duas species rerum, visibilia et invisibilia, duobus auctoribus deis dividunt et ita suo deo invisibilia defendunt"; ebenso Orig. bei Hieron. im Comm. z. Eph. 3, 8 f.) und hat seinen Himmel, „den dritten", der durch eine Kluft von dem Sichtbaren geschieden ist (Tert. I, 15: „Cum dixeris esse et deo bono conditionem suam et suum mundum et suum caelum"; der „dritte Himmel" öfters; Orig., Hom. XVI, 9 in Jerem. p. 140 f. Klosterm.: Ἀναπλάσαι θεὸν ἕτερον καὶ κοσμοποιίαν ἄλλην παρὰ τὴν ὑπὸ τοῦ πνεύματος ἀναγεγραμμένην, Markus bei Adamant., Dial. II, 19: „Nicht mit Händen gemachte und ungewordene Himmel"). Durch diese Schöpfung aber hat sich der Fremde nicht offenbart (Tert. I, 15: „Substantia [i. e. creatio boni dei i. e. mundus superior] non potest manifestari in hoc mundo), sondern es gilt vielmehr (Tert. I, 19 „inquiunt Marcionitae"): „Immo deus noster, etsi non ab initio, etsi non per conditionem, sed per semetipsum revelatus est in Christo Jesu' ", und (Tert. I, 17): „Marcionitae dicunt: ‚Sufficit unum hoc opus deo nostro, quod hominem liberavit summa et praecipua bonitate sua omnibus locustis anteponenda' ", vgl. Tert., De resurr. 2: „Humana salus urgentior causa ante omnia requirenda." Weil das unerwartet und fremd ist (usque ad Christum „ipsam magnitudinem sui deus absconderat", Tert. IV, 24), so nannten die Marcioniten ihre Erkenntnis selbst eine „fremde" Freudenbotschaft (Clemens, Strom. III, 3, 12: Οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος τὴν ξένην, ὥς φασι, γνῶσιν εὐαγγελίζονται.)

Obschon Adam den Weltschöpfer gekannt hat, so haben die Menschen ihn doch vergessen, so daß erst mit Abraham, den er sich erwählt hat, und sodann durch Moses seine Kenntnis wieder begonnen hat; Tert. schreibt (I, 10): „Noli priorem Abraham constituere quam mundum; etsi unius familiae deus fuisset creator, tamen posterior tuo non erat, etiam Ponticis ante eum notus", und: „Si Moses primus videtur in tempore litterarum suarum deum mundi dedicasse, idcirco a Pentateucho natales agnitionis non supputabuntur." M. hatte (I, 11) ausgeführt, um das späte Erscheinen seines Gottes zu rechtfertigen, daß ja auch der Weltschöpfer erst bekannt geworden sei durch die, die er sich erwählt hat („sui"); „extranei" konnten ihn nicht erkennen; M. sagte: „Quis non tam suis notus est quam extraneis? nemo."

Der Weltschöpfer wurde von M. an mehreren Stellen der Paulusbriefe einfach „der Welt" gleichgesetzt; s. Tert. V, 4 (zu Gal. 6, 14): „Mundus i. e. dominus mundi"; V, 5 (zu I Kor. 1, 20f.): „Subtilissimi haeretici hic vel maxime mundum per dominum mundi interpretantur", V, 7 (zu I Kor. 4, 9): „Mundum deum mundi interpretatur", V, 11 (zu II Kor. 3, 14): τὰ νοήματα τ. κόσμου = τ. ν. τοῦ θεοῦ τ. κόσμου; V, 17 (zu Eph. 2, 2). Auch „lex" = „deus legis" (V, 13).

Nicht unwahrscheinlich ist, daß es M. gewesen ist, der an seine Gegner die Frage gerichtet hat, was denn Christus Neues gebracht habe, wenn alles schon im Gesetz und in den Propheten über ihn und von ihm enthalten war; Iren. IV, 33, 14 f.: „Si autem subit vos huiusmodi sensus, ut dicatis: ‚Quid igitur novi dominus attulit veniens?'" etc. — —

Den Gegensatz des bekannten und unbekannten Gottes hat (Iren. I, 27, 1) schon Cerdo aufgestellt (auch andere Gnostiker), nicht aber den Gegensatz: Der Bekannte und der Fremde.

(10) Der gute Gott hat niemals etwas Widerspruchsvolles angeordnet oder getan, er ist weise (Zusatz von σοφία in I Kor. 1, 18; Iren. III, 24, 2 f; Chrysost., Hom. 42(41), 2 in Joh.; der Marcionitische Vers Röm. 16, 27: μόνος σοφὸς θεός; Marcioniten, Prol. in Kor.) und „einfältig" (Tert., de carne 5); aber der Weltschöpfer, der „mobilis et instabilis" und „levis et improvidus" ist, bereut seine eigenen Anordnungen und Taten und hat „contrarietates praeceptorum" gegeben. Es reut ihn, daß er die

Menschen gemacht hat, weil sie böse geworden sind, und will sie nun richten und vertilgen (Megethius, Dial. II, 6 und Ephraem, Lied 20, 4). Er verbietet am Sabbat zu arbeiten und gebietet, bei der Eroberung von Jericho die Bundeslade acht Tage umherzutragen. Er verbietet ein Abbild zu machen und gebietet eine eherne Schlange aufzurichten und Bilder der Cherubim und Seraphim herzustellen. Er gebietet Opfer zu bringen und spricht sein Wohlgefallen an den Opfern Abels und Noahs aus, aber er verbietet durch die Propheten die Opfer. Er verwirft die, die er einst approbiert hat (z. B. Saul) und approbiert, die er später fallen lassen muß (z. B. Salomo): ,,Judicia sua aut damnat praeterita aut ignorat futura". Er empfindet nach der Menschenschöpfung Reue über sein eigenes Tun (auch in der Geschichte Sauls und in der Geschichte von Jonas und den Niniviten; war die Bestrafung der Niniviten schlecht, so durfte sie nicht verhängt, war sie gerecht, so durfte sie nicht bereut werden; Tert. II, 21 bis 24). Tert. II, 28: ,, ‚Mutavit sententiam creator . . . paenituit in aliquo creatorem . . . nesciit quales adlegeret' ". Tert. IV, 1: ,,Marcion solet creatorem mobilitatis et inconstantiae nomine reprehendere, prohibentem quae iubet et iubentem quae prohibet". Tert. IV, 27: ,, ‚Creator inaequalis et ipse, inconstans, levis, aliud docens aliud faciens' ". II, 7: ,, ‚Creator dominus futilis, instabilis, infidelis, rescindens quae instituit' ". V, 4: ,, ‚Quae ipse constituerat, creator erasit' ". Iren. II, 3, 1: ,,Instabilis . . . est Marcionis deus".

(11) Christus kannte die Gedanken der Menschen und zeigte überall die wahrhaft göttlichen Eigenschaften; aber der Weltschöpfer zeigt ,,pusillitates et infirmitates et incongruentias" . . . ,, ‚Inclamat deus: Adam ubi es? (Vgl. Megethius bei Adamant. I, 17: Ὁ δημιουργὸς οὐδὲ ᾔδει ποῦ ἐστιν ὁ Ἀδάμ, λέγων· Ποῦ εἶ; ὁ δὲ Χριστὸς καὶ τοὺς διαλογισμοὺς τῶν ἀνθρώπων ᾔδει) scil. ignorans ubi esset et causato nuditatis pudore an de arbore gustasset interrogat, scil. incertus' ". ,, ‚De Cain sciscitatur, ubinam frater eius.' " ,, ‚Ad Sodomam et Gomorram descendens: Videbo, ait, si secundum clamorem pervenientem ad me consummantur, si vero non, ut agnoscam — et hic videlicet ex ignorantia incertus et scire cupidus'." ,,Descensum quoque dei inrides, quasi aliter non potuerit perficere iudicium, nisi descendisset" . . . ,, ‚Iurat deus per semetipsum'." ,,‚Alium deum super se esse non scivit'" (Tert. I, 11: ,,‚Ignorat esse alium super se deum'"; II, 26. 28). ,,‚Pusillus etiam deus in ipsa ferocia sua, cum ob vituli consecrationem efferatus in populum de famulo suo postulat Moyse: Sine me, et indignatus ira disperdam illos et faciam te in nationem magnam.' unde meliorem soletis adfirmare Moysen deo suo, deprecatorem, immo et prohibitorem irae; non facies enim, inquit, istud, aut et me una cum eis impende." ,,Marcionitae deum in figura et in reliquo ordine humanae conditionis deversatum credunt" (Tert. II, 25—28). ,,‚Adam aliquando quaesierat creator ignorans: Adam ubi es?'" (Tert. IV, 20). ,,‚Creator Christum ignorabat, cum praedicabat'" (Tert. V, 5). ,,‚Ignoravit creator esse aliquem super se'" (II, 28). Orig., Hom. IV, 6 in Gen. 18, 21 (T. VIII p. 168): ,,‚Ecce nesciebat deus legis, quid ageretur in Sodomis, nisi descendisset, ut videret, et misisset, qui discerent'". Orig., Hom. VIII, 8 in Gen. 22, 12 (l. c. p. 202): ,,‚Deus nunc se cognovisse dicit, quia Abraham timeat deum, quasi qui antea ignoraverit'". Tert. II, 27: ,,Lenitatem creatoris ut pusillitatem depretiatis".

Die pusillitates des Weltschöpfers zeigen sich in dem Kläglichen der Schöpfung: ,,Narem contrahentes impudentissimi Marcionitae convertuntur ad destructionem operum creatoris; nimirum, inquiunt, grande opus et dignum deo mundus!" (Tert. I, 13). ,,Animalia minutiora inridet Marcion" (Tert. I, 14; vgl. ebendort ,,haec paupertina elementa" und ,,haec cellula creatoris"). Aus dieser Stelle folgt, daß M. über die Insekten gespottet haben muß (bez. daß ihr Anblick ihn mit Abscheu erfüllt hat); daher Tert. (I, 11): ,,Unam saltem cicerculam deus Marcionis protulisse debuerat"; s. auch I, 17 (,,locustae"); IV, 24 (,,Marcionis deus nec unius lacertae deus"); IV, 26 (,,Deus Marcionis non habet scorpium"). Vgl. auch Hieron., Comm. in Isaiam l. VII, 18 T. IV p. 285 (wohl nach Orig.): ,,Sceleratior Epicuro M. et omnes haeretici, qui Vetus lacerant Testamentum ... accusant creatorem et asserunt eum in plerisque operibus erasse et non ita fecisse, ut facere debuerat. ad quam enim utilitatem hominum serpentes, scorpios, crocodilos et pulices cimicesque et culices pertinere". Zu den anstößigen pusillitates, zumal da sie mit Blutvergießen verbunden, gehört auch die Beschneidung (öfters).

(12) Wie für das Gesetz gilt, daß es weder ἀγαθός noch κακός ist, sondern δίκαιος (s. o. S. 263*) und πονηρός (schlimm beschwerlich), so gilt auch für den Weltschöpfer, daß er nicht ἀγαθός,, aber auch nicht κακός, sondern δίκαιος καὶ πονηρός ist (s. noch Theodoret, h. f. I, 24; δίκαιος καὶ πονηρός, vgl. auch Orig., Philoc. c. 10, 27). Seine πονηρία geht aber so weit, daß er, wie er selbst gesagt hat, auch die ,,mala" schafft; Jesaj. 45,7 bezeugt das: ,,Ego sum, qui condo mala" (Tert. I, 2), und zwar die allerschlimmsten (Wahrscheinlich hat M. Jesaij. 45, 7 besonders stark betont). Beispiele dafür, daß der Weltschöpfer im Gegensatz zum guten Gott ,,conditor malorum" sei, sind nach vielen Zeugen (auch Pseudotertullians Carmen) die Sintflut, die Vernichtung Sodoms usw. durch Feuer, die ägyptischen Plagen, die Verhärtung und Bestrafung Pharaos, die Bestrafung der Väter an den Kindern, die Begünstigung sündhafter Menschen usw. Dagegen verbietet Christus solche Taten (der Presbyter bei Iren. IV, 28, 1: ,,Tentant ex his quae acciderunt his, qui olim deo non obtemperabant, alterum patrem introducere, e contrario opponentes, quanta dominus ad salvandos eos qui reciperunt eum veniens fecisset miserans eorum". Tert. II, 13 f.). Tert. II, 27 saevitia, II, 28 malignitates creatoris. II,28: ,,Delictum et mortem et ipsum auctorem delicti diabolum et omne malum creator passus est esse". II, 28: ,,Mandavit fraudem creator .... mentitus est alicubi ... multos saevitia creatoris absumpsit .... creator aliquem iussit occidi". Vor allem schon aus der Paradies-Geschichte geht die malignitas creatoris hervor (,,Baum der Erkenntnis"; er barg den Tod in sich): ,,A ligno vitae longe transtulit hominem invidens ei lignum vitae" (Iren. III, 23, 6, vgl. Theoph. ad Autol. II, 26 und andere Zeugen): ,,Sciens praeceps ituros homines creator illos in praerupium imposuit" (Tert. IV, 38; vgl. 41). Ausführlich II, 5 schreibt Tert.: ,,Haec sunt argumentationum ossa, quae obroditis: ‚Si deus bonus et praescius futuri et avertendi mali potens, cur hominem, et quidem imaginem et similitudinem suam, immo et substantiam suam, per animae scil. censum, passus est labi de obsequio legis in mortem, circumventum a diabolo? si enim et bonus, qui evenire tale quid nollet, et praescius, qui eventurum non ignoraret, et potens, qui depellere valeret, nullo modo evenisset quod sub his tribus condicionibus divinae maiestatis evenire non posset. quod si evenit, absolutum est e contrario deum neque bonum credendum neque praescium neque potentem; siquidem in quantum nihil tale evenisset, si talis deus id est bonus et praescius et potens, in tantum ideo evenit, quia non talis deus' "; II, 6 „.... ne tu hinc iam opponas non ita hominem institui debuisse, si libertas et potestas arbitrii exitiosa futura esset". S. auch Tert. IV, 41 (zu Luk. 22, 22), wo Tert. ausführt, daß die Argumentation M.s in bezug auf den Weltschöpfer und Adams Fall („ creatorem aut ignorasse aut noluisse aut potentem non esse") auch Christus und den Fall des Judas Ischarioth trifft. Die „Gerechtigkeit" des Weltschöpfers geht nach M. in habsüchtigen Eifer und in „iniquitas" über; s. Orig., Hom. IX, 3 in Gen. 22, 17 (T. VIII p. 214): „Iniquitate usus est dominus, ut eriperet gentes de potestate adversariorum et ad fidem suam ditionemque revocaret". Iren. I, 27, 2: „Is qui a lege et prophetis annuntiatus est deus malorum factor et bellorum concupiscens et inconstans quoque sententia et contrarius sibi ipse".

Orig., Sel. in Exod. 4, 21 f. (T. VIII p. 315): Pharaos Verstockung δικαίου ἐστὶν θεοῦ, vgl. ib. zu c.10, 27 (l. c. p. 299 ff.). Orig., Sel. in Exod. 20, 5 f. (l. c. p. 325): Ὁ τοῦ νόμου θεὸς οὐκ ἔστι δίκαιος, οὐκ ἔστιν ἀγαθός, ἀποδιδοὺς τὰ ἁμαρτήματα τῶν πατέρων ἐπὶ τοὺς υἱούς. Das „οὐκ ἔστι δίκαιος" ist von Orig. hinzugesetzt; s. Hom. VIII, 6 in Exod. 20, 5 f (T. IX p. 103): „In hoc sermone solent nos haeretici suggillare, quod non sit boni dei sermo, qui pro peccatis alterius alium plecti dicat. sed secundum ipsorum rationem, qui deum legis haec mandantem licet non bonum, iustum tamen dicunt, ne ipsi quidem possunt ostendere, quomodo secundum sensum suum iustitiae convenire videatur, si alius alio peccante puniatur". Orig., Hom. VIII, 1 in Num. 14, 34 (T. X p. 71): „Non convenit bonitati dei, ut pro unius diei peccato annum suppliciorum rependat .... quamvis iustus, non tamen clemens videtur esse aut benignus".

Die Begünstigung schlimmer Menschen seitens des Weltschöpfers: er deckt den ehebrecherischen David, den unzüchtigen Salomo, Lot und seine Töchter (der Presbyter bei Irenäus IV, 27. 31), den Totschläger Moses (Orig., Hom. VII, 1 in Num., T. X p. 54), den grausamen Josua (Orig., Hom. X, 2 in Jes. Nave 9, 9 f. 24, T. XI p. 103: „Nihil humanitatis habuit Jesus filius Nave, ut hominibus Gabaonitis, qui ad se supplices venerant, salutem concedens notam eis infamiae et iugum servitutis in-fligeret"; l. c. Hom. XII, 1 ff.: „Josua hat mit Gewalt und Grausamkeit das h. Land erobert; Christus aber verbietet alle Gewalt und predigt Barmherzigkeit und Friede; der richtende Gott des Gesetzes predige Grausamkeit).

Aber schließlich ist der Hauptbeweis für die lästige schlimme Natur des Weltschöpfers die Welt als solche, weil sie nicht nur kleinlich und gering (s. u.), sondern auch, vor allem als γένεσις, schlecht ist; s. Tert. öfters und Clem., Strom. III, 3, 12: Οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος κακὴν τὴν γένεσιν ὑπειλήφεσαν . . . φύσιν κακὴν ἔκ τε ὕλης κακῆς καὶ ἐκ δικαίου γενομένην δημιουργοῦ. Strom. IV, 7, 45: Μαρκίων ἀχαρίστως ἐκδέχεται τὴν δημιουργίαν κακήν (vgl. IV, 8, 66).

Vor allem schlecht und schmutzig sind Ehe und Zeugung; s. I, 29: Coniugium accusatur spurcitiae nomine in destructionem creatoris .... deus Marcionis matrimonium ut malum et impudicitiae negotium reprobat" (Tert. I, 29). „Deus vester aspernatus est carnem ut terrenam et, ut dicitis: ‚stercoribus infersam'." Die realistischen Ausführungen Tert.s über das Schmutzige der Zeugung, Schwangerschaft, Geburt und Säuglingszustände (III, 11; IV. 21: „Marcionitae omnem nativitatis et educationis foeditatem et ipsius etiam carnis indignitatem, quanta amaritudine possunt, perorant"; de carne 4 usw.) gehen also auf M. zurück („age iam, perora in illa sanctissima et reverenda opera naturae"; „invehere iam et in ipsum mulieris enitentis pudorem" usw.). De resurr. 4: „..... convicium carnis (hört man überall von den Häretikern) in originem, in materiam, in casum, in omnem exitum eius, immundae a primordio ex faecibus terrae, immundioris deinceps ex seminis sui limo, frivolae, infirmae, criminosae, onerosae, molestae et post totum ignobilitatis elogium caducae in originem, terram, et cadaveris nomen, et de isto quoque nomine perituro in nullum inde iam nomen, in omnis iam vocabuli mortem". Das Unreine, Häßliche und Verabscheuungswürdige des Leibes auch bei Ephraem., Lied 47, 1.

Da der Mensch trotz seiner sinnlichen Materialität doch ganz und gar die Schöpfung des Demiurgen ist, so trägt dieser die volle Verantwortung für ihn; ja da die Seele der Hauch Gottes und auch das sündigende Subjekt ist, so ist Gott direkt der Sünder. „„Quoquo', inquis, ‚modo substantia creatoris delicti capax invenitur, cum adflatus dei, i. e. anima, in homine deliquit, nec potest non ad originalem summam referri corruptio portionis' " (Tert. II, 9) .... ,,sed etsi ab homine in diabolum transscripseris mali elogium, ut in instinctorem delicti, uti sic quoque in creatorem dirigas culpam ut in auctorem diaboli" (II, 10, im Sinne M.s gesagt).

Hieron. (wohl nach Orig.) bezeugt auch M.s Kritik an der Geschichte vom Sündenfall (Dial. adv. Pelag. l. III, T. II p. 787 f.): ,,Quaerit hoc M. et omnes haereticorum canes, qui Vetus laniant Testamentum et huiuscemodi syllogismum texere consueverunt: ,,Aut scivit deus hominem in paradiso positum praevaricaturum esse mandatum illius aut nescivit. si scivit, non est in culpa is qui praescientiam dei vitare non potuit, sed ille qui talem condidit, ut dei non posset scientiam devitare. si nescivit, cui praescientiam tollis, aufers et divinitatem".

Tert. I, 17: ,,Malitia creatoris, adversus quam deus ut bonus subvenit". Die malitia creatoris, um deren willen M. den Weltschöpfer ,,mala arbor" und ,,mala radix" genannt hat (s. o. S. 261*), ist trotz allem eine sekundäre Eigenschaft an ihm.

(13) Ὁ ποιητὴς τοῦδε τοῦ παντός > ἄλλος μείζων ὤν, ὃς τὰ μείζονα παρὰ τοῦτον πεποίηκεν (Justin., Apol. I, 26).

,,Deus superior (sublimior) ... deus inferior" — dieser Gegensatz öfters, z B. Tert. V, 18: I, 11; II, 2.

Die Inferiorität des Weltschöpfers ergibt sich auch aus seiner Stellung im Raum (beide Götter sind ,,infinita distantia separati ab invicem" Iren. IV, 33, 2; ,,M. nimmt zwei Götter an; den einen befestigte er an der Erde, den anderen versetzte er in den Himmel" Ephraem); er ist ὁ κάτω πάντα κρατῶν θεός und der allmächtige, gute Gott ist ,,super ipsum" (Iren. I, 27, 2; II, 3, 1 und Tert. öfters). Wenn daher der Christus des guten Gottes aus seinem ,,dritten Himmel" (so nach II Kor. 12, 2 öfters) auf die Erde herabsteigt, muß er den Himmel des Weltschöpfers passieren (s. z. B. IV, 7: ,,descendit in civitatem Galilaeae de caelo creatoris, in quod de suo ante descenderat"). Iren. II, 5, 1: ,,Adversus eos qui dicunt, sub bono deo hunc mundum factum."

Der wahre Gott ist ,,super omnia"; ,,,si autem coelum thronus dei (scil. creatoris) et terra suppedaneum eius, dictum est autem praeterire caelum et terram, his praetereuntibus oportet etiam hunc deum, qui supersedeat, praeterire, et ideo non hic est deus qui est super omnia' " (Iren. IV, 3, 1). Hierzu ist auch IV, 4, 1 zu vergleichen: ,,Adhuc et de Hierusalem et de domino audent dicere, quoniam si esset, ‚Magni regis civitas' " non deliqueretur".

(14) Der Weltschöpfer ist, obgleich ,,Gott" (Tert. I, 6: ,,M. non negat creatorem deum"; II, 2. 16; V, 7), doch nicht voller Gott; s. Tert. l. c.: ,,Non potest admitti, ut summo magno aliquam adscribat deminutionem" und der Presbyter bei Iren. IV, 27, 3: ,,Mundi fabricator est in deminutione" (also ein Ausdruck M.s, wohl = ἐν μειώσει). Tert. I, 6: ,,Marcion non duos pares (deos) constituit". Celsus bei Orig. c. Cels. V, 54: ὁ δημιουργὸς ὁ ἐλάττων > ὁ κρείττων. Tert. I, 8: ,,Nomine magnitudinis et nomine benignitatis praelatior deus ignotus nostro creatore". Megethius (Dial. I, 4): Ἡ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ ἀρχὴ ἰσχυροτέρα. Orig. bei Hieron., Comm. in Eph. 5, 9: Ὁ δίκαιος . . . ὑπὲρ αὐτὸν ὁ ἀγαθός. Irenäus unterscheidet nach M.s Worten (III, 7, 1) die beiden Götter als ,,deus saeculi huius" und ,,deus, qui est super omnem principatum et initium (ἀρχήν) et potestatem". Damit trifft zusammen, daß Gal. 4, 26 M.s Text lautete: ἄλλη δὲ ὑπεράνω πάσης ἀρχῆς γεννῶσα καὶ δυνάμεως καὶ ἐξουσίας κτλ.

Über die Inferiorität des Weltschöpfers s. o. S. 269*ff., seine ,,pusillitates et infirmitates": er ist nicht allwissend (er weiß nicht einmal um die Existenz des anderen Gottes vor der Erscheinung Christi), nicht allmächtig und wird vom Christus des guten Gottes besiegt; s. Megethius (Dial. I, 4): Ὁ ἐλθὼν Χριστὸς καὶ τὸν διάβολον ἐνίκησε καὶ τὰ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ δόγματα ἀνέτρεψεν, Tert. IV, 20 zu Luk. 8, 25: ,, ‚Iste qui ventis et mari imperat, novus dominator atque possessor est elementorum subacti iam et exclusi creatoris' "; IV, 26 zu Luk. 11, 22 (der Starke, der vom Stärkeren überwältigt wird): ,, ‚creator ab alio deo subactus' ". Der Christus des guten Gottes schaltet in der Unterwelt des Weltschöpfers als Sieger (s. u.).

Die Gleichheit der beiden Götter in den Namen (Tert. III, 15: ,,Commune est apud vos Christi nomen quemadmodum et dei, ut sicut utriusque dei filium Christum competat dici, sicut utrumque patrem deum") ist also in Wirklichkeit nach M. nur eine nominelle. Am deutlichsten zeigt sich die Inferiorität des Weltschöpfers darin, daß er am Schluß des Weltdramas diejenigen dem Feuer übergibt, die der gute Gott nicht angenommen hat (s. o. S. 265*).

Von hier aus erscheint Hippolyt's Bemerkung (c. Noëtum 11) für M. als nicht ganz unrichtig: Πάντες ἀπεκλείσθησαν εἰς τοῦτο ἄκοντες εἰπεῖν ὅτι τὸ πᾶν εἰς ἕνα ἀνατρέχει. εἰ οὖν τὰ πάντα εἰς ἕνα ἀνατρέχει καὶ κατὰ Οὐαλεντῖνον καὶ κατὰ Μαρκίωνα, Κήρινθόν τε καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν ἐκείνων φλυαρίαν, καὶ ἄκοντες εἰς τοῦτο περιέπεσαν, ἵνα τὸν ἕνα ὁμολογήσωσιν αἴτιον τῶν πάντων, οὕτως οὖν συντρέχουσιν καὶ αὐτοὶ μὴ θέλοντες τῇ ἀληθείᾳ ἕνα θεὸν λέγειν ποιήσαντα ὡς ἐθέλησεν. Der Weltschöpfer wird nicht in alle Ewigkeit bleiben; der gute Gott ist als θεὸς αἰώνιος von ihm unterschieden; s. die Marcionitischen Verse Röm. 16, 25 f.

Übrigens bemerkt Tert., daß M. nie Christo selbst die ausdrückliche Lehre von den zwei Göttern in den Mund gelegt hat (IV, 17: „In hoc solo adulterium Marcionis manus stupuisse miror").

(15) Der gute Gott bzw. sein Christus braucht für die Taten und Wunder, die er tut, keine Instrumente und keinen Stoff; dagegen „Creator mundum ex aliqua materia subiacente molitus est, innata et infecta et contemporali deo" . . . „amplius et malum materiae Marcion deputat" (Tert. I, 15). „M. collocat cum deo creatore materiam de porticu Stoicorum" (V, 19). Ephraem, Lied 14, 3: „M. hat die Materie in seinen Schriften dem Schöpfer entgegengestellt"; auch Lied 49, 1. Chrysostomus, Hom. 2, 3 in Gen. c. 1: M. lehrt die Praeexistenz der Materie. Theodoret., Haeret. fab. I, 24: Ὁ ἀγαθός τε καὶ ἄγνωστος, ὃν καὶ πατέρα προσηγόρευσε τοῦ κυρίου — ὁ δὲ δημιουργός τε καὶ δίκαιος, ὃν καὶ πονηρὸν ὠνόμαζε — πρὸς τούτοις ἡ ὕλη, κακή τε οὖσα καὶ ὑπ' ἄλλῳ κακῷ τελοῦσα. Esnik: „M. führt irrend eine Fremdheit ein gegenüber dem Gott der Gesetze, neben ihn auch die Materie aufstellend als aus sich seiend" . . . „Alles, was der Schöpfer erschaffen hat, hat er in Gemeinschaft mit der Materie erschaffen!" M. lehrte also nach allen diesen Zeugen zwei Götter und drei unerschaffene Wesen. Die Schöpfung ist eine φύσις κακὴ ἔκ τε τῆς ὕλης κακῆς καὶ ἐκ δικαίου γενομένη δημιουργοῦ (Clem., Strom. III, 3, 12), s. o. u. III, 3, 19. Auch bei seinen Wundertaten braucht der Weltschöpfer „Mittel"; s. u. bei Elisa.

(16) Zu dem Gesetz des Weltschöpfers, wie es in den Büchern Moses steht, bemerkte Marcion, daß es aus der niedrigen Gesinnung, der „pusillitas" und „duritia creatoris" stamme (Tert. II, 19), ferner daß ein Teil sich mit „menschlichen" Geboten decke, ein Teil (die Speisegesetze) tadelnswert sei, ein anderer (die Opfergesetze) die niederen Bedürfnisse und den Blutdurst dieses Gottes verrate (Tert. II, 17 f.; Ephraem, Lied 36, 4). Vgl. Tert. V, 5: „,Stultitia, infirmitas, inhonestas, pusillitas, contemptus: quid stultius, quid infirmius quam sacrificiorum cruentorum et holocaustomatum nidorosorum a deo exactio? quid infirmius quam vasculorum et grabattorum purgatio? quid inhonestius quam carnis iam erubescentis alia dedecoratio? quid tam humile quam talionis indictio? quid tam contemptibile quam ciborum exceptio?'" Das Bedenklichste am Gesetz ist aber, daß es, wie Paulus sagt, gegeben wurde, um die Sünde, die es vorher nicht gab, entstehen und wuchern zu lassen [s. Orig., Comm. IV, 4 in Rom. (zu c. 4, 14 f.), T. VI p. 254; Comm. V, 6 in Rom. (zu c. 5, 20 f.), T. VI p. 368 f.].

(17) M. hat sich schwerlich damit begnügt, nur gelegentlich in den Antithesen bei der Erklärung der Bibel seinen asketischen Grundsätzen Ausdruck zu geben, vielmehr muß er sie prinzipiell zum Ausdruck gebracht und nachdrücklich dargelegt haben, und zwar stand alles bei ihm unter dem leitenden Gesichtspunkt, die Welt des Weltschöpfers nicht zu erfüllen, sondern zu reduzieren und so wenig wie möglich aus ihr zu brauchen, um den Schöpfer dadurch zugleich zu meiden und zu betrüben; auch wollte er nichts in dieser schlechten Welt zurücklassen (Clemens, Strom. III, 4, 25: Μαρκίων δι' ἀντίταξιν τὴν πρὸς δημιουργὸν τὴν χρῆσιν τῶν κοσμικῶν παραιτούμενος, l. c. III, 3, 12: Οἱ ἀπὸ Μαρκίωνος, μὴ βουλόμενοι τὸν κόσμον τὸν ὑπὸ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ γενόμενον συμπληροῦν, ἀπέχεσθαι γάμου βούλονται, ἀντιτασσόμενοι τῷ ποιητῇ τῶν σφῶν καὶ σπεύδοντες πρὸς τὸν κεκληκότα ἀγαθόν, ἀλλ' οὐ τὸν ὥς φασι θεὸν ἐν ἄλλῳ τρόπῳ, ὅθεν οὐδὲν ἴδιον καταλιπεῖν ἐνταῦθα βουλόμενοι οὐ τῇ προαιρέσει γίνονται ἐγκρατεῖς, τῇ δὲ πρὸς τὸν πεποιηκότα ἔχθρᾳ, μὴ βουλόμενοι χρῆσαι τοῖς ὑπ' αὐτοῦ κτισθεῖσιν. Hipp., Ref. X, 19: ἐν τούτοις νομίζων λυπεῖν τὸν δημιουργόν, εἰ τῶν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ γεγονότων ἢ ὡρισμένων ἀπέχοιτο). Daß M. die Eheschließung verbot und den Eheleuten absolute Enthaltung auferlegte, bestätigen alle Hauptzeugen. Er nannte die Ehe „φθορὰ καὶ πορνεία" (Iren., I, 28, 1; Hipp., Ref. l. c.); er taufte nur Ehelose oder Getrennte (Tert. IV, 11: „coniunctos non admittit, neminem tingit nisi caelibem aut spadonem, morti aut repudio baptisma servat"; vgl. I, 1. 24. 26. 29; IV, 17.

23. 29. 34; V, 7. 8. 12. 15; de praescr. 33; ein unbekannter Syrer [Schäfers S. 59]: „Sie beschmutzen den Bräutigam und die Braut, von denen sie sagen, daß sie unrein sind") und gestattete nur ihnen das Abendmahl (IV, 34). Weil wir Söhne des Höchsten geworden sind, soll die leibliche Sohnschaft aufhören (zu Luk. 6, 35). Irgendwo in den „Antithesen" muß auch eine Auseinandersetzung über die Entmannung im Anschluß an die aus Matth. 19, 12 ff. stammende Perikope gestanden haben; s. Orig., Comm. XV, 3 in Matth. T. III p. 333: Μαρκίων φάσκων μὴ δεῖν ἀλληγορεῖν τὴν γραφὴν καὶ τοὺς τόπους (λόγους?) τούτους ἠθέτησεν ὡς οὐχ ὑπὸ τοῦ σωτῆρος εἰρημένους, νομίσας δεῖν ἤτοι παραδέξασθαι μετὰ τοῦ φάσκειν τὸν σωτῆρα ταῦτα εἰρηκέναι τὸ καὶ ἐπὶ τὰ τοιαῦτα τολμᾶν ἑαυτὸν παραδιδοναι πεισόμενον τὸν πεπιστευκότα, ἢ μὴ ἂν εὐλόγως τολμήσαντα τὰ τηλικαῦτα, ἐσόμενα εἰς δυσφημίαν τὴν κατὰ τοῦ λόγου, μηδὲ πιστεύειν εἶναι τοῦ σωτῆρος τοὺς λόγους, εἴγε μὴ ἀλληγοροῦνται. In bezug auf Speisen lehrte er eine „perpetua abstinentia" (Hipp., Ref. VII, 30; X, 19; Tert., De ieiun. 15 u. sonst) „ad destruenda et contemnenda et abominanda opera creatoris" (Hieron., Adv. Jovinian. II, 16; s. Theodor v. Mops. zu I Tim. 4, 1 ff. [Swete II p. 139 f.]: „Escarum usum quasi inhonestum criminant"). Speziell verurteilte er den Fleischgenuß, erlaubte aber Fische (Tert. I, 14; Esnik) und ordnete gegen den Gott des Gesetzes totales Fasten am Sabbat an (Epiph., h. 42, 3). M. erklärte, bei ihm sei eine „plenior disciplinarum ratio" (Tert. I, 26).

(18) Das doppelte Sündenregister des ATlichen Gottes in den Homilien des Pseudoklemens (II, 43) stammt wohl aus den Antithesen:

ψεύδεται, πειράζει ὡς ἀγνοῶν, ἐνθυμεῖται καὶ μεταμελεῖται, ζηλοῖ, σκληρύνει καρδίας, τυφλοῖ καὶ κωφοῖ, ἀποστερεῖ, συμβουλεύει, ἐνπαίζει, ἀδυνατεῖ, ἀδικεῖ, κακὰ κτίζει, κακὰ ποιεῖ, τὸ πῖον ὄρος ἐπιθυμεῖ, ψεύδεται, ἐν σκηνῇ οἰκεῖ, ὀρέγεται κνίσης καὶ θυσιῶν καὶ θυμάτων καὶ προσχύσεων, λύχνοις καὶ λυχνίαις τέρπεται, ἐν γνόφῳ καὶ σκότῳ καὶ θυέλλῃ καὶ καπνῷ σύνεστιν, διὰ σαλπίγγων καὶ ὀλολυγμῶν καὶ βολίδων καὶ τοξευμάτων προσέρχεται, πολέμους ἀγαπᾷ, τὰ κακὰ κτίζει, ἄστοργος, πιστὸς οὐκ ἔστιν περὶ ὧν ὑπισχνεῖται, πονηροὺς καὶ μοιχοὺς καὶ φονεῖς ἀγαπᾷ, μεταμελεῖται, κακοὺς ἐκλέγεται.

Ebenso l. c. III, 38 ff.: Περὶ οὗ ἔφης θεοῦ (sagt Simon Magus gegen Petrus) ⟨δείξω⟩ μὴ αὐτὸν εἶναι τὴν ἀνωτάτω καὶ πάντα δυνα- μένην δύναμιν, καθὸ ἀπρόγνωστός ἐστιν, ἀτελής, ἐνδεής, οὐκ ἀγαθὸς καὶ πολλοῖς καὶ μυρίοις χαλεποῖς ὑποκείμενος πάθεσιν· ὅθεν τούτου δειχθέντος ἀπὸ τῶν γραφῶν, ὡς ἐγὼ λέγω, ἕτερος ἀγράφως περιλείπεται προγνωστικός, τέλειος, ἀνενδεής, ἀγαθός, πάντων χαλεπῶν ἀπηλλαγμένος παθῶν· ὃν δὲ σὺ φῂς δημιουργόν, τοῖς ἐναντίοις ὑποκείμενος τυγχάνει. αὐτίκα γοῦν ὁ καθ' ὁμοίωσιν αὐτοῦ γεγονὼς Ἀδὰμ καὶ τυφλὸς κτίζεται καὶ γνῶσιν ἀγαθοῦ ἢ κακοῦ οὐκ ἔχων παραδέδοται καὶ παραβάτης εὑρίσκεται καὶ τοῦ παραδείσου ἐκβάλλεται καὶ θανάτῳ τιμωρεῖται. ὁμοίως τε καὶ ὁ πλάσας αὐτόν, ἐπεὶ μὴ πανταχόθεν βλέπει, ἐπὶ τῇ Σοδόμων καταστροφῇ λέγει· ,,Δεῦτε καὶ καταβάντες ἴδωμεν, εἰ κατὰ τὴν κραυγὴν αὐτῶν τὴν ἐρχομένην πρὸς μὲ συντελοῦνται· εἰ δὲ μή, ἵνα γνῶ", καὶ ἀγνοοῦντα ἑαυτὸν δείκνυσιν. τὸ δὲ εἰπεῖν περὶ τοῦ Ἀδάμ· ,,Ἐκβάλωμεν αὐτόν, μήπως ἐκτείνας τὴν χεῖρα αὐτοῦ ἅψηται τοῦ ξύλου τῆς ζωῆς καὶ φάγῃ καὶ ζήσεται εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα,, — τὸ εἰπεῖν ,,μήπως" ἀγνοεῖ, τὸ δὲ ἐπαγαγεῖν ,,μήπως φαγὼν ζήσεται εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα" καὶ φθονεῖ. καὶ τὸ γεγράφθαι ὅτι ,,Ἐνεθυμήθη ὁ θεὸς ὅτι ἐποίησεν τὸν ἄνθρωπον", καὶ μετανοεῖ καὶ ἀγνοεῖ· τὸ γὰρ ,,ἐνεθυμήθη" σκέψις ἐστίν, ᾗ τις δι' ἄγνοιαν ὧν βούλεται τὸ τέλος ἀκριβῶσαι θέλει, ἢ ἐπὶ τῷ μὴ κατὰ γνώμην ἀποβάντι μεταμελουμένου. καὶ τὸ γεγράφθαι· ,,Καὶ ὠσφράνθη κύριος ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας", ἐνδεοῦς ἐστί, καὶ τὸ ἐπὶ κνίσῃ σαρκῶν ἡσθῆναι οὐκ ἀγαθοῦ. τὸ δὲ πειράζειν — ὡς γέγραπται· ,,Καὶ ἐπείρασεν κύριος τὸν Ἀβραάμ,, — κακοῦ καὶ τὸ τέλος τῆς ὑπομονῆς ἀγνοοῦντος. (40) ὁμῶς ὁ Σίμων πολλὰ ἀπὸ τῶν γραφῶν ἐδόκει δεικνύειν τὸν θεὸν παντὶ πάθει ὑποκείμενον. Vgl. III, 54 ff.

Auch die große Ausführung über den gerechten und den guten Gott (jener ist nicht der oberste; er ist der Schöpfer und der Gesetzgeber; dieser ist μόνος ἀγαθός und μέχρι τοῦ δεῦρο ἄγνωστος; er ist erst von Jesus verkündigt worden) und über die Mangelhaftigkeiten des Gesetzes geht auf M. zurück (XVIII. Buch).

(19) Zu Gen. 1, 2 hat M. böse Deutungen gegeben (Ephraem, Lied 50); solche zum Sündenfall s. o.; der Satan ist ,,angelus creatoris" (Tert. V, 16), daher der Weltschöpfer ,,auctor diaboli" (II, 10).

(Abraham, der Freund des Weltschöpfers) hat den wahren Gott nicht gekannt und von Christus nichts gewußt; Iren. IV, 5 ff.: ,,Marcion et qui ab eo expellentes ab haereditate Abraham"; Tert. vv. ll.

Ὁ θεὸς τῆς γενέσεως (Gen. 27, 1) ὑποχυθέντα τὸν Ἰσαὰκ οὐκέτι ἐποίησε διαβλέψαι, ὁ δὲ κύριος ἡμῶν, ἀγαθὸς ὤν, πολλῶν τυφλῶν

(Luk. 7, 21) ἤνοιξεν ὀφθαλμούς (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 20).

,,Moyses rixantibus fratribus ultro intercedit (Exod. 2, 13 f.) et iniuriosum increpat: Quid proximum tuum percutis? et reicitur ab illo: Quis te constituit magistrum aut iudicem super nos? Christus vero postulatus a quodam, ut inter illum et fratrem ipsius ⟨de⟩ dividenda hereditate componeret, operam suam, et quidem tam probae causae, denegavit (Luk. 12, 13 f.) .... optimi et non iudicis dei Christus, Quis me, inquit, iudicem constituit super vos" (Tert. IV, 28).

'Ο θεὸς τῆς γενέσεως ἐντέταλται Μωσεῖ ἐκβαίνοντι ἐκ γῆς Αἰγύπτου λέγων (Exod. 3, 22; 11, 2; 12, 35)· ,"Ετοιμοι γίνεσθε, τὴν ὀσφὺν ἐζωσμένοι, τοὺς πόδας ὑποδεδεμένοι, τὰς ῥάβδους ἐν ταῖς χερσὶν ὑμῶν, τὰς πήρας ἔχοντες ἐφ' ἑαυτούς· χρυσὸν καὶ ἄργυρον καὶ τὰ ἄλλα πάντα ἀπενέγκασθε τῶν Αἰγυπτίων"· ὁ δὲ κύριος ἡμῶν, ὁ ἀγαθός, ἀποστέλλων τοὺς μαθητὰς αὐτοῦ εἰς τὴν οἰκουμένην, λέγει (Luk. 9, 3; dazu Matth. 10, 9)· ,Μήτε ὑποδήματα ἐν τοῖς ποσὶν ὑμῶν, μήτε πήραν (,neque pera neque virga' Rufin) μήτε δύο χιτῶνας, μήτε χαλκὸν ἐν ταῖς ζωναῖς ὑμῶν (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 10).

Diese von M. besonders hervorgehobene Antithese erwähnen auch der Presbyter bei Iren. IV, 30, 1. 3; IV, 31, 1 und Tertull. II, 20; IV, 24 (,,obicientes creatori vel maxime fraudem illam et rapinam auri et argenti mandatam ab illo Hebraeis in Aegyptios". ,,profectionem filiorum Israhelis creator etiam illis spoliis aureorum et argenteorum vasculorum et vestium praeter oneribus consparsionum offarcinatam educit ex Aegypto, Christus autem nec virgam discipulis praeferre praescripsit" — ausdrücklich von Tert. als Antithese M.s bezeichnet). V, 13: ,,Creator furari vetans fraudem mandavit in Aegyptios auri et argenti". Hegemonius, Acta Archelai (Brief des Diodorus S. 64 ff.); hier sind Luk. 14, 33 und 6, 29 der ATlichen Geschichte gegenübergestellt. Epiph., Ancorat. 111: Τοσούτοις ἔτεσιν ἐργασαμένοις τοῖς 'Ιουδαίοις ἀμισθὶ οὐκ ἦν δίκαιον καὶ παρὰ θεῷ καὶ ἀνθρώποις δοθῆναι αὐτοῖς τὸν μισθὸν αὐτῶν κἂν ἐπὶ τέλει; Zu Exod. 19, 10—15 (Sinai) hat M. böse Deutungen gegeben (Ephraem, Lied 50).

'Εν τῷ νόμῳ λέγει (Exod. 21, 24; Deut. 19, 21)· ,'Οφθαλμὸν ἀντὶ ὀφθαλμοῦ καὶ ὀδόντα ἀντὶ ὀδόντος'. ὁ δὲ κύριος, ἀγαθὸς ὤν, λέγει ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ (Luk. 6, 29; dazu Matth. 5, 38 f.). ,'Εάν τίς σε ῥαπίσῃ εἰς τὴν σιαγόνα, παράθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην' (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 15; Theodoret., Haer. fab. I, 24). Dazu: Πῶς οὖν ἐν τῷ νόμῳ λέγει (wo?). ‚Ἱμάτιον ἀνθ' ἱματίου'. ὁ δὲ ἀγαθὸς κύριος λέγει (l. c.)· ‚Ἐάν τίς σου ἄρῃ τὸ ἱμάτιον, πρόσθες αὐτῷ καὶ τὸν χιτῶνα (l. c. I, 18). Zu dieser Antithese s. Celsus-Origenes (VII, 25); jener muß die evangelische Stelle so angeführt haben, daß sich dieser an die Marcionitische Antithese erinnert sah (mit Exod. 21, 24) und bemerkte: Περιηχηθεὶς οἶμαι ὁ Κέλσος ἀπὸ τῶν διαιρούντων τὴν κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον θεότητα ἐκ τῆς νομικῆς θεότητος. Ferner Tertull. II, 18; IV, 16 („Sed quae potius legis bona defendam quam quae haersis concupiit [Kroymann: ‚concutere concupiit'], ut talionis definitionem, oculum pro oculo, dentem pro dente et livorem pro livore repetentis". „Novam plane patientiam docet Christus, etiam vicem iniuriae cohibens permissam a creatore, oculum exigente pro oculo et dentem pro dente, contra ipse alteram amplius maxillam offerri iubens et super tunicam pallio quoque cedi" .... „creator dixit: ‚Mihi vindictam et ego vindicabo' "). Vgl. Hegemonius, Acta Archelai (Brief Diodors S. 64 ff.); auch hier ist Luk. 6, 29 dem jus talionis entgegengesetzt. Das Gebot Christi, siebenmal usw. dem Bruder zu vergeben (Luk. 17, 4) ist ein neues Gebot (Tert. IV, 35) S. auch Tert. IV, 38.

Ὁ προφήτης τοῦ θεοῦ τῆς γενέσεως (Exod. 17, 8 ff.) πολέμου συστάντος πρὸς τὸν λαόν, ἀναβὰς ἐπὶ τὴν κορυφὴν τοῦ ὄρους ἐξέτεινε τὰς χεῖρας αὐτοῦ πρὸς τὸν θεόν, ἵνα πολλοὺς τῷ πολέμῳ ἀνέλῃ· ὁ δὲ κύριος ἡμῶν, ἀγαθὸς ὤν, ἐξέτεινε τὰς χεῖρας (s. den Kreuzestod) αὐτοῦ οὐχὶ τοῦ ἀνελεῖν τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ἀλλὰ τοῦ σῶσαι (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 11).

Ὁ προφήτης τοῦ θεοῦ τῆς γενέσεως, ἵνα πολεμῶν πλείονας ἀνέλῃ, ἔστησε τὸν ἥλιον τοῦ μὴ δῦσαι μέχρι συντελέσῃ ἀναιρῶν τοὺς πολεμοῦντας πρὸς τὸν λαόν (Jos. 10, 12 ff)· ὁ δὲ κύριος, ἀγαθὸς ὤν, λέγει (Eph. 4, 26)· ‚Ὁ ἥλιος μὴ ἐπιδυέτω ἐπὶ τῷ παροργισμῷ ὑμῶν' (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 13). Vgl. Tert. IV, 31 (u. sonst): „Negat Marcion moveri deum suum".

Καλὸς ὁ θεὸς τοῦ νόμου ὃς ἐπλεονέκτησε τοὺς Χαναναίους, ἵνα δῷ τοῖς Ἰσραηλίταις τὸν αὐτῶν τόπον, οἰκίας ἃς οὐκ ᾠκοδόμησαν καὶ ἐλαιῶνας καὶ συκῶνας καὶ ἀμπελῶνας οὓς οὐκ ἐφύτευσαν; Epiph., Ancorat. 111).

„Aliquando David in recuperatione Sionis offenderant caeci, resistentes quomodo admitterentur (II Reg. 5, 6 ff.); ideo Christus ex diverso caeco subvenit (Luk. 18, 35 ff.), ut hinc se ostenderet non esse filium David, ut ex animi diversitate bonus caecis, quos ille iusserat caedi" (Tert. IV, 36, ausdrücklich als Antithese bezeichnet).

Die Marcioniten schmähen David als Mörder und Ehebrecher (Chrysost., Hom. 26 [27], 6 in Matth.).

,,Repraesentat creator ignium plagam Helia postulante"; Christus dagegen (Luk. 9, 51 ff.) verbietet den Jüngern Feuer vom Himmel zu erbitten (Tert. IV, 23).

Ὁ προφήτης τοῦ θεοῦ τῆς γενέσεως (II Reg. 2, 14) ἐκ δρυμοῦ ἄρκτοις εἶπεν ἐξελθεῖν καὶ καταφαγεῖν τοὺς ἀπαντήσαντας αὐτῷ παῖδας· ὁ δὲ ἀγαθὸς κύριος· ,Ἄφετε', φησί (Luk. 18, 16, dazu Matth. 19, 14), τὰ παιδία ἔρχεσθαι πρός με· τῶν γὰρ τοιούτων ἐστὶν ἡ βασιλεία τῶν οὐρανῶν (Megethius Dial. I, 16).

S. dazu Tert. IV, 23: ,,Ecce Christus diligit parvulos, tales docens esse debere qui semper maiores velint esse, creator autem ursos pueris immisit, ulciscens Heliseum propheten convicia ab eis passum" (dazu Tert.: ,,satis impudens antithesis").

,,Helisaeus prophetes creatoris (IV Reg. 5, 9ff.) unicum leprosum Naaman Syrum ex tot leprosis Israhelitis emundavit: hoc M. ad diversitatem facit Christi, hoc modo melioris, dum Israheliten leprosum emundat extraneus, quem suus dominus emundare non voluerat (Luk. 5. 12 ff) .... et hoc opponit Marcion, Helisaeum quidem materia eguisse, aquam adhibuisse, et eam septies, Christum vero verbo solo, et hoc semel functo, curationem statim repraesentasse". Auch daß Elisa nur einen Aussätzigen geheilt habe, Jesus aber zehn, hat M. hervorgehoben (Tert. IV, 9; s. auch 35). Dazu Tert. IV, 15: ,,Marcionis est, morositatem legis opponere (zu Luk. 17, 11 ff. und 4, 27), ut et hic Christum aemulum eius adfirmet, praevenientem sollemnia legis etiam in curatione decem leprosorum, quos tantummodo ire iussos, ut se ostenderent sacerdotibus, in itinere purgavit sine tactu iam et sine verbo, tacita potestate et sola voluntate".

Ὁ προφήτης τοῦ θεοῦ τῆς γενέσεως λέγει (Jes. 5, 28, dazu Deut. 32, 23)· ,Τὰ τόξα μου ἐντεταμένα καὶ τὰ βέλη μου ἠκονημένα εἰς αὐτούς'. ὁ δὲ ἀπόστολός φησιν (Eph. 6, 11. 16)· ,Ἐνδύσασθε τὴν πανοπλίαν τοῦ θεοῦ πρὸς τὸ δύνασθαι τὰ βέλη τοῦ πονηροῦ τὰ πεπυρωμένα σβέσαι' (Megethius Dial. I, 19).

,,Creator auditum ademit (Jes. 6, 9), ex diversitate Christus (Luk. 8, 8: ,Wer Ohren hat zu hören, der höre') permisit" (Tert. IV, 19).

(20) „Duo Christi, alter qui apparuit sub Tiberio, alter qui a creatore promittitur" (Tert. I, 15); beide sind als „filii dei", wenn auch verschieden in der Art ihres Ursprungs, die genauen Darsteller ihrer Väter. „Commune est apud Marcionitas Christi nomen quemadmodum et dei, ut sic utriusque dei filium ‚Christum' competat dici, sicut utrumque patrem ‚deum' " (Tert. III, 15); „ ‚quomodo' (l. c.), inquit M., ‚inreperet Christus in Judaeorum fidem nisi per solemne apud eos et familiare nomen?' " Andrerseits geht aus diesem Kapitel hervor, daß M. Wert darauf legte, der Name „Jesus" sei ein neuer, d. h. er sei nicht für den Messias des AT geweissagt.

Ein dem M. eigentümlicher Name für seinen Christus war neben dem Namen „der Fremde" (s. o. S. 265*ff; dazu Tert. III, 6: „Christus alienus et extraneus Judaeis") der Name „Ὁ ἐπερχόμενος". Tert. hat ihn IV, 23 u. 25 griechisch in seinen Text aufgenommen (Kroymanns Konjektur ist unverständig). Der Name wird aus Luk. 11, 22 stammen. M. hat auch dem Namen „Menschensohn" für seinen Christus aus dem Ev. nicht getilgt, aber parabolisch verstanden. Nach Hippol., Refut. X. 19, hat M. Christus „Ὁ ἔσω ἄνθρωπος" genannt; aber ist das zuverlässig und was soll es bedeuten? [1] Nach Esnik (S. 179) nannten die Marcioniten ihren Christus auch den „Guttäter".

Ἡ παρουσία (ἐπιδημία) τοῦ Χριστοῦ („adventus Christi") war term. techn. bei M. (s. den Presbyter bei Iren., Irenäus selbst u. v. Zeugen) im Gegensatz zu dem weltoffenbaren und sich stets bezeugt habenden Weltschöpfer. „Constituit M. alium esse Christum, qui Tiberianis temporibus a deo quodam ignoto revelatus sit in salutem omnium gentium, alium qui a deo creatore in restitutionem Judaici status sit destinatus, quandoque venturus inter hos magnam et omnem differentiam scindit, quantam inter iustum et bonum, quantam inter legem et evangelium, quantam inter Judaismum et Christianismum" (Tert. IV, 6). Auch der jüdische Christus wird ein Evangelium bringen (V, 2 zu Gal. 1, 18), aber keine Botschaft vom „regnum caeleste"; denn das kennt er nicht (III, 24), wie er ja auch das e w i g e Leben nicht kennt (M. strich in seiner Bibel αἰώνιος bei ζωή, wo vom Weltschöpfer und seinem Christus die Rede war).

---

1 Es gibt in der alten Dogmengeschichte noch eine merkwürdige Stelle in bezug auf diesen Ausdruck. Im Synodalbrief gegen Paul v. Samosata (Loofs, P. v. S., 1924, S. 332) wird als seine Lehre mitgeteilt: τὸν θεὸν-λόγον ἐν Χριστῷ εἶναι ὅπερ ἐν ἡμῖν ὁ ἔσω ἄνθρωπος.

Celsus hat über die beiden Christus M.s gespottet (Orig. c. Cels. VI, 74: . . . δύο υἱοὶ θεῶν, τοῦ δημιουργοῦ εἷς καὶ τοῦ κατὰ Μαρκίωνα θεοῦ ἕτερος . . . αὐτῶν μονομαχίαι). L. c. V, 54: Οὕτω οὐ μόνος ἱστόρηται ὁ Ἰησοῦς — so behauptet M. — ἐπιδεδημηκέναι τῷ γένει τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ὡς καὶ τοὺς προφάσει τῆς διδασκαλίας τοῦ ὀνόματος Ἰησοῦ ἀποστάντας τοῦ δημιουργοῦ ὡς ἐλάττονος καὶ προσεληλυθότας ὡς κρείττονί τινι θεῷ καὶ πατρὶ τοῦ ἐπιδημήσαντος φάσκειν, ὅτι καὶ πρὸ τούτου ἐπεδήμησάν τινες ἀπὸ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ (die Propheten) τῷ γένει τῶν ἀνθρώπων. C. denkt auch an andere Häretiker.

Herabgestiegen ist Christus ἐπὶ τῇ σωτηρίᾳ τῶν ψυχῶν καὶ ἐπὶ ἐλέγχῳ τοῦ θεοῦ τῶν Ἰουδαίων καὶ νόμου καὶ προφητῶν καὶ τῶν τοιούτων (Epiph., Haer. 42, 4). „Aus Barmherzigkeit hat es der gute Gott getan, sehend die Seelen der den Qualen Unterworfenen bedrängt in der Hölle, sandte er zur Erlösung seinen Sohn" (Esnik S. 192). Ähnlich viele Zeugen: „‚Hominem, opus creatoris, deus melior a d a m a v i t, propter quem in haec paupertina elementa de tertio caelo descendere laboravit, cuius causa in hac cellula creatoris etiam crucifixus est' " (Tert. I, 14). „Christus non in sua venit, sed in aliena" (Iren. III, 11, 2; öfters bei Tert.). Über die Suffizienz der Erlösung, neben der eine sichtbare Schöpfung unnötig, s. o. S. 267*.

(21) Unvorbereitet und plötzlich erschien Christus (Tert. III, 2 f.; IV, 11; de carne 2 usw.). „Anno XV. Tiberii Christus Jesus de caelo manare dignatus est, spiritus salutaris' " (I, 19). „Anno XV. principatus Tiberii proponit Christum descendisse in civitatem Galilaeae Capernaum, utique de caelo creatoris, in quod de suo ante descenderat" (IV, 7). Von keinem Propheten ist er angekündigt und seine Geschichte von niemandem geweissagt worden; s. Celsus bei Orig., l. c.: er fragt πόθεν ἀποδειχθήσεται θεοῦ παῖς ὁ τοιαῦτα κολασθείς, εἰ μὴ περὶ τούτου προείρηται; Tert. III, 3: „‚Non fuit', inquis, ‚ordo eiusmodi necessarius, quia statim se et filium et missum et dei Christum rebus ipsis esset probaturus per documenta virtutum'"; das Folgende zeigt, daß M. die virtutes Christi als „novae" betrachtet hat. Tert. IV, 4 (auf Grund des Eindrucks der Antithesen an diesem Punkte): „Dedignatus, opinor, est (Christus Marcionis) imitari ordinem dei nostri, ut displicentis, ut cum maxime revincendi. novus nove venire voluit, filius ante patris promissionem et missus ante mandatoris auctoritatem, ut et ipsam fidem monstruosissimam induceret, qua ante crederetur Christum venisse quam sciretur fuisse.“ Cyrill. Hieros., Catech. VI, 16: Ὁ Μαρκίων πρῶτος ἐτόλμησεν ἐκκόψαι τὰς μαρτυρίας καὶ ἀμάρτυρον ἀφεῖναι τὸν καταγγελλόμενον λόγον τῆς πίστεως, vgl. XVI, 3. Besonders scharf und stark Orig.. Comm. II § 199 f. in Joh. (zu c. 1, 7) Preuschen (möglich daß Apelles gemeint ist): Τῶν ἑτεροδόξων τινὲς πιστεύειν φάσκοντες εἰς τὸν Χριστὸν καὶ διὰ τὸ ἀναπλάσσειν ἕτερον ⟨θεὸν⟩ παρὰ τὸν δημιουργὸν ὡς ἀκόλουθον αὐτοῖς οὐ προσιέμενοι τὴν ἐπιδημίαν αὐτοῦ ὑπὸ τῶν προφητῶν προκατηγγέλθαι, ἀνατρέπειν πειρῶνται τὰς διὰ τῶν προφητῶν περὶ Χριστοῦ μαρτυρίας, φάσκοντες μὴ δεῖσθαι μαρτύρων τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ θεοῦ, ἔχοντα τὸ τοῦ πιστεύεσθαι ἄξιον ἔν τε οἷς κατήγγειλε σωτηρίοις λόγοις δυνάμεως πεπληρωμένοις καὶ ἐν τεραστίοις ἔργοις αὐτόθεν καταπλήξασθαι πάνθ' ὁντινοῦν δυναμένοις. (s. o. Tert. III, 3). Καί φασιν· ,Εἰ Μωυσῆς πεπίστευται διὰ τὸν λόγον καὶ τὰς δυνάμεις, οὐ δεηθεὶς μαρτύρων πρὸ αὐτοῦ τινων αὐτὸν καταγγειλάντων, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἕκαστος τῶν προφητῶν παρεδέχθη ὑπὸ τοῦ λαοῦ ὡς ἀπὸ θεοῦ ἀποσταλείς, πῶς οὐχὶ μᾶλλον ὁ Μωυσέως καὶ τῶν προφητῶν διαφέρων δύναται, χωρὶς προφητῶν μαρτυρούντων τὰ περὶ αὐτοῦ, ἀνύσαι ὃ βούλεται καὶ ὠφελῆσαι τὸ τῶν ἀνθρώπων γένος; Der, der das geschrieben, brauchte keineswegs an Moses und die Propheten zu glauben. Auch Markus (bei Adamant., Dial. II, 13 f.) drückt es stark aus, daß Christus vorher von niemandem gewußt und von niemandem geweissagt oder bezeugt sei. Daß das Judenvolk Christus nicht anerkannt hat, ist eine Folge der Unwissenheit seines Gottes; Tert. III, 6: ,,M. non in Christum, sed in ipsum potius deum referre vult omnem Judaicae ignorantiae de pristino reputationem, nolens etiam retro sermonem et spiritum i. e. Christum creatoris despectum ab eis et non agnitum“.

Die Fragen, ob nach M. Christus den Weltschöpfer bessern wollte, bzw. gebessert hat, läßt Tert. (III, 4) offen; für die Gegenwart gilt (l. c.): ,,Christus non compescuit creatorem; manet creator, qualis omnino est, d. h. bis zum nahe bevorstehenden Ende hat er noch in der Welt die Macht. Aber es ist gewiß M.s Meinung, wenn Tert. fortfährt: ,,aliud est, si (Christus boni dei post Christum creatoris) rursus adveniet, ut primo quidem adventu processerit adversus creatorem, legem et prophetas destruens eius, secundo vero procedat adversus Christum (creatoris), regnum redarguens eius, tunc ergo conclusurus ordinem suam".

(22) Der gute Gott und sein Christus stehen sich so nahe bzw. sind so sehr eins, daß M. auch die Personen vertauscht; s. Megethius (bei Adamant., Dial. II, 9): Ὁ θάνατος τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ σωτηρία ἀνθρώπων ἐγένετο. Daher ist Tert.s Bemerkung (IV, 38): ,,Nisi M. Christum non subiectum patri infert" zu verneinen, während Tert. ihre Bejahung für selbstverständlich hält, obgleich er selbst M.s Wort wiedergibt (I, 19), daß sich der gute Gott per semetipsum offenbart habe.

(23) Christus ist nicht geboren, hatte nichts Menschliches an sich, sondern war und blieb Geist und erschien (δοκήσει) ,,in hominis forma", d. h. in einem Scheinleibe (φάντασμα); denn er ist ,,naturaliter impassibilis" (Iren. III, 16, 1). Also gibt es keine ἔνσαρκος Χριστοῦ οἰκονομία (s. Melito bei Anastasius Sinaita, Περὶ σαρκώσεως Χριστοῦ [Otto, Corp. Apol. IX p. 415 f.] u. alle Gegner M.s); ,,substantia (boni dei) non potuit manifestari in hoc mundo" (Tert. I, 15). ,,Christus = spiritus salutaris" (Tert. I, 19). Gegen den Einwurf, daß man ihn doch für einen Menschen halten mußte: ,,,Satis erat Christo conscientia sua"' (De carne 3).

Der Leib Christi ist nach Analogie der Körper zu denken, welche die Engel des Weltschöpfers bei ihren Erscheinungen annahmen; s. III, 9: ,,,Et angeli creatoris in phantasmate, putativae utique carnis, egerunt apud Abraham et Loth et tamen vere sunt et congressi et pasti et operati quod mandatum eis fuerat"'; vgl. de carne 3, wo außerdem steht: ,,Quaeris corpus columbae ubi sit resumpto spiritu in caelum, aeque angelorum". Ephraem, Ev. Conc. Expos. p. 255: ,,Dicunt, corpus salvatoris nostri speciem quandam fuisse ut corpus angelorum, qui in domo Abrahae ederunt". ,,Wie hätte denn auch Christus mit den Menschen verkehren können, ,,nisi per imaginem substantiae humanae?" (III, 10). Weil die Geburt etwas ganz Unwürdiges ist, darum konnte der Leib nur ein Scheinleib sein; s. Tert. III, 11: ,,Totas istas praestigias putativae in Christo corpulentiae M. illa intentione suscepit, ne ex testimonio substantiae humanae nativitas quoque eius defenderetur" ... ,,turpissimum dei nativitas". Über das Schmutzige und Schmähliche der Geburt s. oben S. 273*. 277* u. Ephraem, Evang. Conc. Expositio (Moesinger) p. 47: „Jesus hätte sich durch das Geborenwerden einen Makel zugezogen".

Ganz sicher ist nicht, aber wahrscheinlich, daß M. folgende Erwägung (Tert., De carne 3) zuzuschreiben ist: „„Si Christus natus fuisset et hominem vere induisset, deus esse desisset, amittens quod erat, dum fit quod non erat;"' „„ideo', inquis, ‚nego deum in hominem vere conversum, ita ut et nasceretur et carne corporaretur, quia qui sine fine est etiam inconvertibilis sit necesse est; converti enim in aliud finis est pristini. non competit ergo conversio cui non competit finis"'. Vgl. Iren. III, 16, 1: „Putative eum passum dicunt, naturaliter impassibilem existentem".

Hipp., Refut. VII, 31: M. leugnet die Geburt Jesu, ἄτοπον εἶναι νομίζων ὑπὸ τὸ πλάσμα τοῦ ὀλεθριωτάτου νείκους γεγονέναι τὸν λόγον τὸν τῇ φιλίᾳ συναγωνιζόμενον, τουτέστι τῷ ἀγαθῷ . . . . ἀγέννητος κατῆλθεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς, φησίν, ἵνα ᾖ πάσης ἀπηλλαγμένος κακίας. Orig., Comm. in Tit., T. V p. 283 f.: „Qui sub specie quasi amplioris gloriae Jesu domino deferendae omnia, quae ab eo gesta sunt, visa geri magis quam vere gesta esse testantur, quique neque de virgine natum fatentur, sed XXX annorum vivum eum apparuisse in Judaea". Orig., Fragm. in Luc. T. V p. 237: Κατὰ φαντασίαν ἐδραματούργει ὁ Ἰησοῦς τὴν ἔνσαρκον αὐτοῦ παρουσίαν u. a. a. St.

Chrysost., zu Phil. 2, 7: M. sagt: ‚οὐκ ἐγένετο ἄνθρωπος, ἀλλ' ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπου γενόμενος'. Nicephor., Antirrhet. adv. Euseb. (Pitra, Spic. Solesm. I p. 406): Φάσκει ὁ Μαρκίων· δοκήσει τὸν Χριστὸν πεπονθέναι καὶ ταφῆναι, καὶ ὡς οὐκ ἦν ἄνθρωπος ἀληθῶς, ἀλλ' ἐν ὁμοιώματι ἀνθρώπου γέγονεν (daß die erste Hälfte dieses Satzes ein wörtliches Zitat ist, ist nicht sicher).

Chrysost., Hom. 23, 6 in Eph.: Μαρκίων ὅρα τί φησίν· ‚Οὐκ ἠδύνατο ὁ θεὸς σάρκα ἀναλαβὼν μεῖναι καθαρός'.

Christus ist vom Weltschöpfer, der ihn nicht kannte, ans Kreuz gebracht worden (öfters bezeugt, s. z. B. Megeth., Dial. II, 9: Ὁ δημιουργός, ἰδὼν τὸν ἀγαθὸν λύοντα αὐτοῦ τὸν νόμον, ἐπεβούλευσεν αὐτῷ, μὴ εἰδὼς ὅτι ὁ θάνατος τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ σωτηρία ἀνθρώπων ἐγίνετο . . . Ἀποθανεῖν ὑπὲρ τῆς σωτηρίας τῶν ἀνθρώπων αὐτὸς [ὁ ἀγαθὸς] εἵλετο, οὐ γὰρ ἠδικεῖτο ὑπὸ τοῦ θανάτου). S. auch Tert. V, 6: „Argumentatur haereticus, ⟨quod⟩ principes huius saeculi dominum, alterius scil. dei Christum, crucifixerint, ut et hoc in ipsum redigat creatorem" (gemeint sind die weltlichen Machthaber).

(24) So ,,fremd" waren wir dem erschienenen Christus und dieser dem Weltschöpfer, daß Paulus sagt (Gal. 3, 13; auch 2,20 las M. ἀγοράσαντος für ἀγαπήσαντος): ,,Christus hat uns erkauft' — offenbar als Fremde; denn niemand kauft jemals solche, die ihm angehören, sondern Fremde (Aus dem Folgenden geht hervor, daß der Weltschöpfer der Verkäufer ist, nicht ,,die Sünde": παρὰ τῆς ἁμαρτίας ἠγόρασε· οὐκ εἶπεν ὁ Παῦλος ὅτι ἡ ἁμαρτία κύριός ἐστιν). Der Kaufpreis war das Blut Christi (daß dies die Marcionitische Meinung war, folgt daraus, daß der katholische Gegner gegen diese Behauptung die Auferstehung Christi geltend macht, aus der sich doch ergibt, daß der Weltschöpfer das Blut [das Leben] Christi nicht behalten, also auch nicht gekauft hat), das nicht auf Sündenvergebung zu beziehen, sondern als Ablösung des Eigentumsrechts des Weltschöpfers zu betrachten ist (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 27).

Orig., Hom. VI, 9 in Exod. (T. IX p. 68): ,,Haeretici dicunt (zu I Kor. 7, 23) de salvatore, quia non erant ‚sui', quos ‚acquisivit'; dato enim pretio mercatus est homines, quos creator fecerat; et certum est, aiunt, unumquemque illud emere, quod suum non est; apostolus enim ait: Pretio empti estis". Epiphan., Haer. 42, 8: Εἰ ἦμεν αὐτοῦ, οὐκ ἂν τὸ ἑαυτοῦ ἠγόραζεν· ἀγοράσας δὲ εἰς ἀλλότριον κόσμον ἦλθεν ἡμᾶς ἐξαγοράσαι τοὺς οὐκ ὄντας αὐτοῦ· ποίημα γὰρ ἦμεν ἑτέρου, καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ἡμᾶς αὐτὸς ἠγόραζεν εἰς τὴν ἑαυτοῦ ζωήν. Tert., De carne 4: ,,,Christus magis adamavit hominem, quando alienum redemit;"' l. c. 5: ,,M. passiones a Christo non recidit." S. auch oben S. 267*, das zum ,,unbekannten Gott' u. S. 263* das zum ,,barmherzigen Gott" Bemerkte. — Daß die Erlösung auf dem T o d e Christi nach M. beruhte, ist oft bezeugt.

Der Weltschöpfer sagt: ,,Maledictus omnis qui pependerit in ligno"; Christus aber hat den Kreuzestod erlitten (Tert. III, 18: ,,De exitu Christi plane puto diversitatem temptatis inducere, negantes passionem crucis in Christum creatoris praedicatam et argumentantes insuper non esse credendum, ut in id genus mortis exposuerit creator filium suum, quod ipse maledixerat: maledictus, inquit, omnis qui pependerit in ligno"). Vgl. V, 3: ,,Neque quia creator pronuntiavit: ‚Maledictus omnis ligno suspensus', ideo videbitur alterius dei esse Christus et idcirco a creatore iam tunc in lege maledictus". I, 11: ,,Admisit maledictum in se creatoris ligno suspensus". Tert. läßt es (III, 19) dahinge-stellt, ob nach M. der Tod des (ATlichen) Christus geweissagt sei[1]. Ps. 21 hat M. (III, 19) nicht auf den Juden-Messias, sondern, auf einen unbestimmten Leidenden bezogen.

„Christum alterius dei dicitis a creatoris virtutibus et potestatibus, ut aemulis, in crucem actum" (Tert. III, 23).

Christus hat sich selbst auferweckt (Orig. bei Hieron. im Comm. zu Gal. 1, 1; hier hat M. den Text korrigiert, um die Selbstauferweckung zum Ausdruck zu bringen); der gute Gott und sein Christus sind also e i n s.

(25) „Judaicus quidem Christus populo (Judaico) soli ex dispersione redigendo destinatur a creatore, noster vero omni humano generi liberando conlatus est a deo optimo (Tert. III, 21, ausdrücklich als „iniectio" bezeichnet; die folgende Ausführung zeigt, daß M. die im AT verheißene Bekehrung der Heiden auf die Proselyten bezog; „revictus de nationum vocatione convertere iam in proselytis quaeris [Jes. 16, 4], qui de nationibus transeunt ad creatorem" .... „proselytos in nationum praedicatione substituis"). M. muß die Universalität der Berufung durch den guten Gott im Gegensatz zum Judengott stark betont haben (s. besonders auch V, 11: „liberavit genus humanum", d a h e r ist er der Vater der Barmherzigkeit und Gott alles Trostes; Markus, Dial. II, 1 f.: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς εἰς πάντας ἐστὶν ἀγαθὸς, ὁ δὲ δημιουργὸς τοὺς πειθομένους αὐτῷ ἐπαγγέλλεται σώζειν . . . ὁ ἀγαθὸς τοὺς πιστεύοντας αὐτῷ σώζει, οὐ μὴν κατακρίνει τοὺς ἀπειθήσαντας αὐτῷ· ὁ δὲ δημιουργὸς τοὺς πιστεύοντας σώζων τοὺς ἁμαρτωλοὺς κρίνει τε καὶ κολάζει), da ihm der Presbyter bei Irenäus in seinen „Synthesen" das evangelische Wort entgegenhält: „Viele sind berufen, aber wenige sind auserwählt" (Iren. IV, 27, 4 ff.). Doch sagte M. selbst (Clem., Strom. III, 10, 69): Μετὰ μὲν τῶν πλειόνων ὁ δημιουργός ἐστιν ὁ γενεσιουργὸς θεός, μετὰ δὲ τοῦ ἑνὸς τοῦ ἐκλεκτοῦ ὁ σωτήρ, ἄλλου δηλονότι θεοῦ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ υἱὸς πεφυκώς, vgl. Tert. I, 24: „Non omnes (secundum Marcionem) salvi fiunt, sed pauciores omnibus et Iudaeis et Christianis creatoris." — Das Judenvolk ist nach M. ein besonders schlimmes, gegen seinen Gott störrisches und untreues Volk; es treibt die Teufel aus durch Beelzebul

1 Offen muß es bleiben, ob M. Ps. 96, 10 gelesen hat (überhaupt und in dem Wortlaut: „Dominus regnavit a ligno", s. III, 19).

(Tert. IV, 26); es sündigt wider seinen Gott fort und fort (V, 15 und sonst); es tötet seine eigenen Propheten.

Christus kann nicht der Sohn des Gerechten sein, vielmehr ist der Christus des Gesetzes noch nicht gekommen, und viele ATlichen Weissagungen, sofern sie nicht schon in David, Salomo usw. sich erfüllt haben, müssen sich noch erfüllen (dagegen Tert. III, 20: „Non potest futurum dici, quod vides fieri"); denn nach Ps. 2, 1. 2. 8. 9 heißt es, daß die Heiden und Völker sich gegen den Herrn und seinen Gesalbten auflehnen werden und daß er sie mit eiserner Rute weiden wird; das ist bei Christus nicht eingetroffen (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 24). Ähnlich bei Tert. III, 20 („Non poteris magis David filium eius Ps. 2, 7 f. vindicare quam Christum aut terminos terrae David potius promissos"), der auch mitteilt, daß M. Jesaj. 55, 4 ff. auf David u. Ps. 131, 11 u. II Reg. 7, 12 auf Salomo deutet. Nach V, 9 bezog M. wahrscheinlich (mit den Juden) Ps. 109 auf Ezechias und Ps. 71 auf Salomo. Zu Jes. 11, 1 ff. bemerkte er (V, 8): „Prophetia ad eum Christum pertinet, qui ut homo tantum ex solo censu David postea consecuturus est dei sui spiritum". In den Kontroversen zwischen den Katholiken und Marcioniten scheinen diese auf Grund der prophetischen Rügen zugestanden zu haben, daß die Juden häufig in Unwissenheit über Gott zurückgefallen sind; sie behaupteten aber, in bezug auf die Erscheinung, das Wesen und die Taten des Messias hätten sie sich nicht geirrt. Diesem gegenüber aber sei Jesus Christus eine total andere Erscheinung.

(26) Iren. IV, 34, 3 f: „Si quis Iudaeis advocationem praestans erectionem templi, quae, posteaquam in Babylonem transmigraverunt, facta est sub Zorobabel et discessionem populi quae facta est post LXX annos dicat hoc esse novum testamentum, cognoscat" etc. Auch die Weissagung Jes. 2, 3 f. und Micha 4, 2 f. geht nach M. nicht auf Christus, sondern auf einen anderen .... „Dicunt Marcionitae prophetas ab alio deo, ab altero autem patre dominum nostrum".

„‚Primo' enim, inquis, ‚Christus Esaiae Emmanuhel vocari habebit, dehinc virtutem sumere Damasci et spolia Samariae adversus regem Assyriorum (Jes. 7, 14; 8, 4); porro iste qui venit neque sub eiusmodi nomine est editus neque ulla re bellica functus est' " (Tert. III, 12: ,,Provoca nunc, ut soles[1], ad hanc Esaiae comparationem Christi, contendens illam in nullo convenire"). Der ATliche Christus ist als ,,bellipotens" verheißen; unser Christus ist ,,paciferus" (III, 21). ,,Putas militarem et armatum bellatorem (Christum in V. T.) praedicari, non figurate nec allegorice" (Tert. IV, 20).

III, 13: ,,Si accipis quasi bellatorem (vgl. c. 14) haec verba portendant Christum creatoris"; auf den Einwurf aber, die Stelle sei bildlich zu verstehen, denn ein Säugling könne nicht Krieger sein, antwortet M.: ,,Sed et virginem parere natura non patitur, et tamen creditur prophetae". Auch auf Ps. 44, 4 berief sich M. (III, 14): ,,Accingere ensem super femur."

Merkwürdig ist, daß M., bzw. die Marcioniten selbst die Formel ,,Nobiscum deus" (nur bei Matth. 1, 23) gebraucht haben; denn das geht aus Tert. III, 12 hervor: ,,Non negabis, utpote qui et ipse dicas: ‚Deus nobiscum', i. e. Emmanuhel; aut si tam vanus es, ut, quia penes te ‚Nobiscum deus' dicitur, non Emmanuhel, idcirco nolis venisse illum, cuius proprium sit, vocari Emmanuhel, quasi non et hoc sit, ‚Deus nobiscum', invenies apud Hebraeos Christianos, immo et Marcionitas, Emmanuhelem nominare, cum volunt dicere ‚Nobiscum deus', sicut et omnis gens, quoquo sono dixerit ‚Deus nobiscum', Emmanuhelen pronuntiabit". Vgl. Chrysostomus, Comm. in Jes. 7, 6.

Daniel sagt (2, 34. 35), daß ein Stein aus den Bergen ohne Hände gebrochen und daß er ,,das Bild" zu Staub zerschmettern werde; der Stein ist das glanzvolle Reich des Weltschöpfers und das Bild das irdische Reich. Also ist offenbar der durch das Gesetz und die Propheten verheißene Messias noch nicht gekommen; denn wenn er gekommen wäre, gäbe es nur sein Reich auf Erden; nun aber bestehen noch alle Reiche (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 25).

(27) Die Seligpreisungen (Luk. 6, 20 ff.) sind sozusagen das ,,Edictum" Christi, auf welchem die proprietas der christlichen

---

[1] Also waren diese messianischen Stellen bei Jesajas die loci classici M.s für den Juden-Messias und sind von ihm häufig verwertet worden.

Lehre zu gründen ist im Gegensatz zu den harten Gesetzen des Weltschöpfers (Tert. IV, 14).

„‚In evangelio est dei regnum, Christus ipse‘“ (IV, 33).

Alles ist in dem Evangelium n e u — unter anderem lehrt es auch „eine neue Geduld“ (IV, 16; s. o. unter Nr. 19). „... etiam forma sermonis in Christo n o v a, cum similitudines obicit, cum quaestiones refutat“ (Tert. IV, 11); der Gegensatz sind die peremptorischen starren Gesetze des Weltschöpfers. Vgl. Tert. IV, 19 (zu Luk. 8, 4): M. hat die Parabel als eine Jesu eigentümliche Redeform bezeichnet. Im übrigen aber sind die Reden Jesu ψιλαί (nicht νοηταί) und müssen so verstanden, dürfen also nicht allegorisiert werden (Megeth. bei Adamant. I, 7).

„In lege maledictio est, in fide vero benedictio“ (Tert. V, 3). „Lex maledicit“ > Röm. 12, 14: „Benedicite et nolite maledicere“ (Orig., Hom. XV, 3 in Num. 23, 8, T. X. p. 174).

„Creator quidem fratribus dari iussit, Christus vero (Luk. 6, 30) omnibus petentibus; hoc est novum et diversum“ (Tert. IV, 16).

„‚In lege dixit deus (Prov. 22, 2): Ego divitem et pauperem facio; hic vero Jesus beatos dicit pauperes‘“ (Luk. 6, 20): Mani bei Hegemonius, Acta Archel., im fingierten Brief des Diodorus c. 44 f. S. 64 ff.; höchst wahrscheinlich nach Marcion; denn s. Esnik S. 193: „In den Gesetzen des Gerechten wird das Glück den Reichen gegeben und das Unglück den Armen; im Evangelium aber umgekehrt“.

Ὁ ἐν τῷ νόμῳ κύριος λέγει (Lev. 19, 18, vgl. Matth. 5, 43)· ‚Ἀγαπήσεις τὸν ἀγαπῶντά σε καὶ μισήσεις τὸν ἐχθρόν σου‘· ὁ δὲ κύριος ἡμῶν ἀγαθὸς ὢν λέγει (Luk. 6, 27, dazu Matth. 5, 44)· ‚Ἀγαπᾶτε τοὺς ἐχθροὺς ὑμῶν καὶ εὔχεσθε ὑπὲρ τῶν διωκόντων ὑμᾶς‘ (Megethius bei Adamant., Dial. I, 12; Theodoret., Haer. fab. I, 24) [1].

Das Vorbild hier hat der gute Gott selbst gegeben, da er sich unserer, die wir als F r e m d e seine F e i n d e waren, erbarmt hat, s. Tert. I, 23 (s. o. S. 263*); Orig., Hom. IX, 4 in Num. 16, 46, T. X p. 80 f.

---

1 Esnik (S. 193) bringt als Marcionitische Antithesen: „In den Gesetzen des Gerechten sagt er: Töte nicht, und hier sagt er: Wer seinem Nächsten ungerecht zürnt, der ist schuldig der Hölle. Dort sagt er: Du sollst nicht ehebrechen, und hier sagt er: Wer auf ein Weib hinschaut, um es zu begehren, hat dadurch die Ehe gebrochen in seinem

Der Weltschöpfer hat den Sabbat angeordnet; Christus (Luk. 6, 1 ff) hebt ihn auf (Tert. IV, 12; s. auch Iren. IV, 8, 2 ff); vgl. Hegemonius, Acta Archelai (Brief Diodors S. 64 ff.): „Moyses eum qui sabbato opus fecisset et non permansisset in omnibus quae scripta sunt in lege puniri lapidarique praecepit, sicut factum est ei, qui adhuc ignorans in sabbato fascem ligni collegerat (Num. 15, 32); Jesus vero in sabbato (? ist nicht überliefert, s. jedoch Joh. 5, 8 ff., also gehört es nicht M. selbst an) etiam lectum portare praecepit a se curato (Luc. 5, 24), sed et discipulos in die sabbati vellere spicas ac manibus confricare non prohibet" (l. c. 6, 1).

Dem Weltschöpfer galten die Zöllner als „extranei legis et Iudaismi profani"; Christus nimmt den Zöllner an (Tert. IV, 11 zu Luk. 5, 27 ff).

„Lex a contactu sanguinantis feminae summovet, Christus vero (Luk. 8, 45) idcirco gestivit non tantum contactum eius admittere, sed etiam sanitatem donare" (Tert. IV, 20).

Christus divortium inhibet dicens (Luk. 16, 18): ‚Qui dimiserit uxorem suam" etc. Moyses vero permittit repudium in Deuteronomio (24, 1): ‚Si sumpserit quis uxorem' etc. Vides diversitatem legis et evangelii, Moysis et Christi" (Tert. IV, 34). Vgl. V, 7 (zu 1. Kor. 7, 1 ff.): „Christus vetat divortium, Moyses vero permittit".

(28) „Christus (Veteris Testamenti) pristinum statum Iudaeis pollicetur ex restitutione terrae et post decursum vitae apud inferos in sinu Abrahae refrigerium; noster Christus faciet regnum dei aeternae et caelestis possessionis" (Tert. III, 24, eingeführt mit: „‚Immo', inquis, ‚spero ab illo [dono bono] quod et ipsum faciat ad testimonium diversitatis' "). „‚Creatoris quidem terrenae promissiones fuerunt, Christi vero caelestes' " (Tert. IV, 14).

Herzen. Dort sagt er: Du sollst nicht falsch schwören, sondern halte dem Herrn deine Schwüre, und hier sagt er: Ihr sollt gar nicht schwören." Von M. selbst können diese Antithesen nicht sein, da sie zu Matth. 5, 22. 28. 33 gehören; aber Esnik wird sie nicht erfunden haben (oder sein Gewährsmann). Dann sind sie ein Beweis, daß spätere Marcioniten eklektisch auch die anderen Evangelien benutzt haben.

Tert. I, 24: ,,M. putat se liberatum esse de regno creatoris, de futuro, non de praesenti". III, 24: ,, ‚Caeleste regnum non praedicatum est apud creatorem' ", daher sei bewiesen, ,, ‚Christum alterius dei esse, a quo primo et solo est revelatum' "; dazu Tert.: ,,Tu hinc quoque alium argumentaris Christum, quod regnum novum adnuntiet".

,, ‚Utraque merces creatoris sive tormenti sive refrigerii apud inferos est eis posita, qui legi et prophetis oboedierint, Christi vero et dei eius caelestis sinus et portus, qui non a creatore promulgatus est' " (Tert. IV, 34). Clem. Strom. V, 1, 4: Ἐάν τις τολμήσας λέγῃ Μαρκίωνι ἑπόμενος τὸν δημιουργὸν σώζειν τὸν εἰς αὐτὸν πιστεύσαντα τὴν ἰδίαν αὐτοῦ σωτηρίαν, παρευδοκιμηθήσεται αὐτῷ ἡ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ δύναμις ὀψὲ καὶ μετὰ τὸν ὑπ' αὐτῶν εὐφημούμενον [δυσφημούμενον ist zu lesen oder zu verstehen] δημιουργὸν ἐπιβαλλομένῃ σώζειν καὶ αὐτὴ ἤτοι μαθήσει ἢ καὶ μιμήσει τούτου.

Zur Parabel von Lazarus bemerkt Markus (Dial. II, 10 f.): Ἐν τῷ ᾅδῃ ἐστὶν ὁ Ἀβραάμ, οὐκ ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ τῶν οὐρανῶν· ἀπὸ τοῦ συνομιλεῖν αὐτῷ τὸν πλούσιον δείκνυνται ὁμοῦ ὄντες.

,, ‚Christus evangelizans pacem, evangelizans bona, adnuntians locum aeternum, aedificans discipulis ascensum suum in caelum' " (Tert., IV, 34).

(29) ,,Marcion dicit, Cain et eos qui similes sunt ei et Sodomitas et Aegyptios et similes eis et omnes omnino gentes, quae in omni permixtione malignitatis ambulaverunt, salvatas esse a domino, cum descendisset ad inferos et accurrissent ei, et in suum assumpsisse regnum, Abel autem et Enoch et Noe et reliquos iustos et eos qui sunt erga Abraham patriarchas cum omnibus prophetis et his qui placuerunt deo non participasse salutem; quoniam enim sciebant, inquit, deum suum semper tentantem eos, et tunc tentantem eum suspicati non accurrerunt Jesu neque crediderunt annuntiationi eius, et propterea remansisse animas eorum apud inferos dixit" (Iren. I, 27, 3; Theodoret., Haer. fab. I, 24).

So schon der Presbyter bei Iren. IV, 27, 2.

Καὶ ἄχρι Ἅιδου καταβεβηκέναι τὸν κύριον, ἵνα σώσῃ τοὺς περὶ Κάϊν καὶ Κορὲ καὶ Δαθὰν καὶ Ἀβειρών, Ἡσαῦ τε καὶ πάντα τὰ ἔθνη τὰ μὴ ἐγνωκότα τὸν θεὸν τῶν Ἰουδαίων. τοὺς δὲ περὶ Ἄβελ καὶ Ἐνὼχ καὶ Νῶε καὶ Ἀβραὰμ καὶ Ἰσαὰκ καὶ Ἰακὼβ καὶ Μωυσέα, Δαυίδ τε καὶ Σολομῶντα ἐκεῖ καταλελοιπέναι διότι ἐπέγνωσαν, φησί, τὸν θεὸν Ἰουδαίων, ὄντα ποιητὴν καὶ κτιστήν, καὶ τὰ καθήκοντα αὐτοῦ πεποιήκασι καὶ οὐχὶ τῷ θεῷ τῷ ἀοράτῳ ἑαυτοὺς προσανέθεντο (Epiph., h. 42, 4).

(Ὁ ἀγαθὸς θεὸς) λάθρα πέμπει καὶ διαφθείρει τὰ δημιουργήματα τοῦ δημιουργοῦ· εἰσβιάζεται κρύφα καὶ παραπείθει καὶ πλανᾷ (so stellt sich das für den Gegner M.s dar)· τοὺς ὑπὸ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ κατεγνωσμένους ἢ κατηραμένους, ὥς φατε, ψυχαγωγεῖ καὶ δίκην ἀνδραποδιστοῦ τινος ὑπεξάγει· ἀποδιδράσκειν ἀπὸ τοῦ κυρίου διδάσκει καὶ φεύγειν τὸν πατέρα· αὐτὸς αὐτοὺς εἰσποιεῖται, μὴ συγχωροῦντας τοῦ πατρός· ἐπάγγελται ὁ ἀγαθὸς τῶν ἀλλοτρίων εἶναι πατήρ . . . σεμνός γε ὁ θεὸς τῶν παρ' ἄλλων καταδίκων ἁμαρτωλῶν καὶ ἀκλήρων καί, ὡς αὐτοὶ λέγουσι, σκυβάλων ἐπιθυμῶν εἶναι πατήρ (Celsus bei Orig. VI, 53).

(30) ,,Salutem solum animarum esse futuram earum quae eius doctrinam didicissent, corpus autem videlicet, quoniam a terra sit sumptum, impossibile esse participare salutem" (Iren. I, 27, 3; V, 4, 1 und andere Zeugen); vgl. Tert. I, 24: ,,(Deus Marcionis) ipsis, quos salvos facit, imperfectam salutem (praebet), scil. animam tenus salvis, carne deperditis, quae apud illum non resurgit". Ähnlich an vielen Stellen, bes. auch in der Schrift de resurr. carnis; wo sich auch c. 2 die Worte finden: ,,Omnes fere haeretici animae salutem, quoquo modo volunt, tamen non negant. viderit unus aliqui Lucanus (Marcionis discipulus) ne huic quidem substantiae parcens". Hipp., Refut. X, 19: Χριστὸν πεπέμφθαι ἐπὶ σωτηρίᾳ τῶν ψυχῶν. Megeth., Dial. II, 7: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἦλθε σῶσαι μόνην τὴν ψυχήν.

Die Auferstandenen werden sein ,,wie die Engel"; s. Tert. III, 9: ,,Deus tuus v e r a m quandoquidem substantiam angelorum hominibus pollicetur" — ‚erunt enim', inquit, ‚sicut angeli'". Epiph., h. 42, 3: ψυχῆς ἀνάστασιν εἶναι λέγει καὶ ζωὴν καὶ σωτηρίαν μόνης.

Vergeltung, bzw. Belohnung der guten Werke > Erlösung aus purer Gnade und Barmherzigkeit: dieser Gegensatz ist für M. oft bezeugt. Hauptstelle Tert. I, 23: ,,Marcionitae dicunt atquin hanc esse principalem et perfectam bonitatem, cum sine ullo debito familiaritatis in extraneos voluntaria et libera effundatur, secundum quam inimicos quoque nostros et hoc nomine iam extraneos diligere iubeamur". Dazu I, 17: ,,Sufficit unum opus deo nostro, quod hominem liberavit summa et praecipua bonitate" (s. o. S. 263*. 267*).

(31) Tert. IV, 25: „Ex dilectione dei consequuntur vitam aeternam Marcionitae".

Sklavischer Gehorsam > Glaube. Das Gesetz hinderte den Glauben; s. Iren. IV, 2, 7: „Non quorundam infidelitatem legi adscribant; non enim lex prohibebat eos credere in filium dei". Aus der unter Nr. 9 S. 265* aus Esnik zitierten Stelle geht hervor, daß es nach M. allen eine Schuldigkeit ist, zum guten Fremden überzugehen (wegen seiner „Güte"), obschon sie ganz und gar die Geschöpfe des Demiurgen sind.

Die „fides" ist bei dem neuen Gott das Entscheidende, und zwar der Glaube an die Erlösungstat des Gott-Christus, der mit seinem Blute am Kreuz die Sünder losgekauft hat und sie durch den Glauben in gute umwandelt, s. Tert., IV, 18 („Aus dem Glauben erwuchs der großen Sünderin der zur Buße treibende Stachel"); IV, 20 („blutflüssiges Weib"); IV, 35 („die zehn Aussätzigen"); dabei definiert M. die fides als den Glauben, der das Gesetz verachtet (wie es die Blutflüssige durch die Berührung getan hatte). Megethius, Dial. II, 6: Κακοὺς τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ὄντας ῥυσάμενος ἐκ τοῦ πονηροῦ ὁ ἀγαθὸς μετέβαλε διὰ τῆς πίστεως καὶ ἐποίησεν ἀγαθοὺς τοὺς πιστεύοντας αὐτῷ. Markus, Dial. II, 1 f: Ὁ ἀγαθὸς τοὺς πιστεύοντας αὐτῷ σώζει. L. c. 19 f: Τῶν πιστευόντων πατήρ ἐστιν ὁ ἀγαθός. II, 9: „Der Tod des Guten ist das Heil der Menschen geworden". I, 3: „Der gute Gott hatte Mitleid mit den ihm Fremden als Sündern; weder als gute noch als böse begehrte er sie, sondern er erbarmte sich ihrer in herzlicher Rührung". — Besonders lehrreich ist, daß in den den Marcioniten gebührenden Versen Röm. 16, 25—27 als Zweckbestimmung des nun geoffenbarten Geheimnisses die ὑπακοὴ πίστεως angegeben wird. Apelles bei Euseb., h. e. V, 13: Σώζεσθαι τοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν ἐσταυρωμένον ἠλπικότας, μόνον ἐὰν ἐν ἔργοις ἀγαθοῖς εὑρίσκωνται.

(32) Aus den zahlreichen Verfolgungen und den Ausbrüchen des Hasses, die uns treffen, ist offenbar, daß wir jetzt zu einem anderen, dem Weltschöpfer-Gott fremden Gott gehören; heißt es doch vom Weltschöpfer (Prov. 21, 1): Καρδία βασιλέως ἐν χειρὶ θεοῦ; also ist klar, daß der Weltschöpfer-Gott selbst uns verfolgt hat, da er die Herzen der Könige in seiner Hand hat (Megethius bei Adam., Dial. I, 21). M. nannte seine Konfessionsgenossen „συνταλαίπωροι καὶ συμμισούμενοι." (Tert., IV, 9. 36).

Erklärungen zum Evangelium und zu den paulinischen Briefen.

An zahlreichen Stellen hat Tert., dessen 4. und 5. Buch hier die Hauptquelle ist, nicht gewußt, wie M. sie gedeutet hat, und trägt daher ex hypothesi Alternativ-Auslegungen vor, bzw. gibt (seltener) eine hypothetische Auslegung. Alle diese Fälle sind im folgenden beiseite gelassen; doch ist die Unterscheidung von echten M.-Auslegungen nicht durchweg deutlich. Dazu kommt, daß an einigen Stellen dem Tert. zwei Marcionitische Auslegungen vorlagen, eine des Meisters und eine der Schüler, die, von den Gegnern bedrängt, die Erklärung des Meisters preisgaben. Aber auch diese Fälle sind nicht immer sicher zu unterscheiden. Die Auslegungen M.s zu Bibelstellen, aus denen er eigentliche Antithesen entwickelt hat, habe ich nur zum Teil wieder aufgenommen, und auch solche Auslegungen in der Regel beiseite gelassen, in denen er lediglich seine Hauptlehre ohne jede Nuance wiederholt oder die bereits oben mitgeteilt worden sind. Außer Tert. haben auch Origenes, Adamantius, Ephraem, Chrysostomus u. a. hier Material geliefert.

Zu Luk. 4, 27 s. o. die Antithese (S. 282*).

Zu Luk. 4, 30: M. bewies aus dem „Hindurchgehen" Jesu, daß er ein Phantasma gewesen sei (IV, 8).

Zu Luk. 4, 32 („Stupebant omnes"): „‚Quoniam adversus legem et prophetas docebat' " (IV, 7).

Zu Luk. 4, 35: „‚Atquin', inquis, ‚increpuit daemoniacum Iesus quasi mentitum, quod eum Iesum quidem, sed creatoris existimasset' " (IV, 7).

Zu Luk. 4, 41: Jesus hieß die ausgetriebenen Dämonen schweigen, weil sie ihn irrtümlich für den Christus des Weltschöpfers hielten (IV, 8).

Zu Luk. 5, 13: „‚Christus ut aemulus legis tetigit leprosum' .... ‚legem destruxit' " (IV, 9); ein Aussätziger durfte nach dem Gesetz nicht berührt werden. Christus unterlag augenscheinlich nicht der Ansteckungsgefahr, also war er ein Phantasma (die Stelle ist S. 188* abgedruckt).

Zu Luk. 5, 14: „‚Ut bonus', inquit, ‚praeterea sciens omnem, qui lepra esset liberatus, sollemnia legis executurum, ideo ita praecepit' („Zeige dich dem Priester" usw.) ... ‚indulsit legi obsequium' " (IV, 9).

Zu Luk. 5,20 (Vergebungsspruch an den Gichtbrüchigen): „‚Nova ista Christi benignitas' " (IV, 10).

Zu Luk. 5, 27 ff. (Berufung des Zöllners): „Publicanum adlectum a domino in argumentum deducit, quasi ab adversario legis adlectum extraneum legis et Iudaismi profanum" (IV, 11).

Zu Luk. 5, 33 ff. (Johannesjünger „‚Iohannes nihil administravit' ... ‚Christus reiecit Iohannis disciplinam ut dei alterius et discipulos defendit, ut merito aliter incedentes, aliam scil. et contrariam initiatos divinitatem' " (IV, 11); vgl. Orig., Comm. I § 82 in Joh.: ‚Ἑτέρου τυγχάνει θεοῦ ὁ Ἰωάννης, ὁ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ ἄνθρωπος καὶ ἀγνοῶν τὴν καινὴν θεότητα'.

Zu Luk. 5, 36 ff. („Alte Schläuche, altes Kleid"): Das Ev. ist „‚alienum et contrarium' " in bezug auf das A T.; „‚etiam forma sermonis in Christo nova, cum similitudines obicit, cum quaestiones refutat' " (IV, 11; s. auch IV, 19 zu Luk. 8, 4).

Zu Luk. 6, 1 ff. („Ährenausraufen"): „‚E nova Christi institutione' " gegenüber dem Sabbatsgebot („sabbatum intervertit"); dies zeigt eine „‚alia a Christo demonstrata divinitas' " (IV, 12).

Zu Luk. 6, 20 ff. („Seligpreisungen") M. muß sie als die „‚ordinariae (= „die eigentlichen") sententiae Christi, per quas proprietatem doctrinae suae inducit' " oder ähnlich bezeichnet haben, weshalb sie Tert. im Sinne M.s „edictum Christi" nennt (IV, 14).

Zu Luk. 6, 22: Der Ausdruck „Menschensohn" ist parabolisch (Megethius im Dial. I, 7).

Zu Luk. 6, 23 („Die Väter der Juden haben die Propheten gehaßt und verfolgt"): „‚Non statim', inquis, ‚prophetas tuebatur, si iniquitatem Iudaeorum adfirmatam volebat, quod nec cum prophetis suis pie egissent' " (IV, 15).

Zu Luk. 6, 24 ff. („Die Wehe, die Jesus ausspricht"): „‚Vae non tam maledictionis est quam admonitionis' " (IV, 15).

Zu Luk. 6, 27 ff. („Statt Wiedervergelten Segnen") „‚Novam plane patientiam docet Christus' " (IV, 16).

Zu Luk. 6, 30 („Man soll allen geben"): „‚Hoc est novum et diversum' " (IV, 16).

Zu Luk. 6, 35 („Söhne des Höchsten"); also soll es keine leiblichen Söhne mehr geben (IV, 17).

Zu Luk. 6, 37 f. („Richtet nicht"): „‚Deus non iudicat' " (IV, 17).

Zu Luk. 6, 43 ff. („Schlechter und guter Baum"): „‚Duo dei' " (IV, 17).

Zu Luk. 7, 9 („Solchen Glauben habe ich nicht einmal in Israel gefunden"): „‚Cur non licuerit illi alienae fidei exemplo uti?' " (IV, 18).

Zu Luk. 7, 11 ff. („Jüngling von Nain"): „‚Novum documentum' " der Macht und Güte Christi (IV, 18).

Zu Luk. 7, 16 („Die, welche das Nain-Wunder erlebt, priesen Gott"): „‚Illi quidem creatorem glorificabant, Christus vero non corrigebat' " (IV, 18), weil er geduldig war.

Zu Luk. 7, 20 ff. („Die Botschaft des Johannes"): „‚Scandalizatur Iohannes auditis virtutibus Christi, ut alterius dei' " (IV, 18) .... „Selig, wer sich nicht ärgert" ist gegen den Täufer gemünzt. „‚Ideo Iohannes subiectus ei, qui minor fuerit in regno dei, quia alterius est dei regnum, in quo modicus quis maior erit Iohanne, alterius Iohannes, qui omnibus natis mulierum maior est' " (IV, 18).

Zu Luk. 7, 50 („Dein G l a u b e hat den Bußstachel erzeugt und dich erlöst"): M. legte darauf das höchste Gewicht, daher ihn Tert. an das Glaubenswort des Habakuk erinnert (IV, 18).

Zu Luk. 8, 4 („Säemann-Gleichnis"): M. hat die Parabel als Jesu eigentliche Redeform bezeichnet (IV, 19).

Zu Luk. 8, 8 („Wer Ohren hat zu hören"); s. d. Antithese S. 282* (IV, 19).

Zu Luk. 8, 21 („Meine Mutter und Brüder"): „‚Ipse', inquiunt, ‚contestatur se non esse natum dicendo: Quae mihi mater et qui mihi fratres?' " (IV, 19) und schon zu Luk. 8, 20: „‚Quid enim, si temptandi gratia nuntiatum est ei?' " S. auch de carne 7. 8. Ephraem, Evang. Conc. Expos. p. 122 f: M. sagte, es war eine Versuchung Jesu seitens der Gegner.

Zu Luk. 8, 25 („Stillung des Sturms"): „‚Iste qui ventis et mari imperat, novus dominator atque possessor est elementorum subacti iam et exclusi creatoris'." Die ATlichen Parallelen lehnte M. als solche ab: „‚Quid ad haec' " (IV, 20).

Zu Luk. 8, 27 ff. („Der Dämonische bei den Gadarenern"): „‚Daemones ignoraverunt quod novi et ignoti dei virtus operaretur in terris' " (IV, 20).

Zu Luk. 8, 45 ff. („Blutflüssiges Weib"): s. die Antithese S. 293*; sodann betonte M. auch hier (8,48) stark, wie bei der großen Sünderin, den Glauben; Tert. schreibt: „At enim, si fidem mulieris invenimus ita meruisse, quis es, ut aemulationem legis interpreteris in isto facto, quod ipse dominus ex fidei remuneratione editum ostendit? (daß es „remuneratio" sei, leugnete M. wohl). sed hanc vis mulieris fidem constituere, qua contempserat legem" (IV, 20).

Zu Luk. 9, 21 („Petrusbekenntnis"): „Jesus legt dem Petrus nach dem Bekenntnis Schweigen auf; „ ‚quia non recte senserat, noluit mendacium disseminari' " (IV, 21).

Zu Luk. 9,28 ff. („Verklärung"): „ ‚Christus Moysis et Heliae destructor advenit: hoc (significat) vox illa de caelo: Hic est filius meus dilectus, hunc audite, i. e. non Moysen iam et Helian' " (IV, 22). — Zu 9, 33 („Hüttenbau") bemerkte M., die Worte: „Er wußte nicht, was er sagte", zeigen, daß Petrus glaubte, Christus sei der Christus des Moses und Elias" (l. c.).

Zu Luk. 9, 41: M. bezog die γενεὰ ἄπιστος auf die Jünger (IV, 22).

Zu Luk. 9, 57: M. scheint das Anerbieten des Ungenannten, ihm überall zu folgen, für Hochmut oder Heuchelei gehalten zu haben (IV, 23).

Zu Luk. 9, 60: Κἂν συγχρήσωνται τῇ τοῦ κυρίου φωνῇ λέγοντος (τῷ Φιλίππῳ?): ,Ἄφες τοὺς νεκροὺς θάψαι τοὺς ἑαυτῶν νεκρούς, σὺ δὲ ἀκολούθει μοι' ἀλλ' ἐκεῖνο σκοπείτωσαν ὡς τὴν ὁμοίαν τῆς σαρκὸς πλάσιν καὶ Φίλιππος φέρει νεκρὸν οὐκ ἔχων μεμιαμμένον κτλ. (Clem., Strom. III, 4, 25).

Zu Luk. 10, 9 („Das Himmelreich ist nahe gekommen"): „ ‚Regnum dei Christus novum atque inauditum adnuntiavit' " (IV, 24).

Zu Luk. 10, 21 f. Die Hauptstelle M.s für die Lehre vom fremden und unbekannten, erst durch Christus offenbarten Gott: „ ‚Ipsam magnitudinem sui deus absconderat, quam cum maxime per Christum revelabat, in destructionem rerum creatoris, uti traduceret eas' " . . . . „ ‚Omnia mihi tradita = omnes nationes' " (IV, 24 f.). Chrysostomus, Hom. 38 (39), 2 in Matth.: „Οὐ περὶ ἀγνώστου τινὸς θεοῦ καὶ μηδενὶ γενομένου γνωρίμου ταῦτα ἔφασκεν, ὥς φησιν ὁ Μαρκίων.

Zu Luk. 10, 25 („Was muß ich tun, damit ich das Leben erwerbe" [M. las „ewige" nicht]): „‚Doctor de ea vita videtur consuluisse, quae in lege promittitur a creatore longaeva, et dominus ideo illi secundum legem responsum dedit' " (IV, 25).

Zu Luk. 10, 27 („Du sollst lieben" usw.): „‚Ex dilectione dei consequimur vitam aeternam' " (IV, 25).

Zu Luk. 11, 1 („Lehre uns beten"): „(Der Jünger bat so), ‚quia alium deum aliter existimaret orandum' " (IV, 26).

Zu Luk. 11, 8 („Der in der Nacht bittende Mann"): Weil er dem Schlafenden lästig ist, ist es offenbar, daß er ihm ein Fremder ist (IV, 26).

Zu Luk. 11, 19: „Marcion putat sic accipiendum: ‚Si ego in Beelzebule, filii vestri in quo?' quasi illos suggillaret in Beelzebule eicientes" (IV, 26).

Zu Luk. 11, 22 („Der Stärkere, der über den Starken kommt"): „‚Creator ab alio deo subactus' " (IV, 26). Aus dieser Stelle hat M. wahrscheinlich den Namen „ὁ ἐπερχόμενος" für seinen Christus entnommen (s. o. S. 283*).

Zu Luk. 11, 27 f.: M. folgerte aus der Antwort, die Jesus dem seine Mutter preisenden Weibe gegeben hat, daß er nicht von einem Weibe geboren sei (IV, 29). M. bei Ephraem, Evang. Conc. Exp. 122 f.: „‚His verbis solummodo tentarunt, num vere natus esset' " (Wie bei der Perikope von der Mutter und den Brüdern).

Zu Luk. 11, 38 f.: M. schloß daraus, daß Jesus nicht vor dem Essen eine Waschung vorgenommen hat, er habe das Gesetz aufgelöst (IV, 27).

Zu Luk. 11, 42 ff.: schloß aus dem Wehe über die Pharisäer, daß Jesus sie schelte, weil sie nicht den wahren Gott haben; aber dann: „‚Haec omnia (die Wehe) ad infuscandum creatorem Christus ingerebat ut saevum, erga quem delinquentes Vae habituri essent' " (IV, 27).

Zu Luk. 11, 46 („Die schweren Lasten"): „‚Onera legis suggillat detestator eius' " (IV, 27).

Zu Luk. 12, 1 („Der Sauerteig der Pharisäer"): „‚Fermentum, quod est hypocrisis i. e. praedicatio creatoris' " (IV, 28).

Zu Luk. 12, 2 f. („Nichts ist verhüllt" usw.): „‚Dei ignoti retro et occulti revelatio et adagnitio' " (IV, 28).

Zu Luk. 12, 5 („Fürchtet den, der in die Hölle werfen kann"): „Per haec severitatem creatoris infuscat, non remissuri blasphe-miam et occisuri etiam in gehennam" (IV, 28). Den Vers 10 verstand M. antithetisch (das gegen Christus gesprochene Wort vergibt er, aber der Weltschöpfer vergibt die Blasphemie gegen den h. Geist nicht); IV, 28.

Zu Luk. 12, 13 f. („Erbschlichter"), s. d. Antithese S. 280* (IV, 28).

Zu Luk. 12, 22 ff. („Sorget nicht"): „‚Christus derogator creatoris non vult de eiusmodi frivolis (scil. über Nahrung, Kleidung usw.) cogitari'" (IV, 29).

Zu Luk. 12, 39 f. („Der Hausherr und der Dieb"): „‚Fur in parabola in personam creatoris disponendus est'" (IV, 29); ob auch der Menschensohn in v. 40?

Zu Luk. 12, 46: „Temperare temptant hunc sensum, cum deo eius vindicatur, quasi tranquillitatis et mansuetudinis sit segregare solummodo et partem eius cum infidelibus ponere, acsi (= velutsi) non sit vocatus (scil. in iudicium), ut statui suo redditus" (IV, 29).

Zu Luk. 12, 49 („Ich bin gekommen, ein Feuer anzuzünden"): „Figura est" (IV, 29).

Zu Luk. 12, 50 („Ich habe eine Taufe"): M. hat auf diese Stelle das Recht, die Taufe zu wiederholen, begründet (Epiph., h. 42,3).

Zu Luk. 12, 59 („Der letzte Heller"): „Marcionitae in persona creatoris obtrectationis nomine disserunt" (IV, 29).

Zu Luk. 13, 19 („Das Senfkorn wird zum großen Baum"): „‚Hortus i. e. homo, homo seminans i. e. Christus.'" Dazu Tert.: „Aut si, ut hunc laqueum evadant, converterint hominis personam a Christo in hominem accipientem semen regni et seminantem in horto cordis sui". Hier mögen Tert. zwei Marcionitische Erklärungen vorgelegen haben oder M. selbst schwankte bei seiner Auslegung (IV, 30).

Zu Luk. 13, 21 („Sauerteig-Gleichnis"): „Fermento comparavit, non azymis, quae familiora sunt creatori'" (IV, 30).

Zu Luk. 14, 16 ff. („Das große Abendmahl"): „M. cenae istius vocationem in caeleste convivium interpretatur spiritalis saturitatis et iocunditatis" (IV, 31).

Zu Luk. 16, 13: M. scheint gesagt zu haben, er sei nicht sicher, wie „der Mammon" zu verstehen sei; mit dem Weltschöpfer ihn zu identifizieren muß er Bedenken getragen haben, da dieser als „ungerecht" bezeichnet wird (IV, 33); doch kommt man hier nicht zur Klarheit, vgl. Iren. III, 8, 1.

Zu Luk. 16, 16 („Das Gesetz und die Propheten bis Johannes"): Ein Hauptspruch M.s; „‚post Johannem desinit Judaismus, incoepit Christianismus ... facta est sedatio legis et prophetarum et initiatio evangelii, in quo est dei regnum, Christus ipse' " (IV, 33).

Zu Luk. 16, 18 („Ehescheidung"); s. d. Antithese oben S. 293* (IV, 34).

Zu Luk. 16, 19 ff. („Lazarus-Parabel") s. d. Antithesen oben S.294* (IV, 34): auch Abraham ist apud inferos; speciell zu den Worten, sie sollen Moses und die Propheten hören: „‚Immo' inquit, ‚nostri dei monella de caelo non Moysen et prophetas iussit audiri, sed Christum: Hunc audite' ..., vox caelestis iussit illum audiri, quem agnoverant (scil. die 12 Jünger) evangelizantem pacem, evangelizantem bona, adnuntiantem locum aeternum, aedificantem illis ascensum suum in caelum." ' (IV, 34, u. s. oben IV, 22).

Zu Luk. 17, 1 („Die Drohung wider den, der ein Ärgernis gibt"): „‚Alius ulciscatur scandalum discipulorum eius' " (IV, 35).

Zu Luk. 17, 4: Siebenmal dem Bruder zu vergeben, ist ein neues Gebot (IV, 35).

Zu Luk. 17, 11 ff. („Die zehn Aussätzigen"), s. die Antithesen oben S. 282* (IV, 35). Aber zu den Worten: „Zeiget euch den Priestern", wird hier eine andere Auslegung gegeben als zu 5, 14 (IV, 9), nämlich Christus, der schon entschlossen war, sie auf dem Wege zu heilen, habe dies gesagt als „‚legis inlusor, ut in itinere curatis ostenderet nihil esse legem cum ipsis sacerdotibus.' " ..., „Ex fide iam iustificandos sine legis ordine remediavit.' " ... ‚Unum illum solutum ex decem memorem divinae gratiae Samariten miratus non mandat offerre munus ex lege, quia satis iam obtulerat gloriam deo reddens. " Vielleicht gehört hierher, was Clemens, Strom. III, 10, 69 als Marcionitische Exegese (ohne die Unterlage anzugeben) mitteilt: μετὰ μὲν τῶν πλειόνων τὸν δημιουργὸν εἶναι τὸν γενεσιουργὸν θεόν, μετὰ δὲ τοῦ ἑνὸς τοῦ ἐκλεκτοῦ τὸν σωτῆρα ἄλλου δηλονότι θεοῦ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ υἱὸν πεφυκότα.

Zu Luk. 17, 20 f. („Wann kommt das Reich Gottes?"): „‚Christus de alterius regno respondit quam de cuius consulebatur' " (IV, 35).

Zu Luk. 18, 19 („Niemand außer Gott ist gut") — eine Hauptbeweisstelle M.s —: „‚Deus optimus et ultro bonus' . . . ‚sed quis optimus nisi unus', inquit, ‚deus; ex duobus deis unum optimum ostendit'" (IV, 36), vgl. Orig., De princ. II, 5, 4: „‚Proprium vocabulum patris Christi, qui tamen alius est a creatore omnium deo'" („cui creatori bonitatis nullam M. dedit appellationem", fügt Orig. hinzu). „Die Marcioniten sehen in diesem Spruch gleichsam einen ihnen eigens gegebenen Schild". (Orig., l. c.).

Zu Luk. 18, 35 ff. („Der Blinde von Jericho"): Die Vorangehenden bedrohten ihn zu schweigen „‚quia de David filio mentiebatur'"; Christus selbst corrigiert ihn nicht, „‚quia patiens dominus'" (IV, 36) s. außerdem die Antithese oben S. 265*.

Zu Luk. 19, 11 ff: Tert. ist unsicher, ob M. die Parabel von den Pfunden auf den Weltschöpfer oder auf den anderen Gott deutet; nach v. 21. 22 ist er geneigt, ersteres anzunehmen (IV, 37).

Zu Luk. 20, 5: M. beurteilte die Johannestaufe nicht als vom Himmel stammend, sondern zum Weltschöpfer gehörig (IV, 38).

Zu Luk. 20, 27 ff.: Zu dieser Geschichte bemerkt M., daß die Sadduzäer nach der Auferstehung im Reiche des Weltschöpfers gefragt haben, Jesu Antwort aber sicher auf die Auferstehung bezog, die der gute Gott herbeigeführt. Der αἰὼν οὗτος (v. 34) gehört nach M. jenem, der αἰὼν ἐκεῖνος (v. 35) aber diesem, und zwar bezog M., indem er οὓς δὲ κατηξίωσεν ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος ἐκείνου τυχεῖν καὶ τῆς ἀναστάσεως τῆς ἐκ νεκρῶν las, τοῦ αἰῶνος ἐκείνου als Genetiv, wie Tert. ausdrücklich bemerkt, zu ὁ θεός; dazu: „‚filii huius aevi: de hominibus dictum est creatoris nuptias permittentis'" (IV, 38).

Zu Luk. 20, 36: „Deus tuus veram quandoque substantiam angelorum hominibus pollicetur — ‚erunt enim', inquit, ‚sicut angeli'" (III, 9).

Zu Luk. 20, 41 ff.: Der Text ist hier corrumpiert; doch ist deutlich, daß M. hier den Christus Davids von seinem Christus unterschieden hat (IV, 38).

Zu Luk. 21, 8: Jesus hat nach M. vor dem noch kommenden Christus des Weltschöpfers gewarnt, und er hat in den Kriegen, Aufruhren usw., die da kommen (v. 9 f.), die Vorzeichen des kriegerischen Messias erkannt, „‚quae severo et atroci deo congruunt'", wie sie Sach. 9, 15 f. prophezeit sind (IV, 38).

Zu Luk. 21, 17: „‚Apostoli ut alterius dei praecones a Judaeis vexati'" (IV, 39).

Zu Luk. 21. 25 ff.: M. verteilte in der eschatologischen Rede Jesu die „concussiones" auf den grausamen Weltschöpfer, die „promissiones" auf den guten Gott, „quas creator, ignorans illum, non prophetasset". Die folgenden Ausführungen Tert.s zeigen, daß M. die Ankunft der beiden Christus hier prophezeit sah; Tert: „Non potes separare ab illo (scil. a Christo creatoris) alteram partem; unius enim filii hominis adventu constituto inter duos exitus concussionum et promissionum necesse est ad unum pertineant filium hominis et incommoda nationum et vota sanctorum" (IV, 39).

Zu Luk. 22, 19: Tert. IV, 40: „‚Hoc est corpus meum, i. e. figura corporis mei' ". „Ein Gleichnis" (Ephraem, Lied 47, 1). Wahrscheinlich gebühren M. die Worte: „Propterea Christus panem sibi corpus finxit, quia corporis carebat veritate" (IV, 40). Ephraem, Evang. Conc. Expos. p. 122 f.: „‚Et corpus suum dedit eis ad manducandum, ut magnitudinem suam absconderet et opinionem eis inderet, se esse corporalem, quia eum nondum poterant intelligere' ". Ob echt?

Zu Luk. 22, 66 f.: Nach M. hat sich Christus auch bei dem Verhör nicht als Sohn eines anderen Gottes bekannt, „‚ut pati posset' " (IV, 41).

Zu Luk. 22, 70 („Bist du Gottes Sohn?"): M. faßte die Antwort Jesu so: „‚Vos dicitis, non ego " (IV, 41).

Zu Luk. 24, 25 („In bezug auf alles, was ich euch gesagt habe"): „‚Alterius se dei esse' " (IV, 43).

Zu Luk. 24, 38 f. („Sehet meine Hände und Füße" usw.): „Vult itaque M. sic dictum, quasi ‚spiritus ossa non habet, sicut me videtis habentem' ad spiritum referatur ‚Sicut me videtis habentem, i. e. non habentem ossa, sicut et spiritus' " (IV, 43).

Zu Luk. 24, 42: „Christus hat nach seiner Auferstehung Fisch gegessen und nicht Fleisch" (Esnik S. 195).

